

Fate of adult foster care home rests with proposed zoning change

Whether or not the Konrad Konwalski home on Church Street in Cass City becomes an adult foster care facility will be decided following public hearings on a proposed zoning change scheduled next month.

Village council voted to hold hearings on the request during its regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday night at the municipal building.

The request has already been turned down by the Village Planning Commission when the Konwalskis and prospective buyer Carol Trainor of Minden City submitted the request to the commission.

Under existing procedures, the request should probably have come to the village first and then to the planning commission, Village President, Lambert Althaver explained.

According to James Tutwiler, son-in-law of the Konwalskis who spoke on their behalf, the couple were allegedly "misinformed" by one of the commission members who said the zoning change had to come through the commission first.

As a result, Tutwiler said, some of the area residents have reportedly come out against the move.

He said the Konwalskis plan to sell the home to Ms. Trainor if it can be used for an adult foster care center. If it cannot, he said, chances of selling the property as a one-family dwelling are less likely.

Village Attorney Clinton House said the Konwalskis would probably not be eligible to seek an exception or a variance in the existing one or two-family zoning.

The Konwalskis are seeking a change to allow multiple family dwellings. Similarly zoned land already exists on two sides of the property.

The planning commission reportedly turned down the request after it contacted neighbors in the area and found 11 of 13 opposed.

Mrs. Konwalski told council it is untrue that as many as 15 foster care "residents" would be living in the house. She said the house would accommodate six at most.

Tutwiler said residents would probably be older persons or those who could not look after themselves completely. He said such homes do not cause a drop in surrounding property values, adding that state authorities inspect such homes at least four times a year.

Council agreed to hold a public hearing on the zoning change request at its next meeting June 29.

Ms. Trainor, who is the mother of three children, said she wants to open a foster care home in Cass City because she likes the village.

"I've been looking for a place to do something like this and I've been very impressed with Cass City," she said. "I guess I want to do it because I want to help people."

Ms. Trainor is single.

While House agreed that the zoning could be changed, he cautioned council not to rush into making changes whenever they are requested. He said granting changes too quickly destroys the intent of a zoning ordinance.

The agreement by Ms. Trainor to purchase the Konwalski property reportedly hinges on obtaining a zoning change or having a variance granted.

During council's discussion, trustee James Ware said council should get a better idea of what the planning commission is doing.

"Personally, I'd like to see better communications with the planning commission," Ware said. "I think it's important that we both know what's going on."

option to renew on the same terms for another 25 years.

One change involves the baseball and softball diamonds. Under terms of the lease, the school would maintain the diamonds during the academic year, but not after school is over in the spring.

Another provision states the school would either provide its own maintenance or buy it from the village at the going labor and equipment rental rates.

The agreement was worked out between committees of council and the school board, Althaver said. No action will be taken on the lease until after the June 14 school election when district voters will decide whether or not to approve millage to build a

A CHANGE in zoning is needed before the Konrad Konwalski home can be used as an adult foster care facility. A public hearing on the change is scheduled at the next regular Village Council meeting in June.

Court action sought

Owen-Gage to appeal $1.4 million transfer

Owen-Gage School District officials moved ahead with plans this week for a circuit court injunction to block the transfer of over $1.4 million in land to the Cass City School District.

The State Board of Education approved the transfer at a meeting held in Lansing last Wednesday, May 19, and it came after nearly three years of struggle by the 42 property owners, most of them in Elmwood township.

The board okayed the transfer by a 4-3 margin, with one abstention. A similar transfer was denied two years ago.

Owen-Gage School Supt. Ronald Erickson said last week that school attorneys plan to file an injunction in Ingham County Circuit Court to show cause why the transfer should not be reversed.

Erickson said the district plans to base its appeal on the fact that over 10 per cent of the district is petitioning for transfer without a vote of the people, in violation of state law.

He said the district also plans to attack "incriminating statements" made by certain state board members during testimony on the transfers.

"It's obvious that they (the state board) wish to destroy us," Erickson said.

State Board Administrative Secretary Lad Dombrowski told the Chronicle last week that the board overturned the action of the joint Tuscola-Huron Intermediate Board which had denied the transfer request for the following reasons:

- While there may be comparability at the elementary level in the two districts, the curriculum offered at Cass City is broader than at Owen-Gage.

- The total cost of education for the property owners would be less at Cass City than at Owen-Gage.

- The majority of students in the transfer area are already attending Cass City Schools.

- Facilities at Cass City are adequate to handle additional students.

- The transfers are being made from a non-accredited district to an accredited district.

Few problems seen in transfer

Cass City School Supt. Donald Crouse said last week that the addition of approximately $1.4 million in valuation to the Cass City School District in transfers from Owen-Gage won't have a great effect on existing Cass City facilities or on the district's income.

Crouse explained that nearly all the students living in the transfer area already attend Cass City schools. Since the district is already receiving state aid payments for these students, little change is foreseen.

He said additional tax monies coming to Cass City from the transferred land will be offset by a proportionate reduction in state aid, leaving the district's income at its present level.

Currently, the district levies 20 mills for operation and .95 mills for debt retirement.

If more children were to enroll at Cass City along with the addition of property, then the district's income would rise, he said.

Crouse said this week residents of the transfer area who were registered to vote in Owen-Gage school elections are eligible to cast ballots in next month's Cass City School District election.

fer in each case."

Dombrowski denied that the state board is bent on putting Owen-Gage out of business, but stated that the board is interested in seeing small districts work with neighboring districts in developing comprehensive education plans.

"That wasn't the issue here," he said. "The issue was the transfers. Owen-Gage is not being used to send any messages to anybody."

Dombrowski also said the state board refused to rescind its earlier action "advising" State School Supt. Dr. John Porter to cast a no vote when the Municipal Finance Commission meets to decide the fate of a bond issue which would finance a new high school building in Owendale.

Voters approved the bond issue last December.

The rescind motion lost 5-3. Erickson paraphrased Gordon Riethmiller, vice-president of the state board as saying, "To me, it seems to be a concentrated effort by larger school districts with a decreasing enrollment to get property from smaller ones."

Erickson said the transfers present an interesting bussing situation. He said Cass City school buses will have to drive through Gageton to pick up children west of the village.

One of the petitioners who refused to be identified said the decision did not come as a surprise but added he was pleased since the same transfer had been turned down many times before at the local, county and state level.

The petitioner said hard feelings would obviously remain no matter how the decision went.

"We were told after the decision to go home and start healing the wounds in our community," he said. "It will take a lot of time. It won't happen overnight."

"Personally, I hope that the Owen-Gage school stays. We were never out to destroy them. All we wanted was a better educational opportunity for our children. I wish them well. If I'm driving a Cadillac and somebody else is driving a Model A, I don't have the right to tell him he can't have his Model A."

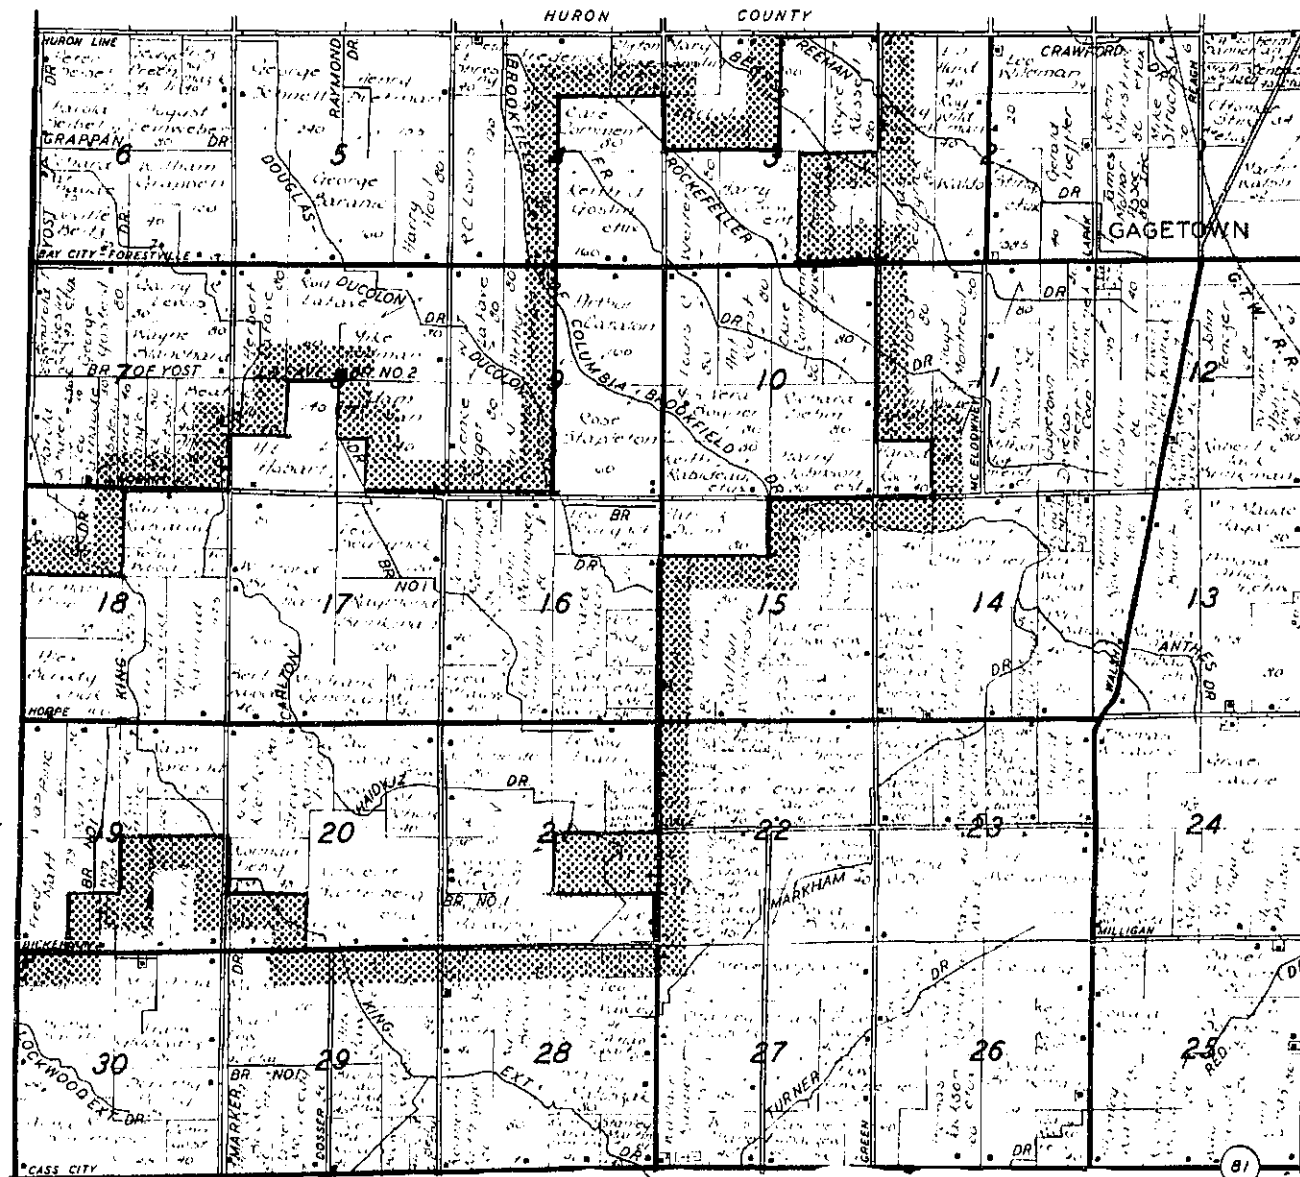

Mrs. Vincent Sattelberg, another petitioner, said she was relieved that the transfer was over but added that the group is not out of the woods yet in light of a pending court injunction hearing.

"At least the trees are thinning out," she said.

The Sattelbergs have attempted to transfer their property to the Cass City district the past 10 years.

Ben Hobart, Gageton, another petitioner, said the situation was unfortunate, but added that there was never any middle ground.

"We won't go to their view and they can't come to us," he said. "There was no room for compromise."

Contractor delays stall swimming pool opening

Hold onto those bathing suits.

Cass City's new municipal swimming pool won't be opening June 1 as originally scheduled. Village Council learned Tuesday night that contractor delays have forced opening of the new facility back at least a week.

"Our goal is now to open the pool Monday, June 7," Village President Lambert Althaver reported.

Althaver blamed Perma-Built, contractors for the pool itself, for the delays. He said the company has failed to meet "five or six deadlines."

"They are the reason we can't open by June 1," he said.

Althaver said the inside of the pool must still be plastered before major plumbing can be completed and state testing can begin. Until then, Cass Cityans will just have to wait, he said.

The village has been without a pool since 1971, when state authorities condemned the existing facility. Since then, a large bequest from the estate of the late Helen Stevens has helped finance the lion's share of the new project.

The new pool will have a capacity of 365 persons, it was reported.

Council got a look at proposed rates for the new pool. Swimming will be available Monday through Saturday from 2:00-9:00 p.m. and from 2:00-5:00 p.m. Sundays.

Rates from 2:00-4:00 p.m. will be 25 cents. The price goes up to 35 cents from 4-6 p.m., and jumps to 50 cents from 7-9 p.m. Sunday rates are 50 cents.

Free swimming will be available Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2-4 p.m. A season pass will cost $15.00.

Lessons will also be offered. The first session, for beginners, will cost $10, with the second session for intermediate swimmers at $7.00 and the third session for more advanced swimmers at $5.00.

Lessons will be offered five days a week from 9:00 a.m.-noon.

Rates are subject to change, Althaver said.

Several large gifts toward completing the pool project were announced. Walbro Corp. and Anrod Screen Cylinder Co. have each donated $1,000, with a $500 donation from Zonta Club, $200 each from the Cass City Student Council and the Lions Auxiliary and $100 from the Gageton Athletic Club.

Set Memorial Day plans

Memorial Day plans in Cass City were announced this week by Richard Hampshire and James Ware, co-chairmen for this year's festivities.

The annual parade will get underway at 10:30 a.m., a half-hour later than in past years. Persons participating in the parade are asked to assemble at the parking lot at Church and Leach Streets, at 10:00 a.m.

The parade will take its usual course along Main Street, ending at Elkland cemetery.

The youth of First Baptist church will have a float in this year's parade. Other organizations who traditionally participate in the annual festivities will also take part, Ware said.

