

Council wants athletic complex to stay at park

Village Council isn't anxious to see the Cass City School District take its lights, football field, track and stadium and move them to district-owned property behind the high school.

That was the loud, clear message trustees sent out during their regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

Responding to the possibility that the school district might consider building an entirely new complex, Village President Lambert Althaver stressed that as a village trustee and as a private citizen, he isn't thrilled about the plan.

"We had verbal assurances as far back as two or three years ago that the school planned to stay at the village park," Althaver told council. "I personally am concerned that the school district would scrap out the present facility and start over with a duplicate one. It certainly is not the most economical way to spend money as I see it."

Cost estimates for such a project have been placed at around $150,000.

Althaver said part of the hang-up with the district over a park lease involves the time. Council is offering a 25-year lease. The district, however, is worried about making a large investment in the park without a longer commitment, Althaver said.

He said the problem is that the village can't obligate the property beyond 25 years because that would be tantamount to selling it.

Trustee James Ware said improvements made in the park such as new fencing around the football field, have benefitted the school and that abandoning the facility would be unfair.

He said a communications breakdown exists between council and the school board.

"Our communications with them are not the best," he said, "and the paper (The Chronicle) is not always the best route. We don't want them out of the park."

Ware said in his opinion, there is no need to construct a new facility.

Trustee Dr. D.E. Rawson said he did not favor turning the center of the park over to the school district completely. He expressed criticism that the school district could consider investing over $150,000 in a new facility without having to go to district residents for a vote on the question.

Basically, council said, it does not want the center of the park turned over to the school. At the same time, it isn't interested in kicking the school out.

"We want to cooperate with the district in any way possible short of selling them the property," Althaver said.

He added that he plans to present council's thinking to the next school board meeting.

POOL

Council voted to accept a list of construction alternatives to the new municipal swimming pool that would add an additional $8,345 to the bid price, bringing the total to $99,300.

Alterations include a computerized water monitoring system.

Zonta Club told council it wants to spearhead a drive to raise additional pool funds that won't be covered by the bequest of the Helen Stevens estate.

Council deferred official action until it knows exactly how much it will share of the estate will be and how much the final complex will cost.

Plans for the bath house have not yet been finalized, it was reported, but should be completed soon. Council voted to hire E.B. Schwaderer as contract superintendent for the project.

Schwaderer served in the same capacity for the recently-completed facilities building.

Council learned that the Department of Natural Resources is withholding its final payment of $2,300 to the village for the building until a parking lot for handicapped persons is constructed.

It's unknown how much such a lot would cost. Council moved to comply with the regulations.

The funds are part of State Bond Recreation monies the village used to construct the building last year.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, council rescinded action at the August meeting and accepted two outlots in the Countryview Subdivision. Althaver said the move is in the best interests of the village since development beyond the subdivision is remote.

In addition, the lots already contain parts of two driveways from adjoining lots.

Fire destroys home

A devastating fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed a single-story house and contents on Deckerville Road, three miles west of Deford, Thursday night.

The home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bullis, was engulfed in flames when Elkland Township Firemen arrived on the scene shortly before 9:00 p.m.

Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said the blaze broke out in the center of the home and spread rapidly through the roof. Flames shot as high as 20 feet at one point.

Loss on the structure was placed at about $30,000.

Equipment from Caro and Lamotte Township Fire Departments was also called to the scene.

Jezewski said an investigation was conducted by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department and the State Fire Marshall's office to determine what started the fire.

An unidentified passing motorist reportedly spotted the fire and called authorities. He said at first he thought he was driving through a fog until the smell of smoke worked its way inside the car. As he turned back to investigate, he discovered the blaze.

No one was at home when the fire broke out. Jezewski said Friday the couple was in Detroit due to a family illness.

Jezewski said the three departments dumped between 8,000 and 9,000 gallons of water on the structure in a little over two hours.

The blaze rekindled around 7:20 a.m. Friday, and firemen were again called to the scene.

Firemen were at the home last March 17, when a blaze in a porch did $1,300 damage. An overheated freezer cord was blamed.

ELKLAND TOWNSHIP firemen douse the flaming remains of a house three miles west of Deford that re-ignited early Friday morning. Fireman had spent over three hours at the scene Thursday night.

Sanilac courthouse vote set Dec. 29

Sanilac county voters will be trudging through the snows of December to decide the fate of a $1.6 million courthouse addition.

Election officials set Dec. 29—a Monday—as the election date. County Clerk Walter Behn said Friday there really wasn't much choice. Under state law, an election must be held between 120 and 130 days after the filing of petitions asking for a vote.

"I was working between Dec. 23 and Jan. 2," Behn said. "I realize I'll probably hear a lot of criticism for the decision, but that's the way it had to be."

Behn declined to make a prediction on how the date will affect the outcome, saying it could go either way.

"I do know Crosswell got a new school on an election day that had stormy weather," Behn observed. "But it's really hard to say how the date will affect the vote. A lot will depend on the weather." Behn met with elections

Seeks regulatory role

Village shuns municipal trash collection idea

Cass City Village Council wants no part of hauling trash from the main business district.

It does want to help businessmen find a way to comply with Department of Natural Resources moves to ban open burning in the business district.

That was the gist of council action during its regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

Council approved a resolution asking village businesses to indicate they want to discuss the anti-burning regulation further with DNR officials and at the same time the village will push for a meeting of local, county and state officials to help solve the problem.

The action follows a letter received by many local businessmen last week from the DNR stating that open burning is illegal in the business district.

Council reviewed costs for municipally-sponsored trash removal programs in Caro and Marlette and agreed it wasn't interested.

Village Supt. Lou LaPonsie reported that last year, Caro spent $54,000 hauling trash from both businesses and residences. That translated into a 2.5 mill tax, LaPonsie said.

In Marlette, he reported the village has entered into a three-year contract with an independent firm at $14,000 per year to haul from residences only. Businesses still must handle their own trash.

Marlette residents are billed for the service through their water bills, LaPonsie said.

He added that in its first year of removing trash with village crews, Marlette lost $18,000.

Village President Lambert Althaver said if the village did start hauling trash from businesses, more equipment such as closed trucks would be needed.

Ben Franklin Store owner Gerald Prieskorn told council that businessmen expected some sort of help in setting up some trash removal system in the business district.

"If we don't, we'll have a mess on our hands," he said. "We're looking for some supervision."

Althaver agreed that the village could get involved through establishing rules.

The discussion reopened the old wound of DNR pressure on local landfill operations. Althaver said the move for a county-wide landfill system has been placed at the feet of the planning commission and that several approaches are being investigated.

"I'd venture to say something is going to come along within a year," he said. "It has to. In the meantime, I'd hate to see Cass City make a major investment in trash disposal and then not be able to use it."

One temporary approach he suggested involves an independent firm in Sanilac county which reportedly hauls trash at a rate of $2 per cubic yard.

Trustee Dr. D.E. Rawson suggested a survey be made of how much additional solid waste would be put into the landfill if all burning ceased. This would give council a better idea of the problem's magnitude, he suggested.

Althaver said council needs to support the merchants in solving the trash removal problem and that in the meantime, it would push for a meeting with DNR and state and county officials to clarify the situation.

The meeting could also put pressure on the DNR to speed up its approval of the Cass City landfill operation, he said. Presently, a formal application is awaiting approval at DNR headquarters in Lansing.

Under state law, open burning by businesses or industry is illegal. The DNR is pushing to enforce anti-burning regulations and has notified businesses who still burn that they are in violation.

Enforcement of the statutes is still cloudy. In a recent Chronicle article, DNR officials did not commit themselves regarding how the act could be enforced.

Residential burning is not banned by DNR but is not encouraged.

FRIENDS OF disabled State Police Trooper Norris "Doc" Walters helped raise $10,000 at a benefit dinner and dance held Saturday night at the Colony House. A total of 950 persons attended. Shown standing by Walters (seated) are (from the left) Marvin Winter, who donated the use of the hall, Trooper Tom Majeske who helped organize the benefit, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Walters of Cass City.

Birth rate declines, mobility seen in dwindling student numbers

Cass City was one of only four school districts in Tuscola county to show an increase in student population, according to the "Fourth Friday" count held last week.

The results show Cass City, Caro, Kingston and Vassar registering enrollment increases, with Akron-Fairgrove, Mayville, Millington, Reese and Unionville-Sebewaing all showing declines.

Cass City's enrollment rose to 2,168, up 16 from last year. Caro showed the largest increase, increasing from 2,773 to 2,808, up by 35. Kingston's enrollment rose by 20 to 912, while Vassar increased from 2,278 to 2,305.

The most drastic enrollment drop in Tuscola county came at Millington, where 2,552 students are registered—down 51 from last year. Mayville's enrollment declined by 16 to 1,653. Reese lost 14 students with 1,335 and Unionville-Sebewaing showed 1,272 students enrolled, five fewer than last year.

Akron-Fairgrove's student population dropped by three and now stands at 1,082.

Intermediate Supt. William Scott said overall, the county registered 16,088 students—10 more than last year.

"This is the smallest increase that's ever been recorded since I've been around," Scott said Monday. "I think it shows a significant trend and if it keeps going, it will seriously alter the picture."

Scott said last year, the Intermediate district showed an increase of about 300 students. He blamed declining birth rates and more population mobility for the decline.

"We are one of only five Intermediate districts in the entire state that haven't been hurt by this trend," Scott said, explaining that state aid is based on student population. When enrollment drops, so does state aid.

Scott said he expected declines at Akron-Fairgrove and USA, but not at Millington and Reese.

"This really surprised me," he said. "I thought we might see around 200 more students or so. I really didn't expect to gain only 10."

