Tuesday vote to decide .6 mill Intermediate levy

Voters in the Cass City School District and Tuscola county will decide the fate of a proposed .6 mill levy designed to build a new school for handicapped students when they go to the polls in a special election next Tuesday.

If approved, special education millage in the county would be increased to 1.6 mills. The levy is "openended" and can only be repealed by a vote of the people.

Officials estimate the additional millage will bring in some $190,000 per year. Funds would be earmarked for the construction of a new 10-room school to replace the present Darbee School.

According to Intermediate Supt. William Scott, the plan calls for construction of at least 10 rooms and possibly an all-purpose room at a new site on Cleaver Road near Caro.

Scott explained the present facility includes the fourroom Darbee School and four moveable classrooms. He said the facility, owned by Almer township, is too small to handle the number of

Expansion of the existing school has been ruled out, he to ask the voters for an additional .6 mills instead of going for a bond issue of $600.000 or $700,000.

"By the time we're ready to build," he explained, "we will have gained close to $380,000 through tax collections if this passes. When we do build, we'll be doing it without having to pay interest on bonds. The board felt this was a much more economical special education program.

Intermediate School District officials see the extra millage as paying for the facility within five years. After that, however, increased costs of operation could require the millage to continue.

If the millage doesn't have to be levied, officials said, it

With 1.6 mills, he said,

He emphasized that the school would not be used by trainable persons at the Caro Regional Center, which come under state support.

LITTLE FEEDBACK

Scott said to date, his office has had little feedback from voters regarding the issue either way.

"I certainly hope they understand it, but I'm afraid many of them really don't,' he said. "There is a definite need for it and of course people with handicapped children are certainly pushing for it. But other than that, we've heard very little on it pro or

Retainer cost will be $200 per year, with this year's figure estimated to be around $100 pro-rated. In addition, the board will still pay $400 per year as a retainer for the firm of Thomas and Delaney, who have represented the board in all legal contests to date.

The board agreed to put the law firm of Thrun, Maatsh and Nordberg of Lansing on a vearly retainer of $200 per year on the recommendation of Supt. Ronald Erickson:

Owendale.

Trustee Fred Cooley questioned the need for another law firm and asked Erickson to explain the status of the property transfer battle being fought in Huron County Circuit Court. The board is asking that two parcels of land, one already transferred by the State Board of Education to the Laker District, be kept in the district. Judge Bach has not yet ruled, Erickson said, other than to refuse to pull both properties together as one court action. Cooley said he felt there was a conflict of interest involving Thomas and Delaney, since they wrote up the resolution that eventually brought the case into court. He cast the only no vote on hiring the new law firm.

RESIGNATION

The board accepted the resignation of trustee Eldon Dietzel. In what was considered a surprise move, Dietzel said he was resigning for ''personal reasons''. "It's the toughest decision I've ever had to make,' Dietzel said, "I'll miss the challenge without a 'doubt.'

A successor must be named by the board to fill Dietzel's post until the next school election, when a trustee will be elected to complete Dietzel's term.

"If It Fitz..." Doctor or mechanic?

Last week was confusing. Both my wife and my car were laid up for repairs and I kept getting the mechanic mixed up with the doctor. There were incredible similarities in the 2 cases. At one point I told a worried daughter her mother had a fever because there was something wrong with her thermostat. And my son just nodded when I told him the car air conditioner wasn't working because there was something wrong with its pancreas.

The mechanic told me to bring the car in early Thursday morning and he would get right at it. I could probably pick it up that evening, he said. 5 days later he hadn't touched the car. It just sat at his shop and got dirty. Apparently he liked to have it nearby to wipe greasy

My wife entered the hospital on a Friday "for tests." The doctor thought it might take a couple of days. She was still there a week later. The doctor kept scheduling X-rays and blood tests that never came off on time because somebody forgot to tell somebody. But it was handy having her nearby so they could make sure she didn't eat anything she liked.

