

Poc anger v. age officials

Frustrated village officials were looking toward opening Cass City's new municipal swimming pool sometime next week, after efforts to complete final work on the project this week fell short.

Village President Lambert Althaver said Wednesday morning little progress has been made on the last remaining phase of construction—plastering the inside of the pool.

Althaver, upset over what he termed "repeated delays", said village authorities are looking toward an opening "in the early part of next week".

Althaver placed the blame for continued delays on Perma-Bilt Construction Co., contractors for the pool itself. "It's strictly a matter of the contractor falling down on the job," he said.

While declining to be specific, he said the village is investigating "two or three alternatives" regarding the company and the contract.

Once the plastering is completed, pool filling operations can begin almost immediately. Village Supt. Lou LaPonsie said Tuesday it will take about 200,000 gallons of water to fill the pool.

The water will still need to be heated and the pool will have to pass state inspections. LaPonsie said county officials can inspect the pool and give it a temporary license to operate until state Department of Health authorities can make an inspection.

The pool was originally scheduled to open June 1, but construction delays have set the date back at least twice.

A spokesman for Perma-Bilt in Detroit said Wednesday morning the company is working on the project as fast as possible. He said plastering has been slowed due to the heat.

"You can't plaster a pool that size when the temperature is over 85 degrees because it will crack," he said. He said the job should be completed by the week end and that filling should begin by the first of next week at the latest. He denied any wrongdoing on the company's part.

"We have been totally honest with them," he said. "I can show them phone bills from calls I made to 15 different plastering crews trying to find someone to go up there. I finally got one. I've also had problems ordering equipment. Some of it had to be reordered and that takes time."

CASS CITY Chamber of Commerce members continued their tree-planting project along Main Street Tuesday night. Here, Roger Marshall steadies the tree as Aime Ouvry handles the business end of the shovel. Only a few holes remain to be cut in downtown sidewalks to complete the project.

Begins practice July 1

Vietnam war distant memory for Dr. Jeung

It's a long way from the rice paddies of South Vietnam to the farmland of Tuscola county. Dr. Hoon K. Jeung, 37, has been in both places and as far as he's concerned, he'll take Tuscola county any day.

Dr. Jeung will begin his medical practice in Cass City July 1 as a general surgeon, filling a need in the village's growing medical community that will give it a specialist in nearly every major field.

Dr. Jeung, a native of Korea, spent a year during 1968 and 1969 in a MASH (Mobile Army Surgical Hospital) in Qui Hoa, South Vietnam, near a large American Air Base during the height of the Vietnam War. He'd finished medical school and internship in his native Seoul and wanted to come to the United States.

"Medicine is so far advanced in this country that I wanted to come here to continue my education," Dr. Jeung explained.

There was just one hitch—his Army hitch. He had 34 months of active service to fulfill before he could leave. He signed up and after doing time in his own nation's Demilitarized Zone along the 38th parallel, shipped out for a year in Vietnam.

"When I first got there, it was terrible," he remembered. "For the first three months or so I couldn't sleep at night because of the helicopters going over and the noise of the war. After that, I got used to it."

Jeung worked under combat conditions that rivaled any war. Amputations were commonplace, along with any number of other types of wounds that come with war.

Most of his patients were Koreans attached with that nation's Army in South Vietnam. He also tried to reach out to help the native soldiers. "When I had time, I tried to talk with them and help them as much as I could," he said. "I remember one patient who was supposed to have his leg amputated. I said before I leave this country, I've got to try to help him."

Through his efforts, the patient eventually made his way to a large American-run evacuation hospital nearby where he received the treatment he needed to save his leg.

Dr. Jeung received medals from the American, Korean and South Vietnamese officials for his work.

Three die in county crashes

Tuscola county recorded one of the bloodiest weeks on its highways in recent memory as three persons lost their lives in separate accidents.

In the most spectacular crash late Tuesday morning, Earl Fred Mattlin III, 28, Caro, was killed when the car he was driving collided head-on with another car driven by Wayne Simon Harder, 46, of Bay Port, just west of Caro.

At press time, the accident was still under investigation. According to a Tuscola County Sheriff's department spokesperson, Harder and his wife, Joanne, a passenger in the vehicle, were being treated at Caro Community Hospital. Harder was reported in "stable" condition, suffering multiple abrasions and a possible concussion. Mrs. Harder was transferred to Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital where she was reported in "serious" condition, suffering head injuries. Few details were available late Tuesday afternoon. The two cars reportedly collided on M-81 near Dixon Road around 11:15 a.m.

Candidates speak out

Taxes, curriculum seen as major school issues

A "medium" turnout is forecast for next Monday's school election at Cass City when voters will choose two Board of Education members and decide the fate of a 1.2 mill levy designed to construct a new athletic facility behind the high school.

School authorities predicted a turnout of between 800 and 1,000 of the district's 2,800 eligible voters.

Four candidates are seeking two available four-year terms on the board. Here is a rundown of the candidates and their stands on the issues.

MRS. ALICE GUERNSEY

Mrs. Alice Guernsey of 6331 Dale St., Cass City, says she is seeking election to the board "as a citizen interested in education in general and Cass City education in particular."

Mrs. Guernsey has lived in Cass City the past 17½ years and is the mother of five children. She is a graduate of Trenton High School and attended Michigan State University for two years.

She believes the board needs the voice of another woman on the board.

"I feel the school board needs a better balance of women," she says. "Women can contribute a different point of view to decisions and discussions."

On the question of a new athletic facility, Mrs. Guernsey is opposed.

"I'm not in favor of the increase in millage for new athletic facilities behind the school," she says. "I'm in favor of updating the present facilities at the village park with new lights and seating being the strongest need. Whereas a new track (all weather) would certainly be fine, it is not a compelling need."

Mrs. Guernsey says the overriding need is a "good solid, all-encompassing education for every youngster."

She favors changes in curriculum that would include expanding the music program. She also favors expanding the overall fine arts program in the school.

"My chief interest is to see that all our children receive an adequate education in the basic fundamentals of learning," she says. "I want to be sure all our children graduate from our school with the ability to function as contributing members of society, no matter what their choice of careers may be."

The Guernseys have five children, four of whom have graduated from Cass City High School. Their youngest is a sophomore.

ROBERT HIRN

At 34, Robert Hirn is seeking his second term as a board of education member. He has served as board president the past year.

Hirn has lived in the district the past 12 years and has three children attending school at Cass City. Hirn holds a B.S. degree from Central Michigan University and taught at Cass City High School for five years.

Voters to decide athletic field fate

The Cass City School district could realize as much as $200,000 in extra revenue if voters okay a 1.2 mills increase in property taxes for a new athletic facility next Monday.

According to Supt. Donald Crouse, the money would be earmarked for construction of a new football field, a track, seating and lights at a site behind the high school.

The millage would run for two years, Crouse explained. Based on the district's State Equalized Valuation of about $41 million, 1.2 mills would raise about $100,000 locally over two years.

He said that amount would be matched by state aid payments.

Whether or not the millage is approved, the school already has plans to spend considerable money on athletic facilities. If the issue goes down, the district plans to proceed with new lights and seating at the current facility at the village park.

A tentative lease with village authorities has already been hammered out. Under terms of the agreement, the school would lease the present facility at a cost of $1 per year for 25 years with an option to renew for another 25 years.

In return, the school would invest in extensive renovations at the park, including new lights and added seating. Crouse said the school board decided to let the voters decide what they wanted. "The school isn't promoting this one way or the other," Crouse said.

He said when the question was first discussed, he believed chances for passage were slim. Now he's not so sure.

"Personally, I feel it will be close," he said this week. Supporters of the school site say security would be lighter than at the park and that maintenance would be less of a problem.

Opponents say constructing a new football field and track would be a needless duplication of already-existing facilities. Moving the field out of the park would require major renovation of the area by the village, they maintain.

Both sides agree that whatever is done will be expensive.

Crouse said if the millage passes, the school will spend at least one more season at the park. No plans for a school site have been developed yet, he said.

Construction could begin as early as late summer, Crouse said, but added work would be more likely to begin next year.

In 1969, Hirn left teaching to go into retail sales. Currently he serves as manager of Caro Building Center, Inc.

Hirn says he is seeking re-election because of his background in teaching which, he says, aids in his understanding of the educational process.

"This background, coupled with my current position in management gives me a broader feeling for the issues and I feel helps me make more objective decisions," he says.

Hirn says he favors the proposed new athletic facility.

"I... feel moving the facility at this time would serve the best interest of everyone in the school district," Hirn says. "If the millage is not approved, there will still have to be some improvements made in the present facility over the next five to seven years. It would seem that 1.2 mills for two years would be a cheap investment for a facility with a useful life of 30 to 50 years."

Hirn sees changes in the athletic offerings to comply with the dictates of the federal government's Title IX as one of the major issues the board will face in the coming years.

"There will undoubtedly be consideration given to the language, art and music programs as well as further study in the area of obtaining federal money for funding various programs," Hirn says.

"A lot will depend, however, on whether the state continues to lower the state aid allotments to local districts. If this continues, the question of additional operating millage may be a concern in the next two years."

ARTHUR SEVERANCE

Another incumbent seeking re-election to the board is Arthur Severance, 36, an Evergreen township dairy farmer who has served two terms on the board. He is a former board president.

Severance has five children in the Cass City school system. Born and raised in Evergreen township, he graduated from Cass City High School in 1958 and from Michigan State University in 1962. He operates an 800-acre dairy farm in partnership with his brother and father.