Guest speaker for services at the cemetery will be Rev. Harold Prong of the Novesta Church of Christ.

The Novesta church will also feature a special Memorial Day service, Monday, May 31, at 2:00 p.m. Following the program, a potluck lunch will be served.

Memorial Day services at Grant cemetery, Owendale, will be held Sunday, May 30, at 2:00 p.m. Speaker will be Elder Olson McCallum, with local churches and organizations participating in the program, according to Marguerite Summers, Grant memorial secretary.

Early copy, please

With next Monday's Memorial Day holiday, advertising and news deadlines will be advanced one day.

The schedule change is necessary in order to insure on-time publication of next week's Chronicle.

Your usual good cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

LOOKING OVER pledge totals for the swimming pool fund are Zonta Club members (from the left) Helen Baker, Dorothy Ballard, president, and Marie Roch, treasurer. So far, around $12,000 in pledges has been received toward a $20,000 goal.

gown over taffeta featuring a square neckline, small cape over shoulders, designed with a rolled collar. An imported Swiss braid picture hat to match her gown completed her attire.

She carried a fireside basket of pink mini-carnations, white daisies, and streamers of lavender and white picot completed the arrangement. Bridesmaids were Barb Sweeney, sister-in-law of the bride, Rose Devlin, sister of the groom, and Marilyn Kubacki, friend of the bride. All wore gowns matching the maid of honor, with varying colors and picture hats to match their attire.

Flower girl was Pamela Sweeney, niece of the bride, who wore a yellow gown and matching hat and carried a petite fireside basket resembling those of the other members of the wedding party.

Best man was Walter Lasceski, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Gerald Sweeney, brother of the bride, Joseph Devlin, brother-in-law of the groom, and Tony Polk, friend of the groom.

Ushers were John Polega, brother of the groom, and Dean Sweeney, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a long pink floral gown with matching ruffled jacket. She wore a corsage of white daisy poms, and sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a long aqua gown with gold metallic accessories, and wore a corsage of white daisy poms and pale blue sweetheart roses.

Organist was Connie Barsanski and soloist was Mrs. John Zaleski. Altar arrangements of white glads accented with carnations matched the color of the gowns.

A wedding reception for 450 persons was held following the ceremony at Colony House.

The new couple will reside near Kinde.

"If It Fitz . . ." I had forgotten that . . .

BY JIM FITZGERALD

My 3-year-old granddaughter, Melissa, is tremendously fond of the minister of her parents' church. When he comes visiting, he eats peanut butter sandwiches with her. And sometimes he takes her out to lunch at McDonald's.

He should be nice to her, in view of what she calls him. She calls him God.

Whenever I bore you with grandchildren stories, you'll know I am tapering off after being visited by the three darlings. They are aged infant through first grade, two girls and a boy, and their last visit prompted me to lodge a complaint at City Hall in our small town.

The civil defense people explode three bombs to warn the populace that a tornado is coming. But they don't even put up a distress flag when my three grandkids cross the city limits. Three nuclear explosions not only would be appropriate, they would be a comparatively quiet introduction to the impending calamity.

Anyway, I find it isn't wise to quit vibrating cold turkey after the children head back home. Instead, I turn my son's stereo up full volume and place my strung-out body in the center of the four speakers. I have him play Frank Zappa records, reducing the volume gradually over a period of hours. I pass the time pondering the many things I had forgotten until Michele and Melissa and John arrived to bring back the memories.

It had been 15 years or so depending on your criteria, since babies lived at our house. It's hard to say exactly when our youngest child ceased to be a baby, but I remember getting suspicious when he began changing his own diapers and heating his own bottle.

I had forgotten how it feels to hear a baby cry at 3 a.m. It took me a few seconds to remember what to do. What you do is push your foot softly to the south. If this doesn't work, you kick more firmly. Finally, your wife wakes up. You then tell her the baby is crying.

I had forgotten about the spot on a baby's neck, up under the chin, not far from the ear. That's where you nuzzle a baby. It feels great. I had forgotten the crunching sound of cookie crumbs underfoot.

I had forgotten how your heart stops, and then pounds, when you hear a baby scream and the sound of a small body going bump, bump, bump.

And I had forgotten the mixed relief of discovering he fell only two steps. A potted plant went the rest of the way. I had forgotten to look before I sit. Have you ever sat on an abandoned popsicle?

I had forgotten a grown man can somehow enjoy eating his dinner while watching a kid with a runny nose stick her face in chocolate pudding.

I had forgotten the most beautiful babies have fat stomachs and no fannies, and once they get walking fast, it is a fact of gravity that they are going to fall down, bam.

And I had forgotten adults are supposed to look the other way when these falls occur. This is supposed to make the kid think he is not hurt. I keep forgetting and picking the kid up and kissing his sore spot and mouthing silly "there-there-baby" words I'd hate to have overheard at the Alibi Bar.

I had forgotten how grand it feels to return home from work and be greeted by a little kid who wants to climb up your legs and stick his fingers in your nose. I had forgotten that babies don't watch TV and you don't have to knock on their heads to say hello.

I had forgotten the goofy pride of taking little kids into a restaurant and having strangers smile at them. I react modestly to such attention, bowing from the waist only after repeated applause. Inside my fat head I am hoping everyone will think I am the father, not the grandfather, for gosh sakes.

I had forgotten the marvelous innocence of a small baby; the trust and the dependence and the eagerness to love and be loved. I had forgotten that some smart adult like me must teach little kids how to hate, and who to hate.

I had forgotten that a little girl can eat peanut butter sandwiches with God.

Hartwicks named to Dean's list

Sharla and Susan Hartwick, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hartwick of Cass City, were named to the Dean's List at Delta College for the winter semester. Both are sophomores.

They are both 1970 graduates of Cass City High School.

Letter to Editor

Please help us save our school district

To Mr. Haire and the taxpayers of Cass City School District.

I can't believe the taxpayers of your school district would sit back and allow their school board help destroy Owen-Gage School District. What have the Owen-Gage Schools ever done to you? Since when is it right to take what belongs to another? Your board had to agree to accept the land transfers. They had the right to refuse, but chose not to do so. Why? Is this the good neighbor policy?

Everyone is throwing around the words that Owen-Gage doesn't offer a good enough education. If you could check into students records that have come to your school from ours, you would find ours had enough education or more to keep up with Cass City students. I think in the last two years some of your honor students came from Owen-Gage. I am sure each of us as parents would like to have our child be an honor student, but we as parents might as well make up our minds that our children will get out of school just as much as they put in it, wherever they go to school. For two years now, Cass City School Board has allowed around 90 Owen-Gage students to attend your schools tuition-free. They told you people it's ok because they collect state aid. What's the matter with collecting state aid and charging tuition? Other districts do. They get state aid for your children but you still have to pay taxes. Is this fair to you? It seems to me you taxpayers better wake up and attend school board meetings; it's time well spent. It's your money and your school this board is taking care of.

Are you aware your school is going to have to make room for another 100 or more students if all these land transfers go through? Are your classrooms large enough? Is your teaching staff able to handle these extra children? What will crowded classrooms take away from your child's education? How long before your school board will want you to build a larger school?

Are you ready as a taxpayer to pay for a school you wouldn't have needed if Owen-Gage students would have stayed in Owen-Gage? You know, the nice school in Gagetown doesn't go with land transfers.

We as a district voted in December, 1975, and passed a bond issue. Eighty per cent of our district voted. Now the State Board of Education and the Municipal Finance Commission has refused to honor our vote. Is this the free country we think it is? What if this happened to you?

Won't you the people of Cass City School District help us with this fight? The communities of Owendale and Gagetown have patronized your town for years and will continue to do so. So why not help keep a better relationship between our towns?

Oh, yes, have you decided what to do with Mr. Belk? I hope so. He has only lived in our district a very few years and has stirred up a lot of trouble and heartaches. It seems he knows more about our school district and yours than people who have lived here all their lives. There is one thing I can't understand. If Mr. Belk is the smart man he thinks he is, why did he buy land and build a new home in Owen-Gage?

This is my plea to the people of Cass City Schools. Won't you please help us before it's too late? Write to the State Board of Education members in Lansing. Attend your school board meetings. Tell your school board your opinions. Go to your neighbors, start petitions, let other people know how you feel.

You can't help us or yourselves by sitting back and saying let the other guy do it. I know there are people in your district that share our feelings over here. Stand up and be counted; don't let this be pushed on you.

Our fight is not over yet. We might be in the last inning but the ball game is not over. Thank you for taking time to read this.

An Owen-Gage Taxpayer
Mary Jane Meininger

FROM THE Editor's Corner

There is always a winner and a loser. Right? Wrong. In the Owen-Gage School feud all we have are losers. No winners.

Cass City Schools certainly won't come out ahead with the transfer of the property to the district. Financially, it was a better deal for the district to have the children enrolled on a tuition basis.

For Owen-Gage school partisans the latest maneuver is a crushing blow. Petitioners whose land was transferred are rejoicing but their "victory" is not without cost and is not yet total.

There may well be a court case to test the transfer.

The big loss is the bitterness that will scar the Owendale and Gagetown communities for years ahead.

It has alienated neighbors and split families.

Sitting from the sidelines it's easy to see merit in the positions taken by both factions.

Pro-Owen-Gagers point to the vote that authorized a bond issue for a new school. The opposing faction says, yes, but if the vote of property owners only was considered no way would the issue pass.

So, you see there is really no common ground for agreement here.

There is one trend clearly discernible in the transfer decision that is discouraging. Another bit of local control of our tax supported institutions has been eroded.

Certainly, the decision of the State Board of Education must have been influenced by the continuing hassle that has been stretched out now for more than a decade.

But the fact remains that the decision process now rests at Lansing, not locally. It's always been the opinion here that the farther away from the grass roots you get the less responsible to the needs of the people government becomes.

But I digress. We're talking about losers here.

If you ask the parents of the transfer students, their kids "won" because the education is better at Cass City. Owen-Gage partisans say that there is no finer education than that offered at their school.

No middle ground again.

What's really worse is what started it all, the true issue, the best education for the children, has been almost superseded by bitter personal recriminations tossed back and forth.

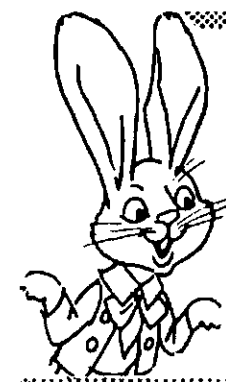

Yet, the leaders of both factions are upright thinking individuals. Jack Laurie is a respected member of the community. So is Ben Hobart. So are the rest.

It's too much to hope that all will be forgiven and forgotten when the wrangle winds down to the bitter end.

But if Owen-Gage closes or expands parents should remember what started it all. A better education.

Whether at Owen-Gage or at neighboring schools, parents should vote whatever money and whatever time it takes to get it.

That would turn losers into winners.

After free loading on the Tuscola County Farm Bureau Thursday in Caro, the organization's hierarchy presented the farm view in a gab session.

It was billed as a way to reach a broader understanding of media and farm problems.

It probably served its purpose well.

It was also a chance to exchange chitchat again with Gerald Hicks of Deford, county vice-president, and a person whom we've reported about many times while he served on the school board and in various other public capacities.

It was our first meeting with President LeRoy Schluckebier and John Young, young farmers, both of whom can tell you what they want you to hear in convincing fashion.

This can't be commonplace can it? I was at the emergency room of Hills and Dales General Hospital Monday night.

The personnel was busy shoeing everyone and his vehicle from the emergency parking area.

About a half hour later I found out why. A helicopter came buzzing in from Flint and landed in that postage stamp area.

Out jumped a Flint cop with a package which I learned later was for a young boy in critical condition needing blood plasma right now.

Another note. There is an efficient secretary (sorry, I didn't learn her name) taking statistics at the hospital and when she learned that I was a publisher told me as how she liked to write and would love to do a book or send some of her stuff in to magazines with contests, etc.

I told her that it probably would be a labor of love. Stick to secretary work, I added, there's more money in it. I'm not sure that she believed me. But she should.

Here's a small plug for a big sale. The Sidewalk Sale in Cass City will be July 15-16-17. According to Clarence "Bud" Schneeberger, chairman, the sidewalk displays will be under the direction of Gerald Prieskorn.

This year all churches will be urged to have bazaars, bake sales, etc., on the main stem. Out-of-town flea market type sales will also be encouraged.

However, for the commercial types there will be a small fee to cover expenses while the churches can have a space merely for the asking.

Early reservations with Prieskorn will assure choice locations and make planning easier. End of commercial (and of column).

The Want Ads Are Newsy Too!AGENT'S CORNER*Beware of canning lids

Allene Mills - Extension Agent

Goodness, just this spring I have been exposed to 23 different names for canning lids that are being marketed and this could be just the beginning. Consumer beware before you purchase. Remember how much of your time and energy, plus cost of ingredients and materials are involved in home processing foods. These foods can be stored up to 12 months and you want this food to keep and be useable.

May I suggest that you take an inventory of your own canning lid needs and purchase accordingly. In selecting a good canning lid stick to reputable suppliers and manufacturers with a well tested product. A reputable manufacturer prints the name of the company on the lid and gives the maker's name, complete address and detailed instructions for using the lids on the outer box. Also, look for a guarantee on how the lids will perform. Most boxes have a code number printed on the top or side. This can be used to trace the shipment, if necessary.

One additional thought is to never take it for granted that all canning lids can be used in the same manner. Read and understand the use instructions.

It's a well-known and deplorable fact that idle gossip keeps a lot of people busy.

Soil stewardshipweek set

Soil Stewardship Week, a nation-wide observance which emphasizes man's responsibility to protect and conserve soil, water and other natural resources, is set May 23-30, according to Don Loomis, Chairman of the Tuscola Soil Conservation District.

This year's theme, "We Begin Again", emphasizes the need to awaken every citizen to his responsibility as a steward of the land as we begin our third century of national life, Loomis said.

The Tuscola SCD has distributed upon request to 20 churches in the county, over 4,000 bulletin inserts, created especially for this year's observance.

"We hope," Loomis said, "that during Soil Stewardship Week, millions of Americans will pause for a moment to consider their responsibilities for the protection and use of the Lord's earth."

1976 will be the 22nd consecutive year the Tuscola SCD, along with almost 3,000 similar districts throughout the nation, has sponsored Soil Stewardship Week.

