Cass City Village Council is unhappy with renovation at the Ryan's Men's Wear building on Main Street, but apparently there isn't much trustees can do about it.

Specifically, council doesn't like a large "marquee" under construction on the front of the building. Yet nothing in the village's zoning ordinance has been found to stop the project.

Village President Lambert Althaver said the new owners of the building, Ron and Susan Chappel, originally applied for a building permit to renovate an unused upstairs apartment in the structure.

Althaver said the permit was denied because an apartment over a business is a "nonconforming use". He said the permit was then taken to the Zoning Board of Appeals which approved it on the grounds that they could grant a variance.

Althaver said the permit has still not been issued, claiming the appeals board acted illegally. He said a quorum of board members was not present when the variance was approved, that they did not schedule a public hearing and that village officials were not notified ahead of time.

In the meantime, he stated, a permit was granted for the marquee, since it meets all existing codes.

Village Attorney Clinton House questioned calling apartments in business buildings a nonconforming use since they were designed for a specific use—living quarters.

Council agreed to turn the question over to Vilcan-Le-man, planning consultants, for study. It also instructed House to study the ordinance and the powers of the zoning board of appeals.

According to the ordinance, an apartment over a business unoccupied for more than 180 days cannot be re-occupied. The Ryan building apartment has reportedly been vacant a number of years.

Petroglyph

Construction of a temporary shelter at the Sanilac Petroglyphs in Greenleaf township should begin soon, according to State Rep. Quincy Hoffman (R-Applegate).

Hoffman, whose 77th Representative district includes the Petroglyphs, said Monday a conference held last week in Lansing with officials of the Department of Natural Resources and the Michigan Historical Commission established that action would begin soon.

Hoffman said no date was set for construction to begin, but added that a date may be set later this week.

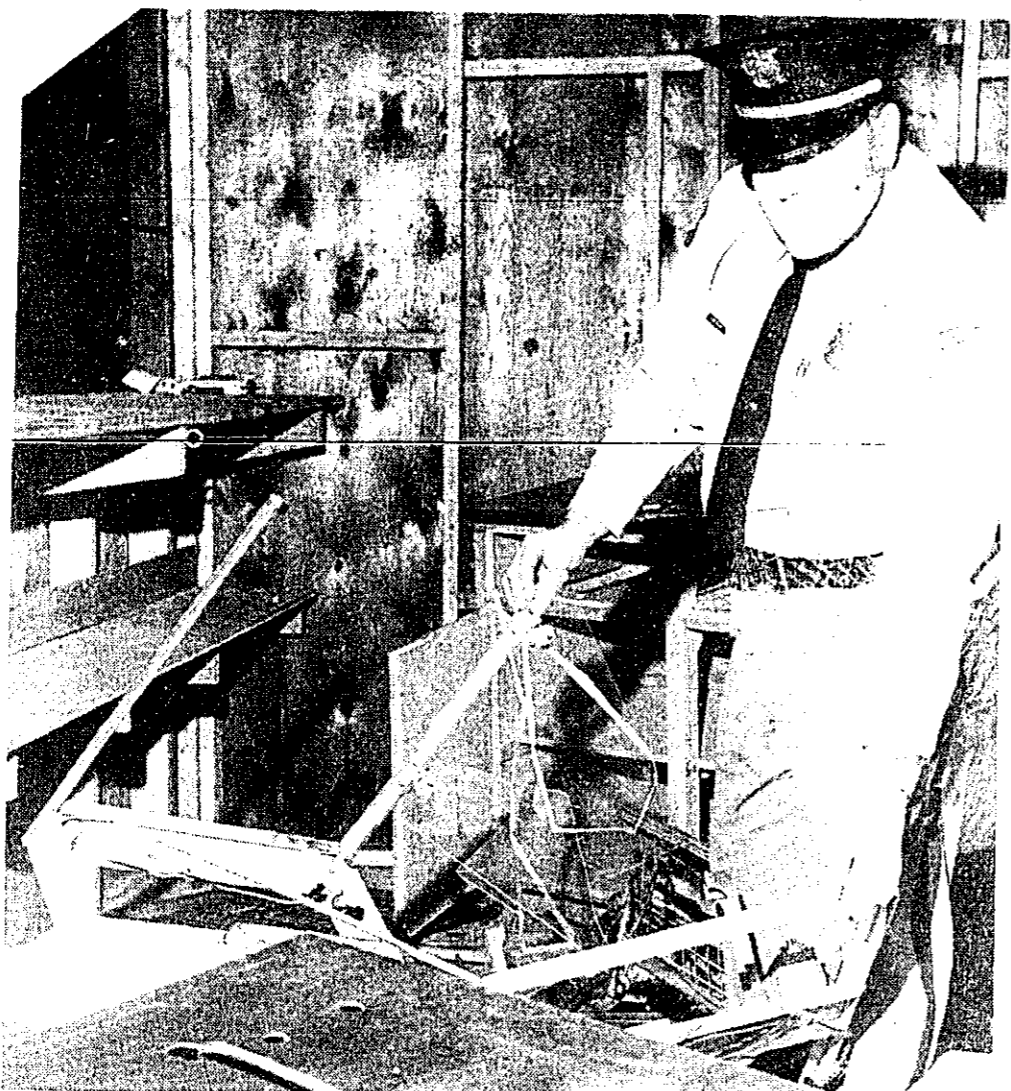

A drive to develop the site, located 11 miles northeast of Cass City, into a park has stalled out in recent years and has included a dispute between the DNR and Historical Commission officials over who had jurisdiction in site development.

Hoffman said both sides were reluctant to move on a shelter for the Indian rock carvings until enough surrounding land could be acquired for the entire park project.

"I told them they should at least get a shelter built over the rocks inside the fenced-in area and keep it locked until they can get the land they need," he said. "If they don't do something soon, there won't be anything to save."

The carvings are believed to be over 500 years old. They were protected until the Great Fire of 1881 wiped out cork pine forests which sheltered the carvings.

Experts say if a shelter is not constructed soon, the carvings, made in soft rock, will weather away.

VANDALS DID over $300 damage to the concession stand at the village park this week. A popcorn machine and a refrigerator were heavily damaged, along with other equipment. Police Chief Gene Wilson is shown investigating. Juveniles are suspected.

Police probe area vandalism, larcenies

Area police continued investigating a series of break-ins this week that included two gas stations in Kingston and two Cass City area homes.

Cass City Police investigated a reported breaking and entering at the home of Jay Smith at 6325 Main St., Friday. A window at the rear of the home was reported broken.

Once inside, the culprits apparently searched several rooms. Nothing was reported missing. Police have no suspects.

About $50 damage was reported to a home under construction on Severance Road and owned by Randy Whittaker, Monday. Caro State Police said an extension handle for a paint roller was taken. The house was reportedly vandalized.

Police have no suspects. Tires and cash were taken from Moore's Service Station in Kingston sometime between Sunday night and Monday morning, Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported.

They said owner Arnold Moore found two windows in the rear of the building broken.

when he arrived for work Monday. The front door was also discovered open.

An unknown amount of cash was taken from a cash register at the front of the building, officers said. No suspects have been arrested.

Another Kingston service station, owned by William Schwaderer and located at 5972 State St., was also hit by thieves. Caro State Police said cigarettes and an unknown amount of cash was taken.

Entry was gained by breaking a glass in a door. The theft was reported Monday.

VANDALISM

Six panes of glass were reported broken by vandals at Marshall Distributing Co., Monday night. Cass City Police said five windows on a fork lift tractor were also damaged.

Police said two 11-year-old juveniles were apprehended. Chief Gene Wilson said the two are also implicated in damage done to the concession stand at the football stadium at the park.

Wilson said a refrigerator and a popcorn machine were damaged. The park vandalism took place Monday. Wilson estimated damage at about $300.

Two General Telephone service trucks were reported vandalized last week. A radio was removed from one of the trucks but was recovered a short distance away. An unknown quantity of tools was also reported taken. Police have no suspects.

William DeNardi Jr., of Interstate Scrap Co., of Cass City, reported the theft of a door from a junk truck in the scrap yard located at 4100 Cemetery Rd. The theft was reported Friday.

DeNardi told Sheriff's deputies the culprits attempted to enter a work shop. Nothing was reported missing from the shop. No suspects have been arrested.

candidates publicity.

In other business, the board okayed participation in a state-backed cooperative reimbursement program designed to recover delinquent child support payments from responsible parties.

The plan received strong backing from Prosecutor Patrick Joslyn and Department of Social Service personnel and could recover as much as $200,000 in delinquent payments.

According to Cmmr. J. Benson Collon, Caro, the county's share of the cost is estimated at about $7,000.

Collon said an investigator, clerk-typist and another assistant full-time prosecutor would have to be hired, with the bulk of the program's cost coming from the state.

Experts have estimated that as many as 800 delinquent child support cases exist in Tuscola county. Earlier, the board was told that as much as $36,000 could eventually find its way into county coffers under the plan.

Mull suspension in secret session

Council okays boost in water, sewer rates

It will cost Cass Cityans more to quench their thirst in 1976, following action by Village Council to raise water and sewer rates during its regular meeting held Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

The new rates, scheduled to take effect in April, will boost the flat rate fee over 16 per cent and hike three other categories of users by 20 cents per thousand gallons of water used.

Council voted the increases in the wake of new budget figures which show the wastewater system needing at least $14,000 to break even this year.

It's estimated the new rates will bring in an additional $15,000 for the year.

Under the new rates, minimum use (0-5,000 gallons) will cost $14 per quarter. From 5,000-15,000 gallons, the additional charge jumps to $1.30 per thousand gallons over the minimum compared with $1.10.