"I have enjoyed being on the school board," Severance says. "I am the only farmer on the board at present and feel that agriculture should be represented on the board. I feel that I can help solve some of the coming problems that will be facing the district."

Severance says he favors constructing the athletic field at the high school "but only if the voters approve the 1.2 mills for two years."

"There is no way in the near future to put up more bleachers, improve the track, etc., at the park without also asking for more millage. I believe we have already authorized enough from the general fund for athletics," Severance says.

He sees finances, the ongoing struggle between athletics and curriculum for a share of the tax dollar and student discipline as major issues facing the district.

"I would like to continue to keep the emphasis on basic reading, writing and arithmetic in the lower elementary and add special help if and when needed. I would also want to work more on vocational training even though we have a very good program."

DR. E.P. LOCKWOOD

Dr. E.P. Lockwood, Cass City doctor of chiropractic and district resident for the past 18 years, says he's running for a spot on the board of education because he's concerned over finances.

"I am seeking election because of my concern to help insure the correct apportionment of district school funds in providing the utmost value in better elementary and secondary study programs for our children," Lockwood says.

"I am concerned in providing a cleaner sanitary environment for all students in all school buildings that require and need immediate attention."

Lockwood, who has five children in school, says taxpayers as well as parents should have a stronger voice in school operations.

"I personally feel the demands from our district need to be heard and the school board should have an 'open policy' to the taxpayer as well as the parents of school children."

Lockwood sees several important issues facing the district in the coming year. "The basic issue is better education through the first five grade levels of the elementary system," he says. "Building promotions should no longer take priority at the expense of the basic fundamentals of learning."

Lockwood declined specific comment on the athletic field issue.

"If It Fitz . . ." They'll never be missed

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The people of Colombia have been rescued from being beaked to death by rampaging doves.

And for writing that smartie sentence, I will have to explain once again how I can eat hamburgers.

It happens all the time. I can't understand how hunters can enjoy killing. I laugh when they claim they are "harvesting a crop," not killing. I ask them why I've never seen a farmer drive through town with a bushel of rutabagas tied to his fender, headed for the newspaper office to have his picture taken with his vanquished vegetables?

And the hunters can't understand how I can enjoy eating steak if I am against killing animals. They laugh when I claim slaughterhouses won't bother me until they are featured on TV's American Sportsman with Rock Hudson knocking the steer's brains out with a golden hammer.

They ask me how I can be so dumb as to not realize dead is dead, meat is meat, and there's not enough ketchup to change the taste?

It is a great and frequent argument which I've never won, or lost. And it's nothing personal. Some of my best friends go hunting all the time. When they return home, they always assure me they never fired a shot for fear of hitting a waitress. But, I think they are just trying to spare my Bambi stomach. I have been known to throw up on newspaper photos of snake hunts.

My favorite opponent is Preston Mann who operates the Hunters Creek hunting preserve. It is a slick operation with every convenience for outdoorsmen who don't have time to go outdoors. Mann's pheasants are trained to fly into the pockets of lunching auto executives and commit suicide.

Mann does not take my barbs peaceably. In fact, he is a master of the weird debate and I don't have a prayer in one-on-one combat. Just recently his local newspaper quoted him as revealing that I am actually a closet blood-sporter who lusts after innocent animals. Mann said he discovered my killer instinct during several years of watching me eat at his club. He said he could tell by the glint in my eyes and the slobber on my lips everytime I bite into a cheeseburger, rare.

I mention this as some sort of solace to all you hunters out there who, after reading this column, will want to send me nasty words. Don't bother. I've heard them all from the master, Mr. Mann. If he can't make me see the light at the end of the deer run, nobody can.

I can understand why Preston might think I eat meat with inordinate enjoyment. But he mistakes haste for lasciviousness. When dining at Preston's, I always eat the meat quickly before someone shoots it.

Actually, Mann's customers win points from me for honesty. They don't give you any harvesting baloney about killing to thin the herd or protect the grain. They go to hunting preserves for birds the same way their wives go to the A&P for pork chops.

The birds are there to be killed, no other reason, and the hunter pays for every bird released in front of his gun. If he misses the first shot, the best-trained birds keep circling until hit. They get their training in carnival shooting galleries.

There is a difference between shooting pheasants at Preston's place and shooting doves in Cali, Colombia. No one could afford that much bloodshed at Preston's.

The doves fly over by the thousands and, if you forget your shotgun, you can probably kill them with rocks. U.S. sportsmen can fly down for the dove hunts on Braniff Airways which offers special excursion rates which are cheaper per bird than lunching at Preston's.

"It's like dying and going to paradise," a Bloomfield Hills attorney said as he killed doves quicker than he could count them. He was quoted in a sports page story which also said: "All afternoon they had come, a never-ending stream of gray birds. Our shoulders, which we had taken to padding with heavy handkerchiefs the day before, still ached. Earlier they had been actually bleeding from the kick of the gunstock." There is no bag limit. It is possible for one hunter to kill 600 doves in one day.

Forget about the danger to a species. Maybe Colombia has to be protected from takeover by doves. But what is the pleasure in killing them? Why would anyone spend hundreds of dollars and fly thousands of miles to shoot birds in a birdbath?

If that's sport, so is eating a hamburger.

Some men do not know when they are well off, but the income tax collector always does.

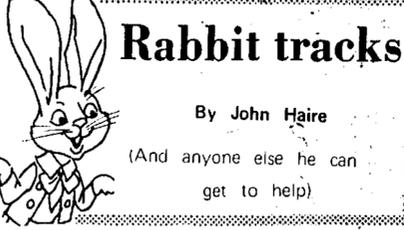

CASS CITY pilot Lawrence Finkbeiner refuels his single-engine plane Monday in a wheat field two and a half miles south of Cass City as Tuscola County Sheriff's officer Jerry Osborn looks on. Finkbeiner made an emergency landing in the field early Monday morning after encountering engine failure on a flight from Pontiac. No damage was reported to the aircraft. (Neitzel Photo).

Cass City pilot makes safe forced landing

A Cass City man was uninjured early Monday morning when he was forced to land his single-engine airplane in a wheat field about two and a half miles south of Cass City.

Lawrence Alvin Finkbeiner of 6361 Garfield St., told Tuscola County Sheriff's Deputy Jerry Osborn he was en route from Pontiac to Cass City around 3:00 a.m. Monday when the aircraft's engine failed.

Finkbeiner tried to take off, the report indicated, but the ground was too soft. He reportedly removed the plane without incident later Monday.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help)

If it weren't for the race for the two seats on the board of education the Haires could forget about voting Monday. I'd just make a pact with my wife and neither of us would vote. She's vowed to vote against the athletic facility at the school. I'm for it.

When you read this I'm sure that all of you that agree with my wife are saying to themselves, I always knew that she had more sense than he did, while those that agree with me are saying, I'm surprised that he's got that many brains.

Selfishly, I guess I should vote for the park site. With a sophomore in high school whatever personal advantage there would be comes there.

There is no way that the site at the school will be ready for use in the two remaining years that a family member will use it. But I still think it's best in the long run. You can all ship your hero medals to me at 6550 Main.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

They don't make them like they used to. I suppose they make them better, but not for me. The typewriter used in this week's deathless prose is a loaner for use while my regular typewriter is in the repair shop.

The only thing worse than trying to write with this machine is using an electric job.

With power assisted keys my copy has the letter "I" wandering in and out of words without rhyme or reason. That's because I rest my finger on the key and that slight pressure makes the key work when I don't want it to.

Now don't tell me to arrange the touch so that it takes more pressure. I tried that and the I's just kept coming and coming.

And just to show you that I'm not a one-handed typist, sometimes a few "d's" make unannounced appearances... almost as if those blasted keys had a mind of their own.

Well, I don't have that trouble with this loaner. What does happen is that every so often a letter doesn't print.

For instance before I proofread it the lines in the third paragraph looked like this: The only thing XXXXXXXX w rse t an trying to write with I is machine is using an electric job.

My old reliable sometimes causes me trouble. Not with typing, with my wife. There're two reasons, no, three reasons for this. The first is that the trouble comes from my wife. . . of course that trouble could come from anything, not just a little old typewriter.

So, I don't know if it's fair to attribute it to the machine, but I will anyway.

According to everyone who sees it, my typewriter should have been retired to a museum years ago.

I can't buy that. Just because it's old doesn't mean it's worn out. And it's not THAT OLD. After all I bought it some 20 years ago and when I got it it was completely reconditioned.

I can't see how folks who saw it then could tell it wasn't brand new. They must have looked at the model number.

I'll admit that my machine has one little flaw that has defied several trips to the repair man.

The ribbons just won't wind correctly for more than a week at a time. When that gem of an Underwood first gets back it runs like a clock for about one week's paper's worth and then reverts to its bad habits.

Like a dog chasing a cat, there just doesn't seem to be any permanent cure.

But I'm willing to put up with it. After all, it is a minor inconvenience. Dorothy has straightened that ribbon so many times over the years that she can do it in less than 30 minutes. (It used to take her an hour).

So as you can see it's hard to understand why she keeps saying that I should have a new machine.

Especially, when I'm saving all that money just for her.

The board also heard a presentation by Frank Lenard, Thumb Area Consortium Director, who explained a revamped CETA Title II program scheduled to go into effect in July.

Some commissioners felt their input was needed if cuts were to be made in the program, Cmmr. Maynard, McConkey said. The plan was referred to committee for study.

Commissioners also learned that little progress has been made in the grievance involving Deputy Ronald Fox. McConkey said Fox had been demoted about two years ago and filed a grievance.

The protest eventually made its way to a trial board which remanded it through the grievance procedure again.

