dies in Sanilac crash

A 17-year-old Snover youth was killed instantly early Sunday morning when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a culvert on Deckerville Road, about eight miles northeast of Snover.

Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies said Jeffery Flavel Hazzard of 2018 W. Deckerville Rd., died in his west-bound auto after it ran off the road around 5:40 a.m.

He was pronounced dead at the scene, deputies said.

Hazzard, who was scheduled to graduate from Sandusky High School in three weeks, was alone when the crash took place.

He was born June 3, 1958, in Pontiac, and was the son of Rev. and Mrs. Clifford Hazzard.

He was a member of the Sandusky High School football and track teams.

Survivors include his parents; two brothers, Garth of Cass City and Rex of Sandusky; two sisters, Mrs. Ronald (Sharon) Beutler of Pontiac and Mrs. Harman (Lynette) Bashaw of Yale; his grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Smith of Snover, and a number of other relatives.

Funeral services were scheduled Wednesday from the Countryside Free Methodist church of Sandusky with Rev. Fred N. Singer, pastor, and Rev. Charles Husted, pastor of the Snover Free Methodist church, officiating.

Hacker Funeral Parlors in Sandusky were in charge of arrangements.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Area police investigated several minor personal injury and property damage traffic accidents last week, with two requiring hospital treatment.

A motorcycle driven by Billie Iris Mack, 48, of Sterling Heights, went out of control and threw its driver Thursday night at the intersection of Cass City and Leslie Roads in Sanilac county.

Cass City Police indicated the driver was treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital for cuts and bruises. The accident occurred at 7:30 p.m.

Another motorcycle driven by Kenneth William White of Pinnebog Rd., Elkton, overturned in the south alley in Cass City Saturday afternoon. Police said the cycle tipped backwards, throwing White. He was treated for minor injuries at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

A DeFord driver and his passenger were injured.

Clancy enters Sheriff's race

Chief Herbert Clancy of the Millington Police Department announced this week that he would seek the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Tuscola county.

Clancy stated in making his announcement, "I believe the position of Sheriff is to provide leadership within the department and to provide protection for the citizens and their property. I have extensive training in all phases of law enforcement and believe that I have the ability to improve the efficiency of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department to better serve its citizens regardless of their position or status without requesting additional funds."

Clancy, 46, attended the Millington Community Schools and served in the US Army for 20 years. While in service, Clancy served in the area of law enforcement for 18 of his 20 years.

He has trained both military and civilians to become policemen, and upon retirement was First Sergeant in a military police unit.

He retired from service in 1972 and was appointed Deputy Sheriff for Tuscola county. He served in that capacity until March, 1973, when he accepted the position of Chief of Police for the village of Millington. At that time there were two full time officers on the Millington force. Today the department has four full-time police officers, one part-time, and is in the process of starting an auxiliary program.

Clancy holds certificates in Police Administration from both the military and Macomb County Community College. He was decorated while in service for his administrative ability and leadership.

Clancy is married to the former Grace Triplett of Davison. He and his wife reside in Millington and are the parents of three children.

20-credit minimum set at Owen-Gage

Students will still need 20 credits for graduation from Owen-Gage High School, following board action Monday night during its regular session held at Gagetown.

The move came at the request of high school Principal James Barry and guidance counselor Charles Ellis who said changing to a proposed 22 credit hours could impose a hardship on some students who may have failed one or two courses.

Earlier this year, the board had adopted a revised set of policies and regulations which placed minimum graduation requirements at 22 credits. Monday's action keeps the number at 20, where it has remained the past few years.

Ellis said the 22-credit plan evolved when the system ran a seven-hour day. When classes switched to a six-hour day, it put pressure on slower students who were struggling to make minimum graduation requirements, he explained.

Ellis said students taking vocational education classes in neighboring districts could be hard-pressed at 22 credits since valuable class time is lost in travel.

On the other side of the coin, Supt. Ronald Erickson pointed out that sharp students could amass as many as 18 credits by the time they enter their senior year. He implied this might leave too much free time for students needing only two classes to graduate.

Ellis said seniors must take at least four credits during their final year in school.

COMMENCEMENT

It was announced that Eighth District Congressman J. Bob Traxler (D-Bay City) will be the main speaker at commencement exercises slated Thursday, May 27, at Owen-Gage. Details of the evening are yet to be finalized.

Baccalaureate will be held Sunday, May 23, in an outdoor ceremony at Owendale, weather permitting.

National Honor Society members will be introduced May 20, it was announced. Other ceremonies slated include an awards assembly May 25 and the annual All-Sports banquet June 3.

OTHER BUSINESS

Other business was strictly routine. It was reported that the senior class trip to Florida is scheduled June 7-14, with 25 seniors participating. Total cost of the plane fare will be $6,725. Average cost will be $269 per person. Three students, however, have earned enough merit points through fund-raising projects that they will go free of charge.

Chaperones for the trip will be Mr. and Mrs. John Rinke. It was reported that a new electronic scoreboard, purchased through a door-to-door fund-raising campaign in the district, will be installed soon. Cost of the scoreboard was reported at $3,400.

The project was spearheaded by Bonnie and Betty Brinkman and Walt Swalston, it was reported.

HIRE GRAY

The board voted to hire Phil Gray, Cass City, as varsity basketball coach, replacing Claude Stevens who is retiring at the end of this year. Gray has been with the district the past five years and is currently assistant football and basketball coach and varsity baseball coach.

The board made its decision after discussion in a short executive session.

TRANSFERS

Erickson reported that the State Board of Education is expected to rule May 19 on the largest pending property transfer request comprising about 10 per cent of the district and located in Tuscola county.

Erickson, Board President Ronald Good and attorney James Schouman appeared before the State Board last Wednesday, May 5, to present the board's position for denying the transfers.

The district is still waiting for a ruling from the Municipal Finance Commission on whether or not it may sell bonds approved by voters last December. Earlier this year, the State Board instructed State School Supt. Dr. John Porter to vote to deny the sale.

It takes a unanimous vote of the MPC to approve a bond sale.

Hash school needs in lengthy board session

There wasn't much new, there wasn't much decided, but it was an exceptionally long meeting of the Cass City Board of Education Monday night at the high school.

Most of the night was spent rehashing old problems and resulting in familiar solutions or no solutions at all.

George Bushong started it off with a written resume of the reasons he feels that the school should have another director spending half time teaching band.

He said that a proposal for a summer program would simply widen the gap in the play quality between the students who practice and those who just attend band functions and practice during class sessions. It's Bushong's contention that another director with more frequent lessons would upgrade the band into a competitive position with other schools.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL

Mrs. Geraldine Tibbitts, who reported on a study of the curriculum at the Intermediate School, endorsed Bushong's request.

Her suggestion was that a person could be used one half for instrumental and one half for vocal music training in the grades and another teacher used half for remedial reading and half for English.

The school board is still considering the request, but the odds are that an additional teacher will not be hired. Supt. Donald Crouse wants to hold the line on additions to staff because of the current financial crunch in Michigan. He fears further cuts in State Aid funds.

Other than that, Mrs. Tibbitts was generally complimentary about the intermediate curriculum. She said that there have been updating and many changes (for the better) in the offerings. She pointed to six-week classes where students are exposed to speech, drama, industrial education, home economics, foreign language, health and career education as exemplary.

'Profanity' torpedoes labor talks

An abortive attempt to solve five personnel grievances filed by the Tuscola County Courthouse Employees against the Board of Commissioners ended almost as soon as it began Friday.

Members of the county personnel committee reportedly walked out after union spokesman Mitch Gradowski used what Chairman Maynard McConkey called "bad language".

"We asked him to clean up his language before he went further and he proceeded to call us all sorts of names," McConkey said this week. "Personally, I don't have any plans to ever sit down with him (Gradowski) again."

The grievances had been filed over whether or not newly-hired employees should be paid at the same wage rate as the employee they replaced.

The meeting reportedly lasted about 10 minutes before commissioners adjourned to a closed session. The five grievances involve two employees in the treasurer's office and one each in the juvenile probation department, the friend of the court and county clerk's office.

McConkey said Gradowski called the committee "a bunch of dumb bastards". He said the commissioners asked Gradowski to "clean up his language" before the meeting continued. Gradowski refused, McConkey said, and the meeting broke up.

No subsequent meetings

Concluded on page 14.

BUILDING OKAY

The condition of the Intermediate building has been a focal point of criticism. Mrs. Tibbitts said that she felt the building was adequate and a good viable structure for teaching.

She acknowledged that there was plenty of room for improvement.

In conjunction with the remarks about the building, Trustee J.D. Tuckey said that his committee made two inspections of the school.

Generally, he said, we feel that the custodians are doing a good job. There is a problem, he said, with an odor from the bathrooms. He said that the workers are experimenting with ways to solve the problem. Another area that needs correction, Tuckey said, was venetian blinds for the school for light control.

The new gym floor in the Intermediate building is reported to have "dead" spots and a representative from the company that did the work is due Friday to check, Crouse reported.

