

Owen-Gage scores victory as court overturns transfer

The Owen-Gage School district scored a major victory Monday when Ingham County Circuit Court Judge James T. Kallman ruled a $1.4 million land transfer to the Cass City School district invalid.

The decision places land known as the "Goslin parcel" back in Owen-Gage and sets a precedent which could throw a damper on future property transfer requests.

The judge ruled the transfer invalid because it comprised more than 10 per cent of the district as it was originally established. Under state law, no more than 10 per cent of a school district may be transferred without a public vote, based on state equalized valuation. Kallman's ruling means that any transfer request must be made in relation to the size of the Owen-Gage district when the transfer petition was filed.

An appeal of Judge Kallman's order is expected by the State Board. Gerald F. Young, assistant attorney general in charge of education, told the Chronicle Tuesday a request for an appeal with the Michigan Court of Appeals will probably be filed soon.

Young said it is hoped a ruling could come down before school starts.

He admitted Judge Kallman's interpretation of the transfer law is more stringent than the board's.

"Our position has been that each transfer is a separate, distinct issue," Young said.

The decision not only puts the Goslin area back in Owen-Gage, but casts a shadow over three transfers approved in early July to the Cass City district totaling nearly $500,000.

Those transfers were approved on 43 votes and are also being appealed by Owen-Gage.

Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson said Monday's action justifies district supporters who have fought the transfers for several years. "The statute clearly spells out that when over 10 per cent of a district is to be taken away, there must be a vote of the people," Erickson said. "Our position has been vindicated."

He said the ruling sets a precedent for other transfers. The superintendent indicated the district will seek a change of venue in another transfer action known as the "Elenbaum parcel" from Huron County Circuit Court to Kallman's court.

"The intent of the statute is clear enough," he said. "This is a big defeat for the State Board of Education and the reason we've been successful is that we didn't belly up when they tried to destroy us." Erickson said Kallman's order increases chances that the Municipal Finance Commission (MFC) will eventually approve the sale of $1.675 million in bonds voted last December to construct a new high school.

The MFC "returned" the bond issue to the district in early June without approving it. The commission said at that time it would reconsider the request after litigation over the transfers had been completed.

The district resubmitted its request to the MFC earlier this month and following a three-and-a-half hour hearing last week, took the issue under advisement. It's uncertain when the MFC will rule on the request. "Their (MFC's) premise for turning us down before was that our financial base was unsteady," Erickson said. "With this ruling, I'm more optimistic. All we're asking for is the opportunity to tax ourselves to build a new building."

Erickson said he sees Monday's ruling as a warning to the State Board.

"I see this as a first step toward telling the State Board that it cannot arrogantly decide whether or not a school district can exist," he said.

The re-transfer also raises some questions regarding Cass City's school election held June 14.

In that election, voters in the Goslin parcel cast ballots at Cass City. Since Kallman ruled that the parcel in fact never left Owen-Gage, do their votes invalidate the election?

Owen-Gage attorney Schouman said Tuesday the possibility exists. He also said there could be some question regarding whether or not the Goslin parcel residents would be eligible to vote in a special Owen-Gage millage election set for Aug. 9.

Even though they never left the district, Schouman said, their intent was to vote in Cass City which they did. Should they be required to re-establish a 30-day residency in Owen-Gage before being allowed to vote?

"It's a real can of worms," Schouman commented.

Cass City School Supt. Donald Crouse said Tuesday voters in the Goslin parcel were ruled eligible to cast ballots in the Cass City election at the time of the State Board ruling.

Crouse said school attorneys had said they were eligible as did the elections commission.

"If our election was thrown out, I would think Owen-Gage's election held the same day would also have to be thrown out since they (the transfer residents) couldn't have voted in Owen-Gage," Crouse said.

A FIRE believed started by electrical wiring heavily damaged the home of Sharon Percy on Elmwood Road five and a half miles southwest of Cass City Thursday. Loss was set at $7,000 to the house and contents.

Township offices up for grabs in area primary races

A smattering of contests will highlight races in several area townships at the Aug. 3 primary election, with Republicans generally fighting it out among themselves for clerk, treasurer, supervisor and trustee posts.

In Elkland township, Supervisor Edwin Karr, Treasurer Art Randall and Trustee Allen Merchant are all seeking re-election. They are Republicans and are unopposed. Clerk Ferris Ware will not seek another term. His wife, Carol, who presently serves as deputy clerk, is seeking the job in her own right.

Three candidates are seeking two constable posts. They are incumbent Fred Martin, Cass City Police officer Donald J. Miller and Jack McDaniel.

In Novesta township, three candidates are vying for the treasurer's post, following announcement that incumbent Ruth Spencer will not seek re-election.

Candidates in the race are Mary Doyen, Clara Jean Clarke and Arlene Paladi. All are Republicans.

Incumbent trustee Fred Knoblet will face a challenge from fellow Republican Donald Englehart.

Facing no opposition are Supervisor Gail Parrott and Clerk Henry Rock. Both are Republicans.

In Ellington township, incumbent supervisor Frederick J. Bardwell Jr. will square off against Helen M. Lubaczewski. Other Republicans seeking election are Hazel I. Tomlinson, clerk; Pearl A. Putnam, treasurer; Frederick H. Janks, trustee, and Harry Steele Jr., constable.

On the Democratic side in Ellington township, H. Wayne Babcock is unopposed in his bid for nomination as clerk. Other Democrats facing no opposition for nomination are Melvin F. Price, treasurer, and Reginald Thompson, trustee.

In Kingston township, both Republicans and Democrats are unopposed for their party's nominations.

On the GOP side candidates are Robert Gilmore, supervisor; Louis Wenzlaff, treasurer; Ronald Hampshire, trustee and George Cherniawski, constable. No GOP candidate has filed for township clerk.

On the Democratic ticket, candidates include Emily Albrecht, treasurer; Victoria Wolak, clerk, and Edward Bilicki, trustee. No Democrats have filed for supervisor or constable.

In Elmwood township, all incumbent office-holders face no opposition. They include Supervisor Roy Messer, Treasurer Royce Russell, Clerk Mrs. Vincent Sattelberg and Trustee Jim Turner.

SANILAC TOWNSHIP RACES

In area Sanilac county townships, the hottest race has developed in Lamotte township, where two Republicans are seeking nomination as clerk. Wayne Adam, incumbent, is unopposed.

Village share 50 per cent

School crossing guards get council blessing

History was made Tuesday night as Cass City Village Council broke with tradition and went on record favoring school crossing guards.

Council agreed to participate up to 50 per cent in the cost of three crossing guards providing Cass City Public Schools administer the program. This could translate into a cost of about $3,000 as the village's share, based on figures from other area villages.

This means school officials would hire the guards, pay fringe benefits and take care of substitute guards.

The action came after Trustee Gary Jones, a strong crossing guard proponent, told council school officials agreed to the 50 per cent idea.

"We have taken some initiative with respect to lights and signs," Jones told his fellow trustees. "I believe we have to continue. They're our kids, too. We can't say the problem belongs solely to the school."

Trustee William Bliss disagreed. He said children cross the streets regularly during the summer with no help from crossing guards and that guards weren't needed.

Bliss was the lone trustee to vote against the move.

Trustee Dr. D.E. Rawson also had misgivings about the program. He said unless the school took the entire paperwork responsibility, he would oppose the idea.

Village President Lambert Allhaver was cool toward the program.

He said he favored going out details before ironing on record supporting it.

Jones continually drove home the idea of student safety. He said a crossing guard would not be stopping traffic as much as he would help children decide when it was safe to cross.

"What we need is an adult who can make a judgemental decision as to whether or not it's safe to cross the street," he said. "And having a right turn on red doesn't help the situation either."

Allhaver said council had the power to ban right turns on red if it's necessary.

Alan Miller, of 6810 Herron Dr., told council something should be done.

"I don't care who pays for it," Miller said. "It's going to come out of my pocket anyway no matter who pays. I'm concerned more about the safety of the children, because if a child gets killed it's going to cost more than $3,000."

Jones said guards would likely be stationed at Main and Seeger and Rose and Seeger with a third possibly at Ale and Main.

While council went on record favoring the guards, it's uncertain whether or not they will actually be in place when school starts in September.

OTHER BUSINESS

The crossing guard question took up much of council's otherwise quick session.

Trustees agreed to have the landfill open to the public each Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. instead of Thursdays to help keep trash better covered.

The site will still be open Saturdays from 7:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m.

Trustees also went on record urging that old incinerators no longer being used in the downtown area be removed. Trustee Nat Tuttle said he favored eliminating all burning in the village, both commercial and residential.

It was also announced that the landfill will close each day at 2:00 p.m. to allow village crews to cover that day's trash. The move comes on the heels of a reprimand earlier this month by the Department of Natural Resources which criticized landfill operations.

Council turned down a request from Grant Ball to seal-coat portions of Pine and Ale Streets near Salem United Methodist church.

Trustees said the streets are already hard-surfaced and that any holes would be repaired.

Ball had reportedly made the request in conjunction with a planned building dedication at the church.

Council agreed to study a request for an adult swim period at the pool.

Field lights

will cost

$7,500

It will cost $7,500 to light up two new softball diamonds at the village park.

Cass City Village Council agreed to spend the sum to move light poles and lights from the football field to the diamonds in the east side of the park.

The action came at a meeting held July 14 to which the press was not invited.

The cost will include new wiring from the top to bottom of each pole. Council also stipulated that the village receive all the old wire.

Village officials decided to use the poles after it was learned Cass City Public School officials were not anxious to save them.

The school plans to begin an extensive renovation of the football field soon which includes new lighting.

Village authorities believe enough poles and light fixtures can be salvaged to light both diamonds for night softball. Presumably, the lights would be in place for next year's play.

THERE'S NOTHING like a good cold slug of pop to make a hot afternoon go better. That's what Amelia Garety, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Garety of Cass City, says as she takes a break during Saturday's Cass City bicentennial festivities at the village park.

Bicentennial week end draws thousands to Cass City

Blessed with blue skies and warm sunshine for its entire three-day run, Cass City's bicentennial celebration literally drew thousands of spectators for a bevy of activities which began Friday afternoon and culminated in a colorful fireworks display Sunday night.

While it was unknown early this week whether or not the celebration turned a profit, organizers termed the week end a success Monday.

Bicentennial Committee Chairman Jack Esau said the weather played a decisive role in the outcome.

"The weather can make you or break you on something like this and in our case, it made us," Esau said.

An estimated 5,000 persons attended Sunday night's bicentennial choir presentation of the cantata, "Freedom Song 1776", under the direction of Mrs. Colleen Stafford.

The group also performed other Revolutionary era songs and topped off the program with a rendition of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic", accompanied by the Cass City High School band under the direction of George Bushong.

Flutists Ann Whittaker and Jan Pinkbeiner accompanied the choir in the cantata, along with pianist Joan Merchant.

Earlier in the day, around 1,000 persons attended an outdoor worship service at the park, featuring ministers from four Cass City churches who traced the development of religious freedom in America. One of the most popular attractions of the week end proved to be Saturday night's chicken barbecue at the park. Esau said 500 persons were fed and that if the food hadn't run out, another 100 to 150 persons could have been served.

Another top attraction was the style show, held Saturday night at Cass City High School.

A total of 52 entrants displayed fashions dating from 1850 to 1976 and ranging from long dresses and ostrich-feather hats to hot pants and boots.

Mrs. Betty Laurie narrated the hour-long show which drew an estimated 400 persons.

A large crowd was also on hand to watch the Cass City Merchants split two games with Day's Sanitary of Pontiac. Cass City won the first, 3-2, but dropped the nightcap, 7-1.

PARADE

One of the longest parades in recent history wended its way along Cass City's Main Street Saturday afternoon.

The two-mile long parade featured entrants from throughout the Thumb area.

The Grand Prize went to the Shabbona United Methodist church.