McConkey said no settlement has yet been reached.

CONSIDER: THEN VOTE

1. THE REAL QUESTION

The real question facing the voters in the Cass City School District Monday is not whether or not money will be spent on athletic facilities for Cass City Schools. The real question is: will the money best be spent at the Cass City Recreational Park or for developing land already owned by the school for which there is no expansion need in the foreseeable future?

2. THE REAL COST

For each $1,000 of State Assessed Valuation taxpayers will be asked to pay $1.20 for two short years. That ends it all. Period.

The park development plan calls for money to be taken from the general fund over a period of years. Conceding that we live with inflation compounding at a very minimum of 6 per cent per year and it becomes apparent that costs for improvements will be far greater when completed "down the road" than if completed now.

3. WHAT ABOUT THE REGULAR CURRICULUM?

Money for development of the school site will be from that $1.20 per $1,000 valuation special voted funds. Not one more penny will be needed to be voted from the general fund of the school to get it going. The general fund is where the money comes for reading, writing and arithmetic... and, yes, for art, music and foreign language study, too.

All of the much needed (and sure to come, sooner or later) development at the park will come from the general fund under the present plan at the expense of another phase of the school program.

So a vote for the expansion at the school Monday becomes in reality a vote for a better, more varied curriculum for the entire student body.

4. WHAT ABOUT VANDALISM AND MAINTENANCE?

The Cass City Recreational Park is for the public and should be. Because it is, there have been repeated people problems there. Senseless vandalism almost impossible to stop because of easy access has been a problem that has defied solution.

A site at the school will be sealed off and not open for night use for any purpose other than school activities. At neighboring schools with facilities at the school, restrooms have been clean and evidently policing has been less of a problem than it has been at the park.

If the facilities belong to the school the school will be responsible for its care. At the park there will be a division of authority. The village will maintain and the school will pay. While there is no question that the village crew does a creditable job, a division of authority has never proved to be as efficient (and as economical) as single responsibility.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

1. Q. If this millage is turned down where will the new lights be put up?
A. At the park.
2. Q. What will lights cost?
A. Approximately $60,000.
3. Q. Will tax payers vote on this?
A. No. Board of Education will decide.
4. Q. Do we need more seating capacity at present location?
A. Yes.
5. Q. Who will pay for this?
A. If purchased, the School District.
6. Q. Will the track at the park be resurfaced in the future?
A. Quite possible.
Q. If present facility is maintained, what should we do with the land that belongs to the school?
A. ?
7. Q. Will taxpayers vote on this?
A. Probably not.
Q. Isn't it possible that in future years we could spend more money on the present site, than we would on the new facility which would be more convenient?
A. It's possible.
8. Q. Then it only makes sense to spend the money on school property.
A. Yes.
Q. How many students would the new facility serve?
A. 350 +.
9. Q. Is there school property available for an athletic facility?
A. Yes, there are approximately 25 acres of clear land behind the high school.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK
The congressman finds happiness

By Jim Ketchum

Status to a politician these days is measured in the number of affairs he's had during his career. Who was it that said the bigger they are the harder they fall?

The big ones are falling hard and fast these days and it looks as though the body collectors will be busy for a long time.

Take pity then, if you will, on Congressman Harvey Schnook. He was so non-descript that no one ever knew what his party affiliation was.

He tried desperately to start the affair he needed to catapult him into national prominence. Trouble was he was too shy to start one.

Congressman Schnook grew up in a household where nothing much exciting ever happened. As he grew up, his idea of an exciting time was watching the town's traffic light switch from stop and go to blinking.

Schnook's family was equally nondescript. When his uncle died, no one knew about it until three days after the funeral.

With that kind of a background, how did Schnook manage to find his way to Washington? It wasn't easy. He tried riding Harold Stassen's coattails and then switched to George McGovern.

When his opponents died after eating rubber chicken and peas, Schnook squeaked to victory over "uncommitted".

When Schnook arrived on the banks of the Potomac, he soon found out that what made most congressmen famous was what didn't find its way into print. He realized that status and power were measured by your "connections".

Schnook's problem was being unable to connect. He'd heard all about Wilbur Mills, Wayne Hays, John Kennedy and that crowd. His problem was how to emulate them.

He tried taking a girl to the Tidal Basin but when she didn't show up, jumped in and tried to hold his own head under water. It didn't work.

Then Congressman Schnook tried hiring two secretaries. Trouble was they were both so ugly, he couldn't decide which one to have the affair with. By the time he made up his mind, they'd already found other congressmen.

What was he doing wrong? After all, hadn't every president had an affair with somebody? What about all his House and Senate colleagues? How had they done so well?

Finally, he sought professional help.

"Why are you so uptight about not having an affair," his analyst asked. "I thought you wanted to be a congressman."

"I do," Schnook replied. "But isn't having an affair part of it? I mean, look at all my colleagues. Isn't it part of the job?"

"No, of course not," the analyst replied. "You can be a congressman without hanky-panky. Just represent your constituents as honestly as you can. Just be yourself."

"You mean there's nothing in the House rules about it?"

Wow, what a relief. I haven't been this happy since they installed two traffic lights in our town. This is great.

Schnook went on to serve his district well. Or at least as well as someone without a party affiliation can. Later, in tribute, the people of his hometown erected a statue in his behalf.

They put it in the most nondescript place they could find. Even the birds can't locate it.

He would have wanted it that way.

Owen-Gage seeks court action to force favorable MFC bond ruling

The Owen-Gage School board will go to court in an effort to win Municipal Finance Commission approval of its $1.675 million bond issue to construct a new high school.

The board okayed a resolution at a special meeting held Monday night in Gagetown instructing school attorney John Thomas to seek the action.

Supt. Ronald Erickson told the board and nearly 20 district residents who attended the meeting that the MFC's action may have been illegal and that it should be tested in court.

Erickson said the MFC's action, which "returned" the bond issue to the district last week, may be the first of its kind ever taken.

Trustees approved the resolution 6-0, with board secretary Fred Cooley abstaining. Erickson also reported that an appeal of the Ellenbaum transfer decision by the Huron Intermediate Board of Education is on the docket in Huron County Circuit Court. Judge Allen E. Keyes will preside. No date for the case has been set, the superintendent said.

The possibility of more land transfers to neighboring districts continues to cast shadows over the bond issue. Erickson said the State Board of Education could continue to chop away at Owen-Gage until there would not be enough land left to support the issue's cost.

Trustee Jack Brinkman suggested such action might be grounds for a law suit against the state board.

"The state board is attempting to cripple us," Erickson said. "There is a possibility that what the MFC did (delaying the bond issue before returning it) was wrong. It is interesting to note that Dr. Porter (State School Supt. Dr. John Porter) didn't vote no on our bonds as he was instructed. They may be seeing the error of their ways."

SUMMER BASKETBALL PROGRAM

The board approved starting a summer basketball program following a request from head basketball coach Phil Gray.

Gray said the program would run three nights a week for five weeks from 7:00-8:30 p.m. at the Gagetown gym. Gray said participation would be strictly voluntary.

He said the program may involve a tournament at the conclusion of the session. Other schools who may participate are Kingston, Lakers, Caseville and Akron-Fair-grove.

While okaying the program, the board took no action on hiring an assistant basketball coach. The job opened after Gray was promoted to head coach.

A decision is expected at the next meeting.

Athletic director James Barr requested an okay to work toward realigning the North Central Thumb League by including Akron-Fair-grove.

Barr said the move would expand the league to nine teams. He said Akron-Fair-grove wanted to join a league with schools more its own size. The request was approved.

LAYOFFS

Three tenured Owen-Gage teachers have been notified that they face possible layoffs if student numbers and funds are lacking in September, Erickson reported.

He said the move does not formally lay off the teachers and they are not considered "pink-slipped" as are five non-tenured teachers. He said it is possible to rehire some pink-slipped teachers and not take back a tenured teacher, based on requirements of the district.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, a new Owen-Gage Citizens Committee, designed to promote the district, reported on several meetings held recently.

The group will meet with citizens from 11 other districts at a meeting scheduled Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Gagetown gym.

Committee members have also started a newsletter. Board President Ronald Good commended the citizens group.

The board agreed to establish a library fund which would exist through voluntary contributions.

Trustee Joseph Warack said he would donate his

MRS. RUTH SMITH, Evergreen Elementary School Principal, poses with grandson, Lane Smith, 2, beside a bicentennial quilt presented as a gift to Mrs. Smith by Evergreen area families last week. The 85 by 80-inch creation features 36 blocks on a side, each personalized by one of the families.

CHEERLEADERS

The board approved spending $200 on new sweaters and emblems for varsity cheerleaders. The action came following a long discussion on whether or not the school should buy the clothing.

Trustee Jack Laurie said he was uneasy about voting the appropriation since band members had to raise money for their own uniforms. He said the action could open the gates for other student groups seeking money.

The board also okayed putting cheerleading expenses in the athletic budget as a line item which would be subject to board approval.

It was pointed out that presently, all athletic uniforms are owned by the school, including cheerleading uniforms.

Boards turn down transfers

There were no surprises recorded when a combined Huron-Tuscola Intermediate Board of Education ruled on two land transfers involving the Owen-Gage School District, Wednesday, June 2, in a public hearing at Bad Axe.

In one proposal, the board defeated a request to transfer a large parcel of land from Owen-Gage to Cass City. The property has a State Equalized Valuation (SEV) of $775,000 and involves 28 students.

The request was rejected by a 5-4 count.