SAFETY QUESTION

Another problem that has haunted the board for a decade is safety for grade students going to and from school. The last outburst about the problem resulted in walk-wait lights at Seeger and a stoplight at Seeger at the Intermediate School.

What Cary Jones and other concerned parents would like is a light at the corner of Ale and Main Street. Main Street (M-81) is controlled by the State and in the previous campaign the State decreed that there wasn't enough traffic to warrant a light.

At the request of Jones a study committee was formed with the parents and Dr. Ed Scollon, Ms. Geraldine Prieskorn and Lynn Albee serving from the school board.

OTHER BUSINESS

Mary Ann Burnison signed a contract to teach at Evergreen. A new mathematics text was adopted on the recommendation of Principal Robert Stickle. Mrs. Nanette Bauer and Mrs. Marilyn Peters presented an outline of the "Right to Read" program and said that the aim was to have functional reading ability for 65 per cent at the proper grade level by 1980.

The two have been attending a Federally funded reading program course.

Principal Russell Richards reported on early graduation and the board adopted a policy allowing students to graduate before their class if they desire, as long as they have earned the required 22 credits.

Board moves to let field light bids

A decision whether or not to build a new athletic facility on high school property will be decided in a June 14 vote, but regardless of the outcome there will be new lights at the football field.

The Cass City Board of Education took steps to see that lights will be available next year by voting to advertise for bids the last two weeks in May and to open the bids sometime during the week of June 7.

A bid opening committee of Lynn Albee and Dean Hoag was appointed.

The lights, expected to cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 can be used either at the park or the school site.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that his best estimate of the cost for a new facility would cost taxpayers 1.2 mills ($1.20 per $1,000 of State assessed valuation) for two years.

For the money the district would receive a new field, a deluxe concession stand with toilet facilities, fencing around the entire area, a sound system, a new scoreboard, new seating costing $40,000 and an all-weather track.

In earlier discussion it was pointed out that more seating will be necessary if the park site is retained. Track coaches and Athletic Director Robert Stickle feel that an all-weather track is a much needed improvement regardless of where the site is finally located. Supt. Donald Crouse doesn't agree.

At the meeting, Assistant Athletic Director Roland Pakonen told the board that the majority of the coaches would like to see the athletic facility behind the school.

Track Coach Dale McIntosh echoed Pakonen's views and pointed to the inconveniences that training every day at the park entail.

Crouse said that using the land behind the school would curtail the area for physical education classes and band practice.

Physical education classes run through school hours and football and track are after school programs. Crouse's view was disputed by Trustees Hoag and Albee.

SPRING STRUGGLED its way back into Michigan's Thumb this week following a siege of rain and snow the week before. Shown enjoying the sunshine at Cass City's park are Raine Smith, 6, (below) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Smith of Cass City and Michelle Bush, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bush.

May Day—heed the call to village-wide savings

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Spencer

Sally Ann Geiger became the bride of John Michael Spencer Saturday, April 10, in rites read by Rev. Eldred Kelley at Salem United Methodist church, Cass City.

The wedding march was played by Betty Kinn, Cass City, and soloist Valri Swanson, Frankenmuth, sang "Sunrise, Sunset," "The Wedding Song," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Geiger of Cass City. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Spencer of Millington.

The bride chose a Quiana Jersey gown featuring a high rolled collar and long, full sleeves. Single rows of pearls accented the bodice, and a full skirt fell from the waist flowing into a self-attached semi-chapel train. Her headpiece was a matching Juliet cap trimmed with pearls with a chapel imported bridal illusion veil edged in tiny seed pearls. She carried a white Bible covered with three long stem red roses trimmed with ivory and ribbons.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was matron of honor, Mrs. Mart Hyzer, sister of the bride, of Caseville. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ken Schott, sister of the bride, of Bay City, and Lavonne Jirikovic of Grand Ledge; the flower girl was Lori Hyzer, niece of the bride. They were gown in light blue, double knit sleeveless dresses with matching jackets and carried two long stem red roses trimmed with ivory and ribbons. The flower girl carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses. James Blins of Grand Ledge was best man, assisted by groomsmen Brad Eastham, brother-in-law of the groom, of Vassar, and Bill Boos, cousin of the groom, of Bridgeport. Seating the guests were Mart Hyzer of Caseville and Bill Boos. Scott Geiger, brother of the bride, lit the candles.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 150 guests at the American Legion Hall in Millington. The mother of the bride greeted guests in a tan and beige print dress and the bridegroom's mother wore a blue floral gown. Both complemented their attire with an orchid corsage.

After returning from a wedding trip to Toronto, Ont., the couple now reside in Grand Ledge where the bride is a teacher in the Grand Ledge Public Schools and the groom is employed at Vanco in Lansing.

We are neither born nor borne to success—we must earn it.

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Standing with Vic Guernsey at Cass City Recreational Park one day a week or so ago every nook and cranny of the park was filled with persons using the facilities.

It's time for your annual paragraph about how much the park is used, Vic observed.

No, Vic, I answered. This year I'm not going to say a thing about it.

Enough is enough.

The athletes at Cass City High School will be feted at the annual "awards evening" Monday.

Yawn.

I'm like most of the parents. I get restless waiting for my kid to be called. Well, not really restless. Downright bored.

Vic didn't tell me it was time, but here's my annual paragraph about breaking the recognition fete into segments that keep the players from becoming nothing but a sea of faces marching to and from the podium.

With the needs of organizations for funds to pay pledges for the park pool and for the bicentennial, the raffle tickets are coming hot and heavy.

It's not unusual for a member of one club to trade tickets with a member from another club in a you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours approach.

One ticket on sale now that folks will not be able to trade for a couple of free meals at the Wildwood Restaurant. The tickets are being sold by students at the school so that Patricia Torriglia, a foreign exchange student at the school, can go on the Senior trip.

The meals were donated and the kids dreamed up the project themselves to help Patricia.

Tickets are only a half buck. Buy a couple.

Gerald Prieskorn jacked me up one day last week (he does it periodically) by telling me that my columns are getting blah! again.

I never paid much attention before. But this time seeing and hearing Gerald reminded me that I haven't heard from Mrs. Glenn Folkert for ages now and that's not good. Mrs. Folkert is Gerald's mother-in-law and over the years has been a regular contributor whenever something she sees in the Editor's Corner or this trivia strikes a spark.

If I can't generate enough interest with Mrs. Folkert to get any response I might just have to start taking critic Gerald with more than a grain of salt.

The program for the evening was conducted by Mrs.

Stanley Kirn and included a devotion skit on the subject of "The Family and the Home". The rest of the program, "Taking Off Your Mask, Being Yourself" was presented by Mrs. Edward Ratz.

Dessert was served in the church dining room by Mrs. Maurice Joos, Mrs. Newell Harris and Mrs. Kirn. Favorites at the small tables were potted marigolds for each person.

The June meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Maurice Joos.

Set tri-county meet at Cass City

A meeting of representatives of the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region, tri-county commissioners and interested citizens on possible development of Cass City's industrial park site will be held tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Cass City Village Council chambers.

The meeting is designed to work out a possible update of development plans in the three counties with an eye toward getting federal funds for industrial park sites.

Commissioners Maynard McConkey, Paul Nagy and Richard Dehmelt are expected to represent Tuscola county at the meeting.

A man seldom loses respect of others until he loses his own.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

The Gavel Club does an impressive job running its annual track meet.

The members turn out in force and work before and during the meet.

If you saw the track at Cass City Recreational Park Friday morning, you'd have thought like I did that no way would the thinclads be able to run in that quagmire called a track.

And believe me they never would have if members of the club hadn't worked all day Friday and into the evening to drag and work the track, add sand and soak up the water that stood in puddles everywhere.

The final work was completed by Athletic Director Robert Stickle in the early morning hours Saturday and the meet went on without a hitch.

Besides the prep work the Gavelites, as always, spend the day officiating the meet and hosting a meal for the various coaches.

In a nutshell it's plenty of work . . . and one the club doesn't make a dime on.

With all that effort it's just too bad that the meet has dropped in prestige in recent years.

There's talk of changing the format for the 19th running next year.

What some members propose is adding girls' track to the meet. I think it would work. Make more schools interested in attending and overcome the handicap that our facilities have in comparison to other layouts.

A team school trophy awarded on a combined score for both sexes has never been tried in the Thumb and perhaps not in the State.

No one knows better than Gavel Club members that this type of meet would require more work for them.

If 25 schools entered two teams each it would take careful planning to run the events and not be forced to use the lights before it's over.

If it elevated the meet to its former eminence I'm sure that the Gavel Club would be happy to take on the extra work.

When the Gavel Club started this meet as a fund raiser it was one-of-a-kind for Thumb and Saginaw Valley athletes.

It's not likely that adding girls' competition would bring it back to its original status, but it can't do anything but help.

I hope that the guys in charge vote to do it.