Recognition certificates went to floats entered by Provincial House, Cass City Girl Scouts, Christian Youth Group of Cass City, the Holbrook Christian Youth Group, Salem United Methodist church, and Beagios Pizza of Cass City.

The parade also featured antique cars entered by Larry Peters, Matt Isard and the Detroit Edison Co., and a number of gasoline engines entered by Maurice Evans of Hedley Equipment Co. of Caro.

Individual entrants included Arnold and Beverly Nieboer of Cass City, the Owendale Fire Department, Willis LaBlanc, George Czekai and David and Violet Kratz.

The Cass City High School Band also participated.

CULTURAL CENTER

An estimated 200 persons attended displays and films shown at the Elkland Township Cultural Center over the week end. Films of the 1965 centennial celebration and of the mid-1950's Christmas pageants were shown.

Esau said this week the Cultural Center displays will remain intact for the bicentennial high school reunion scheduled Aug. 7 at Colony House.

Esau said the bicentennial committee plans to collect as much memorabilia as possible from the week end to store in library archives for the year 2076.

"Hopefully there will still be somebody around then," he said.

The committee is expected to meet soon to total its financial ledger, Esau said.

Faith Gospel Tabernacle was the setting for the afternoon wedding of Peggy Jolly, daughter of Bill and Rita Jolly, formerly of Cass City and now of Bad Axe, and Dale Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schultz, Sandusky, Saturday, July 24. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. James Willett.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a petite gown of bridal organza and corded Alencon lace styled with a lace-edged high neckline, bodice detail and wide-cuffed full bishop sleeves. The soft A-line skirt was accented with be-ribboned lace panels and the lace-edged hemline fell to a chapel length train. She wore a matching lace semi-crown which held her tiered ivory veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and ivy centered with a white orchid.

Matron of honor for her sister was Linda Stroschein, Bad Axe. Bridesmaids were Darlene Pierson, Bad Axe, Donna Fabian and Diane Koviak, Flint, friends of the bride.

Michael Thomas served as best man and groomsmen included Tony Strickler, Peck, cousin of the groom, Brian Haupt and Lyle Hunt, Sandusky, friends of the groom. Flower girl was Amy Fletcher, Marysville, and ring bearer was Scott Lohnes, Drayton Plains, cousins of the groom. Ushers were Floyd Stroschein, Bad Axe, and Jack Hill, Watertown, friends of the groom.

Matron of honor and bridesmaids were gowned alike in pastel printed voile dresses with square neckline, Empire waist, and long full bishop sleeves. They wore white garden hats and carried cascade arrangements of mint green carnations. Flower girl was attired in a mint green frock and also carried a cascade bouquet of green carnations.

Mother of the bride wore a floor-length gown of soft pink chiffon fashioned with sheer sleeve panels and soft drape neckline. She pinned a pink orchid to the shoulder of her gown.

Mrs. Marvin Schultz appeared in an A-line gown of pastel printed green and yellow styled with Peter Pan collar and elbow length sleeves for her son's wedding. Her gown was complimented by a corsage of green orchids.

A reception was held at the Colony House following the ceremony. Dale and Peggy Schultz were honored with pre-bridal showers given by Carol and Luanne McMullen, Linda Stroschein, and Erva Fletcher, Lela Thomas, Marion Strickler, and Gale Schultz, aunts of the groom. The couple will make their home in Sandusky.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

There's no way to list all the persons who helped with the bicentennial celebration. I won't try. Several were listed and pictured last week. Two that weren't and should have been were Jack McDaniel (parade chairman) and the Rev. Harry Capps (co-vice-chairmen). Certainly there were many more.

An unknown reader of the Lansing State Journal sent a clipping of a column written by Jim Hough.

It was about the Thumb. The essence was that the Thumb needs publicity. Who ever heard of Bach, Ruth, Filion, Tyre, Elmer (Elmer?), Rapson, Colling or Pinnebog?, he asks. Everyone has heard of Calumet, Baraga, Iron Mountain, etc, says Hough.

I suspect what Hough really wanted was to be able to make the following play on words:

"The Thumb area needs 'Thumb' good promotion by a newspaperman. When it comes to promotion thumb can and thumb can't; thumb do and thumb don't.

... they should manufacture thumb new kind of product. They could call it 'Thumbbing' or 'Thumbwhat'.

"They should have an annual celebration . . . called 'Thumbday'. Any promoter who could get a 'Thumbday' established could really become 'thumbbody' or 'thumb-one'".

It goes on . . . but you get the drift. Other than that, no comment.

You could buy a pet rock for $5.00.

A strand of the cable that was used to hold the San Francisco bridge before it was restrung costs more . . . a lot more.

Promoters are cutting the old cable with special tools into about 10-inch sections and mounting them. They are for sale now for (are you ready for this?) $35 each.

The recent decision in circuit court throwing back the "Goslin" property into Owen-Gage has interesting ramifications. Couldn't losing candidates in the most recent Cass City school election file to overturn the results if they wanted to?

The answer is no. Because of a 30-day limitation to contest the election and other legal technicalities the opinion is that even if a losing candidate wanted to get a new election it would be impossible. Practically, I'd doubt if they'd want to anyway.

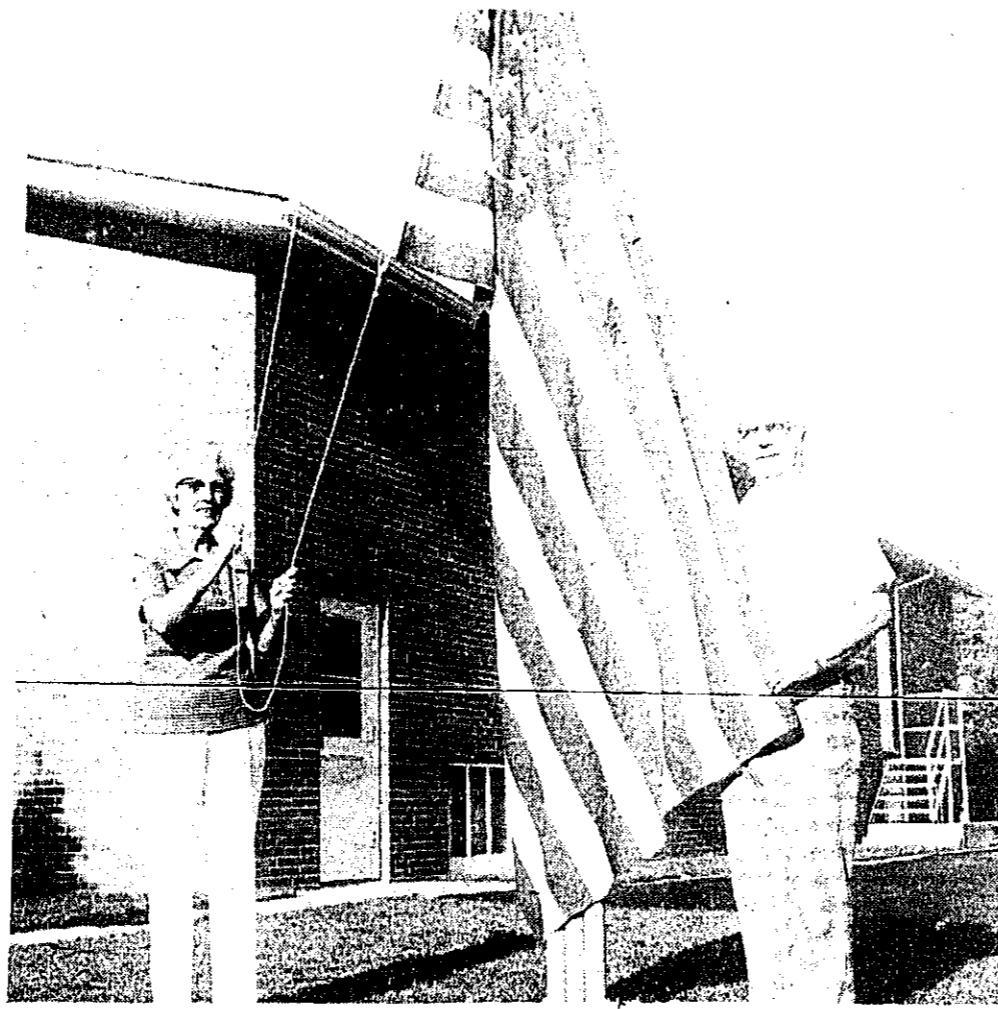

Of even more concern is a bill in the legislative hopper requiring tuition payment of cost per student to operate that could add up to $800 per student.

Some 80-plus students now attending Cass City on a tuition basis could be affected.

I enjoyed the music furnished by Ralph Chapman and his band at the park as much as anything in the bicentennial celebration.

Ralph appears to be a man who enjoys his work. He appeared to be having as much fun contributing his talents to the programs as the many visitors at the park had listening to his delightful 4-piece combo.

PROUDLY DISPLAYING a new flag donated by Tyler Lodge are Mrs. Thelma Graham and Worshipful Master George Cole. Mrs. Graham donated the flag to the lodge last week during a brief ceremony.

Area fires damage house, destroy barn

A fire believed started by electrical wiring heavily damaged the home of Sharon Percy on Elmwood Road, five and a half miles southwest of Cass City, Thursday morning. Elkland Township Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said the fire broke out in the upstairs portion of the two-story frame structure and spread to the roof.

The lower floor sustained heavy smoke and water damage, Jezewski said.

No one was injured. Firemen placed the loss at $5,000 on the home and $2,000 on contents. Jezewski said the structure was not insured.

The Caro Fire Department assisted in putting out the blaze which was reported at 9:40 a.m.

Firemen remained at the scene about two hours.

Elkland township firemen assisted the Caro Fire Department in battling a blaze that destroyed a 40 by 100-foot barn at the George Ellesin farm on Deckerville Road, four miles northeast of Caro. Caro Fire Chief Don Berry said the blaze was discovered shortly before 5:00 a.m. Sunday by two young men passing by who saw flames inside the structure.

Berry said a water tanker from Cass City was requested as soon as he arrived at the scene.

One hog, 600 bales of straw and 200 bales of hay were lost.

Cause of the fire is unknown, Berry said. Firemen remained at the scene about two hours.

Loss was set at $50,000.

FROM THE
Editor's Corner

It was a success. Cass City's first, last and only bicentennial celebration hit the mark.

It's too early to say if it was a success any way you look at it . . . the financial report is not completed.

Originally, profits from the event were earmarked for the pool and the cultural center. I suspect that if the celebration just pays its way the committee in charge will be pleased. And relieved.

You can tell it hit the mark by listening as you mingle. Time after time you heard, "You should do this more often. It's nice. This is fun."

What made it for me was that the events tied into the celebration. Jack Esau, the Rev. Harry Capps and others resisted the temptation to turn it into just another carnival.

There's always this temptation because it's an easy way to turn a buck and it takes little effort.

More than a decade ago now Cass City ran a home-coming every year. It started as a one-day affair and featured 4-H exhibits and home town talent and programs.

Everybody loved it. But it did require work, work, work. And after a few years the workers grew tired and the inevitable happened. The town turned to the commercial carnival and it wasn't long before the home-coming died.

The carnival type celebration never lasts here. The reason is simple. We're too small to compete. The carnival market is saturated with the three area county fairs.

But there is room for an event like the community staged last week end.

It had a little of the old home-coming spirit. There was time for folks to sit around the park, relax and enjoy themselves.

There were unique programs not duplicated at all the home-comings, festivals, fairs and celebrations.

There were home town sporting events. Local fans watching local athletes.

There was a barbecue and ice cream social. There was dancing and just good listening music. But most of all it was local folks having a good time at a local gathering.

Could you do it every year? Or do you need a bicentennial to make it go?

Really the bicentennial was merely the catalyst. A quality celebration would always be well received.