Long career to end for Arthur Willits

A familiar face will be missing from the Tuscola county scene next year, following the announcement last week by Treasurer Arthur Willits that he plans to retire at the end of his current term.

Willits, 77, will complete 38 years as the county's top financial officer next January, and he candidly admits the decision to step down wasn't easy.

The Watertown township Republican said age was the main consideration in his decision. Terms for county treasurers now run four years.

"I guess time has finally caught up with me," Willits said in a telephone interview with the Chronicle Monday. "It was quite a hard decision to make."

Willits' decision was only hours old last Friday when two Republicans announced for the post-deputy treasurer Elgene Keller and Donald Graf, a former county commissioner and an employee of the County Equalization Department.

The two will face each other in the August primary election.

For Willits, the decision to retire marks the end of a long and successful career in county politics.

He was first elected in 1938, defeating incumbent Republican treasurer Arthur Whittenburg by 149 votes in the GOP primary. Whittenburg had served three two-year terms and was seeking a fourth.

In one of his campaign messages that year, Willits said he did not seek "a life lease" on the office—"only a fair trial."

County voters re-elected him regularly each two years until the term was lengthened to four years.

The longer term helped force the decision, he admitted.

Things have changed a great deal since those waning days of the Great Depression, Willits recalled. In those days, many county property owners were paying their taxes on the "ten-year plan".

The plan allowed landowners to pay their property taxes on the installment plan each year over a 10-year period for taxes in 1932, 33 and 34.

In spite of those hard times, there were no more tax defaults then than today, Willits said.

"People in the county have always been concerned about paying their taxes on time," he said.

Willits' career began in Watertown township as treasurer. "I'd always had an ambition to be involved in politics," he said. "I served as township treasurer two terms and as supervisor three terms when I was elected county treasurer."

He recalled that when he took over the office on Jan. 1, 1939, it took just two persons to handle county finances. Today, Willits employs a staff of four besides himself.

There have been other changes. "Too numerous to mention," Willits said. Most of them have come in the form of new laws passed by the Michigan Legislature governing how taxes are collected and how payments to the state are made.

The mechanics of the office, however, have stayed pretty much the same. It still takes bookkeeping skills, time and honesty to make the office run.

"That's one piece of advice I'd give anyone coming into this office," he said. "Be honest. Use everybody alike. That's been my motto ever since I took over as treasurer and I think that's why I've been successful."

Willits hasn't made any firm plans for his retirement. "I just plan to take it easy for awhile and enjoy life," he said.

Willits and his wife have one son, Dr. Robert Willits of Elkton, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The couple reside in Caro.

COUNTY TREASURER Arthur Willits will retire at the end of this year after 38 years. Willits, 77, says he wants to devote more time to his family. Two Republicans have already jumped in the race to succeed Willits.

Two seek GOP treasurer nod

Two Republicans have filed nominating petitions for the treasurer's post being vacated by Arthur Willits, 77, long-time Tuscola county treasurer.

They are Deputy Treasurer Elgene Keller, 50, Caro, and Donald Graf, 50, Unionville. Mrs. Keller has been an employee of the treasurer's office since 1958, and has served as deputy treasurer since 1968.

She is a member of the American Legion Auxiliary and has served as president and secretary. She has held all of the offices for the Seventh District Association of American Legion Auxiliaries, and was president of the organization one year.

Mrs. Keller is a member of the Caro Business and Professional Women's Club and has served as recording secretary the past two years. She is presently second vice-president.

Galloway China Painters Guild and belongs to a small hobby club.

DONALD GRAF

She is a member of the

Nab two in Kingston armed robbery

Warrants were being sought against two suspects Wednesday morning in connection with an armed robbery at the Kingston Party Store in Kingston Tuesday night.

Tuscola County Sheriff's detectives and Caro Police made the arrests.

The robbery reportedly took place shortly after 11:00 p.m. The suspects allegedly used a sawed-off shotgun in the robbery, which netted them approximately $300, a spokesperson for the Sheriff's department said.

The pair was apprehended a short time after the robbery. Details of the robbery were still sketchy at press time.

Heroes and gurus

By Jim Ketchum

Anybody looking for a political messiah? Try California Gov. Edmund G. (as in guru) Brown.

The 38-year-old savior came riding out of the sunset and into the hearts and minds of Maryland voters last week, defeating the other self-appointed Mr. Clean of 1976, Jimmy Carter.

Whether or not Brown is really interested in becoming president isn't as important as looking the part. And Brown has done it. All he needs is a sack cloth, a string of beads and sandals to make the picture complete.

Brown rode to the California governor's chair as a liberal and then began to do unliberal things such as refusing to sleep in the governor's mansion, preferring a two-room flat, macrobiotic foods and a straw mat to rest his politically attractive head.

By not promising better than even Carter, who's been accused of not committing himself on tomorrow's sunrise, Brown has become the darling of the disenchanted and the demon-advocate of the downtrodden.

Brown is a product of our disposable society. We get a hero, venerate him for awhile and then dispose of him.

Witness Henry Kissinger. Three or four years ago, an administration without Henry Kissinger would be like a town without a saloon or a politician with nothing to say.

He was "Super K" and he was the greatest. Now when he talks about resigning, all anyone says is "so long."

We had other political heroes. Spiro Agnew, Lyndon Johnson, John F. Kennedy.

We had Edmund Muskie until he cried in public. Hubert Humphrey has been a hero and an anti-hero so many times nobody is keeping count anymore.

Gerald Ford was a hero until he pardoned Richard Nixon.

Then along came Jimmy Carter, the hero's hero. He promised not to promise anything and if he did, would somebody please kick him so he wouldn't do it again.

We ate that up until Brown emerged as even more of a tell-it-like-it-is-even-though-it's-rotten type. Maybe Brown has touched the masochist in all of us. Maybe we want to hear that there won't be any more upward social mobility (whatever that is).

Maybe we want someone to tell us not to expect any more out of government because it can't deliver on the promises it's already made. If that's so, then Brown is really in the driver's seat. He's got the doomsayer's vote.

I guess what gets me about Brown is that the idea of honesty didn't originate with him. Yet he'd like you to think so. Listen to one of his speeches and you'd think he invented goodness in government.

His holier-than-thou (especially Carter) attitude may win him some votes now, but it's doubtful he could carry his act off nationwide. Besides, he hasn't been around long enough to be dethroned.

Give a political hero enough rope and chances are good he'll stretch his credibility to the limit. Don't be surprised if he stumbles over his tongue one day and winds up with two mystics and a flower child as his only supporters.

There'll be someone waiting to take his place. Trust me.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

A storm, probably becoming the worst one of 1971 as far as damage is concerned, whipped out of the southwest about 7 p.m. Monday night,
May 24, and sliced a path roughly 10 miles long and a half mile wide, damaging property northwest of Cass
City and southwest of Gagetown.

Negotiators for the Cass
City School district this week presented to the Cass City
Teachers Association a list of 30 requests concerning conduct of teachers and responsibilities of teachers in school-related activities outside of the classroom.

The cost of water and sewer service in Cass City will increase an estimated 20 percent, starting July 1, following the approval of rate increases Tuesday night by the Cass City Village Council.
After 10 years, Mrs.
Thelma Pratt has sold her grocery store to her son,
Marvin, who has just completed remodeling and enlarging the building on South
Seeger Street.

Only 525 persons showed up for a march on Reese, planned by the Michigan Education Association with teachers from across the state and other sympathizers with the Reese 44 striking, fired teachers. The march was peaceful.

City was among state officers of the Future Farmers of America visiting Detroit Edison's headquarters in Detroit
Friday, May 13, as part of an Edison-sponsored FFA recognition program.

Thirteen members of the senior class at Cass City High School have been awarded scholarships to attend various Michigan universities. They include Bob Novak, Eileen Hicks, Jerry Knoblet, Barbara Starmann, Keith Baudoin, Ron Speirs, Larry Kolb,
Guy Whittaker, Wayne Mc-
Leish, Charles Churchill,
Mary Lou Spencer, Les Searls

Dillons to head Gagetown C-F campaign

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dillon of rural Cass City have been named chairpersons of the 1976 Cystic Fibrosis Breath of Life Campaign in Gagetown. They will lead a group of students from St. Agatha Catholic church in their annual fund-raising campaign next fall. Money raised goes to support programs for research and care of children suffering from Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis and related lung-damaging diseases.

If 200,000 children had died last year in an appropriately headlined epidemic, the public outcry would surely be so clamorous as to spark massive action by our public health engineers. But you would hardly guess from the national media coverage that 200,000 children in these United States were battered, slammed and punched to death by their own parents last year. This epidemic of violence involved the intentional abuse of an estimated 4,000,000 children, most of them under the age of five.

BETTER HEALTH

Battered Children

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

It is not at all clear what has unleashed this especially obscene variety of violence in an age grown all too accustomed to man's inhumanity. But there are signs that child abuse has so burgeoned in our troubled society that it can no longer be considered as sporadic evidence of the occasionally overrestrained.

It is, moreover, not only little black and blue bellies, broken bones and fractured skulls that mark the battered-child syndrome. It is as well the haunted, vacant stare and alienated detachment of emotionally abused youngsters who can no longer relate, if they ever could, to the adult world in which they have known only rebuff and abuse.

Young parents, in increasing numbers these days, seemingly unable to bear what they experience as insupportable frustration, lash out at the innocent intruders on their self-indulgence.

Such inhuman parents find small children not just occasionally inconvenient, which almost everyone agrees is an inescapable reality. Instead, they exhibit such an absence of moral sensibility as to put their humanity in question.

With a dogged blandness characteristic of certain schools of modern-day sociology and psychology, there are efforts to attribute such flatly criminal behavior to the instability of the family as an institution, the stress of unemployment and poverty in general.

As scapegoats they may have some general applicability, but as specific causative factors they inspire little credence. Child battering is by no means rare among the well-to-do.

Somewhat more rational but hardly more helpful is the observation that 80 per cent of all abusive parents were themselves abused as children. This modern version of the Biblical reminder that the sins of the fathers are visited on the children unto the umpteenth generation is more obvious than helpful.

There is the anticipated flurry of legislation in many states which requires the reporting of child abuse very much as certain infectious diseases are required to be annotated on the public record.

Massive and thus ultimately impersonal public machinery is in the process of revving up to provide counseling services. Well meaning self-help agencies are appearing with the inevitable "hot line" telephone numbers, to be dialed by troubled families who seek what for lack of a more accurate term is called "professional help." That such "hot lines" are largely public-relation gestures and have made little inroads on other social problems is for the moment ignored.

The usual lip service is given to what we call "rehabilitative therapy," as though it were an objective fact. Those who hold to these optimistic hopes for the management of their plague view jails as a means of curbing child abuse to be noncurative and therefore ineffectual.

As some, however, point out, it is difficult to deny that incarceration of child abusers does at least protect the battered child, safe in a foster home, from further battering.

For the booklet, "Heart Trouble," address a long envelope to yourself, put 13 cents postage on it and enclose it with 25 cents in an envelope addressed to Dr. William J. Welch, Box 4994, Dept. CCC, Des Moines, Iowa 50306.

Your neighbor says

Let's have open meetings

Legislation currently under consideration would mandate that all public bodies must meet in open session. Earlier attempts at passing open meeting legislation have failed.

Mrs. Sally Wood of Deford says in most cases, meetings, especially school board sessions, should be open to the public.

"I think when the issues involve your children and your taxes, the meetings should be open," she says.

Mrs. Wood sees some times, however, when a closed session might be needed.

"When it comes to something that requires confidentiality, something involving a personality problem between a student or teacher, then I could understand a closed session," she says.

Mrs. Wood agrees that if open meetings were mandated, more persons might participate in the governing process.

"I think they might have more confidence in what their government was doing," she says.

The Woods reside on Crawford Road. Her husband, Larry, is employed by Saginaw Steering Gear. The couple has two sons.

Deloss Neal,

68, dies

May 21

Deloss E. Neal, 68, Cass City, died Friday, May 21, at Hills and Dales General Hospital following a long illness. He was born Dec. 25, 1907, in Wisner township, son of the late Edward and Sarah Moore Neal.

He married Anna Marie Petricevic, May 7, 1932, in Saginaw. Following their marriage, they made their home in Fairgrove and came to Cass City in 1946.

He was a member of the Gagetown Nazarene church, serving as Sunday School Superintendent and Sunday School teacher for many years. He was also a member of the Cass City Layman's Club.

Survivors include his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Lynwood (Jeannette) LaPeer and Mrs. Danny (Shirley) Haag, both of Cass City; two sons, Edward P. Neal Sr. of Fairgrove and James Neal of Bay City; two sisters, Mrs. Alfred Reed of Caro and Mrs. Orville Pavlask of Fairgrove; two brothers, Leslie of Bay City and Kenneth of Willis, Mich.; and 11 grandchildren.

The funeral was held Monday at the Gagetown Church of the Nazarene, with Rev. Gary E. Bugaski, pastor, and Rev. Russell Stanley, pastor of the Cass City Church of the Nazarene, officiating. Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Bicentennial choir sets

June 3 meet

A meeting of members for the Cass City bicentennial choir will be held Thursday, June 3, at First Presbyterian church, from 8-9 p.m., according to Colleen Stafford, organizer of the group.

So far, about 20 persons have signed up, Mrs. Stafford said, but more are still needed. Ideally, between 50 and 60 voices will be needed to make the choir a success, she said.

Anyone may join the group, Mrs. Stafford emphasized. All they have to do is show up for the meeting.

The choir will perform during the bicentennial week end scheduled July 23-25.

4-H ACTIVITIES

4-H is growing

By Bernard Jardot

It's no secret that our 4-H youth program is growing. A record five million young people are participating in some phase of the 4-H program. They come from all segments of society including urban centers as well as America's farms. Neither their economic or cultural backgrounds nor their place of residence provide barriers to learning in the informal 4-H youth educational program. Three of ten 4-H members reside on farms, 43 per cent live in rural towns and communities and the remaining 24 per cent come from cities and suburbia. Behind the five million 4-H'ers and lending their valued assistance are more than 500,000 volunteer adult and teen leaders. Coordinating the many and varied educational offerings are professional staff members of the Cooperative Extension Service which conducts the 4-H program nationwide. With incentives and other assistance being provided 4-H by America's private sector the informal youth program is reaching increased numbers of young people everywhere. For more information about 4-H opportunities in your area, call or visit the county Cooperative Extension office located in the basement of the County Jail or phone 673-3161.

