

Area farmers battle weather, time in spring planting

Cass City area farmers are reportedly feeling the brunt of poor weather conditions that have put Tuscola county farmers from one to two weeks behind in spring planting.

According to County Extension Director William Bortel, if no more rain interferes with producers, most planting will be from a week to 10 days late. If more rain falls, and chances are good it will, it could put farmers as much as two weeks behind, Bortel said.

Hardest hit is farmland in the Cass City, Gagetown, Kingston area, the Extension Director indicated. He said lighter snowfalls and quicker drying of land from Reese to Unionville has most farmers in that area ahead of their counterparts in the eastern part of the county.

The farther east, the wetter soil conditions become, he said.

"Most farmers in the Cass City area were just nicely getting started Monday when the rains came again," Bortel said. "This just makes the clouds that were already hanging over the farm picture this year a little grayer." Besides rain, farmers have battled cold weather, which makes planting unwise if not impossible.

"It wouldn't do much good to plant the crops because of the cold, wet soil," Bortel said. "And the later it gets, the more we fall behind."

Bortel said countywide, 90 per cent of the barley crop is with 60 per cent of oats planted, 65 per cent of the sugar beet crop and from 10 to 15 per cent of the corn crop.

In the Cass City area, however, those figures drop sharply. According to Bortel, practically no corn has been planted and only a smattering of oats and barley.

Winter wheat, he said, looks very good, in contrast to other crops which must be planted this spring. He said a little more winter wheat was planted than the average and most of it seems to be thriving.

He said orders for field tile are running as strong as ever and demand for tile may even be ahead of last year.

"You just can't go out and ask a tiler to be on your farm tomorrow," he said. "You're always put on a waiting list."

He said those farmers with tiled land will without a doubt be able to begin working their land much sooner than those without tile. What many producers are doing, he continued, is increasing the amount of tile already in to provide even quicker drainage.

This year's less than rosy farm outlook for Tuscola county shows little sign of improvement, compounded by weather conditions, Bortel said. The only thing that could save the market this year would be a short crop nationwide.

Tuesday afternoon's clearing skies brought some hope that fields could begin to dry, but there were no guarantees.

Board inks FOP contract

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners put their seal of approval on a final labor contract with members of the Fraternal Order of Police that will see Sheriff's deputies receiving a 10 per cent pay increase the first year and another six per cent during the remaining six months of the 18-month contract.

The board ratified the pact Tuesday night after final details were ironed out between negotiators for both sides.

In addition to the pay increases, deputies will receive a minimum of two hours overtime pay for court sessions on their days off. They will also receive three weeks' vacation after eight years, as well as paid hospitalization and medical insurance.

The starting rate for deputies was raised from $8,400 to $9,240, effective Jan. 1, 1975, with the rate climbing to $9,794.40 by Jan. 1, 1976.

Deputies will also receive one additional holiday—Lincoln's birthday.

The new contract calls for an eight-hour day, including a half-hour for lunch. Previous contracts have called for a nine-hour day, with eight working hours and one hour for lunch.

Other details of the contract include one personal business day and a maximum of 90 days accumulated sick leave.

The contract is retroactive to last January, and takes effect May 18.

According to Commissioner Maynard McConkey, the pay increases will show up in officers' checks beginning the first week in June.

Just how much over-all the settlement will cost the county, McConkey did not say, but he said it will be considerably more than was originally planned when the 1975 budget was approved.

At that time, the board came under criticism for not planning pay increases into the proposed budgets for courthouse employees and Sheriff's department employees.

McConkey called the settlement "fair" and said it would continue to guarantee good law enforcement program for Tuscola county.

New compromise viewed

Solons still see passage of state teacher strike law this year

While teacher legislation has been sidetracked in the Michigan legislature, most experts are still hopeful that some sort of bill regulating teacher-school board labor relations can be enacted into law during this session.

The heat generated by the protracted Crestwood teacher's strike last year initially created a flurry of activity in the legislature with some experts predicting a bill would be passed well before this school year ended.

Since that time, the State Supreme Court has ruled the school district was correct in firing the teachers and the district has indicated it plans to proceed with the dismissal of the teachers.

This semblance of a settlement has produced a relaxation of pressure in the form of constituent mail, according to State Rep. Quincy Hoffman (R-Applegate). Hoffman said since the court acted, the flow of mail demanding some sort of anti-strike bill has dwindled to almost zero.

While not ruling out some sort of teacher strike bill by the end of the current session, Hoffman remains skeptical that quick action will come. He sees the possibility that conditions next fall will be substantially unchanged from last year, when both Crestwood and Garden City suffered through protracted strikes.

Hoffman said the latest attempt to legislate teacher strike rules which failed to pass did not provide enough protection for school boards.

"Basically, what you've got are the school administrators who have rights and teachers who want the right to strike," he said. "With these two divergent points of view, it will take a lot of work to reach some sort of compromise."

Hoffman said he would like to see a teacher strike bill that set deadlines for the negotiation of contracts between school boards and teachers which would assess financial penalties for both sides for each day beyond the deadline that negotiations dragged out.

Hoffman did not specify what kind of financial penalties he supported, but said such a system could involve the withholding of state aid funds to districts that did not settle.

"I'm also opposed to a one-man arbitration panel," Hoffman said. "I would support a three-man panel made up of one community member, one member representing teachers and one member representing management."

Hoffman said the next move toward some sort of teacher strike law depends on what people in the education field help formulate. He said he would then be in a better position to study the proposals and offer amendments.

SEES LAW COMING

State Rep. Loren Armbruster (R-Caro) sees the possibility of a new teacher strike law still very much alive in the legislature. He says something will come before the start of school next fall.

Property loss heavy in series of area fires

Elkland township and Gagetown firemen battled a series of blazes last week end, with three resulting in considerable property loss.

Fire, believed started in the furnace area, destroyed a 10 by 60-foot mobile home owned by Joseph and Betty Howey, located at 5368 Pobanz Rd., Sunday night.

According to Gagetown Fire Chief Charles Wright, no one was at home when the fire broke out around 9:30 p.m. Wright said the fire was spotted by Jeff Leinweber, who lives about a mile from the scene.

The Gagetown department, assisted by Elkland township and Owendale firemen, battled the blaze which took four and one-half hours to extinguish. Wright said the mobile home was between three and four years old.

Owendale fireman George Klemkowsky was reported injured when his hand was cut. He was taken to Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe by Huron County Sheriff Richard V. Stokan.

A final damage estimate was unavailable, but officials said the trailer was a total loss.

Gagetown firemen assisted Elkland Township's Fire Department in two fires Friday that resulted in a grand total of $37,000 damage. At 5:00 p.m., firemen battled a barn fire on Green Road, about two miles south of M-81 in Ellingtown township.

The barn, owned by James Turner, was a total loss, valued at $7,000, according to Fire Chief Jim Jezewski. A two and one-half ton truck, approximately 1,000 bales of straw and several other pieces of farm machinery owned by Dave Wilson of 3678 E. Akron Rd., and stored in the barn, were also destroyed.

No cause was listed by Jezewski, although he emphasized that there were no electrical hook-ups to the building. Firemen remained at the scene until 7:00 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m., Elkland firemen battled a blaze at a vacant house owned by Anthony Aleksink and located on North Dodge Road, a mile and a quarter north of M-81.

Fire Chief Jezewski said the blaze started next to a fuel oil storage tank. He said there is a strong suspicion the blaze was set, since there was no electrical power to the home.

Damage was set at $20,000. Reportedly, a passing motorist spotted the blaze and contacted Aleksink who telephoned firemen.

Jezewski said a metal roof on the house held heat and flame in the attic portion and made fighting the fire more difficult. Firemen remained at the scene until 10:00 p.m. Gagetown firemen assisted.

Friday, Gagetown firemen extinguished two grass fires, neither resulting in property damage.

