Marr, Joslyn winners in Tuscola primary

NO ONE WAS injured Monday afternoon when this giant tiling machine slid from a trailer and overturned at the M-53-Argyle Road intersection. Mike Cook, Peck, driver of the truck, said the machine fell as he attempted to turn onto Argyle Road from M-53.

Little excitement generated in local township races

Locally, there were few township races that generated much excitement in Tuesday's Primary election.

In Elkland township, all but one officeholder was returned without opposition. Unofficial returns show Supervisor Edwin Karr, Clerk Mrs. Carolyn Ware and Treasurer Art Randall each receiving 443 votes. Mrs. Ware will succeed her husband, Ferris, as clerk. Trustee Allen J. Merchant, facing no opposition, polled 404 votes.

In the only Elkland race, Fred Martin and Donald J. Miller were elected constables. Martin received 300 votes, Miller 207 and Jack McDaniel 171.

In Ellington township, incumbent Supervisor Fred Bardwell defeated fellow Republican Helen M. Lubaczewski 98-70 for the GOP nomination.

Ellington voters also voted to levy three mills for four years for road improvement. The measure passed 164-101.

Voters turned down a proposal to secure a loan of a maximum of $75,000 against anticipated revenues raised by the road millage. The question lost 144-106.

In the Republican primary, Clerk Hazel I. Tomlinson received 152 votes, treasurer Pearl Putnam polled 153 and trustee Frederick H. Janks received 142. Constable Harry Steele, Jr., received 150.

On the Democratic side, H. Wayne Babcock polled 36 votes for the clerk's nomination, Melvin F. Price received 35 for treasurer and Reginald Thompson received 28 votes for trustee.

In Kingston township, incumbent Republican Supervisor received 89 votes, treasurer Louis Wenzlaff received 102, Trustee Ronald Hampshire polled 81 and Constable George Chertniawski received 79.

On the Democratic side, incumbent Clerk Victoria Wolak received 93 votes, while treasurer candidate Emily Albrecht polled 61 votes and Edward Bilicki received 72 votes for a four-year trustee's term.

In Elmwood township, incumbents ran without opposition. They included Supervisor Roy Messer with 111 votes, Clerk Joanne Sattelberg with 115, Treasurer Royce Russell with 120 and trustee James Turner with 117.

In Novesta township, Clara Jean Clarke won the Republican nomination as treasurer with 68 votes, defeating Arlene Paladi with 44 votes and Mary Doyen with 31.

Trustee Fred Knoblet was renominated by an 85-51 margin over challenger Donald Englehart Sr.

Supervisor Gail Parrott received 123 votes and Clerk Henry Rock polled 132. Each faced no opposition for re-nomination on the Republican ticket.

SANILAC RACES

Totals were still sketchy

from Sanilac county at press time.

In the District one commissioner's race, incumbent Lloyd Severance, Decker, crushed challenger Michael Lucas, Snover, by nearly a 4-1 margin.

With one precinct still out, Severance led Lucas by a 424 to 189 margin.

Severance will face Democrat Donald C. Wernette, Cass City, in the November election. Wernette received 61 votes, with one precinct still out at press time.

Riegle, Esch favorites in Tuscola primary polling

While Tuscola County followed the statewide trend that gave Flint Democratic Congressman Donald Riegle and Ann Arbor Republican Congressman Marvin Esch their parties' nominations for the U.S. Senate, Huron and Sanilac counties went their own way in Tuesday's primary election.

With all of Tuscola county's 38 precincts reporting, unofficial returns show Riegle receiving 1,259 votes, besting Secretary of State Richard Austin by over a 2-1 margin.

O'Hara and Birmingham attorney James Elman ran far back in the field.

Riegle also took a majority of Democratic votes in Huron county. With 36 of 37 precincts reporting, Riegle had taken 673 votes against 464 for O'Hara and 435 for Austin.

In Sanilac county, it was a different story, with O'Hara defeating Riegle 671-467, with 48 of 53 precincts reporting.