Along the Potomac River... close to the Pennsylvania border... and near Washington, D.C., our nation's capital... It's fun to look at the whole world, and then put your finger on the place where YOU live. It makes you realize how important you are! During this Bicentennial year, we know that EVERYBODY in our nation is important. People can own land and houses and tractors. They can read the truth. They can think for themselves, and say what they think. They can assemble together to celebrate, or plan... or protest. And they can worship God... in the church they choose... and bring their children... and support their church... and volunteer their talents in its work. Nobody can padlock God's House - or turn it into a museum! Here's where I live. THANK GOD! We thank Him best by using ALL our freedoms...

WOMAN'S CLUB

Tuscola County Federation of Women's Clubs held their 53rd annual convention at St. Agatha Catholic church, Thursday, May 20, with the Gagetown Study Club hosting the group.

The afternoon session began with registration at 1:00 p.m.

Mrs. Walter Parrott of Kingston presided over the meeting. The invocation was given by Father Norman Van Poppel, pastor at St. Agatha's church. Girl Scout Troop 711 and Brownie Troop 634 presented the flag. Mrs. Erwin Walrod, president of the Gagetown Study Club, introduced village president Lawrence Cummings.

group made and dressed in bicentennial costumes.

Reports by Mrs. John Uthegrove Jr., and the reading of the minutes by Mrs. Richard Ziehm, county secretary followed. Mrs. Grover Laurie accepted the position of first vice-president and Mrs. Miriam Richwalt gave her report on Ways and Means. The Wixson Club of Caro presided over a memorial for club members who died in the last year.

Following a recess, Mrs. Wayne Finkbeiner, State Federation president-elect, spoke briefly. Glenda Wilson and Kathy Sullivan entertained the group with several piano duets.

Mrs. Chris Loveland of Millington gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Linda Galloway and Mrs. Gordon Parker followed with the auditor's report.

An invitation for next year's convention by Mrs. Louis Wenzloff of the Kingston Woman's Study Club was accepted.

Parliamentarian Mrs. Howard Jaynes and a report on "Pennies for Girlstown" by Mrs. T.K. Schmidt completed the afternoon session.

The evening banquet began at 6:00 p.m. and was served by the St. Agatha Woman's Society. Mrs. Frankie Anker gave the evening grace.

Following the banquet, Mrs. Donna Wernette gave the attendance report. Approximately 70 ladies were in attendance.

The speaker was Frank Pernicano, attorney from Caro. The evening came to a close with the singing of God Bless America.

The convention took on a bicentennial theme, with red, white and blue decorations. Several ladies of the host group made and dressed in bicentennial costumes.

Specialcommunion*held May 2

Nineteen children from St. Pancratius Catholic church took part in a special liturgy held Sunday, May 2.

The children participating all had received their first communion in the past year with their families. The children are Kim Czekai, Tim Davis, John Dizon, Greg Eria, Chris Garety, Kim Giffard, Emily Hoppe, Kevin Hercliff, Aaron Lefler, Luanne Messing, Paul Mika, Paul Pawloski, Jerry Quinn, David Rabideau, Tom Schmidt, Jeff Smithson, Julie Sugden, Jim Vandenbosche, and Doug Zdrojewski.

The theme for the liturgy was "He is the Vine on Which We Grow". The readings, which stressed unity with Christ through the Eucharist, were read by John Dizon, Doug Zdrojewski and Luanne Messing.

Father Joseph Morales presented each child with a cross necklace in honor of the occasion. The parents who prepared their children for this sacrament were given a daisy from their child during the greeting of peace. The children also gave God a gift, the gift of themselves, represented by a smiling face on a helium balloon.

After receiving communion, each child placed his name tag, which was shaped like a branch, on a poster of a vine. After the liturgy the children were guests of honor at a parish breakfast.

Preparation for the liturgy was made by Mrs. Terri Groombridge, with the assistance of Mrs. Sandra Bergman and Mrs. Janet Harrison.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES for Owen-Gage High School seniors will be held Thursday in Owendale. Eighth District Congressman J. Bob Traxler will be the main speaker.

Arraign 3 Cass Cityans Monday

Three Cass City area men were arraigned on unrelated charges Monday when they appeared in Tuscola County Circuit Court before presiding Judge Martin E. Clements.

Walter Kilbourn, 24, Cass City, entered a guilty plea to attempted delivery of the drug PCP (phencyclidine). The plea was accepted and a date for sentence will be set by the probation department.

Bond was continued at $5,000. Douglas Donald Bean, 29, Cass City, stood mute when he was arraigned on a charge of attempted incest. An innocent plea was entered in his behalf and pre-trial examination was set for June 21.

Bean was arrested following an incident in Almer township last Nov. 30.

Bernard Lee Stratton Jr., 21, Deford, stood mute when arraigned on a breaking and entering charge. A plea of innocent was entered in his behalf and pre-trial examination was set for June 7.

Stratton was arrested in connection with the breaking and entering of a Kingston service station Feb. 23.

Richard M. Christy, 18, Detroit, pleaded guilty to an attempted larceny charge. The plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set by the probation department.

Bond was continued at $1,000. Christy was arrested in connection with the larceny of a home in Wisner township April 21.

Michael A. Shelley, 25, no address given, was arraigned on a rape charge. He stood mute and an innocent plea was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial exam was set for June 7.

Shelley was arrested Sept. 13 in Dayton township. Timothy Walker, 33, Caro, stood mute when arraigned on a felonious assault charge. An innocent plea was entered in his behalf and pre-trial examination was set for June 21.

Bond was continued at $2,000. Walker was arrested April 2 in Indianfields township.

Keith Allan Pelton, 18, Akron, stood mute on an attempted forgery charge. An innocent plea was entered in his behalf and pre-trial examination was set for June 21.

Bond was continued at $2,500. Pelton was arrested in Caro, April 2.

Rodney Lee Archuleta, 19, Akron, stood mute during his arraignment on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in a building. An innocent plea was entered in his behalf and pre-trial examination was set for June 21.

Bond was continued at $2,500. Archuleta was arrested April 1.

Craig Chambers, 18, Caro, was sentenced to serve from 14 to 24 months in Jackson prison for a probation violation.

Chambers, who had been convicted of breaking and entering and larceny in a building, was found guilty of violating probation when he left the state without permission of his probation officer and when he failed to maintain steady employment.

Mrs. Springstead, 61, dies Monday

Mrs. Elizabeth Springstead, 61, died Monday, May 24, at her home in Snover. Her husband Earl preceded her in death March 12, 1976.

Born Nov. 12, 1914, in Toledo, Ohio, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sandors. She married Mr. Springstead July 20, 1943, in Napoleon, Ohio, and they made their home in Evergreen township until 1946 when they moved to Detroit. The couple retired in 1972 and returned to Evergreen township to make their home.

She was a member of the Shabbona United Methodist church.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. George (Peggy) Regnerus of Mt. Clemens; one son, Milton Phillips of St. Clair Shores; three stepsons, Ronald Springstead of Detroit, Kenneth Springstead of Mt. Clemens and Ivan Springstead of Novi.

Others surviving are one brother, John Sandors of Oregon, Ohio; one sister, Mrs. Manuel Sanchez of Berkeley; 21 grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services are scheduled at Little's Funeral Home Thursday at 1 p.m. with the Rev. Wayne Rhodes, pastor of Shabbona United Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Mooretown cemetery, Moore township.

Two pay fines

Terry Dean Brinkman, Cass City, pleaded guilty to driving with an open alcoholic beverage container in his vehicle. He paid a $10 fine and $25 in costs.

Raymond Lee Bilicki, Kingston, pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He paid a $100 fine and $100 costs.

"There's a lot of country out there and if you're out travelin' around, you might need a few extra dollars to help you out once and a while. That's why you better get hold of a PRESTIGE card over at Mutual Savings."

"PRESTIGE card gets you up to $200 emergency cash at thousands of places all over this great country of ours. Now I'm not saying you gotta ride all over creation, but if you do, havin' a PRESTIGE card sure comes handy."

Bicentennial project begins

Operation Thumb Area Historic Overview is a bicentennial project of Region 10 of Michigan Association of Media in Education (NAME), which includes the counties of Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola.

This will include "sight-sound" presentation by slides of historic and scenic features in the three counties.

First steps were taken at a recent meeting of some 20 persons, including administrators and librarians of schools of the area and other interested persons at Marlette.

Committees on photography and sound, research, and co-ordination of efforts in the three counties were named.

It is intended to prepare from 80 to 100 slides with appropriate script.

Donald B. Richards, Harbor Beach, director of Regional Education Media

Center, which has its office in Cass City, is general chairman.

Richards said, "We plan to obtain pictures of places of interest, past and present, and, hopefully, also some with a future aspect."

"These slides will be available for showing without charge by schools, civic groups and all interested individuals. We expect to have them ready by this fall."

"We invite the public to suggest ideas and also to participate personally in Thumb Area Historic Overview."

"Further information may be obtained by writing me at Cass City."

Logjam broken, Medicaid resumes

Both Hills and Dales General Hospital and Provincial House of Cass City are breathing a sigh of relief this week, following passage of legislation authorizing over $50,000 to the two facilities to cover late Medicaid payments.

Medicaid had missed three consecutive weekly payments to hospitals and nursing homes for treatment already rendered to Medicaid patients.

At Hills and Dales, Administrator Randy D. Howard said Monday he had learned the hospital's $11,000 in past due payments should be forthcoming soon.

"If this had gone on another two weeks, we would have been hurting," Howard said. "We have about 15 per cent of our patients on Medicaid, with about 45 per cent covered by Blue Cross and another 20 per cent with Medicare."

Howard said the problem was largely political, and arose when Gov. William Milliken pushed for a change in the fiscal year. The governor refused to authorize major expenditures until the change was made, Howard said.

At Provincial House, associate administrator Connie Langmaid said the facility received payment for about $40,000 in late Medicaid funding Saturday.

The check was expected

May 15.

"We had told our employees that we could meet the May 14 payroll but if we did not receive payment, we could have been in trouble for the May 28 payroll," she said. "Fortunately, we received payment."

Mrs. Langmaid said about 80 per cent of Provincial House patients are covered by Medicaid.

June 1 last day to file

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin is reminding prospective political candidates in Michigan that June 1 is their deadline for filing petitions in time to qualify for the August primary election.

Austin noted, "The reminder is particularly important this year, because the deadline is two weeks earlier than in previous years."

He added, "Although the June 1 final filing date is indicated on the state's official election calendar, we are concerned that a number of candidates and political organizations may fail to take into account the new deadline and could wind up turning in petitions too late to get on the August ballot."

Stevens receives commission

Jack C. Stevens graduated in May from Central Michigan University with a bachelor of science degree in business administration and received a commission in the United States Army as a Second Lieutenant through CMU's Department of Military Science (ROTC program).

The commissioning ceremony was conducted in the University Center Auditorium May 14 at 10 a.m., following an address by Brigadier General Joseph L. Fant, Deputy Chief of Information, Department of the Army.

Stevens, a 1972 graduate of Owen-Gage High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Stevens, 1365 Main St., Owendale.

He received a commission in the Adjutant General Branch of the Army from CMU's professor of Military Science, Lieutenant Colonel Joseph K. Brown.

He will enter active duty July 8 and will begin initial branch training at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

Englehart in Marine exercise

Marine Lance Corporal Delbert A. Englehart, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Englehart of 5634 DeLong Road, Cass City, is participating in Operation "Solid Shield '76" as a member of the 2d Battalion, 8th Marine Regiment, homebased at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

The two-week joint exercise off the North Carolina and Georgia coasts involves 36 ships and more than 50,000 men and women from all branches of the Armed Forces.

The exercise will include air, surface and submarine operations and an amphibious assault. It is designed to test command and control plans and to provide training in the procedures for emergency evacuation of noncombatants from a simulated battle zone.

A former student of Cass City High School, he joined the Marine Corps in August, 1972.

Owen-Gage gives okay to borrowing

Faced with the double financial squeeze of lost property and Huron county's decision to levy taxes on County Equalized Valuation, the Owen-Gage School Board authorized borrowing funds not to exceed $150,000 during the special meeting held Monday night in Owendale.

The board okayed the borrowing against anticipated revenues. It is not certain how much may have to be borrowed.

Supt. Ronald Erickson told the board the district lost approximately $40,000 because of Huron county's decision to levy taxes on CEV instead of SEV.

Erickson said attorney fees had also been greater than anticipated.

The loss of over $1.4 million in valuation to Cass City School District has also put the pinch on Owen-Gage finances, he said.

The district will ask voters to renew 6.5 mills for operation for two years.

Borrowing would begin July 1 if needed.

In other business, the board offered Erickson a two-year contract.

A money-saving device for farmers with special vehicles used only during harvest operations is in the works.

A new law exempts those special vehicles from expensive registration and title certification requirements.

Replacing those costs is a special identification fee of $15 to apply only to vehicles designed and used exclusively for transporting farm crops from the field to the place of storage.

An estimated 2,500 vehicles could be affected by the exemption.

Police probe area thefts, vandalism

Caro State Police are continuing their investigation of a break-in at an unoccupied house on Warner Road, south of Cass City, Saturday that netted thieves over $240 in antiques.

The home, owned by William Krawczyk of Inlay City, was entered sometime between May 10 and last Saturday, police said, when thieves removed a storm window from the west side of the structure.

Items taken included an antique wooden rocker, a coat rack, two trunks, a feather tick quilt and an antique washing machine.

No suspects have been arrested.

Twenty-five used car and implement batteries valued at around $30 were recovered Friday after being taken from the Gamble Store in Cass City. The batteries were found a short distance away next to a wall and concealed with a bicycle also taken from the store.

Sheriff's deputies said the batteries were taken between Thursday night and Friday morning.

No suspects have been arrested.

A five-channel citizen's band radio, a tape player and 20 tapes were reported stolen from a car owned by Jan Nickens of 4408 S. Kingston Rd., Kingston, Friday.

The stolen property was valued at over $200. No suspects have been arrested.

A pair of basketball shoes owned by Chuck Hendrick and valued at $30 were reported stolen from the Cass City Recreational Park Wednesday, May 19.

The shoes were stolen while Hendrick was participating in a track meet, Police Chief Gene Wilson said.

A 10-speed bicycle belonging to Don Finkbeiner was stolen from Cass City Intermediate School Thursday, Wilson reported.