At least she didn't get dusty, like the car. But nobody woke the car up at 5 a.m. delivering wilted roses that had "somehow" been in the wrong hospital room for 2 days. Honest, it happened.

I usually couldn't get the mechanic on the phone. I most often talked with his assistant who might have been a recording. He always said the same thing: "I don't know. You'd better call back, Yes, I'll tell him you hate him and that I could hear you sobbing over the phone."

When I did talk to the mechanic, I never understood a thing he said. If I knew what all those queer words meant, I could fix the lousy car myself. The only message that came through clear was that several other poor owners were having the same trouble with the same model car. This was as comforting as being told I should cheer up because I was dying of something contagious.

I only tried to phone the doctor once but it was his day off. It was also his nurse's day off. I told the girl on the switchboard I was dying and she put me on hold.

BY JIM FITZGERALD

It really wasn't necessary for me to talk to the doctor because my wife could tell me what he was saying. This is one advantage in marrying a woman instead of a car. What he was saying was that they should take some more tests tomorrow. Which really meant 2 more days later because the person responsible for arranging tomorrow's -tests was busy trying to find a new place to hide roses.

If I ever do talk to the doctor, I am going to thank him for starting me on a 2nd career. I am going to open a pharmacy and sell the medicine my wife can no longer take because it makes her sick. A pill usually makes her sick a few hours after she's filled his $20 prescription at the drugstore in the doctor's waiting room. So he says don't take anymore of those pills, buy some new ones. I now own 5 million pills which I am willing to sell at a loss. Each pill is accompanied by a sworn testimonial from my wife. She guarantees it will make you sick. I trust the mechanic and the doctor realize all this is really good-natured kidding, ha ha. I am only writing about them so as to have an excuse to say something romantic to my

I want to say publicly that I missed her a lot more than I missed the car. Of course, I own a 2nd car . . .

Editor's Corner

Okay it's question and answer time again. Questions about the local scene and the solutions as seen with the jaundiced eye of the rarin'

QUESTION—Is there a school millage election this

ANSWER-Yes, Virginia, there is. It has been advertised, but not publicized. Tuesday, Aug. 26, the Intermediate School District is asking for .6 of a mill in Tuscola county for training and educating the handicapped.

If you've seen Darby school, you can't help but agree that new facilities are needed. Paradoxically, I'm willing to pay for new buildings, but I'll probably vote against the levy. Why? Because the 6 asked is an open end tax that can be removed only by a specific vote of the electorate. If the Intermediate District were asking for .6 of a mill for a set number of years to pay a specified number of dollars of a bond issue I'd place an X in the yes square at once. QUESTION-Do you have any second thoughts about the proposed modernization of the school's football, baseball, track facilities?

ANSWER-Not second thoughts exactly, but maybe a postscript or two. First, if you have been mildly frustrated about your voice carrying no weight in school affairs you should consider sounding off about this issue.

It's one man's opinion that seldom has there been an issue involving tax dollars where the wishes of the electorate will carry more weight.

That's because the school trustees haven't made up their mind either. They say they have heard very little pro or con about the park or the school for the new site. Maybe, that's because you, like they, have little concrete information on which to base a decision.

Second, there is the gaping hole that will be left at the park if the school moves. The park was planned, an expensive fence built, because it was thought that the school would use the park for years to come.

QUESTION-What do you think about the trees along the main stem now? ANSWER-They are growing. They are growing. They are growing. If all goes well and the excellent beginning carries on to a joyous ending you have to say they are a welcome addition to the business community. In fact they look so good that if it continues, any month now I'll start bugging for the one that was supposed to be planted where my sidewalk occurrence of heat exhaus-

Now that recurrent summer heat waves are upon us, it would be wise for all of us to be alert to these two major hot weather threats.