The Gavel Invitational has been too good a meet to let die if there's a way to keep it alive and viable.

Wife in the big city

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The TV news competition has become tougher for Sonny Elliot and Jerry Hodak and their various anchors. I hope they don't blame me.

When friends asked why I moved this column-writing operation to Detroit, I used to tell them it was to be nearer gorgeous Marilyn Turner. I don't tell them that anymore.

I guess everyone knows Marilyn is the weather gal for TV Channel 7, handsome Hodak performs the same chore for Channel 2, and Sonny yucks about rain for Channel 4. Everyone also knows Marilyn is having domestic troubles with her husband, John Kelly, an anchor man for Channel 7 news. It's been in all the newspapers that he moved into his own apartment. The Marine News-headline said "Anchor's Away."

What is not as widely known is that I've been in love with Marilyn Turner for years, even back when she was on Channel 2, before Hodak was old enough to forecast the days of the week.

People in my old hometown discovered my secret about 15 months ago, right after Marilyn and Kelly were married. The bridegroom's first public speaking engagement after the nuptials was at a Chamber of Commerce banquet in Lapeer. It was widely advertised that his bride would accompany him, a fact which influenced me to attend my first chamber banquet in 15 years. Kelly gave an interesting speech and then invited questions from the floor. I asked him if his wife was going to stay for the dance.

Marilyn wore a porous knit dress which revealed an enchanting silhouette when she stood in the right light. I followed her everywhere, holding the right light for my photographer. That week I published four photos of Marilyn in the local newspaper. In one of them, Kelly could be glimpsed peeking through her hairdo.

I would like to report it was at this time Marilyn suggested I move to Detroit. But truth must prevail. Marilyn and I have never met. There is no connection between my arriving and the anchor awaying. She has no idea how much I enjoy watching her walk onto the Channel 7 news set at 11 o'clock each night.

I'm aware all this sounds chauvinistic. I know Marilyn's weather job has nothing to do with her looks. She was hired because she's an expert meteorologist. Just as her husband was hired for his news sense and crisp delivery, not his Irish smile and curly hair. Sure.

But I'm a confirmed girl-watcher, too old to reform. I'm fully prepared to acknowledge and reward female brains and ability. However, I insist upon the right to admire the package in which they are contained. So shoot me.

My wife might.

She has never been disturbed by my TV romances. I haven't taken her out on a Saturday night for three years, all because of Mary Tyler Moore, but she doesn't complain seriously. She knows I'm all look and no action. She can also draw considerable comfort from my general appearance and charm which have allowed me to complete a lifetime scoring average of .00001.

But my move to the big city has given her something new to think about. She has noted that Detroit media personalities are often experienced at divorce. In fact, a bunch of them are getting together soon and going to Dearborn to participate in a seminar on the subject. They'll probably charter a bus. My wife wondered if newspaper employment has built-in dangers to the marriage vows. I gave her some reassuring statistics concerning neighborhood paperboys.

But switch channels back to the lovely Marilyn and her John. Seriously, I'm sorry they're having problems. And, as indicated in the top paragraph, channels 2 and 4 should also be sorry. They are losing viewers to the only soap opera on a TV news show.

When the romance was happy, people tuned in to watch John and Marilyn coo and giggle at each other. Now that they're separated, viewers look for snarls and barbs. They listen intently for hidden meanings. "Did you hear that?" my wife asked. "He said he'd see her later. Probably in the parking lot."

And the most romantic viewers are hoping for a public reconciliation which, if properly merchandised, could put the ratings right up there with Tiny Tim's wedding.

What can Hodak and Elliot and their anchors do to compete with a team which spices the news with dashes of Divorce Court and The Dating Game?

Sand them your suggestions, along with the tops of three soap boxes, in a plain brown wrapper.

THAT VITAL SOMETHING

The trust of a child is a beautiful thing. Do you merit it?

Sure, you work hard every day to keep up payments on the nice, modern house where he has a room of his own — with enough toys in it to make two kids happy. You give him the best modern medical and dental care. You even started a special bank account for him — for the years when he will be going to college.

But — haven't you missed something? In your concern for his mental and physical well-being, haven't you overlooked that elusive, vital "something" called the soul?

Remember, man is neither all mind nor all body. He has a spiritual side, too!

Tuscola commissioners ask road commission to rewrite millage plea

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners has asked the County Road Commission to revamp its proposed one-mill tax levy for bridges.

As presented to the board at its regular session Tuesday in Caro, the proposal isn't specific enough for the commissioners. It reportedly did not specify that monies raised by the levy would be applied to bridges.

Without that qualification, the funds could conceivably be diverted to other road commission projects.

If approved, the tax would raise $214,600 per year for the county road commission and $72,133 per year for villages, based on 1976 State Equalized Valuation. Village shares could be applied to any street maintenance or construction project. The millage would last five years.

An earlier bridge millage expired last year. In other business, the board learned that Tuscola County's participation in the Cooperative Reimbursement program has been okayed by state authorities.

The total program, budgeted for nine months, tallies for $38,898, with the county share of $5,115.

Cooperative Reimbursement is designed to track down divorced fathers who fail to make support payments for their children. Special investigators would be assigned to the prosecutor's office to handle non-support cases.

The board also learned that the financially strapped Medical Care Facility plans to sue the state for $119,923 which represents four years' worth of depreciation on the facility.

The county had reportedly been promised payment on the depreciation by the state but Lansing's financial pinch has apparently stalled the flow of funds.

The facility is also reeling under a cutback of Medicaid funding.

A suit for the depreciation funds must be initiated by the county prosecutor, commissioners were told earlier.

The board also passed a resolution in memory of the late Ralph Hartman, Carovillage manager and member of the county planning commission and Department of Public Works. The resolution lauded Hartman for his many years of service to the county.

The board also learned that Leonard Hool, grant researcher and CETA coordinator for Sanilac county, is interested in a similar position for Tuscola county. No action was taken.

Light turnout seen for Tuesday Primary

Slightly over 8,000 of Tuscola county's 23,489 eligible voters are expected to trudge to the polls next Tuesday in Michigan's Presidential primary election.

Voters will have seven Democrats and two Republicans to choose from, along with uncommitted delegates in both parties.

Only four of the seven Democrats on the ballot are still actively campaigning for their party's nomination -- former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, Alabama Gov. George Wallace, Arizona Rep. Morris Udall and anti-abortion candidate Ellen McCormack.

The other three, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, Washington Sen. Henry Jackson and R. Sargent Shriver, former Peace Corps head, have retired from the race.

The Democratic race boils down to Carter and Udall, as most experts see it.

On the Republican side, the primary is shaping up as a crucial test for President Gerald Ford, who some experts see as facing a stiff challenge in his home state from former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

A Ford loss in Michigan could put the President in serious trouble, experts agree.

Since cross-over voting is allowed in Michigan, some political pundits are predicting many Democrats will cast ballots in the Republican primary. Reagan is seen as the chief beneficiary.

In addition to the popularity contest, local delegates to the county GOP convention will also be chosen. A total of 90 delegates will be selected.

In Elkland township, eight delegates will be selected, with three in Elmwood township and two each in Novesta, Ellington and Kingston townships.

In Elkland township, the only two names on the ballot are John G. Laurie and Gene Wilson.

County Clerk Elsie Hicks is the only candidate in Novesta township to appear on the ballot while Paul Megge is on the ballot in Kingston township.

The remaining slots will have to be filled by write-ins, Mrs. Hicks said.

In the 1972 primary, a total of 7,978 voters turned out, with 5,800 voting in the Democratic race.

Only one local millage issue will also be on the ballot, that in Arbel township where voters will be asked to approve one mill for township roads.

Clements hears pleas

A Detroit area man entered a guilty plea to attempted larceny in a building when he appeared in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday before presiding Judge Martin Clements.

Michael A. Boyd entered the reduced plea after being arraigned on a charge of larceny in a building.

The plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be established by the probation department after an investigation.

Boyd was arrested April 21 in Wisner township.

Delbert Martin, Caro, was given a suspended 76-day jail sentence after pleading guilty to unlawfully driving away an automobile of another (UDAA) without intent to steal.

Martin was arrested Jan. 24 in Indianfields township.

Craig Chambers, 19, Caro, entered guilty pleas to three separate probation violation counts when he appeared for arraignment. Sentencing was set for May 24.

Chambers is charged with traveling to Pennsylvania and Colorado without permission of the probation department and with failing to find a job.

He was originally arrested last Nov. 15 on an attempted larceny charge.

The opportunity of a lifetime is never heralded by a band.

DO YOU KNOW WHO HAS THE LOWEST FOOD PRICES IN TOWN EVERYDAY?

NO ONE

HAS THE LOWEST FOOD PRICES IN TOWN EVERY DAY

BY NOW YOU MUST BE MORE CONFUSED AND BEWILDERED THAN EVER by all the claims about low prices, high prices, discount prices, games and cash drawings. In the past few months, you've been exposed to more advertising on grocery pricing than ever before...most of it true, but all of it confusing. So what should you believe? And where should you shop to save money...and receive Holden Red Stamps?