He said next year, the district could record its first decline in overall student population, and predicted the trend would continue for the next four or five years at least. "It's going to alter a lot of thinking," he said, "because it was always based on increasing student populations. In districts such as Unionville-Sebewaing or Caro, that need buildings, this is definitely going to become part of their thinking."

UBLY DECLINE

In Huron county, Uby Community School officials are mulling over a drop of 60 students from last year's population. Supt. Douglas Brownrigg said Monday unofficial totals place the student enrollment at 1,384, compared with last year's 1,444. "I expected a drop of 30 or so in the elementary program, but I was really surprised at the drop in the secondary," Brownrigg said. He indicated 27 fewer students are enrolled at the secondary level at Uby.

Last year, the district recorded an increase of 11 students.

It's too early to tell how much state aid the district will lose, Brownrigg said, because full-time equivalent students have not yet been recorded.

The superintendent blamed the decline largely on families who have moved out of the district. "It's the biggest decline we've had in a lot of years," he said.

OWEN-GAGE

Owen-Gage reported a total of 521 students enrolled, a drop of 67 students from last year and a loss of 105 students from the 1973-74 school year.

Elementary enrollment totaled 257 and secondary enrollment was set at 264.

The Vanishing American

Today's dairy farmer milks cows on the edge of a chasm. Standing on one foot. In a high wind.

From his precarious vantage point, he sees increasing costs of such production necessities as seed, feed, fuel and fertilizers; and he sees a farm income declining by comparison.

About half of the U. S. dairy farmers in business five years ago no longer are. In Michigan, the nation's sixth-ranking dairy state, the number of dairy farmers has dropped from about 14,000 a decade ago to 7,700 last year. The number is expected to be 4,500 by 1980.

Today's dairy farmer knows he cannot stand alone. He knows he needs an ally. And for 5,400 of the state's 7,700 dairy farmers, that ally is MMPA, a milk marketing cooperative owned and controlled by those it serves.

MMPA, through a variety of service and marketing programs, pledges itself to work for the betterment of its dairy farmer members. MMPA works for a fair return on dairy farmers' investments and works to maintain stability in the complex arena of milk marketing.

Some of MMPA's programs also benefit consumers. The Association encourages high milk production which, combined with sound and positive marketing practices, assures ample milk for Michigan consumers. MMPA also promotes good dairy herd management practices among its members to assure that milk sent to market under the MMPA banner is of highest possible quality.

Dairy farming is the first-ranking segment of the state's No. 2 industry: Agriculture.

And we at MMPA are dedicated to the belief that the Vanishing American is important and to the belief that this great natural resource—the dairy farming industry—is worth preserving.

Best man was Harold Barnes, brother of the bride. Groomsmen were Mark Smith, cousin of the groom, and Douglas Barnes, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Rodney Smith, cousin of the groom, and William Fleming, cousin of the bride. All wore white tuxedos with red shirts.

Miniature bride was Julie Smith, sister of the groom. Miniature bridegroom was Donald Smith Jr., brother of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a white gown trimmed in red and featured a red and white carnation corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a light blue gown with a blue and white carnation corsage.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Don't settle for a tie

BY JIM FITZGERALD

For a few terror-filled moments, I feared the worst. The pressure from the opposing line was tremendous and unyielding. I could feel my legs begin to give. (Naturally. Hadn't Joe Namath and Gordie Howe and Mickey Mantle all warned: "The legs are the first to go?") It appeared I would surely be crushed underfoot, perhaps even killed to death.

One question kept burning through my mind: What was I doing here? I didn't have to play this bloody game. What was I trying to prove? I could have stayed home and everyone would have understood. I had nothing to be ashamed of. I'd given my best years to football. Why not step aside and let a younger man take my place?

At that moment my head was twisted toward the rear and I spied a younger man along the sidelines, doing nothing more important than washing his hands. "Hey, why don't you take my place?" I hollered at him. "Nuts to you," he said.

They don't make 'em like they used to.

A teammate noticed my discouragement. "Keep fighting," he said. "Remember, we are in the right and they are wrong. All the signs prove it. So God must be on our side." "I wish He would push a little harder," I said.

But I couldn't deny the righteousness of our battle. As my teammate said, all the signs proved it. This was halftime of the Michigan State-Ohio State game. Our team was trying to fight its way out of the men's john opposite the 21st section of Spartan Stadium. The signs over the door said "EXIT" and "OUT."

Our stupid opposition had ignored the signs. In their eagerness to urinate, they had refused to stand in the long line outside the "IN" door. Instead, they were trying to enter through the "OUT" door. And they had run hard up against our freshly drained team which was eager to get back for the 2nd-half kick-off.

It was a tug of war without a rope. The vortex was in a short corridor just inside the exit. First our side would surge forward a few feet. Then the opposition would push us back to where we were. Our team kept screaming its righteousness: READ THE SIGNS — TURN AROUND — OBEY THE LAW OR WE'LL HAVE YOU INVESTIGATED BY THE NCAA.

But it was no use. Even if they wanted to, the players in the middle of the crush couldn't retreat. Their teammates in the rear kept urging — and pushing — them on. It was a tie. And then I had an inspiration. . . .

"Remember MSU and Notre Dame in 1968." I said to my teammates. "Are we going to fall on the ball and settle for a tie like the Irish did? Or are we going to go all out to win in true Spartan fashion?"

There was a tremendous surge — and the enemy broke through our lines. They made it to the urinals, knocking most of my team into the sinks. We lost.

I immediately called a press conference to announce that this had been my last game. — I was asked if I'd learned any valuable lessons from my final defeat.

I said yes, I'd learned Notre Dame never would have fallen on the football if they'd had to go to the bathroom.

show set

A large turnout is expected for this Saturday's Country Western show, scheduled for Cass City High School at 8:00 p.m. and sponsored by the Elkland Township Fire Department.

Rex Allen Jr. will headline the show, supported by recording artist Phil Wilson and a host of musicians.

Proceeds from the show will go toward establishing a burn program at Hills and Dales General Hospital. A similar show last year raised $1,000 which was donated to the Burn Unit at Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital.

Tickets will be available at the door, from any Elkland township fireman and at outlets in Cass City and surrounding areas.

President, Cheri Martin;

Surprisingly, there is general agreement around town that stopping burning of waste wouldn't be such a bad idea.

There's agreement about that, but when you seek the best way to do it there's practically no agreement at all.

The village doesn't really want to do it. For all practical purposes the individual can't. The cost is too great.

Hiring a man to pick up the trash for the business community may not be as neat a solution as it first appears. Given the amount of burnable material that is produced it could be a major job for the concern that does the work.

And the bigger the job the more money it will take to get it done. If it's too great it simply becomes too expensive for small business.

And not all the businesses would cooperate on a volunteer basis. If they did, it would be the first time that it has ever happened that I can recall.

I submit to you that creating a firm for this work is at best a stop-gap measure. The heat is now on to eliminate burning for businesses. Remember, it's also illegal for home owners to burn anything outdoors, including leaves.

How long will it be before the Department of Natural Resources cracks down on burning by individuals? It can't be in the too distant future.

Perhaps it's time to take the bull by the horns and go all the way. . . . cut out burning all over the community and get the village fathers involved.

I can understand why they would rather stay out. After all it's just another headache for them.

And I'm not at all sure that they should be in the refuse disposal business.

But I am sure that they should be the ones to assume the leadership role.

Since we are looking at a community-wide problem the village is the logical place to look for help.

Our present refuse pick-up system has operated with the close cooperation between its owner and the village. A new system should do the same.

The need is pressing and won't go away. Perhaps if the village gets into it and comes up with some costs for those of us now under the gun to consider . . . we will say no to the fee system.

Perhaps joint incinerators by neighboring groups of businesses might be better. At this stage no one really knows.

That solution won't do anything for home owners when their turn comes to feel the pressure of the DNR.

It's sure that there will be no easy answers.

Right now there are no answers at all and time is short.

We'd better get a crackin'.

In a Sunday daily I read an article about retirees that maintains those that keep an interest in things, keep working away, generally last longer than those that sit at home and hibernate.

When Mrs. Charles Auten transported a case of jellies and jams to us from my uncle in Boyne City I couldn't help thinking about the story. My uncle's 83 and he must make about 20 cases each year for Christmas presents . . . each with a dozen different varieties of jellies, including the wild berry variety that he picks himself.

It was hard to buy a loaf of homemade bread in Cass City Monday. That's the day that Konrad's closes every week. It was also the day that Sommers' Bakery was closed this week due to the illness of Bruce Bartle, the company baker.

Why is it that those things seem to happen at the worst possible time for all concerned?

I talked to several true fans in the last week and a half. What's a true fan? He's one that stayed out to the bitter end as Cass City was going down to a dismal defeat to Marlette in a deluge of rain.

I'm going to mention a couple of names . . . but not just because they stayed until the bitter end.

The first is Clare Comment, who said he wasn't too wet at the end even though he had no rain gear at all. His solution? He stood behind (are you ready for this?) a telephone pole.

The second is Lambert Althaver. He came prepared. He had an umbrella and a waterproof duck hunting outfit. I took it off at home and was bone dry underneath, he said.

How about this? A couple of my pheasant hunting friends tell me that there are more pheasants than there have been in any year since the population decline set in.

One hunter out working his dog said that he raised a flock of about 20 birds and counted eight roosters.

You'll only find them in "pockets" now, he says, but they are around if you know where to look.

Before you ask, no, he didn't even hint about where he found the big flock.

Our Elevator Managers knew more about beans before they knew beans about being Elevator Managers.

But isn't that the way it should be . . .