The sticker is that only a few do the work. Until that changes Cass City will do well to have an observance every five years or so.

That way they will always do it well.

"If It Fitz . . ." C'mon there, Humph!

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Recently, while suffering an attack of old-fashioned morality brought on by a Jimmy Carter speech, I wrote a terrible thing. I wrote that Hubert Humphrey is a four-flusher because he reneged on more than $800,000 in 1972 campaign debts.

This made Humphrey angry and he sent me a letter saying so.

"I have been brought up to pay my bills, and I do so," he said.

Humphrey's letter should be preserved as a fine example of how slippery politicians grease their way around out corners. His reasoning is typical of the lopsided justice which pardons a Richard Nixon and sends a two-bit burglar to prison.

Humphrey didn't deny that a group of his creditors, owed $900,000, went payless for four years and then had to settle for four cents on the dollar. Except, he said, the debt really hadn't been his in the first place.

The $900,000 had been lent "to the campaign committee and not to me," Humphrey wrote in his letter.

Oh well, that's different. I thought Humphrey solicited the cash personally and took it home and slept with it. I didn't realize the loans were transacted through a committee. The lenders probably never heard of Hubert Humphrey. They weren't buying favor with a possible president. They thought the money was going to be spent on long underwear for freezing Indians.

But no, that can't be. In a later paragraph, Humphrey admitted that the lenders "were all personal friends who are very well to do and who are not complaining at all over the fact that they received a very small settlement on their loan."

In fact, Humphrey said, these generous buddies knew when they lent the dough that "there was the possibility that the committee might not be able to repay."

Why worry? Hubert might get elected this time and it doesn't hurt to be able to say to the president: "Hey, Humph, remember that time I wrote off that $150,000 your campaign committee owed me? Well, here's what I'd like you to do . . ."

Anyway, if the stingees are not griping about being stung for $800,000, Humphrey said, "others who have no liability or interest in this matter ought not to be raising their voices in complaint." He means me.

Sorry, Humph, but my voice remains raised.

The senator from Minnesota has as much as admitted that the loans were phony, and were really contributions.

So why weren't they called that in the first place? Humphrey admits the loans were made by his personal friends, yet he accepts no responsibility for them. Some "campaign committee" signed the IOU.

Perhaps some campaign laws were bent. It's a safe bet that what the Humphrey committee did in 1972 it couldn't get away with in 1976. Which doesn't necessarily mean the world is getting better. It simply means the cheaters must find new ways to cheat. And they will.

It saddens me because I used to be a Humphrey fan. He was my kind of liberal. I figured he was for the little guy and certainly he wouldn't condone the type of cruddy justice which says raggedy muggers are crooks but well-dressed welters are modern princes to be admired for their lofty goals, rather than condemned for their crummy ethics.

But forget the legal niceties. I'm talking about old-fashioned morality, that glowing quality which all the politicians embraced so enthusiastically in the Water-gate parking lot. I'm talking about justice that doesn't peek under the blindfold.

If Joe Slob borrows $5,000 and doesn't pay it back, he faces court action. If the transaction was a fraud, he faces prison. If he does his stealing in a less genteel manner, such as mugging, he could be stoned to death in the courthouse square.

But big-shot candidates can fuff over the roadblocks built for peasants. Bribes are loans and loans are contributions and they all add up to the stickum that keeps good buddies together, on top. Only a few arrogant meatheads, such as Agnew, came unglued.

Hubert Humphrey won't be elected president. But he could have been, and why not? He didn't do anything dozens of other candidates haven't done through the years.

And he would have been an improvement over the last guy elected.

For months, people have been complaining that they don't know anything about Jimmy Carter.

Maybe that explains his success. The more you learn about most candidates, the more inclined you are to vote for a stranger with a big smile.

RE-ELECT SHERIFF
HUGH MARR
Republican Primary
August 3rd

Dear Friends:

The primaries are next Tuesday. There have been lots of campaign promises, and lots of "vote for me, I'm a nice guy" statements.

The best reason I offer for your continuing support is the record of progress we have made in your sheriff's department during the past decade.

To summarize some of these accomplishments:
COOPERATION — Your sheriff's department works hand-in-hand with our State Police Post, offering all of our facilities in any way we can help. Likewise, for years, we have held monthly meetings with our county's city and village police chiefs. You pay taxes to support all these agencies and have a right to expect them to work together.

BETTER SERVICES — When I became your sheriff, the department was a small rural agency. Today, we have one of the finest police and emergency forces in the state. We have been able to obtain the latest in equipment without letting our budget get out of line. And your sheriff's department is staffed with a fine group of dedicated professionals who undergo continuous programs of training and improvement, to become even better.

INTEREST IN OUR YOUTH — The county's youth represents the future of our country and thus are its most important resource. Your sheriff's department seeks to help our young grow up to become responsible and law abiding citizens through special school education programs in traffic safety, drug abuse and citizens.

ECONOMY AND GOOD MANAGEMENT — Every year our jail receives Michigan's highest ratings for proper operation and cleanliness. I believe that our fine facility must be properly cared for. And proper accounting must be maintained for the funds under our responsibility. Our record keeping system is above reproach.

EDUCATION AND REHABILITATION — If we can prevent the first offender from returning, thousands of taxpayer dollars are saved . . . not to mention the decrease in damage to society from the crime. That is why the Tuscola County jail's education and rehabilitation program was the first in America for a rural county jail. The police must work with society to rebuild the first offender — especially the younger offenders.

HONESTY AND INTEGRITY — I believe in these concepts first and foremost. Those who don't share this approach to county law enforcement with me have no place on my department. Our administration has been kept free from the scandal that has shamed other agencies.

When you step behind that voting curtain next Tuesday, I know you will remember that results are what counts — rather than empty promises. I respectfully ask for your continuing support as Tuscola County Sheriff as we meet the challenges of the years ahead.

—Keep The Star On Marr—

VOTE  MARR August 3rd

Paid for by the committee to re-elect Sheriff Marr.

Your neighbor says Good old days were good

Last week end, Cass City celebrated the bicentennial in its own way. The celebration brought to mind for many the "good old days" when life may have seemed better.

But was it? Mrs. Gaylord LaPeer of rural Ubylly thinks so.

"I enjoy looking back at those times because they were good," Mrs. LaPeer says. "It was a happy time for us, especially in school. I attended the Herron school and I remember how we worked to do our Christmas program each year and what fun we had."

"And then there were the homemade foods we had. Those were good, too."

Mrs. LaPeer says those times may have lacked the so-called modern conveniences of today but earlier times weren't that inconvenient either.

"It was a slower time," she says. "Things really didn't seem inconvenient."

She says today isn't all that bad, however. "I think we should try to enjoy each day as it comes," she says.

Mrs. LaPeer is a lifelong area resident. Her husband farms and works in construction. The couple has two children and six grandchildren.

BETTER HEALTH

The Sting

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

Specialists in the treatment of allergic diseases are concerned that many doctors and most laymen are dangerously unaware that allergy to insects can be a life and death emergency, and that there are two protective measures, the insect-sting kit and desensitization, that are too often neglected.

Just why there seems to be an increase in allergic reactions to the sting of bees, wasps, yellow jackets and the like is not clear. But when the reaction goes beyond the customary sensation of a pin-prick and a little local redness and itching, emergency, on-the-spot treatment is mandatory if a life-threatening situation is to be avoided.

All too often, the victim of a systematic reaction to an insect bite is a camper, a fisherman or a farmer, who is miles from the nearest hospital or doctor. And since the symptoms of a severe systemic reaction can occur with explosive acceleration, the time lapse which takes place in the effort to reach help may make the difference between life and death.

A fatal outcome to a generalized systemic reaction to insect venom has been known to occur within the first ten or twenty minutes following a sting. Epinephrine (also known as adrenalin), injected under the skin, is the only life-saving treatment which can hold off a fatal reaction long enough to get the victim to a medical facility.

An emergency insect-sting kit is a compact assembly containing a tourniquet to be applied if the sting is on an arm or a leg, several sterilizing swabs, antihistamine tablets and tranquilizers and most important of all, a pre-loaded syringe of epinephrine (adrenalin) to be injected under the skin in accordance with detailed instructions enclosed in every kit.

Experts recommend that anyone who has ever suffered a generalized, systemic reaction to an insect sting should never venture into situations where a sting is a possibility without taking a kit with him.

It is also important for anyone with known allergic reactions, such as hay fever or asthma, because there is a tendency for them also to be sensitive to insect venom.

Many specialists even recommend that their patients who are considered to have been successfully desensitized take no chances in situations in which bites may occur, and equip themselves with emergency kits.

Desensitization, or more precisely, hypo-sensitization, involves the process of progressive injections of dilute venom or whole insect-body extract. It usually only reduces rather than eradicates sensitivity to insect venom, but is probably the preventive treatment of choice in avoiding life-threatening allergic reactions.

Anyone who has survived a systemic insect-venom reaction, or who has suffered a severe local reaction, should receive hypo-sensitization. Once the hypo-sensitization has been achieved, maintenance doses should be continued for three to ten years, and some experts recommend that shots be continued indefinitely.

Whole insect-body extracts are available commercially for desensitization. Although such extracts are not considered as specific nor as effective as pure venom extracts, the latter are still in the research stage and are not widely available.

Roy Edwards rites held Friday

Funeral services were held Friday for Roy Edwards, 62, a Greenleaf township resident who died Tuesday, July 20, at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor after a long illness.

He was born April 22, 1914, in Bad Axe, son of Mrs. Fern Neer Copeland of Bad Axe and the late Joseph Edwards.

He married Mrs. Mary Dominguez in 1960 in Kinde. After their marriage, they made their home in Bad Axe and came to Cass City in 1966 from Owendale.

He was a member of the Bad Axe United Methodist Church. He also served on the Board of Directors of the Cass City Gun Club and was a former trustee of the United Steel Workers Local 6222 at General Cable.

He served in the U.S. Army during World War II with the 325th AAA Battalion in the Pacific.

Survivors include his widow; his mother, Mrs. Fern Copeland of Bad Axe; three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Paula) Green of Kinde, Mrs. James (Ava) Massingale of Cass City and Miss Royena Edwards of Louisiana; three stepsons, Jesse Dominguez of Detroit, Claude Bell of Nehi, Fla., and John Purvis of Ohio; two sisters, Mrs. Carl Stanton and Mrs. Mary Kay Zurek, both of Bad Axe; three grandchildren and four step-grandchildren.

Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of Salem United Methodist Church of Cass City, officiated at services held at Little's Funeral Home. Burial was in Novesta cemetery.

Happy choosing, hunters

By Jim Ketchum

Let's hear it for your Department of Natural Resources. After years of pressure against antlerless deer hunting, your DNR and mine have finally done away with it. Almost.

Now it's called "hunter's choice", kind of like pot-luck in the woods.

Seems the word "antlerless" simply misled too many Michigan deer hunters and posed a problem to letter writers, says the DNR. So in the interest of clarity, DNR wildlife biologists are officially scrapping the word "antlerless."

Unfortunately, the shift doesn't change the end result for unlucky does and fawns who wander into a hunter's sites.

"These permits, in reality, authorize the holder to hunt for and take a deer of his or her choice—doe, fawn or antlered buck," according to David Jenkins, Wildlife Division Chief. "The choice is literally up to the hunter."

Maybe the DNR believes doe and fawn shooting by any other name will go down a little easier with sportsmen who have always opposed it. I'm not sure it will.

Hunter's Choice accurately describes the season, regulations, and permits and it has a positive connotation, according to the DNR.

Now we can all feel better about those fawn-skin rugs we see lying in front of the fireplace at night when we visit Joe Gundown's home.

It's pretty hard to mount a campaign against something called Hunter's Choice. It's almost like saying it's dirty to choose. After all isn't freedom built on the right to choose and not choose?

It's as American as a 14-car pileup on I-75 over a holiday weekend.