Fact:

The average supermarket stocks approximately 9,000 different items. Some of these you buy regularly, some of them you buy very seldom. At any given time, several hundred of these items are being sold below normal prices in any given market. It's easy to see why the average shopper is confused.

Fact:

Some of our prices are lower, some are higher, some are the same as many other stores. We don't try to pretend that all our prices are lower than everybody's. You wouldn't believe us if we did. But we have lots of low prices so that you can shop within your budget, week-after-week, and save money in the long run. Add to that the fact that we'll give you HOLDEN RED STAMPS. They are free. They increase our business and hence pay for themselves. Every store has an advertising budget. Some choose to spend the vast majority of it on media. We choose to pass it to you...with Holden Red Stamps.

If you're still confused, give us a try! If you have any questions give us a call! You'll find all the top quality products you want and need...with friendlier service...and at no more cost than any other food store...plus the added tangible savings of Holden Red Stamps.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Let's ditch
throw-aways

By Jim Ketchum

There ought to be a law against throw-away bottles, I thought as I picked up a pair of empties from my front yard and tossed them in the rubbish barrel. It wasn't long before that I'd swept up the remains of two other smashed bottles from my driveway.

There might have been a law against them. Unfortunately, the bottle bill went the way of much progressive legislation and is being allowed to die in the House Appropriations Committee of the Michigan Legislature.

In for the bottle bill. Not that I think it will stop people from throwing away bottles as much as I think it will put the scavengers back along the roads to pick them up.

I remember one grimy, hunch-back old man who used to trudge his way along Grand River Avenue just east of Williamston when I was a kid. His sole purpose was hunting deposit bottles.

Generally, he carried a gunny sack that had hauled more glass than anything else. He didn't walk fast and he never got rich, but he kept the road clean.

You almost felt you were doing him a favor by tossing a pop bottle from your car window as you passed. Each find was at least two cents in his pocket.

In those days, it didn't matter whether you drank soda pop or something stronger. Each bottle had a deposit on it, refundable when you returned it.

The system worked. Trouble was, it was too efficient. Our throw-away society needed something to reassure itself of its non-work. Hence, the no-deposit, no-return bottle cometh.

It not only put the grimy old man out of business; it made the bottle part of the American landscape. All the imprinted messages asking the owner to dispose of it properly have had about as much impact as a Fred Harris for President rally.

Bringing back the deposit couldn't hurt. Unions generally claim deposit bottles will cost glassmakers their jobs and retailers say it's too much hassle to handle returned bottles.

I agree with Sen. Alvin DeGroot when he says the return of the deposit bottle will probably create as many jobs as it costs. Collection, washing, sorting and repackaging all take labor and can't all be done by machine.

Oregon's bottle law places a two-cent deposit on interchangeable bottles and a five-cent deposit on bottles with painted labels. A five-cent deposit also goes on cans.

The Michigan United Conservation Clubs have hopped on the bandwagon with a petition drive to put the question on the ballot. I have to think if the people ever voted on it, we'd have deposit bottles back faster than you can pop the top on your favorite beverage.

That almost beats a tax cut. Makes you want to buy a bottle of pop and celebrate.

Nations spoiling for a fight usually fight for the spoils.

Police recover detective's stolen pickup, nab Caro man

Even when your father is a Sheriff's detective, there never seems to be a policeman around when you need one.

Just ask Michael Phillips of Detroit. Early Saturday morning, the pickup truck he had been driving was stolen from a parking place on Leach Street in Cass City.

Phillips' father, Ronald, is a detective with the Tuscola County Sheriff's Dept.

The truck was recovered about three hours later in Huron County. Police arrested Robert Dean Spencer, 19, Caro, charging him with unlawfully driving away a vehicle of another.

According to the Cass City Police report of the incident, Phillips had left the truck parked with the keys and registration inside around 2:30 a.m. When he returned a short time later, the vehicle was gone.

A description of the truck was broadcast and Huron County Chief Deputy Roger Ewald and Deputy Ron Roberts noticed it around 4:40 a.m. Saturday parked on the shoulder of M-53, just north of Atwater Road, seven and a half miles west of Uhly.

When officers checked the truck, they allegedly found Spencer asleep in the cab. No damage was reported to the vehicle.

Spencer was arraigned Monday in Tuscola County District Court before presiding Judge Richard Kern. A pre-preliminary exam was set May 17, with preliminary examination slated May 28.

Bond was set at $1,000. Spencer was reportedly still lodged at the Tuscola county jail at press time.

ARRESTS

A Caro man was arrested late Monday night along M-81, six miles west of Cass City, charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Caro State Police arrested Marion Ziggi Hakowski, 29, after reportedly stopping the car he was driving in connection with a traffic violation.

Police said the weapon was discovered in the glove compartment of Hakowski's vehicle. Four loaded cartridges were allegedly found in the weapon.

A pre-preliminary exam in District Court was set for May 17, with pre-exams scheduled May 28. Bond was set at $2,500.

The arrest came around midnight.

State Police from the Caro Post also arrested Kenneth Thomas Wilson, 40, of Kingston, charging him with assault with a dangerous weapon.

The incident apparently arose out of an argument. Wilson is charged with firing at Robert Amrus, also of Kingston.

The shooting is still under investigation.

Wilson's pre-preliminary exam in District Court was set for May 17, with preliminary exam set May 28. Bond in the case was set at $1,000.

THEFTS

Caro State Police investigated the theft of a 12-foot logging chain owned by Leslie Kendall of DeLong Road, Cass City, last week.

Kendall told police the chain was taken from a field near his home. Value was set at $40. No suspects have been arrested.

Frank Little of 5116 Severance Rd., Cass City, reported the destruction of his mailbox Saturday.

Little told police the box and post were pulled from the ground and thrown into a ditch near his home. Police have no suspects.

Police investigated a possible illegal entry to a partially completed home at the corner of West and Elizabeth Streets last week.

The home is owned by the C.J. Borzynski real estate firm of Minneapolis, Minn.

Police said there is a possibility some cupboards may be missing.

McConkey

seeks third term on board

Second District Commissioner Maynard McConkey, Cass City, announced this week he will seek a third term on the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners.

MAYNARD McCONKEY

McConkey, 63, was first elected to the board in 1972 and won a second term two years ago. He has held a number of local and county offices and serves on a variety of boards and commissions.

The Elkland township native served four years as township supervisor and is a former school board officer, township trustee and member of the County Welfare Board. He was a director of the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District for 21 years and served as chairman of the five-county Seventh District Board of Commissioners in 1975.

Presently, McConkey serves as chairman of the Thumb Area Consortium which serves Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties. He also chairs the county Personnel Committee and is a member of the building and grounds and the county affairs committee.

McConkey, a former dairy and cash crop farmer, is a member of Farm Bureau and Masonic Lodge #317 F&AM. He is a member of Trinity United Methodist church of Cass City and chairs the administrative board of the church.

He and his wife have three children. The couple reside in Cass City.

THIS BLOOMIN' cactus doesn't know when to quit, much to the delight of Patricia Mills of Cass City. The plant, which is only supposed to bloom every six to seven years, sported 16 blossoms last week, each measuring three to four inches in diameter.

BETTER HEALTH

Aspirin benefits questioned

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

On the long shot that it may slow down, or even prevent, the progress of coronary heart disease, many middle-aged men and women and lots of doctors as well have taken to "popping" aspirin.

In the hope of warding off a heart attack, these enthusiasts are taking an aspirin tablet or two each day to take advantage of its potential effect on one of the ways that clots are formed in the body.

Aspirin has an inhibiting action on the tendency of blood platelets to clump, which is one of the steps in the formation of a blood clot. It's also called a thrombus when it occurs within a blood vessel.

It is not by any means the current, unanimous view that heart attacks can be ward off by preventing clots from forming in the blood vessels. The many years during which so-called "blood thinning" agents (anticoagulants) have been studied in the treatment and prevention of heart attacks have produced more controversy than clear-cut evidence of effectiveness.

This is in contrast to the demonstrated help such agents bring about in the management of blood clots in veins (phlebitis), particularly those that form in the veins of the legs and lower abdomen as a complication of surgery.

Heparin, an anticoagulating agent given in small doses by injection in the course of surgery, appears to be of great help in preventing post-operative thrombosis and the threat of sudden death due to clots that break off and travel upward to the lung (pulmonary embolus).

The use of low-dose heparin is thought to work its beneficial effect by interfering with the tendency of platelets to clump together and lead to the formation of blood clots.

It is this same inhibiting effect on the clumping of platelets that is sought in the use of aspirin. If the clumping of platelets is a "first step" in the development of clots which can go on to plug off susceptible coronary arteries, and if a daily aspirin tablet will discourage the clumping, it seems reasonable to be so protected.