They lived with the same problems the grower experiences day after day. They grew up on the farm and understand what weather, market conditions, equipment failures, etc., can mean to a successful growing season. They also understand the importance to the grower of being able to deal with an efficiently run elevator. That's why a Wickes Elevator Manager attends management seminars, new product sales meetings and the annual planning conference. This conference allows an exchange of ideas relating to elevator operations, understanding and solving grower problems, analyzing market trends, etc.

It's no wonder that a survey, conducted by the University of Illinois, concluded that the local elevator was the first and largest source of information to the grower.

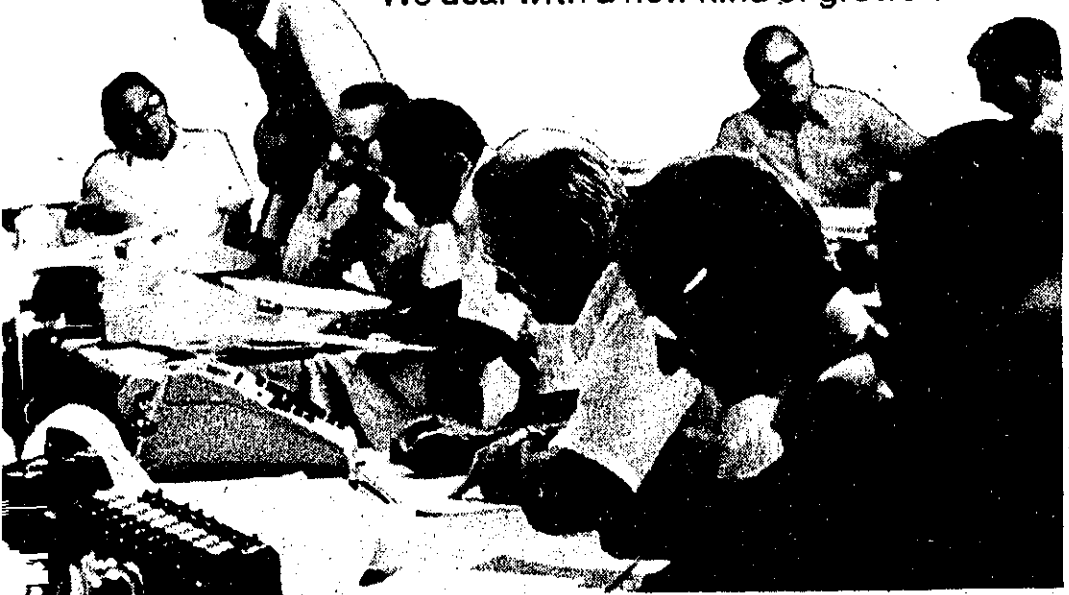

A Wickes Elevator Manager never stops learning.

Anti-freeze shortage in Cass City? Forget it, dealers say

Remember last year when anti-freeze was selling anywhere from $8 to $12 a gallon and when you had trouble even finding it?

Well, forget it. There's enough anti-freeze to float a battleship in Cass City, if indications from a random sampling of village dealers means anything.

Not only is there quantity, but prices have dropped as low as $4 in some instances. And while there is no guarantee things will remain the same throughout the winter, right now, dealers are betting they'll have all the anti-freeze they want.

A spot check last week showed the once sought after liquid that most cars can't do without is in plentiful supply.

"Right now, we can get all we want", Ron Wright of First Automotive, Inc., said.

"Last year, we ran out twice. All we got was 100 cases, but I think we could have sold twice that amount."

Wright said his retail price peaked at around $8 per gallon before stocks finally began to stabilize near the end of the winter. In the spring, supplies began rolling in and now Wright says getting anti-freeze is no problem.

"The only thing is that it's still twice as expensive as it was three or four years ago," he added. "But we're still selling quite a bit of it even now."

Last year, anti-freeze manufacturers said a shortage of glycol—a key ingredient in the liquid—was to blame. They said glycol, along with other synthetic substances, was going into double-knit clothing and that there wasn't enough to go around.

Other sources believe the shortage was artificial, a device companies used to drive up the price to make a killing in the market.

Whatever caused it, for the time being at least, it's over. "We're still getting customers who come in and buy anti-freeze by the case," Wright said. "They're still afraid the price will go up again this year."

Wright said he isn't sure how the supply will hold out later on, but so far, he isn't worried.

Neither is Lloyd Bryant, Gamble Store owner. "We're getting it for about a dollar cheaper than last year."

Bryant explained he ordered early last year and sold his entire stock at $5.99 a gallon. Once that was gone, however, there was no more.

"I suppose I could have bought some on the black market," he said, "but I'd have had to pay at least $6 a gallon to start with. By the time you get it to the customer, you're really gouging him. I just couldn't see doing it."

Bryant said anti-freeze is not a high-profit item anyway and that larger stores use it mostly to increase sales volume.

So far this year, demand hasn't been too great, he said.

"Last year at this time, I'd sold about half of my stock," he said. "Some people bought it up in case lots so it would last two years."

This year, those same customers are looking at their high-priced anti-freeze that's selling today for about half the price in some outlets.

It's the same story at Thumb Parts and Machine, according to Richard Britt, manager.

"There's lots of anti-freeze around," he said. "I can get as much of it as I want."

He said he's selling it for about two dollars a gallon less than he did a year ago. He added that his current price is based on an order he received last spring and that now, the price is probably even a little lower.

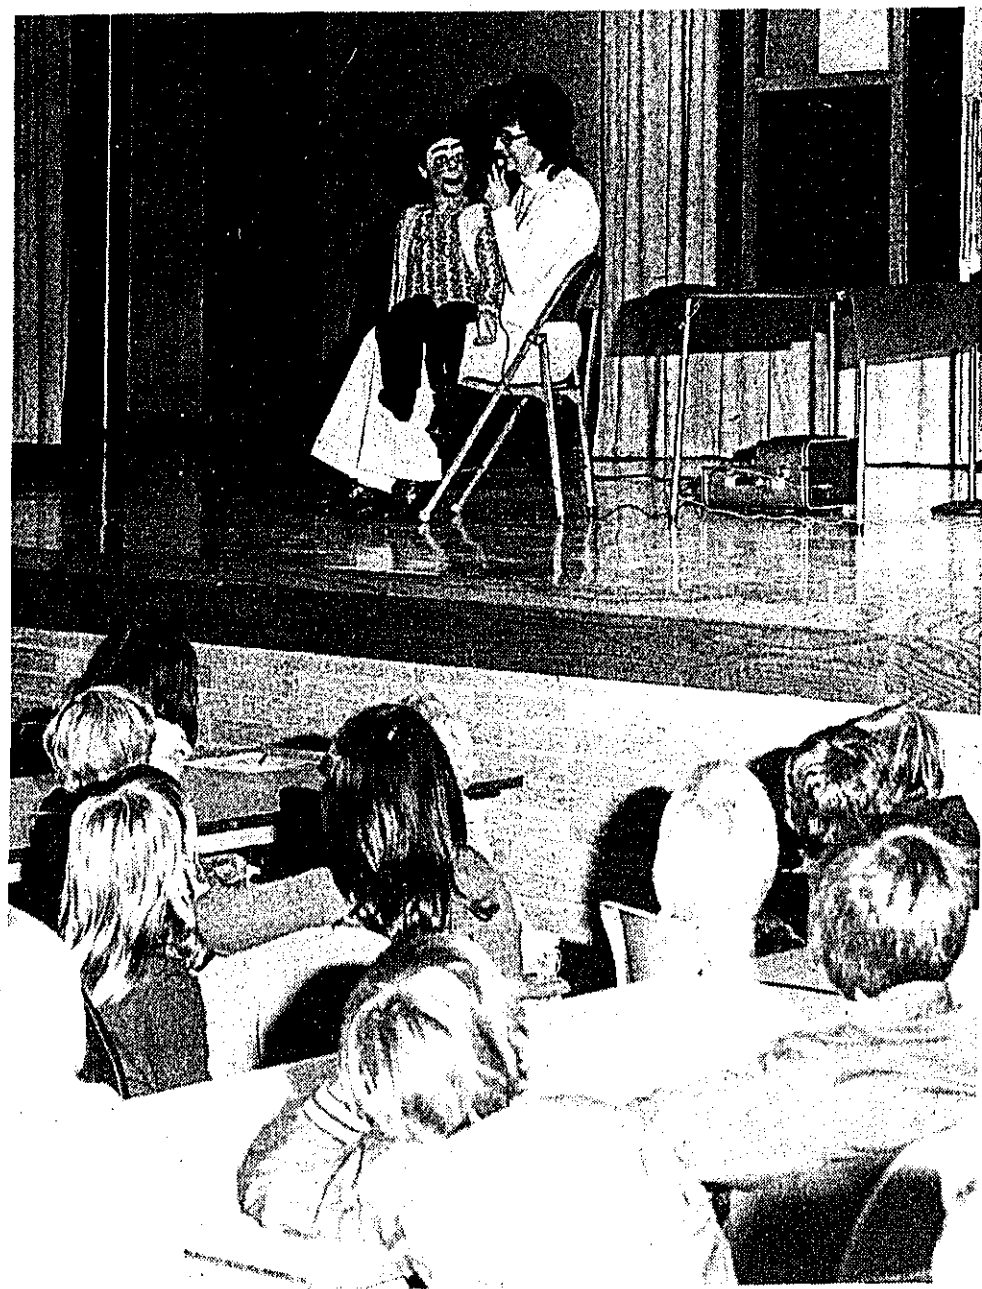

He said last year he could have sold much more than he had on hand and that many customers drained and flushed their auto cooling systems who hadn't for several years, fearing shortages would become a permanent thing.