On the Republican side, it was a similar story. In Tuscola county, Esch received 1,514 votes against 1,315 for former Supreme Court Justice Thomas E. Brennan. Former Congressman Robert J. Huber received 1,019 votes and University of Michigan margin.

Unofficial returns show Joslyn winning by a 2,970-1,588 margin over Maki in the Republican primary. The victory is tantamount to election since Joslyn faces no Democratic opposition in November.

Joslyn has served as prosecutor since Jan. 1, when he replaced former Prosecuting Attorney George Holmes.

In the Republican race for the county treasurer's nomination, deputy treasurer Eugene Keller defeated Donald Graf by a 2,556 to 1,983 vote margin.

Mrs. Keller will face Democrat Joann J. Schriber in the November election. Mrs. Schriber, running unopposed, garnered 1,766 votes.

In the Drain Commissioner's race, Republican J. Edward Goodchild easily defeated fellow GOP challenger Robert W. McKay with 3,624 votes to McKay's 2,058.

With no Democratic opposition, Goodchild will succeed the retiring Leslie Lounsbury.

BRIDGE MILLAGE

Tuscola County voters narrowly okayed a one-mill levy to repair and construct bridges over the next five years. Unofficial results show the issue carrying by a 3,026 to 2,806 margin.

Elkland township voters were nearly evenly divided on the issue. In precinct one, the millage lost by a 126-108 margin, but carried in precinct two by just two votes—115-113.

The levy carried 21 of the county's 38 precincts, but in many cases, the margin of difference was narrow. It passed by only three votes—71-68—in Wells township, for example.

Several other precincts passed the levy by from five to 10 votes. It's estimated the millage will raise a quarter-million dollars a year to help complete the county's bridge system.

84TH DISTRICT

Democrat James McCann rolled up an easy 3-1 win over Donald Acheson and Allen Bailey in Tuscola county as McCann battled for the right to face incumbent State Rep. Loren S. Armbruster in November.

Armbruster, facing no GOP opposition, polled 4,573 votes in the Republican primary.

COMMISSION RACES

There could be another woman on the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners next year as a result of Tuesday's commission race in District one.

Mrs. Donna Rayl, Republican, defeated three male opponents in capturing the nomination for the seat being vacated by Richard C. Dehmel.

Mrs. Rayl received 414 votes, outdistancing her nearest challenger, Wilbur W. Partlo, by nearly 2-1.

Republicans Edward Spanghel and Louis A. King Jr., received 176 and 74 votes respectively in their unsuccessful bids for the nomination.

Mrs. Rayl will face Democrat Ralph E. Rasch in the November election. Rasch received 213 votes and was unopposed for the nomination.

In District five, incumbent Democrat Margaret Wenta will square off against Republican John B. Huhn in November. Huhn defeated Donald Buggia by a 301-289 margin for the GOP nomination.

Mrs. Wenta, running unopposed, garnered 344 votes.

In District six, Democrat Jacob Gleeson and Republican George Clarke Jr. will seek the seat being vacated by retiring board Chairman Charles Woodcock. Each ran unopposed in Tuesday's primary.

Charge Cass Cityan in welfare fraud

A Cass City man was among five persons arrested this week on charges of welfare fraud, the Tuscola County Prosecutor's office announced this week.

The five were charged with fraudulently receiving more than $25,000 in welfare relief from the Tuscola County Department of Social Services.

The five include Frederick Horne of Cass City, Bennie Parker and his wife, Edith, of Vassar, and Leroy Blackmer and his wife, Ethelyn, also of the Vassar area.

Horne is charged with receiving $1,740 at the same time he was employed. He was arraigned before Tuscola County District Court Judge Richard Kern and was placed on $3,000 personal recognizance bond.

A pre-preliminary examination was set for Aug. 9, with preliminary exam set for Aug. 20.

The Parkers are charged with receiving more than $18,000 in ADC monies fraudulently. They allegedly failed to report income from Workmen's Compensation benefits and Social Security benefits.