The bike, used by Finkbeiner's son, was taken from the bike rack at the school.

Eight young trees were damaged around 11:30 p.m. Friday when vandals drove an auto through the yard of Ben Kitchen of Green Road, Cass City.

Mrs. Kitchen told Sheriff's officers she had no idea who might have done the damage. No dollar loss was set.

Chamber of Commerce gets 'unwelcome' over sign

By Jim Ketchum

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce is violating the law every time its service club sign welcomes you at the east village limits. But the Chamber can still welcome you at Cass City's west side.

What's more, the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation wants to give the Chamber $628 to remove the sign and its welcome. Once the welcome is gone, however, the sign can go back up.

The sign flap blew into the open last week when a right-of-way agent with the highway department informed Chamber President William Kritzman that the welcome sign had to go.

According to Kritzman, removing the welcome isn't as easy as it sounds.

"We were told that the sign has to be pulled from the ground, the electrical services have to be cut and that the sign has to be laid on the ground," Kritzman said. "Then we have to have them come up, inspect it to see that it's torn down and that the welcome is off and after that, we can put it back up and get a permit for it."

Kritzman called the regulations "stupid and asinine", and said the Chamber plans to do nothing for the time being.

"On top of that, they want to give us $628 to do the work," Kritzman said. "That's $628 in taxpayer money."

Under highway department regulations, the sign is illegal basically because it sits in an area of Elkland township zoned agricultural. The sign at the west village limits welcoming visitors to Cass City sits on land zoned commercial and thus meets state requirements.

Both signs are identical and both are situated the same distance from the road's edge.

The problem boils down to interpretation of regulations, according to Ed Roth, an official of the highway department's Saginaw district office.

"Personally, I think they (the department's right-of-way division) are wrong," Roth said. "I think they just don't want to admit they made a mistake."

Roth said the reason the west village limit Chamber sign is legal is because he changed its classification.

"I took the liberty of changing your west limit sign from a service club sign to an advertising sign," Roth said. "Since it's situated in a commercially zoned area, you're all right."

Still, the highway department says the Chamber of Commerce can't welcome anybody to Cass City from the east.

"The welcome doesn't pertain to any of the organizations listed on the sign," Roth said. "The village is really the only one who can do any welcoming."

Roth admitted there is nothing offensive about the sign which says "Welcome to Cass City" at the top and displays insignias of five service clubs -- Zonta, Lions, Rotary, Business and Professional Women and Tyler Lodge No. 317 F&AM.

Each service club sign measures about 30 inches in diameter and varies in height from 39-42 inches. The total sign measures about 20 feet high by about eight feet across.

Roth said he tried to get a favorable ruling on simply changing the sign to indicate that the Chamber was doing the welcoming. That attempt failed.

Kritzman said simply painting out the welcome portion of the sign won't satisfy the highway department.

"The sign must be physically pulled from the ground and laid flat," Kritzman said. "That means hiring an electrician to come out and disconnect the electrical service to the light on the sign. But once we take the welcome off, we can turn around and put the sign right back up in the same spot, reconnect the light and buy a permit for it. It's ridiculous! It's stupid!"

"If they want the welcome taken off so badly, why can't we just put a ladder up there and paint over the welcome? They won't trust us to do that. And in the meantime it's costing taxpayers money."

BULLETIN

At presstime, it was learned that state authorities have backed down by telling the Chamber of Commerce it need not tear its sign out of the ground at the east village limits. President William Kritzman said.

The Chamber must still paint out its welcome, however. We still can't welcome anybody to Cass City, Kritzman said. "It's still ridiculous," he added.

Kritzman said as far as he's concerned, the Chamber won't touch the sign.

Under the present order, the Chamber has 90 days in which to remove the sign.

If the Chamber fails to cooperate, condemnation proceedings could be started by the highway department, Roth said. In most cases, however, violators eventually cooperate, he said.

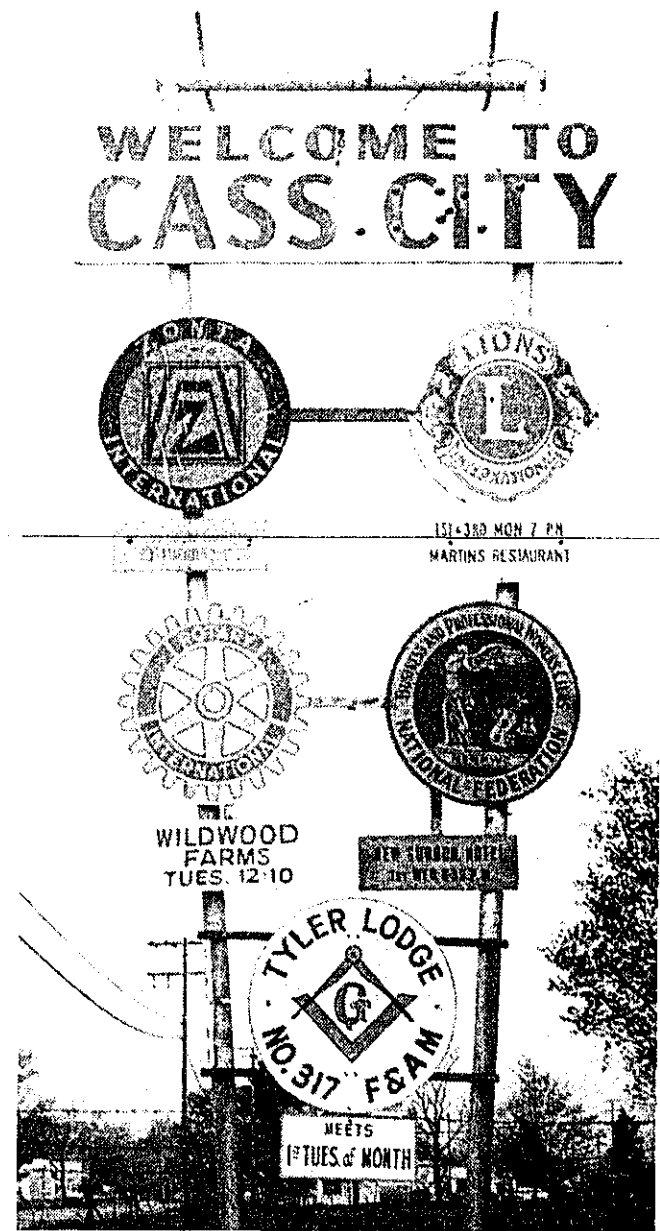

One condemnation case involving a billboard at the intersection of M-43 and M-46 near Saginaw has taken over a year he said, and is still not settled.

The offending sign is located 15 feet north of the M-81 right-of-way just over the line in Elkland township.

Kritzman contends the actual sign removal is only part of the problem.

"The idea is that these stupid regulations are being sent out without any idea of what's going on," Kritzman said.

"Imagine, them telling us we can't welcome anybody to Cass City. It's ridiculous!"

THIS IS a doomed sign, according to the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation. Since it sits in an agriculturally zoned part of Elkland township, east of Cass City, it cannot welcome anybody to the village, highway officials say. Yet a similar sign at the west village limits is legal, since it sits in a commercially zoned region. The state wants to give the Cass City Chamber of Commerce $628 to take the sign down, remove the welcome and replace it.

Guinther to graduate from LSSC

David L. Guinther, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Guinther of Cass City, is a candidate for a bachelor of science degree at Lake Superior State College.

DAVID L. GUINThER

Guinther, a medical technology major, is a 1966 graduate of Cass City High School.

Following graduation, he plans to live in Saginaw. An October wedding is planned, when he will marry Julie Hernden of Bay City.

Tuscola gets $641,000 in supplemental CETA grant

Tuscola county will receive over a half million dollars in supplemental Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds under Title II, county commissioners learned at their regular meeting Tuesday at Caro.

The supplemental grant will run from July 1-Jan. 31, 1977, according to Frank Lenard, Director of the Thumb Area Consortium which administers CETA funds in the tri-county area.

Tuscola county will receive $641,600, while Huron county is set to receive $517,499. Sanilac county's share is $361,126.

Lenard received board approval to take administrative expenses for Tuscola's share totaling $16,116.

The supplemental monies will continue to supplement wages for three Cass City village employees who could have faced layoff.

In other business, commissioners okayed a request from Opal Hunter of the Juvenile Probation Department for another probation worker at a cost of about $9,000 per year. Funding for the position is expected through CETA.

The board approved a request from the Thumb Area Commission on Aging for $1,380 to fund the program for the next three months.

Commissioners also learned that revenue sharing totaling $159,600 for the July-December period has been received. The funds will be used for capital expenses, health and safety programs, according to Cmmr. Maynard McConkey, Cass City.

McConkey reported he has received an offer from Leonard Hool, grant researcher, to produce a three-county development plan so that each county could use a portion of it in applying for federal development funds.

Cost would be $25 an hour not to exceed $2,900. Such a county plan is needed before Cass City can apply for funds to develop its industrial park at the southern village limits.

No action was taken on the request.

The board learned that the proposed Akron-Fairgrove sanitary sewer project should begin in September, 1977. The sewer would serve both communities.

Cass City Bethel marks anniversary

The 13th anniversary of the Institution of Cass City Bethel 77, International Order of Job's Daughters, was celebrated Thursday, May 20. A regular meeting followed a dime-a-dinner.

Following the regular meeting, during which Eastern Star and Masonic members were honored, the Lighted Cross ceremony was performed by Bethel members and the flower talk was given by Tuscola chapter DeMolay members. Members were present from Kingston, Elkton, Fairgrove, Bad Axe and Caro. Also attending were parents of Job's Daughters and DeMolay members.

Installation of officers for the ensuing term will take place at the Caro Masonic Temple, Friday, June 11, at 8 p.m. with a reception and dance to follow at the home of the newly-elected Honor Queen, Miss Shay Hessler of Caro. Practice will be at 1 p.m. Friday, June 11, at the Caro Masonic Temple. First meeting of the new term will be held in Cass City, June 24, at 7 p.m. with initiation.

Grand Bethel will be held in Grand Rapids June 15 through 20.

Deford tot 'fair' after Cemetery Road crash

A three-year-old Deford girl remains in "fair" condition at Hills and Dales General Hospital following a single-car accident on Cemetery Road, less than a mile south of Cass City, Wednesday, May 19.

Sheri L. Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Spencer of 2320 Englehart Rd., was injured along with her parents and Paul T. Slatter, 15, of 5885 Hadley Rd., Cass City.

According to Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated, Spencer, driver of the vehicle, was northbound on Cemetery Road when his vehicle dropped off the right shoulder, swerved back across the road and landed in a ditch on the west side, striking a driveway culvert.

Officers noted that the right front spring of the auto had broken loose and kept the front wheels from turning.

Spencer, 21, his wife, Deborah, 21, and Slatter, were released from the hospital Thursday.

The accident took place at 6:35 p.m.

The crash was one of several area traffic accidents in which drivers or passengers were injured. Two persons suffered cuts and bruises early Tuesday morning when their car went out of control and struck two fence posts on Kelly Road, two miles south of Cass City.

Caro State Police identified the driver as Stanley Brodzik, 52, of Ferndale. He and his passenger, Charles Periso, 46, of Phillips Rd., Deford, were treated for their injuries at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Police said the Brodzik vehicle was westbound on Kelly Road when it ran off the roadway, struck two fence posts and landed in a ditch on the driver's side.

Police ticketed Brodzik for excessive speed. The accident took place at 1:30 a.m.

Claude Bell, 31, Cass City, suffered cuts and bruises early Saturday morning when the car he was driving went out of control on M-142, six miles east of Bad Axe and struck a utility pole.

Bad Axe State Police said Bell was eastbound when he apparently ran off the right shoulder of the road, then crossed the highway and struck a utility pole on the north side where he entered a ditch.

Police noted Bell's vehicle travelled 246 feet along the south shoulder of the road then travelled 92 feet before striking the pole.

He was treated for an eye injury at Huron Memorial Hospital where police arrested him for having no operator's license in his possession and for being drunk and disorderly.

The accident took place at 12:05 a.m.

Rebecca G. Robinson, 17, Uby, was hospitalized Sunday night after her car and a pickup truck driven by Richard J. Pus, 38, Uby, collided at the intersection of Main and Garfield Streets in Uby.

According to Huron County Sheriff's deputies who investigated, the Robinson auto was headed south on Garfield and the Pus vehicle east on Main when the crash took place.

The impact drove the Robinson vehicle into a nearby telephone pole, police reported.

Both Miss Robinson and Pus were treated at Huron Memorial Hospital. She was released Tuesday. Pus was treated and released the same night. The accident took place at 11:30 p.m.

Donald James Smith, 16, of 3811 S. Kingston Rd., Kingston, received cuts and bruises when the car he was driving went out of control and into a 12-foot ditch on M-46 at Phillips Road, early Sunday evening.

Sheriff's deputies said Smith was eastbound when he attempted to turn south on Phillips Road, lost control and slid into the ditch.

He was treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital and released. A passenger, Timothy James Barden, 16, of 3405 Washington St., Kingston, was uninjured.

The accident took place at 6:10 p.m.

James Lee Meininger, 22, Owendale, suffered cuts and bruises when his car ran into a ditch on Nolter Road, about two miles north of Owendale, Saturday morning.

Huron County Sheriff's officers said Meininger was northbound and lost control at a point where the gravel road becomes blacktopped. Officers said the auto travelled 105 feet before entering the ditch.

Meininger refused medical treatment. The accident took place at 1:26 a.m.

Jefferson Dean Auvi, 17, of 3825 Pringle Rd., Snover, escaped injury Sunday when the car he was driving struck a utility pole near the intersection of Warner and Kelly Roads, south of Cass City.

Sheriff's deputies said Auvi was southbound on Warner Road when he ran off the road and struck the pole. The accident took place at 10:50 p.m.

Lyle L. Bills, 41, Akron, received minor injuries Saturday when his car was struck by a tractor and cultivator driven by Wade Alan Doud, 17, of Cass City, on Elmwood Road near Quinacasee.

Sheriff's deputies said Doud was westbound and that Bills was eastbound when the accident took place. Bills told officers he pulled off the road as far as possible but could not pull off enough to avoid being struck.

Bills sought his own medical treatment. No ticket was issued. The accident took place at 10:45 a.m.