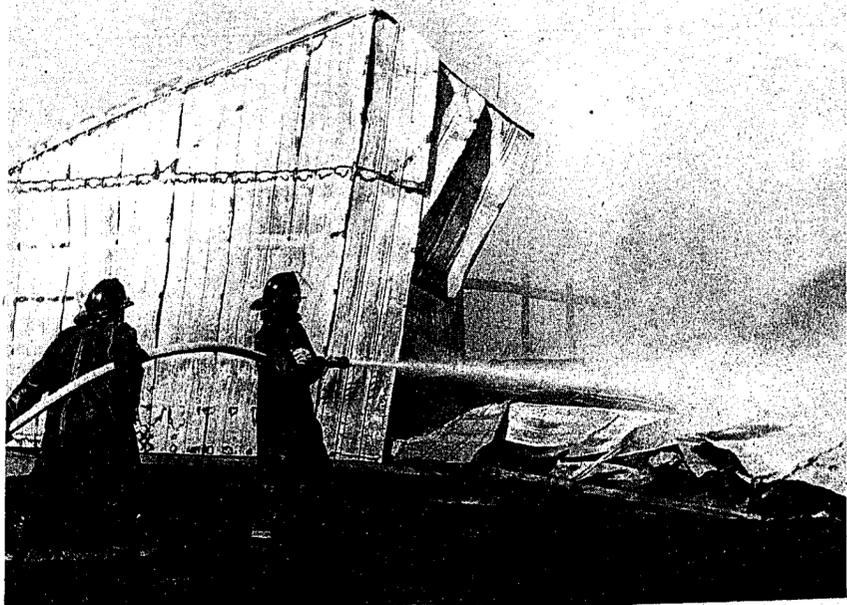

At 12:45 p.m., a grass fire burned over about two acres a quarter-mile west of Gagetown. Fire Chief Charles Wright said the fire started from sparks from a nearby trash barrel.

Wright said no citation was issued.

At 1:15 p.m., Gagetown firemen doused another grass fire that scorched two acres of land near the intersection of Green and Hoppe Roads. No cause was listed.

GAGETOWN FIREMEN remove a scorched chest from a mobile home owned by Joseph and Betty Howey of 5368 Pobanz Rd., which was destroyed by fire. The fire is believed to have started in the furnace area. The home was judged a total loss.

A LATE AFTERNOON fire Friday destroyed a barn owned by James Turner located on Green Road in Ellingtown township. Loss on the barn was set at $7,000, with contents, owned by Dave Wilson of rural Caro, valued at $10,000.

Police arrest pair for 'pot' possession

Caro State Police arrested two area residents Sunday on charges of marijuana possession. Police said Clinton R.J. Smith, 27, of 5166 Jacob Rd., Gagetown, and Steven Paul Dillon, 19, Unionville, were arrested at the Dillon Gas Station at the intersection of Colwood and Dickerson Roads in Elmwood township.

Police said a 14-year-old suspect was also apprehended, but refused to release the name due to his age.

Officers reported they obtained a plastic bag of suspected marijuana from Dillon's hip pocket and found another bag of suspected "pot" in the glove compartment of their car.

Smith was arraigned Monday before Judge Richard Kern in Tuscola County District Court. His pre-trial examination was set for June 3.

Dillon entered a plea of guilty to possession in District Court. He was given a $100 fine and $50 costs.

The juvenile was reportedly not prosecuted.

PICKUP STOLEN

A pickup truck owned by Lavern Peters of Koenpfg Road, Cass City, was reportedly stolen from a location on Rossman Road near Kingston Friday. Caro State Police said the property owner, James Parker, told them he discovered the truck missing Friday morning.

Police have no suspects. Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies investigated the destruction of a four by eight-foot thermopane door at the White Creek Club in Novesta township last week end.

According to the officers' report, a rear window in the building was reported smashed, along with the door. Nothing was tampered with inside, police said. Officers did find a 15-inch tire rim inside and suspect it may have been used in the destruction.

The door was valued at approximately $300. Officers have no suspects in the vandalism, which was discovered Saturday.

OTHER THEFTS

Howard Dorsch of Owendale reported an antique blacksmith's vise, valued at $150, was stolen from a home at 6923 Richie Rd., Gagetown, Saturday.

Dorsch, executor of the estate of Mary Sattelberg, said the vise was stored on the property and had been seen a few days prior to the theft.

Police have no suspects. Two fatigue jackets and assorted tools, valued collectively at $32, were reported stolen from a summer cottage belonging to Joseph Grammatico of St. Clair Shores and located at 6556 Elmwood Rd.

The theft was discovered Saturday. Caro State Police

Alma mime troupe to perform Tuesday

A stimulating performance of mime will be presented in Cass City Tuesday, May 13. The program, "Contradiction, An Evening of Mime", will be given at 8:00 p.m. at the Elkland Township Cultural Center.

The production, featuring nine Alma College students and director, Joe A. Sutfin, of the college's English department, will include solo and ensemble pieces created and developed by members of the group.

Mime is a type of dramatic performance where the actor tells a story by gestures and without words.

The performances of the mime troupe in Cass City are sponsored by the Cass City Arts Council. The Alma College performers are traveling throughout both Michigan peninsulas during the college's spring term, April 28 to May 23, to present their evening programs as well as workshops and clinics in schools during the day. Appearances are scheduled in 21 cities. All Cass City High School students will take part in a workshop with the mime students during the day.

Members of the group, who have been preparing for the spring tour with practice sessions throughout the fall and winter terms at the college, are talented in a wide range of related fields. Six are proficient in dance, four in art, four in music, four in acting and three in synchronized or competitive swimming.

Police report 2 minor accidents

Cass City Police reported two minor property damage accidents this week, neither serious.

Monday, cars driven by Viola Belle Little, 65, of 4401 Brook St., and Annie Marie Henderson, 27, of 6270 Downing Rd., Decker, collided at the intersection of Garfield and West Streets.

Police said the Little vehicle was northbound on West Street and stopped at the intersection at Garfield Street. She did not see the Henderson vehicle turning left onto West from Garfield, and started to move before the Henderson auto had cleared the intersection, police said.

Neither driver was injured and no ticket was issued. The mishap took place at 12:10 p.m.

Also Monday, cars driven by Diane Kay Cunningham, 21, of 327 Montague St., Caro, and Newell Harris, 33, of 4630 Huron St., Cass City, collided at the intersection of Huron and Leach Streets.

Cass City Police reported the Cunningham vehicle was northbound on Leach and failed to yield the right of way at the Huron Street intersection, colliding with the east-bound Harris auto.

Neither driver was injured. Ms. Cunningham was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. The accident took place at 6:55 p.m.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

They laughed when I wore it 20 years ago. Either they laughed or were embarrassed because I couldn't afford anything better.

After all, who wanted to be seen in an old beat up barn jacket that only the poor people would wear . . . and only then when they were sneaking out to the barn from the back door of the house.

To the barn where there was a convenient nail to hang the coat if some highfalutin visitors should unexpectedly drop in.

It was none of their business if a guy couldn't afford any better. This was depression times, you know.

That's the way it was when this jacket of blue denim was first purchased. Just how old it is now, I really can't say.

I inherited it from my father-in-law 25 years ago . . . and it was old then.

It was my fishing jacket and I wore it everytime I went despite the mild protests of my wife and the horrified remarks of my mother.

About 10 years ago I abandoned that jacket for the lighter, warmer insulated jackets that everyone was switching to.

It languished on a peg in our cellar for nigh onto 10 years. They don't hardly make them like that jacket anymore. It has a beautiful lining for warmth. The buttons are copper-like and they were attached to stay.

The originals are still there after 30 years. I've got coats less than a year old where buttons popped off at regular intervals reminding me of Fat Stuff in "Smiling Jack", a funny paper strip that's probably as old as that coat.

Sunday I resurrected that jacket again for a fishing trip.

Nobody laughed. A jacket like this is something else these days, I discovered.

It's high style. Real high style. It's faded from I couldn't guess how many washings. It's frayed at the cuffs and the collar.

White spots and streaks weave in and out of the original blue denim.

It's got class. Besides that it's a genuine antique. With all of that I expected to turn a few heads when I walked into a popular eatery in Bay City Sunday afternoon.