Customers using from 15,000-25,000 gallons will pay an additional $1.10 per thousand gallons over the minimum, with users of 25,000-200,000 paying an additional 90 cents per thousand gallons over the minimum charge.

Heavy water users (over 200,000 gallons) will pay 65 cents per thousand gallons over the minimum.

The increased charges will take effect for water used during the first quarter of 1976.

This is the second rate increase okayed by council in the past year. The last increase was designed to generate an additional $10,000 in revenue.

Village officials blame increased costs for chemicals used in sewage treatment, coupled with a drop in water usage, for the need to hike rates again.

Under the new rates, total revenue is expected to reach $115,363, over a year's time, compared with $95,263 at the old rate. The village will be collecting the new rate for nine months in 1976, since current bills will still be paid at the old rate.

Wastewater treatment operations in 1976 are expected to cost $62,000 with water system operations hitting $48,100.

SUSPENSION

Council met for two hours in a session closed to the press and public to discuss the suspension of Village Patrolman Robert Smith. Trustees refused all comment on the session.

Althaver said details would be made public later in the week.

Smith has been on temporary suspension since Feb. 12.

WASTEWATER UPDATE

Council learned its study that will eventually lead to wastewater treatment plant expansion will cost $6,000 more than planned.

Total cost was set at $17,000. Jim Hubbel of Hubbel, Roth and Clark consulting engineers, told council the village has already received 80 per cent reimbursement on the original $11,000 grant request and that similar refunding is expected for the additional $6,000.

The Environmental Protection Agency is expected to refund 80 per cent of a complete project, including construction. Estimates place final cost from $2 million to $2.5 million, leaving about $500,000 for Cass City to finance on its own.

Hubbel said construction could begin yet this year if planning continues at its present rate.

BUDGET

Council gave the final nod to the 1976 village budget calling for general fund expenditures and revenues of $296,000, with the overall operating budget expected to total nearly $350,000.

Real property taxes provide the major source of revenue, $133,000, with personal property taxes totaling $33,500 and Federal Revenue Sharing of $32,800.

Largest single expense is in the police department with $82,500.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, council voted to approve allowing right turns on red lights at the main intersection, following a recently-passed state law. Trustees went on record against allowing such turns at the Rose-Seeger light.

Trustee Dr. D.E. Rawson said allowing the turns at the intersection would defeat the purpose of the light, namely to allow students to cross the street safely.

Council decided to study a request by the Chamber of Commerce regarding sidewalk snow removal in the business district. The Chamber requested that all sidewalks be cleaned within 24 hours.

Council learned the Cass City Lions Club has donated two portable bleachers to the park at a cost of approximately $1,000.

Council also accepted a bid of $200 on its 1972 Dodge police car. The bid was submitted by Russell Bradley of Cass City.

Council nixes angle parking for 3 streets

You can kiss angle parking goodbye on major streets in Cass City. Village Supt. Lou LaPonsie told council that, according to new major street guidelines published by the state, angle parking has to go.

Cass City streets affected include Seeger from Pine to Church, Leach from the south alley to Church and West from the south alley to Main Street.

Diagonal parking would still be allowed on Oak Street, since it is a local street. Council squelched a move to ban all diagonal parking in the village.

State officials say angle parking poses traffic hazards. The village must conform or lose state funding for major street maintenance.

LaPonsie said angle parking on major streets must be eliminated by November. Council approved complying with the law and to switch to parallel parking "as soon as is practicable".

The village will lose about half the total parking spaces on the affected streets when it switches, LaPonsie said.

In another move related to parking, council voted to enter a five year lease for its largest parking lot located at the corner of Church and Seeger Streets at a cost of $3,300 a year. This represents a 41 per cent increase over the old rate, council learned.

The jump irritated Trustee Nat Tuttle, who suggested the village purchase the lot.

Trustee James Ware said the owner, Thomas Jackson, has indicated he is unwilling to sell. Ware added he didn't think the rate was exorbitant.

Solons hint at re-election bids

While making no formal announcements, Reps. Loren Armbruster (R-Caro) and Quincy Hoffman (R-Applegate) hinted this week that they will seek re-election to the Michigan Legislature.

The Thumb area legislators appeared together at a bi-centennial breakfast Monday at Wildwood Farms near Cass City, sponsored by the Michigan Bean Shippers Association when over 100 area farmers and elevator operators attended.

Armbruster said making a formal announcement for re-election would be "premature", but added that he will probably reveal his 1976 plans in about a month.

"Right now, I'm very happy doing what I'm doing," he said.

Armbruster, a former Tuscola County Extension agent and sugar industry official, was first elected to the lower house in 1972, and won a second term in 1974.

Hoffman, who has represented the 77th district for over 10 years, hinted he may run for at least one more term. He would not commit himself beyond that point.

He said he would make his plans known in about a month.

The pair were joined at Monday's breakfast by State Sen. Bob Young (R-Saginaw), a stand-in for Sen. Alvin J. DeGrow (R-Pigeon) who was absent due to an illness in his family.

The trio answered a series of questions concerning unemployment compensation, Michigan's presidential primary and the state's economic future.

All three agreed the present unemployment compensation laws were stacked against businessmen and each favored eliminating payments to persons who quit their jobs or are fired.

"When a person quits, nobody owes them anything," Armbruster said.

They blamed the situation on what they termed a "labor dominated" legislature.

Hoffman said General Motors officials reportedly plan no expansion of their Michigan operations because of unemployment and workmen's compensation laws.

All three said the state's presidential primary is a "waste of time" and "a popularity contest".

"I think it's stupid and I've opposed it from the very beginning," Hoffman said.

Young said since 1972, the cost of the primary has soared from $1.5 million to $3 million. He added that delegates are not required to vote for the winners at the conventions.

The trio said unless the state's economy picks up rapidly, more budget cuts will have to be made this year, with schools and welfare feeling the pinch.

Fire destroys mobile home near Deford

A pre-dawn fire destroyed an unoccupied mobile home located about a mile south of Deford, Sunday.

Elkland Township Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said the fire, blamed on a faulty furnace, destroyed the structure owned by Don Cross of 5820 Severance Rd., Deford. The home was located on Kingston Road.

Loss was set at $5,000.

Jezewski said the fire was discovered by a passing motorist, Jim Lefler of Cass City, who radioed Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies on a citizen's band radio in his car. Firemen answered the alarm at 1:30 a.m.

STATE REPRESENTATIVES Loren Armbruster (R-Caro) and Quincy Hoffman (R-Applegate) chat over breakfast Monday at a meeting of area farmers and elevator operators sponsored by the Michigan Bean Shippers Association held at Cass City. Over 100 persons attended the meeting.

Your neighbor saysNo Saturday mail okay

U.S. Postal authorities have hinted that Saturday mail deliveries might have to be ended in order to save money. This comes on the heels of an increase of three cents in the cost of mailing a first class letter.

Mrs. Gordon Okerstrom of 6684 Huron St., Cass City, says an end to Saturday mail deliveries wouldn't bother her.

"I wouldn't be unhappy about it," she says. "The only problem I could see would be if someone were expecting a check or an important letter."

She says in that case, schedules could be rearranged to fit a five-day mail schedule.

Mrs. Okerstrom added that she's satisfied with the mail service as it stands.

"You have to look at it from the postal workers' point of view," she said. "They should be able to have Saturday and Sunday off like other people do."

Mrs. Okerstrom is a native of Detroit. She and her husband have lived in the Cass City area the past five years. Her husband is an employee of Anrod Screen Cylinder Co. The couple have two children.

Zonta club hears pilot

The monthly dinner meeting of the Zonta Club was held at the home of Helen Baker with Esther McCullough as cohostess.

The speaker of the evening was Capt. Mike Synder of Pan American Airlines. He has been with the airline for over thirty years. He related his experiences with the airline over the years, having been a Navy flyer for four years. Slides were shown of Fiji Island and the South Pacific.

He said the 747 has a capacity of 350 passengers and cruises at 500 miles an hour. Members of the crew are qualified pilots. Helen Baker presented a memorial service for Zonta charter member, Lucile Bauer. She was the second president of the club.

Plans were formulated for projects to raise money for the swimming pool to be completed this summer, bequeathed by Zontian Helen Stevens. A bingo party is planned for March and a rummage sale is planned for April. Funds raised will go toward the pool.

A nominating committee was appointed for new officers for the year. They are Florence Karr, Agnes Milligan and Lorene Rienstra. The next dinner meeting will be held at the home of Toby Weaver with Celia House as co-hostess.

"If It Fitz . . ." Swainson can't be harked

BY JIM FITZGERALD

What I like about TV, as opposed to real life, is something I call harking. John Swainson is real life, and there is no harking him.

This lovely doll on TV was slowly dying from a brain tumor and her doctor couldn't save her, no matter how many times he climbed into her bed. It was sad, and my daughter looked worried.

Fortunately, the producer had cast Elizabeth Montgomery as the dying doll. So there was really nothing to fret about.

"Don't worry," I said, "if she wants to live, all she has to do is twitch her nose."

Everyone can remember all those years when Miss Montgomery was Samantha the Witch. No trouble was too big for her, including death. If she wanted to live forever, all she had to do was twitch her nose. Which she did, and she still lives today, in marvelous erms made when skirts were much shorter. It is only right that legs like that should never die.

It makes my daughter angry when I prove the fantasy of TV land by harking. As in a powerful dramatic play the other night, when Edward Asner disappeared. "Do you think he is dead?" she asked.

"No," I answered, "I think he moved to Minneapolis to run the TV newsroom where Mary Tyler Moore works."