Miss Powell graduates from Ferris

Mary Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Powell of Cass City, graduated Saturday, May 22, from Ferris State College, Big Rapids, with an associates in applied science degree in nuclear medicine technology.

MARY POWELL

She is a 1972 graduate of Cass City High School and will be working at the Medical College of Ohio in Toledo beginning June 14.

She has served an internship at Butterworth Hospital, Grand Rapids.

new athletic facility at the school.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, council voted to purchase a roto tiller to maintain the basepaths on the park softball diamonds at a cost of about $600. Trustee Nat Tuttle voted against the move, calling the purchase an "extravagance."

The tiller will attach to a tractor already owned by the village.

Council approved a bid of $861.50 from Keith Mitchell of Cass City for a used tractor and mower.

Council discussed, but took no action on the perennial crossing guard problem. It was reported that school authorities have had trouble getting safety patrol guards to several intersections along Main Street this year.

Trustee Dr. D.E. Rawson restated council's position that crossing guards should be provided by the school with the village providing signs and traffic lights.

Trustees voted to name the new road leading to the swimming pool "Scotty McCullough Drive". McCullough was an early advocate of park development in the village.

Village Supt. Lou LaPonsie reported that the Paul H. Callender Sign Co. has submitted the low bid for new village street signs. Cost of materials has been pegged at $9,750.48, with labor extra.

The re-signing is being financed by a federal grant which will pay 90 per cent of the cost, with 10 per cent coming from the village. The total project is expected to cost around $14,000.

It was reported that CETA funds for three village employees have been extended through Jan. 31, 1977, under Title II.

Keith McConey of McConey Jewelry & Gift Shop is welcomed to the diamond exhibit at the Biele, Switzerland, Fair by Peter Gallego who is in charge of the American desk at Biele. McConey found virtually all fine jewelry featured to have brilliant-cut diamonds used to accent the brilliance of colored stones.

Cass City jeweler Keith McConey of McConey Jewelry & Gift Shop had no trouble telling time during his recent two-week trip to the Biele Fair in Switzerland and visits to European watchmaking and jewelry centers.

In fact, there were well over 100 exhibitors at the famed Biele Fair—the majority of whom represented the embattled Swiss watch industry that McConey reports has finally reasserted its place in the sun.

"Biele in 1976 clearly reflects that the Swiss have met the challenge of electronic time. Although the mechanical wristwatch with conventional dial and hands still accounts for the overwhelming proportion of watches made through the world, the digital watch has gotten the attention," McConey said, noting that this attention was the result of "extensive promotion of American-produced digital timepieces produced by U.S. electronics companies who had never before marketed wristwatches."

The Swiss have dispelled the notion they are behind the times and McConey clearly was impressed with what he saw among the new electronic models introduced by Swiss watch manufacturers.

"These watches are notable," he said, "for their excellence and highly sophisticated technological design. They reflect the traditional craftsmanship American watch buyers have come to expect from Swiss watchmakers."

The Swiss makers have designed two main types of quartz electronic watches: Analog watches (with conventional dial and hands) that are actuated by a stepping micro-motor, and solid state models that show time by means of an electronic digital system using either light-emitting diodes (LED) or liquid crystals (LCD system).

McConey was impressed by the fact that in striking back at the early leadership of American firms in the electronic watch field, the Swiss have not neglected styling and design which continue to be important to increased fine watch sales.

"Whether digital or analog, the Swiss still believe a watch is a piece of jewelry, and this is increasingly important in watch marketing because we do live in a world that is more fashion conscious than at any time in history," McConey pointed out.

He said that Biele's 1976 watch fashions feature thin cases to give the timepiece a clean, trim and uncluttered look. Bezels are slim and graceful, and they rim broad dials on which figures and numerals are making a comeback.

Two-tone styling is popular, and the use of steel with goldplate or yellow gold and even yellow and white gold, are designed to form contrasting patterns.

Even with all the emphasis on watches, McConey said that considerable attention was given over to fine jewelry, particularly by the Italians who came up with outstanding and inventive designs.

Graceful elegance was the keynote, McConey recalls, and quite a few new items such as brooches and necklaces were very much in evidence.

Highlighting the Italian jewelry were enamel pieces, particularly enamel butterflies that reflect every hue of the rainbow.

Color was evident in virtually all of the European jewelry displays. Colored stones are used in watch bezels, watch dials and bracelets. By and large, these fascinating pieces featured bright colors—red, yellow, blue and green.

"But the diamond is still king of gems and virtually all fine jewelry featured brilliant-cut diamonds, often set in pave or cobble patterns to accent the brilliance of the colored stones," McConey added.

McConey expressed excitement in talking about his two-week study trip during which he also made arrangements for early delivery of some of the more outstanding pieces exhibited in Biele.

"Europeans are jewelry conscious and this trend is very much the case in our country.

But people want something different, and this year's Biele Fair gives it to them, the Cass City jeweler said, adding that "We believe our friends in this area will be as excited as I am about the fashion trends in watches and fine jewelry."

highly for their efforts. She doesn't like the chipped beef either. A few more hits off our hit line. Black Magic Woman is dedicated to Pam Bryant, Minute Waltz is being spun for Rick and Ed Kloc as is Jesus Loves Me for Grace LaPonsie and Karen Krug. This is Jeff Maharg handing the mike over to Tutti Fruity Dawn Stahlbaum with the 9:00 o'clock show.

second speaker - Hi! I'm just going to give you a little inside 76 information now. Sandy Eisinger, Gerry Pittman and Sally Fassett went a little overboard with President Steve Eackles's loved ones when they freed the entire 'first families' hair. Moving again to the hit line we bring you Brian's Song as requested by Brian Sutter and Bryan Warju, Little Willie Won't Go Home for Billie A. Ouvry, Cat On a Hot Tin Roof for Madeline Sabo and Winnie the Pooh for Beth Shagene.

first speaker - This is Steve Palmer of Palmer's Pleasingly Plump Fat Farm, to tell you about my miraculous crash reduction program sponsored weekly in the CCHS weight room. We have two members in our group at the present time and may be able to squeeze in another. So waddle right over, first come, first serve.

second speaker - Rolling right along now we have an inside 76 interview with Ann Hobart, editor of the National Lampoon, who has just finished her memoirs of high school in a series of three syllables. Correction, we did have an interview; Miss Hobart has decided it was too much of a hassle and is not offering a comment. And more hits from the hit line: to Ken Lowe we dedicate All the Girls in the World, Beware, to Dirk Venema, Must Have Got Lost, to Carolyn Field Rock Candy and to Sharon Ross, I'm Not in Love.

first speaker - Greeting you at the middle hour, this is Scroomis Loomis taking over for Tootie Fruity. Bye bye toots. Our twelve o'clock news features our man on the street, Dave Speirs, interviewing Jane Rabideau, Co-Assistant Coordinator of Dietary Planning at CCHS about her views on the restricted use of peanut butter

second speaker - What are your views, Miss Rabideau?

first speaker - Well, I think that everyone should have to pay an additional two cents for peanut butter and then they wouldn't be so apt to throw it at the walls unless of course a child comes from a financially deprived home and in that case, he would be required to sit in a special section where peanut butter would be free, however, his behavior would be closely watched, unless of course he was emotionally disturbed and was sensitive to strict sup—second speaker - Thank you, thank you, Miss Rabideau. We switch now to Scroomis Loomis on the hit lines.

first speaker - Yes, we have some oldies but goodies here. For Rod Hutchinson we have Love In My Chevy Van, for Wayne Brooks, Rubber Duckie, and for David Cooper, Waitin' For The Bus.

second speaker - And coming soon to a theatre near you, Rebels Without A Cause, starring Rick Tuckey and Dave Romig. This film is a remake of The Red Badge of Courage which originally starred Clark Gable, Dave Zavlinski, and Chuck Bliss. Showings begin next Friday at the Cass Theatre, now under the management of Marie Yax.

first speaker - Still along the entertainment line, this is Scroomis Loomis interviewing Natalie Rabideau who has just opened a new night club across from Bennett's bar, now owned by fellow classmate Paul Rohleder.

Natalie's Nest, as the new night spot is called, has the female population in mind as it features costumed male dancers. Nat, do you have anything to say about those costumes?

second speaker - If anything, I'd have to keep it brief.

first speaker - On that note, I'll hand the mike over to Buck Eye Van Allen. Hey Nat, wait a minute.

second speaker - And now for a few more song dedications. For Rosey Novak, we have Boogey Woogie Busted Blues, Beer Drinkers and Hell Raisers for Tim Vatter, Ed Schwartz and Robert Wynn, and Ladies in Waiting for Jeanette Wilson, Brenda Surbrook and Theresa Gibbard.

first speaker - Now showing at Twink's palace the revived version of Hustle, Hassle, starring Tim Guinther and Janet Galbraith. And to the Civic Center, the Salvation Soul Sisters, Janet Murdoch and Becky German will be performing cuts off their new album, Everything is Beautiful. Beautiful. Back up act for the sisters may be ventriloquist and dummy Gary King and Phil Kuck, if they can settle which one gets to be the ventriloquist.

second speaker - This is Buckeye Van Allen handing the mike over to Piglet Patti who will begin our show at the dinner hour.

first speaker - A few more requests from our hit lines. Hot Rod Lincoln is dedicated to Ivan Stine, Cherry Hill to Bunny Hill. I Want To Go Home to Jacob and Patti, Takin' Care Of Business to Tim Muz, old business manager for the Hawk Herald, and Space Truckin' to Kathy Luana and Lucy Hartsell.

second speaker - Hello folks, this is Smilin' Steve Schneeberger of Schneeberger's Appliance to tell you about my special alumni sale. For any member of the Class of '76, I'm offering a 1% discount for any purchase over $2,000 dollars.

first speaker - A couple more requests have just been phoned in. Sistergolden Hair is being spun for Kathy Preba as is Annie's Song for Ann Langenburg.

second speaker - This is Kirt Kendall of Kendall's 24 hour meat delivery service. I'm ready any time you are.

first speaker - This is Piglet Patti signing off.

second speaker - And lonely Lona Mellendorf starting in at 9:00 with a couple of requests. Evil Woman for Eva Laming and Almost Cut My Hair for Ernie Pena and Ed Doer.

And now the CCOD is off is giving away a used pearl from McConkey's Jewelry. And the caller to rip me off is, Dan Sherman!

first speaker - For better bowling, come to second speaker - Inside 76 information reports that Hawk Hawkins has signed a contract with Cass City's cheerleaders for his services as an alumni mascot. Nobody's saying what the payoff is. Bringing you a few more songs from our hit lines. You Don't Mess Around With Jim is dedicated to James Hagood and Jim Greenwood, Honky Tonk Woman to Crystal Slaughter and Brenda Sherman and Angie to Angela Zmierki. As I turn the mike over to Denver John Mocan, I hear he's having a slight hassle with his secretary, Marlene Fisher; it seems she's misplaced his hickory nuts.

first speaker - Floyd Morrish is ready with the closing farm report.

second speaker - A bag's going for $25.00 and getting higher all the time.

first speaker - Spinning off a few more hits, we have Doin' the Bump for one time volleyball star Vicki Vandiver, Sarah Smile for Cindy Fredericks and Country Girl for Mary Ann Sommerville and Cindy Urban, and You Sexy Thing for Gail Spencer. Before leaving for the evening our station manager, Chris Van Vleet has a few words about the way the station is running.

second speaker - Everything is going smooth.

first speaker - I see Rich Lester, her chauffeur, has just met her at the door. Now advertising Silence Is Golden cough syrup, we have Tam Hamilton, Larry Stevens and Brenda Thane. (obviously extended pause) Thank you. To close our program we have several song dedications, Sweet Freedom for Kim O'Dell, and Just Hangin' Around for Penny Freeman. Don't touch that dial, we have one more; Laurie Decker and Susie Priekorn, who are still crazy after 20 years, want to dedicate to Russell Richards, "Rock and Roll All Night and Party Everyday".