Bill Ruhl was there. I suspect that he didn't see me . . . he couldn't be ignoring me, could he, because he just doesn't know the value of the jacket?

As I said, I expected to turn a few heads and I did. I thought maybe I'd even get a few wolf whistles.

But even a jacket like this can be expected to accomplish just so much.

The age of miracles has passed.

"If It Fitz . . ."

He must be a legislator

BY JIM FITZGERALD

A jobless friend phoned from Las Vegas and I was surprised because a week earlier he had been living on welfare in Michigan. He explained that he was pretending to be a state legislator so he could show the world how easy it is for a phony to get on the public payroll.

"Right now I am on a junket," he said. "I am attending a seminar on the danger of Asian crickets to the Michigan sugar beet. The first meeting was held last night in the Sands Hotel, under a crap table. I even made a short speech. I suggested that next year's seminar be held in Hawaii. No distance is too far to go in the interest of one of our state's most important products, the sugar beet."

My friend has obviously been inspired by Kirby Holmes, the Michigan legislator who recently pretended to be poor so he could show the world how easy it is for a phony to get on welfare. With the aid of 6 co-conspirators, Holmes defrauded the state out of $941 in welfare payments. He grew a beard and wore old clothes and told the Social Service Dept. he was jobless and needed money to pay the rent and feed his children. The dummies believed him.

When his cover was finally blown, Holmes proclaimed loudly that his masquerade had proven that most ADC mothers should be frisked and fingerprinted before being allowed to stand in the foodstamp line. Any common cheat can get on welfare, Holmes claimed. He got his picture in all the newspapers.

My junketing friend admitted his desire is to duplicate Holmes' success, flip side. He wants to gain the reputation and image of a legislator. He wants to be so convincing he can draw a legislator's salary without even winning an election. He phoned me because he knows newspapermen keep a fascinated eye on the legislature which is usually the best show in town. He wondered if I had any suggestions on how he might improve his impersonation.

I told him the Las Vegas junket was a brilliant beginning but he should be sure to stop over in Los Angeles and San Francisco on the way home. On his expense account, the entire trip should be charged to cab fares. All legislators and their incensuous "watchdogs" know how impossible it is to get a receipt from a cabbie.

Just the other day a Michigan legislator bought himself a color TV with taxpayer's money and called it a business expense. My friend would be smart to buy himself a jet plane and charge it up to mileage logged while studying the sway of the Mackinac Bridge.

One of my favorite legislators is always getting drunk and passing out in the parking lots of drive-in restaurants. This is interesting enough to get his name in the papers, but not very classy. I told my friend to strip and dance a jig on the buffet table at Charley's Crab in the Pontchartrain Hotel in downtown Detroit.

My masquerading friend should also establish an out-state office in his basement at home. It should be staffed by his wife, 5 kids, 2 brothers-in-law and assorted nieces and nephews. They can grow sugar beets in a windowbox and the whole thing can easily be charged to the taxpayers.

Mich. State Sen. Joseph Mack recently spent $37,000 refurbishing his Lansing office. Much of this public money went for carpeting. A legislator's status is often measured by the thickness of his carpet. Sen. Mack must be up to his fanny in pile. I suggested that my friend consider carpeting his ceiling. Then he could request a special appropriation to pay Karl Wallenda to do his vacuuming.

At this point my friend expressed amazement. "Gee," he said. "I think there are more crooks in the legislature than there are on welfare."

"Watch it," I cautioned him, "what you just said makes sense. You go around making sense, no one will ever mistake you for a legislator."

Policeman's job grows along with community, Cass City officers agree

(Editor's note: May 11-17 has been designated National Police Week. This story is an overview of the Cass City Police department today, along with some comparisons showing how the job of police protection has grown in recent years.)

The full-time job of providing police protection in Cass City has grown dramatically in the last decade and shows no sign of slowing in the future.

Village officials estimate it will cost $74,300 to maintain the four-man department this year. That compares with a cost of $25,300 in 1966. Since 1970, the police budget has grown from $41,119 annually. Translated, this means financing a four-man force that patrols 150 hours a week. Five days a week, three officers work overlapping shifts, while on week ends, two officers are on duty at any one time.

The department has been dispatched through the Tuscola County Sheriff's department for the last 13 years which, according to Chief Gene Wilson, means help is just a radio message away.

Wilson agrees without the benefits of central dispatching and quick availability of additional manpower, the job he and his officers do would be a lot more difficult. He said that generally a county officer or State Police trooper can be on the scene to assist a Cass City policeman within a maximum of 10 minutes.

Still, with more money, and modern equipment, crime continues on the upswing in Cass City. Wilson says drug violations and larcenies have both shown sharp increases in the last two to three years.

Felony arrests are also up, according to Wilson, with most of these involving persons not residing in Cass City or Tuscola county. While the chief will not flatly state he needs more manpower, now, he does say eventually another officer may have to be added to the force.

"If council feels we need 24-hour patrols, then we'll have to have more manpower," Wilson said.

CHANGES IN POLICE WORK

It takes a more highly educated, experienced police officer to handle the job today than it did in the early 1960's, Wilson said. The chief broke into police work with the Sheriff's Department in 1962. At that time, the job was simpler and demanded less of the average officer, he said. For instance, there were no

"Miranda warnings"—a reading of the suspect's constitutional rights upon arrest, Wilson recalled. He said there were no more than seven officers on the entire department.

He remembered that in the four years he worked for the department, there was only one drug-related arrest—for marijuana possession. Most arrests involved burglary, larceny or forgery. He said there were virtually no arrests for carrying concealed weapons.

In those days, only Vassar and Caro police departments ran 24-hour patrols, he said.

What caused the changes that makes police work more dangerous now than it ever been in Cass City? Community growth, outside influences and generally a more mobile society all contribute to increasing crime rates.

On the local scene, a lowered drinking age has increased the incidents of teenage arrests for alcohol-related violations such as driving with an open container in the car.

More arrests are coming at an earlier age as well. Wilson estimates much of the crime problem in Cass City comes from the 15-16 age bracket and most of it involves minor violations, shoplifting, vandalism and petty larceny.

CAREERS

Cass City's four police officers generally found their way into their careers either by accident or through exposure as they grew up. Wilson, a Cass City native, began with the Sheriff's Department in 1962 and stayed until 1966 when he took a plant protection job with Dow Corning in Midland.

He stayed with Dow until 1970, when he took his present job as Cass City Police Chief. "Basically, I needed a job," Wilson said. "I was raised on a farm and I wanted to try something else."

Wilson agrees that once police work gets in your blood, it's hard to get away from it. "I had a good job at Dow with plant protection," he recalled. "But I missed the contact with people and the excitement that goes with a police officer's job. That's why I decided to get back into it."

Of the other officers on the force, John Rands is the senior man, with six years in Cass City. Rands came from St. Clair after working as a part-time officer prior to coming to Cass City.

"I decided to come here because I wanted to get away from the city," Rands recalled. "I gave police work a try because I'd lived next to a police post in St. Clair for 14 years."

Officer Donald Miller has worked for the Cass City Police Department three years, and came as a Vietnam veteran, fresh out of the Marine Corps and looking for a job. A native of Flint, Miller applied for the Cass City opening and was accepted in 1972.

The department's newest officer, Bob Smith, is completing his first year on the force. Smith got his first exposure to police work as a youth in Louisville, Ky., where an uncle worked on the police force.

"On certain nights, they'd let me ride with him in the patrol car," Smith recalled. "After I got older, I thought I'd like to give it a try."

After a hitch in the Army, Smith was hired as a part-time officer in Dundee, then served three and-one-half years on the Petersburg force before coming to Cass City.

"We'd looked at Lewisburg for a job, but we decided it was pretty desolate up there," Smith remembered. "So on the way home, we stopped for lunch in Bay City and I happened to read about the opening in Cass City. The next thing I had to do was find where Cass City was."

Smith said Cass City impressed him on sight and he immediately applied for the job.

While all four officers agree they enjoy their jobs, they say they would recommend a police career to their children only after they had completed some part of a college education.