"I hate you when you hark," she said.

(Some readers might be confused at my use here of the word "hark." You probably think I should say "hark back." But that is redundant. Did you ever hark forward?)

So what has this TV nonsense got to do with John Swainson, Michigan's former war hero, governor and state supreme court justice?

Well, I grew up in the same town as Swainson. In fact, one of my few claims to fame is I once beat him in a tennis tournament. And this was before he lost his legs in World War 2, honest.

I still remember well the evening I learned about Swainson's terrible wounds. I was a year younger and home on furlough, about to go overseas. John Swainson had been a high school football star and was one of the best known young men in town. Many people cried at the loss of his legs, including me. To be honest, my tears were partly for what had happened to him, and partly for what might happen to me.

It was only a year or so later that John Swainson was back home, jitter-bugging on artificial legs. It was a grand thing to watch him dance that way. He was a real man and he went on to prove it, ultimately winning the highest office in the state. We were all so proud of him.

But today John Swainson stands convicted of perjury. A petty crook accused him of accepting a bribe but Swainson was cleared of this charge. He wasn't cleared of lying to a grand jury. The system of justice which he supported all his career declared Swainson guilty.

His penalty is a joke, worthy of a Watergate crook. Swainson has been sentenced to sort of a Holiday Inn, free to leave during the day and to go home week ends. And it will be a long time before he serves even that marshmallow, if ever, thanks to the appeal process.

I don't like 2 brands of justice, one for the big shot and another for Joe Slob, even when the big shot is my lifelong hero. I wish I could hark Swainson back to those days when he made us all so proud.

But life is real. And that's why I like TV, where a man can hark, and laugh, instead of cry.

JIM JEZEWSKI, Elkland Township Fire Chief, investigates damage caused by an overheated furnace at the Cass City Chronicle, Thursday. The fire damaged insulation around the boiler and filled the offices with smoke.

Fairgrove woman faces arson-murder charge

A 19-year-old Fairgrove woman stood mute last week when she was arraigned in Tuscola County Circuit Court on a charge of arson and murder.

Mrs. Susan Marie Schlicht appeared before Judge Norman Baguley. An innocent plea was entered in her behalf with no pre-trial examination date set.

A motion for authority to retain a psychiatrist for an examination at county expense was granted, and she was remanded to the Tuscola County Jail without bond.

Mrs. Schlicht stands accused in the murder of her 16-month-old son, Bryon, who died when the family's mobile home was destroyed in a New Year's Day fire near Fairgrove.

Two persons were sentenced by Judge Baguley. Henry Vern Maus, 33, formerly of Caro, was sentenced for a plea of guilty to attempted fraud to five years' probation, fines and costs totaling $400, and six months in the county jail with credit for 38 days already served.

Maus was also sentenced to pay restitution of $1,736 plus interest. Maus, a former Caro businessman, was charged with attempting to defraud the Akron State Bank in July, 1974.

Claire James Huntley, 19, Flint, was ordered to pay costs of $200 plus attorneys fees when he appeared for sentencing. Baguley delayed Huntley's sentence one year and ordered him to continue counseling with the Genesee County Mental Health department, to seek vocational training and find employment.

Huntley was arrested Dec. 3 in Millington, charged with stealing a camper cover valued at $220.

Set film

A film, "The Burning Hell," will be presented by Faith Gospel Tabernacle, located 9 1/4 miles southwest of Bad Axe on Rescue Road, Feb. 28 and 29 at 7:30 p.m.

The film also features scenes from the Holy Land. The public is invited.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

25 years. A quarter of a century. A third of a lifetime. Next week will mark our silver anniversary at the helm of this newspaper.

Relax. I'm not about to sob all over this page about it. All I'll say is that Dorothy and I have never been sorry. Not for a moment.

I've been trying to think how it was when I first took over as the youngest publisher in Michigan at 29 years old.

But it blurs. Snatches of those days come back only like a frozen frame in a fast moving film.

The room in the Bigelow house on Main Street where I bunked the first few weeks while waiting for the upstairs apartment to become available.

Reporting my first meeting. A caucus. I had never even heard of a caucus before that day. How was I to write about these strangers who seemed to talk more about getting the oats in than getting a slate nominated?

And who in the hell was "Ben" for president and "Andy" for trustee?

Or my gut fear over the threatened cancellation of subscriptions because I decided that beer advertising had a place in the paper.

Those and a hundred other incidents. But most of all the little thing along the base of my spine as I looked over the first edition that I, publisher John Haire, was responsible for. Publisher. That was a big word to me then.

The word was bigger than the job. More often than not when I tramped up and down the main stem trying to drum up an ad or a story, strangers would look, look again and grin while friends would double up with laughter and tell me to look in a mirror. I never had to. I knew that what caused all the merriment was a liberal dose of printer's ink smeared across my face or forehead.

In those early days you helped run the equipment or you didn't eat . . . and if I was within shouting distance of ink, or grease, or oil, or paint, I was sure to have it on me.

There's not much about the business district today that's the same as it was that first week in March in 1951 . . . or about the community either.

In a way it's a shame, too. No doubt Cass City is a better business community now than it was then. But we've lost a little of the personal touch. The closeness that we had is gone.

It was a simpler time. Running the paper was simpler, too. The country correspondent was the backbone of the news columns . . . possibly the most widely read stuff in the paper.

There's still plenty of interest in it . . . but you couldn't attract and hold readers with just this type social reporting today. Too many new people.

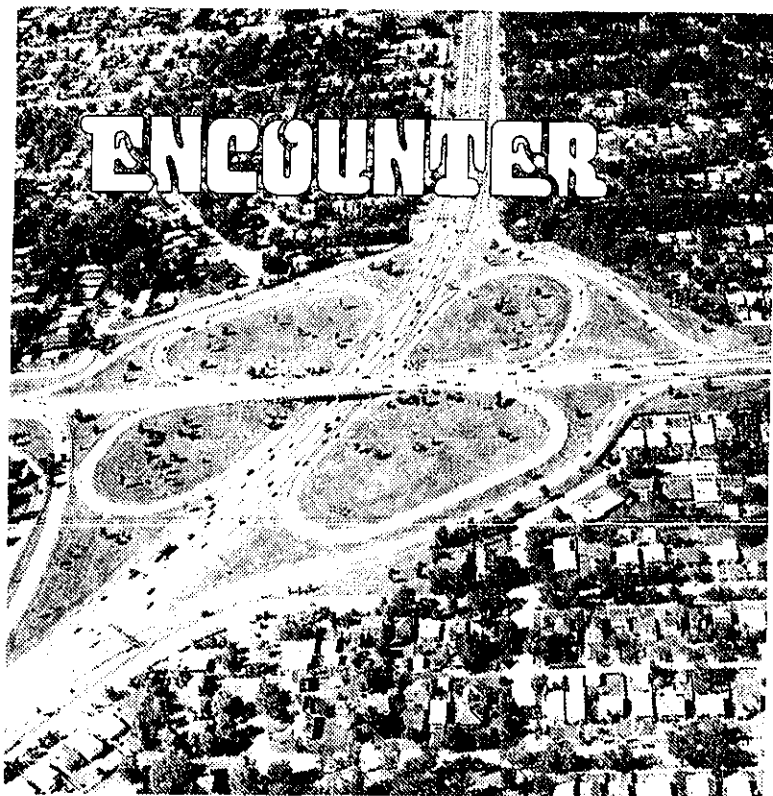

So we exchange one problem for another. We use mini-computers and cameras where we used to use hot metal and linotypes. We do it faster, cleaner and better.

But to survive we must offer more. And we do. Most weeks now it takes a pretty good story to make the front page. 25 years ago we sometimes wondered how to fill the columns.

The methods we use are different, the paper is different. But the pride in the product, the tingle that comes with a job well done is as great today as it was 25 years ago.

When I started all this I promised not to sob about it all . . . but I never said I wouldn't brag a little about those 25 years.

Forgive me, will you?

Many a village began at the crossroads. Most towns grew up around the intersection of two important thoroughfares. And the vast cities which now fight the penetration of traffic with beltways, thruways, and by-passes were themselves spawned by the very highways they would now escape.

Our civilization is largely the product of men's encounter with men at the crossroads of geography, sociology, history and science.

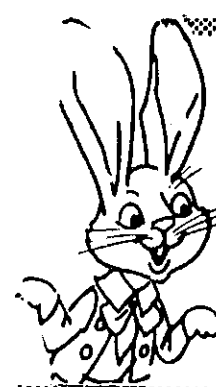

Never lose sight of the vital Crossroads . . . Religion.

That is the encounter of men with God! It has constantly offered positive, constructive approaches to the problems that surround the other intersections in time and experience.

When you hear the church bells next Sunday, remember. It is good to live at the Crossroads where Christ touches all human relationships with His power and love.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Welcome back, Harry Little.

The Chamber of Commerce president was prowling along the Main stem last week, the first time we've seen him since he was temporarily on the shelf with a heart attack a few weeks ago.

Harry was out drumming up support for the bicentennial celebration in Cass City and one of his stops was the Chronicle. One thing led to another and Harry was in the office quite awhile . . . longer than he expected.

When he left and returned to his car it was decorated with one of those little slips that the Cass City Police Department gives when that red flag goes up on the meters.

Welcome back, Harry.

Last week the John Haires enjoyed one of the fringe benefits of running a small business.

Dorothy scrubbed the downstairs office and I got to pick up and vacuum the upstairs composing room.

Bob Ridenour asked me if the fire at the Chronicle would receive the appropriate publicity in this week's paper. What fire?, I asked innocently.