Bud MacDonald, service manager at Ouvry Chevrolet

Olds, says there's no shortage of anti-freeze either. The only difference is that General Motors no longer markets its own.

"A few years ago, suppliers wanted to sell it to you by the barrel," he said. "Now they don't even mention it."

Service stations in Cass City also report no problems obtaining anti-freeze. While none will guarantee that, things won't change, right now they report good supplies.

Police probe area thefts, break-ins

Two larcenies and a break-in at the Gagetown Elementary School were investigated by area police last week.

Caro State Police investigated the breaking and entering at the school Wednesday, Sept. 24, in which a small metal box containing $5 in cash was stolen.

Officers said entry was gained through a back window on the south side of the cafeteria sometime during the night. Once inside, the culprits took the box and fled through a kitchen door. Police have no suspects.

The theft of $124 in property from Thumb Parts and Machine in Cass City was investigated by local police the same day.

Manager Richard Britt told officers two persons entered the store and purchased four shock absorbers with what proved to be a stolen credit card belonging to a Lake Orion man.

Britt told police the two asked about the price of a tape player and after they left, he noticed it was missing.

No suspects have been arrested.

Cass City Police recovered a stolen bicycle Friday that had earlier been reported stolen from in front of the Quaker Maid Dairy Store. Officers identified the owner as Steven Reed of 6256 River Rd.

The bicycle was recovered along M-81 near the Cass River Bridge east of Cass City. No suspects have been arrested.

FIRECRACKER INCIDENT

Caro State Police are investigating an incident in which a 14-year-old Kingston High School student allegedly tossed a lighted firecracker into a group of students at the school, Wednesday, Sept. 24. Police reported three students were injured in the episode, all suffering leg cuts and abrasions.

The investigation is continuing. State Police arrested a 27-year-old Kingston man last week on two counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Raymond Bilicki was arraigned in Tuscola County District Court Monday where bond of $1,000 was continued. A pre-trial examination was set for Oct. 28.

Bilicki is charged in connection with two incidents involving a Kingston area youth.

The larceny of 260 gallons of gasoline from the Mobil Service Station in Gagetown is being investigated by Caro State Police.

Station Manager Ben Lesoski reportedly discovered the theft when he switched to a reserve tank.

Value on the fuel was placed at $140.

Troopers said the theft occurred Wednesday, Sept. 24.

General Telephone to spend $3.3 million in Thumb area

General Telephone plans to spend more than $3.3 million for service improvement and expansion in the Thumb area in 1976, according to Bob Kowalski, Imlay City division manager for the company.

The $3,367,100 program will provide for both local and long distance telephone service growth and expansion for the 23 exchange communities of the Imlay City division.

"Customers in all 23 exchange communities will benefit by either the local or long distance equipment additions and, in many cases, by both," Kowalski said. The division includes customers in Huron, Lapeer, Macomb, St. Clair, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

"More than $1.4 million of the 1976 program is earmarked for additional equipment to provide for the continuing growth of our primary service," the utility manager said. "This will include additional line and terminal equipment within our present central offices, and more cable outside to meet the increased demand for both local and long distance service."

Most of the cable the company adds will be buried or placed underground in conduit, he said.

Relatively smaller projects—less than $10,000 each—to meet 1976 growth in the Imlay City division will add approximately $500,000.

An additional $87,900 is budgeted for programs to improve the basic services provided, he added.

In all, 91 projects to provide, improve and expand telephone service in the Imlay City division will be underway in 1976.

The Imlay City division includes the exchange communities of Almont, Avoca, Brown City, Capac, Caseville, Cass City, Clifford, Decker, Dryden, Elkton, Emmett, Goodells, Harbor Beach, Jedd, Kingston, Memphis, Metamora, Minden City, North Branch, Richmond, Smiths Creek and Yale in addition to Imlay City.

For Cass City, improvements will total $165,700, and include $124,000 in new cable for local service growth.

In addition, more long distance circuits and new central office dial equipment to provide more one and two-party service is also planned.

At Kingston, $4,000 worth of improvements is projected in 1976, including new central office dial equipment and more long distance circuits to Saginaw.

No problem seen in school aid delay

Area school districts apparently will not suffer under a delay in state school aid payments, a survey of surrounding districts revealed this week.

State Treasurer Allison Green announced last week that only half of the $200 million October state school aid allotment will be paid to school districts this week.

The rest of the money will not be distributed until after state sales tax revenues start rolling in Oct. 15 because of a $118 million cash flow deficit in the treasury, Green said.

Cass City Supt. Donald Crouse said Monday the district's cash reserves will be sufficient until the balance in payments is made up. He explained the district has been paid every other month and that the full October payment will probably be split between October and November.

Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson said his district is adequately prepared for the reduced October payment and foresees no problem. He said the move had been called unconstitutional by Attorney-General Frank Kelley, but the Treasury Department went ahead with the cutbacks anyway.

Mark Tenbush, spokesman for Uby Community Schools, said a balance of nearly $150,000 at the end of the last fiscal year will help ease the loss of revenues. He said the district will not have to borrow against anticipated revenues to meet its commitments.

Move to save ferry service

Forge ahead with the ferry! That's the joint aim of Michigan and neighboring Wisconsin after a meeting between Govs. William Milliken and Patrick Lucey.

The governors recently announced they'd spearhead a joint effort to retain and improve the Ann Arbor Railroad's cross-lake rail and auto ferry.

Crossings of the bankrupt Ann Arbor Railroad from Frankfort to Manitowoc and Kewaunee, WI, had been threatened with discontinuance.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

There's nuts in them thar hills

By Jim Ketchum

Someone once said that if you picked up the United States and shook it, all the nuts would roll to California. So far, at least, this anonymous bard's adage has been proven true-frighteningly true.

Everybody from the Black Panthers and the Simbionese Liberation Army to the John Birch Society and the Ku Klux Klan call California home. If Gerald Ford knows what he's doing, he'll put a lot of distance between himself and silly-land behind the neon curtain.

Lots of Americans still harbor the hope that one day California will indeed fall into the Pacific Ocean when the last great earthquake (the biggie) finally hits.

In the meantime, Ford and any other sane candidates who can be found pounding their platforms would do well to pontificate elsewhere than the Pacific paradise.

Between the two recent assassination attempts on Ford, Patty Hearst and her group of cashews and the Manson family, Ford should consider hawking his brand of Republicanism where the inmates do not run the asylum.

Things must be getting pretty difficult for your average, run of the mill Presidential assassin when he has to start taking pot shots at Gerald Ford. He's the first "nice guy" we've had living at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue since Dwight Eisenhower practiced his putting between visits from foreign ambassadors and the Boy Scouts.

It's ironic that during his stormy tenure as President, no one to our knowledge ever took a pot shot at Richard Nixon.

And even in his most despised days in the White House, Lyndon Johnson could wade into a crowd without someone using him for target practice.

After President Kennedy, his brother Robert and Dr. Martin Luther King were gunned down, a national revulsion against violence seemed to cool the threat to national figures.

It resurfaced long enough to cripple George Wallace in 1972, then went underground until now.

In California, it's becoming a fad to see who can come closest to shooting the President without really doing him great bodily harm. Maybe somebody with a pomegranate for brains is keeping score someplace and whoever wins may get a chance at all the marbles.

And, in spite of this mania, Gerald Ford says he's going back again. He says he won't become a prisoner in the White House.

That's brave talk until you wind up in a bronze box with six of your best friends carrying you away. What this nation doesn't need is more dead heroes. Gerald Ford will have a better shot (no pun intended) at immortality by solving the dual problems of unemployment and recession than by dying in a hail of gunfire.

And with eight Democrats officially in the race against him representing a divided party, he's a cinch for election unless his opposition gets its house in order.

All he has to do is stay alive. And stay out of California.

Flint man dies

Reese man charged in traffic fatality

A Reese man has been charged with negligent homicide in connection with a traffic accident that took the life of a Flint man Wednesday, Sept. 24, four miles southwest of Fairgrove.

Allan J. Stafford, 28, was charged following the death of Harry Fought, 77, of Flint, who died two days after the crash at the intersection of Gilford and Vassar Roads.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated said Stafford reported he had slowed but did not stop for the signed intersection. He told officers he did not see the Fought auto pull into the intersection and that his vision was partially blocked by mirrors on the side of the truck he was driving.

Fought and his wife, Gertrude, 76, were taken to Hurley Hospital in Flint for treatment. Mrs. Fought is listed in "fair" condition.

Fought's death was the seventh Tuscola county traffic fatality of 1975.

Stafford faces District Court arraignment Oct. 6. He is free on $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Police investigated a rash of property damage and personal injury accidents in the past week including a single-vehicle mishap on River Road just after midnight Friday.

Sheriff's officers said an eastbound pickup driven by John Douglas Maynard, 16, of 6330 Pine St., Cass City, failed to make a curve about two miles southwest of Cass City, went out of control and struck a tree on the north side of the road.

Maynard was treated for multiple cuts and bruises at Hills and Dales General Hospital, and was ticketed for careless driving.

The accident took place at 12:15 a.m. Saturday.

A motorcyclist traveling on private property near Kingston suffered facial injuries when his machine slid from beneath him early Monday morning.

Sheriff's officers identified the driver as Dean Lee Clinesmith, 21, of Shay Lake Rd., Kingston.

Police said Clinesmith was riding on a dirt trail just off Plain Road when the accident took place around 6:25 a.m.

He was treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

A Caro woman escaped serious injury Friday afternoon when the car she was driving went out of control and landed off Kelly Road, five miles southeast of Cass City.

Sheriff's officers said Erika Braun, 23, was headed east on Kelly Road when her car hit piles of sod in the road excavated when County Road Commission crews graded the road that day.