Parker was placed on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond. His wife is reportedly scheduled to appear in court Monday.

According to County Prosecutor Patrick Joslyn, the arrests came following an extended investigation over several months. The probe was conducted by Michael Sherd of the DSS in cooperation with the prosecutor's office.

Joslyn issued a statement Tuesday requesting citizen help in locating more welfare cheaters in the county.

"It is requested that any citizen in Tuscola county having any knowledge of any person receiving welfare assistance illegally, immediately contact the Tuscola County Department of Social Services and ask for Michael Sherd, Investigator," Joslyn's statement said.

The arrests were reportedly made over the weekend.

THEY MAY be too young to vote, but Randy Guinther, 7, [left] and his brother Ronnie, 10, are still interested in the election as they scan the list of candidates running in Tuesday's primary in front of the Elkland Township Hall. The youths are sons of Mr. and Mrs. James Guinther of Cass City.

Tiny pink satin bows accented the Empire waist.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Ed Karr went out of the dairy business at the end of July. The Karrs' large herd was sold. Getting the cows to their new home wasn't much of a problem.

The Karrs just herded them up and drove them next door where the Harlan Lounsburies took over.

It's no wonder he went on to bigger and better things. Jerry Raymond coached here in 1952 and 1953 before moving to Highland Park and then to Eastern Michigan University. He's in administration now.

I had forgotten he coached here. He sat down beside me Saturday at a basketball tournament at Benzie and asked if I came from Cass City and then remembered my name.

He mentioned a few of the stalwarts of the time...Burdon, Wallace, Schwaderer...and said is Gagetown still sending all those fine athletes to the school?

I immediately brought him up to date and changed the subject.

Monday just had to be the finest day of the year for being outside and enjoying.

And I'm not saying that just because I beat Bruce Thompson in a golf match...although my spies tell me beating Bruce is more unusual than a day like Monday.

And just as enjoyable.

For its size Gagetown has to be among the more bustling communities.