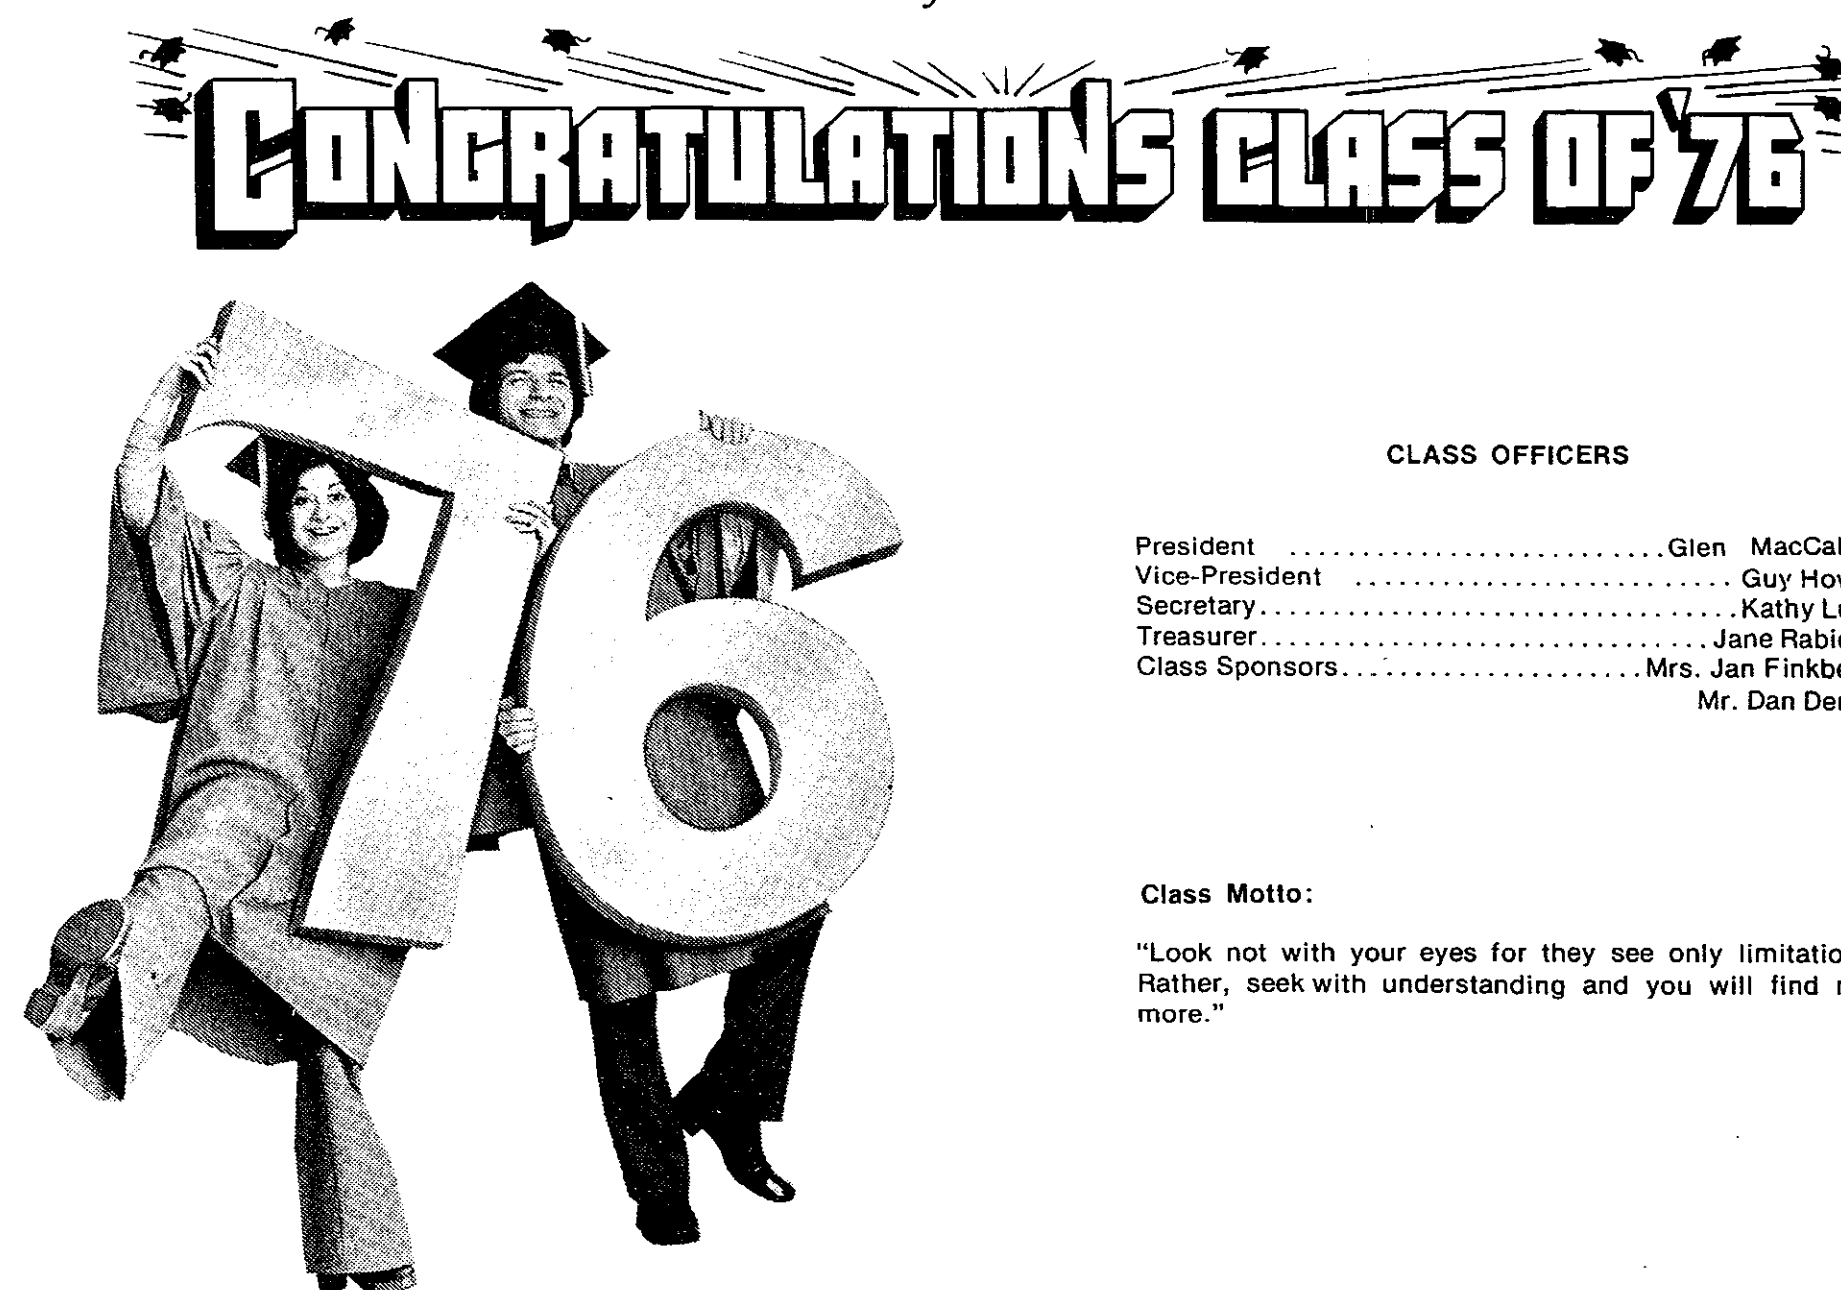

together - Thank you and good night from CCOD.

I, Marlene Fisher, will to my younger brother the "common sense" to stay out of trouble.

I, Pam Gallagher, will to Mrs. Hutchinson an unexcused stamper and to my sister Shelley my ability to get good grades and not remarks.

I, Becky German, will to Paula, LeAnn, and Kathie, "the horse" with four legs and to Brenda "the horse" with four corners!

I, Theresa Gibbard, will my car to my brother Dan, and a whole lot of fun to all you underclassmen.

I, Mary Goodell, will to Deb Hunter my ability to know everything and to always be right, and to Scott Miller the ability to skip and get away with it.

I, Jim Greenwood, will my ability to stay in school to anyone.

I, Mike Gruber, will Ken Lowe another owl because I think he lost it, and also Mr. Ahrens a sugar beet, and finally the juniors another year, have fun.

I, James Hagood, of sound mind will my body to any girl who thinks she can handle it.

I, Tam Hamilton, will to Angie $1 for an awful dirty bet we had.

I, Lucy Hartsell, will to Kathy Luana a portable toilet so she won't have to run to the Capri or the Dairy Queen.

I, Kim Hartwick, will to Norane MacCallum two rolls of Certs Breath Mints so she will always remember the slogan—it's two, two, two L.P.'s in one.

I, Bunny Hill, will to Ronny, Todd and Durrell each a big black buddy in a box to take with them on their trip to the Baltic Sea and to all the poor souls who are on bus 71-24 the will to turn around in their seats, put their feet in the aisle, and windows down all the way and the famous saying RELAX, RELAX!

I, Clark Hillaker, will to Deano, Shags, Dick, Floyd and Igor a good jag for life and to Ron Nurnberger his picture on the centerfold of Playgirl so he won't have to keep sending them his picture.

I, Ann Hobart, will one reproduction of the Mona Lisa and one Campbell soup can to Jacob so that he can finally make a distinction. Also, to Maum, a pair of mittens and snowshoes 'cause his going to be a long cold winter.

I, Joy Holik, will to Linda Hawkins the cover to my notebook.

I, Kyle Hopper, will a pair of roller skates, a jersey and a roller derby helmet to Mr. Pakonen so when he is smokin' er down the hall he won't have to slow down and go around anyone, he can bull his neck and go right over top of them.

I, Guy Howard, will to the Cass City School Board the knowledge to keep a good coach with a good record and give him a promotion, like the one Mr. Pranger deserved.

I, Rod Hutchinson, will to Clarke Haire his own personal Pygmy who is also a skilled headshrinker, and to Jeff Hartel a pair of steel-toed boots so that the next time a car runs over his foot, he won't swear as long and as loud.

I, Tina Kamrad, will to all my brothers a little bit of soap to wash off the redness on their necks, and to the sisters many more great trips of freedom to Beltsville, Maryland.

I, Kirt Kendall, will if I can remember how.

I, Ken Kerbyson, will to Miss Hummel a pocket size closed circuit television set up that she can carry with her so she can see what goes on in her 1st hour class when she steps out.

I, Ed Kloc, will to Deb Van Allen a Driver Education book because she needs all the help she can get.

I, Rick Kloc, will to Dirk Venema insurance money to buy that silver firebird.

I, Michele Konwalski, will to "Mr." Crouse and "Mr." Richards all the yearbooks ordered because it's "their" yearbook, not ours and also the ownership to Powell Studios.

I, Karen Sue Krug, will to Miss Hummel a broken over-head projector so that her students can read what she writes on her chalkboard, to Mr. McIntosh a new set of book ends so that his books can be found on his filing cabinet instead of on the floor, also to Mr. McIntosh a secretary that works, to Ann Whittaker and Mike Lowe Romper Room and its swell teacher as we once knew them, to Judy the endurance to last until October, to Jeff, Rod and Tim a hot line to the F.B.I. in case you need Adam-12 to help you find who egged your cars, to all my classmates luck in finding jobs, and to all of the underclassmen my ability to get along good with the teachers.

I, Phil Kuck, will my Nova to Cindy Rosenberger.

I, Dean Kruse, will to Fred Milligan a case of car wax for his car.

I, Alfred Kuenzli, will to Rick Gould one small car fast enough to keep up to hot moving rabbits on gravel roads.

I, Judy Kulinski, will my ability of shyness to those who wish to keep silent during their 4 years of exciting school.

I, Eva Laming, will to Angie and Tammy 1 case of cigarettes and 1 case of Boones Farm Apple Wine if they can drink and smoke all of them in 1/2 hour. I also will to Sherry the ability to live with M.B. and get away with it. I also will to Ethel and Floyd the ability to get along with each other.

I, Ann Langenburg, will to all underclassmen, to whom I have become acquainted, the ability to stick it out without a nut around anymore.

I, Daryl Lapeer, will to Scott Fisher my ability to stay first chair over Shelley Gallagher.

I, Grace LaPonsle, will to Karen a screwdriver for her loose back seat and will hope that it doesn't fall out again.

I, Patti Lautner, will $90 to the Senior Trip Club because I don't have any cash to pay them what I owe, and to Suzy Asher the ability to keep innocent Richie out of trouble because no one else can, and the parties in next year's senior class - the ability to stay in next year's senior class.

I, Sylvia Leppke, will to all the underclassmen the strength to last through the school years to come, and to have fun all you can while you can, but watch out.

I, Colleen Leslie, will to the new Shabbona Gang a truckload of garbage for next years postal deliveries and to next years volley ball team loads of support and the state championship.

I, Rich Lester, will to Mr. Biefer, a trash can to throw his empties in, to Birdog a milkbone, to Paul Rohleder, Mark Nieman, Dallas Englehart and Phil Kuck a 6-pack to keep them happy for another half-hour.

I, Sally Loomis, will to Russell Richards a one way ticket to Wahjamega.

I, Ken Lowe, will to Jeff Hartel and Clarke Haire my ability to get along with the coaches.

I, Kathy Luana, will to Lucy Hartsell a years supply of her favorite little pills and the ability to come home before the sun rises.

I, Glen MacCallum, will to Roland Pakonen, one carton of Marlboros, one Moral Conduct Award for his fine examples he sets for his players, and one child psychology book so he can understand himself. To Doc and Mike a case of Mad Dog and Michelob and one "gold brick".

I, Jeff Maharg, will to Mr. Pakonen my ability to tell jokes and to win bets; and to Clarke Haire a personal photographer so his dad can take pictures of other players on the team.

I, Dale MacAlpine, will to Jeff Hartel and Clarke Haire one antenna and to Tim Muz my swear free vocabulary.

I, Lona Mellenford, will to Jennifer and Arlene a case of little Millers and two cases of ice cream.

I, John Mocan, will to Tim Muz, Jeff Maharg and Steve Schenberger a variety of new faces to make at Miss Hummel while in their classes.

I, Pat Moore, will Bob Schmeier all the fun he can have in school and to fish a new pair of lips.

I, Jacob Mortensen, will on this sunny May cloudy day of April 23 write my will which will be written by me. I hereby write my third line of my will in which I will include the following persons: Mrs. Wallace, who I will give a free trip in a rowboat across the Atlantic Ocean to Denmark. Ann Hobart, who I will give all my art work for a small price of 5 cents. I also give to Clark Hillaker a curling iron so he won't have to put his hair up in rollers every night.

I, JoAnn Murdock, being of sound mind (?) and body, sometimes, will to Kim C. the ability to skip study hall without getting caught, to David K. and Peter K. the ability to not make Miss Wheeler mad, to my sister Janet my grades in Choir, to Pat M. Spanish lessons and good luck with Frank B. and to Larry the ability to smile without cracking his face.

I, Tim Muz, will to Miss Hummel a new teaching job since she probably won't be here next year.

I, Terry Nanney, will to my brother Gary to have the ability to take Joe Gruber's example and quit getting caught skipping.

I, Randy Newsome, will to anybody my brain for being able to succeed.

I, Tom Nicol, will to Mr. Richards a new job and a good bottle of tequila to celebrate with and to Mr. Biefer his own television series, "Kotter II".

I, Rosy Novak, will probably become space pal and join Kurt Zemke, Kathy Willy and Chris, also space pals, in the annual space circus. Come one, come all.

I, Kim O'Dell will all my good times and happiness that I have had in my high school years to Renee Kritzman and also my smile to Don Male.

I, Mike Otulakowski, will my books to anyone who wants them and to Deb a new shovel to pick up behind her horse and the job at Thumb Appliance back to Andy Auten.

I, Bill Ovary, will to Bill Juhasz a lifetime supply of rear end transmissions and tires for a Pontiac and a free ride down S. Water Street.

I, Steve Palmer, will Ed Schwartz the 2 pitchers of beer I owe him because we are never in the same bar at the same time so we can drink them.

I, Cindy Peters, will my ability to always be on time to Deb Hunter.

I, Delores Peters, will to Shelly Gallagher a drinking partner for next year, to my brother Dale the ability to get on the honor roll once in awhile, to my sister Sharon the ability to get along with teachers, and to anyone the ability to not get any UNEXCUSED stamps on any absences or tardies during their high school years.

I, Jane Peterson, will Don, Kurt, and Chris the ability to make it to their 7th hour class at least one full week next year.

I, Tina Pierce, will to Rita Gutierrez the ability to lock doors the way I did.