The car was thrown out of control, went off the south side and landed in a large hole used for dumping trash.

Ms. Braun was uninjured and no ticket was issued.

The accident took place at 5:30 p.m.

Three persons sought their own medical treatment for minor injuries they sustained in a two-car accident on M-81 at Deckerville Road Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff's officers said a car driven by Karen Arlene Smith, 26, of Caro had stopped for a school bus and thought traffic had begun to move.

Her car struck a stopped vehicle operated by Michael Joseph Langlois, 16, of 6121 McGregory Rd., Gagetown.

He and his passenger, Paul A. Langlois of the Gagetown address, received minor injuries.

Ms. Smith was ticketed for failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

The accident took place at 3:45 p.m.

Two drivers escaped injury Thursday morning when their cars collided on Main Street near Seeger in Cass City.

Cass City Police identified the drivers as Natalie Rabideau, 17, of 4793 Seeger St., and Judy Ann Tracy, 18, of Cumber Road, Uby.

Officers said the Tracy vehicle was stopped for traffic and was struck from behind by the Rabideau vehicle.

Ms. Rabideau was ticketed for failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

The accident took place at 8:25 a.m.

A Bad Axe man, Kenneth Allen Hazard, 17, escaped injury Saturday night when the car he was driving north on Koeppgen Road, four-and-a-half miles north of Cass City, struck and killed a deer.

Hazard told Caro State Police the animal ran from the west side of the road into the path of the car.

The accident took place at 8:40 p.m.

In another single-car accident Saturday, David Lee Finkbeiner, 25, Detroit, was uninjured when the car he was driving went out of control and landed in a ditch at the Hoppe and Colwood Road intersection, seven miles southwest of Gagetown.

Police said Finkbeiner was attempting to back his car from Hoppe Road onto Colwood Road when the left rear wheel went over an embankment and the car slid into the ditch.

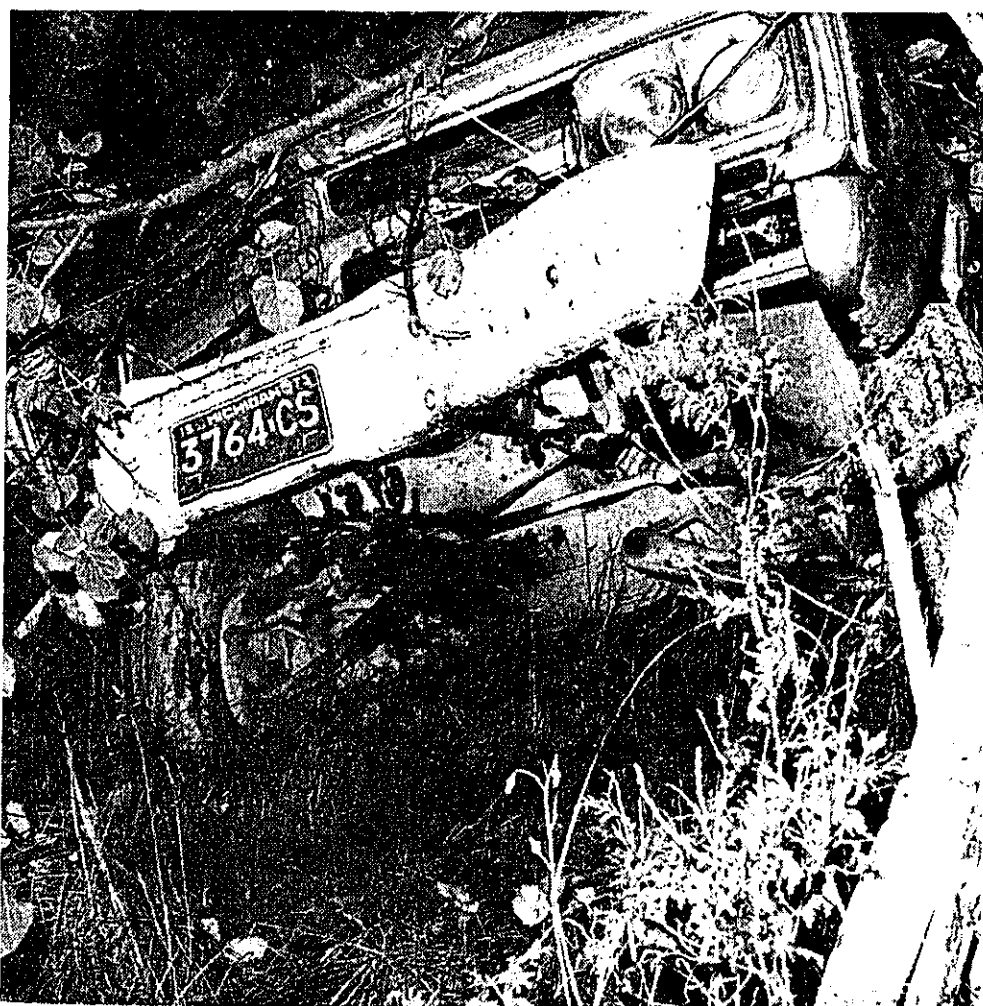

The accident took place at 9:45 p.m.

Two drivers were uninjured Wednesday, Sept. 24, when their cars collided on M-46 in Kingston.

Sheriff's officers said a car driven by Thomas Eugene Holtslander of 5956 Curtis St., Kingston, backed from a driveway and into the path of a car driven by Patricia Evelyn Tank, 40, of Sandusky.

Holtslander was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. The accident took place at 4:50 p.m.

Cass City officer gets legal aid

Cass City Village Council learned Tuesday night that Police Officer Robert Smith will be represented by lawyers for village insurance carriers in a civil action involving an incident in Gagetown earlier this year.

Smith is one of five Tuscola County Sheriff's officers and Caro State Police patrolmen being sued in federal court following a disturbance in Gagetown last May.

According to village sources, Smith was dispatched by the Sheriff's Department to assist in quelling the disturbance, along with other officers.

Smith was allegedly assaulted as he was leaving the scene. His assailant was reportedly restrained by two other officers who were later named in the suit.

Smith is one of two village officers not deputized, it was pointed out.

Police Chief Gene Wilson explained that the Sheriff's department was within its legal rights to dispatch Smith to Gagetown.

Wilson added that he prefers not to have his officers work outside the village but that he will respond to a call for help by another officer.

Smith's legal representation was unsettled until insurance company lawyers stepped in. He could not receive legal counsel from the Sheriff's department because he is not deputized, Wilson explained.

Winless Lakers here for home-coming

Hawks looking for offense to escape league cellar

THIS IS THE PLAY THAT broke the Vassar-Cass City game wide open. In the early moments of the fourth quarter Bill Wright broke loose on a 40-yard touchdown scamper. Futilely giving chase are Tom Smentek, Ken Lowe and Chuck Bliss.

It's home-coming time for Cass City Friday and one of the nicest presents that the Hawk football team could receive is a touchdown or two in Thumb B Conference competition.

When the Lakers arrive here Friday it will mark the third game in the league for the Hawks. They have yet to put a point on the board in Conference play.

Last Friday, Vassar shut the door on Cass City 25-0, and this week the Hawks meet the Lakers, a team which is winless.

Cass City matches that record in the Thumb B, but does have a victory over Yale in the season's opener.

Coach Roland Pakonen describes the Lakers as a big, very physical tough defensive team. If it is, the game may go on and on . . . a scoreless tie.

Pakonen says that the offense started to move a little against Vassar but still has a long way to go.

The Hawks could muster only four first downs all night and Vassar controlled the football most of the game. They ran 62 plays from scrimmage while Cass City ran only 41.

Vassar's ball control came on straight power football as the Vulcans ran for yardage mostly through the middle of the Hawk forward wall.

It was power football that resulted in the first touchdown. Bill Wright, quick elusive halfback, and Dan Wade operated smoothly behind a hard blocking Vulcan forward wall to cap a sustained drive for the score. Dan Wade capped the march with an 11-yard run for the marker.

After that neither team could make a serious bid for a touchdown until there was less than 10 minutes left in the game.

The play that broke the back of the Hawks and iced the game for the Vulcans came with 9:13 left in the game. Wright took a hand off and broke through a hole in the center of the line, shook off an attempted tackle by a Hawk line backer and cut for the right sideline. He outdistanced the Cass City secondary and scored standing up.

The marker opened the floodgates. A few minutes later Vassar took possession again and worked the ball to the Cass City 30. Dan Wade stepped back and tossed a perfect pass to Wright for the score.

The final marker came in the dying minutes when Mike Wade intercepted a desperation Cass City pass and jaunted 30 yards into the end zone. Mike Wade added the only extra point of the night with a kick that split the uprights.

Leading the defense for Cass City was Guy Howard with 13 solo tackles and seven assists. Ron O'Dell was credited with 10 solo tackles and six assists.

ASSUME TOO MUCH

Everybody makes mistakes — and the most common mistake is the one of underestimating the other fellow's intelligence.

Vassar bows

JV and Frosh
post wins

While things aren't too bright for Cass City football fans on the varsity level this year there appears to be hope for Hawk teams in the years ahead if the early season performances of the Junior Varsity and Freshman teams are any indication of the future varsity talent.

The Junior Varsity won its second in a row last Thursday and the Freshman won the first game played this season in interscholastic competition. Both teams played Vassar squads.

The JV's defeated the Vulcans, 12-6, and had to come from behind to do it.

The visitors at Cass City Recreational Park last Thursday took the opening kick-off and scored in six plays, covering 60 yards. But that was the last time they were to score.