Hunter's Choice could be interpreted to mean a lot of things. Now a hunter can feel better about shooting at squirrels, dogs, cows and fellow hunters.

With a Hunter's Choice license, why not take a little bit of everything, just to show the folks back home you were doing something wholesome and not sitting around a bar getting drunk or trying to make time with the cocktail waitresses.

The special license will help keep the world from being overrun by hordes of does and fawns who could threaten to take us over. Each one shot means that much more food, air, water and space on the highways for us.

Besides, who needs does anyway. All they do is have those pesky fawns that grow into more does. Oh, once in a while, you find a male fawn, but enough of those will get through to keep the buck herd strong.

A doe might not look as impressive as a buck mounted over the fireplace, but at least it tells the world the hunter got his money's worth out of that jim-dandy license.

Happy choosing, hunters.

Argyle post office—still going strong at 100

Argyle's post office marks its 100th anniversary this year and even though it's half as old as the nation, its current postmaster sees no reason to close it.

A temporary freeze on post office closings has spared the Argyle branch from extinction for awhile at least. According to Postmaster Mrs. Virginia Greenlee, the office should not be closed. "We do a lot of money order business here," Mrs. Greenlee says. "If we closed, the people around here would have to drive 10 or 15 miles for postal money orders or for mail service."

The post office, which opened Feb. 18, 1876, with Alexander McLachlin as the first postmaster, currently serves 73 boxholders and a few patrons who live as far as a mile and a half away from the tiny community located along M-19 in Sanilac county.

The post office has never operated a regular route. When it first opened, it received mail once a week from a route that ran from Peck to Tyre. At that time, it served a township population of about 100 persons.

In those early days, the post office changed hands as often as political power in Washington did. From 1876 through 1897, eight different postmasters served Argyle patrons.

Andrew McLachlin, the second postmaster, held the job a total of three times from 1879 through 1915. Other relatives also took turns at the helm.

Since 1915, however, only four persons, three of them women, have held the job.

Nellie A. Robb took over Jan. 13, 1915, and served until Oct. 16, 1920, when Archie J. McLachlin, the last male postmaster at Argyle, assumed the job.

McLachlin turned over the post office to Mrs. Theodora F. Walker, July 23, 1943. She held the job over 30 years—longer than any other person.

Mrs. Walker retired Dec. 29, 1973, and was succeeded by Mrs. Greenlee.

The post office has seen good economic times and bad, and Mrs. Greenlee says today its financial health is just fine, thank you. She says it's currently rated as a fourth class post office, meaning it generates about $7,000 in revenue annually.

By comparison, Cass City's post office, rated first class, generates just under a quarter million dollars in revenue each year on the average.

The post office serves as a meeting place for friends, Mrs. Greenlee says. Daily, local residents stop to talk with one another while they pick up their mail.

Mrs. Greenlee says it takes about a half-hour each day to sort incoming mail and deposit it in each box. The rest of the time is spent keeping bookwork up to date, selling stamps and money orders.

"We're even our own janitor here," she says.

The post office is located in quarters owned by the Walkers. Originally, it was housed in a building about a block north on the east side of M-19.

Mrs. Greenlee says she thinks postal service in general hasn't deteriorated as much as critics claim. She blames much of the public outcry against the postal service as exaggeration.

"I think they (the postal service) do a good job," she says. "They do their part and I think most of the people who complain don't know what they're talking about."

In the two and a half years she has been postmaster, Mrs. Greenlee says she has enjoyed the job. Not much has changed as far as the amount of mail received.

Recent postal rate increases haven't made much of a dent in the mail volume, she says. "People complain a lot about it when the rates go up, but they still seem to mail as much as ever."

One of the fixtures from the original post office still in existence is the first set of boxes used by patrons. The boxes were replaced by a new set several years ago.

Mrs. Greenlee sees a continuing need for Argyle's post office. She says one official indicated Argyle might be consolidated with another nearby post office someday instead of simply being closed.

"With the post office here, it helps keep a little business around the town," Mrs. Greenlee says. "It's handy for the customers, too."

MRS. VIRGINIA GREENLEE, Argyle postmaster, poses with these old boxes which served as Argyle's original post office back in 1876.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Plans for selling beer at the park were temporarily shelved Tuesday night after an orderly meeting in which representatives of the pro and anti-beer forces crowded the council chambers at the Municipal Building for a regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council.

The 10-member Harvey McCreedy family of Dickerson Road was left homeless as a result of a fire that swept through their home late Monday afternoon.

Young men of Cass City voted last Thursday evening to organize a Jaycee chapter in the village.

The village of Cass City owns a park it never knew it had. The land fronts along the Cass River, running for some 700 feet west of the railroad bridge and is directly across from the village's waste treatment plant.

Frank Lester, Cass City's oldest resident, will celebrate his 104th birthday, Sunday, Aug. 1.

TEN YEARS AGO

Residents on Main Street have almost no chance of receiving road improvements in the foreseeable future, according to information received from Ed Upson of the Michigan State Highway Department at a meeting held recently.

Apathy towards Election's upcoming primary election can be found everywhere in the area. Elkland township clerk Robert Hunter reports that only eight absentee ballots have been applied for by those township residents who will be unable to go to the polls in person.

Cass City teachers have agreed to terms for the 1966-67 school year. The agreement calls for an increase in starting salary of $4,000 yearly from $5,000 to $9,000.

The village edged closer to a uniform traffic ordinance and parking meters Tuesday night at their regular session held at the Municipal Building.

Michigan State Police and Saginaw County Sheriff's officials are looking for vandals who shot up a toll cable and nearly eliminated long distance service for Cass City for 22 hours.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The long awaited improvements for the Cass City post office are now a reality. Workmen started Tuesday morning to modernize the facilities here and were to be completely finished in a few days.

Cash Asher, son of Mrs. Louise Asher Hartwick and the late Frank Asher, dis-

Mark reunion held Sunday

The fifth annual reunion of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mark was held Sunday at the White Creek clubhouse. Seventy-five enjoyed a cooperative dinner. Relatives came from Deweyville, Ohio, Grosse Pte. Woods, Bay Port, Uby, Marysville, Flint, Battle Creek, Clarkston, Caro, Snover and Cass City. The son and four daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Mark were present.

Their ages totalled 420 years. Included in the group were Edward Mark, Mrs. Lena Schwegler and Mrs. Alma Seeger of Cass City, Mrs. Mary Buehrly of Uby and Mrs. Martha Darling of Snover.

Mrs. Irma Hicks, 72, dies July 25

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Irma Hicks, 72, Cass City, who died suddenly Sunday, July 25, at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

She was born April 10, 1904, in Metamora, daughter of the late William and Lena Michel

Perry, and came to Cass City as a young girl.

Mrs. Hicks was a member of Salem United Methodist church and the United Methodist Women. She was also a member of the Women's Study Club and the Business and Professional Women.

She was a teacher for many years in Tuscola and Sanilac counties and was also a caseworker and a supervisor for the Tuscola County Bureau of Social Services.

Mrs. Hicks is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Douglas (Dorothy) Harvey of Sterling Heights, Mrs. Ronald (Shirley) Geiger of Cass City and one foster daughter, Mrs. David (Patricia) Roberson of Rapid City, S.D.; one brother, William Perry of Beaverton; two sisters, Mrs. Lewis Krauskoff of Clearwater, Fla., and Mrs. Carrie Moynes of Berkeley; eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Her husband, Lloyd Hicks, died Nov. 11, 1967. One brother predeceased her.

Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of Salem United Methodist church, officiated at the funeral, held at the church.

Burial was in Novesta cemetery. Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, was in charge of arrangements.

CAMPAIGN PLATFORM

BRING NEPOTISM UNDER CONTROL (Hiring of family members)

"I estimate that the taxpayers of Sanilac county pay in excess of $80,000 per year to one family for wages and fringe benefits. This indicates favoritism to me and would be eliminated in my administration."

RE-ORGANIZE POLICE AND JAIL ADMINISTRATION FOR MAXIMUM EFFICIENCY

"I would initiate a meaningful rank structure that would accomplish proper supervision of the entire Sheriff's department."

"I would enhance the jail security by not allowing convicted felons to act as trustees."

"I would consolidate administrative forms and lessen the wasted man hours to save money."

"I would initiate proper distribution of manpower so that the taxpayers would receive equal police services."

PROPOSE TO THE SECRETARY OF STATE A RE-LOCATION OF THE DRIVERS LICENSE BUREAU WITHIN THE CENTRALLY LOCATED SANDUSKY AREA

"The license bureau is not a police responsibility and I do not feel that the taxpayers should provide a Sheriff with a free campaign headquarters. The people of Sanilac county are paying deputies to be policemen, not license examiners. This move would create more jobs in our county through the Secretary of State."

RESTORE GOOD COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN ALL LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES IN SANILAC COUNTY AND STRIVE TO FURTHER UNITE THE VARIOUS CRIMINAL JUSTICE AGENCIES.

"At the present time we are not working as a team and if this continues, the fight against crime will be done in vain."

If Elected Sheriff Of Sanilac County In 1976 I will

PROVIDE AN IN-SERVICE TRAINING PROGRAM TO ALL POLICE OFFICERS THROUGHOUT SANILAC COUNTY

"Police officers must constantly be updated with new procedures and as an educator of criminal justice, I feel that I can provide this service at no cost to the taxpayer."

BREAK TRADITION BY MOVING THE SHERIFF AND HIS FAMILY FROM THE JAIL

"The present administration has become a "family affair" and does not enhance the morale in the department. The taxpayers should not have to provide the Sheriff's children over the age of 18 with free room and board and county gasoline. The taxpayers should not allow the Sheriff's wife to use county facilities for a private ceramics business. This space could be put to better use and with the recent issue of overcrowding in the jail, the taxpayers should consider this alternative when they are asked to pay more taxes in order to build onto the jail. Approximately one-third of the present building is living quarters for the Sheriff plus the area for the private business. I will live in my own home and merely ask for a reasonable salary that compares to other Sheriff's throughout Michigan."

PROVIDE BETTER DRUG AND ALCOHOL ENFORCEMENT TO THE SANILAC COUNTY RESIDENTS

"Drugs and alcohol remain a major problem in our area and I do not believe that enough is being done to control this serious problem. I would employ a different approach by using better investigative techniques than those used in the past."

ENCOURAGE BETTER COORDINATION BETWEEN ALL EMERGENCY SERVICES IN SANILAC COUNTY

"I would work closely with all police, fire, and ambulance agencies in an attempt to decrease the response time in emergency situations. The elderly and the helpless citizens deserve this."

AROUND THE FARM

Think safety on the farm

By William Bortel

More than 5,000 persons were killed and 500,000 were maimed by farm accidents last year. Half those deaths and 22 percent of the injuries involved farm machinery -- a quarter were related to tractor operation.

National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31, is a good time to start year-long safety practices to prevent accidents on your farm.

Tractors don't think for themselves. You can have all the top-notch equipment and machinery, but safety still depends on human operators.

Riders on farm machinery are a common cause of accidents. If another person is needed to accomplish certain jobs, try to find another means of transportation for the extra worker. Under new federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations, after Oct. 25, 1976, no farm employee will be allowed to be an extra rider, except for instructional or training purposes.

Equipment operators should follow some basic rules. The operator must always know where other people are standing and tell them to stand clear when starting machinery. Others near equipment must be aware of the direction of possible thrown objects from a machine. If another person is helping to hitch an implement to a machine, make sure the engine is turned off and the parking brake set.

If more than one person is working around farm machinery, communication is essential to prevent accidents. When talking is impossible around loud machinery, set up some basic hand signals.

Persons not essential to an operation should not be allowed on or around farm machinery.

Load hauling is another serious consideration for preventing accidents. Here are some basic rules:

Hitching:
Hitch equipment with tractor turned off and parking brake set.

Do not pick up heavy equipment by hand, use a jack to lift heavy equipment for attachment.