Craig Carver, Cass City's artist in residence, tried to explain abstract art to Rotarians Tuesday. He also is teaching classes at Cass City High School. It was a good show and interesting . . . but.

There may be tougher audiences than Rotary, but they aren't around Cass City.

Trying to convince a group of phlegmatic, hard-headed businessmen that a bunch of colored cubes has beauty and a message is like trying to convince a student that a snow day is actually bad for education.

No one's ever done it.

Before you ask, no, I don't feel that Carver's wasting his time here and yes, I do feel that the Arts Council should receive kudos for this, their second, artist-in-residence program at the school and in the community.

It's just that when Carver showed slides showing paintings of the times of day, Bill Krizman said it looked like me blasting out of a sand trap.

(It did, too).

Furnace overheats at Chronicle

No, it wasn't a hot news story.

An overheated furnace was blamed for a fire that did minimal damage at the Chronicle offices Thursday morning, Feb. 19. Damage was confined to the basement.

The fire was discovered when Mrs. John Haire and Jim Ketchum reported for work. Smoke filled the first floor offices.

The fire did not interrupt Chronicle operations.

B. Hartsell, 83, dies Saturday

Basil Hartsell, 83, a lifelong Cass City area resident, died Saturday, Feb. 21, at Rapson Nursing Home in Pigeon.

He was born Sept. 12, 1892, in Tuscola county, son of the late George and Lenny Teller Hartsell.

He was a self-employed electrician for many years.

He attended the Grant Methodist church and was also a charter member and a life member of the Cass City Gun Club.

Survivors include cousins, Verne Ricker Sr. of Owendale and Mrs. Robert Osborn of Gagetown.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday from Little's Funeral Home with Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of Salem United Methodist church, officiating.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Traveling with Nixon

By Jim Ketchum

Someone should tell the Chinese that Richard Nixon isn't president anymore. I know it might come as a shock, but that's how it is.

In case you haven't heard, Nixon and his wife (accompanied by her Republican cloth coat) are spending some time in the People's Republic as guests of the Chinese.

Their hosts even sent a plane to pick him up. The White House says the former president is traveling as a private citizen. The more private, the better, I say.

The visit poses some interesting questions. For instance, the Chinese trip must be less of a strain than traveling that rugged road to Washington to testify about anything as sordid as Watergate.

He's even been spared the ignominy of buying tickets, getting a passport photo or being asked if he'd ever been convicted of a federal crime. His Chinese hosts should be congratulated on their insurmountability.

Then there's the question of why he's going at all. He's not in power and probably won't be close to it again. Maybe the Chinese think former presidents actually still run things.

One theory is that he timed his trip to embarrass President Ford in the New Hampshire primary. Maybe they don't like Ford because he tried eating soup with chopsticks during his China junket.

Actually, Ford did pretty well when he went to China. He didn't fall coming off the airplane or anything. He didn't call Mao leader of Nationalist China as he called Anwar Sadat the President of Israel.

Maybe Nixon mortgaged two states and the District of Columbia in exchange for having his picture taken at the Great Wall and now the Chinese want to collect.

Perhaps Nixon wants to try some political acupuncture on his career. If he plays his cards right, he could wind up as San Clemente's next dogcatcher. He could talk any Pekinese right into the truck.

Privately, White House officials are reportedly upset over Nixon's travel plans. They're afraid the former president is trying to upstage the man who kept him out of jail.

History probably won't record anything of lasting value in the trip. There will be pictures of the former chief executive shaking hands with the Chinese leadership, flashing big smiles and patting each other on the back.

I have my own theories on the trip. I think the Chinese want some information on the taping system. They enjoy planting secret listening devices and they probably want some technical advice from an expert.

If that's not it, there can be only one other reason—he wants to be the first used car salesman in China.

Opening a franchise will be tough. I mean, how many used Edsels and Hudsons are there anymore? Maybe he could make them a good deal on a used Russian Zis. The one owned by a little old lady from Leningrad who only drove it to Communist Party meetings on Sunday.

Such a deal!

Friday crash injures Cass City woman

A Cass City woman was listed in fair condition Tuesday at Hills and Dales General Hospital after suffering injuries in a single-car accident Friday afternoon on Deckerville Road, about two miles west of Deford.

Marjorie Grace Johnson, 39, of 4286 Oak St., was injured when her westbound car ran off the roadway and landed in a ditch.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported Ms. Johnson's car travelled 300 feet along the north shoulder of the road before angling across the road into a ditch on the south side.

The report indicated the car ran through the ditch into brush about 250 feet further. The accident took place at 1:50 p.m.

A rural Uby man was shaken up early Sunday morning in a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of Garfield and Maple Streets in Cass City.

Cass City Police identified the drivers as Scott Donald Hartel, 20, of 2092 W. Huron Line Rd., Uby, and Gregory Bruce Thompson, 28, of 4245 Maple St.

Police said Hartel was southbound on Maple Street and was apparently unable to stop for the intersection, striking the Thompson vehicle which was westbound on Garfield.

No ticket was issued. The accident took place at 2:25 a.m.

Former Gagetown patrolman Jack McCampbell was shaken up Sunday afternoon in a two-car collision at the intersection of M-81 and Bradleyville Roads.

Cass City Police reported McCampbell was westbound on M-81 when he was struck by a car driven by Gerda Hoppe, 31, of Sebawaing. Ms. Hoppe told police she stopped for the intersection but apparently did not see McCampbell. She was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

The accident took place at 4:40 p.m.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Area police investigated a rash of property damage accidents Saturday, caused in part by a four-inch snowfall that slowed traffic to a crawl in most areas.

Two persons were injured when the car in which they were riding slid out of control and landed in a ditch on Kelly Road, three miles southwest of Cass City.

Sheriff's deputies said the driver, Lawrence Ray McCloy, 23, of 5946 Kelly Rd., Cass City, apparently lost control of the eastbound car on slippery pavement and slid into a ditch along the south side of the road.

His passenger, Sharon Lynn Dost, 24, Caro, was not injured. The accident took place at 4:30 p.m.

Cars driven by Floyd Milton Soldan, 29, of 7011 Severance Rd., Cass City, and Luther Miracle, 50, of Gilford Rd., Deford, collided late Saturday morning at the intersection of Cemetery and Severance Roads.

Sheriff's deputies said Soldan was westbound on Severance Road, tried to stop for the Cemetery Road intersection and slid into the path of the southbound Miracle vehicle. Neither driver was injured.

The accident took place at 11:10 a.m.

Two area accidents involving drivers attempting to back out of driveways were reported Saturday.

A car driven by John Riley Christopherson, 50, Flushing, northbound on M-53, six miles southeast of Cass City, struck a car driven by Gene Allen Stoll, 25, of 5588 N. Van Dyke Rd., as Stoll attempted to back from a driveway.

Neither driver was injured. Cass City police investigated the accident which took place at 11:35 a.m.

A car driven by Duane Paul Kruse, 17, of 5043 Schwegler Rd., Cass City, south on Schwegler Rd., struck a car driven by Thomas A. Jackson, 38, of Griffith, Ind., as Jackson attempted to back from a driveway on the west side of the road.

Neither driver was injured in the 11:40 a.m. accident. Sheriff's deputies investigated.

A trench eroded across Gilford Road a mile and a half southwest of Deford was blamed for an accident that damaged a car driven by Randy George Clink, 22, of Caro, Saturday.

Caro State Police said Clink was westbound when the front wheels of the car hit the trench, estimated to be two feet deep. Damage was reported to the suspension of the car.

Clink and his three passengers, Sherrie Clink, 18, Caro, Dawn Champagne, 14, Deford, and Bobbie Miller, 14, Kingston, were not injured. The accident took place at 12:00 p.m.

In an unusual accident reported Monday, Janet Mary Smith, 37, of 3286 E. Deckerville Rd., Cass City, told Sheriff's deputies a large block of ice fell from an oncoming truck and damaged the windshield of her car as she travelled west on Deckerville Road, six miles west of Deford.

She was not injured. The incident was reported at 1:05 p.m.

A car driven by Grant Duane Gettel, 25, of 5972 Noble St., Kingston, struck and killed a deer on Cemetery Road, a mile south of Cass City, Friday.

Gettel was southbound on Cemetery Road when the deer ran from the west side of the road into the path of his car. He was not injured. The accident took place at 6:45 p.m.

Novesta church sets note-burning

A special feature of the morning worship service in the Novesta Church of Christ, Sunday, Feb. 29, will be a note-burning ceremony, celebrating completed payment of the educational unit which was constructed across the road from the church. Ground breaking was in June 1971. The unit, which along with the land purchased, cost approximately $25,000.00, according to Lee Hartel who served as chairman of the building committee and payment was completed in December.

A special offering for the building fund was made each month that had five Sundays, according to the pastor, Rev. Harold Prong.

Sunday School classes and certain other church activities are held in the unit.

The congregation is already looking forward to the eventual construction of a new church and the nucleus of that fund is some $1700.00. A special offering will be taken Sunday.

Assuming too much, too often, usually means many mistakes.

State Representative Quincy Hoffman (R-Appleton) has been named chairman of the House Republican Task Force on Agriculture.

Hoffman was appointed to this position by House Republican Leader Dennis O. Cawthorne of Manitowish who announced the creation of seven task forces to study important state issues and propose alternative legislative solutions to problems.

Representative Hoffman was selected to head this task force because of his background in agriculture.

Hoffman is a farmer and is vice-chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

He was also very active in bringing about a solution to the PBB problem that surfaced nearly two years ago when contaminated feed destroyed thousands of head of cattle and other farm animals.