A number of presumably carefully controlled, so-called "double-blind" trials are under way that hopefully will show whether aspirin is more effective than a sugar pill (placebo) in protecting against heart attacks. A "double-blind" study means that neither doctors nor subjects in the study know who is getting the aspirin pill under study and who is getting the sugar pill.

One of the troubles with this particular double-blind trial is that those subjects who are supposed to take the sugar pills and serve as controls can easily drop by their local drug store and switch to aspirin tablets if they suspect that they are on placebos and want to assure themselves of any advantage there may be in taking aspirin.

If this should happen, the tests may prove to be more double-blind than anyone anticipated.

AROUND THE FARM

Weather, insects updates available

By Don Kebler

Something new is being added by your Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service which could be most useful for farmers and fruit producers.

This is a weather and insect alert forecasting system and program coordinated throughout the state. This information is available to anyone through the use of a Code-a-Phone. Our Saginaw Valley people can use the Code-a-Phone located in Bay City.

I've already spent some time with a member of the University Entomology Department locating sites for alfalfa, oats, wheat and barley insect checks in our county. We hope to have about 25 sites located around the county. He will be checking a similar number of sites in Huron, Sanilac, Saginaw, Bay and parts of Gratiot counties weekly. As soon as insect problems begin, the information will be sent to the farmer and people by radio. It also will be fed into the Code-a-Phone along with current and short range weather forecasts.

If you have fruit trees, you can dial 892-2200 Wednesdays each week on a 24-hour basis. If you are a crop producer, you dial the same number. The weather and insect alerts are updated for crops 10:00 a.m. and at noon.

In my travels, I'm seeing alfalfa and wheat fields that really need weed control. The yellow rocket and annual mustards are most noticeable. I'm also seeing more frequently the small leaved prostrate weed called chickweed in alfalfa. Sorry to say, annual broadleaf weeds cannot be safely controlled in alfalfa now. Control for these weeds is done in the fall.

On wheat, we can control weeds before the wheat is in the boot stage and at least six to eight inches tall and fully tillered. The boot stage is determined by unrolling the leaf whorl until we find the center stem. If we see a miniature head of wheat on top of this exposed stem, this is the boot stage and it's too late to spray.

*****
Two tips before closing. You should have your second application of lawn fertilizer on by now. Check your blue spruce buds and see if they are starting to grow. If they are, look them over for budworm caterpillars and spray if they are present. Continue to check for the next three weeks.

Dan Allen plans to be first with custom race car

"I like to be first," Dan Allen of Deford says. "I like to be best."

If he has his way, the 33-year-old service station owner plans to be first and best with a hot racing machine he's building in his spare time. Using a combination of a Camaro body, modified suspension, and a 438 Chevrolet engine, Allen thinks he's got a winner.

The car has already been assembled, tested, torn down and refined.

"You don't just put something like this together once and start racing it," Allen explained. "You test it, find out where you have to make changes and refine it until you've got what you want."

The frame is constructed of seamless steel and chrome tubing and features modified Cadillac brake rotors, re-inforced and rewelded. Allen also made changes in the upper A-frame and plans to make a 3/4-inch change in the steering arm assembly.

The rear end is designed for quick changes. A new set of gears can be installed within 10 minutes, he says.

"We change the gear ratio depending on the type of track we run," he said.

He plans to make the final body installation and paint the car sometime this week. Allen won't say how much his racing machine will cost, other than to say it's an expensive hobby--very expensive.

When it's finished, Allen himself won't be the driver. His days behind the wheel are past, he says.

"I've got a wife and family and I'd sort of like to stay around and spend time with them," he says. "I've done my share of driving and I've enjoyed it. Now I'm enjoying building this one."

His driver is Jerry Wolfrum of Deford who's been behind the wheel of a race car the past 18 years.

Allen explained the car's basic frame is the work of Stan Yee of Detroit. Allen said he approached Yee two years ago about building a racing machine and last year began working on it.

Allen said his own interest in racing began when he was stationed in the Air Force. "I just got to going to race tracks and the interest grew," he said.

How fast will Allen's car travel? He isn't sure yet. It all depends on the track and the rear end gearing. He has had it at 130 miles an hour. "With the proper gearing, I'd say it could do 185," he says.

At those speeds, you have to allow for everything, including centrifugal force in the oil pan. Allen said he plans to use a special pan with chambers and doors to hold the oil where the oil pump can reach it.

Without the compartments, he said, all the oil could wind up at one side of the pan out of the oil pump's reach. At speeds of over 100 miles an hour, it doesn't take long for an engine to seize.

Another problem is in the front disc brakes. He uses a special disc and racing brake linings. An ordinary disc could warp and turn cherry red at such high speeds.

For now, he plans to use drum brakes on the rear with a possibility of switching to discs on the rear later. When the car is completed, it should weigh about 2,800 pounds. Then it will have to be weighted at eight pounds per cubic inch before it can begin racing.

Everything connected with the car is special. Steel-belted radial tires cost $89 each. The engine burns a mixture of 50 per cent high-octane gasoline and 50 per cent aviation fuel. The fuel is held in a special cell at the rear of the car designed for racing machines.

"The cost of building and racing a car is escalating badly," Allen says. "There is talk of making rule changes to try and cut some of the cost, like putting a ceiling of $65 per tire."

It's a highly competitive business, too, Allen says. In one qualifying meet, as many as 18 cars can finish within one or two seconds of each other. To race against that kind of competition, you need the best equipment.

That's what Allen is trying to build--the best. Yet he says the car as it stands will probably be obsolete in three years without continued modification and upgrading.

"We'll undoubtedly continue making changes in it as we go along," he says. "The life span of the car depends on the evolution of things. As long as we can make changes, we'll continue to use it."

The machine's first test will come early this summer. Allen says he's interested in racing at Auto City in Detroit Saturday nights and possibly racing at a track near Lansing on Fridays.

"We'll go where the money is," Allen grinned.

Higher long distance rates announced

General Telephone customers who make long distance calls to other points in Michigan are affected by the increase in intrastate long distance rates approved for Michigan Bell by the Michigan Public Service Commission, according to Bob Wellman, vice-president - operations for General Telephone.

The new rates, which were effective at 12:01 a.m. Thursday, May 6, represent increases of from one to four cents per minute.

"To insure that long distance rates within Michigan are uniform, General Telephone concurs in rates approved for Michigan Bell," Wellman explained.

The utility executive pointed out that discount rates of 20 and 40 per cent are still in effect for direct dialed intrastate long distance calls.

The new basic intrastate long distance rate schedule is:

Rate Miles	Charge per Minute or Fraction
0 - 20	$.07
21 - 25	.14
26 - 30	.21
31 - 50	.28
51 - 100	.34
101 - 200	.40
over 200	.44

A new minimum charge of 20 cents was established for intrastate long distance calls placed from a coin telephone.

In addition, intrastate Wide Area Telephone Service (WATS) and intrastate private line services, used primarily by business customers, were also increased.

General Telephone serves more than 590,500 telephones in 543 Michigan communities. The company's operating area includes all or parts of 61 of the state's 83 counties.

SPEDY to hire 400 in Thumb

If you're between 14 and 21 and a member of a family with income below the federal poverty level, you may be eligible for a part-time job under the Summer Jobs Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youths (SPEDY). The program, a part of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, will funnel a total of $342,447 in 1976 grants through the Thumb Area Consortium that should provide jobs for about 400 youths, according to Al Berry, Consortium Program Coordinator.

Total funding for SPEDY in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties is $379,512, including carry-over monies from last year's program. Berry said youths will be working 28 hours each week in a variety of jobs in libraries, hospitals, summer schools and other public and non-profit work sites.