Heat exhaustion, according to Dr. Thomas F. O'Donnell, Jr. of the Harvard Medical School, is usually less serious than-heatstroke, but the two should be promptly recognized since their treatment

The victim of heat exhaustion may be overwhelmed by weakness, but there is usually only minimal depression in the level of consciousness. His body temperature is at or near the normal level, and unlike victims of heatstroke whose skin is hot and dry, the skin in heat exhaustion is usually sweaty and cool.

Prompt removal of the sufferer from heat exhaustion into a cool environment will reduce sweating. Replacement of body fluids and salt, the loss of which is the essential cause of the collapse, is mandatory.

Because of salt depletion, replacement with water alone may result in heat cramps. Salt tablets should be taken along with water. Naturally salty broths are often helpful and there are commercial preparations of quite palatable oral saline mixtures.

If exhaustion is severe, or there is nausea or vomiting, hospitalization is advisable and fluids, usually in large amounts, must be administered intravenously.

In contrast to heat exhaustion, the victim of heatstroke usually has a very high fever, often greater than 104 degrees. He is mentally con-

Saturday

Vincent J. Osentoski, 52, Cass City, died Saturday at Hills and Dales General Hospital after suffering a heart attack. He was born July 1, 1923, in Austin township, Sanilac county. He worked on road construction the past 30 years and was a foreman for Saginaw Asphalt Paving Co. He and Jennie Zajac were married Jan. 14, 1961, in St.

Pancratius Catholic church. They lived in Saginaw following their marriage until April, 1975, when they moved to Greenleaf township.

He was a member of Teamster's Union Local 486 of Saginaw.

He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Anna and two sons, David and James, all of Cass City; two brothers, Earl of East Detroit and Enoch of Cass City: two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Paternoster of Dearborn Heights and Mrs. Audrey Rutkoski of Port Austin.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at St. John's Catholic church, Ubly, with Rev. Fr. Bruno Kaczmarczyk, pastor of St. Elizabeth Catholic church, Reese, officiating. Burial was in St. John's cemetery. Zinger Funeral Home in Ubly was in charge of arrangements.

thought to be due to a failure of control centers in the brain. Without sweat to evaporate and cool the body, heat storage occurs, and when unchecked is the chief factor leading to heatstroke. The overload of body heat breaks down essential heat-sensitive enzyme systems and can seriously disrupt the function of vital organs.

Heatstroke is always a hospital emergency requiring drastic measures, including ice baths to lower the body temperature and intensive support of the heart, the kidneys and the liver to tide the patient over until the heat stress is resolved.

Fatalities occur more frequently from heatstroke than from heat exhaustion, and mortality is highest in infants and the elderly. Heatstroke is frequently associated with overweight, abuse of alcohol and intense physical exercise under hot, humid conditions. especially on days of low wind velocity.

And, for some, just living in cities during heat waves seems to be cause enough. In one midwestern metropolis, within a period of 10 days during the heat wave of 1966, 286 deaths were directly attributable to heat

Plan now to

In my travels around the county, I saw the same effects of the dry weather as everyone else. The rain that fell can only help to fill out the immature seeds of corn and beans. Those seeds already developed are set and no amount of soil moisture will fill them out further.

I'm not about to estimate yield reductions due to the weather. We'll know when the crop comes in.

When these corn and bean crops are harvested, you should have plans made how you will market. You'll be selling at harvest time, selling some and storing some, and even hedging in the case of corn. Basically, a cash crop operator has three ways to market. These are: cash sales to an elevator, contracting, and hedging.

Generally the more one can use at least two of these market potentials, the more flexibility and choice he has. Whichever marketing combination you select, a good rule of thumb is don't sell or commit more than 30 per cent of what you have on hand or your average yield. I think the best rule of thumb is for you to decide the minimum you need to earn per acre per crop, the minimum you'll sell for and not try for the top selling price.

A week ago I finished checking out procedures for a herbicide product supposedly good for controlling weeds around buildings. This product was supposed to keep the weeds controlled for at least two years and would not spread laterally.