The second transfer hearing was an attempt by the Owen-Gage district to have the Ellenbaum transfer returned to the school system from the Laker District. The land was originally transferred by the State Board of Education in May of 1975, and carries an SEV of $1.65 million.

The request was defeated by a 4-1 margin.

About 100 persons from the affected areas attended the hearing.

It was noted that persons who were denied transfers have 10 days to file an appeal.

Millage, candidates face Owen-Gage voters

Owen-Gage School District voters will choose three trustees and decide a millage renewal question when they go to the polls next Monday in the annual school election.

Seeking re-election is current Board President Ronald Good of Owendale. Good has served the past two years as board president and is a veteran of school affairs.

Also seeking a four-year term is Donald Cummings of Gagetown. Cummings is running for the board post being vacated by Fred Cooley, who announced his retirement recently. Cooley is a 16-year veteran on the board.

Mrs. Leona LaFave, Gagetown, is running to fill out the remaining one year of former board member Eldon Dietzel's term. Mrs. LaFave was appointed to the board following Dietzel's resignation last summer.

Voters will also be asked to renew 6.5 mills for operation for two years. Two other millages totaling 9.25 mills, expire in 1977.

Balloting will be held at the Elmwood Township Hall in Gagetown. Polls are open from 7:00 a.m.-8:00 p.m.

The average man's idea of a good sermon is one that goes over his head—and hits one of his neighbors.

BETTER HEALTH

Male contraception

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

If it were not for male vanity, attempts to slow down the population explosion might be a much less difficult undertaking than it is.

There are still too many parts of the world where a man is considered worthy to be called such only if his wife is more or less permanently pregnant. If too many months intervene between giving birth and renewed evidence of another on the way, barroom banter promptly labels the husband as less than a man. Only when she has again conceived does the delinquent become assured of his male force.

This variety of male chauvinism has not only impeded the use of the contraceptive pill by women in such countries but has made efforts to influence male fertility almost entirely unacceptable.

Until recently, interruption of transmission of sperm by the male could be absolutely insured only by vasectomy. This operation, in which the sperm channel leading up from the testicle is divided and tied off, effectively prevents sperm from finding its way into the male ejaculation. The latter can take place quite normally but the fertile action does not take place.

Now there promises to be a simple technique to suppress fertility in the male. It does not require surgery; yet, as with vasectomy, it has no undesirable effect on the normal male sexual drive or capacity to perform.

From the Department of Reproductive Biology at the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia, Mo., it is reported that exposing the testicles for a few minutes to high frequency ultrasound waves selectively stops the production of spermatozoa.

Dr. M.S. Fahrin successfully treated five men, all of whom had cancer of the prostate, and were scheduled for surgical removal of their testicles. Each received a dosage of 100,000 cycles per second for two 10-minute periods, which he estimated would stop sperm production for a period of one to two years.

Treatment was administered in a special chair designed to hold the patients' testicles in a cup filled with water which served as a transmitting medium for the vibrations emitted from an ultrasonic source.

It has long been recognized that heating the testicles reduced its sperm-producing capacity. Although the mechanism by which ultrasound suppresses sperm production is unknown, Dr. Fahrin considers it to be the combined effect of generated heat and mechanical vibration. The procedure is entirely painless and the suppression of sperm production is complete several weeks after treatment.

How long the effect lasts and whether or not it is reversible is not known, but Dr. Fahrin is encouraged by the results thus far. It is planned to continue his research and to select the patients from among men who are seeking vasectomies.

To have available an effective technique to suppress male fertility which is entirely painless and non-invasive could overcome much of the resistance to currently available methods. But there will also have to be a modification of the male chauvinistic notion that multiple pregnancies in his household are the only sure signs that a man is really a man.

I'd kick Hays out

The furor raised by the alleged love affair between Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio and a secretary at taxpayer expense has included calls that Hays be removed as a member of the House of Representatives. He has already resigned as chairman of one important committee.

If you could act as an absolute ruler, what would you do about Hays?

Mrs. Enid Craig of Cass City says she'd kick him out of the House.

"If he wanted to have a mistress, fine, but not as a taxpayer expense," she says. "I'd kick him out and a lot of the others because they're doing the same thing."

Mrs. Craig says she favors letting the power of the press come to bear on public officials and expose any who may be violating their trusts.

She says anyone who does something wrong and becomes involved in a scandal should suffer the consequences.

"They asked for it," she says.

Mrs. Craig is a lifelong resident of Cass City. She has been an employee of the Cass City School District for the past nine years.

AROUND THE FARM
OSHA farm machine rules told
By William Bortel

As of June 7, all Michigan farmers who hire farm labor must comply with the new Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations on proper guarding of all moving machinery parts.

The law covers all new and old field equipment and stationary farmstead machinery. Most of the requirements stem from a common sense approach to protect the farmer, his employees and family members from potential accidents.

While most of the new regulations concern new machinery, there are three areas in which the farmer has new responsibilities:

Adequate guarding for power take-off drives on all farm and field equipment, regardless of the date of manufacture or purchase.

The power drive line between the tractor and an implement must be completely guarded when the equipment is being operated.

This guarding must include a master shield on the tractor PTO, except when the shield would interfere with the proper operation of the trailing implement. If the guarding devices or shield have been lost or damaged beyond repair, new PTO guards must be installed before the equipment can be operated by an employee.

OSHA standards dictate that these guards must provide protection equivalent to the guards originally provided by the manufacturer.

Also, on all farm field or farmstead equipment where removal of a guard or access door will expose an employee to a component which continues to rotate after power has been disengaged, a sign shall be placed in the immediate area warning the employee to look and listen for evidence of rotation, and not to remove the guard or access door until all components have stopped.

Guards, shields, and their supports shall be capable of withstanding the force that a 250-pound person, leaning on or falling against the guard, would exert upon that guard.

This requirement affects new machinery manufactured on or after June 7.

A visible or audible warning of continued rotation, after power is removed, is required on new machinery manufactured after June 7.

Safety training and education on equipment the employee operates shall be given no later than June 7, 1976, and at least annually thereafter.

The complete agricultural guarding standard is available in OSHA regional and area offices. Michigan's regional office address is: Region V, U.S. Department of Labor, 230 S. Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill. 60604 (toll free telephone number: 1-800-621-0523).

On farm field machines, functional components must be fully guarded so they will not substantially interfere with crop and soil conditions. This includes snapping and husking rolls, straw spreaders and choppers, flail rotors, rotary beaters, mixing augers, feed rolls, auger conveyors, rotary tillers, broadcast star distributor wheels and similar units.

On farmstead equipment, functional components such as choppers, rotary beaters, feed rolls, mixing augers or paddles, auger conveyors, grain spreaders, stirring augers, bin sweep augers, and feed augers must be likewise guarded.

The law requires that silo surface unloaders and similar equipment must have a guard placed no more than 12 inches above the silage surface and no less than six inches in front of and parallel to the rotating gathering mechanism.

Exposed auger flighting on portable grain auger elevators must have grated or solid baffle style covers. Grated guards shall have the largest opening no more than 4 3/4 inches long. Each individual rectangular opening cannot be larger than 10 square inches but no closer than 2 1/2 inches to the rotating auger.

Slotted openings in solid baffle style guards shall be no wider than 1 1/2 inches or looser than 3 1/2 inches to the exposed auger.

Here is a summary of the OSHA guarding standard, effective date June 7:

It is the responsibility of the farm employer to insure immediately that tractors, farm field and farmstead equipment have been equipped with adequate PTO GUARDS.

Signs shall be placed at prominent locations on all tractors and all PTO-driven equipment specifying that power drive system safety shields must be kept in place.

Also, on all farm field or farmstead equipment where removal of a guard or access door will expose an employee to a component which continues to rotate after power has been disengaged, a sign shall be placed in the immediate area warning the employee to look and listen for evidence of rotation, and not to remove the guard or access door until all components have stopped.

Guards, shields, and their supports shall be capable of withstanding the force that a 250-pound person, leaning on or falling against the guard, would exert upon that guard.

This requirement affects new machinery manufactured on or after June 7.

A visible or audible warning of continued rotation, after power is removed, is required on new machinery manufactured after June 7.

Safety training and education on equipment the employee operates shall be given no later than June 7, 1976, and at least annually thereafter.

The complete agricultural guarding standard is available in OSHA regional and area offices. Michigan's regional office address is: Region V, U.S. Department of Labor, 230 S. Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill. 60604 (toll free telephone number: 1-800-621-0523).

Strawberries provide vitamin C and can be eaten as a fruit or combined with cream, shortcake, jello, dips, cakes, pies, and jams. Try this strawberry-pineapple marmalade.

Combine 2 1/2 cups finely chopped, cored, pared fresh pineapple with 1 teaspoon grated orange peel, 2 1/2 cups chopped orange pulp and 7 cups of sugar.

Bring slowly to boiling, stirring occasionally until sugar dissolves. Cook rapidly 15 minutes.

Add 1 1/2 quarts stemmed strawberries and continue cooking rapidly until thick, about 20 to 30 minutes. As mixture thickens, stir frequently to prevent sticking. Pour, boiling hot into hot jars.

Adjust caps. Process in water-bath for 10 minutes. Yield about 6 half-pints.

Strawberries can be frozen whole, sliced, crushed, puree or as a juice in a syrup pack, a sugar pack or unsweetened. For complete freezing information write Allene Mills, Extension Home Economist, Cooperative Extension Service, Caro or Phone 517-673-3161.

County records bloody week as three die in separate crashes

A CASS CITY driver miraculously walked away from the cab of this tanker-trailer after it was struck by a train on Dickerson Road south of Unionville Monday afternoon. William Chippi, 20, told Sheriff's officers the brakes apparently failed on the rig, hauling 7,200 gallons of gasoline.