AARP meeting

Fifty-six members were present when Cass City AARP held its monthly meeting at the Elkland Township Fire Hall, Feb. 12.

Waldo Martindale and Dorothy Monte of the Thumb District Health Department spoke on hypertension. Members who have not been checked for the disease in the past year will be offered a free test at the group's April 8 meeting.

Carolyn Benscoter, chairperson for Huron Inter-Agency Services for the Handicapped committee, gave a presentation on educational opportunities.

A new slate of officers was elected and will be installed at the March 11 meeting, scheduled for the fire hall at 12:30 p.m. Mrs. Esther McCullough will be the installing officer.

Verna McConnell, Rose Simon and Mildred Herr will be in charge of arrangements.

BETTER HEALTH

Gramp

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

"On February 11, 1974, Frank Tugend, aged eighty-one and of dubious sound mind — but certainly of sound body — removed his false teeth and announced that he was no longer going to eat or drink.

"Three weeks later to the day he died.

"His death brought to a close a three year ordeal — and a three year documentation — of gradual, but finally total, deterioration."

So go the opening sentences of "Gramp," an extraordinary account of how a man ages and dies and one family's encounter with the reality of dying, written by Mark and Dan Jury. (Grossman Publishers, a division of Viking Press, New York, 1976).

Mark and Dan Jury, the grandchildren of Gramp, produced this remarkably forthright book of photographs with commentary, recording the life of Gramp. They had known and loved him in the late prime of his life and during the agonizing, final three years of his existence after he had begun to fail.

They did not know exactly when it "began to happen."

Gramp had been a self-sufficient Pennsylvania miner who had built a house for himself and his family in the woods near Scranton, Pa.

It was during their summer holiday visits to Gramp's place that his grandchildren came to know and love him.

Clearly handy with a camera (Mark Jury has also published "The Vietnam Photo Book"), the two grandsons recorded this poignant photographic essay of Gramp's decline and death almost by accident.

They say they never did "decide" to take pictures, since they always photographed their family as a matter of habit. In the afterword to the book, they say they photographed Gramp before he became senile and continued to record their own lives, now that he is gone.

When Gramp's condition became such that he required "baby sitting," constant supervision and the inevitable diapering and bathing after accidents, the two grandsons took pains to record every touching and often humiliating step of Gramp's ordeal from the first moment of confusion to his final coma and peaceful death.

No self-congratulation, no hint of preening or having fulfilled their obligation mars the straightforward account of the family's acceptance of Gramp and their willingness to see him through to an honorable finish of a good life.

Two photographs on the back cover of the book tell the story. On the left, a vigorous grandfather wearing a baseball cap proudly holds his baby grandson in his arms in 1954. On the right, a young man with bearded chin and hair to his shoulders lifts the tiny, shrunken body that was his grandfather from his bed, clearly intent on some nursing chore that will be managed with businesslike tenderness.

Without any question, this family's account of their encounter with the reality of dying will stir the hearts of millions of Americans who are dealing with senility in their households. They, too, know as Mark and Dan say it loud and clear — senility, hardening of the arteries, or generalized arteriosclerosis in real life translates into standing naked in front of the picture window, "talking" to a giant red rabbit that lives in the refrigerator or being unable to control one's bowels.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Contract talks between the UAW-CIO and Walbro Corporation have reached an impasse as workers at the Cass City based company voted Monday to reject a company offer by a 163-13 majority.

Village employees were taken off an hourly wage scale and granted wage boosts of about seven per cent Tuesday night by the Cass City Village Council. The increases will boost the cost of wages to the village about $6,500 per year.

The county may be forced to wade through the process of reapportionment this year, based on population changes reflected in the 1970 census.

In spite of the adoption of a record $329,165 budget for 1971, Village President Lambert Althaver says that no new village taxes will be levied.

Miss Sally Whittaker of Cass City was crowned Tuscola Campus Life Sweetheart Saturday night, Feb. 20, at the third annual pageant held at Mayville High School.

TEN YEARS AGO

Alley surfacing plans in Cass City's business district hit a snag this week as merchants protested costs involved, Trustee Fred Auten said this week.

Al Torpie has been named personnel manager at General Cable Corp., officials announced this week.

Lynn Atwell, Cass City skier, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Atwell, were to have left Wednesday for Lutsen, Minn., where she will compete in divisional competition Saturday and Sunday under the auspices of the United States Ski Association. A $210,000 village budget will be presented for review Tuesday, March 1.

Cass City Board of Education members placed their stamp of approval on plans for the new Cass City High School but whether or not the building will be completed without seeking more funds remains to be seen.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Arrangements have been made for the transfer of the Cass City Chronicle to John Haire of Wyandotte and E.J. LaPorte of Pinconning. The new owners will take possession next week.

William Profit of Cass City is one of three sponsors for the newly formed Young Republicans' Club which signed 70 members last Saturday at a Lincoln Day banquet at Vassar.

Clifford Croft has been nominated to his third successive term as village president.

Dale Derow and Harry Rueger, a pair of towering Sebewaing cagers, forced the Cass City Red Hawks to settle for second place in the Upper Thumb Conference Tuesday night before a turn-away capacity crowd that jammed the Sebewaing gym to see Cass City lose 52-44.

Grant Little of Cass City, a senior at Central Michigan College, was one of the representatives of his school's debating team that finished in a tie for second place in the Kent State tournament held at Kent, Ohio.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Gagetown voters will decide whether or not to allow sale of liquor by the glass when they go to the polls March 10.

The annual crow shooting contest of the Tuscola County Conservation Club will open March 1 and close June 30, reports C.A. Stewart, secretary. Last year, club members shot 3,086 crows.

Mrs. Malcolm Crawford of Cass City has knitted 13 pairs of mittens for the Red Cross while recovering from a broken hip at Pleasant Home Hospital.

A talk on the "Life of Lincoln" and on "Legislation" was given by Audley Rawson, Tuscola county's representative in the state legislature, Friday evening when the Cass City Grange met at the Bird Schoolhouse.

Cass City lost a 29-20 decision to Caro Friday night in a rough and tumble battle on the Caro floor.

GAGETOWN

Mrs. Harold Koch

Eileen Pennoch, visiting from California, was surprised with a birthday party Sunday, Feb. 8, at the Art Freeman home. Lunch and birthday cake were served to those attending.

St. Peter's Lutheran church of Bach held a service of rededication, commemorating the 25th anniversary of its present church building Sunday, Feb. 15. Guest speaker was Pastor E.W. Scheck of Sebewaing, who was pastor at Bach when the church was first dedicated. Music was provided by the Bach-Kilmanah school choir and the church choir. A potluck dinner and short program followed in the church dining hall.

NORTH ELMWOOD FARM BUREAU

The North Elmwood Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim LaFave Monday, Feb. 16, with 12 members present. Discussion was on "Participating in Elections and Bicentennial Activities". A luncheon was served by the hostess. For their March meeting, the group will attend a meeting on Workmen's Compensation.

+++++

Mrs. Nelson Koch and Mrs. Harold Koch called on the family of Miss Bertha Nitz, at the Dinkel Funeral Home in Sebewaing, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold Koch

Eileen Pennoch, visiting from California, was surprised with a birthday party Sunday, Feb. 8, at the Art Freeman home. Lunch and birthday cake were served to those attending.

St. Peter's Lutheran church of Bach held a service of rededication, commemorating the 25th anniversary of its present church building Sunday, Feb. 15. Guest speaker was Pastor E.W. Scheck of Sebewaing, who was pastor at Bach when the church was first dedicated. Music was provided by the Bach-Kilmanah school choir and the church choir. A potluck dinner and short program followed in the church dining hall.

NORTH ELMWOOD FARM BUREAU

The North Elmwood Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim LaFave Monday, Feb. 16, with 12 members present. Discussion was on "Participating in Elections and Bicentennial Activities". A luncheon was served by the hostess. For their March meeting, the group will attend a meeting on Workmen's Compensation.

+++++

Mrs. Nelson Koch and Mrs. Harold Koch called on the family of Miss Bertha Nitz, at the Dinkel Funeral Home in Sebewaing, Friday afternoon.

4-H ACTIVITIES

Let 4-Her choose project

By Bernard Jardot

Learning experiences are all the "means" used to foster young people's growth and development. One of these "means" you can use in 4-H is the self-determined project.

With adult guidance, young people can usually determine their own projects. The self-determined project idea makes it possible to work with projects and activities not included in your 4-H club program at this time. Such projects can develop from something in which the young person is interested, would like to do, or wants to learn more about.

You say you do not have the reference or skills in all areas. Have you checked out the resources available from your member's parents? How about other interested adults in your community?

Literature and other resource material is not always available. But part of the learning experience is to have young people search out resources needed. With your guidance, the member can select the project area, set goals, and determine how he or she will conduct this project.

Yes, you can help young people develop understanding attitudes toward new ways of doing things.

You can save yourself a lot of trouble by not borrowing any.

PANACEA

Community gatherings are said to be one of the best remedies for juvenile delinquency.

Food crisis solution—more production, education

"Hysterical campaigns" against population growth aren't the answer to possible world food problems, says a Michigan State University agriculture specialist.

"The immediate solution lies in all-out food production and in education," says Dr. Sylvan Wittwer, director of MSU's Agricultural Experiment Station. "The victory has to be an agricultural one."

Thus Wittwer rejects the so-called "lifeboat ethic," the idea that all mankind cannot be saved from starvation, and it must be decided that some are expendable.

"It is morally unacceptable, politically unrealistic, economically unsound, ethically unthinkable and realistically not necessary (to adopt that lifeboat ethic) if one gives any recognition to human creativity and the management of resources," Wittwer says.

