

Two-hour secret session highlights Owen-Gage meeting

Around 30 Owen-Gage school district residents sat through a frustrating evening Monday as the board of education spent two hours closeted in executive session, only to return and dispose of its agenda with little discussion and adjourn.

The board spent much of its time huddled with school attorney John Thomas and members of the Huron Intermediate Board of Education, reportedly discussing last week's property transfer that saw the district lose over $1.3 million in state equalized valuation, along with 35 students.

The board also planned strategy for the combined Huron-Tuscola Intermediate Board hearing on a large property transfer to the Cass City school district which was scheduled Wednesday night at Gagetown.

Rumors were circulated that a portion of the executive session time was spent discussing the future of Supt. Glenn Sanford. While both board and Sanford denied any trouble, rumors persisted that the beleaguered superintendent might not be at the helm when school reopens next fall.

Currently Sanford is completing the first year of a two-year contract.

The board opened Monday's public meeting, then adjourned to executive session at 8:25 p.m., returning at 9:45, only to go back to private talks five minutes later, returning at 10:30 p.m.

In the five minutes between both closed sessions, Sanford said the board had met with the school attorney and had also discussed some personal questions. He refused to elaborate.

Many of the citizens present expressed anger over the two long secret sessions. They wanted to discuss both property transfers and what they might mean for the district next year.

Many were property owners involved in the Cass City transfer move.

When the board finally returned to public session at 10:30 p.m., it went on record opposing the transfer, sparking an exchange with Ken Wissner of Owendale, who asked why the board had taken such a stand.

Trustee Ronald Reinhardt said all the district citizens should have an opportunity to vote on the transfers since they affect the future of the district.

"I think all the people should vote on the future and potential of this district," Reinhardt said. "I want to build for the future and I want to develop the potential of this district."

Trustee Jack Brinkman said he received 650 votes in last year's election and that he would not go against those voters who elected him.

"A majority of the people want to keep this district," Brinkman said, "and I'm not going against their wishes."

On the resolution denying the transfer, Reinhardt, Brinkman, Pat Goslin and board President Ronald Good voted in favor, while trustee Mrs. Mary Downing voted no. Trustees Fred Cooley and Eldon Dietzel abstained.

Two additional mills at the annual election, along with the 8 1/2 mills which expires in June.

Sanford said the current 26 mills for operation will provide the district with less than it needs to operate next year. Presently, 26 mills would provide about $600,000 next year, or around $20,000 less than this year's expenses, he said.

He said even if the property petition to Cass City is not successful, the budget would still be tight and either higher revenues or reduced expenditures would be necessary.

SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATES

There will be two new faces on the Owen-Gage Board of Education after the June election, it was announced Monday night.

Running for the one four-year term available is John G. (Jack) Laurie of 5440 Dodge Rd., Cass City. Laurie has been active in school affairs and has served as chairman of the district study committee the past year.

Running for the two-year term is Joseph Warack of 3805 S. Riskey Rd., Sebawaing.

Warack would fill out the term of George Wilson who resigned last year. Currently Pat Goslin of rural Unionville is filling out the term.

He and incumbent Mrs. Mary Downing of Gagetown are not candidates for reelection.

BUILDING PROGRESS

Little progress was reported in the building program. A survey of the St. Agatha building in Gagetown showed that renovations, including a new heating plant, would amount to $1,065.

Selling price of the facility to the district is still reportedly $88,000.

No action was taken.

Water samples from the Owendale sewage system have been sent to the Department of Natural Resources

Cass City school board moves to enforce no smoking rules

The Cass City Board of Education moved to put teeth into its no smoking in school buildings regulations by authorizing a $75 fine for groups whose members violate the rules, at its regular meeting Monday at the high school.

The new regulation came after about a half hour of discussion when trustees wrestled with the best way to curb smoking by groups using the school facilities.

The fine was set as a way to give meeting sponsors a way to enforce the no smoking rules and if assessed must be paid before the organization can use the facilities again.

The board was prodded into action by petitions with some 500 signatures asking that smoking be prohibited and by letters from the Evergreen and Cass City extension study groups.

Whether or not to grant a leave of absence to Susan Slavin, who taught language in the Intermediate School this year, also stirred a mild hassle.

Supt. Donald Crouse told the board that Ms. Slavin had proven to be an excellent teacher and would certainly be on the top of the list if she applied again for a job when she returns to teaching after earning her master's degree.

However, he feels that it also creates difficulty in hiring a good replacement if the applicant is told that the job would be only for one year.

Election inspectors for the June election were appointed. They are: Ann Rogers, Neva Zinnecker, Florence Carpenter and Marie Doyen with Ruth Spencer and Mary Knight, alternates.

Mrs. Helen Ross announced her early retirement July 1 as school secretary, in a letter of resignation to the board.

SCHOOL INSURANCE

The district's liability, buildings, and workman's compensation insurance was up for bids Monday and five companies competed for the business.

The current carrier, Farm Bureau Insurance, was the low bidder and will furnish a $1,000 deductible policy for three years at a cost of $11,222.32 per year. Boiler insurance is not included as Farm Bureau now covers it under a previous three-year policy.

Heavy property damage reported in area fires

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a 40 by 180-foot pole barn eight miles east of Cass City Monday night, causing over $20,000 damage. The blaze was one of four Elkland firemen fought between Friday and Monday.

According to Fire Chief Jim Jezewski, the blaze broke out shortly after 10:30 p.m. in the barn belonging to Carl Keller of 5879 Patterson Rd., Snover.

Flames quickly spread, destroying 2,000 bales of hay, 1,500 bales of straw and one piece of farm machinery, Jezewski said.

The fire chief said the State Fire Marshall would be called to the scene to investigate. There was no electricity to the pole-type structure and arson is suspected.

Uby, Bad Axe and Lamotte township fire departments assisted in fighting the blaze which burned until past 1:30 a.m.

Damage was set at $15,000 on the structure and $5,400 on the contents. A passing motorist reportedly discovered the blaze and notified a neighbor, George Fisher, who summoned firemen.

A total of seven pieces of equipment and 37 men poured 13,000 gallons of water on the barn.

HOUSE FIRE

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed a two-story house seven miles northeast of Cass City on Jackson Road early Friday morning.

Elkland Township Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said the house was totally engulfed when firemen arrived shortly after the alarm was turned in at 2:05 a.m. By the time firemen made it to the scene, Jezewski said, only one wall was left standing.

The house is reportedly owned by Martin Davis of Detroit. Loss was set at $16,000.

PUMP SHED FIRE

Uby firemen fought a blaze in a pump shed at the Aloise Tubalowski residence on Bay City-Forestville Road, about four miles southeast of Uby Monday night.

Fire Chief Elmer Brahmmer said the blaze broke out about 10:30 p.m. Firemen remained at the scene a half-hour and damage was set at $250.

No cause was determined.