David Samuel Gray, driver of one of the cars, was pronounced dead on arrival at Caro Community Hospital.

According to Caro State Police who investigated, the Gray vehicle was westbound on Dixon Road when it was hit broadside by a northbound car driven by Rickey Duane Monchilov, 18, of Akron.

Monchilov was treated for cuts and bruises at Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital.

Police noted that the Monchilov vehicle left 150-foot skid marks before the crash took place.

Officers noted that there are no traffic signs at the intersection. The accident took place at 3:15 p.m.

A 13-year-old Caro youth was killed Thursday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car on M-81, about two miles southwest of Caro.

Sheriff's deputies identified the victim as Ali John Halac of Caro. They said a car driven by Carol Jean Hempton, 36, Vassar, was westbound on M-81 when the boy emerged from a driveway and rode into the vehicle's path.

Ms. Hempton reportedly veered to the left in an effort to avoid a collision without success. The impact took place near the center of the road, officers noted.

The vision of both Ms. Hempton and the youth was blocked by a row of trees along the driveway, the report said.

The accident took place at 5:18 p.m.

ESCAPES INJURY

A Cass City man miraculously escaped serious injury late Monday afternoon when the gasoline tank truck he was driving struck a moving train on Dickerson Road, three miles southwest of Unionville.

Sheriff's deputies reported the tank truck, driven by William Duane Chippi, 20, of 4607 Huron St., was eastbound when it struck the engine of the train shortly before 5:00 p.m.

Chippi told officers he tried to stop but the truck's brakes apparently failed. The truck rolled into a ditch on the northwest side of the crossing, spilling about half of its 7,200 gallon load.

Firemen from Akron-Fairgrove reportedly stood by for nearly five hours while workers cleared the scene. Amazingly, no fire broke out.

Neither Chippi nor the train's engineer, John Aukoviak, 47, Bay City, or conductor, Jim Steiner of Midland, was injured.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

An 18-year-old Cass City driver escaped with minor injuries Saturday morning when his car went out of control and landed in a ditch on Dutcher Road, about nine miles southwest of Cass City.

Sheriff's deputies said Edward Paul Neal II of 4923 Milligan Rd. was eastbound on Dutcher Road when the vehicle crossed the roadway and went into a ditch on the north side of the road, sideswiping a traffic sign in the process.

Neal sought his own medical treatment. No ticket was issued. The accident took place at 5:00 a.m.

Two car-deer accidents were reported. A car driven by Theodore D. Robinson Jr., 23, of Bevens Rd., Deford, struck a deer on Cemetery Road four and a half miles south of Cass City Friday night.

Sheriff's deputies reported Robinson was southbound when the deer ran from the west across the road. Robinson was not injured. The accident took place at 11:05 a.m.

A car driven by Patricia Lynn Holcomb, 21, of 2284 McArthur Rd., Deford, struck a deer on Deckerville Road, two miles northwest of Caro, Friday.

Sheriff's deputies said Ms. Holcomb was eastbound when the deer jumped in front of the vehicle from the south side of the road. The driver was not injured. The accident took place at 1:10 a.m.

A three-year-old Detroit girl was shaken up Monday in a two-car accident near the intersection of Main and Seger Street in Cass City around 12:30 p.m.

Cass City Police said a car driven by Billy Jo Simmons, 47, of Phillips Rd., Kingston, was westbound on Main Street and attempted a right turn from the left-hand lane, striking another westbound vehicle driven by Lloyd William Raatz, 62, of Detroit.

Phyllis Raatz, 3, was treated by a private physician. No ticket was issued.

Two drivers were uninjured Thursday when their cars collided at the intersection of Church and Oak Streets in Cass City.

Cass City Police who investigated said a car driven north on Oak Street by Allyn Hartwick, 20, of 6653 Seed St., was struck by a westbound car driven by Patricia Gee, 51, of 4696 Hunt St.

Police said the Gee vehicle apparently failed to yield. No ticket was issued. The accident took place at 4:15 p.m.

Dr. Jeung begins Cass City practice

served as a house physician at Northwest Hospital.

While Chicago offered him the medical training and experience he needed, it just wasn't for them.

"I was afraid to let my little boy go outside and play," he said. "The grocery store was only a block from our apartment but we were afraid to walk to it. We had to move."

They looked at Dayton, Ohio, and New Jersey before deciding to come to Saginaw in July, 1973.

Presently, he is completing his chief residency at Saginaw General Hospital. At this point, doctors must decide what they want to do with their future.

"I thought about a partnership but decided I preferred to work alone," he said. "Then we started looking around for a place to locate. We wanted a small town that was a good place to live."

Through friends, he heard about Cass City. Once here, he said he liked what he saw.

"You can consider yourselves very fortunate because you have a doctor in internal medicine, an obstetrician, a pediatrician," he said.

With Jeung's arrival, Cass City now has a general surgeon as well.

His philosophy of surgery involves getting to know the patient and having patients know him before anyone goes under the knife.

"Too often, you go to a hospital for surgery, the surgeon comes in having never seen you before, does the surgery and then leaves," he said. "If something happens or if the family has a question, no one can answer it because the surgeon has left."

"While the surgery is important, I believe that pre-op and post-op procedures are more important. The surgeon knows about his patient, can watch his recovery and can monitor him at office visits afterward."

He has performed over 600 major surgeries since his graduation from medical school in 1966.

Dr. Jeung will practice in the Hills and Dales Medical Center clinic located at 4672 Hill St., across from Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Dr. Jeung and his wife, Yunhee, have two children, Andrew, 7, and Jeffrey, 2.

Michigan health officials rush to beat flu outbreak

FLU COMING?

Nearly 60 years ago -- before antibiotics and immunization programs -- a flu epidemic brought the touch of death to 2 percent of families in this country each month. Today, Michigan's Public Health Department is racing against time, trying to immunize people as part of a federal program aimed against preventing another possible flu outbreak. "We don't know if the flu is coming," says a health department spokesman. "And we don't even know that it would be a problem if it did. But the prevention is better than taking the chance."

Immunizing shots against so-called "swine flu" are expected to begin sometime later this summer, when a special bivalent (acting against swine flu and another strain at the same time) vaccine is made available. That vaccine is aimed at high risk persons, such as older folks in nursing homes. Later in the year, and it's not known at this point exactly when, a monovalent (dealing with swine flu alone) vaccine is expected to be available in Michigan.

When that vaccine comes, there's to be an all out push to administer it to any and all who will take the medicine. "The real problem is getting organized," says the health department representative. "We have to get the doctors, nurses, volunteers to man large free public clinics."

They also have to get the needed equipment -- needles, syringes, even "guns" to administer the shots. Michigan has asked federal authorities for several of the guns, which reportedly administer the vaccine through the skin more quickly and less uncomfortably than with a needle.

There's no firm date yet as to when the vaccine will be available.

Will Michigan's drinking age be raised back closer to the age of 21 as it used to be? If the Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems (MICAP) has anything to say about it, the answer is yes.

MICAP reports results of a recent survey of high school principals, which found only 8 percent of those responding (438 of the 750 queried responded) who said they favored keeping the drinking age at 18.

Another 31 percent said boost it to 19, 9 percent said make it 20 and 52 percent said change it back to 21.

Warning of a "trickle down" effect is Allen B. Rice, executive director of the council.

"Records from the Michigan State Police have shown a dramatic jump in alcohol-related accidents among the 18 to 20 year olds," he says. "But this is not the main reason we favor the move to raise the legal drinking age. The primary reason for our endorsement of this idea is our concern for the impact of the lower drinking age on teenagers under 18 years."

Today, 26 states have a legal drinking age of 18, 24 states and the District of Columbia have 19 or older as their drinking age. California, the largest state, still maintains a 21-year-old legal drinking age. A bill has been introduced in the Michigan Legislature to hike the state's drinking age to 19.

Deer Take High

The hunters had a field day. Michigan's Department of Natural Resources reports that the 1975 fire-arm deer season was the most successful ever for buck hunters. "A record number of bucks -- 96,890 -- were taken last year, which exceeded the previous season high in 1946 when 89,470 bucks were harvested in the state," says Dave Arnold, DNR deer specialist.

Another 10,080 antlerless deer were taken during the season -- meaning that about one of the seven hunters, according to a postcard survey -- brought home venison. Arnold says the total harvest exceeds his "very liberal" preseason estimate of 100,000 animals.

The total number of fire-arm deer hunters in 1975, 710,000, also was a record. The high in 1974 was 657,500.

Caro man enters LSD plea

A Caro man who was awarded the right to a new trial by the Michigan Court of Appeals entered a guilty plea to possession of the drug LSD when he appeared in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday before presiding Judge Martin Clements.

A new trial was ordered for Joseph Payne following an earlier jury conviction on a charge of delivering LSD.

Payne's guilty plea to the reduced charge was accepted and Clements sentenced the defendant to a one-year jail term which he had already served.

Payne was originally arrested in May, 1974, in Indianfields township.

In another case heard Monday, Byron E. Hatch, 18, Millington, was sentenced following a guilty plea to unlawfully driving away an automobile to fines, costs and 15 days in the Tuscola County Jail.

Hatch was ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $400. His jail term will begin next Monday at 9:00 a.m. He was arrested in Watertown township Nov. 14.

Jury trials for Bernard Stratton, Deford, charged with conspiracy to break and enter a Kingston service station, and Gerald A. Essex Jr., 19, Caro, charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling, were ordered Monday.