He lists four reasons for increasing food production:

--help for starving peoples abroad.

--reduction of current worldwide anxiety and restlessness.

--more reasonable food prices for everyone.

--maintenance of a balance of payments in international trade, a good business practice.

How can all this be done? Wittwer says research should be aimed at stabilizing high food production levels and commanding more efficient use of energy, water, fertilizer and land resources. "Today we have more food per capita than 20 years ago."

Wittwer says. "That people are malnourished or starving is a question of food distribution, resources and economics, not agricultural limits."

"The problem is delivery. It's putting the food where the people are, and providing an income so they can buy it."

WINTER WONDERLAND

Folks are taking to Michigan's playgrounds in record numbers this season—despite money problems plaguing the state and nation.

Gov. William Milliken reported earlier this month that tourism in the state is running between 15 and 30 per cent above the record high levels of the 1973-74 winter season.

In the western Michigan area, Milliken said, a survey of major resorts showed business up 30 per cent during the holiday season. Resorts in the western Upper Peninsula, as well as operators at southeast Michigan ski slopes, report record attendance. And, while the central portion of the U.P. got off to a slow start, it now is at a par or slightly ahead of the record set last year.

MICHIGAN HAS SISTER

Shiga Prefecture—ever heard of it?

It's Michigan's sister state, a lake-tourist area with climate similar to ours, in Japan. Since 1968, Michigan and Shiga Prefecture have carried out people-to-people exchanges in an attempt to learn more about each other.

This summer, a delegation of 165 Shiga residents, including Gov. Takemura, businessmen, teachers and members of a girls' choral group, will fly to Michigan to help celebrate this country's bicentennial.

They're slated to visit various parts of the state, including several areas which have sister cities in Japan. They include: Ann Arbor, Birmingham, Grand Rapids, Gross Pointe Farms, Lansing, Petoskey, Sturgis, Sault Ste. Marie and Traverse City.

Ubly spans listless Cass City after Eagles bow to Hawks in upset

Neither the fact that Cass City had upset Frankenmuth in its previous game or the 108-59 lacing that the Hawks administered to the Bearcats in the first meeting impressed Ubly at all Tuesday night and Mark Zurek and company walked off the floor with a 71-67 upset victory at Ubly.

Cass City apparently was impressed by its previous victory over Ubly and its win over Frankenmuth last Friday and they opened the game as if all they had to do was walk on the floor to win. Ubly soon dispelled that theory and while doing so showed again that good defense is the key to winning games when the shots aren't falling as expected.

It was not until the second half that the Hawks started playing any kind of defense at all.

The host team was consistently beating Cass City down the floor with a one, two and sometimes a three-man advantage.

The fast breaks coupled with some phenomenal shooting by Mark Zurek spelled the difference.

At the end of the first period the Bearcats were in front 18-11. At the half the margin was a big 36-23.

In the second half Cass City's pressing defense started to take its toll and the Hawks started to close the gap.

Featuring balanced scoring, Cass City moved to within five, 46-41, at the three quarter mark and was charging.

For the first and only time since the start of the game the Hawks finally tied it, 53-53, with 4:04 left and it looked as if the Hawks had momentum.

But Zurek and Dale Osenotski took control at this point and the Bearcats spurred again. With 2:03 remaining the Ubly lead was at 10 points. That didn't last long. Cass City came charging back and with 1 1/2 minutes left moved to within four points.

The Hawks fouled trying to get the ball but the Bearcats were deadly from the charity stripe. Osenotski made both ends of a one and one and Gary Kaufman followed suit and it was all over for Cass City.

Mark Zurek was the big gunner of the night. He poured in 13 field goals and 5 of 5 from the free throw line for 31 points. Many of his baskets were on long jumpers from 25 to 30 feet out. Mark McCoy netted 18 and Osenotski added 12 points and was a vital factor in the rebounding department.

Clarke Haire led Cass City scorers with 17 points. Also in double figures were Paul Battel, 13, and Rick Tuckey, 10.

JV'S WIN

Coach Dale McIntosh's Junior Varsity got back on the victory trail with a 56-51 decision. The little Hawks went ahead early and remained in front all the way.

FRANKENMUTH GAME

Clarke Haire hit a short jumper with 12 seconds left to push the Cass City Red Hawks to victory over Thumb B Conference leading Frankenmuth Friday night, 56-55.

The basket capped a stirring comeback by Cass City which trailed the host team by six points mid-way through the period with two regulars on the bench via the foul route.

The game made a prophet out of Coach Ron Nurnberger who earlier in the week said that the team was going to have to get good performances out of Chuck Hendrick and Jeff Hartel off the bench to be a factor in the games the rest of the way.

And the two were one of the major factors in the win. Hartel played a strong defensive game and Hendrick played some of his best ball of the year after Ken Lowe and Paul Battel were benched with five fouls. He picked up four points, four rebounds and did a fine defensive job on Paul Bernthal while he was in the game. Actually the victory was a gamble by Coach Nurnberger that paid off big. Hurting for big men under the boards, he decided to bank on a shot in the dying moments rather than play to go ahead with more than a minute and a half left.

The Hawks were behind 55-50 with about two minutes left when a pair of unanswered buckets cut the margin to a point and set the stage for the last second bucket.

Haire took the ball and penetrated the Frankenmuth zone to a spot just left of the foul line. He jumped, pumped and looked for Rick Tuckey before finally sinking the winning 12-foot shot.

When the game opened it didn't appear as if the Hawks were going to be even close when the final whistle blew. The Eagles beat the Hawks down the floor for three cheap baskets in a row and before fans had really settled in their seats were behind 10-2.

That was as far as the league leaders were ever to be in front. Paced by Ken Lowe the Hawks started to close the gap.

It was 18-10 at the end of the initial period. In a blazing second quarter performance the Hawks moved in front. Tuckey supplied the offensive fire power in the period as the Hawks moved off the floor at intermission on the long end of a 30-28 score.

As it has been many times this season, the third quarter proved disastrous for Cass City. Paul Battel helped keep the score close with his best offensive work of the game but when the smoke cleared Cass City was behind 45-40 as the final quarter started.

Haire showed the way in the last quarter. He scored 14 of his 18 points in the last half, nine in the final period.

Also in double figures for Cass City were Tuckey and Lowe, each with 10 points.

Far more important to the team effort than his 10 points were Tuckey's 20 big rebounds . . . his best of the season.

Cass City High School's Girls' Volleyball team split two matches with Marlette Thursday at Cass City, finishing their season with a 6-6 record.

The first match went to Cass City in two games, 15-5 and 15-8.

The second match was tougher, with two of the three games decided by no more than three points. Marlette took the first game 14-12, with time running out before the 15th point could be scored.

Cass City breezed to a 15-8 win in the second game, but Marlette bounced back to take the third contest 15-12.

In invitational tourney action Saturday at Vassar, Cass City managed wins over Reese and Lakeville, but lost to Vassar and Mayville. Frankenmuth took top tournament honors, with Cass City finishing a disappointing fourth in a field of seven teams.

The team's next action takes place March 6 in a tournament scheduled for Caseville.

Hawks pleased with pairings in district tourney

The luck of the draw has given the Cass City Red Hawks a better than even chance of advancing to the finals in the Class C district tournament to be held at Laker High School next week.

The Hawks drew a bye and will play the winner of the Harbor Beach-Ubly game Wednesday, March 3. In the bottom half of the tourney USA, the odds-on favorite to capture the district toga, also drew a bye and will meet the winner of the Lakers-Bad Axe game Thursday, March 4.

The Lakers and Bad Axe will square off Tuesday, March 2, while Harbor Beach and Ubly meet Monday.

All games will start at 8 p.m. In the regular season the Hawks defeated Harbor Beach twice and split with Ubly. Neither of the Harbor Beach games could be called decisive.

The Hawks defeated the Pirates twice in overtime. The championship game will be played Saturday, March 6.

Carver brings view of life through art to Cass City

He sat on a table at the Elkland Township Cultural Center, legs folded Indian-style, and heaved a sigh. It had been a hard day, Craig Carver, 21, artist in residence at Cass City High School, said.

Hard, but satisfying. Very satisfying.

"You've really got a great bunch of kids here," he said. "They've responded really well. They're interested and they've come up with some excellent comments."

Carver had just completed his first week teaching four classes of high school students in the basics of abstract art, specifically in silk screening. He admitted it wasn't always easy, but that both he and his students seemed to enjoy it.

"The biggest problem is to get them to loosen up," Carver said, peering through horn-rim glasses. "They worry that they might make a mistake and they think each thing they do has to be a masterpiece. I try to get them to scribble and to make a few failures because that's how they learn."

Carver stresses abstract art and admitted at times he has to put himself into his presentations.

"I yell a little," he said. "I get a little flamboyant. But it gets them stimulated. They get a little mad at me but it gets them thinking. And in the process, I've seen some pretty good stuff turned out."

The young artist was born in Sioux Falls, S.D., in 1954, and said art became a part of his life at an early age.

"I got my sense of design from my father and I think my practicability came from my mother," he said. "I painter from an early age and by the time I was in the eighth grade, it was a part of me."

He enrolled as a special art student at Sioux Falls College in high school, and later studied painting at the Civic Fine Arts Association.

After graduation from Lincoln Senior High School, he traveled and studied in Europe and served as resident artist on Artrain on tour of the Rocky Mountain States and Michigan.

He is presently employed as coordinator for Artrain by the Upper Midwest Regional Arts Council and works in his studio in Minneapolis.