MINOR FIRE

A minor fire which began in the garage did an estimated $50 damage at the residence of Rev. Eldred Kelley early Monday evening.

Jezewski said the blaze began in a paint pan filled with gasoline used to clean paint tools in the garage.

The fire was discovered by a baby sitter who summoned firemen. Kelley was away when the fire broke out.

Fire officials suspect children playing with matches may have started the blaze, although this was undetermined at press time. The blaze was reported at 7:00 p.m.

CAR FIRE

A fire of undetermined origin did extensive damage to a car belonging to F.C. Ballard of rural Pigeon shortly after noon Monday on M-53, a mile south of M-81.

Elkland township firemen said the fire broke out in the engine compartment and spread rapidly. Ballard told firemen he noticed smoke when he looked in his rear view mirror, stopped the car and flagged down a passing motorist who took him to a telephone to summon help.

Ballard, lone passenger in the vehicle, was uninjured. The fire broke out at 12:15 p.m.

Local GOP hears solons Monday

Around 40 persons attended a Monday morning breakfast meeting sponsored by the Tuscola County Republican Committee, held at Cass City High School. County and state elected officials fielded a series of questions from the audience regarding unemployment compensation, malpractice and the future direction of county government.

Responding to a question about a recently-approved hike in state unemployment compensation rates, State Rep. Loren Armbruster (R-Caro), said he reluctantly voted for the increases, although personally he did not favor the bill.

Armbruster characterized the vote as "political", saying it was "one of only two or three political votes I've ever cast". He defended the vote, saying his 84th district covers parts of Genesee county, as well as Millington and Arbeta townships, where much labor-oriented voting strength lies.

The bill increases the rate of compensation paid by a flat $30 and raises the level on which employers must pay to around $5,800, Armbruster said.

He said he attempted to amend the bill to limit persons from collecting who had been fired or quit, but these were defeated by majority Democrats.

"The final vote in the house was 76-30," Armbruster said. "Making it 75-31 wouldn't have changed anything."

Armbruster said if Governor William Milliken vetoes the bill, which appears likely, he would not vote to override such a veto.

State Senator Alvin J. DeGrow (R-Pigeon) told the gathering such votes come in part through what he called Democratic reapportionment. He said it is a top priority of Republicans to elect Lawrence Lindemer to the Michigan State Supreme Court, for it is the court that will pick a reapportionment plan following the next census. Lindemer was recently appointed to the court by Milliken.

More Republicans on the court mean a better chance of having a Republican reapportionment plan approved, DeGrow said.

MALPRACTICE

DeGrow told his fellow Republicans a bill dealing with availability of medical malpractice insurance is now on Gov. Milliken's desk which will guarantee insurance for all doctors.

DeGrow called it an "un-insured doctors fund" bill. If the fund, which is designed to help doctors meet high premiums, runs out, he said, other doctors have to kick in to the fund.

The next priority is to pass legislation regulating insurance rates, DeGrow said.

"If It Fitz . . ." This honky isn't proud

BY JIM FITZGERALD

My daughter was walking alone on the campus of Western Michigan University. Three black girls pushed her off the sidewalk. "Get your white honky ass out of the way," one of the girls said while the other two laughed. What does the great white liberal father tell his daughter? Lena Horne would never act that way? Henry Aaron hit more home runs than Babe Ruth? George Washington-Carver squeezed miracles out of a peanut?

I told her about the white dude who sat across my desk the other day. He came to talk about bowling but there was also the usual small talk about the weather and such things. He casually remarked that he had moved out of Flint "to get away from the niggers."

No matter how often I hear them, remarks like that pain my stomach and make my nerve ends twitch. It isn't that they surprise me. I know the world is full of bigots. But I am angered that these bigots take it for granted I won't be offended by their racial slurs.

It happens often, usually at polite parties where rich people meet to tell each other how poor they are. Someone says it's raining and someone else blames it on bused Negroes in Detroit or mouthy Jews in Miami.

Years ago I would argue back, usually gaining attention by revealing that my mother was Jewish and my father was black and my skin had turned white from the crawling caused by the smirking racists I met at church suppers. I don't do that, anymore. My wife pointed out I wasn't winning any arguments or changing any minds, but I certainly was ruining a lot of parties.

So now I just calmly walk away, or bury my nose in ice cubes, when the bigots start spewing their crud. But I'm boiling inside. Granted, there is room in this world, and in that family room, for more than one opinion. But where does the white bigot get off assuming only black people are stung when some idiot condemns the entire black race because one Negro stole his aunt's purse?

I think racism is the most evil and dangerous thing in the world today. But I won't buy you a beer just so I can tell you your kids should be bused to Africa. Peace. I won't spit in the bigot's beer, so why can't he keep his dirty thumb out of mine? Peace. Your hostess may have just had the carpet cleaned.

Once in awhile, when prompted I'll lay it all out in this column. This way I can make you mad without ruining your birthday. And if you want to answer, you can mail me a bomb which I'll be careful to open where it won't ruin anyone else's good time. (However, I am not soliciting mail. When I want to do that, I attack a really serious problem, such as Mickey Mouse.)

Obviously, this week's sermon was prompted by the 3 black girls who shoved my daughter around. All they did was prove that bullies come in all colors. They didn't prove that all blacks are bullies.

I am angered by the ignorance of those 3 girls. But I can understand it. They are a product of their environment. Their lives have been warped, by generations of racism.

Millions of lives, all colors, have been warped. Bigotry still thrives. I calmly walk away.

And I am not proud of my white honky ass.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Our good neighbors over at Gagetown always do things a little different than most anywhere else. That's why it didn't strike me as unusual when they ran an ad this week asking for volunteer help to clean up vacant lots and other areas of the community.

There's just a wee doubt in my mind as to the effectiveness of a similar plea here for cleaning up other people's property. But we do go gung-ho for community projects which was proved again last spring when the trees along the main-stem sidewalk were planted.

We'll get another chance to prove our mettle when those trees are replanted this spring.

Driving through Frankenmuth this week I took special note of the baskets of artificial flowers hanging along the town's main street.

Since Cass City is planning some too, I wondered just how long they last exposed to the weather before they are replaced. So I took the time to do a bit of intensive, exhaustive research (I made two phone calls) and found that the Chicken City takes the flowers down after one year and paints them. After the second season they are replaced by new. In Frankenmuth the charge is $39.50 for the plants without the baskets that hold them.

There is no doubt that in Frankenmuth the plants add to the festive holiday-like atmosphere that the town is always striving for.

Everything runs in cycles. I can remember when Cass City had the finest track facility in the Thumb thanks largely to the efforts of the Gavel Club.

Today it's only adequate when measured against other area schools. Tops is Marlette. Its track and field events facilities are the best anywhere. Brent Dickson, Cass City's premier miler, says it's finer than the track at Central Michigan University.

Caro and Bad Axe have fine facilities and are not far behind. Poorest in the conference is at Frankenmuth.