"I'd like my kids to get an education first and then see whether or not they liked a career in police work before they tackled the job full time," Wilson said.

"You get frustrated sometimes doing this job," Smith said. "You have to have some kind of dedication to the job to stick with it."

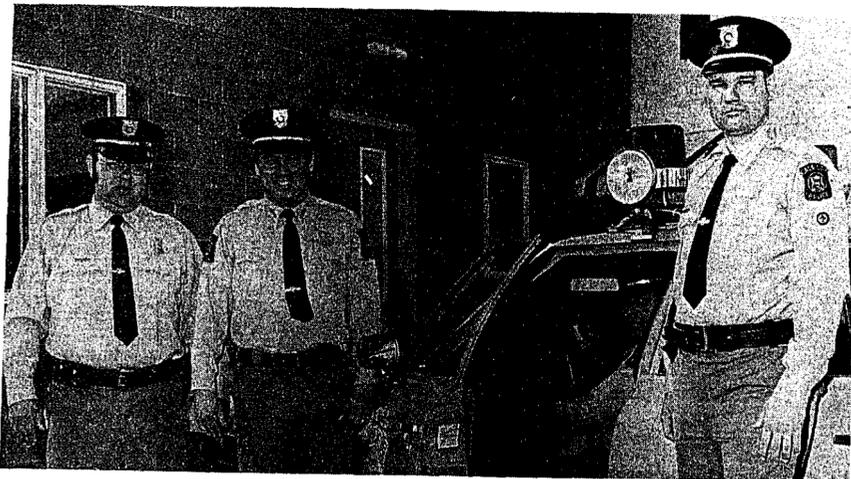

With most of the officers carrying prior experience on larger forces, they agree a police career in a small town is a lot different than in a large city.

"For one thing, an officer on this force is pretty much on his own," Wilson said. "He has to answer to me; that's true. But when he's on the street, he's pretty much his own boss. He spends a lot of time on patrol instead of going from one complaint to the next."

"You have two types of people here in Cass City," Rands added. "Daytime people and nighttime people. Generally, you get more problems with the nighttime people."

All agree the challenges of police work in the village won't get any easier.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Welcome to America?

By Jim Ketchum

Too many Americans let their true colors show last week and looking at them made me a little bit sick. Seems as though these paragons of Americanism say we don't have any room in this country for Vietnam refugees. They cite high unemployment rates and the nation's present economic crunch as reason to send those little yellow so-and-so's someplace else.

The refugees have been officially unwelcomed in California. In Arkansas, the governor said they could come, even though it would make things tougher. One of his constituents said, "Maybe we'll get lucky and they'll all catch pneumonia and die."

Makes you want to stuff the constituent in the end of a cannon and fire it in the direction of Saigon (or Ho Chi Minh city, if you prefer).

While newspaper people in general and yours truly in particular usually find themselves on the opposite side of the fence when it comes to the government line, this is one time I have to agree with President Ford.

Ford lashed out at those who say America doesn't have room for any refugees. It doesn't make sense to cover the words "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free" on the Statue of Liberty with a sign saying "We're all full-up right now; you'll have to wait your turn."

Ford was rightly angered when he wondered what has happened to the open door policy that made the United States the paragon of nationhood.

Now, too many of us want to slam the door shut on the Vietnamese.

Why? Good question. Maybe we just simply want to forget that Vietnam ever happened. And what better way to forget than to get rid of the walking memories—the refugees.

Who needs those slant-eyed so and so's running around reminding us of the biggest foreign policy blunder we ever made? Who needs to be reminded of those 55,000 American lives that were sacrificed for nothing?

Send them someplace else, say the critics. Besides, they'll all wind up on welfare and we'll have to pay for them, the doggerel continues.

It's amazing that we think no Vietnamese can read or write and that we somehow believe all the refugees lived in grass huts, wore under-shorts as their only clothing and could do nothing more useful than propagate.

That's sheer folly. In that batch of refugees we're talking about are professional people, educated people, intelligent people. Many worked for the U.S. government in Vietnam. Many are more than capable of holding down a job and not becoming a burden on our society.

And they aren't going to steal all our jobs. Chances are good that the jobs they land are ones Americans couldn't fill. And who knows what potential genius we might have welcomed to these shores. Seems a fellow named Einstein was a refugee from Germany. So was Enrico Fermi, another nuclear pioneer.

This is a nation of immigrants and to suggest that 50,000 or so Vietnamese coming to this country will be too much to handle is ridiculous. We absorbed half a million Cuban refugees and didn't complain. Why are we so uptight over a handful of Vietnamese?

Maybe the hawks are ashamed because we let Vietnam go under. Maybe the doves are ashamed that we didn't let it go sooner.

Personally, I'm ashamed of those who say the Vietnamese refugees have no place in the United States. They belong here as the keepers of our consciences, if for no other reason.

I say welcome, former citizens of Vietnam. Long may you live in peace and prosperity.

4-H ACTIVITIES

Horseback riding for handicapped

By Bernard Jardot

The Mott Foundation in Flint and the Kellogg Foundation in Battle Creek will support the development and expansion of the 4-H Horseback Riding for the Handicapped Program in Michigan. This program has been in the development stage for the past two years, with a pilot program in Genesee county. This will be the largest single program grant ever made to the Michigan 4-H youth programs. With the current funding, the program will be expanded into 10 Michigan counties in each of the next three years. This will make it possible for 3600 handicapped children to participate in the program, re-

In addition, 270 volunteer adult and teen 4-H leaders will be given training which will help them become more effective when working with handicapped children. The program will also involve up to 7200 4-H youth as volunteer assistants.

In the program, the handicapped child gains valuable skills and confidence and the 4-H volunteer gains a different perspective on life.

One of the most vital areas of the program is the exercises performed by the child while he or she is in the saddle. Each exercise has a specific purpose. For instance, standing in the stirrups is used to strengthen the lower extensor muscles. Twisting the trunk, lateral bends, stretching and rotating arms and legs are also used.

Technical consultant for the program is the Cheff Center for the Handicapped in Augusta, Michigan. We hope to involve 4-H club adult and teen leaders from horse clubs, once they have been trained. We encourage adults and teens interested in this new program to contact the Extension 4-H office, Civil Defense Center, Caro.

BETTER HEALTH
Cough remedies and rackets
 BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

Although there are nearly 200 prescription preparations available for the relief of coughs and colds, more than for the relief of any other human symptom, there is no evidence that such shot-gun mixtures are ever as effective as an adequate dose of a single drug aimed at a specific component of the cough reflex, or at a particular stage of a respiratory disorder.

First, many coughs are viral in origin, short-lived, and tend to subside without treatment and do not require a battery of drugs for relief. A simple tickle in the throat can often best be relieved by a candy drop.

A severe and painful cough is best handled by a suitable dose of a single specific agent, codeine, or one of its derivatives, which suppresses the cough reflex. The aim is not to prevent coughing entirely, only to reduce its frequency. Coughing is a protective reflex, and when there are copious secretions to get rid of, the reflex requires to be slowed up and not stopped.

Prescription preparations and most over-the-counter concoctions typically contain a cough suppressant, an antihistamine, a so-called decongestant to dry up secretions, an expectorant to loosen up the same secretions, often a sedative to calm you down, a mood booster to pep you up and, to make the picture complete, a pain-killer.

Most of these ingredients are present in amounts too small to be effective, frequently have opposing effects, and can interact adversely, not only with their fellow ingredients, but also with other medications that may be simultaneously prescribed.

The "allergic" aspects of an oncoming cold -- sneezing, a running nose -- can often be temporarily inhibited by an antihistamine in adequate dosage, but the effect is temporary.

There is no good evidence that the so-called "decongestants," which shrink the small blood vessels of the membranes of the respiratory tract, have any effect at all on coughs and colds.

If secretions are sticky and hard to get up, far better than the so-called "expectorants" is the simple device of increasing the amount of fluids you drink and short periods of inhaling steam.

Some cough mixtures, according to reports, are popular among adolescents in search of "kicks". These are the cough elixirs, rather than the cough syrups. Elixirs, both official and over-the-counter, often contain as much as 50 per cent ethyl alcohol, the same as 100-proof gin.