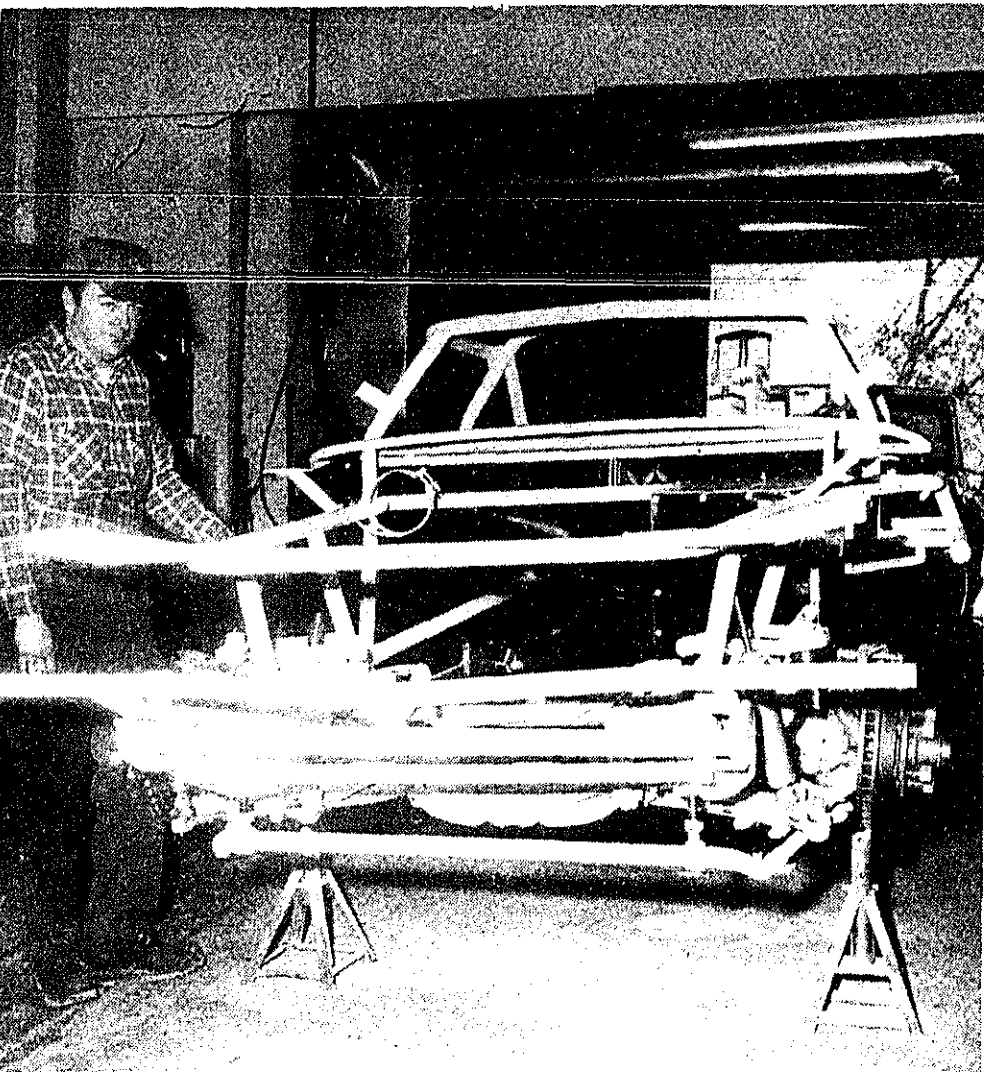

To be eligible for the program, the youth must be between 14 and 21 and a member of a family with income below the poverty level which is defined as $5,500 for a family of four.

Youths may apply for the program at the Human Development Commission at 264 State St., Caro.

Statewide, SPEDY funding should total $20,309,521. It is estimated that 45,000 youths will take advantage of the program statewide.

The state allocation is part of $528.4 million nationwide which, combined with other summer youth job programs, will employ 1.5 million youths. Nationally, SPEDY will employ 888,000.

DAN ALLEN of Deford looks over the frame of the custom racing machine he's building in his spare time. It's an expensive hobby, Allen says, but an exciting one.

Program studies traffic safety problems, goals

Death on the highways, as well as injury and property damage related to traffic accidents are the focus of an unusual, comprehensive project in the works in Kalamazoo county.

The program, funded for the first of three years with $500,000 in highway safety funds from the U.S. Department of Transportation, aims to unite the efforts of all public and private traffic safety groups in the county. The project will combine improved emergency medical services with police traffic services, traffic engineering, motorcycle education and programs aimed at the drinking driver.

Federal funds were directed to Kalamazoo county for the special project by Gov. William Milliken's Office of Highway Safety Planning.

The governor says the county was selected because of its "unusually good cooperation between local traffic safety officials and groups." Milliken says the effort marks "the first major comprehensive attempt in Michigan to take all of the tools and resources available and concentrate them in one geographic area." He also expressed hope that the program would become a model for similar ones throughout the state.

during bad years.

So says Rep. Steve Monsma, D-Grand Rapids, who's backing an amendment to the Constitution that would create an economic stabilization fund.

The proposal provides that when the state's unemployment rate is below 5%, $150 million must be put into this fund during the following fiscal year. When the unemployment rate goes over 8%, $300 million could be taken from the fund. No money would go in or out of the fund when unemployment levels were between 5% and 8%.

*****

"When the economy is booming, tax revenues soar and state spending goes up, but then when the economy experiences a downturn we are stuck with insufficient revenues to pay for existing programs," Monsma says.

"This proposal is a simple and workable solution to the problems created for government by the roller coaster Michigan economy."

Monsma contends that if the state had been stowing away money during good times over the past 26 years, there would have been an extra $300 million available to the general fund in every year but one in which unemployment was over 8%.

SHE'S 'RETIRING'

Marilyn Jean Kelly, who's retiring from the state Board of Education after 12 years of service, thinks the current eight-year board term might better be reduced.

Such action, Miss Kelly says, might provoke more interest in running for the board among young people, who tend to be more mobile than older folks and might be put off by an eight-year commitment.

In addition, she thinks those who live farthest from Lansing may figure it's too expensive to travel to the Capitol for eight years to participate in board deliberations.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

Good news on the housing front, according to Gov. William Milliken.

Michigan's Housing Development Authority recently sold $25 million in tax-exempt bonds at an average interest rate of 7.95%. A lion's share of the proceeds from that sale will be used to begin building 590 units of housing.

Since December, Milliken notes, the Authority has sold more than $111 million of bonds and bond anticipation notes. He calls that "a welcome indication that the tax-exempt securities market is recovering from the doldrums which have severely curtailed the Authority's ability to finance housing development."

New Thumb alcoholism project poised to begin

Hills and Dales General Hospital is tentatively scheduled as one of four Thumb hospitals involved in a pilot project designed to see whether or not a new state law regarding public drunkenness can work.

The project, sponsored by the Human Development Commission, comes in the wake of Public Act 339 which de-criminalizes public drunkenness. According to Steve Crabtree, HDC Substance Abuse Services Coordinator, Hills and Dales and other participating hospitals can act as the alternative to jail.

"The pilot program is designed to divert the public drunk out of the criminal justice system into the health recovery system," Crabtree explained.

"The state wants data relative to how the plan works before it becomes effective statewide," he said.

Crabtree said the HDC program is one of five pilot projects including western Wayne county, Kalamazoo county, Kent county and a number of northern Michigan counties headquartered at Gaylord.

The act is tentatively scheduled to take effect Oct. 1, 1977, depending on the results of the five pilot projects. Currently, amendments are being proposed to clarify a police officer's role in the act's enforcement.

"As it's written, a policeman can't force a drunk to go to a hospital for diagnosis," Crabtree said. "Police are concerned about what their role is. If they leave a drunk lying in the road and five minutes later he gets run over by a car, they want to know who's liable."

Theoretically, when a drunk is picked up, he should be taken to a hospital emergency room for diagnosis and treatment, Crabtree said.

"Maybe he's just been out celebrating his anniversary and there's no problem," he said. "Or maybe he's an alcoholic and he needs help. We are asking the participating hospitals to run routine diagnoses on these persons to see just what the problem is."

The Thumb project is being backed by $75,000, with about $73,000 scheduled to be paid out as direct reimbursement to hospitals for treating drunks.

"We think this will act as a stimulus for hospitals to become involved in the project," Crabtree said. "They are guaranteed payment for services."

Crabtree acknowledged some delays in starting the program and that it may be three to 10 weeks before the program gets off the ground. "We need the cooperation of police throughout the region in order to make the project work," he said.

After a drunk is dried out, he may be referred to any one of a number of agencies from the Alcohol Information Center in Caro to the recently established detoxification center at Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe.

The pilot project is scheduled to run for six months. At the end of the program, results should tell state officials how to structure the law's enforcement procedures, Crabtree said.

Crabtree said Hills and Dales hospital officials are still reviewing the program before giving it a final commitment.

Monthly church meals— Thumb's tastiest tradition

By Jim Ketchum

If you're near Gagetown the first Thursday of the month and if you're hungry, check out the Methodist church.

That's where one of the Thumb's tastiest traditions continues to flourish—the monthly noon dinner, prepared by the women of the church and generally served to standing room only crowds in the church basement.

The dinners have been served each month since about 1920, with the exception of a few winter days when snow has forced a cancellation.

"It's tradition," Mrs. Virginia Anthes said as she poured steaming hot water into a large coffee urn shortly before the guests started arriving. Mrs. Anthes has been working the dinners for the last 20 years.

"I do it because I enjoy it," she said. "It's fun." Tradition is part of the reason the dinners have lasted so long, according to Mrs. Jack Laurie.

"The meals have developed a reputation for being good," she said. "People have come to depend on them each month as an outing. It provides a good meal and some good fellowship."

The meals are held regularly as a fund-raising project by the church women, and began around 1920, as closely as can be determined.

At that time, the church was located several blocks from its present site, and the dinners were started to raise funds for construction. By the late 1920's, the original building was sold and the church relocated at its present site at Lincoln and State Streets.

The tradition continued and is now as much a part of church life as the Sunday service.

Thursday, about 60 persons showed up for generous helpings of tasty beef and pork, mashed potatoes, gravy, bread, salads, coffee and homemade pie.