You may know Lambert Althaver as the executive vice-president of Walbro Corporation. Or as the president of the village. Some of us know him as the editor of the Rotary bulletin. As a writer I wouldn't be surprised if Lambert has a pun with breakfast.

A current example: "This week's program is about 'BASS-USA' . . . a film that is sure to hook you."

With humor like that some one should stop and reel him in.

30 attend BPW installation

Twenty-four members and six guests attended the monthly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club held May 7. Highlights of the meeting were election and installation of officers for the coming year and the selection of three senior high school girls to be given $150.00 scholarships.

The president, Mrs. Martha Putnam, opened the meeting with prayer. Annual reports were given.

Mrs. Putnam will again serve as president next year and the following officers were installed by past district director, Mrs. Verna Mae MacRae. Vice-presidents, Mrs. Clara Gaffney and Mrs. Mabel Wright; recording secretary, Miss Helen Gettel; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Elaine Jezewski and treasurer, Mrs. Helen Bartle.

The six senior girls, introduced by Mrs. Loraine O'Dell, spoke briefly and from that number, three girls were selected to be the recipients of the scholarships, Cheryl O'Harris who begins a course in medicine at Olivet College; Sheryl Guc, who will study nursing at Port Huron, and Jill Field, who also will study nursing at Mott Community College in Flint.

The June meeting will be a "Fun Night" to be held at the home of Mrs. Helen Bartle.

FROM THE
Editor's Corner

Stop right here if you expect to find any answers, definite answers, to the current medical muddle that touches you, me, and all of us.

Really, I don't know if there are any answers. And it's not just this country that is trying to grope its way through to something better than we now have.

My elder daughter, fresh from Germany, says that she thinks that the system there is better. Free health care is available for all. But there is private care as well for patients that want to pay.

The free care is good, she says, but arranging for non-emergency service sometimes requires a long wait. When the doctor is paid in his "private" practice that's eliminated.

So, in effect, the rich get better care than the poor . . . and what else is new?

In England health care is free, but doctors are rebelling and the hospitals and all medical facilities are crowded.

The problems are more familiar here. The cost of care is soaring almost beyond the ability of many individuals, self-employed persons and small businesses to handle.

Doctors are striking because of malpractice insurance costs and doctors in residency are striking for shorter hours.

Maybe part of it stems from the way things are today in the medical profession.

Doctors today don't want long hours. Don't want night work. Demand BIG money.

The doctor-patient relationship that used to be is gone. Gone when the patient enters the office and before anything else is done hears the receptionist go into a 20 questions routine with the accent on how the bill is to be paid.

The ordinary Joe struggling to make both ends meet has to feel a little resentment about it all. Maybe that's why the malpractice judgements have skyrocketed beyond all reason.

But, as I pointed out to my daughter, the big money and short hours have attracted competent physicians to our shores. Hundreds of them. I know of one from Germany in Saginaw and there are three here in Cass City from other shores.

There is a bright spot for Thumb area folks. It's one man's opinion that the scarcity of doctors that has been the normal state of affairs for 20 years is on the wane.

It's going because the metropolitan areas are fast losing allure. The problems of the metro city are spreading tentacles into the suburbs.

Families looking for a better place to live are coming to the realization that the Cass City of the nation are where it's at.

Regardless of where we live there will be doctors, there will be health care. Health care for all. The only question is of what quality?

One real solution is to increase the supply of doctors by providing more places for educating and training them. I'm not sure that the medical profession wants this. It has a good thing going and will resist any change.

As I said when all this started, you won't find any answers here . . . just problems.

I do have a conclusion, though. That when the medical picture changes tomorrow, it won't be any more equitable than it is today.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Dear Ann Landers

By Jim Ketchum

Ann Landers, you cannot be for real. I mean, what other columnist would waste time in their allotted space to talk about men who leave toilet seats up or down in the family bathroom?

It's been charged that you and your slightly unhinged staff sit around the office and make up many of those choice letters you print in your nationally syndicated column. While I admit that I sit around and make up my columns from my sometimes hazy imagination, you, sweetie, are somehow obligated to print real letters from real readers.

That is the purpose of your column, isn't it? Someone elected you keeper of society's morals and you've been doing it quite lucratively for nigh on to 20 years.

Anyhow, Ann, over the years, you've gotten pretty graphic with some of those choice letters you've printed. You've taken to talking about things not generally spoken of in mixed company. The bedroom has become as open as a new car showroom in September, thanks to you.

Now you've chosen to invade the bathroom. Earlier this year, one of your readers protested the fact that her husband never put the toilet seat down after he'd finished. This made her boil inside to the point that she was considering divorce.

Now really, Annie. Is this for real? Are you telling me there are people that inane still walking around under their own power?

We went through something that bore only a remote similarity to this situation. After we were first married, my wife chastised me on one or two occasions for not replacing the toilet seat in a "down" position. So to solve the problem, I began constructing a detached addition to the house.

At first, she thought it was a storage barn, but when she saw the crescent moon I cut into the door and the "men" sign I tacked just below it, she decided enough was enough and vowed not to criticize me any more.

She also said she'd burn down the addition if I didn't take it away immediately.

I thought the idea was a good one. In my own private place, there wouldn't be any need to worry about replacing the seat since it customarily didn't move anyway. I had planned to have piped-in stereo, cable TV and a stack of National Geographics close by (we don't get the Sears Catalog).

I'd even chosen the carpeting and decor I wanted. I'd even planned on Dutch doors, so that the top could be opened on nice days.

But the love of my life said if I'd please remove the contraption, she wouldn't complain any more. Just think of the novelty, though, Annie. I'd have had my picture taken by the wire services. My face would have been on the front page of the New York Times. Even Fritz Neitzel might have taken my picture.

But, alas, Ann, it was not to be. Now, the plans are only a memory.

Still, I won to a degree. I haven't heard a word about leaving the toilet seat up to this day. I've reformed a little, I must admit, and do put it down on occasions, when I'm feeling benevolent.

You see, Ann. There's always a solution to any problem if you look long enough. So please don't waste your readers' time by writing about putting down the toilet seat in your column any more.

I know I certainly wouldn't.

Community college idea gets Cass City board okay

The Cass City School Board agreed to the first tentative step towards promotion of a community college district for the three-county Thumb area Monday night at its regular meeting.

The board appointed Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn to present the case for the college at the Intermediate School Board annual meeting in June.

The case in a nut shell is that there seems to be support in the State legislature for throwing every school district in the State into a community college district.

One plan, for instance, would throw Owendale-Gagetown into the St. Clair district (Port Huron) and Cass City into Delta (Freeland) and force the districts to assume this tax load.

While none of the bills of this nature have been reported out of committee yet, Crouse fears that one might at any time.

He feels that local taxpayers do not get enough use from the colleges located so far away to make the expenditure worthwhile.

The superintendent is not looking for millage for construction... at least not now. He feels that any millage proposal faces a rocky future in today's economic climate.