Most states restrict the sale of alcohol to minors, but many have no age limitations on the purchase of alcoholic

PWP sets family activities

Thumb area Parents Without Partners will sponsor two activities the week end of May 16-18. Friday, May 16, the fathers in the club will cook a belated Mother's Day dinner for the mothers in the club at the home of Charlotte Talaski. Persons attending are asked to contact a member for directions to her home. Starting time is 7:00 p.m.

Sunday, May 18, at 1:00 p.m., a picnic will be held at Lighthouse Park. Persons attending this children's activity for the month are asked to bring hot dogs and hamburgers, as well as a dish to pass. Games will be played.

Trinity UM women meet

Trinity United Methodist Women met for a regular monthly meeting, May 5, with President Mary Ilexin presiding. Thirty-five members attended the meeting.

Treasurer Doris Rawson gave a detailed report from the Finance Committee.

From the Women's Division, the 1974 appropriations were divided into the following categories:

World Mission, 36 per cent; National Mission, 36 per cent; Education, and Cultivation, 4.8 per cent; Women's Division Programs, 4.6 per cent; Women's Division Salaries and Benefits, 8 per cent; Women's Operating Expenses, 4.2 per cent; Retired Workers, 4.1 per cent, and Education Operating, 2.3 per cent.

The program, "An Invitation to Live", by Helen Baker, will be presented at the next meeting in June.

Another Bazaar Workshop has been set for Wednesday, May 21, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. It will be in the fellowship hall. Anyone interested is welcome.

Devotionals were led by Helen Baker and Opal Schneberger.

Group five, headed by Mabel Marshall and Alice Ruhl, served a chop suey dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Your neighbor says We like Mackinac Island

Now that spring is here, it's time to start thinking again about that favorite vacation hideaway. All of us have one spot we prefer more than any other to spend some leisure time.

For Paul Skinner of Cass City, his favorite spot is Mackinac Island. He and his wife have spent vacations there the past two summers on the island and plan to travel there again this year.

"I enjoy the scenery and the historical aspects of the island," Skinner says. "I also enjoy the trip up. About the only thing I don't like are the restaurants on the island. They're really lousy."

Asked what he dislikes about the restaurants, Skinner said it's a combination of high prices and poor service in general.

One thing about Mackinac Island he and his wife enjoy is bicycling. It's one of the few places you can still see without fear of being run over, Skinner says.

Skinner is a lifelong resident of Cass City. He and his wife, Penny, have two girls. Skinner is employed at the Caro Regional Center.

Appoint Mrs. Kelley CF chairman

Mrs. Luanne Kelley of Cass City has been named local chairman of the 1975 Breath of Life Campaign to fight children's lung diseases, the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation announced last week.

The newly-appointed chairman is a resident of Cass City and will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support the research and care for children suffering from Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis and other related lung-damaging diseases.

The 1975 campaign will be conducted during September.

Mrs. Kelley's husband, Rev. Eldred Kelley, is pastor of Salem United Methodist church.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Rev. Frederick J. Libby of Washington, D.C., will be guest preacher at the Presbyterian church Sunday. The Cass City Red Hawks baseball team won two impressive victories last week.

They defeated Bad Axe 4-2 and Unionville 11-2. Lee Hartel, with help from Eugene Kloc, was the key man in both wins.

Love and Security

You don't need to know much about polar bears to get the message here. This cub hasn't a worry in the world. But one day he'll grow up to know all the frustrations of life in captivity.

Motherhood is security... but only for awhile. And the human mother is no more able to perpetuate the bond of total protection than is her wild counterpart.

Some parents today have abdicated their responsibility to guide their children. They have broken the family bonds too soon. Their children pay for this negligence: They age—but they don't mature.

Whims are fickle... and momentary. The Church strives to replace such elusive goals with something more substantial, something more stable. The inner values of character and faith remain as vital today as ever.

In our turbulent society, tranquility can only be found inside a person. Such stability and serenity could be your greatest gift to your child.

Davidsons' peacocks latest of farm feathered friends

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davidson of Maxwell Road, Gagetown, love to raise animals. They especially enjoy unusual species. That's what led them in part to their latest venture.

They raise peacocks. How do you find peacocks in Michigan's Thumb? It's simple, when you know the right people. The Davidsons have been raising the exotic birds since July and they plan to stay in business for awhile, at least.

The venture started with a visit to neighbor John Koisis, Davidson recalled.

"We were visiting over there and he had some chicks that hatched and he wasn't quite sure what to do with them," Davidson said. "So I took nine chicks just to see if I could raise them. We've still got all nine."

The birds are about half-matured, Davidson said. Right now, they pretty much have free reign of the Davidson farm, but seldom stray from the yard or garage area.

Davidson says the birds are impossible to feed as you would feed a chicken. "They have to scratch for themselves," he said. "Heck, you put chicken feed out for them and they'll walk over it. You really can't feed them."

The peacocks survived Michigan's winter quite well, Davidson said, keeping warm by roosting in the garage. The population of six roosters and three hens make good watch dogs, Davidson says. "When they get frightened, they'll cry out a sound that you'd swear was someone screaming 'help'," Davidson said.

He says the birds get along well with other farm animals, including the flock of chickens, the family dog and pigs. They seldom if ever fight among themselves either, he said.

"They're the most even-tempered bird I've ever seen," he remarked. He said he and his wife have gotten some strange comments by visitors who are met by the large birds with long plumage and distinctive feathers on the head that make the bird look as though it is wearing a hat.

"We enjoy having them around," Davidson said. "They don't weigh much. You pick one up and I doubt if it'll weigh more than five pounds."

Davidson said he plans to keep one pair of the birds and sell two other pairs. Eventually, he'd like to raise a new family of peacocks from eggs, once the hens start laying in another six months or so.

This isn't the first experience the Davidsons have had with exotic wildlife. At one time, they raised a flock of guinea hens, but eventually gave it up because they were hard to raise.

"They'd get you up at 5 a.m. by screaming at the bedroom window," Mrs. Davidson said. "And they'd raise the devil with a garden. They'd pick off new lettuce shoots just as slick as can be." They also raised two rabbits that eventually became 250. They said the father rabbit died soon after child number 250 came along.

"He was probably tired," Mrs. Davidson laughed. Other animals at the farm over the years have included a team of mules, prize Belgian draft ponies and turkeys that dressed out at 27 pounds. With this kind of experience, it's a sure bet the peacocks at the farm are in good hands.

MR. AND MRS. Bob Davidson look over pictures of the many exotic animals they have raised on their farm near Gagetown, including guinea hens, peacocks and 250 rabbits.

TIP TO MOTORISTS

The key to traffic safety is the responsibility of each and every motorist—good driving is the only magic formula.

Advertise it in The Chronicle.

PEACOCKS REALLY are beautiful. It seems, however, that Bob Davidson's birds were bashful for the Chronicle camera. Davidson is currently raising nine of the birds on his rural Gagetown farm.

Mrs. Brown, Mrs. McGrath review Cass City teaching years

By Jim Ketchum

Two teachers with over a half-century of teaching experience between them will retire at the end of this year from Cass City Public Schools. Mrs. Alison Brown, English teacher at Cass City High School, and Mrs. Helen McGrath, second-grade teacher at Campbell Elementary, are calling it quits after 28 and 26 years of teaching respectively.

For Mrs. Brown, who has taught in Cass City, Evergreen, and the Crawford and Columbia Corners rural schools, retirement is coming a little early.

"I'd like to get more involved with church activities that I haven't had the chance to enjoy until now," Mrs. Brown said, following class one afternoon recently.

Sitting down at a student desk, Mrs. Brown, who scarcely looks old enough to be retiring, said she and her husband, Grant, plan to do some traveling and just plain relaxing.

Mrs. Brown was born and raised on a farm west of Cass City, attending high school here before taking courses at Tuscola County Normal School.

"I always wanted to be a teacher," Mrs. Brown recalled. "I never wanted to be anything else."