Mrs. Royce Russell, who is a 25-year veteran of the monthly dinners, explained that each woman prepares a pie and a dish to pass. One person is assigned to prepare the meat.

Everything is prepared at home except the potatoes, which are cooked in the church kitchen, she said. Gallons of coffee are also made at the church just prior to serving. Patrons begin arriving around 11:30 a.m. By noon, the dining area is filled.

Mrs. Laurie said the turnout varies with the weather. Thursday's turnout was considered average to good. Some days, hungry guests must wait for a table.

At $2.00 for all you can eat, it's a bargain, Glenn Bissett of Deford said. He's one of several persons who travel out of their way to attend the meals regularly.

Guests from as far away as Bay City and Bad Axe, as well as Cass City, are regularly on hand.

The monthly meals have done more than provide fellowship and good food. During the Great Depression of the 1930's, money raised by the meals often meant the difference between paying an important bill or letting it ride. In later years, meal profits have gone toward remodeling the downstairs and carpeting the floor. Funds from the dinners have also helped purchase the dishes and silver used to serve the meals.

"We do it because it's fun," one worker said as she washed dishes after Thursday's dinner ended. "It's a service to the community and it's a tradition. And I'm for keeping things that are old and that have meaning."

There's never any problem getting women of the church involved in food preparation. As many as a dozen women pitch in to cook, set tables, collect money, and clean up.

"We enjoy the fellowship we have doing it," Mrs. Russell said. "We get a chance to visit and pick over the leftovers," she laughed.

The price of the meals went to $2.00 in recent months from $1.75. According to church records, the price jumped from 25 cents to 35 cents in 1938.

Mrs. Laurie said the recent increase was necessitated due to the high cost of meat.

"We don't make a whole lot on the meals," she said. "We do manage to get a little something for the church. But I think one of the important parts of it is the fellowship. People regularly plan to come to the dinners. It's tradition."

Judging by the response to the meals and by the food itself, chances are good that Gagetown's tasty tradition will continue for a long time to come.

JUST PART of the crowd that gathers monthly for a tasty, home-cooked meal at the Gagetown Methodist Church.

HOMEMADE PIES are just one of the treats at the Gagetown Methodist Church monthly dinners. Here, Mrs. Royce Russell does the honors.

Beef byproducts hold value

More than half a 1,000-pound market steer doesn't end up on dinner tables. Only approximately 432 pounds of that steer yield beef, according to the Michigan Beef Industry Commission.

What happens to the rest of the beast?

Nearly all the remaining steer is turned into edible and inedible by-products. The edibles include such items as oleo stock, gelatin, marshmallows and natural sausage casings. Inedible by-products include leather, soap, photographic film, sandpaper and violin strings.

Check the medicine cabinet too. "Cattle are walking storehouses for a variety of life-saving, life-improving drugs," the Commission says.

"More than 100 individual pharmaceuticals, currently known and in use, perform such vital functions as helping to make childbirth safer, settling an upset stomach, preventing blood clots in the vessels of the heart, spurring a sluggish thyroid, controlling anemia, and helping babies digest milk."

Keep out of quarrels—it's not easy to fight your way out.

ENJOYING A helping of roast beef is his honor, Gagetown Village President Lawrence Cummings.

Milliken seeks aid for damaged Tuscola homes

Gov. William G. Milliken has asked the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration to approve low-interest federal loans for flood victims in Tuscola, Bay and Arenac counties.

Milliken said that at least $100,000 in structural damage was done to homes in Tuscola county in the Quincassee region. A total of 665 homes were flooded and 80 families were evacuated in the three counties when high winds resulted in flooding of low areas at the southern end of Saginaw Bay April 25.

If approved by the FDAA, residents whose homes were damaged will be eligible for low-interest loans from the Small Business Administration.

County, union in hassle

have been scheduled. Contacted by the Chronicle at his Lansing office, Gradowski admitted using the word "bastards" in the meeting but said he isn't sorry.

"They (commissioners) ought to grow up and stop acting like spoiled children," Gradowski said. "I have nothing to be ashamed of."

Gradowski said the commissioners chose to walk out instead of sitting down with the union to iron out the grievances. He said he has sent a letter to the board requesting that the five grievances be turned over to binding arbitration.

"We are willing to agree to it if they (the commissioners) are," Gradowski said.

The union spokesman said the grievances stem from the fact that the county has failed to come up with a comprehensive pay plan as specified in the contract. The current agreement is due to expire Dec. 31.

He said the employees in question are only asking for the wage rates due them as specified in the contract.

Gradowski declined to speculate on the future of labor negotiations between the county and its courthouse employees.

Leonard Lane, chairman of the courthouse employees' union chapter, said Monday he is confident the union is on solid ground with its grievances.

Lane said it was his impression that the commissioners had no intention of negotiating with the union. He said attempts to work out the problems two weeks ago met with failure.

"They (the board) said it would be a cold day before they'd sit down and talk with us," Lane said. "In the past, they've tried to bulldoze us but we've shown them we can't be provoked."

Lane said Friday's clash came after the personnel committee said layoffs might have to be made if the grievances were settled in accordance with union demands.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Mrs. MacRae

is strong scout booster

May 3, 1976

Editor
Cass City Chronicle,

We are very pleased to hear that the Cass City "Citizen of the Year" went to Mrs. Evelyn MacRae and our congratulations go out to her.

Her many contributions to the welfare and growth of the community make her well-qualified for the fine honor.

We would like to comment on just one of her contributions, that of "Evelyn MacRae the Girl Scout."

She was Cass City Neighborhood Chairman of the Mitten Bay Girl Scout Council for a number of years and it was through her efforts and help that Gagetown organized its first Girl Scout Troop in the fall of 1966.

Thanks to Evelyn's constant encouragement, she helped us over those first hurdles, humps and bumps.

We had a terrific start then and are still going strong today.

Thanks go to Evelyn MacRae. We could not have done it without her.

Mrs. Hilda (Harold) Koch

senger escaped injury early Saturday morning when their car was struck by an unknown vehicle and landed in a ditch along Froede Road, three miles west of Kingston.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported the car, driven by Michael Allen Gilliam, 16, of 274 Froede Rd., Deford, was northbound when he went off the east side of the road, rolled over and landed in a ditch.

Gilliam and his passenger, Alan Jay Pratt, 15, of 7487 Shabbona Rd., Deford, told officers they were struck from behind by another vehicle just prior to the accident, which took place at 12:02 a.m.

A car driven by David F. Seuryneck, 24, of Jacob Road, Gagetown, ran off Bay City-Forestville Road, two miles east of Unionville, and landed in a 10-foot deep ditch around 1:00 a.m. Sunday.

Seuryneck's auto was eastbound at the time of the accident, Sheriff's deputies reported.

The driver was uninjured. Drivers were uninjured in a two-car collision at the intersection of M-81 and Colwood Road near Caro Thursday.

Caro State Police said a northeast bound car, driven by Robert Arthur Titus, 36, of Caro, was attempting to turn left onto Colwood Road when it was struck from behind by a car driven by Mary Marie Thane, 20, of 3677 E. Cass City Rd., Cass City.

Ms. Thane was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead. The accident took place at 4:20 p.m.

Village share of road money up 2 per cent

Cass City's share of Michigan's Motor Vehicle Highway fund rose just over two per cent for the first quarter of 1976, according to statistics released last week by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

Cass City received $13,236, compared with $12,940 for the same period a year ago. Total fund receipts showed the most improvement in the last three months since the onset of the energy crisis in late 1973, the department said.

Other area villages also registered increases. Gagetown received $4,454, compared with $4,358 for the first three months of 1975.

Kingston received $3,202 for the period, compared with $3,131 in 1975's first quarter. Uby's share totaled $5,675, up from $5,547 for the first quarter of 1975.

Increases were also recorded by county road commissions. Tuscola county received $575,332, up from $557,619 a year ago.

Sanilac county received $544,918, compared with $534,023 in the first quarter of 1975.

Huron county's share of the fund totaled $507,854, up from $492,923 for the same period a year ago.

State officials attribute the increases mainly to improvements in the economy, reflected in increased purchases in fuel and license plates.

Revenues in the fund are divided among the Department of State Highways, 44.5 per cent; the 83 county road commissions, 35.7 per cent; and the 531 incorporated cities and villages, 19.8 per cent after deductions for various grants. These include 1 1/4 per cent of the gas tax revenues for the State Waterways Fund, proceeds from one-half cent per gallon of gas taxes for the state's General Transportation Fund and $3.5 million annually for retirement of Mackinac Bridge Bonds.

FLINT BEECHER won the Gavel Invitational with outstanding runners. Finishing one, two in the 440 Saturday were Atkins and Carpenter.

IT'S MORE than a photo finish, it's a dead heat. USA's Mike Mischung and Greg Scharich reached the tape together in :15.7.

Baseball team improving

Hawks see chance for district win

Strange as it seems, the Cass City Red Hawk diamond nine, with a 2-6 Thumb B Conference record, has a chance to win the District Baseball Championship in June.