The thought is that a district could be formed, perhaps without any tax levy at all, to keep the three counties out of already existing districts.

However, Crouse said, he is not sure just what the law is when districts are established. As the campaign progresses these questions will be investigated.

Meanwhile, Crouse told the board that he would meet with other superintendents to try and get support from the various school districts.

CAREER EDUCATION

Pushed hard on the State level is career education. Wayne Dillon appeared before the board with a policy statement concerning it as required by the State. It was quickly adopted as it conformed with programs already underway at school.

Crouse told the board that there has been no communication from the village regarding the updating of the athletic field and a long-term lease that the school needs to modernize the football field and its lighting system.

FIRE OF undetermined origin did about $1,700 damage to this station wagon owned by F.C. Ballard of Pigeon around noon Monday. Ballard was headed south on M-53, a mile south of M-81 when the engine burst into flames. He was not injured.

Brownies present minstrel show

Girls participating included Renae Stimpfel, Julie Smithson, Barb Root, Kimberlee Bader, Laurie Cook, Debbie Hurford, Angela Nieboer, Rhonda Fader, Andrea Nieboer, Joan Hutchinson, Jeanne Marshall and Dana Zdrojewski.

Refreshments were served. Deal in futures—to get ahead one must look forward, always.

LOCAL NATIONAL Farmer's Organization member Earnest Cook looks over a supply of ground beef being sold Tuesday at the west Cass City village limits. The NFO began sales as a protest against high consumer prices and inflated profits for middlemen, Cook, a Cass City area farmer, said. He said sales will continue at varied points throughout the Thumb, part of a nationwide NFO protest.

of hiring a county administrator to handle the day-to-day functions of county government. Responding to a question by GOP County Chairman Paul Ransford, McConkey said it wouldn't be wise to invest $20,000 into a county executive if the office became a political one in which he could not work freely. More study will be needed before the cost can be justified, he said. Ransford announced that the county GOP will open a full-time office later this year and that other breakfast meetings throughout the county are also planned. While the turnout Monday was less than expected, party officials seemed pleased with the results.

BETTER HEALTH

Stay fit and live

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

It used to be that when you wanted to wish a friend well you would say, "Take it easy." What better advice could there be to insure well being and a long life? Well, a growing body of experience and some very recent studies suggest that taking it easy may be among the major provocative factors in our national "epidemic" of heart attacks and sudden death due to coronary artery disease.

Those who hold this view insist that "fit and active" people avoid the disasters of coronary artery disease, whereas those who live the leisurely life are the ones struck down.

This is a hard view to reconcile with one which holds that heart attacks are brought on by such risk factors as high cholesterol blood-levels due to faulty diets, overweight from over-eating, high blood pressure and too many cigarettes.

According to Dr. George V. Mann of Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee, the "sneaker and support crowd" are the ones who are on to the true preventive of the catastrophes of coronary heart disease. Vigorous exercise, he asserts, is the most effective means of maintaining good health, and thus avoiding heart attacks.

Now, from the California State Department of Health and the University of California School of Public Health in Berkeley comes evidence that, at least among some 6,000 longshoremen studied over a period of 22 years, repeated bursts of strenuous hard work have a protective effect against death from coronary heart disease not seen in their fellow workers doing light or sedentary work.

The results of this study show that the coronary death rate for high-activity cargo-handling stevedores was about half that of their low-output fellow workers.

The apparent "protective" effect of steadily repeated bursts of hard labor was further pointed up in the incidence of sudden death from coronary artery disease. Among the high-output stevedores, the incidence of sudden death was 5.6 per 10,000 work years, whereas among the moderate and light workers it was 19.9 and 15.7 respectively, a three to nearly four-fold difference.

Whether this protection against cardiac mortality and sudden death is the result of general "conditioning" of the heart and blood vessels, reduction in the blood-clotting tendency, an increase in the number of channels supplying blood to the heart muscle, or an exercise-induced reduction of the risk factors is not known.

But the impact of the message is very similar to what wise doctors said 75 years ago - that the tragedies of coronary heart disease were common among the affluent and sedentary, but far less frequent among hard-working day laborers.

All this cannot be interpreted as carte-blanche medical advice to ignore the risk factors and take a job as a longshoreman in order to avoid fatal heart attacks. But it does suggest that the lack of steady, vigorous exercise may be more of a health hazard than many of us have realized.

Down-to-earth, easily understandable information on the heart is in the booklet, "Heart Trouble." For your copy, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. William J. Welch, Box 4994, Dept. CCC, Des Moines, Iowa 50306.

The purpose of the plan is to provide opportunities for the economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed to become economically self-sufficient and independent of public assistance.

The groups of people to be served are:

Persons who are unemployed or are receiving public assistance payments or who can only find part-time jobs and are not economically self-sufficient and are:

- Heads of Households, 18 years of age and over
- Female Heads of Households
- Special Veterans
- Older Workers
- Handicapped
- Minorities
- Disadvantaged Youth

To accomplish this the Thumb Area Manpower Planning Council has recommended that the following be provided:

- $191,900 for skill training, in language and continuing education and the necessary support there for 30 persons 18 years of age and over.
- $46,100 for On-the-Job Training to reimburse the employer's training costs for 18 persons.
- $180,300 for adult work experience to pay the wages of participants while they are learning to work on a new job. Up to 50 persons.
- $109,500 for disadvantaged youth 14 through 21 in work situations with the purpose of helping them remain in school or return to school.
- $35,700 for tuition payments for skill training.

Your neighbor says

No to separate vacations

Should husbands and wives take separate vacations? Yearly, thousands of husbands and wives bid bon voyage to each other and hike off to their own individual hideaways—by themselves.

Mrs. Marcia Schember of Cass City doesn't think separate vacations are a good thing.

"I think vacations should be more of a family affair," Mrs. Schember says. "I think you should try to create a family atmosphere when you go on vacation."

Mrs. Schember says she's never taken a separate vacation since she's been married, although she and her husband have gone away by themselves without their children.

But husbands and wives taking separate vacations doesn't appeal to her.

Mrs. Schember has lived in Cass City the past 20 years. Her husband, Lyle, works as a logger. The couple have four children.

Home Start program set in Huron county

Home Start is a new three-year demonstration program of Head Start presently serving families in the Pigeon, Bay Port, Sebawaing and Owendale areas.

It is designed to bring comprehensive child development to children and their families in their home. This includes nutrition, health education and social services. This program was developed in the Thumb area because of lack of transportation to a head start center.

Home Start concentrates the role of the parents in the growth and development of their children.

Visits are made to the home on a weekly basis with materials to help reinforce parents' roles and individual needs.

The children meet for educational and group socialization bi-monthly, along with their parents. Parents attend meetings, plan field trips, fund raising activities to financially support the field trips, and educational work shops.

They have had puppet work shop, safety prevention in the home lesson, decoupage, child growth and development topics, information on nutrition and many other interesting discussions.