This product was being sold via telephone solicitation, and I was informed of the same by one of our crop producers. I made inquiry to our Weed Control Specialist, Bill Meggitt, and he could find no listing of the product or the company selling it.

A farmer received a shipment of a chemical of a different name from what he understood the phone conversation to give. He copied the label ingredients before he leum oil, about 1 per cent Howard Rexin.

Parent orientation for all mothers and fathers will be held Sept. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the nursery. This is an important meeting, and attendance is required.

School begins for four-yearolds Sept. 15 and for threeyear-olds, Sept. 16. Other than starting later in the fall and closing in mid-May, the nursery follows the public school calendar of vacations. The newly-hired teacher for the four-year-olds is Mrs. Connie Klinkman, formerly of Bay City.

Mrs. Klinkman has an associate degree in elementary education from Delta College and has taught for a year at the Kinder-Kare center in Bay City.

She and her husband, William, are in the process of moving into their new home on Cemetery Rd.

Mrs. Colleen Stafford was hired to teach the three-yearolds. This is her third year in that position.

The Cass City Pre-School is a cooperative nursery in which the mothers take turns assisting a qualified teacher and program director. The nursery, located in the Presbyterian church basement, is licensed by the Department of Social Services and must meet strict requirements.

It was organized by a group of parents, with the help of the Mid-Michigan Council of Cooperative Nurseries, and is going into its fifth year of operation.

According to Tuscola County Clerk Elsie Hicks, that means voter registrations will be handled through the driver's license bureau at the Sheriff's Department in

In other counties, the process can be handled at the nearest Secretary of State's branch office.

The act, signed into law July 1, allows you to take care of voter registration and license renewal in one step. Contrary to earlier belief, the bill won't put local clerks out of a job. If anything, it will increase their work load, since they'll be taking registrations just as they always did along with the new procedure.

Just how well the law will work is still open to speculation. Mrs. Hicks sees problems maintaining accuracy of voting rolls.

'You have a much more accurate-system-when-youhave people registering in person at the township level," Mrs. Hicks said. "There's much more work involved because the information must be forwarded from the Secretary of State's office to our office and then on to the townships. There's a great possibility for a lack of communication in the proc-

She said she's doubtful whether or not many more new voters will be added to the rolls, although she admits a few additional names will probably be picked up through the new system.

"If a person wants to be registered, he's close enough to a township clerk to be registered," Mrs. Hicks said.

PROCEDURE

In theory, the law should help. Information gathered at the branch office, acting as the agent for the Secretary of State, is sent to the appropriate clerk for processing. In some cases, this will go through the county clerk and in others, through local

Pilgrim Virgin statue slated

for Sept. 18

The Original International Pilgrim Virgin Statue of Our Lady of Fatima will arrive at St. Pancratius Catholic church, Cass City, at 7:00 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 18, for midnight Eucharistic Vigil.

The Cass City stop is one of 30 stops scheduled for the statue in a month-long tour of Michigan parishes.

When the statue arrives at Tri-City Airport, Sunday, Aug. 31, a special ceremony is slated. The Very Rev. Fr. Joseph Morales, pastor of St. Pancratius, will act as interpreter for Bishop John Venancio of Fatima, Portugal, who will give a short address in Spanish.

The Pilgrim Virgin Statue is honored as an image of the Mother of Christ who appeared in Fatima, Portugal, in 1917 in a vision like the statue, promising peace to the world if her requests were granted.

The statue is currently visiting parishes in the Diocese of Lansing.

Weatherhead honored for teaching

William H. Weatherhead. son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weatherhead of Gagetown has been chosen as Outstanding Elementary Teacher of America by the Outstanding Elementary Teacher Board of Advisors.

Weatherhead has taught at the Washington School for the mentally handicapped in Flint the past 20 years. He holds a masters degree in social work from Eastern Michigan University and is a graduate of Cass City High

REGISTRATION REVIEW

Clerks will also be able to keep registration files up to date through use of active and inactive files.