The reason for this strange sounding optimism is that the Hawks have been playing a decent brand of baseball in the last couple of weeks. That, coupled with a favorable draw in the pre-district pairings, gives Cass City at least an outside chance of advancing in State play.

The Hawks drew a bye in the first game and will face the winner of the USA-Mayville game May 29. It takes three wins to become the champion after drawing a bye.

The finals will be played June 5.

Hawk supporters who feel the team is playing better point to the team's most recent three games.

True, Cass City lost two of the three, but all were close and one was to Millington, a club that has lost just once all season.

In a unique situation caused by the weather Caro and Cass City played a double-header Saturday that counted as three games.

The first league game was played at Caro Saturday morning and the Tigers won 7-4. Rick Boylen, one of the class pitchers in the league, bested Mike Gruber.

Both pitchers showed plenty of stuff. Each struck out 12 and allowed five hits.

The downfall for Cass City was Gruber's wildness. He walked 11 and that was just too many for the Hawk offense to overcome.

In the afternoon game at Millington, by mutual agreement, the contest counted as a tourney game enabling the Hawks to win the consolation trophy in the tournament won by host Millington Saturday night and also as the second game in the league schedule.

To conform with league rules the first six innings completed the league game and the final inning was played to conform with the Millington tournament rules.

Ken Lowe continued to show improvement on the mound as he limited the Tigers to two hits and one run while striking out five.

The game was decided in the second when Cass City bunched three of their five hits for all of their runs. Lowe started it off with a double. Jeff Hartel walked and Randy Rabideau singled to score Lowe. Hartel scored on a hit by Rick Doerr and Rabideau scored on a Caro boot.

The line scores:

C 003 202 5-7-1

Records set as Beecher edges USA in Gavel meet

One new record was set in the Gavel Club Invitational track meet Saturday as Flint Beecher's mile relay team posted a 3:32.1 to best the old record of 3:36.5 set by Vassar in 1964.

The new record setting performance helped the Flint school to the over-all championship for the second time in the 18-year history of the meet.

Beecher edged defending two-time champion USA, 66-61 1/2.

Other teams finished in the following order: Montrose, 28; Cass City, 26 1/2; Lakers, 19; Flint Holy Rosary, 18; Marlette, 18; Frankenmuth, 17; Caro, 11; Yale, 8; Owen-Gage, 5; Imlay City, 3, and Capac, 0.

Cass City recorded one first in the meet. It was in the high jump where Clarke Haire reached 6'3 1/2" to set a new Cass City record, erasing the former school mark of 6'3", held by Wally Hempton.

Other Cass City points were won by Guy Howard, second in the pole vault; Haire, third in the pole vault; Blaise Posluszny, fourth in the 220. The Hawks also finished third in the medley relay and third in the 880-yard relay.

Beecher had only a fifth place in the shot put coming out of the field events but dominated the track events. The champions won the medley relay, mile relay, 880-yard relay, 880-yard run, 100-yard dash and the 440-yard dash.

USA showed exceptional strength in the hurdles. Greg Scharich and Mike Mischung tied for first in the 120-yard high hurdles. They won first and second in the low hurdles as Dennis Dunkel finished first and Mischung, second.

Owen-Gage's five points were earned by Larry Rapson, fourth in the shot put, and Mike Schwartz, third in the long jump.

Hawks improve in dual meets

Cass City won and tied Thumb B Conference track meets during the week as the thinclads head down the stretch towards the Conference clash at Caro next Wednesday.

The tie came last Wednesday at Caro, 66-66, and the win at Cass City Recreational Park against a weak Hatchet team, 107 1/2-24 1/2.

As might be expected judging by the score the winners in the Caro meet were evenly divided. Each team copped eight events.

There were two sweeps in the meet, Cass City took all three places in the pole vault with Clarke Haire, first, Guy Howard, second, and Mike Decker and Tim Muz tying for third, while Putnam, Emil and Stoddard took all the points in the discus.

Haire, pole vault and high jump, and Miles 180-high and 120-low hurdles were the meet's double winners.

Records may fall in meet of champions

If the weatherman cooperates with good running conditions, officials of the 4th Annual Track and Field Meet of Champions expected several Meet Records to be broken at this year's running of the Thumb's premiere track meet Tuesday, June 1, at Caro.

440-Yard Relay - team of Jeff Morrison, Kirk Lee, Don James and Mike Wade of Vassar (1974), :45.0.

In early reports, several Meet records have already either been broken or tied. These are the current meet record holders, whose titles will be challenged by the more than 200 athletes who will receive invitations following this year's regional competition:

Auctioneer's gavel will sound end of era for Cass City cobbler, Carl Wright

An era ended last week for Carl Wright and for Cass City. That's the day the 65-year-old cobbler repaired his last pair of shoes. It also marked the end of Cass City's last shoe repair shop.

"Yeah, it feels a little strange," the soft-spoken Wright said as he rubbed black shoe polish onto the leather and started buffing it. "But I suppose I'll get used to it."

For the past 12 years, Wright not only repaired shoes eight hours a day, but continued to work full-time as a set-up man at General Cable Corporation.

"I put in a lot of 16 hour days," Wright said, taking a break from his labor. "But I've enjoyed it. I've enjoyed helping people."

His new-shoe supply has already been sold and was expected to be gone by the end of the week. He plans to auction off his machinery later this month.

Wright decided to sell his business following the death of his wife last year.

"We'd just gotten all the machinery paid for and we planned to take a trip," he said. "But it was too late for her."

Wright got into the shoe repair business almost by accident. He'd had no experience as a cobbler and hadn't planned on doing anything other than shop work.

"Then one day we got a pair of shoes fixed at Floyd Ottaway's shop and he asked me if I'd be interested in buying him out," Wright recalled. "I told him I didn't have the money just then but that I was interested. I worked along with him awhile and the more I did, the more I liked it. My wife and I talked about it and we decided we'd like to take it over."

Eventually, they bought the business and moved it to its present location on Main Street.

Wright bought machinery from Ottaway, from a shop in northern Michigan and from Joe Riley, who operated a repair shop in Cass City. As his shop grew, so did his list of customers.

"I had people come from Emmet, Crosswell, Detroit, Lansing and Bay City with shoes to be repaired," Wright said. "I've had some send their shoes in a box with a blank check."

Although Wright has never made a pair of shoes from scratch, he says he's repaired enough for him to qualify as a cobbler.

It's impossible to tell just how many shoes he's repaired but he agrees they number in the thousands.

"I've always felt I was helping people in this business," he says. "There's lots of folks who maybe couldn't afford a new pair of shoes but who could have their old ones fixed."

He also specialized in fitting braces to shoes. When someone who wore a brace bought a new pair of shoes, it meant a trip to the repair shop for a fitting.

"The first thing you have to do is check and see whether or not there's a wooden or metal reinforcement in the shoe," he said. "If it's wooden, it won't take a brace. If it's steel, it will."

Next comes drilling the shoe with a carbon-tipped drill. An ordinary drill won't work because the material is too hard, Wright says.

Then comes the final fitting. "I've drilled many of them," he says.

Wright says people today are taking better care of their feet than they did years ago. "They're getting the arch supports they need," he says.

He says most of the material used today is better than it used to be. A good pair of shoes, with leather uppers and a top quality sole can last from three to five years, depending on how they're used.

But they still need repair, he says, and there's still business for someone who wants to go into it.

"A young man could make a living at it," Wright says. "There's enough business."

Yet the number of shoe repair shops continues to dwindle. Caro and Sebawing have repair shops, he says, but few others remain in the Thumb.

When Wright closes his shoe repair shop, he'll mark another milestone. May 20, he retires from General Cable Corp. after 16 years.

He says he doesn't plan to simply sit around in retirement.

"I've got relatives in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and in Washington and in Imlay City and they all want me to spend some time with them," he said. "And I've got a lot of work I want to do on my house, so I plan to keep busy."

He also plans to get in some fishing. One thing he doesn't plan to do is repair shoes. "When I lock the door, that's it," he says.

CARL WRIGHT puts the finishing touches on the last pair of shoes to come out of his repair shop. Wright will lock the door after 12 years and close the last shoe repair shop in Cass City.

Your neighbor says

Separate vacations are out

What is a vacation for a married couple? Is it time spent with each other or is it something husbands and wives should take separately?

Mrs. Cheryl Swallow of Cass City says no to separate vacations.

"To me that's why you're married," she says. "I don't believe in it."

Mrs. Swallow says vacations are a family time when husbands, wives and children get a chance to get reacquainted.

"A vacation gives married people a chance to talk about things without the pressures of every day on them," she says.

She definitely favors taking children on vacations. "We've left our little girl for maybe a day or two but before long we begin missing her. How can you take a vacation and enjoy it without worrying about your kids?"

She says she and her husband, an employee of the county road commission, look forward to spending vacation time together as a family.

Mrs. Swallow is a native of Cass City. The couple has one child.