Stratton was arrested Feb. 23, in connection with a break-in at Moore's Service Station in Kingston. Essex was apprehended Feb. 17, following a break-in in Wells township.

Students strive to repay ed loans

Do students take out loans, finish their educations and then say "Forget it" -- refusing to repay the money they've borrowed?

No sir, at least not where Michigan's Guaranteed Loan Program is concerned, reports the state Department of Education.

Of the more than $80 million in student loans that have matured since the program began 14 years ago, only slightly more than six-tenths of 1 percent have been officially written off as losses.

"There's no question that the default rate is up--this past year it stood at around 7 percent, versus 3.5 percent in 1970--but when you view the program as a whole, and especially the fact that almost all defaulted loans are eventually repaid, you find very few instances in which a student was actually trying to renege on his or her commitment," says Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of public instruction.

It's the life of a farmer for '76 graduate Pat Moore

By Jim Ketchum

Pat Moore walked from the barn, wiping her forehead. She'd been driving a tractor in the hot afternoon sun for about four hours and she was ready for a break.

"Do you mind if we don't go inside the house?" she asked. "I'd just as soon sit under the shade trees and relax."

Miss Moore, 19, is a farmer. She's also a 1976 graduate of Cass City High School. Together with her uncle, Lee Day, they work 160 acres in Grant township, about seven miles north of Cass City on Maharg Road.

She began farming in earnest this summer for the first time. In past years, her father, Howard Moore, had operated the farm with Day.

But Moore died suddenly a few days before last Christmas. Her mother died in 1969.

Miss Moore immediately found herself responsible for her life, her 10-year-old sister, Ruth Ellen, and a larger share of the farm than ever before.

She took it in stride. "Dad's death really didn't phase me that much," she recalled as she sat back in the cool grass under several large maple trees in her front yard.

"Sure, it was a shock, but it really didn't make me fall apart or anything. I'd thought before he died that maybe I might stay around the farm for awhile until I got married or something. But afterward, I decided I would stay, for now anyway."

Farming wasn't something entirely new for Miss Moore. She's lived on the land all her life and had as much knowledge of the operation as anyone else raised on a farm.

This year was different because it meant lots of hours working the fields—something she hadn't done that much before.

"There really isn't that much to it," Miss Moore said. "Actually, it gets kind of boring because all you do is sit there and drive."

You also get sunburned, judging by the color of her arms and face.

But crop farming is only part of it. She and her uncle also have 20 milk cows along with other livestock. That takes more time, patience and work.

Her typical day begins around 6:00 or 6:30 a.m. A clear day means a lot of field work ahead after morning chores are out of the way. Sometimes she doesn't get to the fields until early afternoon.

"One day this week I was out there from about one until nine or so," she said. "It depends on whether or not we're behind. Once we get things planted, then it won't be quite as hectic."

After supper, there may be time for a snatch of television and then to bed. She admits she doesn't have much free time these days.

When it rains, there's time to catch up on housework or make some machinery repairs. She admits she still has a lot to learn about balky tractors, cultivators and discs.

"My dad was the mechanic," she said. "When he was here and something broke down, he could fix it right away. Now when something breaks down, I generally have to wait for my uncle to fix it."

But she's learning. Chasing down parts and making minor repairs come easier now.

I'M A PERSON

Miss Moore doesn't think being a farmer makes a woman any less feminine or deprives her of a chance to enjoy life.

"I consider myself a person," she said. "I never considered myself as having to be liberated. Personally, I don't see any loss of femininity connected with it."

She says she's always enjoyed living on the farm, especially the peace and quiet when the day is through.

Still, she admits that farming isn't something she plans to do the rest of her life.

"Someday I might like to live in a town like Cass City," she said. "Or maybe I'd like to move up north eventually. I'm really not sure what I might do."

So far, she's taken farming in the same stride she's taken the other major adjustments in her life caused by the death of her parents early in her life.

She pays household bills and handles grocery shopping as well as a few of the other farm expenses. Her uncle still guides her when it comes to major purchases, such as fertilizer or seed.

Miss Moore says she doesn't mind farm life, but says someday she'd like to get married and raise a family. Would she mind if her husband were a farmer?

Not really. "If he's decent and honest and provides enough money to support us, I don't care what kind of job he has," she says.

Even if he's a farmer.

PAT MOORE of rural Cass City is a farm girl and plans on sticking with farming for awhile at least. A 1976 Cass City High School graduate, she plans to keep working 160 acres in Grant township in partnership with her uncle, following the death of her father last December.

Thieves loot Cass City cabin

Thieves looted a cabin near Cass City last week, making off with an estimated $1,500 in property, Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported this week.

The cabin, located at 3642 Crawford Rd., and owned by Fred Millis of Pontiac, was hit by thieves sometime between May 30 and Saturday.

Officers said entry was gained by removing a pane of glass in a door window and unlocking the door.

Once inside, the culprits made off with a chain saw, color TV, a radio, fishing tackle, a quantity of food and $24 in change.

The cabin reportedly sits back about a half-mile in a wooded area.

Police have no suspects. Three trucks were reported vandalized at Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds Monday. Police said mirrors on three trucks and a windshield on one of the vehicles were broken, probably with a rock.

No dollar loss was available.

Larry Shagena of Cass City reported a 50-foot garden hose taken from his residence Saturday. The hose was valued at $20.

No suspects have been arrested.

CLASP... OR GRASP

When two hands are joined in the expression of friendship, love, marriage — that's a clasp.

Of course, we have another word: grasp. Little affection implied. Determination to seize, to control. To a sensitive mind grasp suggests GREED.

And does clasp, to a sensitive mind, suggest CLING? It was Our Lord who said of marriage that "a man shall leave his mother and father and cling to his wife, and they shall be one."

The Church provides the spiritual resources to strengthen marriage, to make firmer the bonds of family.

Get tougher with criminals, voters say

MARIE ROCH, Zonta Club treasurer, accepts a check for $1,000 as partial pledge payment from the Cass City Lions Club toward the new municipal swimming pool. Presenting the check is Chuck Guinther, Lions Club president.

If you figure the courts have gone too far in protecting law-breakers, you're not alone. Three-quarters of the Michigan population agrees.

And if you go a step farther, believing that the courts are too lenient in their dealings with defendants, you're still with the majority of fellow Michiganders. Some 60 percent say the same thing.

Such are the results of a scientific survey conducted at the request of the Office of Criminal Justice Programs.

(Three years ago, 58 percent felt the courts had gone too far in protecting those who violate laws, and 55 percent said they felt the courts were too lenient.)

asked of survey participants. 60 percent opposed a handgun ban, there was a near even split (46 percent for, 47 percent against) on legalizing casino gambling, and 64 percent said they favored use of capital punishment in specified cases.

IT'S FAIR TIME!

In the "good ol' days", Grandma tied on her frilliest bonnet. Grandpa hitched the horses to the wagon, and off they clippety-clopped to the county fair.

The bonnet's generally missing these days, and the buggy is made of metal and chrome. But the fairs aren't too far a cry from those of our forebearers.

In line with these feelings, just over one-half of the 800 surveyed said they'd do away with the system that lets judges decide just how long a person's jail sentence should be.

They said they'd abolish judicial discretion and put mandatory sentencing with increasing severity for multiple offenders-in its place.

Plea bargaining, a prevalent practice whereby a person agrees to guilt for a crime of lesser degree than the one he's charged with, found disfavor with those surveyed. 71 percent disapproved.

Personal ownership of handguns, casino gambling and the death penalty also were included in the myriad of questions

Fair season opens in Michigan this year July 1, with the first of 85 county, 4-H and agricultural fairs--and two state fairs--being held at Lake Odessa.

"There's something of interest for everyone", says Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball. "Animal shows, agricultural, educational and commercial exhibits, family entertainment, prize-winning contests and midway rides are major attractions."

Ball notes too that fairs provide "an excellent opportunity for a friendly exchange between consumers and the producers of Michigan's agricultural bounty."

The Pine, Pere Marquette and Big and Little Manistee rivers offer canoeists a variety of activities in trips ranging from two hours to 10 days. All are prime trout streams and the Big Manistee, Pere Marquette and Pine are being studied for wild-scenic river designations. National and state forest campgrounds, city parks and a good selection of canoe livery are located on each stream. The Pine near Wellston is rated for experienced paddlers with a day-long trip from Dobson Bridge on 48 1/2-mile Road to Low Bridge below Stronach Dam the most popular stretch. Most Pere Marquette canoeists start at the M-37 bridge south of Baldwin for the four-hour journey to Bowman's Bridge at Carrs Road. The widest section of the Big Manistee is below Sharon, particularly where it meets the Pine south of Mesick.

Work, fun, learning—all part of student-built Ubly home

Take 27 students, an assortment of lumber, bricks, nails and paint, and nine months, what have you got? If you do it right, you've got a three-bedroom ranch-type home.

That's what the Ubly High School Home Construction class has got. The students were putting the finishing touches on the fourth home built under the Huron County Shared Time program in as many years this week.

And according to the students and their instructor, they're just as proud of this one as any ever built.

The students began the home, located at Ubly's south village limits, last fall. According to Hilary Cook, guidance counselor, the basement was sub-contracted in order to give the class a good start before cold weather set in.

"We wanted it framed in by November," Cook explained. "If you don't have it that far along by then, it gets mighty cold having to work outside."

Cook said students from all schools in the Huron Intermediate district can participate in the home construction class, held at Ubly and at Laker High School.

The 27 students at Ubly are split into two sessions, morning and afternoon. Each class spends nearly three hours a day working on the house.