She said she isn't a bit sorry she chose the profession, either. Today she looks on her job with as much enthusiasm as a new teacher heading for her first class.

"There isn't another profession in the world equal to teaching," she said. "I've always loved it. I never looked on it as being work, and I've never regretted a day I spent as a teacher."

Mrs. Brown began her career in the fall of 1931, and taught for 13 years, taking the years 1944-1961 to raise two children. She said she felt it was important to be with her children while they were growing up. "You miss so much if you're not there," she said.

During this time, she also served on the Evergreen Township Unit School board until that unit consolidated with the Cass City School District. When the consolidation was complete, she traded her school board post for a teaching job. Since 1961, she's been at the high school, teaching English and loving it.

MRS. McGRATH—COUNTRY SCHOOL WAS GREAT

Mrs. Helen McGrath has a total of 26 years teaching experience, including 13 years in Grant township country schools. Born and raised in Cass City, she moved with her family to Bad Axe during her high school years and, following graduation, attended Huron County Normal School and began her teaching career shortly thereafter.

"I really wanted to become a nurse," Mrs. McGrath recalled with a smile, "but the Normal school was right there and so I went and eventually wound up in teaching."

She taught six years in one Grant township school, then took 18 years out to raise three children. She returned to the Greenwood School in Grant township for seven years and then moved to Campbell Elementary School in 1962, where she has taught second grade ever since.

"I enjoyed teaching in those country schools a lot," Mrs. McGrath said. "It was like one big happy family. I had some of those kids seven years in a row and got to think of some of them as my own."

She said the country schools held a closer relationship between students, teachers and parents. She says today television has had a definite effect on the personalities of young children. They tend to be more outgoing than years ago.

Mrs. Brown agreed. "I really enjoyed my years in the country schools," she said. "I particularly enjoyed Columbia Corners. It was a wonderful school. I earned $150 a month while I was there."

Both said activities in rural areas used to center around the school. Spelling bees, baseball games, math contests and box socials were popular among both students and parents. "It was just like a big family," she said.

Mrs. McGrath said she always enjoyed her days in the one-room school, although she herself never attended a country school.

"I remember asking myself how a teacher could manage eight grades when I started," she said. "But I soon learned it wasn't hard. Once you learned the names, they stuck with you. And when you have many of the same students for seven or eight years, they become a part of you."

She said this was probably her biggest adjustment when she came to Campbell Elementary—getting a new batch of second-graders each year. But she soon learned that she could become attached to them as well.

She said she still hears frequently from some of her country school pupils. The old closeness hasn't died away.

While some teachers argue about class sizes today, large classes are nothing new for either Mrs. Brown or Mrs. McGrath. Mrs. Brown said she has had classes as large as 70 pupils in the country school, while Mrs. McGrath had over 50 students two years running.

"It was fun," they both say.

FUTURE

Both agree it will be difficult not to jump when the school bell sounds next fall. But each plans to expand activities to meet their new RETIRING WITH OVER a half-century of teaching experience between them are Mrs. Alison Brown and Mrs. Helen McGrath. Mrs. Brown has taught at Cass City High School since 1961, while Mrs. McGrath has been a second-grade teacher at Campbell Elementary since 1962. Both have experience dating back to one-room schoolhouses in the area.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR SOIL EROSION AND SEDIMENTATION CONTROL ON PUBLIC AND PRIVATE LAND USES WITHIN THE VILLAGE OF CASS CITY: TO MAKE THE VILLAGE OF CASS CITY THE LOCAL ENFORCING AGENCY IN IMPLEMENTING THE SOIL EROSION AND SEDIMENTATION CONTROL ACT 347 OF P.A., 1972, WITHIN THE VILLAGE OF CASS CITY: TO ADOPT SOIL EROSION AND SEDIMENTATION CONTROL STANDARDS: TO PROVIDE FOR PERMITS AND FEES AND PROVIDE FOR PENALTIES IN VIOLATION THEREOF.
The Village of Cass City Ordains:
Section I. Local Enforcing Agency.
It is the intent of the Village of Cass City to become the local enforcing agency in regard to implementing the Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act 347 of P.A., 1972, within the municipal limits of the Village.
Section II. Rules Adopted.
The Village of Cass City hereby adopts by reference the latest rules promulgated by the Water Resources Commission relative to Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act 347 of P.A., 1972, and the standards and specifications for soil erosion and sedimentation control adopted by the Tuscola County Sediment Control District, said rules, standards, and specifications to be available for public distribution, at a reasonable charge, with not less than ten (10) copies to be available for public inspection at the office of the Village Clerk.
Section III. Designated Official.
The Village Superintendent shall be responsible for the administration of this ordinance, processing applications, inspecting sites, and determining whether work under permits issued pursuant to this ordinance complies with the regulations of this ordinance and the soil erosion and sediment control standards adopted herein.
Section IV. Submission of Plans.
A. Before ground-breaking of any construction project in the Village of Cass City involving one or more acres of land, or any construction project within five hundred (500) feet of a lake or stream, an erosion and sedimentation control plan shall be submitted to the Village in accordance with the Water Resources Commission rules mentioned in Section II.
B. No site plan or plat shall be approved unless it includes soil erosion and sediment control measures in accordance with the technical standards of the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District. No approval for occupancy of any building will be granted unless all needed erosion control measures have been completed or substantially provided for in accordance with this ordinance and the standards and specifications of the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District. C. The developer must submit the following information for the entire tract of land, whether or not the tract will be developed in stages:
1. A boundary line survey of the site on which the work is to be performed.

3. Description of general topographic and general soil conditions on the site (available from the Village of Cass City Planning Commission or the Soil Conservation District).
4. Location and description of existing and future man-made features of importance to the proposed development.
5. Plans and specifications of soil erosion and sedimentation control measures in accordance with standards and specifications of the Tuscola County Conservation District.
6. A timing schedule indicating the anticipated starting and completion dates of the development sequence and the time of exposure of each area prior to the completion of effective erosion and sediment control measures.
Section V. Permits and Fees.
A. Requirement: No person shall do any grading, stripping, cutting or filling unless he has valid grading permit issued by the Village Superintendent.
B. Application: A separate application shall be required for each grading permit. The application shall be in a form furnished by the Village. Plans, specifications and timing schedules shall be submitted with each application for a grading permit. The plans shall be prepared or approved and signed by a professional engineer or by an architect. The Village Superintendent may waive the preparation or approval and signature by the professional engineer or architect when the work entails no hazard to the adjacent property.
C. Permits: Upon payment of the necessary fees to the Village in accordance with a fee schedule to be determined by resolution of the Village Council, and amended from time to time by resolution, the submitted plans shall be reviewed and approved by the Village Superintendent and a permit shall issue, provided the plans meet Water Resources Commission rules and Tuscola County Soil Conservation District standards, which have been adopted by reference herein, to prevent soil erosion at all major construction sites in the Village of Cass City in excess of one (1) acre or within 500 feet of a lake or stream (except isolated single family dwellings).
D. Fees: A fee schedule shall be adopted by the Village Council by resolution and may be amended from time to time in the same manner.
Section VI. Board of Appeals.
The Village Planning Commission shall constitute the Board of Appeals upon all questions arising under this ordinance and may fix rules and regulations to govern the procedure to be followed before such Board shall hear and decide appeals from, or review any order, requirement, decision, or determination made by the Village Superintendent in administering this ordinance. The Board shall also hear and decide all matters referred to it by the Village Council, or upon which it is required to pass hereunder. The concurring vote of a majority of the members of the Board of Appeals shall be necessary to reverse any order, requirement, decision, or determination of the Village Superintendent, or to decide in favor of the applicant, in any matter upon which it is required to pass under this ordinance.