Adjust drawbar height as recommended in operator's manual.
Use safety hitch pins and safety chains.

Hauling:
Maintain safe travel speeds. Hauling too fast with a tractor can result in loss of control.

Do not rely too much on tractor brakes. Equipment such as wagons do not have their own brakes, so brake the tractor slowly to prevent jack-knifing.

Shift tractor to a lower gear when traveling uphill or downhill.

Haul loads directly behind tractor.

Be aware of overhead obstructions.

If farm equipment will travel on public roads, a slow moving vehicle (SMV) sign must be displayed. Place SMV sign with point up in the center of the equipment from two to six feet off the ground.

Tractors also need turning signal lights visible from front and rear and properly aimed headlights.

Slow moving vehicles also need at least one taillight mounted on the left hand side, two amber warning lights visible from front and rear, and at least two red reflectors visible from the rear and mounted on both sides.

When driving on highways, obey basic traffic laws. If traffic is heavy, travel on shoulder, and if implements extend into left hand lane drive on shoulder to allow oncoming traffic to pass.

Lost opportunities are those that go to the wrong people.

NOTICE OF MEETING OF
DRAINAGE BOARD

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given that on the 19th day of April, 1976, a Petition was filed with Leslie E. Lounsbury, County Drain Commissioner of the county of Tuscola, asking for the extending, relocating along a highway, tilling, relocating and adding a branch of the Brookfield Extension Drain.

And Whereas the Drainage District of the Brookfield Extension Drain includes lands within the Townships of Elmwood and Elkland, County of Tuscola, Townships of Brookfield, Sebawaing and Grant, County of Huron.

And Whereas, a certified copy of said Petition was served upon Robert M. Tufts, Deputy County Drain Commissioner of the County of Huron and the Director of Agriculture, by Leslie E. Lounsbury, County Drain Commissioner of the County of Tuscola.

Now, Therefore, in accordance with Act No. 40, P. A. 1956, as amended, a meeting of the Drainage Board of said Drain will be held at Elmwood Township Hall in the Village of Gageltown, county of Tuscola, on the 5th day of August, 1976, at 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon, to determine the practicability of said improvement.

Now, Therefore, all persons owning lands liable to an assessment for benefits or whose lands will be crossed by said drain, or any municipally affected are requested to be present at said meeting, if they so desire.

Dated at Lansing, Michigan, this 12th day of July, 1976.

Navy Seaman Darrell D. Cadotte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas F. Cadotte of Route 1, Kingston, recently participated in "Operation Readix 4-76," as a crewmember aboard the nuclear powered guided missile cruiser USS Truxtun.

The exercise, conducted off the southern California coast, involved more than 9,500 men and 14 ships. It was designed to test and improve the combat readiness of units of the U.S. Third Fleet and included anti-submarine warfare operations, missile firings and surface warfare tactics.

Cadotte's ship is homeported at San Diego. A graduate of Kingston High School, he joined the Navy in December, 1974.

Put-take pheasants get a lift

Put-take pheasant hunting in Lower Michigan will literally get a lift for the better if an experiment aimed at cost and distribution efficiency proves successful.

The Department of Natural Resources says it is testing the possibility of aerial releases of pheasants from Department aircraft, in hopes of finding a better way to transport the game farm-raised birds to 20 areas in the state where put-take pheasant hunting is allowed.

Vic Janson, DNR pheasant specialist, says the test runs held recently at the Dansville State Game Area indicate that the idea holds promise, although costs of the operation are uncertain. Wildlife biologists who have studied the experiment from a ground-level position say the pheasants quickly adjust to their airborne release, begin flying and disperse well into the ground cover below.

The DNR plans to release 120,000 pheasants during the 1976 put-take pheasant program, which begins Aug. 16 at Barry, Dansville, Deford, Flat River, Gourdneck, Gratiot-Saginaw, Gregory, Lapeer, Portland, Rogue River, Sharonville, Stanton and Three Rivers State Game Areas, Holly Recreation Area, and at a site near Gladwin in part of the Tittabawassee State Forest. The program in these areas extends through November 14 and from Dec. 1 through Jan. 2, 1977.

Multiple weekly releases are planned in each area throughout the 1976 season, notes Janson, doubling last year's distribution when 71,000 pheasants were released statewide.

Put-take hunters must obtain a special $10 permit in addition to their regular small game hunting license to take part in the program. Permits are expected to go on sale by the first part of August. They will be available from most license dealers and from DNR offices.

Story hours end at library

Tuesday was the last story hour of this summer's series held at Rawson Memorial Library. An average of 30 children have attended each week this year. At the last session, each child received an Indian headband and stories and songs were led by library assistants Michelle Zdrojewski and Doris Jones.

Children who belong to the "Paddle-To-The-Sea" reading club should note that Aug. 7 is the deadline for reading their books. A party will be held at the library Tuesday, Aug. 10, at 1:00 p.m. Certificates will be given to those children who have read their ten books. Sixty children are registered in the club.

Robbie Leslie of Decker was one of 60 4-H members and adult leaders who attended the 39th annual Michigan Milk Producers Association 4-H milk marketing tour July 15 and 16 at MMPA headquarters in Detroit.

The tour, sponsored by MMPA in cooperation with the Michigan State University extension service, is designed to give 4-H members more familiarity with milk marketing procedures and the duties and operations of a dairy farmer cooperative.

Are the rising costs of simple home repairs encouraging you to become a "do-it-yourselfer"? If so, take advantage of the "Simple Home Repairs" program at the Tuscola County Fair near the merchants building Aug. 2-6. This program will run continuously Monday-Wednesday 3:00-7:30 p.m., Thursday 1:30-6:30 p.m. and Friday 3:00-5:00 p.m., and is sponsored by Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service. It will be managed by Allene Mills, Extension Home Economist and Nancy Turtschak, Family Living Program Assistant.

The program is designed so even the "unhandy" homeowner can learn to do simple repair and maintenance jobs. The Aug. 2 program "Electrical Repairs" shows how to replace plugs and wall switches.

Cracks, holes and missing plaster are unattractive plus it can be irritating to use a wall fastener and have it tear from the wall. Aug. 3, at "Wall Repairs", learn about wall fasteners and how to repair wall damage.

If a leaky faucet is annoying you, attend "Faucet Fixes" Aug. 4. What do you do with a plugged or overflowing toilet? See "Toilet Tune-ups" Aug. 5.

OFFER EXTENDED TO AUG. 31!

Sowden reunion held July 18

Approximately 55 descendants of Jessie and Lona Sowden gathered Sunday, July 18, at Cass City Recreational Park for the fourth annual Sowden reunion.

A potluck dinner was enjoyed by all at 2:00 p.m. with games and a swim following.

Gifts were given to the oldest and youngest members present, Mrs. Bessie Sowden Battel, age 79, and Brenda Battel, age 2, both of rural Cass City.

The group voted unanimously to donate $25 toward the new Cass City Swimming Pool.

The fifth annual Sowden reunion will be held next year at the park July 17, 1977.

Skyrocketing prices for oil, natural gas and electricity have turned home buying into a totally new ball game.

Suddenly, the added value of extra insulating features can mean savings of thousands on heating and air-conditioning bills over the life of a home.

Naturally, you'd expect to pay a great deal for these extras. But what if a custom builder offered to give you these insulating features without charge? Free. ABSOLUTELY FREE!

From now until August 31st, Capp Homes — The Finish-It-Yourself House Company — is making this offer. We'll provide your new Capp home with plenty of additional insulation—right where it's needed most. You'll have extra ceiling insulation for the attic, which is the single most significant area of energy savings.

And you'll get insulation around the foundation wall, where cold air seeps in.

We'll also give you Free storm windows and screens for every window in the house. They're durable combination windows that keep the weather out—hot or cold.

Capp has sold over 50,000 homes to families like yours—offering a wide variety of Finish-It-Yourself designs that can be customized to your family's needs and pocketbook.

Offer extended to August 31st. Now is the time to think savings. Call your Capp representative today or send the coupon. Remember, you must order your new Capp home before August 31st and start building this year to get these free energy savings features. Don't miss this chance to save.

Board, union okay mediator

A State Labor Mediator will sit in on the next round of negotiations between the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners and the Fraternal Order of Police representing 33 members of the Tuscola County Sheriff's department, it was announced this week.

Personnel Committee Chairman Maynard McConkey said this week both sides had agreed to the mediator following a marathon session two weeks ago which lasted until 1:15 a.m. Wednesday, July 14.

"We've found when we have a mediator, both sides can move more freely," McConkey said. "Actions taken with a mediator present are generally considered more final."

He said at the last session, several points of agreement kept resurfacing throughout the night.

The next meeting has not been scheduled. FOP members have been working without a contract since June 30.

Still down the road are negotiations with courthouse employees represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

According to the present contract, talks must begin 60 days prior to the Dec. 31 expiration.

Tuesday's commission session generally dealt with housekeeping chores. The board gave its blessing to a grant application by the Department of Social Services for a Thumb Commission on Juvenile Justice.

The grant funds, funneled through the federal Office of Criminal Justice, total $10,000 but could jump to $15,000 per county if two or more counties join the project.

According to Mrs. Onalce Detwiler, DSS Director, Sanilac county is interested in joining Tuscola county.

No county funds will be involved, Mrs. Detwiler explained.

The program would work with youths in trouble who had not yet reached the Probate court system. The intent is to help juveniles resolve problems before they establish a criminal record.

In other action the board named Maynard Ritter of Caro to replace the late Ralph Hartman on the County Planning Commission. Ritter is an official of the Michigan Sugar Co.

The board approved a $20,000 payment to the Thumb District Health Department for its third quarter budget.

The board heard a report from Cmmr. Kenneth Kennedy, Millington, regarding court appointed attorneys. Kennedy said a total of 16 criminal appeal cases was filed during the last 12 months with court appointed attorney fees totaling $6,948.

The county receives a 28 per cent rebate from the state on these costs, Kennedy said.

It received no reimbursement on the combined Circuit and District court attorney bills totaling $4,984 and $2,632 respectively, he said.

NELSON ANKER of rural Gagetown poses with a sign designating his land as a centennial farm. The land has been in the Anker family since 1875.

Life is best on centennial farm, Nelson Anker says

Farming has come a long way since the days when Nelson Anker of rural Gagetown used to plow the fields of the family farm in Elmwood township with a walking plow and a team of horses.

But the land, which was recently declared a centennial farm by the Division of Michigan History, Secretary of State's office, is still home and it's still the best place to be, Anker says.

"I've never thought about living anyplace else," he said, relaxing in an easy chair in his living room. "Home is home no matter where you are."

The Anker land has been home for family members since Nov. 1, 1875, when John R. Anker, the present owner's grandfather, purchased the land from David Merritt Decker and Ann Decker of Pickering, Ont.

"My grandfather was working as a drayman in Saginaw at the time," Anker recalled. He said his grandfather had known a family in Caro as well as the family who lived across Cedar Run Road, three miles south of Gagetown, from the property he ultimately purchased.

"The land was all woods when my grandfather bought it," Anker said. "He paid $1,200 cash in gold for it."

The original farm consisted of 80 acres which fronted along the road. When John Anker's son married in 1890, the original 80 was divided and an additional 20 acres were purchased at the east end of the property, giving father and son each 60 acres.

The son took the southern half and it was there that he built a log house in 1891.

Nelson Peter Anker was one of seven children raised on the farm. He recalled that as a youngster, he did farm chores either by hand or with genuine horsepower.

"I went to school up on the corner," Anker said. "It was a half-mile walk and I'd stop and do chores on the way to school and do them again on the way home."

Anker's grandfather's house—the home he presently occupies—was one of the first in the area to have a telephone. Anker says there's been a telephone in the house since 1913.

Outside of a 10-year stint in the Detroit area, Anker has spent most of his life on the land and as far as he's concerned, that's the way he wants it.