Cass City came driving back and scored the first time they had possession. Clarke Haire went 35 yards with a pitch out for the marker.

In the third quarter the Hawks moved on a sustained drive to the Vulcan three-yard line from where Haire took it over on a power sweep.

Vassar lost a sure touchdown on a halfback pass play when the Vulcan end dropped the ball with no one within 15 yards of him. Cass City had another touchdown drive stalled on the four-yard line when a fourth down running play was inches short.

After yielding big yardage in the opening drive, the Cass City defensive line became progressively stronger and in the fourth quarter dominated the play. Meanwhile, the offensive forward wall was opening large holes for the Hawk backs.

FRESHMEN'S GAME

The Cass City Freshmen defeated the Vassar Frosh by an identical score to the JV's, 12-6.

While the score was the same, most observers felt that the Frosh dominated the game to a greater degree than the winning JV squad. They scored once in each half. Defensively the big Frosh allowed the visitors very little yardage. Leading 6-0 in the second half, Cass City scored what proved to be the winning marker on a pitchout to Steve Bean that was good for 35 yards.

The visitors scored when a pitchout went astray and was recovered by a Vulcan who ran it some 55 yards for the touchdown.

GOP launches drive to revise state workmen's comp law

Michigan's oft-criticized workmen's compensation program, which carries a whopping $280 million-a-year tag, may be in for some serious scrutiny this fall. Republicans in the Michigan House say they'll dig into parts of "generally massive waste" in the system. And the Department of Labor, which administers the program, is launching an examination of the $80 million in medical and legal fees paid annually.

Cawthorne of Manistee, leader of the House GOP caucus. "Michigan's workers, employers and consumers are all victims of a conspiracy on the part of many physicians, lawyers and union officials to pervert the system through unethical solicitation of cases and kickbacks, from settlements obtained and fraudulent claims and from generally massive abuse of the existing antiquated law," Cawthorne says.

He also speaks of "an epidemic of fraud and abuse" in the system.

Fees paid to doctors and lawyers are subject for consideration by a special task force named by the Labor Department.

"These fees, amounting to more than $61 million a year, represent a substantial portion of the cost of the workmen's compensation program," says director Keith Molin.

"Therefore, it is in the public interest to make certain through a careful examination that such costs are fair to both the medical and legal practitioners and the claimants they serve."

Some 100,000 disability claims were filed this year by Michigan workers, reports Ernest Packler, director of the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation. Of that total, about 70 per cent are settled without dispute, he says. The remaining 30 per cent require adjudication.

Another $61 million was paid in medical fees to doctors, hospitals and others, he says.

PROTECTING CHILDREN
Battered and abused youngsters-sometimes not identified until it's too late-may be discovered and helped more quickly because of a new law recently signed by Gov. William Milliken.

The measure "is a comprehensive approach to the protection of our children from abuse and neglect, born out of the frustrations experienced by those involved in identifying and protecting these children," the governor says.

Dentists, medical examiners, certified social workers, school administrators, counselors and teachers will be among those required to report suspected cases of abuse or neglect.

In addition, the new law grants immunity to all persons making such reports "in good faith."

The law also speeds up the reporting process by providing for oral reports, with written follow-up to county social services departments within 72 hours.

NEW MAP READY

You can't get there from here, or here from there-or can you?

Michigan's new public transportation map and guide may be your answer if you want to figure out how to get from Jackson to Traverse City or Negaunee without driving the distance yourself.

First of its kind to be published by the state, and free, the map shows the routes and locations of all public transportation services throughout Michigan.

Intercity bus and passenger rail lines, direct air services by commercial carriers, cross-lake passenger and auto ferries on the Great Lakes-they're all there.

So too are markings for 30 cities with local bus or Dial-A-Ride services.

Another helpful listing includes an alphabetical enumeration of all Michigan communities serviced by public transportation. And that is followed by a key to locally available services.

"Travelers who want to save fuel or avoid long hours behind the wheel of a car will find the map an invaluable guide to planning their trips by public transportation," declares Peter B. Fletcher, chairman of the Michigan Highway Commission.

If you'd like a copy of the new map, just write to Information Services, Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation, P.O. Drawer K, Lansing, Mi. 48904.

Deer Hunting Format for '75

During Michigan's 1975 deer hunting season November 15-30, there will be, in effect, three different antlerless hunting periods. The collective take of antlerless deer in all areas is expected to be 11,365 with bucks-only hunting in the Upper Peninsula. Of 61,910 permits to be issued, the Department of Natural Resources predicts 49,290 hunters will go after antlerless deer in the various management areas. Hunters are reminded that midnight, October 1, is the deadline to postmark applications for permits to hunt antlerless deer in these areas. Sportsmen will receive application forms at local license dealers when they buy their 1975 firearm deer license. Instructions for filling out these forms are also available at local license dealers.

Use camera to capture this year's fall color spectacle in Michigan

Fall Color Schedule for 1975

Use your camera to capture the beauty of Michigan's fall color season to savor after the leaves have fallen and are covered by winter's snow, suggests Automobile Club of Michigan.

Michigan's rugged Great Lakes shoreline, jewel-like inland lakes, gently rolling countryside and quaint little villages provide a scenic background for the vivid hues of Michigan's woods in autumn color.

Bert Emanuele, chief photographer for Auto Club's Motor News magazine, advises camera buffs in search of fall color photos to "think color and watch for interesting props."

"Try to include some action or activity when shooting to get the more natural look," he says. "For instance, when photographing Michigan's colorful autumn scenes, make sure you include a child or animal in your picture."

"Or, to get a farm atmosphere, photograph a farmhouse or a cornfield with trees in the background."

Emanuele says interesting props would include historical markers, old lighthouses, rustic bridges and cider mills. A child or pet at play usually makes a more interesting subject than one staring back at the camera lens, he notes.

Upper Peninsula camera buffs in search of fall color pictures might investigate the many ghost towns and abandoned mines that can be found in the Keweenaw Peninsula.

Color tours in the Leelanau Peninsula and Traverse City area include scenic light-houses-at Northport and on the Old Mission Peninsula. A fish hatchery and Christmas tree farms are some of the attractions in the Cadillac area, while the Lake Shore Scenic Drive will provide awesome views of woods and water between Petoskey and Mackinaw City.

The Isabella Indian Reservation and Central Michigan University are featured on a tour of the Midland-Mount Pleasant area, and quaint covered bridges near Smyrna and Ada are part of the Ionia-area tour. Other color tours in southeastern Lower Michigan include cider mills, "pick-them-yourself" apple orchards, antiques and nature centers.

The state's freeways and major highways are ideal corridors for getting to the scenes of Michigan's fall color, but take to the byways to really enjoy the splendor of forests ablaze in autumn, Auto Club advises.

Camera buffs can obtain color tour information from area tourist bureaus or chambers of commerce, and Auto Club members will find up-to-date reports available at local offices across the state.

Because of last month's record rainfall, the fall color season will arrive in Michigan at least a week earlier than last year. Tourism officials in the Upper Peninsula estimate color to be at its peak there starting Sept. 20 and ending Oct. 2.

The color will spread to northern Lower Michigan Sept. 27 through Oct. 9; central Lower Michigan, Oct. 4-16; and southern Lower Michigan, Oct. 11-23.

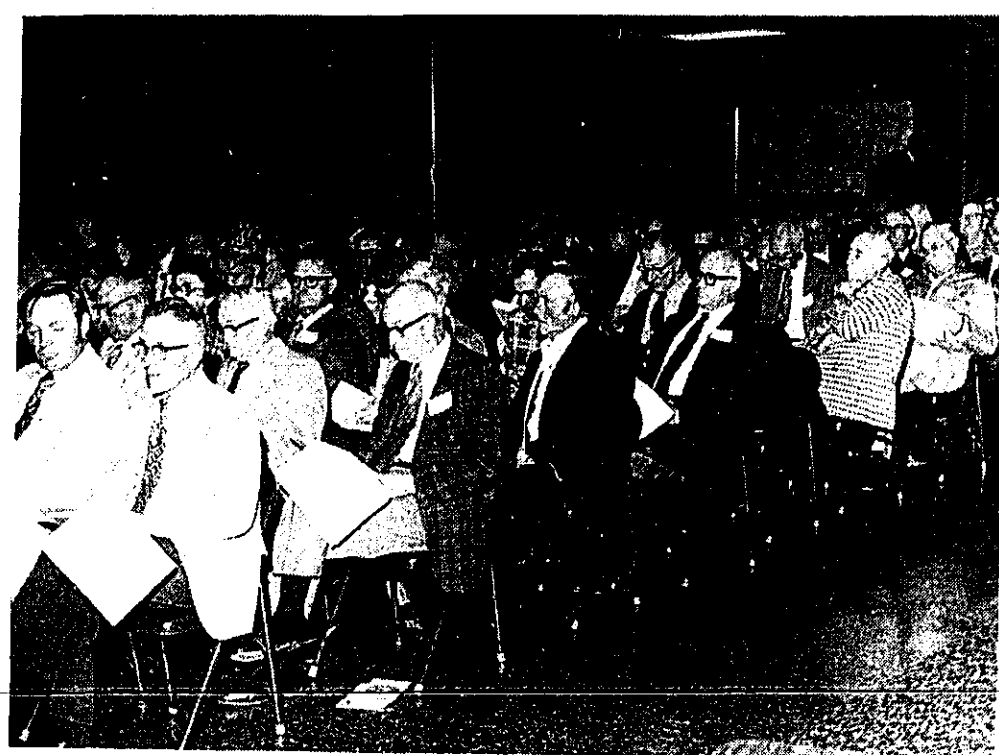

Red maples, dogwoods and ash are among the first trees to change color. The red or swamp maple leaves turn a brilliant red while dogwoods are a rich scarlet and ashes have a coloring all their own—a blend of yellow and purple.