I, Sue Pobanz, will to Cathy Hobart more motivation to get the yearbook done on time and meet even 1 deadline next year and to my sister Kelly an oversize cork for her mouth so everyone can enjoy some peace and quiet for a change.

I, Susan Prieskorn will be out of it with Laurie Decker after graduation.

I, Jane Rabideau, will the following: Cass City something to do, to the "sisters" a case of O'd de Love perfume. To my sister Lena, a new watch since her old one seems to run three hours slow on Fridays and Saturdays. And to Pam Stickle I will a room full of ishweels and for all of us I will a Beltsville, Maryland in their backyards.

I, Nat Rabideau, will Denise Barker 4 Bowers, 6 Millers and a new eucerie partner.

I, Paul Rohleder, will to Mr. Biefer my 30,000 ring pulls to go with his 30,000 Miller beer cans I left behind.

I, Dave Romig, will to Mr. Richards a candid camera so he can see what really goes on in Miss Hummel's room.

I, Sharon Ross, will to Shelly Seurnyck my Health Occupation shirt so she doesn't have to wear the same thing day after day.

I, Ed Schwartz, will to Bird Dog all the smoke detectors he needs for the bathroom and a cage of bird so he has something to do when the birds fly south for the winter.

I, Beth Shagene, will to certain persons employed by the school my initials because they're full of it.

I, Ron Sieradzki, will the teachers lounge to be banned as a smoking area for the teachers unless a student lounge is provided for the students.

I, Maxine Smith, will to Sue Hummel a chair and whip so she will be able to control her classes next year, to everyone that has her a computer brain, to Vicki Vandiver a car that doesn't jump into ditches, to Mr. Rob Logan a file cabinet so he will be able to become an efficient teacher and last but not least, a great time to next years Varsity Volleyball Team and coach after they win at State Finals!

I, Dave Speirs, will to Kurt Little my Yamaha so he knows what power is.

I, Gayle Spencer, will my sister my self control and my ability to drink.

I, Dawn Stahlbaum, will to Mr. "D", some willing and able-bodied female to apply to Gagetown for Co-op next year, and to Sylvia Leppke, the ability to never get caught again!

I, Larry Stevens, will to Joanne and Paul a truckload of Millers to keep them happy all day.

I, Pam Stickle, will to Maum a lifetime lease to Bennetts and the ability to avoid Blue Gramlin's.

I, Ivan Stine, will Chuck Hendrick one male and one female red whisker, so he can start his own beard.

I, Chris Strace, will to "Miss Hummel" one turtleneck sweater so she won't have to worry about getting "Chest" colds; to all those on bus 71-24 one new bus driver; and to all the members of the Class of '76 the "Best of Luck".

I, Brenda Surbrook, will the best of luck to the underclassmen. Have fun!

I, Brenda Thano, will my ability to get along with Mr. Gengler to Kelly Ovary.

I, Judy Ann Tracy, will to Jeff, Tim, and Rod a lifetime supply of vaseline and eggs, to Kimberly Ann an automatic brusher, to Karen Sue a bottle of red pop, to Bunny Jo lots of luck and happiness, to Kathy Diane my ability to give blood and keep a tall dark haired basketball player for herself.

I, Lori Tucker, will the very best to every member of the class of '76. Also to Chris a new pane of glass for her basement window, and a spare key for under the mat.

I, Rick Tuckey, will to Hartel and Haire my basketball ability so they will know they are good instead of thinking of it all the time.

I, Cindy Urban, will to Mrs. Jackson 100 mice so that at least one will follow her around wherever she goes. To Sally Smith my ability to keep my halo shiny. To Jeanette Wilson the birthday card I bought for her a couple of years ago. To Mary Ann the ability to live less dangerously.

I, Ron VanAllen, will to Ed Kloc his own little bumper car so he can practice missing shetland ponies.

I, Vicki Vandiver, will Miss Hummel a box of "Cling-Free" Sheets, and slide rules for all the ones that turned up missing and I also will the school my sister Tracy. I will Mr. Bushong all the luck in the world with the upcoming bands.

I, Chris VanVleet, will be out after graduation celebrating!!!!

I, Tim Vatter, will my car to anybody who has a junkyard.

I, Dirk Venema, will to Scotty Fisher my white pickup so he won't have to drive his piece of junk.

I, Deb Walter, will to my underclassmen all the luck in the world because they'll need it. And to Diane Teichman my crown.

I, Bryan Warju, will to Boner Little the ability to out fox the conservation officer and to Sally Porritt my double 00 shirt on which she will eventually change the numbers.

I, Tammy Whittaker, will my car to my sister Brenda so she doesn't have to ride the bus.

I, Bill Wills, will to Tom Dorland my car so he doesn't have to stay in school all day.

I, Jeanette Wilson, will to Cindy Urban a dictionary so she won't have to ask people how to spell words. And to Sarah the keys to the car so she doesn't have to ride the stupid bus. And to Sally Smith my good grades in Physics and a robin to tell her stories.

I, Sandy (Sheldon) Wright, will my ability not to get drunk and go out and wreck my car to my sister Linda so she won't kill herself someday. I also will my ability to stay out of trouble and out of bars to my sister till she gets her head together, my ability to keep my big mouth shut to Carolyn Field and Good Luck to all the seniors in my class.

I, Bob Wynn, will James Hagood my good driving record.

I, Sher Wynn, will to Angie a case of Millers and to Tammy the ability to stay away from windows.

I, Don Yax, will to my brother Mike my superb driving ability so he won't have to improve his own.

I, Marie Yax, will to Linda Hawkins, Pam Kessler, and Ed Schwartz a 3 year supply of balogna and to my brother Ed my kind hearted personality so he won't lose his temper too often.

I, Dave Zawilinski, will to Ron Nurnberger $50 for a yearly subscription to Playgirl.

I, Angie Zmierski, will to Robbie L. some of my youth because he's losing his fast. To my brother Mike, hair grow and the luck I have of doing things and not getting caught. To Scott I leave my friend Terry's number so they can go out and have a lot of fun. Last but not least, I leave Lorraine my dictionary.

CLASS PROPHECY

The year is 1996 and Cass City's first radio station is beginning a normal day of broadcasting.

first speaker - Good morning, this is Tiny Tina Kamrad on Radio COOD 76 on your FM dial, opening our six o'clock show on a memorable May 27. To start the day we have our sound crew tuning up with calls, lead by our favorite disc jocks, Healthy Howard and Smooth Smanteck.

together - 1,2,3 - 1,2,3

first speaker - We switch now to Deb Broecker and the farm report.

second speaker - 1,2,3 - 1,2,3 first speaker - Please Deb, the farm report. How much are the bales going for these days, Deb?

second speaker - We don't bale, we bag for fifteen dollars, first speaker. Thanks Deb. This farm report was brought to you care of Kruse's Kow Chow. And now to finish off the farm flash we have a few song requests. For Tim Dorland and Don Copeland we have Thank God I'm a Country Boy; for Bill Wills, I'm a Rhinestone Cowboy, and for Colleen Leslie, I'm a Little Bit Country. It's now 6:15 and Inside 76 Information reports that Lieutenant Governor Glenn MacCallum and his business associate, door pusher for the state senate, Ron Sieradzki, were stopped at 4:20 a.m. by Deputy Sheriff, Neal Compo on the suspicion of a MIP.

Press Secretary for the Lieutenant Governor, Pam Stickle, is reported as saying, second speaker - All's well that ends well.

first speaker - The time is 6:30 as we switch to the morning traffic report from Kyle Hopper in his traffic chopper.

second speaker - There's a little congestion in the Cass City High School parking lot. It seems several dozen students have parked around the island and the administrator can't tow them away fast enough. Now back to Motor Mouth Jeff Maharg with our morning news bulletin.

first speaker - Last night in a crucial ball game, Terry Nanney pulled out a victory when she completed a pass from Blaise Pouszny. We also have a report of the scheduled menu at CCHS as prepared by Eva Laming, Sherry Wynn, Maxine Smith, Judy Kulinski, and Joy Holik. The delicacies featured this week are benne weenie, pork in gravy, surf 'n' burgers, scalloped potatoes and ham and goulash. Now for a few requested tunes. For Don Yax and Doug Forshee, we have Good Morning starshine. For Randy Newsome, Chogladye and for Tom Nicol, Aqualung. We were going to feature Kathy Clarke, Pam Gallagher, and Lori Tuckey's recipe for rum cake; but through the empty bottles, we see it just didn't pan out. Moving to Inside 76 Information we see from a Hawk Herald headline that Cass City has initiated its own form of bussing. It is presently running busses into the OwenGage school district, driven by none other than Mary Goodell, Vicki Downing and Cindy Peters.

second speaker - Our 7:00 o'clock morning wake up focuses on an outstanding Cass Cityan. Ken Kerbyson has just been honored by the Chamber of Commerce for his outstanding salesmanship. He managed to sell over 1000 TV's in less than 24 hours; on his bicycle!

second speaker - We now bring you an oldie but goodie, a rendition of 76 Trombones by Dave Langmaid, Al Crouse and Daryl Lapeer, with Calvin Ostrander on the drums. And a naughty but nuptial dedication, Shine On You Crazy Diamond for Lola Merchant, Sandy Sheldon, Holly Turner, Judy Tracy, Michelle Konwalski, Pam Ahern and Jackie Lapeer.

second speaker - High school graduate, Do You Know Where You're Going To? Do You Like The Things That Life Is Showing You? Do You Know? If not, the armed services may be what you're looking for. We're looking for a few more good men like John Anderson, Dallas Englehart, Mark Nieman, Jim Gilliam and Kelly Smith.

If interested, contact Wayne Dillon in Colwood.

first speaker - Bringing a few more hits your way, we have a request here from Kim Downing and Laurie Althaver, an old favorite, Dream On. For Tina Pierce and Jane Peterson we're playing Dark Eyed Cajun Woman. And now, a commercial word from the No Tell Motel; Mike and Deb Otulakowski, Proprietors.

second speaker - Hello folks, this is Mike first speaker - And this is Deb second speaker - We're here talking with old friends and satisfied customers Alfred and Kim Kuenzli. What do you kids have to say about the accommodations.

together - Very Accommodating first speaker - Moving along to the 8:00 o'clock news. Last night Rick Doerr, Joe Windy, and Rick Rabideau were accused of grand arson in connection with the alleged toilet papering and subsequent burning of Cass City High School. When asked why Joe lit the match, he replied, second speaker - It was Rick's toilet paper.

first speaker - Another important news item. Dietary experts at Provincial House, Dale MacAlpine, Suzanne Pobanz, Delores Peters, and Chris Strace have discovered that chipped lead causes cancer. Sylvia Leppke, director of Pro House, commanded them

CLASS WILL

I, Pam (Ahern) Vaughan, will to my cousin Jeff Warner and Tanya Whittaker my ability to stay in school and to graduate.

I, Lauren Holly Althaver, will Norene my wardrobe so when stuck at my house during snowstorms she won't be without a stitch. I will to Kim Downing the ability not to say "Wheeeat!!!". I will to Miss Wicher a new secretary who shows up at least once a week.

I, Chuck Bliss, will my body to Ron Nurnberger so he will be accepted in the Playgirl club.

I, Debbie Broecker, will to my sister Barbara good grades, and the ability to stay out of trouble. To the Evergreen Teen Club a party of its own, and a bottle. Lisa, one more year in Ag. Class with all guys, to Mrs. Hutchinson a little secretary that will be around when you need her.

I, Pam Bryant, will to Shelby Batts a life sized poster of T.B. so she can remember the good times in Deford.

I, Kathy Diane Clarke, will to my brother Rob as many good times in C.C.H.S. as I have had, to Karen Krug one World-Wide telephone book, to Kim Downing one pair of barber's scissors, to Judy Tracy one big-mouthed football player and to all underclassmen lots of luck-you'll need it!

I, David Cooper, will my fake I.D. card for drinking facilities, and rated X movies to my kid brother Larry.

I, Holly (Turner) Cooper will nothing to Nobody.

I, Don Copeland, will to Cass City High School new rest rooms for non-smokers.

I, Manette Crawford, will to Mr. Kotter (Bieffer) a German dictionary so he'll know what Sehr Gut means. To Di, Checker, Blonde Bommer, and Zeb, soap, toilet paper, wax and some pop bottles for the next time they wish to decorate teachers' lawns and also a razor blade and water just in case they get caught. And to Mrs. Perz an Algebra I class that knows everything about Algebra so she won't have to put up with dummies like me that can't understand what they are suppose to do.

I, Alan Crouse, will any winter snowstorm telephone call consisting of, "Will there be school tomorrow?" to Mike Richards and his family.

I, Laurie Decker, will be out of it after graduation.

I, Ed Doerr, will to Mr. Bieffer my hair so he won't have to keep putting his in permanents.

I, Rick Doerr, will to Rick Babideau an eight cylinder engine to replace his banger so he can outrun the cops next time.

I, Kim Downing, will to Norene, Laurie, and Kim a package of "GO" crackers, also to Norene a portable car washer, to Laurie the ability not to fall off from her shoes and break them while running across the football field, and Ms. Wicher, a great director, a stage full of flowers that will never wilt.

I, Tim Dorland, will to Rod Deering my car, so that he will always have a ride home from school.

I, Vicky Downing, will to all the Junior Owen-Gage transfers a lot more good times and less hassles, and to Dean O'Harris a constant ride to Gagetown and Cass City.

I, Sandi Eisinger, will to Kathy Toner, a 6-month supply of Puffs for next years camp and marching season, and to Terry Hoag the book "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex but Were Afraid to Ask".

I, Steve Esckilsen, will to Miss Hummel my copy of Rod Hutchinson and Dave Romig's latest stereo L.P. entitled, "Teacher, Can We Go To Town For Donuts?"

I, Sally Fassett, will to my sister Sharon the ability to get along with my parents so wonderfully, and to Linda Sheldon, all her stories right back at her.

I, Carolyn Field, will to my brother Darrell my ability to get along with my parents so wonderfully, and to Linda Sheldon, all her stories right back at her.

I, Cindy Frederick, will my sister Peggy and her friend Kathy my ability to skip and not get caught.

I, Janet Galbraith, will to Denise Barker a car that will only go 25 m.p.h. so it won't get away from her and a disguise so Kojak Wilson won't be able to chase her all over town and so she won't be lonely next year. I will her an exact duplicate person of Vinnie Babarino to keep her company during school and after school if she wants to, cuz he will.