Retired now, he recalled one year when baling hay took much of his time.

"I remember I got up and did my chores in time to have my machine ready to go at eight o'clock," he said. "I had help on chores in the afternoon so I kept on baling hay until almost midnight. One day I baled 1,885 bales of hay."

Anker says he intends to continue living on the centennial farm. He just wouldn't feel right living anyplace else, he says.

"This is home," he said.

Miss Bartnik attends work conference

Gloria Bartnik of Cass City was one of several office personnel from business and education who attended the 20th annual Work Conference for Office Personnel at Ferris State College, Big Rapids, July 19-21.

Participants attended sessions on time management, finding and filing information, conserving office resources, estate planning and other topics.

Risk little on the opinion of one who has nothing to lose.

cumbent clerk, faces a challenge from fellow Republican Mary Thomas.

Lois Vera Philpot is also seeking the job as a Democrat.

Incumbent Supervisor Cecil Hayward is running without opposition, as is treasurer Russell Shaw.

Avery donates carpet

The Genesee County Society for Crippled Children and Adults recently acknowledged a blind Cass City man who donated his labor in making six 13-foot rug strips for the society.

R.O. Avery of 6610 Seed St. made the strips on a rug loom he operates in his home.

The strips were sewn into a carpet which is displayed in the parlor of the Eldridge Hamner House in Crossroads Village in Flint. The home has recently been restored and was opened to the public July 4.

Republican Charles Roggenbuck and Democrat Arthur West will each run unopposed for their party's nomination for trustee.

Robert William Fields, Republican, and Austin Philpot, Democrat, are each seeking nomination as constable.

In Evergreen township, Republicans running unopposed for renomination include Supervisor Larry Puterbaugh, Clerk Otis Dorland, Treasurer Wayne Whittaker, Trustee Ted Morgan and Constable Alvin Burk.

On the Democratic side, Reba Palazzola is seeking nomination as treasurer.

In Greenleaf township, all incumbents are running unopposed and face no Democratic opposition. They include Supervisor Gerald Bock, Clerk Clare Brown, Treasurer Aletha Fox, trustee Grant Ball and constable Cas Bartnik.

GRANT TOWNSHIP

In Grant township, incumbent Democratic Supervisor Helen Ellcott and Republican challenger Bobby Davidson are running unopposed on their respective party tickets.

Others running without opposition are Clerk Donald Reid, Republican, Treasurer Ephraim Knight, Democrat, and trustee Don Metzger, Republican.

Snyder sentenced to life prison term

Frank Jefferson Snyder, 24, a Caro area man convicted earlier this year of second degree murder in the slaying of a Mississippi man last September, was sentenced to life in prison Monday.

Snyder was sentenced in Tuscola County Circuit Court by presiding Judge Norman Baguley.

In sentencing Snyder to the life term in Jackson Prison, Baguley denied a motion for bond during an expected appeal.

Snyder was arrested in the early hours of Sept. 22 by Caro State Police and Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies after Ronald Shorts, 33, had been gunned down in a house on Wells Road south of Caro. Snyder was convicted May 27 following a two-week trial.

Two other persons were also sentenced to terms in Jackson Prison by Judge Baguley in a crowded criminal court docket Monday.

Gary Lee Davis, 21, Caro, was sentenced to serve from 18 months to four years in jail following his guilty plea to a child abuse charge.

In his sentence order, Baguley recommended Davis obtain psychiatric counseling.

Davis was arrested in connection with an incident which took place Aug. 16, 1974, in Indianfields township.

Rodney Gene Brown, 27, Caro, also received an 18-month to four years sentence following his probation violation conviction.

Brown had earlier been convicted of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Several other less severe sentences were handed down by Judge Baguley.

James Lee Doerr, 22, Cass City, was sentenced to fines, costs and probation following his guilty plea to a charge of using the drug PCP.

Doerr was ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $400 along with court-appointed attorney fees and was placed on two years' probation.

He was also ordered to continue a substance abuse counseling program.

Doerr was arrested March 29 in Novesta township.

Greg Ray Smith, 21, no address given, was sentenced on a probation violation to additional probation and 30 days in the Tuscola County Jail with credit for 21 days served.

Smith allegedly violated his probation when he failed to maintain steady employment. He had originally been arrested in January of 1975 in Millington in connection with a breaking and entering.

William Frost Wendell, 30, Saginaw, pleaded guilty to larceny in connection with a theft from Frank's Gun Shop in Quanicasee last Jan. 9.

The plea was accepted and sentencing was set for Aug. 23. Bond was continued at $1,000.

Paul Raymond Humphrey, 31, Deford, will be sentenced Aug. 9 after pleading guilty to driving with a suspended license.

The charge came in connection with a probation violation.

During a non-jury trial held Tuesday, Robert Dean Spencer, 19, Caro, was found guilty of unlawfully driving away a vehicle of another (UDAA).

Spencer was charged in connection with the theft of a pickup truck owned by Ronald Phillips, a detective with the Tuscola County Sheriff's department.

The vehicle was stolen from a Cass City street May 8 and recovered near Ubly.

Spencer had waived his right to a jury trial.

Sentencing was set for Sept.

Preferences

People who are sailboat buffs look down their noses at powerboats. Conversely, those who prefer powerboats think there is too little action in the sport of sailing. It's a matter of personal preference.

Fortunately, there is enough water in the world to permit both kinds of boating. Also, there is enough of everything on this earth to enable us to live in dignity while doing personally what we like best — IF we use our resources properly... and remember to consider our fellowman.

Personal preferences... consideration. These two things apply to boating, to be sure. They also apply to choice of a mate, where to live, kind of occupation, and where and how to worship. You have freedom of choice. Don't forget to use it.

Red-hot Tuscola Sheriff's race sparks contests in Tuesday's primary

A red-hot race for Tuscola county sheriff on the Democratic and Republican tickets should add some zest to the primary election next Tuesday, Aug. 3.

Eight candidates are seeking the post held since 1963 by incumbent Republican Sheriff Hugh Marr, who is seeking his third four-year term. The term was lengthened from two years in 1968.

The 62-year-old Marr is being challenged by four other Republicans. They include Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson, Reese Police Chief William Thompson, former undersheriff Paul Berry and former deputy and Caro businessman Carl Raymond.

Wilson, 37, has served as Cass City Police Chief since 1970 and began his law enforcement career with the Sheriff's department under the late William Tomlinson in 1962. He is a native of Ellington township and a graduate of Cass City High School.

Thompson, 48, is making his second bid to become sheriff. He ran a write-in campaign in the 1972 general election. Thompson has been Reese Police Chief since 1970 and is a native of the Saginaw area.

Berry, 43, a Caro native, has been affiliated with the Sheriff's department since 1955 and served as undersheriff from 1969-72. He belongs to a number of police and civic organizations in Caro and is involved in Cub Scouts.

Raymond, 32, is a Caro native and was employed by the Sheriff's department from 1971-72. He currently owns the Cedar Closet, a men's clothing store in Caro.

On the Democratic side, Millington Police Chief Herbert Clancy and Akron area farmer Cecil Pelton will square off in the primary.

Clancy, 46, served briefly with the Sheriff's department before becoming Millington police chief in 1973. He is a 20-year veteran of the U.S. Army and has certificates in police administration from both the military and Macomb County Community College.

Pelton is making his second bid for the sheriff's job, this time as a Democrat. In 1972, he ran unsuccessfully as a Republican. He is a war veteran and long-time Tuscola county farmer.

An eighth candidate, Earl Scott of Caro, is running as a write-in.

OTHER COUNTY RACES

Four other races will be decided by voters in the primary. Donald Graf, 50, former county commissioner, and Mrs. Elgene Keller, 50, deputy treasurer, are each seeking the Republican nomination for treasurer to succeed Arthur Willits, 77, who retires at the end of this year.

Graf is currently a member of the County Equalization Department and resides near Unionville. He served on the finance and budget and personnel committees as a county commissioner, and was chairman of the health committee and vice-chairman of the Thumb District Health Dept.

Mrs. Keller has been an employee of the treasurer's department since 1958 and deputy treasurer since 1968. She is involved in a number of civic groups in the Caro area.

Joann J. Scriber, Fairgrove, is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

In the race for Drain Commissioner, Republicans J. Edward Goodchild and Robert W. McKay will square off for their party's nomination.

Goodchild, 58, has served as drain inspector for the past seven years under Drain Commissioner Leslie Lounsbury, who is retiring. He is a former Juniata township supervisor.

McKay, 20, Vassar, holds BS and MA degrees in geography from Michigan State University and has wide experience in soil mapping.

No Democrat has filed for the post.

In the Prosecutor's race, incumbent Patrick Joslyn will face former prosecutor Leo Maki on the Republican ticket.

Joslyn has held the post since Jan. 1, and is 34 years old. He is seeking his first full term. Joslyn is a native of St. Johns and is a graduate of the Detroit College of Law.

Maki, 53, has served both as prosecutor and assistant prosecutor in Tuscola county as well as prosecuting attorney in Ontonagon county. He was appointed in 1970 to replace the late James Epskamp, holding the post for two years.

In the only other county level contest, Frank J. Pernicano and W. Wallace Kent Jr. are seeking the Probate Judge slot being vacated by C. Bates Willis.

OTHER RACES

In the race for Register of Deeds, incumbent John Marshall, 61, faces no Republican opposition for election to a second term. Marshall was first elected in 1972.

Mrs. Margaret Weippert, Cass City, announced last week she plans to run as a write-in candidate against Marshall in the November general election.

County Clerk Elsie Hicks is also seeking her second full term without opposition. Mrs. Hicks has served as county clerk since the death of the late Archie Hicks in 1970.

She faces no Democratic opposition.

In Tuscola county, incumbent Circuit Court Judge Martin E. Clements will face attorney John Safran.

Clements was appointed to replace Judge James P. Churchill who was appointed a Federal District Judge in 1975. He is a former Lapeer County Prosecutor.

Safran, a former minister, is seeking the post largely on the basis of salary, claiming the present $31,500 is sufficient.

Both are running on the non-partisan ticket.

RLDS holds annual reunion

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints annual reunion for Eastern Michigan and Port Huron Districts is being held this week at their Bluewater Campgrounds on M-25, north of Lexington.

The Dorman Sisters sang at the opening service Sunday morning.

Elder John Conway, Zion Community Commissioner was the speaker for the 10:45 a.m. worship service. The tabernacle was filled to capacity for this service with 520 in attendance.

A special ministry of music was presented Sunday afternoon by the Huron County Bicentennial Choir, directed by Stanley Bauman. Fourteen churches of Huron county are represented among members of the choir.

The presentation, "I Love America", is a musical of patriotism, praise and prayer for America and includes choral, solos and narration. Talented six-year-old Clark Hanner accompanied some numbers on the snare drum.

The Restoration Singers from Port Huron will perform Wednesday evening, July 28, at 7 p.m. at the tabernacle.

COMMISSION RACES

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners will have at least two new faces seated at its meeting room table in January following this year's primary and general elections.

With the retirement of Chairman Charles Woodcock, Vassar, and Richard Dehmel, Caro, the board's makeup is set for change.

The hottest race is in Dehmel's district, one where four Republicans and one Democrat are scrambling for the job.

Republicans seeking the post are Donna Rayl, 40, Akron, Wilbur W. Partlo, 52, Akron, Louis A. King Jr., Wisner, and Edward C. Spannagel, 35, Unionville.

The lone Democrat in the race is Ralph E. Rasch.

In Woodcock's district six, George W. Clark Jr., Republican, faces former Vassar mayor Jacob Gleeson, Democrat.

In district five, incumbent Democrat Margaret Wenta will face the winner of a primary battle between Republicans John B. Huhn and Donald Buggia.