The students do everything from framing to finish work. Sometimes doors may not fit exactly right or paint might get smudged on a ceiling beam. But that's part of learning, both Cook and Jerry Herp, instructor, agree.

Each year, students construct either a two-bedroom or three-bedroom home, depending on the design approved by an advisory committee before the school year begins.

While many of the students who enroll for the course plan on entering the building trades when they graduate from high school, others get involved simply because they want to know more about house construction.

Steve Cook, Bad Axe, one of the students, says even though his father is a carpenter and that he already has a job lined up, he still wanted to take the course.

"I don't think my time was wasted here," he says. "You find out there's a lot more to it than you think. The finish work is probably the hardest part."

A nearby group of fellow students agreed—finish work is tough.

"You can get by when you're roughing it in," Herp said. "But when it comes to the finish work, that's when you've got to be on."

Herp says if five or six really talented carpenters emerge from the classes each year, he considers it an accomplishment.

Students are graded on a scale of A through F, Cook said.

"We set up a certain number of objectives each year when we start the courses and we judge against those whether or not a student is proficient."

As this week began, the major job still waiting was carpeting. That was scheduled to be done by mid-week. Painting and door finishing were also underway this week.

Agricultural students put the finishing touches on the lawn and other landscaping work Monday. The concrete driveway was poured last week.

Fred Duggan, Bad Axe, one of the home construction students, said the training he's received has been valuable. He says someday he'd like to try building his own home. "If I had enough money,"

"You take pride in it," he said. "It's been a lot of work, but it's been fun."

There hasn't been that much time to goof off either, Cook said.

"Look around," he said. "Does this look like we've been goofing off all year? This is work."

The class consists of about half juniors and half seniors, Herp said. Overall, the project has gone well, he says.

When the home is completed, it will be sold on sealed bids, guidance counselor Cook said.

"So far, we've got about $30,000 in material invested," he said. "Anything we make in the way of a profit goes back into the program. What equity we build goes toward starting another house next year."

He said borrowing for the program is done through the local bank in Ubly. It helps when one of the advisory committee members is a bank director, he said.

An open house is planned for next Sunday from 11 a.m.-2 p.m.

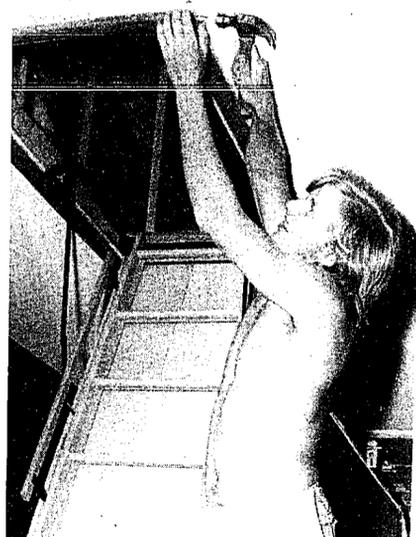

HILARY COOK, Ubly High School guidance counselor, and Home Construction instructor Jerry Herp discuss progress on the student-constructed home nearing completion in Ubly. The house is the fourth constructed by students under a shared-time program with other Huron county schools.

THIS THREE-BEDROOM home is the product of 27 students and was built during this past school year in Ubly. An open house is scheduled Sunday from 11 a.m.-2 p.m.

STEVE COOK, Bad Axe student, puts the finishing touches on a door casing in the student-built home in Ubly. Cook is one of 27 students who worked on the project.

JOHN RUTHKO, Ubly, attaches trim moulding around an attic door.

Letters to the Editor

Commissioners
lauded

June 7, 1976

Dear Editor,

We the members of the "Country Hicks" Farm Bureau Community Group would like to publicly say thank you to our county commissioners for not sitting with the union spokesman, Mitch Gradowski, when he refused to clean up his language in their meeting on May 7, as you reported in your paper.

We feel that language you reported is not the language of commerce that educated people should be able to use. We don't really know where it belongs. Our schools don't teach it! So why do people use it? We don't know. We do know that we don't like to hear this kind of talk.

So in closing once again we would like to say thank you, county commissioners for not putting up with a person that refuses to clean up his language. Keep your standards high and they will come to your level. The union should apologize for their treatment of our commissioners at this May 7 meeting.

Thank you for letting the "Country Hicks" express our feelings on this problem our county commissioners had with the union. The commissioners have a tough enough job to do without having to put up with that kind of talk.

Thank you,
David Moody

Spend funds on school property

June 4, 1976

Mr. John Haire
The Cass City Chronicle
6550 Main Street
Cass City, Michigan 48726

Dear Mr. Haire:

It seems to me that we have reached the point in time when a decision of utmost importance must be made by the Cass City School District.

The decision we make now regarding the Athletic Facility will stand for many years to come. In all likelihood at whichever location we invest our first expenditure, however small, logic will dictate that future expenditures be invested in the same location.

Until now the School District has not invested too much money at either location.

If it is our intent to invest School District funds in a complete Athletic facility that will be used for many years in the future we should consider very thoroughly whether this investment should be:

- On leased property away from the School or,
- On School property near the School where advantage of existing in-school facilities can be taken.

It appears the difference in costs of the overall investment at either location is small compared to the many years of inconvenience that will result by investing in a location away from the School.

In my mind the answer and our course of action is clear. School funds should be spent for facilities on school property.

Trinity UM women meet Monday

The last meeting of Trinity United Methodist Women met in the fellowship hall, Monday, June 7, for a nine o'clock breakfast.

There were 44 women and guests present. The breakfast was prepared by Group 5, chairmen, Hazel Gallagher, Mary Brach and Mary Hutchinson.

President, Mary Rexin, opened the meeting.

The group approved paying the expenses of 18 young persons who will be attending camp.

Rev. E.D.K. Isaacs, Peg Neitzel and Marian Keating attended the Methodist Conference at Adrian, last week. They related experiences and highlights of the conference.

Mrs. William O'Dell informed the group that she and her husband are making plans to charter a bus to attend a Billy Graham crusade to be held at Pontiac Stadium, Oct. 15-22. Anyone interested in attending should contact them.

Mrs. Rexin presented Rev. Isaacs with the book, "Born Again", by Charles Colson.

The hero of today is often the has-been of tomorrow.

Girls sweep to district softball toga

When it gets to be tournament time, Cass City girls get tough. They did it in volleyball and they are repeating in softball. Last Friday at Deckerville they won the district tournament with a pair of victories and made league champion Marlette one of the victims.

The wins moved them on to Clare Saturday where they play Alcona at 10 a.m. A victory would shove them into the finals against the winner of the Shepherd-Freeland game. This championship tilt is carded at 4 p.m.

Cass City scored early and often in the opener against the Red Raiders to win. All of the girls' scoring came in the first five innings and was enough to hold off a Marlette rally in the final three frames when the losers scored 10 of their 12 runs. Mary Fleming pitched the win, whiffing four and walking only two while allowing six hits. Lou Bourtin took the loss as she racked up four strikeouts and walked five. The Hawks were led by Fleming with 2 for 3 and Elaine Stoutenburg, who chalked up 2 hits including a triple.

That was the big one for Cass City. The championship game was a laughter as the Hawks rolled over the Lakers for the title, 14-3.

The game was decided in the first inning as the Hawk girls scored six times and then coasted in.

Karen Parker slammed a home run in 2 tries. Lisa Zimba rapped a triple and two hits in 2 tries and Sarah Wilson also had a perfect game at the plate with 2 for 2.

The line scores:

CC	443	310x	14-10-9
M	020	0325	12-6-13
CC	613	310x	14-10-3

Form followed as church loop swings into action

In the pre-season ratings in the Cass City Church League the Lutherans and Shabbona were named the teams to beat and in the opening night's action last Thursday form was followed.

The Lutherans kicked off the season with a 7-4 decision over the Baptists, but the game was much closer than the final score indicated. The losers extended the Lutherans into three extra innings before bowing.

Al Romig went the distance for the win and Gary Mellen-dorf took the loss. Ron Nurn-berger slapped a three-run triple in the sixth and Clarke Haire doubled to drive home the winning run in the 10th. Mike Lowe and Dean Hoag collected two hits each for the Baptists.

The nightcap was also a close, hard fought, extra-inning game. Shabbona edged the Methodists, 3-2, in nine innings. Dale Auslander pitched the win and Ed Stoutenburg suffered the tough defeat. Dean Severance doubled home the winning run in the ninth.

FRIDAY'S SLUGFESTS

In contrast to the opening night, the two games played Friday featured hits and plenty of them.

In the opener the Church of Christ outlasted Colwood, 14-11, and on the way the winners may have found a pitcher. Young Jeff Hartel saved the victory for starter Skip Speirs and may have pitched his way into the starting rotation. Dave Smith took the loss.

Besides showing his stuff on the mound, Hartel rapped two home runs among his four hits to lead the attack. Rick Smith rapped three hits for the losers.

In the nightcap a rejuvenated Deford club dished out warning signals to the rest of the league with a 13-4 walk-away over Lamotte. Louis Tibbits lost 40 pounds recently but the loss of weight evidently didn't cost him any power. He and Greg Reynolds each hit home runs for Deford while John Taylor had three hits.

Alvin McKee was the winning pitcher and Marv Fishell took the loss.

MONDAY GAMES

The always-strong Catholics opened the season with a 9-5 decision over Missionary. The game started like it was to be a slugfest as each team scored three runs in the first, but after that the players settled down to make it a game.