Hickories, redbud, birch and poplar turn a golden yellow early in fall, while Hawthorn, many crabs, sweet gum, cherries, oaks and mountain ash become red or red-orange. A few, such as sugar maple and sassafras, display a blend of red, orange and yellow all on the same leaf.

The fall color season has become the "third season" for Michigan tourism—the second largest industry in the state, Auto Club notes.

Tourism is at an all-time high in Michigan, and this fall's tourist business is expected to be up 15 per cent compared to last fall, Auto Club adds.

The fall season alone represents 20 per cent of the total tourist year in dollar expenditures, so this means tourists will spend $440 million in Michigan this fall season, Auto Club says.

OVER 150 township representatives gathered Thursday for the annual Thumb Area Michigan Township Association meeting held near Cass City. The group heard speakers discuss pending legislation affecting township government.

Sentence two in Circuit Court

Two persons were sentenced to fines and probation in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday before presiding Judge Martin Clements.

William Freeland, 18, Mayville, was sentenced for a plea of guilty to uttering and publishing a forged instrument to two years' probation plus fines and costs totaling $200, payable at $20 per month.

Freeland was arrested Dec. 12, 1974, in Mayville.

Joe Robert Koopman, 19, Saginaw, was sentenced on a charge of negligent homicide to two years' probation with credit for one year already served, plus fines and costs totaling $200 payable at $15 per month.

Koopman was arrested in connection with a fatal traffic accident July 6, 1974, that took the life of James Singer of Reese.

One arraignment was handed down. Alvin Vollmar, 18, Akron, was arraigned on charges of breaking and entering at the Briggs Furniture Store in Akron, Aug. 4. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Oct. 27, and bond of $3,500 was continued.

A motion by Vollmar's lawyer for bond reduction was denied by Judge Clements.

Unclaimed lottery $ revert to state

Unclaimed lottery prize money—a healthy $2 million for fiscal 1974-75—goes back to Michigan's general fund to help pay all the state's bills.

Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, thinks that's the wrong thing to do with those dollars.

Unclaimed winnings, he says, should go back into the lottery bureau purse to boost the number or size of prizes. "The unclaimed money came from lottery players and it should go back to lottery players," Rosenbaum says.

Michigan could use the money for other purposes, "especially at the present time," Rosenbaum admits.

But, he says, "if we channel that much money into prizes, it would make the lottery even more attractive, which in turn could generate even more lottery revenue."

The lawmaker says he plans to urge action on his proposal when the legislature reconvenes later this fall.

Petitions on way to Austin

Organizers of a petition drive to re-establish a Secretary of State's office in Caro plan to meet later this week with Secretary of State Richard Austin in Lansing and turn over the documents containing nearly 20,000 signatures.

According to Mrs. Gene Wilson, Cass City, one of the area backers of the drive, a total of 1,900 signatures were collected in Cass City, Gagetown, Deford and Kingston.

The petition asks that the office be placed in Caro, the county seat, instead of Vassar.

It was learned that John

Lawrence, Caro, and Richard Erla, Cass City, plan to deliver the petitions personally to Austin later this week.

Caro has been without a branch office since earlier this year when the former operators retired.

Backers of the drive maintain the office should be in Caro since it is the seat of county government and because of its central location in the county.

Earlier this week, Caro Village Council sought the possibility of a business providing temporary space on a limited schedule for an office until permanent quarters could be found.

Immunization drive set

October has been designated Immunization Action Month for the third consecutive year, growing out of a cooperative effort among organized medicine, state and local health departments, government, industry and volunteer organizations.

Dr. Bernhard Kats, Medical Director of the Thumb District Health Department, explained the purpose of the campaign:

"We now have the know-how and very effective vaccines to prevent such serious childhood diseases as polio and measles, but the truth of the matter is that many children simply aren't being vaccinated. As a result, these diseases still occur, causing crippling complications and deaths that could easily have been prevented. During Immunization Action Month we are making special efforts to alert parents to the dangers of the diseases and the need for vaccinations."

Dr. Kats stated that the percentages of children vaccinated for some of the diseases are not sufficiently high to prevent local epidemics. "We could return to the days of real tragedy, when many young lives were lost and many children were permanently crippled from complications of these diseases. Anyone who witnessed the polio epidemics of the 50's knows the horror we're trying to prevent."

Dr. Kats stated that when vaccines first became available they were widely used because people had seen the results of the diseases and wanted to make sure that their children were protected. As years pass, he continued, the memory fades and both parents and physicians are less diligent about vaccination. This has led to the present condition in which the nation once again faces the possibility of local epidemics.

During October, Dr. Kats explained, educational messages will be appearing in newspapers and on radio and television, discussing the diseases and the importance of immunization.

He urged that parents make sure their children are vaccinated against seven childhood diseases: polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis. "Unvaccinated children, and children whose parents are not sure about the vaccination record, should be taken to their physician or health department without delay. To remain unvaccinated is a serious and needless risk, a risk no child should face."

The Health Department's Immunization Clinics are available every Thursday, from 9:30-11:30 and 1:00-3:30, at 2266 West Caro Road, Caro.

The Board of Health for Tuscola and Lapeer counties has announced that Bruce B. Bragg, M.P.H., has been appointed Director of the Thumb District Health Department. Bragg had served as Acting Director since July, 1973. In addition, Bernhard Kats, M.D., has been named Medical Director for the Health Department.

The appointments stem from a contractual agreement between the two counties, the Office of Health Services Education and Research of the College of Human Medicine at Michigan State University, and the Michigan Department of Public Health. The agreement was made possible by a grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation.

Dr. Kats, and his family of five, come to this area from Columbus, Ohio, where he was last employed as a member of the faculty at Ohio State University, College of Preventive Medicine.

At Owen-Gage

Klaus Fealer gets first-hand look at America

Klaus Ulrich Fealer believes the best way to learn about another country and its people is to study it first-hand. That's why the 16-year-old Munich, Germany, native signed up for a year's stay in the United States as a Youth for Understanding foreign exchange student.

So far, the blonde, clean-cut Klaus is happy with the decision.

He's a student at Owen-Gage High School and stays with the George Klemkowsky family of Owendale.

Why did Klaus Fealer want to spend time in the U.S.?

"I wanted the chance to get acquainted with Americans and see how they live," he explained, taking a break from his work as a member of the Owen-Gage yearbook staff.

"I wanted to see how the school system is different and I wanted to look at how different the life style was," he said. "And I wanted to see it myself."

So when the chance to visit the U.S. came, the young Bavarian jumped at it.

He arrived in Detroit Aug. 15, after a nine-hour non-stop plane flight from Zurich, Switzerland, feeling just as though he'd ridden half-way round the world.

As only child, he left behind his father, who works as a civil servant, and his mother, who is employed as a secretary by the Nestles Company in Munich.

Actually, Fealer has spent much of his formal education time in a public boarding school in the town of Wendsbach, about 140 miles from Munich. He described the boarding school town of 4,000 as "small".

EDUCATION

A German boarding school is a lot different than an American High School, he said. For one thing, a choice of classes doesn't exist, at least not until your last year in high school.

A "high school" education runs nine years, he said. The difference is that it starts a lot sooner.

Changes are under way, though, to liberalize choices in high school curriculum, he said, and within two years, students will have a little more choice.

Part of the high school curriculum is at least two foreign languages—Latin and English—along with either French or Greek.

Class days run from 8:00 a.m.-1 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:00 a.m.-noon the first and third Saturdays of every month. The second and fourth Saturdays are free.

Fealer says when he's through with high school, he'd like to go to a university and study electronics, although there's still time to make some changes.

DIVIDED NATION

Fealer's Germany has been a divided nation since 1945. He says it's difficult to imagine East and West Germany as one country under one leader.

"The nation I was born in has always been divided," he said. "I can't imagine it as one country."

He says he has been in the East only once—that was when the boys' choir from his school performed in East Berlin a little over four years ago.

"I remember we went with about 70 in our group," he said. "I guess my only fear was that somebody would be left behind."

His grandmother lives in West Berlin, but she has relatives who live on the other side of the Berlin Wall.

"Dividing the country was tragic," he said. "It cut whole families in two. There are towns where the line came right through houses and down the middle of streets. In some places, the border is 12 yards wide with mines planted in between."

Still, young Klaus Fealer tries not to be dogmatic. "You can't say the people who live in the east have worse life than the ones in the west. They are Germans too. Their economic standard of life is practically the same as that in the west. The difference is in the political system."

He isn't sure if there will ever come a day when the two Germans are reunited, but he is hopeful travel restrictions will be eased so that families can see each other more frequently.

"Sometimes, at the checkpoints they make you wait four hours or more before you can go into the east," he said. "I would like to see this improved so that travel would be easier."

LIFE IN U.S.

So far, Fealer has adjusted well to life in the United States. He particularly likes American television. He says German TV sends out all its good programs on one night and fills the rest of the week with boring political or economic documentaries.

Mealtime is a little different in America as well, he said. In Germany, the large meal of the day is at noon, with a light snack at night.

Even though he's only been in this country a month, Fealer is already making plans to return to America after he goes home next year. So far, at least, he's liked what he's seen of the U.S.

ARSON IS suspected in a fire that did over $30,000 damage to the Edward Bullis home on Deckerville Road, three miles west of Deford Thursday night. Elkland Township Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said the blaze was traced to a gas line feeding a clothes dryer. The State Fire Marshall's office and Tuscola County Sheriff's officers investigated the blaze. Firemen were called around 8:45 p.m. (See story, page 1-A) KLAUS FEALER, 16, foreign exchange student at Owen-Gage High School, is shown handling an assignment for the yearbook staff. Fealer, a native of Germany, will spend a year in the United States.