According to the .law, "activity" is defined as voting, a request for continued registration, reinstating registration, recording a change of address or receiving an application to register from the Secretary of State.

After four years of no activity, eards will be pulled and placed in an inactive file for another six years. After that, the cards will be removed and destroyed. But even if a voter is placed in an inactive file, this won't necessarily stop him from voting. Voters who show up at the polls on election day and whose cards are in the inactive file will be permitted

There are only three constitutional qualifications for voting. A person must be 18 years old, a citizen of the United States and a resident of a city or township 30 days Prior to election day.

Once a card is removed from the inactive files, the clerk must notify the voter and wait 30 days before actually taking his name off the rolls.

EMERGENCY ABSENTEE VOTING

The new registration law also provides for emergency absentee voting. For example, if a person becomes physically disabled or cannot vote election day due to an illness or death in the family, he can pick up an application for an absentee ballot as late as 4 p.m. election day.

The law allows local clerks flexibility to determine whether or not an emergency qualifies under the law. The final judgement is up to the

Vintage 1955 Oldsmobile lives on, thanks to Stuart Atwell's loving care

By Jim Ketchum

Stuart Atwell figures he owns a classic piece of automotive history. Chances are good that he's right.

Atwell, of 4622 Kennebec Dr., is the proud owner of a 1955 Oldsmobile two-door Holiday Coupe. The car still rides like new and what's more, it looks that way. What makes it all the more valuable is that it's in original condition. Not restored. Orig-

The car's large, clock-style speedometer has racked up a bare 25,591 miles testifying that it's led a pretty easy life.

those miles won't pile up much faster for a long, long

"This model Olds is definitely becoming a classic, I believe," Atwell said, seated behind the large steering wheel. "You don't find many of these left any more."

That's an understatement. Most 1955 Oldsmobiles have long since bitten the dust. Salt on Michigan's roads atc away the vulnerable underbody parts and made quick work of fenders, rocker panels and Atwell's car stops history in its tracks. Nearly every feature of the vehicle, including paint and upholstery, are original. In fact, one of the original tires is still mounted as a spare in the trunk.

The rest of the tires make up only the second set in the car's life. Other than for tune-ups and minor repairs, nothing major than 18 miles a gallon, Atwell said.

CASS CITY CAR

Atwell's Olds has been a Cass City car from the beginning. It was purchased originally from Bulen Chevrolet-Olds by his mother-in-law, Mrs. C.L. Legg, who drove it until around 1970 when she gave it to Atwell's daughter.

She drove the car for a time and then left for school. It went up on blocks for a couple of years until Atwell went to work cleaning it up.

He emphasizes that he did not "restore" the car because there wasn't anything to restore. The original red and white finish still glistens just the way it did when it rolled off the assembly line in Lansing 20 years ago.

Inside, the upholstery and floor mats responded to a shampooing and show no wear. Even the brake and gas pedals look like new.

The trunk is the same story. The original fabric covering on the floor and sides is perfect. A small sticker illustrating the bumper jack operation is yellowed, but still pasted to the underside of the

Under the hood, everything glistens, including the original green paint on the tappet covers that indicated the engine used regular fuel. Red tappet covers signified that the engine burned premium

"I didn't want to damage the original paint underneath the hood and around the engine, so I cleaned it by hand instead of using a steam cleaner." Atwell said. "The steam is apt to pull loose more paint than you'd lose with a de greaser.

Atwell not only de-greased the engine compartment by hand but also the underside. He plans to have a little minor body work done before cold weather sets in and when that's done, the car will be complete:

What will he do with it when it's done?

"I'd like to enter it in next year's vintage Olds show at Lansing." Atwell said.

"I heard about a '55 like this one at this year's show that was a restoration job. It took best of the show and the owner had just bought it for $5,200. When he heard about this one, he wanted to know right away if I'd sell it."