The Catholics' all-around strength proved too much for Missionary. Joe Mellendorf allowed just one hit but was victimized by poor support. In a rare sight, a Catholic player struck out and on the same play scored. The throw to first was wild after the catcher dropped the third strike and before the ball was recovered the batter had raced all the way around.

Paul Bliss was the winning pitcher. Jim Brown hit a home run for the losers.

In the final game of the week, Deford continued to roll with a 12-5 decision over Colwood. Alvin McKee bested Dave Smith. Bernie Babich and Greg Reynolds hit home runs and Dave Doerr collected three hits for Deford. Cybulski hit a round-tripper and Dave Smith had two hits for Colwood.

Low caps brilliant career as all-star

The Thumb B League baseball season officially closed last week with the selection of the all-conference team and the official league standings. Ken Lowe of Cass City was honored for the second straight year. The Cass City senior led the team at the plate with an average of .383 and in extra base hits in the 18-game season.

The remainder of the all-star squad is:

Pitchers - Jim Loeding, Sandusky, and Dan Boylan, Caro.

Infielders - Rick Maurer, Lakers; Dean Moody, Vassar; Dave VanBehren, Frankenmuth; Ken Lowe, Cass City.

Outfielders - Kurt Below, Bad Axe; Steve Coulter, Marlette; Don Wade, Vassar.

There was no second team. Honorable mention honors were earned by Mike Gruber, Tom Smentek and Jeff Hartel.

TOURNEY GAME

The Hawks were eliminated from the State tournament in the first game, 11-10. It was played in a steady light rain that made good baseball impossible. Hawk hurlers walked 9 and Mayville pitchers issued 12 passes as the water-soaked ball was impossible to control.

bi-centennial

A premier doubleheader softball game between the Cass City Merchants and Day's Sanitary of Pontiac will open the new softball field and open the Cass City observance of the bicentennial.

The games, with one of the better teams in the state, will start at 6 p.m. Friday, July 23, kicking off three days of bicentennial celebration in Cass City.

The Day's Sanitary group will be led by outfielder Jim Gosger, formerly of the 1972 World champion New York Mets baseball team, according to Lee Hartel. Craig Helwig is responsible for getting the Sanitary team to Cass City. "They are probably the third best AA team in the nation," Helwig said.

"They have two outstanding pitchers in the Gaffner brothers, Milo and Willy," Hartel said. "They won the Softball National Championship in 1974 and it will be fun to see what our Cass City Merchants can do against them. Cass City, you know, has an excellent team too."

The Cass City team features the pitching and catching of Craig Helwig and Henry Cooklin respectively. Jerry Toner, Don Galbraith and Henry Cooklin provide much of the hitting punch.

"It's going to be a very interesting pair of games and area softball fans should enjoy the evening," Hartel said. "We are especially pleased to be able to play the game on the new field east of the football field. And of course, it will open the bicentennial celebration here in Cass City."

Jack Esau, chairman of the bicentennial activities, lists some of the other activities for July 23, 24 and 25 as a "muzzle-leader" shoot, parade, community choir sing, community church service in the park, exhibits, style show, and store window decorations.

The Hawks managed two runs in the first, two in the fourth and three in the fifth.

Owen-Gage girls cop top honors

Owen-Gage High School's Girls' Softball team moved its way through the opposition last week as the Bulldogs took the Thumb D district tournament title Saturday by downing Caseville 20-2 at Gagetown.

The squad made its way to the championship following wins against Kingston and Port Hope.

The Bulldogs downed Kingston 20-4 in pre-district play held May 29, at Kingston.

Owen-Gage squared off against Port Hope in the first of three games played Saturday at Gagetown in semi-final activity and came away with a 19-4 triumph.

Owen-Gage pounded out 12 hits. Dawn Harrison was the winning pitcher while Deanne Sengstock of Port Hope took the loss.

Barb Wright and Anne Lenhard each contributed three hits for the winners. Port Hope chipped in with eight errors and managed only three hits during the contest.

In an earlier semi-final game played Saturday, Caseville downed Carsonville 6-2. Stacey Dutcher had two of Caseville's five hits and took the mound victory against Linda Patrick.

That set the stage for the championship match and the game was all Owen-Gage. The Bulldogs pounded out 13 hits including a grand slam home run by Barb Wright. Jen Dafoe, winning pitcher, added three hits to the attack, along with two by Anne Lenhard.

Caseville helped the Bulldogs by issuing 10 walks.

Stacey Dutcher took the loss.

Owen-Gage now goes to the regional tournament at Cass City and plays at noon Saturday.

ALL LEAGUE TEAM

Members of the North Central Thumb League all-league team were announced following the game. Owen-Gage placed five starters on the squad.

Named were pitchers Stacey Dutcher, Caseville, and Dawn Erickson, Owen-Gage; catcher, Kathy Voss, Port Austin; first base, Barb Wright, Owen-Gage; second base, Mary Lenhard, Owen-Gage; shortstop, Laurie Andrakowicz, Owen-Gage; third base, Sherry Leach, Caseville; outfield, Patty Tschirhart, North Huron; Kaye Brinkman, Owen-Gage and Debbie Jennings, Port Austin.

Action brisk in Little League softball

The Braves, Reds and Cubs led off with victories last week as Cass City Girls' Softball Little League action got underway at the Recreational Park.

In the first contest played Tuesday, June 1, the Cubs downed the Hawks 18-7. The Cubs pounded out 15 hits, including three singles and two triples by Padgett Randall, who was also the winning pitcher.

Lori Harrison, losing hurler for the Hawks, connected for a double and two singles, half of the Hawk hit production. The Cubs pushed across six runs in the fourth inning and three each in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings to ice the contest.

The Braves managed two runs in the first, two in the third and three in the fifth.

BRAVES-TIGERS

The Braves came on strong in their first game of the season, pounding out a 17-7 win over the Tigers.

Kelly Winter, winning pitcher, connected for five hits while Dianna Kolacz chipped in with three hits for the Braves.

Terri Agar, losing hurler, slugged a triple, double and single in four trips to the plate. Sharon Wells also added three hits in the losing effort.

The Braves came on fast and early with eight runs in the first two innings to put the game out of reach. The Tigers managed three runs in the third and fifth innings.

REDS-LIONS

It was no contest as the Reds outscored the Lions 27-12. The Lions chipped in with 12 errors on their way to their first loss of the season.

The Reds amassed 15 runs in the first three innings and added 12 more in the last two innings as they coasted to their victory.

The Lions managed six runs in the third inning after single runs in each of the first two innings.

For the Reds, Tina Wright connected for five hits while Shelly LaPeer hit safely four times in five turns at bat.

For the Lions, Denise Okstrom picked up three hits, including a three-run homer. Tammy Root took the win over Nancy Tonti.

Busy week for Merchants

The young Cass City Merchants softball team is finding the going rough in the Thumb Travelling League as the team lost two games in three outings during the week.

In the opening game Tuesday, June 1, the Merchants were soundly defeated by Reese in a game played at Sebewaing. It was too much Russ Ackerman for Cass City. He limited the losers to just three hits on the way to an easy, 6-1, decision.

Meanwhile his teammates were backing him with a 7-hit attack off the slants of Craig Helwig. Actually the game was decided in the first inning when Reese scored three times. Don Galbraith hit a home run to keep Cass City from a whitewash. Other than that, harmless singles by Galbraith and Scott Hartel were all the attack that Cass City could muster.

The line score:

R	3010	101	6-7-0
CC	0100	000	1-3-4

Wednesday, June 2, the Merchants lost their second of the week dropping a sloppy game, 13-8, to Pigeon Merchants at Pigeon.

Jack Hillaker got a start on the mound, and a rocky start coupled with eight Cass City boots spelled finish for his chances for a win.

Cass City fought back to tie after Pigeon scored six in the first inning, but was never able to get ahead as the winners took command in the late innings.

Hillaker's rocky start was due in a large part to wildness as he walked six and hit one in the initial frame. Don Englehart was the winning pitcher.

Cass City scored three in the first on hits by Jerry Toner and Scott Hartel and a pair of Pigeon boots.

In the second Hartel, Hillaker, Toner and Don Galbraith singled to score three more.

Henry Cooklin's triple and a pair of errors netted the final 2 runs for Cass City.

The line score:

CC	3300	020	8-12-8
P	6012	31x	13-7-5

CASS CITY WINS

The Merchants won a league game Thursday behind the shutout pitching of Craig Helwig. Bay Port was Helwig's victim, 3-0.

The game was decided in the first. Elwyn Helwig led off with a single and was sacrificed to second by Henry Cooklin. Toner doubled Helwig home. Galbraith singled, Toner taking third and scoring on R. Reynolds' fly to center.

That ended the scoring until the final inning when Mike Murphy tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly. Cass City got a hit in every inning but Lee Swartzendruber was tough in the clutch for Bay Port. Ken Lowe and Toner each rapped two hits while Ron Ouvry tripled for Cass City.

In a tournament at Owosso over the Memorial Day week end, Cass City topped Oakland, 3-2, and then was eliminated with successive losses to Mitchell Bentley, 5-3, and Grand Rapids, 5-0.

Arts, crafts program begins

Cass City's arts and crafts program gets underway next Monday at the multi-facilities building at the village park, coordinator Roland Pakonen announced this week.

A wide variety of arts and crafts will be featured, including macrame, clay, and painting. All school-age youth are eligible to attend.

Cheryl Koban, Joan Erla and Grace LaPonsie will head up the effort, Pakonen said. Sports and recreation equipment will also be available each day from the old pool building.

Pakonen said a youth golf program will get underway in July. More information will be provided when the program begins, he said.