Commissioners facing no opposition include Maynard McConkey, Cass City, J. Benson Collon, Caro, Paul Nagy, Fairgrove, and Kenneth L. Kennedy, Millington.

All except Kennedy are Republicans.

House, Senate races draw candidates

Candidates for state and federal elective posts this week continued their scramble for last-minute votes as the Tuesday, Aug. 3, primary election date drew nearer.

In Tuscola county, voters will nominate candidates for 84th District State Representative, Eighth District Congressman and U.S. Senator.

In the 84th District State House race, Republican incumbent Loren S. Armbruster, Caro, faces no opposition. Armbruster, who served 22 years as vice-president of the Beet Sugar Association of Michigan, Ohio, New York, Wisconsin and Illinois, is seeking his third two-year term in the House.

On the Democratic side, three prospective candidates will slug it out at the polls. They include James T. McCann, Akron, Donald Acheson, Clio, and Allen J. Bailey, Otisville.

McCann is currently director of veteran's affairs for Tuscola county and is a 20-year veteran of the U.S. Army, retiring in 1974. McCann is a member of the planning council of the Thumb Area Consortium and is an authorized agent for the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund in Tuscola county.

Acheson, 41, is a factory worker and has been a county Democratic convention delegate since 1968. He is a U.S. Army veteran.

Bailey, 31, lost to Armbruster in 1974. He is a member of the Jaycees and is a member of the zoning and planning commissions in Otisville.

EIGHTH DISTRICT

Four Republicans are scrambling for their party's nomination for Eighth District Congressman. The winner will face incumbent U.S. Rep. J. Bob Traxler (D-Bay City) in the November general election.

The four GOP challengers include Mark Nelson, E. Brady Denton, Gary R. Kitts and Carl B. Flynn.

Nelson, 28, is making his second bid for the GOP nomination. He lost his first attempt in the 1974 special election. Nelson is a native of Bay City and has studied political science and history at Delta College. He served in Vietnam and won several decorations.

Denton, 31, is currently Saginaw county prosecutor, first elected in 1972. He holds a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Detroit and lectures regularly at Delta College.

Kitts, 27, lives in Auburn. He holds a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from the University of Michigan and a master's in finance from Wayne State.

Flynn, 72, is a Mt. Morris township farmer and is seeking the seat even though he does not live in the district. He has sought election to Congress in previous years.

Incumbent Traxler faces no Democratic opposition. The 45-year-old Congressman is completing his first full term in the House.

He was first elected in a special 1974 election that saw then-President Richard Nixon come to the district to campaign for Traxler's opponent.

Traxler is a former State Representative from Bay City.

SENATE

The retirement of U.S. Senator Philip Hart has opened a scramble among both Republicans and Democrats for the seat.

On the Republican side, Congressman Marvin L. Esch, Robert J. Huber, Thomas E. Brennan and Deane Baker have all tossed their hats in the ring for the post.

Democrats seeking to replace Hart in Washington are Secretary of State Richard Austin, Congressman Donald W. Riegler Jr., Congressman James G. O'Hara and attorney James Ellsman.

Loomis cow

lauded

by DHIA

A cow owned by brothers from Cass City has qualified for listing among the Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement Association's exclusive "Butterfat Top Twenty" high producers for the month of June.

The Loomis' 37 month old Holstein cow has completed her 305 M.E. lactation record with 21,175 pounds of milk, 974 pounds of butterfat and a 4.7 test. This is truly an outstanding record as compared to the state-wide Holstein breed average of 14,640 pounds of milk and 536 pounds of butterfat.

The Loomis herd is enrolled in the DHIA testing program and is supervised by Gordon Hagle of Bad Axe. They work in cooperation with William Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Agent, and Michigan DHIA, Inc.

Severance in primary contest

Two interesting races are taking shape on the Sanilac county political scene in which long-time incumbents are being challenged from within their own parties.

In district one, veteran County Commissioner Loyd D. Severance, (R-Decker) is facing a challenge from Michael Lucas, Snover, for the GOP nomination.

Severance is a former commission chairman and is a member of the Thumb Area Consortium. He was first elected to the commission in 1972 and served in an elective position on the Evergreen Township Board for 24 years. Lucas is a former director of an adult activities center for the Sanilac County Mental Health Department. He is currently embroiled in a controversy involving alleged union activities.

Lucas was recently fired by the department. He is currently appealing his case to the Michigan Employment Relations Commission.

On the Democratic side, Donald Wernette, 61, Cass City, is seeking the Democratic nomination.

In the Sheriff's race incumbent Ross E. Dundas is facing a stiff challenge from William Lakatos in the race for the Republican nomination.

Robert J. Lassman is the Democratic candidate.

Tuscola County Fair bows for 95th run Sunday

There'll be something for everyone next week when the 95th edition of the Tuscola County Fair raises the curtain on a week of excitement, fun and games at the Caro Fairgrounds.

This year's fair promises to be one of the best ever, with hundreds of farm, commercial and hobbycraft displays on hand for young and old alike.

A wide array of carnival rides, booths and treats are also waiting on the midway, again provided by Happyland Shows.

Here is a schedule of events for the week on a day-to-day breakdown.

SUNDAY

The fair gets under way at 7:00 p.m. this year with a special Parade of Progress, featuring floats, bands, cars, machinery and much, much more. The parade will be held on the fairgrounds.

It's the first time in recent memory that the fair began its traditional week-long run on Sunday.

MONDAY

Monday is the traditional entry day at the fair and a rush of exhibits is expected to fill the halls by noon.

While Happyland Shows puts the finishing touches on its colorful package of rides and thrills, senior citizens to pre-schoolers get their exhibits ready for the discerning eye of expert judges.

Four big days of harness racing get under way at 6:30 p.m. with the Coll Stakes at the grandstands.

State Garden Tractor Pulling competition is slated for 9:00 p.m.

TUESDAY

Tuesday is Kids' Day at the fair, with reduced midway rides for the youngsters. A grandstand show is set including kids games, contests and bike races.

All this gets under way at 1:00 p.m.

WEDNESDAY

Wednesday is Horsemen's Day at the county fair. Three horse shows will be on the docket, including a pony pulling contest at 1:00 p.m., the Tuscola County Sheriff's Posse Drill Team at 7:45 p.m. and harness racing at 8:00 p.m. will round out the day.

THURSDAY

Senior Citizens, this is your day. All admissions for older drop to zero all day Thursday until 6:00 p.m. All gates and an afternoon grandstand show will be free to all of the Social Security set.

Thursday is also Farmer's Day at the fair where they may enjoy harness racing at the grandstand at 2:00 p.m.

Future farmers will enjoy the annual 4-H and FFA livestock sale, scheduled to get under way at 1:30 p.m.

FRIDAY

Friday will feature the finals of the State Tractor Pull Championship, set to begin at 12:30 p.m. in front of the grandstands.

Throughout the day, old gasoline engine displays and a huge flea market will beckon fair patrons.

The day will be topped off with a demolition derby at 7:30 p.m. Get rid of all those traffic frustrations as you watch drivers crash into one another.

SATURDAY

Saturday is Sportsman's Day at the fair and the action begins at 10:00 a.m. with the heavyweight horse pulling contest.

At 1:00 p.m., the lightweight horses go at it in their own pulling competition.

A horseshoe pitching contest slated to begin at 1:00 p.m., motorcycle time trials at 6:00 p.m. and the races themselves at 7:30 p.m. will round out the day.

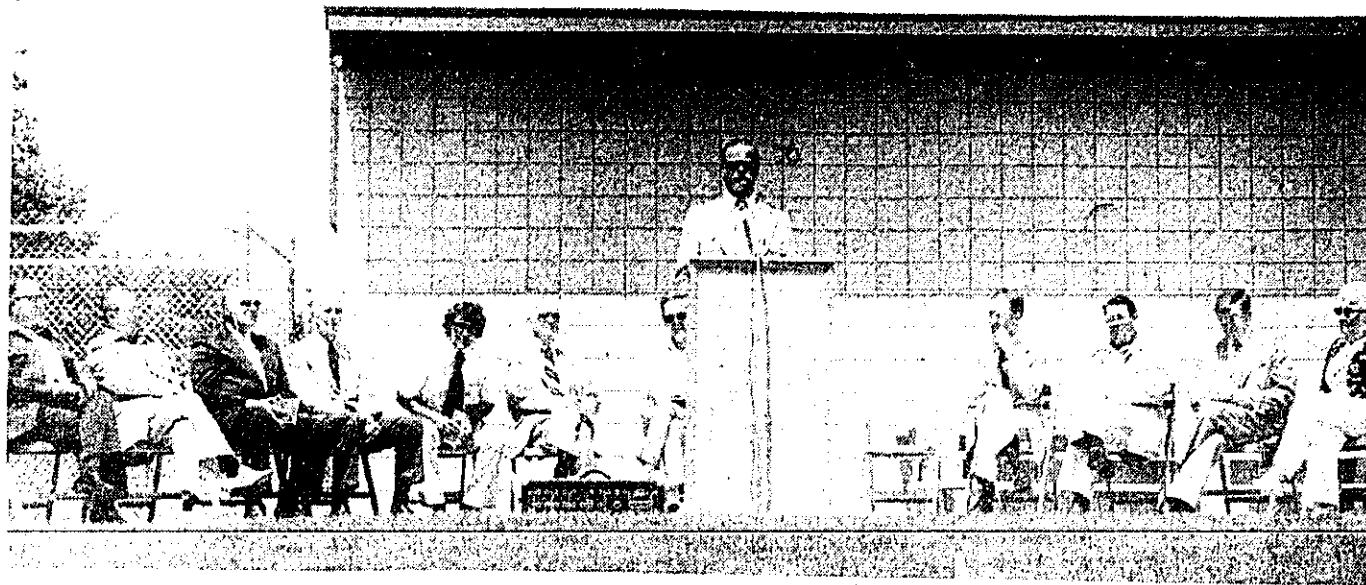

A second day of old gasoline engine displays and flea market will also highlight Saturday at the fair.

THERE'S MORE

Exhibit halls will be open each day of the fair, along with animal pavilions, the midway and concession stands.

Organizers are predicting one of the grandest Tuscola County Fairs ever.

Cass City bicentennial

POOL DEDICATION ceremonies were held Saturday at the Cass City village park. Shown participating are (from left) Henry Rock, Novesta township clerk; Harry Little, Lions Club; Rev. Harold Prong, Novesta Church of Christ; Frederick H. Pinney, Pinney State Bank; Rev. Harry Capps, First Presbyterian church; Dr. K. I. MacRae; Jack Esau, bicentennial committee chairman; Village President Lambert Althaver; Robert H. Keating, Pinney State Bank; Royce Russell, Elmwood township treasurer; Village Trustee Dr. D.E. Rawson and Mrs. Edward Baker, Zonta Club.

A LARGE crowd gathered Sunday night for the bicentennial choir's presentation and fireworks at the village park.

Thieves net $800 in stolen CB radios

Cass City Police continued their investigation this week into the theft of over $800 in citizens band radios, speakers and electronics equipment from the Thumb Appliance Center in Cass City, Saturday.

According to the police report, the thieves apparently climbed a TV antenna tower next to the building onto the roof and removed a board covering a window. Once inside the warehouse, they kicked open a door to the main portion of the store.

Police said a quantity of speakers, CB radios, tape players, cassettes and antennas were taken.

No arrests have been made early this week.

The theft came just two days after Police Chief Gene Wilson recovered a 1974 automobile stolen Wednesday, July 21, and owned by Jack Esau of 6100 Milligan Rd.

The keys and registration were reportedly left in the car when the theft took place. The auto was taken from behind the Rawson Dental Clinic where Esau works.

Wilson discovered the missing vehicle after seeing a set of tracks leading into a wooded area just north of Daus Road. The car was found covered with underbrush. The keys were missing.

No suspects have been apprehended.

Thieves broke into First Automotive, Inc., located at 6585 Main St., Monday, and reportedly stole $110 in cash.