Home Start has the same government guidelines as Head Start; income, handicap conditions and referrals. Persons interested in the program (designed for children from age three to five years) should contact Lucille Posade, at 375-2725 Elkton, or the Human Development Commission, 164 N. State St., Caro 48723.

plain as the nose on your face

That's the way Grandma described things that were absolutely clear.

Religion was one of these!

Of course, she knew that theologians debate certain subjects. She sometimes lamented the fact there were so many denominations—which in her day weren't cooperating as they are now. And Granny was fully aware that a few individuals claim to be atheists or agnostics.

But the idea that God created us... loves us... seeks us... saves us. To Granny that was plain as the nose on your face.

As Granny often added: Even a child knows that! Every Sunday millions of them are proving her right.

Becky Loomis helps others in music therapy

Learning to play musical chairs in college?

It's not strange at all, says Becky Loomis, if it happens to be your major.

Ms. Loomis, a 1972 graduate of Cass City High School, is a junior studying music therapy at Michigan State. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Loomis of 4892 N. Cedar Run Road.

Music therapy involves working with mentally or physically handicapped persons, Ms. Loomis said. A therapist tries to give these persons a feeling of self-worth by teaching them to accomplish simple tasks such as playing musical instruments or playing games such as musical chairs.

Other games teach the patient to differentiate between styles of music by walking in time with the music being played, or body coordination in games involving body sculpture, Ms. Loomis said.

Body sculpture is creating something using your body. You could, for instance, make the letter "O" by circling your arms.

Music therapists generally work with mentally retarded or emotionally disturbed children, geriatric patients, and are beginning to teach autistic children — those who can't interact socially.

"Having a background in music, it isn't very hard to see why I chose this field," Ms. Loomis said. "I've always wanted to go into music but still work with people."

"My piano instructor, Mrs. Willard Dobbs, suggested I check into the music therapy program at MSU and here I am," she said.

"The first two years of study involve taking basics in the department. Besides the general courses, I've learned to play the clarinet, violin, oboe, guitar, saxophone, and percussion instruments," Ms. Loomis said.

The hardest part is keeping the fingerings straight for the wind instruments, she said laughingly. Plus there's a different embouchure used with each instrument.

Ms. Loomis said that she feels her most interesting class so far was a course in conducting.

"We had a chance to conduct our own band and pick the music to be played," she said. "It's really up to you to keep things going and to solve the problems that come up."

"Unfortunately, the first time I was to conduct, being video-taped, there was a power failure after the first few bars — nobody could see their parts!"

After graduating from MSU, Ms. Loomis would like to work in a hospital or institution with emotionally handicapped children or adolescents, with her main interest in the autistic child.

"I actually have a double major, music therapy and musical education," the 21-year-old co-ed said. "If I don't feel right as a therapist, I would like to direct a high school band."

Ms. Loomis was awarded the Harold Ferguson Award for being the most outstanding senior member of the band in high school. She played first trumpet for the Red Hawks and also played the piano, on which she won a First rating at the State Solo-Ensemble her senior year.

BECKY LOOMIS helps teach the handicapped how to play musical instruments as part of her coursework at Michigan State University.

Deputy, security officer draw suspensions in prisoner escape

A Tuscola County Sheriff's deputy and a security officer each drew suspensions following the escape of a prisoner at Caro Community Hospital shortly before midnight Saturday.

Sheriff Hugh Marr said Tuesday that Deputy Richard Hoffmeister drew a four-day suspension and security officer Wayne Newton received a two-day suspension for "not following security procedures" in the incident.

The prisoner, Donald J. Crickon, 23, of East Detroit, complained of abdominal pains and had a temperature, and was taken to the hospital for an examination.

He was being returned after the examination showed nothing seriously wrong with him when he broke away from Hoffmeister and Newton as they were placing him back in their car to return to jail.

Crickon was pursued into the 900 block of West Burnside Street, where officers lost sight of him. A tracking dog from the Michigan State Police was brought in from Bay City, but the trail was lost on M-24 south of Caro.

Officers reportedly checked the Club 24 Bar where a subject matching Crickon's description had been seen with a woman. Both had left before officers arrived at the scene.

Crickon had been held in lieu of $10,000 bond since last December awaiting trial for the alleged breaking and entering of Old Wood Drug in Cass City.

Commenting on the suspensions, Marr said he regretted taking the action, but that it was necessary.

Officers theorized Crickon might be in the Detroit area. No new leads were reported by the Sheriff's department Tuesday.

BREAKING AND ENTERING

Cass City Police thwarted thieves after they had broken into Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds Sunday night. Officers reportedly heard a burglar alarm sounding while on routine patrol and spotted a suspect fleeing over a back fence 100 feet away.

A second suspect also reportedly fled the scene in a car. Officers found an open window on the west side of the building the culprits used to make their entry.

Nothing was taken, police said. No suspects have been apprehended.

DRUG OVERDOSE

A 15-year-old girl was treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital Friday night for a reported drug overdose, police said. Names of the victim and her parents were not released.

Police said the youth called her parents from a telephone booth behind Old Wood Drug to report the overdose. They located her and transported her to the hospital for treatment.

The variety of drug involved is not known.

OTHER INCIDENTS

Welburn Smith of Troy reported finding a snowmobile in about five feet of water Saturday in a private pond located northeast of Cass City.

Smith told Sheriff's deputies he was looking for a spot to fish when he discovered the machine in a pond at the end of a private drive that travels southeast from the intersection of Milligan and Buehly Roads a half-mile.

Police identified the owner of the machine as Michael Sherman of 3888 Lamton Rd., Cass City. The snowmobile had not been reported stolen. The engine and one ski had been removed before being dumped in the pond, police said.

Value was set at $150. Leonard Wonch of Clothier Road, Kingston, reported malicious destruction of a fence on neighboring property belonging to Frank Hranec of Warren Friday.

Vandals broke three metal fence posts and damaged a metal gate. The incident took place sometime between Thursday night and Friday morning.

State Police who investigated have no suspects. Patricia Kay Sowden of 3225 Gifford Rd., Deford, reported a window in the front door of her home had been broken sometime Sunday. Damage was set at $10 and police have no suspects.

State at disadvantage in drawing manufacturers

Manufacturers looking for a place to set up shop have a lot to consider before deciding to settle in Michigan.

George Van Peurse, president of the Michigan Manufacturers Association, points to several factors that put the state at a disadvantage when it comes to luring new industry—or even keeping what's here now.

Those factors, according to Van Peurse, include: —the cost of Michigan's unemployment compensation, highest in all the country on a per-employee basis as of 1973.

—the cost of workmen's compensation, highest in the country.

—direct taxes on business, higher than most other states.

—high wages.

Put all those together," Van Peurse says, "and you see that Michigan is a very expensive state in which to do business as an industrialist." He notes also that businesses consider not only what the situation is today, but what is threatened—higher workmen's compensation? Higher unemployment compensation?—for tomorrow.