Selling it is the farthest thing from Atwell's mind right now. He figures in another 15 or 20 years, the car should be worth between $8,000 and $10,000.

"You'd be surprised the comments I get on this car." he said smiling, "I had it in the garage not long ago and a woman walked by and said she thought she'd seen a ghost because they'd owned an Olds just like it.

He says kids are taken with the car. "Of course most of them weren't around when this was popular, and they'll look at it and say that maybe it's a Pontiac or a Buick or maybe an Olds," Atwell said.

Some parts are getting hard to find for the Oldsmobile, which sold for about $3,000

A neutral safety switch recently went bad, allowing the starter to engage in any gear. Atwell, unable to find a new one, ended up tearing the old one apart and rebuilding it himself. Today, it operates just like new. The car is not overloaded with options. Outside of an automatic transmission, it has no radio, clock, power steering or power brakes. Yet the ear retains a large measure of elegance through its detailed instrument panel, set in chrome and featuring oil, temperature, battery and fuel gauges.

"Everything on this car is convenient," Atwell said. 'The glove box is set right in the middle of the dashboard. and you don't have to stand on your head to reach it like you do in these new cars.

"It's got ash trays on both sides and it sets you up so you can see down the road."

He said he enjoys driving it as much or more than his new Atwell's car restoration days aren't over yet. He's just purchased a 1947 Olds that's in far worse shape than his 1955 model ever was.

He hopes to begin work on this car soon. It features a straight-eight cylinder engine that still runs. But it will take extensive body work to bring it up to the standards of his present prize possession.

"I enjoy fussing with them," Atwell said, puffing on his ever-present pipe. "It's a lot of fun.

Now about all Atwell needs is a spare neutral safety switch and he'll be all set.

STUART ATWELL of Cass City poses proudly beside his vintage 1955 Oldsmobile Holiday Coupe. The car is in original condition and has logged a scant 25,000 miles in 20 years. Atwell says he plans to show the car at next year's vintage Oldsmobile rally in Lansing.

Tax break ahead for Michiganders?

When you're filling out Michigan income tax forms one of these years, you may be able to deduct child care costs as a business-related That's how Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, sees the situation. "The cost for child care is not only an employment-re-lated expense," he says. "It is, in most cases, the only way that a mother can work, either to supplement the family income or as the sole breadwinner for the family."

There's more. Bullard also proposes allowing property tax, sales tax and use tax exemptions for parent cooperative schools.

Cooperatives are non-profit preschools operated as a community service by parents of children enrolled in the school. Under Bullard's proposal, the schools would have to be directed by qualified pre-school personnel and licensedby the Department of Social Services to qualify for the

"This type of institution... performs a valuable community service, particularly for working mothers," Bullard says. "We should be encouraging cooperative community institutions as

Athletic field survey slated

Letter to the Editor:

The Cass City School Board, hoping to serve the entire community, desires feed-back regarding the controversy concerning the location of the athletic field.

There are many factors to consider in solving the problem to best use our tax

Won't you please ponder the following questions? Wouldn't the high school location be more convenient to the gym, locker rooms and students? Would the high, school location have greater sealing capacity, better lighting and

Aug. 14, 1975

Dear Mr. Haire,

I am a mentally handicapped child. I cannot read or write so my mom is writing for me. I go to the Darbee school in Caro.

The building is very old and drafty and sometimes I get cold there. My mom worries about me in this school because it is very crowded and because most of the time my hot lunch is cold. We have to eat in shifts and our old stove just can't keep up. The building is not designed for kids like us and some of my friends have a hard time getting up the steps to the third level.

My mom dreams of a comfortable new school for me like my brother and sister

Roy Allen: helping people help themselves is his goal

By Jim Ketchum

Roy Allen has been in the people business a long time and if he has his way about it, he's going to get even more involved in the future.

Allen, a Bad Axe resident, is a former director of the Thumb Area Manpower Consortium, now based in Cass City. Currently he serves as director for the Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged (SPEDY).