Your neighbor says

Ford shouldn't cut travel

In a recent two week period, two attempts were made on the life of President Gerald Ford. Ford has been criticized for traveling too much and he's been urged to curtail his itinerary.

Mrs. Kathy Tuckey of Cass City doesn't think it's the travel that jeopardizes Ford as much as the publicity given the two recent assassination attempts.

"I think now it's gotten so it's being done just to advance some cause," she said. "It seems as though these people are representing far-out causes of some sort."

She said publicity given new techniques to protect the president didn't help either.

"I thought it was silly when they started publicizing the fact that he was wearing a protective vest," she said. "Now anyone trying to kill him will just aim for his head. What can they do to protect him there?"

In spite of the assassination possibility, Mrs. Tuckey doesn't think Ford should severely limit his public exposure.

"When he took the job, he knew he'd be in the spotlight," she said. "And this possibility (of assassination) is just part of it."

She is married to Roy Tuckey, co-owner of Tuckey Block Co. She is a native Cass Cityan. The couple has two children.

Our town philosopher calls our church "God's branch office." He means it as a sacrifice because he is a very religious man.

He puts into words the feelings that unite all Christians. Rituals may differ, doctrines may not always agree, but denominational labels may seem to keep us apart. Still we share the wondrous knowledge that One Lord is the Savior of us all.

There is no time when this bond of faith is expressed more vividly than on Worldwide Communion Sunday. In our little church about sixty of us will gather. Around the world there will be millions. Together we'll join in an experience that began on the eve of Christ's crucifixion.

Be with us. BE WITH HIM.

BETTER HEALTH

Cholesterol control and babies

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

If excessive saturated fat in the diet, especially fat of animal origin, and food rich in cholesterol are related to the high incidence of heart attacks among American men and women, a logical conclusion would be to eliminate such foods from the diet of infants and children.

This would mean, among other restrictions, allowing infants—only skimmed milk rather than fat-containing whole milk.

Young mothers and doctors whose advice is sought in the care for small children have been concerned because official bodies such as the Inter-Society Commission for Heart Disease Resources and the American Heart Association have recommended to the general public certain dietary modifications. These include reduction in total dietary fat, saturated fat and cholesterol intakes, with the aim of preventing atherosclerotic vascular diseases—popularly called hardening of the arteries.

Other groups have recommended such dietary intervention only for persons whose blood levels of fats are elevated, either because of excessive fat in their diets or because they are subject to an hereditary inability to deal normally with a fatty diet.

It has been reported that a high dietary cholesterol intake can increase the concentration of cholesterol in the blood of so-called normal men.

However, it is also true that the ability to "digest" cholesterol and other fats in the diet, without allowing them to pile up in the blood stream, appears to differ between "normal" persons and those with an hereditary deficit in their ability to metabolize overloads of fat in the diet.

In infancy and early childhood, the need for calories and essential fatty acids may very well be inadequately met if skimmed milk is substituted for whole milk, and other difficulties may also occur. In the opinion of experts in nutrition, the only occasion for feeding infants and small children skimmed milk instead of whole milk is in those children who are shown by chemical testing of their blood to have an inherited disability to handle such fats in their diet.

It would be well, however, to remember that as children grow older and fall into the contemporary anytime "snacking" that has taken the place of regular meals, they will find them running counter to the advice of nutritionists of all persuasions. French fries, fat-laden hamburgers, sugar soft drinks and junk sweets may very well undo the best efforts of any campaign to lower the blood fats of tomorrow's candidates for premature heart attacks.

For the booklet, "What we Know About Cancer," send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. William J. Welch, Box 4994, Dept. CCC, Des Moines, Iowa 50306.

Cancer Society meets goal

The regular meeting for the Tuscola County Unit, American Cancer Society, was held Sept. 22, at the Denmark Township Hall.

Harvey Wilson opened the meeting and then turned the meeting over to newly-elected president Don Kochalka. Gretchen Haines turned the secretary book over to Betty Kochalka, new secretary.

Mrs. Haines gave the treasurer's report. Tuscola county met its goal for the fourth consecutive year. The goal of $27,300 was passed by $41.00. Over $6,000 was obtained from special events, including "Bar Stickers", "Bowl Down", "Fly Around" and "Golf Tournament". Mrs. Haines reported that an all time high $4,666 was received as memorials.

A special meeting was announced by Ruth Hoffman, Division Representative, for Oct. 9 at the Colony House. It will be a training school to help colostomy patients.

It was announced that the request for money to use for a Uterine Task Force program was allotted by the division office. 600 "Pap Kits" will be available for county women, on a first-come basis. All tests must be taken before Nov. 30.

The Uterine Task Force committee consists of Mrs. Ivan Perry, Tuscola township, Mrs. Iva Profit, Cass City, Mrs. Charles Hirschman, Reese, Mrs. Joe Young, Gifford township, and Mrs. Erhardt Rogner, Denmark township.

Mrs. Haines reported that Tuscola county had more appointments for the breast cancer detection than any other county.

The annual crusade "round up" and victory dinner is being planned for Oct. 27 at the Gifford United Methodist church.

Elegance in a new efficient size.

GRANADA 2-DR. GHIA

GRANADA 4-DR. GHIA

The Design:

Ford Granada is designed to help deal with such problems as crowded roads, increased fuel cost and maintenance. Granada is about 2 feet shorter and a half ton lighter than most standard-size cars. So you can expect excellent gas mileage. Yet there's family-size room inside.

The Economics:

A luxurious car today has to earn its keep. Granada doesn't back away from that fact. Its trim design helps reduce needless weight and excessive fuel consumption. Granada's base engine is a Six that's economical and easy to maintain. Gas-saving radial ply tires.

The Comforts:

Granada is planned for riding comfort and durable good taste. Appointments have such a rich look you'll wonder whether you're admiring the top-of-the-line. Supple vinyl trim is standard, and both front seats recline. Granada Ghia provides extra styling and elegance.

The closer you look, the better we look.

AROUND THE FARM
Check farm machinery coverage
By Don Keblor

Are you sure your machinery is really protected by collision insurance when on a public road or road right-of-way?

Michigan's new no-fault insurance does not cover damages caused on farm machinery.

Only licensed vehicles are covered by no-fault insurance. Non-licensed farm machinery can be protected with a collision deductible insurance.

Without this collision deductible insurance, a person having an accident on the highway with farm machinery pays his own repair or replacement costs. A licensed vehicle involved in a collision with farm machinery is covered by no-fault.

Owners of farm machinery who use public roads to move their machinery should read their insurance policy.

Another protective device against farm machinery collision is the Slow-Moving Vehicle emblem. When this emblem was first used, the highway machinery collision rates dropped. In the last two to three years, the collision rate has steadily increased and is nearly as high as it was before the use of this emblem became mandatory. It is believed this increased collision rate is due primarily to poor emblems - those emblems that are faded, bent or damaged so they no longer are easily seen by the motorist until it is too late.

Those emblems wear out or become damaged and should be replaced just like everything else.

The Want Ads Are Newsy Too!

AROUND THE FARM Corn rootworm problem grows By William Bortel

We are finding more corn rootworms this year than we have ever found in the past. Most of these rootworms are Western and Northern. I believe it is extremely important for producers growing corn following corn to observe their fields this fall to see the amount of root damage.

A corn producer should be looking for lodging areas of corn stalks within a field and check the roots in this area and compare them with adjoining good areas within the field. If there is less root growth in the lodged areas, this is probably the result of rootworm pruning. The rootworm builds up very rapidly once it arrives into an area.

Rootworms will be troublesome only when corn is grown without rotation. Therefore the best control is growing another crop every other year along with corn in your rotation.

Insecticides are necessary where corn will be planted year after year and there will be a build up of the corn rootworm. There are many insecticides available and you may wish to pick up a leaflet at the Extension Office in Caro.

PWP sets October activities

Adult and children's activities of Parents Without Partners for October were announced last week.

Adults will join the Thumb Singles Club at Sandusky for an evening of dancing Saturday, Oct. 11, beginning at 7:00 p.m.

A Halloween Party is the children's activity and is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 26, beginning at 2:00 p.m. The party will be held at the home of Charlotte Talaski in Harbor Beach.

Children are asked to bring a pumpkin to carve. Free cider and donuts will be available, along with various prizes. Those attending are asked to bring hamburger and hot dog buns.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Despite the angry protest of an estimated 450 sportsmen from Tuscola county and the entire Thumb Sunday at a special meeting at the Caro Gun Club, the odds are great that there will be an antlerless deer season in the county this fall.

Cass City Village Council has moved to hire a full-time village superintendent to be the final authority under the council and to coordinate the affairs of the village.

The annual Elkland-Novesta township community chest drive will kick off this week as employees at local plants and businesses will be asked to contribute to the payroll deduction plan.

A $1,000 gift went begging, at least temporarily, Tuesday night as the village council refused a check from the Elkland-Novesta community chest for the establishment of a new municipal swimming pool.

Cass City School Supt. Donald Crouse became the second person to register a hole-in-one at Rolling Hills Golf Course when he scored an ace on the short par five hole.

TEN YEARS AGO

Cass City's new combination fire hall, police office and library took another step toward realization Tuesday night when council members authorized attorney Clint House to seek approval on bond issues "not to exceed $55,000" for the purchase and remodeling of the former H.O. Paul building.

Tuscola County Supervisors are disappointedly studying bids received Tuesday for the proposed new county jail. The bids were some $85,000 over estimates.