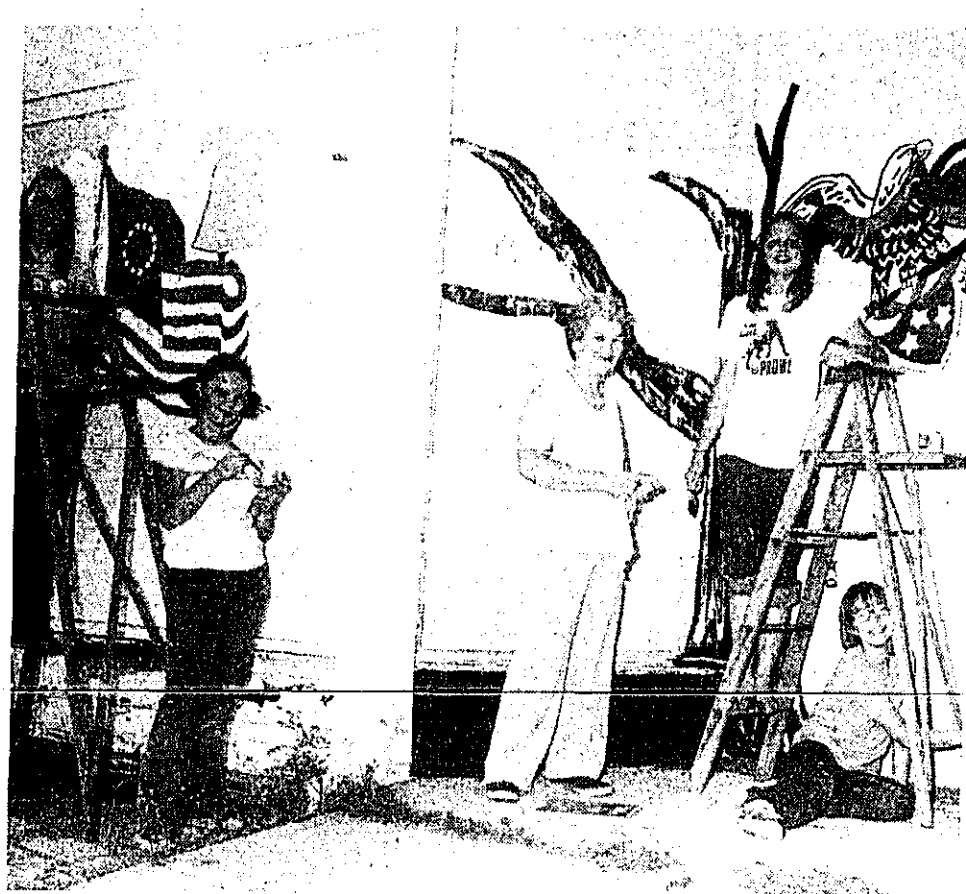

The town fights, then unites. Most every election there is competition at the polls. After the election the people seem to get together.

An example. The firemen are planning a circus Aug. 21 and the town has slated a bicentennial for Saturday, Sept. 4.

Burned a little energy to cruise north Sunday to Tawas City. Let me say again that the north country is alive and well.

The crowds were terrific all along the way. We stopped at a restaurant and received probably the worst meal that I've eaten all year. The food was poor, the prices were high. Despite this every table and chair in the joint was filled.

Boards halt Owen-Gage land transfer requests

Both the Tuscola and Huron Intermediate Boards of Education have called a halt to further property transfer hearing from the Owen-Gage district to the Cass City school district until the whole transfer question is solved in the courts.

Dr. Bruce Dunn, Tuscola Intermediate superintendent, and F. James McBride, Huron Intermediate superintendent, told the Chronicle this week each board plans to hear no more transfer requests until appeals have been heard.

The case is likely to come before the Michigan Court of Appeals in the near future. A formal petition had not been filed early this week.

The move by the Intermediate school boards cancelled a scheduled hearing last Wednesday, July 28, in Bad Axe involving transfer of nearly $1 million in land in Brookfield, Grant and Elmwood townships from Owen-Gage to Cass City.

McBride said fewer than 25 children are involved and that most of the land is owned either by retirees or non-resident owners.

"We've instructed our board to hold off on any more transfers until this thing is decided in the courts," McBride said.

Dunn agreed, saying the entire situation is "in limbo." "We aren't really sure what we can do at this point," Dunn said.

The case on appeal involves about $1.4 million in property transferred from Owen-Gage to Cass City and subsequently returned to Owen-Gage following a ruling last week by Ingham County Circuit Judge James T. Kallman.

Decide 1.5 mill

Owen-Gage levy Monday

Owen-Gage School District voters will go to the polls next week to decide the fate of an additional 1.5 mills for operation in a special election scheduled Monday, Aug. 9.

Supt. Ronald Erickson said the millage will run two years and raise approximately $27,000 per year. Currently, the district levies 25 mills for operation and 1.78 for debt retirement.

Voting will take place at Owendale, Erickson said.

He added that persons living in the "Goslin territory" near Gagetown will be eligible to vote in Monday's election. The land had been transferred to Cass City but was returned to Owen-Gage following a ruling by Ingham County Circuit Judge James T. Kallman last week.

Count your blessings and there is no time for fault-finding.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

I bleed for General Motors and the UAW.

I always thought that the workers at General Motors had it about as good financially as any group anywhere.

I always thought that when a company reported record sales and record profits they were doing better than all right.

How wrong I was. GM Board Chairman, Thomas A. Murphy, put me right the other day when I read his prepared statement saying that those profits weren't really all that great.

More are needed to account for inflation and to finance capital improvements, he says.

So you can see, $1.7 billion for a half year isn't that great at all.

Irving Bluestone, UAW vice-president and union negotiator, called the profits staggering and said that his workers would need increased benefits as inflation eats into these benefits.

Now you can start looking at this in the proper light. The top pay and fringes that UAW workers bring home are as illusory as the record profits that GM reported.

But relax. All is not lost. Come next year General Motors will take steps to get out of the financial morass that it finds itself mired in today.