Carver has also had nine one-man shows and major exhibitions since 1970.

RESIDENCIES

Carver said he enjoys residency programs such as his Cass City stint because it gives him a chance to meet people and to work with students, introducing them to art.

While on tour with Artrain in Michigan, he met Mrs. Holly Althaver and Mrs. Karen Wallace, both of whom were interested in bringing an artist who worked in the abstract into the area for a residency.

Carver said he has enjoyed his stay in Cass City and added he would like to do more residencies in other small towns. But that isn't his ultimate goal.

"I think eventually, I'd like to have a studio of my own where I could concentrate on good graphics," he said.

But that's in the future. When his current tour ends, Carver said he plans to do a little skiing and then start looking for a job. He is currently a student at the Minneapolis College of Art and Design.

Who are some of Carver's favorite artists? That's hard to say, he replied. One of his favorite impressionist artists is Henri Matisse.

What about the works of Pablo Picasso?

"I'm not particularly wild about him," Carver said thoughtfully. "He's a force that can't be discounted in art. He's the artist's artist. Some of his periods are good. Others, I don't like—particularly cubism."

Carver said he enjoys Cass City. Most of all, he enjoys art and teaching it.

"Schools are becoming more aware of art," he says. "In many schools, this is the first time most students have had any contact with art since kindergarten."

He's hopeful the trend will continue. It will if he has anything to say about it.

DeGrow bill lets schools feed aged

BENJAMIN HENNESSEY

Hennessey, a 1975 graduate of Cass City High School, entered the service Dec. 3.

He leaves Feb. 26 to begin studies in interior communications in San Diego, Calif.

His address is BE&E School, SSC, NTC, San Diego, Calif. 92133.

Local school districts can now legally provide food services for the aging if they so desire, following Governor Milliken's approval of a bill sponsored by State Senator Alvin DeGrow (R-28th District).

The bill, signed by Milliken Thursday, amends the school code to allow a school board to enter into a contract to provide material, personnel and equipment to establish and operate a low-cost meal program for persons 60 years of age or older, and their spouses.

"Some school districts are already providing food services for senior citizens and a number of others have indicated an interest," DeGrow said. "According to the Department of Education, the comments received from the schools operating programs indicate that children as well as senior citizens have benefited from these programs."

The operation of such a program would add no extra cost to the school districts' general funds. The bill requires school districts to maintain separate expenditures and receipts to insure recovery of the total program cost through a nominal charge to customers.

"Because of inflation and limited means, many senior citizens are unable to maintain an adequate level of nutrition," DeGrow said. "This new law allows the school district to provide meals to the elderly along with the many other services they already provide."

set local appearance

The Cedarville College Swordbearers will present a gospel program at the First Baptist church Saturday, Feb. 28, and Sunday, Feb. 29.

The teenagers of the church will meet at 12:30 p.m. for an afternoon of bowling. The Swordbearers will teach Seminars at four and five o'clock. Seminar titles are "Dating", "Knowing God", "Self-Acceptance", "Christian's use of Leisure Time", and "Christian Liberties."

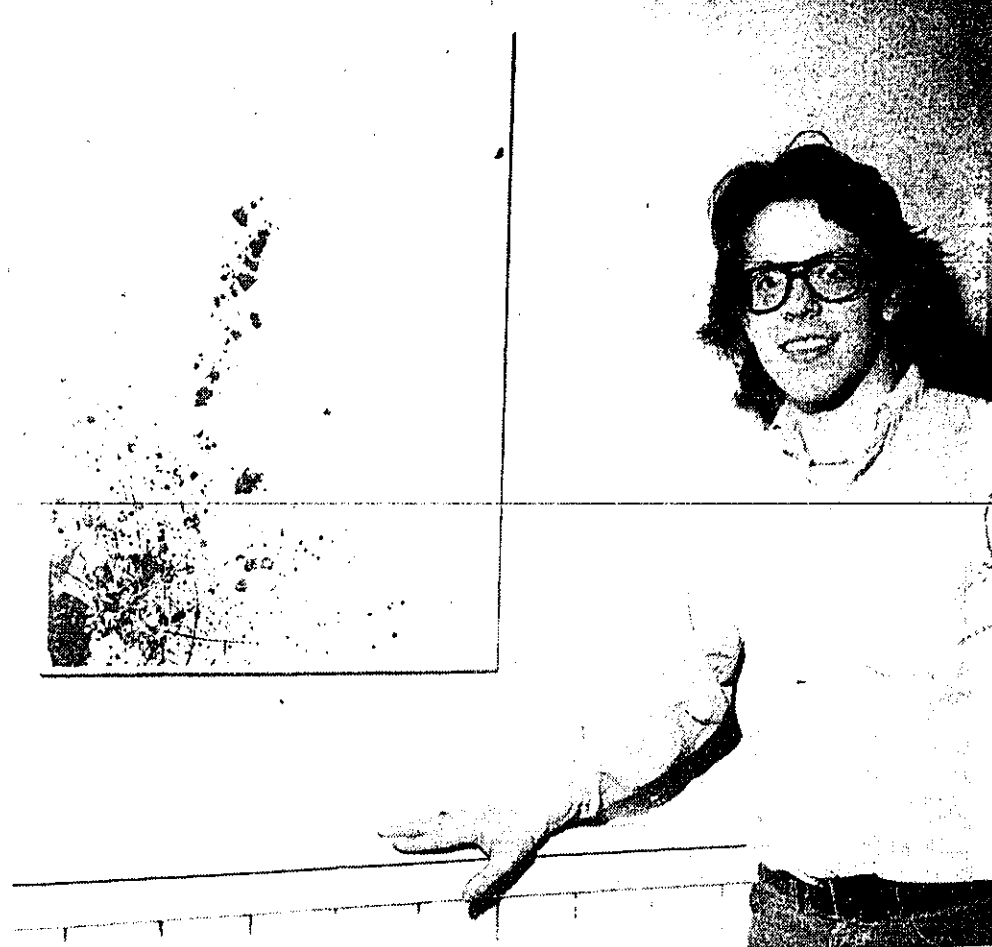

Dinner will be served, without charge, at 6:00, in the church dining room.

All teenagers in the Cass City area are welcome to attend all of the Saturday afternoon and evening activities.

A rally will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday with the Swordbearers providing both the speakers and the music. All ages are welcome at the evening rally.

The Swordbearers will also teach and sing in all of the Sunday School departments and the morning worship service at 10:00 and 11:00 a.m.

The Swordbearers are an organization of the Christian Service Department of Cedarville College, a Baptist college of Arts and Sciences now enrolling about 1,000 students. The four-year, degree granting college is located in southwest Ohio.

Letter to the Editor

Owen-Gage story 'way off base'

Dear Editor,

Please allow me to make some corrections regarding an article that appeared in the Cass City Chronicle, dated Thur. Feb. 12, 1976. The article in question was titled "Charge Conflict in Owen-Gage Vote". The writer of the story Mr. Jim Ketchum was inaccurate and way off base in his reporting of this story to you the readers of the Cass City Chronicle. The facts and truths are as follows:

1. At NO time CHARGED Supt. Dalton O. Coe with aiding a group attempting to defeat last December's Owen-Gage school bond issue. I consider the term CHARGE to be of a most serious nature. To better illustrate my point please consider the following:

1. While in Mr. Ketchum's office, I pointed out to him that their is a big difference between suspicions and fact, and until I had a FACT, that Supt. Coe was physically involved, it was of little value since rumors mean nothing.

2. I told Supt. Erickson the same thing while in his office.

3. On Feb. 6, I called and talked to F. James McBride, Huron Intermediate School Superintendent and again I had told him that Supt. Coe COULD HAVE BEEN instrumental in giving direction to defeat the bond issue. That is quite different than CHARGING him of such an action. Also I told him that reason to believe and proof positive were quite different. If I was going to charge the Superintendent with such action, certainly I would have reported it to the Midland Daily News based on fact of which I never did as of then I had no FACTS.

Also while talking with Supt. McBride I asked him, if in fact Supt. Coe was at the public hearing held on June 30, 1975. His first response was "No, in fact I wouldn't even be able to identify him if I saw him on sight". At which point I reminded him that I had been in Mr. Erickson's office the day before (Feb. 5th) and he had told Mr. Erickson "Yes, Supt. Coe was at the public hearing, and in fact at one point he was told to be quiet and sit down". After rethinking his original statement, he did admit to me "Yes, I do recall him being there and I could recognize him on sight."

I would like to quote a part of Mr. Ketchum's story:

"Gunderman discussed the POSSIBILITY of Coe's alleged intervention" end of quote. If his story was accurate and consistent throughout the article, he should not have used the term "POSSIBILITY" as this certainly shows the difference between a charge and a suspicion.

Although the citizens committee of Bullock Creek does have much concern for Supt. Coe's actions, it would be unfair to charge him on this issue unless it could or can be proven.

While Supt. McBride states "Even if he had, I see nothing legally or morally wrong with it," I certainly feel it shows poor judgement on behalf of a superintendent to attend a political meeting such as that in which his own son has a personal interest in. I believe it is fair to say, it was no accident that he just happened to be present at this meeting since his son and Mr. Belk were the interested parties to the issue. Also it was no accident that Supt. Coe just happened to be in the office that I was previously employed, the day of my firing.

Thank you for allowing me to express my point of view and set the record straight regarding this issue.

Better counseling, job placement urged in Manpower Consortium report

Forty-five per cent of all persons who left Thumb area CETA-funded programs in the last six months of 1975 were either fired or quit, according to a recently-completed survey. The rest found jobs.