The Village Clerk shall transmit to the Board of Appeals the written appeal, construction project plans, and all other papers constituting the record upon which the action appealed from was taken.
B. An appeal stays all proceedings in furtherance of the action appealed from, unless the Village Superintendent certifies to the Board of Appeals after the notice of appeal shall have been filed with the Village Clerk, that by reason of facts stated in the certificate a stay would in his opinion cause imminent peril to life or property, in which case proceedings shall not be stayed, otherwise than by a restraining order which may be granted by the Board of Appeals, or by the Circuit Court upon application, upon notice to the officer from whom the appeal is taken, and on due cause shown.
C. The Board of Appeals shall fix a reasonable time for the hearing of the appeal, and give due notice thereof to the parties, and decide the same within a reasonable time. At such hearings, any party may appear in person, or by agent, or by attorney. The Board of Appeals may reverse, or affirm, wholly, or partly, or may modify the order, requirement, decision or determination, as in its opinion ought to be made in the premises and to that end shall have all powers of the Village Superintendent from whom the appeal was taken. Where practical difficulties or unnecessary hardship will result from carrying out the strict letter of this ordinance, the Board of Appeals shall have the authority to interpret this ordinance and the soil erosion and sedimentation control standards and specifications adopted by reference herein and may in specific cases grant variances and exceptions thereto providing such variance or exception is in harmony with the general purpose and intent of the requirements, so that the spirit of the ordinance shall be observed, public safety secured, and substantial justice done. Section VIII. Bond.

Every applicant submitting a construction plan shall file with the Village Clerk a surety bond, running to the Village in the amount of $10,000, with surety acceptable to and approved by the Village Superintendent, conditioned that the said applicant shall comply fully with all the provisions of this and other ordinances of the Village of Cass City and the Statutes of the State of Michigan relating and concerning construction projects, and assuring the completion of soil erosion and sedimentation control facilities that may be required in a plan. Action on such bond may be brought in the name of the Village to the use or benefit of the Village or of any aggrieved person or persons.
Section IX. Site Inspection.

Hawk band wins I rating at State Festival

Cass City High School's Concert Band received an "excellent" rating at the State Band and Orchestra Festival in Kalamazoo Saturday.

The festival, held at Kalamazoo Christian High School, featured 15 bands. Playing at 10:00 a.m., the Red Hawk band was the fifth to perform and chose "Crystal Star March," "Slavonic Dancers," and "Avatara".

It was the first time that

Cass City received a division one rating at the state level since 1960.

The event climaxed a two-day excursion for the 64-piece ensemble, according to Band Director George Bushong.

The band left Cass City Friday morning for Thornapple-Kellogg High School in Middleville, where they put on a performance. Two weeks earlier, the T-K Trojan band presented an assembly at Cass City High School.

After dinner in Grand Rapids, the students returned to Middleville to spend the night with families of Trojan band members.

Police probe larcenies have no suspects.

Sheriff's deputies investigated the theft of a kerosene lantern and a buck saw Monday from a cabin located on Sweet Road just east of Crawford Road in Novesta township and owned by Floyd Palmer of Akron.

Palmer told officers someone broke a window in a nearby trailer and then broke into a 24 by 24-foot cabin. The stolen items were valued at $9.

Police have no suspects.

Dennis J. Hurley of 4990 Hurd's Corner Rd., Cass City, reported vandals broke the windshield of his car as it was parked at the Colwood Bar early Sunday morning.

The damage was discovered around 12:30 a.m. State Police from the Caro Post have no suspects.

Kathy Slaybaugh of 6012 State St., Kingston, reported an attempted breaking and entering to her home early Monday morning. She told Sheriff's deputies she was awakened by a noise on the first floor of the home and discovered the rear door kicked in and a window in a door between the living room and dining room broken.

Nothing was reported taken and police have no suspects.

Sheriff's deputies also investigated the fatal wounding of Dan Gyomory Sr., 85, of rural Deford Saturday. Officers said Gyomory died from a self-inflicted .16 gauge shotgun wound to the chest.

Strike law seen coming

In fact, Armbruster wants to see a bill enacted into law before the end of this school year.

"We have to have something before next fall," Armbruster said in a telephone interview from Lansing. "How can these school districts plan their future without knowing the rules of the game? Personally, I'd like to see something enacted by the end of this month."

Armbruster explained after the so-called Keith bill was turned down, groups of lobbyists met to begin a new attempt to strike a compromise.

Armbruster said Monday no one is really sure what may be coming in the form of a new bill.

The Caro Republican said that he could favor some sort of binding arbitration system, but said he would have to study any such measure before voting on it.

He also said he could vote for "some mild reduction" in the 180-day minimum attendance requirement, but said he would oppose any substantial reduction.

"If 180 days has worked well in the past, how can you put that much education into, say, 100 days," Armbruster said. "It takes X amount of hours to educate a student and we shouldn't be thinking about reducing that number drastically."

55 PER CENT CHANCE

State Sen. Alvin J. DeGrow (R-Pigeon) sees about a 55 per cent chance that some kind of teacher strike law will be on the books by the end of this school year. He said the Senate Labor Committee, of which he is a member, plans to begin studying a reported compromise reached among lobbyists in the education field during a series of meetings in recent weeks.

While it is not known precisely what is in the compromise plan, DeGrow said some points in the bill have been known.

"For one thing, in an outline of the compromise, there is some reference to a limited strike," DeGrow explained. "Personally, I have problems accepting a limited strike because it's useless. We should either enact a bill, authorizing unlimited strikes or a bill banning strikes completely."

"There's no real benefit in a limited right to strike because it doesn't prove anything," DeGrow said he would also like to see some safeguards written into the bill protecting local school boards. For instance, DeGrow said, curriculum should not be negotiable.

"Curriculum should be set by district residents as reflected through their elected representatives," he said.

DeGrow said the compromise mentions the 180-day rule and may modify it to a minimum of 170 days before a Circuit Court could step in. More work will be needed to include year-round schools and certain technical schools that operate on a longer schedule, he said.

"The main problem now is that the pressure is off," he said. "We can't get a consensus even among teaching interests, not to mention school districts. If we go into the fall without a law and a strike takes place, then the pressure will be back on again. Unfortunately it sounds like an alibi, but that's a fact of life."

PRO-MANAGEMENT

Dave Stafford, local representative of the Michigan Education Association said the so-called Keith bill, introduced by Rep. William Keith (D-Garden City) and which has not gotten out of committee, is primarily pro-management.

Stafford said the Keith bill would have allowed school boards to delay bargaining and could have put bargaining into January. He said the bill creates a cumbersome procedure for handling an impasse.

Stafford contends the bill could allow a school board to provoke a strike and make money, since it would not lose any local tax revenue and would not have expenses related to running the school. He said the arbitration section was also unacceptable.

"According to the bill, if a school board accepted an arbitrator's decision, that would be it," Stafford said. "It would automatically be binding on the teachers as well. If the teachers accepted it but not the board, then the teachers could go on strike." Stafford said he is unsure what final form the latest compromise will take, but remains hopeful that there will be a bill before next fall.

USA rolls to 2nd straight Gavel Invitational crown

BRIAN CHARD, 18, Decker, (seated) proudly displays his first-place trophy he picked up in open novice competition Sunday at the Yamaha High School Moto-X state championships held at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit. Shown looking on are Ron Stolzman, Snover, owner of the cycle, and Chuck Nemeth of Thumb Cycle Sales, who helped sponsor the cycle.

As expected, power laden Unionville-Sebewaing Area Schools successfully defended its title in the 17th running of the Gavel Invitational as the Patriot thinclads walked away from the field with 82 points while runner-up Flint Beecher netted 47.

Cass City made its best showing in recent years as Coach Dale McIntosh's thinclads picked up 16 points on the way to a fifth place finish.

Other schools finished in the following order: St. Louis, 39; Montrose, 20; New Haven, 18; Saginaw SS Peter & Paul, 13; Almont, 9; Laker, 9; Reese, 9; Caro, 7; Harbor Beach, 6; Marlette, 4; Akron-Fairgrove, 2; Armada, Carsonville, Dryden, 0.

USA captured seven first place and set two track records under balmy skies. The first meet record to fall was the pole vault mark of 13 feet, 2 inches set by Good of Montrose in 1968.

It was cracked by Randy Balzer who cleared 13 feet, four inches. In a later try he was well over the bar at 13 feet, 10 1/2 inches but hit the bar with his arms on the way down.