It will raise prices. I hear a figure of 6 per cent banded around. But considering the present plight of the workers and the company, maybe it will be more.

That will give all of us the privilege of helping to see that GM and the UAW don't go broke.

You know, don't you, that what is good for GM is good for the country?

We all can afford to bleed a little for the good of the country.

I'm sure that both Murphy and Bluestone would have an explanation ready if you asked them to forego a price increase and a hefty boost in wages.

Probably point out that it would result in more car sales, causing shortages, resulting in more inflation.

What's more, if the new car price became so low that most everyone could afford to tool around in a '77, what would happen to the used car

"If It Fitz . . ." Who can you hate?

BY JIM FITZGERALD

It's strange how memories are triggered. Last week I met Donald Crowder in downtown Detroit, in front of Hudson's. And I was reminded of William Grigsby who lived in Colorado 13 years ago. I don't even know if he is alive today.

There is no reason Donald Crowder's name should mean anything to you, although if you ever saw him making his pitch, you might never forget him.

On the other hand, William Grigsby makes a great trivia question. He made front pages all over the world in 1963. Can you remember why?

In 1963, Grigsby was a 47-year-old Denver janitor suffering from "incurable cancer" of the liver. Doctors had all but given up. As a last gasp effort, they decided to attempt an operation never before performed — a liver transplant.

The operation was a success. The healthy liver was taken from a man who had died from a brain tumor. He was white. William Grigsby was black.

Thus Grigsby became the first man to prove Carter's Little Liver Pills are integrated.

Grigsby's case raised some interesting questions 13 years ago. Unfortunately, the questions are still pertinent today.

Could it be possible that, aside from complexion, Negroes are constructed the same way as the wonderful white folks?

If a "white" liver will function in a black man, can the same be said for the brain, the lungs, the eyes, even the heart?

How many "white" organs could be sewn into a little black boy before his bus driver let him off at the wrong school?

Medical science has been making tremendous advances. The wise doctors are not only transplanting internal organs, they are also sewing on severed arms and legs. They shift skin with the ease of a blood transfusion. They borrow from here and from there and fashion new noses and ears and chins and you name it.

It is conceivable that, some day, a white man could be walking around with an Indian's heart, a Chinaman's lung and a Negro's leg. Would you want your sister to marry him?

Which brings us back to Donald Crowder, who is black and who has no legs.

Crowder is 25, a former construction worker. Over two years ago, doctors said he had a bone disease. "I can't spell it or pronounce it," he told me. "But I had it."

23 operations later, he had no legs. They were both amputated above the knee.

Now Crowder spends most of his days begging on the streets. He makes a grotesque sight, half a man lying face down on his litter cart, with his empty pant legs flapping behind him.

A crude sign, lettered on a hunk of cardboard, hangs from the front of Crowder's "bed". It says: "We are raising funds for artificial legs. Could you please donate?"

Crowder is usually pushed around town by his brother-in-law, Robert Willis. Sometimes they have to walk all the way from the Crowder home on Joseph Campau. Sometimes they get a ride. Willis helps Crowder beg, standing beside him and calling out to passersby, almost like a sideshow barker.

Crowder said he takes in around $30 every day he is able to beg. Some days he is forced to stay home because of bed sores on his stumps. He figures the kind of artificial legs he needs will cost around $1,400.

I wonder why some government agency isn't buying legs for Crowder, but I didn't ask him. I didn't ask him if maybe he already had some artificial legs which he left home while he was out turning an easy buck.

Those are probably the questions I should have asked, but the truth is I'm not good at quizzing people with glaring handicaps. I choke on the hard questions and, to disguise my pity, I smile inanely when I feel like crying.

I can only report that Donald Crowder is a husky man, what is left of him, and he is strong. He proved it when he squeezed my hand in farewell. He said he wants a job, any kind of job that can be done by a strong man with no legs. If you can help him, I can put you in touch.

In the meantime, I ponder this fantasy which reaches back to 1963 and William Grigsby and the first liver transplant. Donald Crowder probably won't live to see it, but the day will come when doctors will be able to paste humans together like paper dolls, a leg here and an arm there.