Allen says he's leaving the Consortium staff Sept. 12 for a variety of reasons. Health is one of them. But a chance to

damage suit Friday

A lawsuit has been filed in Tuscola County Circuit Court seeking $125,000 damages in connection with a June 23, 1974 traffic accident that took the life of a Saginaw man on M-46 just west of Kingston.

The suit was filed by Stanley Grabitz on behalf of John Grabitz, nephew of ,~ Joseph Miceli, driver of the car killed when it was struck by a car driven by Oscar Moyer, 62, Kingston.

The suit names Moyer and J.D. Randall, owner of the Kingswood Inn.

The suit charges Moyer with being intoxicated and not having his car under control at the time of the accident, resulting in the loss of sight in John Grabitz's right eye. A total of $100,000 damages is being sought.

Another $25,000 damages are being sought to cover medical treatments for Grabitz's injuries.

Randall is charged with having served Moyer intoxicants knowing Moyer was already drunk, prior to the accident.

The suit was filed Friday in work even more closely in helping solve the kinds of problems institutions and organizations can't solve is another strong reason for leaving.

He emphasizes he's not leaving under duress. At a recent Consortium administrative board meeting, the 57-year-old Allen said for one thing he needed "time to get my head on straight again".

While he isn't certain just what the immediate future holds, the odds are good it involves something to do with helping people in need.

The graying, bespectacled Allen explained that he's more or less always been involved with manpower most of his life. He reflected on his career as he leaned back in his office chair and lit a cigarette.

"I had retired in August of 1969 from the Air Force," he explained, "At that time, the OEO (Office of Economic Opportunity) in Caro needed a manpower man to initiate and develop some programs. At that time the only manpower program under way was a nurses' training class here at the hospital in Cass

"I cut my teeth on that one and from there we got involved in the Neighborhood Youth Corps.'

From there, Allen began seeking federal and state funds for the Thumb area. Eventually, after collecting a series of rejections, he succeeded in getting funding through the Michigan Employment Security Commission and the Archdiocese of

During the early 1970's, he said, the crowning achievement was a Licensed Practical Nursing program established through St. Clair Community College and headquartered in Bad Axe.

Started by federal funding, the program now operates on

AIR FORCE EXPERIENCE

Allen said his Air Force experience proved invaluable in sending him into the manpower field.

Born in Illinois, he enlisted in what was the Army Air Corps in 1937. He stayed on until the end of World War II, then re-entered the Air Force in 1948, finally retiring

- During his last eight years, he was stationed in Port Austin as an electronics supervisor.

All those years in the service gave Allen the experience in working with people, training them for jobs and developing training programs.

"I was involved in the development of skills, the assessment of people regarding what they were best swers. suited for, with testing and all the rest," Allen said. "This is a manpower function."

His experience through OEO led Albert Thoms, former chairman of the Huron County Board of Commissioners, to ask Allen to help head up a Manpower Consortium for the tri-county

"For a time, I acted as a messenger boy between the three counties getting this thing set up," he said. "Much of the time I spent on it was my own.

After an initial rejection, the Thumb Area Manpower Consortium finally took shape and went into business officially last January.

The consortium acts as a channel for federal unemployment funds under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) and any other such funds that may be

CAN IT WORK?

Now that there is a Consortium, can it really make a dent in traditionally high unemployment rates in the Thumb?

"Without a doubt, it will have some effect," Allen said: "But with the high divorce rate and the continuing techrevolution, nological doubtful we'll do more than keep even."

He sees increasing divorces putting more persons on welfare and ADC, making that many more persons who need a job. In Lapeer, he said, a local manpower program managed to find jobs for 48 persons in one year, taking that many persons off the welfare rolls. At the same time, 60 more were added, many divorcees who had never had a job before and who lacked training or skill.

"We have some excellent programs," Allen said, "but we don't have all the an-

He sees on the job training and public service employment as limited answers.