According to Cass City Police, entry was gained by breaking out a window and unlocking a rear overhead door.

No arrests have been made. Cass City Police also investigated the theft of two automotive speakers taken from a car owned by Randy Bacon of 4410 S. Seeger St., last week.

According to the police report, the vehicle was parked in an alley next to Bacon's home when the theft took place. Police theorize the culprits may have entered the auto by unlocking a door with a coat hanger.

No suspects have been arrested.

Jeanne I. Anderson of Ritter Road, Cass City, reported a rear passenger window on her auto was smashed as the car was parked at the intersection of Buehrly and Milligan Roads, Friday night.

Ms. Anderson told officers she parked her car around 10:15 p.m. to go for a short walk. When she returned less than a half hour later, she discovered the damage.

Police said a rock the size of a baseball believed used to smash the glass was found nearby.

No suspects were arrested.

Tractor mishap kills Caro man

A 24-year-old rural Caro man lost his life last Thursday when he fell from a tractor and was run over by a cultivator about five and a half miles south of Caro.

Tuscola County Sheriff's officers identified the victim as Karl T. Crittenden of Cat Lake Road.

According to the Sheriff's report, Crittenden was working a field and apparently fell from the rear of the tractor as he made a right turn and was crushed beneath the cultivator.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Caro Community Hospital.

Saturday bike mishap hospitalizes Cass Cityan

A 65-year-old Cass City man was listed in "fair" condition and resting well Tuesday following a car-bicycle accident Saturday morning near the intersection of Houghton and West Streets in Cass City. Merrill Friske of Cemetery Road was injured around 8:45 a.m.

According to the Cass City Police report, Friske was southbound on West Street and apparently attempted a turn onto Houghton Street at the same time a car driven by John Grant McIntosh, 31, of 4409 Brooker St., Cass City, was headed east.

McIntosh told police it appeared the bike was traveling too close to the curb and that he didn't see it when he looked.

Friske was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital with his injuries. No ticket was issued.

A 25-year-old Unionville woman was shaken up Saturday when the car in which she was riding struck a second vehicle on M-81 near the Dodge Road intersection.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies said a car driven by Michelle Marie Langlois, 19, of 6121 McGregory Rd., Gagetown, was westbound and had stopped to turn into a driveway when a vehicle driven by Gary Lee Smith, 27, of 2365 E. Dickerson Rd., Unionville, failed to stop and struck her from behind.

A passenger, Louise Ann Smith, 25, was treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital. Two other passengers, Martin Smith, 5, and Keith Smith, 2, were not injured.

Smith was cited for careless driving. The accident took place at 1:35 p.m.

Roads, nine and a half miles west of Cass City.

Sheriff's deputies said Medrano was westbound on Cass City Road and attempted a right turn onto Vader Road when his vehicle rolled over into a ditch.

The driver was uninjured. A passenger, Raul Castillo, 22, (no address given) sought his own medical treatment for cuts and bruises.

The accident took place at 3:00 a.m.

Two persons escaped serious injury Thursday morning when their cars collided at the intersection of M-53 and M-81.

Sanilac County Sheriff's officers said a car driven south on M-53 by Louise Mabel Raver, 70, of Bad Axe, attempted to turn west onto M-81 at the same time another vehicle driven north on M-53 by Gertrude Pearl Northrop, 48, of Decker, attempted a left turn onto M-81.

Both cars collided around 10:00 a.m.

MUZZLE LOADERS had a field day blasting away at targets Saturday afternoon at the village park. The event was one of several in a day filled with activities.

SUSIE ASHER prepares to show off this bit of finery dating to the turn of the century during Saturday night's style show held at Cass City High School.

MRS. MARION SPENCER sorts beans with an old-fashioned sorter typical of those used 100 years ago. The display was a part of Friday's colonial life demonstrations at Cass City High School.

LLOYD SEVERANCE, Decker, flashes a big grin as he samples a slice of watermelon at Sunday's family picnic at the village park held as part of the bicentennial week end.

Something for everyone at

Detroit Institute of Arts

A lion's body and human head, dating 4,500 years into the past...

Sunday brunch accompanied by a live performance of Bach in a delightful garden setting...

Van Gogh, John Singer Sargent, 30,000 art objects from all major civilizations...

That exhibit, detailing the more than 4,000 years of efforts to maintain the natural limestone carving, runs through Sept. 5.

Other exciting happenings at the Institute include: --Performances of the hit musical, 'The Fantasticks,' preceded by a candlelight supper, through Sunday, Aug. 8.

--An exhibit of 100 prints, drawings, photographs and book illustrations depicting the satire of English graphic art, through Aug. 29.

--Special concerts, gifts from throughout the world at the Museum Shop and the peace and quiet of a cool, uncrowded adventure into art.

To set the record straight--some confusion arose after recent budget problems--the Institute is open five days a week, from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday,

Saturday and Sunday, and 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday.

Museum admission is free. (State and local funds as well as private contributions help finance the Institute.) There are, of course, charges for the lunch concerts and dinner theater performances, and the Institute accepts contributions at all times.

Located in Detroit's Cultural Center, near the Wayne State University campus, the Institute is within blocks of major freeways, 196, 175, and 194. There's plenty of reasonably priced parking nearby.

How about that for a mini-vacation?

Employe Rights

Full political rights for public employes, tempered by common sense safeguards against conflict of interest, are assured under new Michigan law.

They are, it seems, unless a court decides otherwise.

Legislation sponsored by Democrat Howard Wolpe of Kalamazoo was signed into law by Gov. William Milliken. The bill allows public employes at the state and local level to participate in all partisan political activities including running for political office, as long as these activities are undertaken on their own time.

State employes would be required to take a leave of absence to run for state office and local governmental units can impose the same requirement on employes running for office within the political subdivision that employs them.

Problems crop up when state employes are considered.

State Civil Service Commission Chairperson Ruth Robertson has said her group has authority to regulate all conditions of employment in the classified service.

Wolpe acknowledges that constitutional authority, but says it does not extend to the employes' private lives.

The new law does not cover local government workers hired with federal funds; because federal law prohibits partisan political activity on their part. But they can, however, run for nonpartisan office.

They're Gone!

Then you saw 'em. Now you don't.

It's a case of the vanishing billboards. Some 20,000 of the sizeable commercial signs have disappeared from Michigan's state highways in the past three years, since the Legislature passed a billboard control law in 1973.

You can even tell now that there's greenery next to the road in some spots.

Braves spoil Reds' undefeated season

The powerful "little Red machine" of the Cass City Girls' Softball Little League sputtered for the first time all season last week, dropping its last decision to the Braves in a 5-4 see-saw battle played Thursday at the village park.

The Reds, who had already locked up the league title, breezed to an early 1-0 lead after two innings and it looked like the team was on its way to duplicating the perfect 10-0 season posted by last year's Tigers.

But it was not to be. The Braves came back with three runs in the third inning and one more in the fifth. Meanwhile, the Reds bounced back with a run in the third and two more in the fifth inning to tie the contest at four-all.

Then it was the Braves' turn to be spoilers as they pushed across the winning run in the sixth inning.

For the Braves, Kelly Winter collected two hits to go with her five strike-out performance on the mound. Libby Hartel also picked up two hits.

For the Reds, Shelly LaPeer and Sherry Bader combined for five hits in the losing cause.

Tammy Root, who struck out three, took the mound loss for the Reds.

BRAVES-CUBS

It was the second win for the Braves during the week and it sewed up second place for the squad which finished one game ahead of the Lions.

Monday, July 19, the Braves defeated the Cubs 13-7. The Braves drew first blood with single runs in the second and third innings and poured on six more runs in the fourth inning to put the game out of reach.

The Cubs managed a pair of runs in the fourth and fifth innings and three more in the sixth. Meanwhile, the Braves tallied five more times in the sixth inning.

Sandy Guc and Libby Hartel each collected two hits along with Kelly Winter, who struck out seven on her way to the pitching win.

For the Cubs, Wendy Hatmaker and Debbie Maxwell each had two singles.

Padgett Randall took the loss for the Cubs.

TIGERS-HAWKS

In a battle of the also-rans, the Hawks fell one run short of their second victory of the season as the Tigers scored a 23-22 win, Tuesday, July 20.

Both squads scored three runs in the first inning as runs rained across the plate. The Hawks scored four times in the second, two in the third, six in the fourth and seven in the fifth for their 22 runs.

The Tigers trailed until the final inning when they came up with six runs to snatch the victory.

For the Tigers, Terri Agar took the win with relief help from Karen Little.

Top hitting star was Vicky Pohan with five hits in five trips. Julie Palmateer and Lori Opanasenko each collected four hits while Gail Little added three more.

For the Hawks, Karie LaBlanc and Lori Harrison tallied for five hits, with Miss Harrison taking the loss.

LIONS-CUBS

The Cubs took their second loss of the week Wednesday, July 21, as they bowed to the Lions 23-10.

The Lions scored in every inning but the third and sixth.

Their biggest inning was the seventh, when they pushed seven runs across the plate.

The Cubs managed four runs in the second and three each in the fourth and fifth innings.

Padgett Randall, who took the loss, had four hits including a triple. Sherri Wright also banged out a triple as one of her two hits.

For the Lions, Leslie Messer slugged a home run and had two more hits in four turns at bat. Nancy Tonti and Denise Okerstrom also had three hits, with Miss Okerstrom taking the pitching win.

An all-star girls' Little League game has been scheduled next Monday beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the village park.

All-stars win over Marlette

The anticipated showdown between the Lutherans and Deford lost a little of its luster due to postponement. The battle for the league lead is now scheduled for Friday night.

The Lutherans undoubtedly will be hoping for rain as eight of their players will not be available for the game.

Both of the league leaders won in the rain shortened league schedule for the week.

Thursday, July 22, Deford slipped by Colwood, 6-5, with substitute hurler Lewis Tibbits on the mound.

For Deford, Greg Reynolds, Lewis Tibbits, Scott Martin, Dave Doerr and Dave Luana each had two hits. Ron Cymbulski led Colwood with two hits.

In the nightcap Shabbona continued to press the leaders with an 8-6 win over Novesta Church of Christ.

Dale Auslander pitched the win and Rich Lowe was charged with the loss. Phil Bader showed the way with two hits for the winners.

The Lutherans had little trouble overwhelming the Baptists Monday night, 11-2, as Gary Mellendorf had one of his poorer nights on the mound. Al Romig pitched the first six innings and then rested as Ron Nurnberger mopped up.

John Hacker slammed

THE CHAMPS--The Reds pose at the end of a season that saw them take it all in Cass City Girls' Little League play. Shown are:

Middle row: Tamie McKee, Paula Alexander, Shelly LaPeer, and Julie Helwig.

Third row: Coach Don Root, Sherry Bader, Tammy Root, Sheree Lapeer, Tammy Tibbits and Coach Dave Dearing. Missing are Tina Wright, Penny Wright and Janie Wright.

County in line for federal funds

Tuscola county would be in line to receive $142,400 in federal funds following passage of a new local public works law last week. The $3.95 million bill was passed over President Ford's veto.

The funds would help finance local public works projects such as roads, schools, public buildings, sewers and treatment plants over the next year and a half.

The $142,400 grant comes under Title II of the bill. Title I contains $2 billion for state and local governments for construction or repair of local public works projects on which on-site labor can begin within 90 days of project approval.

Title III contains $700 million for wastewater treatment plant construction.

According to U.S. Rep. J. Bob Traxler (D-Bay City), last week's action merely authorized the program. Separate legislation must be passed before the money can begin to flow.

C.B. FLYNN for Congress Says:

It's time to show the Republican Party bosses a big mandate from the people for an honest money system - America's right to life.

Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to John Adams said, I agree with you that banking establishments are more to be feared than standing armies.

Let first things be first Aug. 3rd to restore a lawful money system.