The study projected that by 1977, the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb county area would lose more than one-third of its non-Big Three manufacturing labor force due to plant closings, moves out of the area and liquidations.

A late 1974 follow-up on that study showed losses of one-half the rate predicted—still a net loss of some 12,000 jobs. (The follow-up report said 131 manufacturing firms had left the tri-county area, taking some 20,000 jobs. There was a gain of some 8,000 jobs during that same time period.)

Another example is Lansing, where two firms have left the city in the recent past, and two others have problems.

Van Peurse notes another recent survey conducted by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which showed that for every 100 new industrial jobs in an area, there are also created some 68 non-industrial jobs.

There must, therefore, be some losses other than the industrial jobs when a business leaves an area, he suggests.

BROADEN COVERAGE

Results of a formal study, conducted for New Detroit, Inc. in 1971-72 by Lewis Mandell of the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center, point up the problem.

Alcoholics and drug users need health care—but many don't get it because they can't afford to pay the costs. With that in mind, Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Kalama-

WHAT DID HE SAY?

The question some folks ask: Fly on their backs? No, sir, not ducks and geese. They "whiffle."

That's the answer from G.F. Martz, a Department of Natural Resources wetlands specialist, who's actually been asked that one.

"There is a time when the Canada goose appears to fly on its back," Martz responded. "This happens when the bird attempts to lose altitude quickly. The process by which the bird 'dumps air' or 'side slips' is called 'whiffing,'" he said.

Many species of ducks, Canada geese and snow geese do look like they are flying on their backs at this point—but Martz says no waterfowl can fly upside down.

Commissioners say no to District Court wage offer

Labor relations with Tuscola County District Court employees got off to a sour start Tuesday as the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners turned thumbs down on a proposal that would have raised court employees' salaries by $550 this year and $500 next year. The rejection came on a proposal by union negotiator Mitchell Gradowski that would have granted the raises and upgraded the status of a clerk typist.

with board negotiator Charles Minner to discuss the next move is scheduled later this week.

Any new contract would affect three District Court employees.

REVENUE SHARING

According to Commissioner Maynard McConkey, the personnel committee which he chairs, urged the full board to reject the offer. McConkey said the proposal ranged about $50 per employee higher than the final figure granted other courthouse employees in their contract.

McConkey said there has been no real movement by the union so far to get a contract settled, although he added he doesn't see as much of a struggle getting a settlement with District Court employees as existed with either courthouse or Fraternal Order of Police members of the Sheriff's department.

McConkey said a meeting

The board discussed the possibility that future revenue sharing grants to townships in Tuscola county might have to be cut substantially due to expenses involved in purchasing the Intermediate School District building earlier this year.

McConkey suggested that all township supervisors be contacted and advised of the situation. No cuts have officially been announced, he added, but the possibility does exist.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board balked at a request to send Circuit Judge Martin Clements to a seminar on the judiciary at a cost of $1,200. McConkey said since the state pays his salary, why should the board be asked to educate him?

He said the county will attempt to find out if it is required to finance Clements' seminar time.

The board also approved spending $12,230 for black-topping a parking lot adjacent to the recently-purchased Intermediate School District building. The lot will accommodate 48 cars.

The board approved a $12,000 annual salary for Paul Lefler, County Department of Public Works administrator and supervisor of the soil erosion and sedimentation act for the county.

Commissioners appointed Paul Nagy to serve on the Commission on aging and approved a $2,000 appropriation for the commission.

Four used police cars were also sold. Two 1973 models sold for $210, one sold for $350 and a 1970 model sold for $200.

Snover youth dies in Saturday tractor mishap

A 12-year-old Snover youth became Sanilac county's second traffic fatality of 1975 Saturday when he was pinned underneath a tractor he was driving after the left rear wheel came off on Downington Road six miles east of Snover.

Police identified the victim as James J. Minard, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Minard of Mushroom Road, Snover. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Deckerville Community Hospital.

Sandusky State Police who investigated said the youth was killed when the left rear wheel came off the tractor. Officers found him pinned beneath the machine. They suspect he either jumped or fell from the tractor.

The machine crossed the road and traveled down an embankment. Police noted it did not roll over. The mishap took place at 7:05 p.m.

The youth was born Oct. 4, 1962, in Marlette. He was a seventh grader at Sandusky Intermediate School and was a member of Snover United Methodist church.

He is survived by his parents; two brothers, Jeffrey and Michael Minard, both of Snover, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mahaffy of Marlette and Mr. and Mrs. Colin Minard of Snover.

Funeral services were scheduled Wednesday at Snover United Methodist church with Rev. Dale Ferris, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Mooretown cemetery, Marsh Funeral Home, Marlette, handled arrangements.

TWO INJURED

Two persons were injured early Sunday evening after the motorcycle they were riding went out of control and landed on its side on River Road, a half-mile west of Cemetery Road.

Cass City Police identified the injured as Henry Edward Ciesielski, 23, of 6068 River Rd., driver of the motorcycle, and Janice Marie Wilson, 22, of the same address.

Police said the motorcycle was headed west when a car passed it causing it to tip over.

Both riders were taken to Hills and Dales Hospital with their injuries. The mishap took place at 8:35 p.m.

FRIDAY MISHAP

Bad Axe State Police investigated a collision of two trucks on M-53 near Bay City-Forestville Road Friday afternoon that saw both drivers escape with minor injuries.

Police said trucks driven by Kenneth B. Hutchison, 19, of Grand Blanc and Theodore J. Bailey Jr., 31, of Saginaw, were headed south on M-53, just north of Bay City-Forestville Road. Troopers said Hutchison started to pass Bailey's truck, just as Bailey began turning left into the parking lot of a restaurant at the northeast corner of the intersection.

As the vehicles collided, Hutchison's truck rolled over twice, landing on its side.

Police said Bailey had no brake lights or turn signal operating, and was ticketed for making an improper left turn.

Both drivers sought their own treatment. The accident occurred at 12:55 p.m.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Police reported several other property damage accidents.

Saturday, cars driven by Jane Marie White, 19, of 5873 Cemetery Rd., and Mary Frances Ouimette, 26, of 6552 Main St., collided at the intersection of Main and Seeger Streets.

Cass City Police reported the accident occurred as the White vehicle attempted to turn at the intersection, striking the Ouimette vehicle.

Ms. White was cited for failing to yield the right of way. Neither driver was injured in the 5:30 p.m. accident.

Also Saturday, two drivers were slightly injured when their cars collided at the intersection of Church and West Streets.

Cass City Police identified the drivers as Denise Marie Keller, 16, of 5897 Patterson Rd., Snover, and David Wynn McNaughton, 27, of 5822 Cass City Rd., Cass City.

Officers said the accident took place as the Keller vehicle was attempting a left turn onto West from Church Street and struck the McNaughton vehicle, eastbound on Church.