CHANGE ATTITUDES

Deeper, longer lasting answers lie, he believes, in the hearts and minds of people themselves. He sees a need to revive the spirit of community that existed 50 years ago in order to change basic attitudes.

"A community isn't truly a community until it shares," Allen believes. "Today there's much less sharing in the community than there was a half-century ago. People were more willing to help each other and share the good and the bad of life. They were more willing to help.' Part of the reason for a decline in sharing came about, he says, because of the technological revolution which began around 1920 after the basic research had been done. Since then, machines have eliminated countless jobs and created a society in which it is nearly impossible to subsist without some sort of assistance. Allen sees institutions as ill-equipped to deal with human beings as emotional individuals with their own problems. Schools have not grasped the imagination of youth, he believes, nor have they adequately trained students to function in the real

"Any institution destroys what it sets out to develop,'

Allen says, "yet we can't do without them. What we need is to keep a tight check on institutions to make sure they don't get out of hand."

He does not exclude the Consortium as an institution that needs watching. All institutions seek to perpetuate themselves by growing and gaining more power and this must be checked. At the Consortium, that's the job of the administrative board, he

"The Consortium will grow and yet it must be guarded against," he said. "It's a constant struggle to keep it ir balance.'

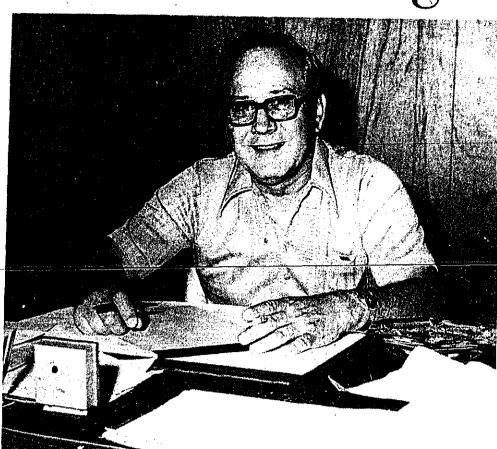

To sum it up, Allen says, "All things we try to do for people are good-education, sociology, psychology and many other things, but they all fall short of the one thing most of them are in need of -- a return to Christianity, but not Churchianity.

He defines Churchianity as the notion that church is another social club where sometimes the right things are done for the wrong reasons.

Consortium staff, don't be surprised to see him involved again soon, trying to help individuals by putting his beliefs into practice.

Once Allen leaves the

It's a part of his life.

ROY ALLEN has been in the people business a long time and plans to continue even after he leaves the staff of the Cass City-based Thumb Area Manpower Consortium early next month. Allen was instrumental in getting the Consortium idea off the ground and involving Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

PLUGGING A LOOPHOLE

Carrying concealed firearms is illegal, right?

Not completely, according to Rep. Monte Geralds, D-Madison Heights. He says a loophole in current law makes it legal to carry concealed firearms such as rifles and sawed-off shotguns--as long as they're more than 30

Since 1972, 28 more apartments have become available in Cass City, constructed by Smith Builders of Caro and located on Hill Street. Initially, 16 units were built in 1972 and 12 more were completed last year.

According to Mrs. Donald Smith, to date nearly all the units are either rented or reserved. The demand, she said, is definitely here.

"I'm convinced every small community will eventually have to have apartment-type rentals available," she said. "The demand for rental property is great. The number of phone calls we've received in the past few weeks has been tremendous." She said the economic slow-

Demand for rentals has come from professional people generally, Mrs. Smith said, covering a wide range of

She said communities in the Thumb are getting used to the idea of apartment complex living because it helps meet the demand for rentals that couldn't be filled otherwise.

Cass City realtor B.A. Calka agrees the rental market in Cass City is tight, especially now when teachers are looking for places to live prior to the coming school

"I'd say by the 20th of this month, there probably won't be any rentals left to speak of in town," Calka said.