The survey, conducted by a committee of the Thumb Area Manpower Consortium, said over 85 per cent of "non-positive terminations" were due to an applicant quitting a training program or subsidized job.

The report was submitted to the administrative board at its Thursday meeting held in Cass City.

It indicated the problem stems from "a lack of effective counseling, assessment and successful matching of participants to available placements."

"Prevention counseling rather than crisis counseling should be emphasized," the report said. It said another reason for the high rate of persons quitting or being fired stemmed from placing applicants in jobs not suited for them.

Originally, planners had guessed that only 27 per cent of all terminations would include firings or quits. The board learned that figure was arbitrary.

"How do we know we're that far out of line?" Sam Work, Sanilac County Consortium board member asked. "Maybe if you check with other consortiums in the state you'll find they have just as high a rate."

The report also stated that more persons signed up for classroom training and work experience programs than were planned. At the same time, costs were less than planned.

It noted that 30 per cent of the participants in Public Service Employment were economically disadvantaged (annual incomes under $4,000) while 93 per cent of training program participants fell into the category.

The report recommended that eligibility requirements for PSE employees be tightened.

In another recommendation, the report said present training contractors should not be given additional obligated CETA funds to spend by June 30.

"This action might seriously jeopardize the quality of training placements," the report said.

FISCAL REPORT

The Consortium board learned that through January, it had been allocated $4,735,539.32 in CETA funds for Titles I, II, III, VI, and X. Total expenditures were $2,427,414.51.

A total of 565 participants were being served.

Under Title I, which includes work experience, classroom training, on-the-job training and public service employment in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties, $1,333,076 has been allocated and $530,358.58 has been spent. A total of 232 persons are enrolled in various Title I programs.

In Title II, a total of $689,274.48 has been allocated and $370,953.62 spent. Title II includes public service employment in which 67 persons participate.

In Title VI, a total of $2,376,052.62 has been allocated while $1,271,305.60 has been spent. Title VI includes 266 participants in public service employment.

Title X is a $29,700 softball field being constructed at Port Hope.

The board learned that an extension of Title VI has been approved by the House of Representatives that would establish between 550,000 and 600,000 jobs nationwide by next June 30.

The future of the bill is still in doubt, the board learned, since it faces Senate action. It is believed a supplemental appropriation to keep current CETA jobs going will be needed before the new bill is signed into law.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board approved funneling $156,763 in unobligated funds to a new Title I public service employment program and that all persons involved in the new program be "economically disadvantaged."

The board also approved spending an additional $183,025 in transition quarter funding to extend work experience, on-the-job training and classroom training programs through Sept. 30.

A change in the federal fiscal year extending it through Sept. 30 required additional appropriations in various programs.

The new Title I funds will be split among the three counties. Tuscola county will receive 42 per cent, Huron county 31 per cent and Sanilac county 27 per cent.

Director Frank Lenard said the splits were figured based on yearly unemployment figures.

Tuscola's 1975 unemployment rate average stood at 16.9 per cent; Huron county's stood at 19.6 per cent and Sanilac county's at 12.9 per cent.

Mike Lucas, of the Sanilac County Mental Health Department, appeared before the board to outline a plan to screen handicapped persons for possible CETA positions.

While offering no cost figures, Lucas suggested a 12-week program in which handicapped clients would be evaluated to determine where they could work best.

Lucas was referred to the Manpower Planning Council.

THE TOWN'S BEST salespersons just have to be the Girl Scouts. They unload a truckload of cookies every year in a door-to-door campaign. Tops among these super salesgirls for 1976 are these 11.

Number one was Michele Adams, seated, center, who sold 119 boxes and was awarded a necklace.

Second was Pam Harris, seated, left, 112 boxes, and third was Aimee Brown, seated, right, 88 boxes. Pam received a sewing kit and Aimee a comb and nail file.

Other top sales girls were, second row: Susie Scollon, Whitney Walpole, Angie Whittaker, Carolyn Westerby, Paula Herron. Third row: Angel Pena, Lori Sugden, Kim Czekai.

Cass Cityan dies in Lapeer truck mishap

A Cass City man was found dead Sunday afternoon after a truck he was repairing near Burnside in Lapeer county apparently fell on him.

The body of Donald Patrick Wilson, 22, of rural Cass City, was discovered by an unidentified woman shortly before 5:00 p.m. Sunday, Lapeer County Sheriff's deputies said.

Officers said Wilson had apparently been dead several hours before his body was discovered. The accident took place just south of the northeast Lapeer county village at a residence on M-53.

Wilson was born July 19, 1953, in Detroit, son of Donald and Martha Krasowski Wilson. The family moved to the Cass City area three years ago from Warren.

He served in the Marine Corps and was discharged from active duty last Oct. 7. He attended St. Pancratius Catholic church of Cass City.

He is survived by his parents; three brothers, Joseph of Warren, Robert and Stanley, both of Cass City; four sisters, Ann Marie Wilson of Warren and Jeanette, Sarah and Mary, all of Cass City.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday from St. Pancratius Catholic church with Rev. Fr. Joseph Morales officiating.

A rosary was recited Tuesday evening at Little's Funeral Home.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Gen-Tel rings in higher long-distance rates

It's going to cost you more to ring someone's chimes starting Saturday. That's the day new, higher interstate long distance telephone rates go into effect, according to an announcement this week by General Telephone.

The rates were approved by the FCC for American Telephone and Telegraph Co., which indicated the new rates would increase total revenues by about two per cent. AT&T provides virtually all interstate long distance facilities and therefore establishes interstate rates for all telephone companies, General Telephone said.

According to Bob Wellman, vice-president for operations at GenTel, some direct dialed calls will increase from a cent to three cents, a few will not change and others may actually drop.

He said calls requiring operator assistance, such as collect, credit card, coin, hotel guest, third party and person to person calls will cost as much as $1.05 for the first three minutes.

Increased rates were also approved for most interstate private line services and interstate Wide Area Telecommunications Service (WATS), used mainly by business customers.

"A one minute minimum charging period will still apply on calls dialed direct from residence or business telephones and a three minute minimum will apply to operator handled calls," Wellman said.

The company said discounts of 35 and 60 per cent would still apply on all direct dialed calls during "evening" and "night and week end" periods.

Kingston artist wins award

A Kingston artist has won an award in competition at the Saginaw Art Museum Annual Area Show held recently in Saginaw.

Raymond Finley of English Road received the Louis Art Supply Award No. 2.

A total of 300 works were entered, with 120 accepted for the show. Judge was Jack Ozeogovic, professor of art at Northwestern Michigan College.

Entries were judged on control of media, strength and quality of image, boldness of idea, use of color and creative interpretation of subject.

THE SWORDBEARERS, a group of fifteen Cedarville College Students will be singing and giving their testimonies at First Baptist church this week end. The group will perform at a Youth Rally Saturday evening, Feb. 28, at 7:00 p.m. They will also minister in the Sunday morning services at 10:00 and 11:00 a.m. The public is cordially invited to hear this splendid group of young people. (Adv.)

Trucking head Clare Maiers dies

Clare E. Maiers, 60, Vassar, president of Maiers Motor Freight Co., and a past president of the Michigan Trucking Association, died Friday, Feb. 20, at his winter home in Palm Desert, Calif.

Maiers, long active in the trucking industry, was born June 24, 1915, in Mayville and was a lifelong resident of Tuscola county.

Maiers was a member of the Michigan Trucking Association (MTA) executive committee and served as a governor at large of MTA. He also served on the board of directors of the Motor Carriers Central Freight Association and was vice-president of the Michigan Intra-State Motor Freight Bureau.

Maiers also served on the board of governors of the Regular Common Carrier Conference of the American Trucking Association.

In addition to his involvement in the trucking industry, Maiers was also a member of the First United Methodist church of Vassar, the Vassar Rotary Club and the Bay City Country Club, and was a member of the board of directors of the Mayville State Bank.

One brother, Ralph, predeceased him June 6, 1952. Funeral services will be held Thursday, Feb. 26, at 1:30 p.m. at the Mayville United Methodist church. Rev. Donald Lichtensell, Rev. Clare Patton and Rev. Ralph Bartlett will officiate, with burial in Fremont cemetery, Mayville.

Honorary pallbearers are Dewey Sugden, Fred Moss, George E. Sullivan, Bob Drysdale, William Blair, Ken Duncan, E.J. Duncan, Vaughn Tubbs, Dick Scott, Herman Fles and James Bauer.

The family requests memorials be made to Teen Ranch, Kingston, or Mayville United Methodist and Vassar United Methodist churches.

Arraign 7 in Snover drug raid

Two Snover men were among seven persons arraigned Wednesday, Feb. 18, in Sanilac County District Court in connection with a drug raid staged in Snover Sunday, Feb. 15.

Arraigned were Bryan Paul Pudekko, 17, and Edward Lee Odoerfer, 19, both of Snover. The pair was charged with possession of marijuana. Odoerfer was also charged with engaging in illegal occupation of a dwelling, court sources said.

Others arraigned included John David Boegner, 17, Daniel Joseph McCoy, 20, William Leo Sullivan, 18, and Michael Joseph Freidenstab, 21, all of Marlette, and John Harold Hobson, 17, Sandusky. Boegner, Sullivan and McCoy were charged with possession of amphetamines which is a felony. Hobson was charged with possession of marijuana.

Freidenstab was charged with marijuana possession and engaging in the illegal occupation of a dwelling, a court spokesman said.

The seven appeared before Judge Eugene E. Deegan. Pre-trials were set for mid-March.

Bonds of $250 each were reported posted for McCoy, Odoerfer and Sullivan Tuesday.