Police ticketed Ms. Keller for failure to yield the right of way. Both drivers sought their own treatment. The mishap took place at 11:55 a.m.

Sunday, a car driven by Debra Lisa Hendrick, 16, of 6431 Houghton St., collided with a parked car belonging to Karen Moylan of 6740 Garfield St. on Main Street near Maple.

Police said Ms. Hendrick was backing from a parking place and struck the parked Moylan vehicle. Neither driver was injured and no ticket was issued.

The accident took place at 7:30 p.m.

Cars driven by Barbara Louise Spaid, 27, of 4118 Seeger St., and William Joseph Rabideau, 18, of East Hobart Road, Gagetown, collided Friday at 2:45 p.m. at the intersection of Seeger Street and the south alley.

Police said the Spaid vehicle was headed north on Seeger when the Rabideau vehicle came from the alley westbound and struck the side of her car.

Neither driver was injured and no ticket was issued.

A GRAND BLANC man received minor injuries when his van rolled over twice in a two-vehicle mishap near the intersection of M-53 and Bay City-Forestville Road Friday afternoon.

Chicken bill lays egg Tuesday

Send the bill to the State Police. That was the answer the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners gave Tuesday to Genesee county authorities who billed the county $569.25 for care and feeding of those 33 fighting cocks confiscated by the State Police for evidence in a raid made near Millington Feb. 10.

The board said Tuesday it refused to pay.

Commissioner Kenneth Kennedy, chairman of the claims and accounts committee, explained in a letter to Donald R. Sorenson, Genesee County Animal Control Director, "Tuscola county's reasoning.

"Indeed the board feels that you should bill the Michigan State Police for the housing of these roosters," Kennedy said. "That it is the police obligation to protect and conserve necessary evidence for court cases notwithstanding the feeding of the chickens, whenever that should become necessary."

Kennedy said the Tuscola board disclaims any liability whatsoever in the fighting cock case.

The chickens are now housed at Michigan State University.

Looks as though Genesee county's plan to collect from the Tuscola board laid an egg.

Tornadoes: How to cope with instant chaos

Of all the winds that sweep across the earth, tornadoes are the most violent. Their life span is short and their destructive paths are small. But in their wake remains a path of nearly complete destruction.

Michigan's tornado season has already left its destructive calling card in the little northern community of Frederic, where much of the town was demolished by a twister that struck April 18.

Just one year ago, a tornado skirted north of Cass City, downing trees, utility lines and blowing down a barn, along with inflicting heavy property damage to several homes.

Just two weeks ago, a vicious tornado laid waste to a large section of Omaha, Neb., leaving in its wake shattered homes, businesses and lives.

This week, the Elkland Township Fire Department issued a reminder to Cass Citizens regarding tornado warning signals and what to do.

"When a tornado is sighted," Chief Jim Jezewski explained, "you'll hear a two-minute, steady blast of the fire whistle. This means a tornado is in the immediate area and to take cover immediately."

"The all-clear is three short blasts of the siren, which will be sounded after the danger is passed," he said.

He said this procedure is used among all Tuscola county fire departments.

The siren blasts are for a "warning" only, as opposed to a "watch". A watch means the possibility for tornadoes exists. A warning means one has been sighted and to take cover.

Jezewski said when a watch is issued, firemen assemble at the hall and begin telephoning all plants, schools, the hospital and Provincial House to advise officials of the conditions.

The department also calls the Kingdon Fire Department, which in turn advises its schools and plants and sends the message on to still another department.

While a tornado has not touched down in Cass City in recent memory, watches and warnings are not taken lightly by the department, Jezewski said.

According to a series of pamphlets published by the National Weather Service, tornadoes do their destructive work through a combined action of their rotary winds and the partial vacuum in the center of the vortex. As a tornado passes over a building, the winds twist and rip at the outside-at-the-same-time that the abrupt pressure reduction in the tornado's eye causes explosive over-pressures inside the building.

Walls collapse or topple outward, windows explode and the debris of this destruction is driven through the air in a dangerous barrage.

According to the weather service, tornadoes occur in all 50 states and in many parts of the world. But no area is more favorable to their formation than the North American plains. While no season is free of tornadoes, the months of greatest total frequency are April, May and June.

Statistics compiled by the service show that an average of 642 tornadoes per year occurred in the United States between 1953 and 1969, with about half of them in April, May and June.

WHAT TO DO

You've heard the warning whistle and the sky is getting ominously black. What do you do?

If you're at home, the weather service says, head for the basement. A basement usually offers the greatest safety. Seek shelter under a sturdy workbench or heavy table if possible.

Whether you go to the southwest or northeast corner doesn't really matter as much as getting somewhere in the basement that affords protection.

If your home doesn't have a basement, take cover under heavy furniture in the center part of the house. Open some windows but stay away from them, the weather service says.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to tornadoes, the weather service says. Trailer parks should have a community shelter, officials warn.

In an office building, stand in an interior hallway on a lower floor, preferably the basement.

In a factory, head for that section of the plant affording the greatest protection in accordance with advance plans.

In schools, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. Avoid auditoriums, gymnasiums or structures with free-span roofs.

In open country, move away from the tornado's path at right angles. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

Free pamphlets detailing protection from tornadoes are available at the Tuscola County Civil Defense Office, located in the basement of the County Jail, in Caro.

CRC to host recognition night

The Caro Regional Center and the Tuscola County Department of Social Services are co-hosting a volunteer recognition night Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The program will be held at Murray Hall on the grounds of the Regional Center and will feature over 250 volunteers.

Certificates and special awards will be presented by Don Stamats, Caro High School Athletic Director, according to Ms. R. Dee Woell, Community Relations Director, at the Caro Regional Center. Honored will be volunteers from Caro Regional Center programs, including High School co-op students, Caro Area Services for the Handicapped, Tuscola County Department of Social Services and the Van Winkle home.

Guest speaker for the evening is Arlene Williams, Region 10 Director for the Michigan Special Olympics. Ms. Williams will also show a film titled "The Heart of Winning".

Following the program there will be a light luncheon and coffee hour.

THE EMPEROR wears no clothes--well almost no clothes. Cass City High School students, under the direction of instructor Miss Linda Isbister, performed this and two other fairy tales for elementary students at Campbell, Deford and Evergreen schools. Here, Ken Kerbyson and Jane Peterson perform for Campbell students Friday.

HOT DOGS, anyone? No, it's just a minor fire in a paint roller pan at the Rev. Eldred Kelley residence at 4454 Ale St., Monday night. About $50 damage was done to the garage in which the fire broke out, fire officials said. Here, fireman Chuck Hughes douses the blaze.

Local Lions attend convention

The 55th annual state convention of the Lions Club met May 9-11 at Grand Rapids, with 2,500 Lions and ladies attending the Saturday night banquet at the Civic Center. International President-elect Harry Aslan of California was guest speaker.

Representing the Cass City Lions Club were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wischmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Witherspoon, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Keegan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tuckey, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tuckey and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bergman Jr.