Beecher's Anthony Aikens ran the 440 in :51.4 to break the year-old mark of :51.6 set by Jim Todd of Cross-Lex.

The USA mile relay team set a new mark in the mile relay as Tim Androl, Randy Baker, Rod Luther and Mike Mischung covered the distance in 3:33.1 to best the 3:36.5 record set in 1972 by Vassar.

CASS CITY'S POINTS

Best finish by a Hawk in the Invitational was compiled by Ed Stoutenburg who finished second in the 180-yard low hurdles with a time of :21.6. Cass City's mile relay squad of Skip Speirs, Bruce Schweikart, Brent Dickson and Dallas Englehart was third.

Dickson was far in front in a slower heat of the mile but finished fourth with a clocking of 4:46.6. Fifth place spots were won by Blaise Posluszny with a :24 in the 220 and Englehart with a :34.35 in the 440.

The complete results:

High jump - Bruce Martin, Almont, Fred Diehl, USA, Carl Green, St. Louis. 6' 1/2.

Shot put - Jim Brown, Laker High, Dan Severn, Montrose, Fred Diehl, USA. 49 6 3/4.

Long jump - James Henry, New Haven, Robin Chaffin, Montrose, Bruce Martin, Almont. 19 11 1/4.

Pole vault - Randy Balzer, USA, Mark Gainforth, USA, Brian Bender, St. Louis. 13 4. (Meet and field record).

880 run - Rod Luther, USA, John Pryce, Montrose, Rick Curtis, Flint Beecher. 2:03.3.

400 dash - Anthony Aikens, Flint Beecher, Randy Baker, USA, Paul Willie Willette, Harbor Beach. :51.4. (Meet record).

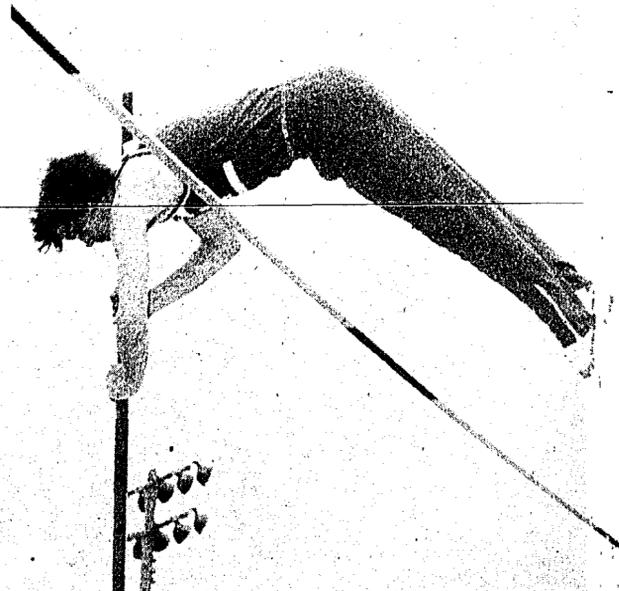

180 low hurdles - Mike Mischung, USA, Ed Stoutenburg, Cass City, Steve McGinnis, Marlette. :20.6.

220 dash - Jeff English, St. Louis, Dave Bitzer, USA, Chris Eddington, Saginaw SS, Peter & Paul. Time not reported.

Mile relay - USA, Tim Androl, Randy Baker, Rod Luther, Mike Mischung. 3:33.1. (Meet and field record), Flint Beecher, Cass City.

RECORD BREAKING Randy Balzer of USA as he sails over the bar at 13 feet, four inches to break the Cass City track record.

BRUCE MARTIN of Almont had less misses and won the high jump at the Gavel Invitational with a leap of 6 feet, 1/2 inch.

Teamwork wins novice cycle race for Brian Chard of Decker

It took teamwork for Brian Chard, 18, Decker, to win top honors in open novice competition during last week end's Yamaha High School Moto-X state championship race held at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

It took Chard's riding skill and Ron Stolzman's Husqvarna 360 GP cycle.

The race is designed specifically for high school students. Chard, a senior at Marlette High School, qualified, but Stolzman, who is out of school, could not enter the race.

So the two buddies teamed up and the results were a first place in the novice class.

"I wasn't really sure I could even qualify," Chard said, grinning. "I just wanted to give it a try."

The youth, sponsored through Thumb Cycle Sales of Cass City, had advanced to state competition after placing first in a series of elimination races held at Peck the previous week end. Armed with the confidence that he could win, along with the mechanical assistance of Stolzman, a Snover resident, they made their way to Detroit for Sunday's action.

In Moto-X racing involves two 15-minute "legs" or "motos", in which cyclists race against each other. Qualifying involves riders with the most laps in 15 minutes, along with their placing in the field.

It's a tough one-mile course complete with right and left turns, jumps, sand traps and mud. It's as much of an endurance race as it is competitive racing.

Through it all, Chard bested seven other racers to capture the trophy. No prize money is involved.

This is the second race this year Chard has won, counting the Peck run two weeks ago. He says the victory has whetted his appetite for more. He plans to enter more area cycle races this summer.

He also plans to continue the partnership with Stolzman and his cycle. For Stolzman's part, he says he was as excited when Chard captured Sunday's trophy as if he'd been in the driver's seat himself.

"I looked at it this way," he said. "If we didn't enter, we'd never know whether or not we could win. This proved we could."

According to Chuck Nemeth, owner of Thumb Cycle Sales, their winning Husqvarna is a production machine that can be purchased off the showroom floor. Nemeth said the youths did not modify the engine for Sunday's race.

Chard said prior to this year, he'd run a few scrambles—races of less than a half-mile where the winner is determined by the number of laps completed in a series of elimination heats.

Whichever type of racing they enter, the team of Chard and Stolzman figure that there will be a few more trophies to display before the season ends.

Top Hatchets, lose to Eagles

Hawks split pair of dual meets

Cass City's thinclads are looking forward to a third place finish in the Thumb B Conference regular season this year after scoring a satisfying victory over Bad Axe last week before bowing to potent Frankenmuth Monday.

It now appears certain that the league title chase is a two-school race between Vassar and Frankenmuth.

Cass City rolled over Bad Axe, 70-53, in what coach Dale McIntosh called a great team effort.

As usual it was the Hawks' strength in the relays and the distance events that paved the way to victory.

The Hawks swept the two-mile race, won the mile relay, 880-yard relay, the mile run and swept the 440-yard dash. The Hawks finished first in nine of the 15 events.

It was a different story against the Eagles. Frankenmuth won going away, 87-36. Cass City was able to win just three events, the high jump, mile and 440-yard dash.

The Hawks' strong mile relay team was defeated in a tight race as Frankenmuth posted a 3:45.1 time on a slow track.

Hawks lose close ones; sink to loop cellar

Cass City High School's diamond nine has a not-so-good 1-6 record and languishes at the bottom of the Thumb B Conference.

Despite the sorry won-lost record the feeling persists that this year's team is not nearly as bad as the results indicate.

A sore elbow has sidelined him and the Hawks just don't have anyone that can fill the void.

Especially, when a depth on the mound is more important this year than ever before. That's because the teams play doubleheaders once or twice a week.

Unfortunately, the team is also at the bottom in run production too. That's probably the big reason that Cass City has lost four one-run decisions and has been shut-out twice.

To add to the team's woes, Jerry Toner, a mound ace for four years for the Hawks will probably pitch no more this spring.

A sore elbow has sidelined him and the Hawks just don't have anyone that can fill the void.

Especially, when a depth on the mound is more important this year than ever before. That's because the teams play doubleheaders once or twice a week.

The club was to have played a double header Tuesday but wet grounds forced another cancellation.

One of the Hawks' defeats was in the county tournament at Millington where they were upset by Reese.

They return to Millington this Saturday to play in the consolation tournament. If they win twice in the games remaining at Millington they could finish third.

Coach Ron Nurnberger is using Russ Schweikart, Mike Gruber and Ken Lowe on the mound and all have performed well to take up some of the slack caused by the loss of Toner.