Chamber to replant trees

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce will take another stab at its ill-fated tree-planting project this year after it was announced that 31 of the original 33 trees planted last summer died.

Chamber President Harry Little announced that replacement trees should arrive soon, during Tuesday-night's monthly Chamber meeting held at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The replacement trees will not cost the Chamber additional funds, Little said, as the original trees were guaranteed.

Concensus of the board was that the original trees died because they weren't planted soon enough and succumbed to a lack of water. Little said the replacement trees should be planted as soon as they arrive.

Several trees were also broken by vandals, it was noted.

Only a few holes are left to be cut in sidewalks, Little said. In other business, Chamber officials revealed they lost about $350 on the annual banquet. The Chamber usually either loses or breaks even on the affair, Dorothy Stahlbaum said. She said a total of 195 tickets was either sold or given away for the banquet.

The board discussed the possibility of holding another ox roast this year, but took no final action. Board members elected Aime Ouvry as Chamber vice-president and Larry Davis as its new treasurer. It also chose Bill Kritzman as Retail Chairman.

The board also voted to spend a total of $65 per basket on its artificial flower project. Original cost had been pegged at $50 per basket. Little said the added cost would insure a fuller basket of flowers. Baskets will be suspended from boulevard lamp posts in the village.

REGULATION AND TRUCKING

Some people feel the regulated transportation system of the United States should not be regulated. They argue, the industry which approves of regulation, must be lining their pockets because of it. And for these reasons, they argue the Interstate Commerce Commission should be abolished.

We have regulation for one prime reason...to insure transportation service and standardized rates for communities located away from major shipping centers such as Detroit. Here, there is no cutthroat competition or biased rates. A shipper in Alpena can send his freight for the same rate as a shipper of similar freight in Detroit.

Shippers and merchants in places like Muskegon, Jackson, Petoskey and Midland can count on regular service and standard rates that do not change daily...or hourly because of ICC regulation.

The way we see it, without regulation, Michigan communities would have little to depend upon, except extremely poor service and a very unfair rate system.

A regulated transportation system is not the best of all possible worlds. But it is far better than no transportation system at all. Or worse, a government-run system.

The 1975 Tuscola County "Corn Plots" have been planted and they are located at four locations this year - The Burns Poultry Farm south of Millington, Barry Hedley Farm east of Unionville, Robert Proctor Farm east of Akron and Arnold Zwerk and Sons Farm north of Vassar.

Individual seed corn companies furnished the best hybrids available for Tuscola county. There are only 12 of the 30 varieties planted which were used in the corn plots last year. Hybrid seed corn varieties are changing rapidly and corn producers must know the highest yielding corns for their area.

Gray sentenced in Circuit Court Monday

A former Cass City man was sentenced to fines and probation Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court before presiding Judge Martin Clements after a jury found him guilty of attempting to burn real estate.

James Donald Gray, now of Uby, was sentenced to a year's probation and fines and costs totaling $200. In addition, he was sentenced to serve seven days in the Tuscola County Jail with credit for one day already served.

Gray was arrested following a fire which destroyed his home at the corner of Pine and West Streets July 26, 1973. Two other sentences were also handed down. Willard Cook, 35, Otter Lake, was sentenced for a plea of guilty to felonious assault to two years' probation, fines and costs totaling $200, with a recommendation that he seek counseling by mental health authorities.

In addition, Cook was also given a suspended 194-day jail sentence.

Cook was arrested in Millington township June 18, 1974.

Michael Guy Paine, 26, Caro, was sentenced for attempted seduction to a year's probation and fines and costs totaling $200, payable at $20 per month.

Paine was also given a suspended 54-day jail sentence and a recommendation that he attend weekly AA meetings.

Paine was arrested Jan. 5, in Wells township.

In other court action, William Leslie Freeland, 18, Mayville, was arraigned on conspiracy with Edmond Rudy to utter and publish a bad check. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for June 9, and bond was continued at $1,000. Freeland was arrested in Mayville Dec. 12.

John Jacob Krug, 23, Cass City, was arraigned on an amended charge of possession of marijuana. He entered a plea of guilty which was accepted by the court. Sentencing was set for June 9, and bond was continued.

Dropping a charge of delivering marijuana was taken under advisement by Judge Clements.

Krug was arrested Nov. 1, in Elkland township.

Mark David McClorey, 19, Cass City, was arraigned on charges of felonious assault. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for June 9, and bond of $500 was continued.

McClorey is accused of assaulting Cass City Police Officer John Rands April 15, in Cass City.

Joe Lee Wilkinson, 19, Marlette, was arraigned for assault with a dangerous weapon. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for June 9, and bond of $15,000 was continued. Wilkinson is accused in the armed hold-up of a Kingston man last July 18.

Alvin K. Vollmar, 18, Akron, entered a plea of guilty to charges of larceny in the Akron Bar Jan. 22. The plea was accepted by Judge Clements and sentencing was set for June 9. A motion to dismiss a count of breaking and entering at the bar was taken under advisement.

Vollmar also entered a plea of guilty to larceny of the Briggs Furniture Store in Akron Jan. 16, at a pre-trial examination. The plea was not accepted by Judge Clements and a one-day jury trial was scheduled.

Terry Lee Sutphin, 27, Fairgrove, entered a plea of guilty to "joy riding" at a pre-trial examination. The plea was accepted by the court and bond was continued at $1,000.

Sentencing was set for June 9.

Vassar M.D. publishes medical history

Dr. E.C. Swanson, Vassar M.D., has researched and recorded data in booklet form pertaining to medical licensure and education in Michigan. This booklet is now on file at libraries in Cass City, Caro, Fairgrove, Mayville, Millington and Vassar.

The Medical Practice Acts of 1883, 1899 and 1974 are listed and reviewed.

Dr. Swanson compiled the material in conjunction with the Bicentennial year as an effort to help area residents learn something about their heritage.

In the booklet, Dr. Swanson notes that prior to 1883, it was not legally required to have a license to practice medicine except to care for the Indians for which a federal license was necessary.

Many individuals set themselves up as medical healers even though they had no formal medical education nor experience, Dr. Swanson says. After 1883, these persons could continue as practitioners if they provided facts to prove they had been in practice for five years and paid a 50 cent fee to the county clerk.

According to Dr. Swanson, at one time Michigan supported 17 medical schools.

What a difference a Bilco Door makes!

Here's the way to add new beauty to your home. Replace that wooden hatchway with a modern, all steel Bilco Door. It's ruggedly built, weather-tight, and so easy for everyone in the family to use! What's more, it will make your basement more secure against intrusion. And it will pay for itself many times over by saving repair and replacement costs.

If your home was built without the convenience of a direct basement entrance, ask us for Bilco's new handbook "How to Add Valuable Living Space to Your Home."

Stop in and see our display. We'll give you free literature on how to do it. Or, we can suggest a man to install it for you.