But if they do it without regard to race or religion, how is a guy going to know for sure who to hate?

WHY IM-PRUV-ALL SILAGE? TIME! The major factor in putting up quality corn silage.

No matter what storage method the farmer used, silage normally takes from three to five weeks to complete the major portion of the ensiling process. During that time, nutrient losses are high. The longer a feed ferments, the more carbohydrates are burned up. This lowers T D N and increases storage loss. If the fermentation time is reduced to three to five days, the result is better silage. Why not stop in at Klein's and check out Im-PRUV-ALL today.

Your neighbor says

Marriages can work

With the divorce rate in America continuing to rise, some persons have suggested getting married is too easy and that it should be made as hard to obtain a marriage license as it is a divorce decree. Should it?

Mrs. Wilma Groth of Cass City says no because it really wouldn't solve anything.

"A marriage involves two people and if they want to make it work, they can," Mrs. Groth says. "If they're serious about it, they can make it a success. If you work at it you can overcome a lot of things."

Mrs. Groth also frowns on suggestions that young persons should experiment with trial marriages before actually committing themselves to anything.

"I'm too old fashioned to go along with that," she says.

Mrs. Groth, who has been married for 43 years, says her secret for a successful marriage involves consideration for your partner. Problems should be discussed when both are calm and not in anger.

Mrs. Groth was born in Sanilac county and has lived in Cass City nearly 30 years. Her husband, Robert, is retired. The couple have one son and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Hartwick dies Aug. 2

Mrs. Arlan (Lucy) Hartwick, 60, Cass City, died Monday, Aug. 2, at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a long illness.

She was born Jan. 20, 1916, in Pontiac, daughter of Mrs. Martha Atwell MacLarty of Guymon, Okla., and the late Archibald MacLarty.

She married Arlan Hartwick Dec. 25, 1936, in Cass City. The couple resided in Kalamazoo until returning to Cass City in 1942.

Mrs. Hartwick was a member of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Cass City, a member of the church's Ladies Aid and past chairperson of the Altar Guild. She was also a member of the Cass City Bowling League for many years.

She is survived by her husband; one son, Jack of Cass City; two daughters, Mrs. Richard (Kay) Armstrong and Mrs. Jack (Cathy) Van Allen, both of Lapeer; her mother, Mrs. Martha MacLarty of Guymon Okla.; three brothers, Elmer MacLarty of Guymon, Okla., and Neil and John MacLarty, both of Orlando, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Dawson Israel of Guymon, Okla., and Mrs. Augustine Coquelle of Palo Alto, Calif., and 12 grandchildren. One daughter preceded her in death.

Funeral services were scheduled Thursday, Aug. 5, at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church at 12:30 p.m., with Rev. Barry Foerster, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Caro, officiating.

Burial will be in Elkland cemetery.

Little's Funeral Home of Cass City handled arrangements.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Crossing guards—
it's about time

By Jim Ketchum

It's about time. After years of buck-passing by both sides, the Cass City School District and village government have tentatively agreed to station crossing guards along Main and Seeger streets.

The details haven't been ironed out yet and there's always a chance that the scheme could fall in on itself like a house of cards in a stiff wind.

But at least something has begun and that is good. Very good.

It doesn't take a committee to figure out the need. I'll offer you my chair and you can take a good, hard look.

Whenever school is in session, you can watch youngsters trying to guess when it's safe to cross the streets. Sit here long enough and chances are good you'll hear brakes squeal, too.

It's not a question of need.

It's a question of action. As the father of a daughter who'll be trudging her way to school sooner than I like to think, I have a stake in the crossing guard issue. So does any concerned parent.

While it's taken effort by a lot of people, Village Trustee Gary Jones has articulated it best. Jones has kept pushing the idea of crossing guards in spite of opposition within council itself.

Jones says the issue is more than money. The children are as much the village's responsibility as they are the school's and both sides need to be involved.

If council can snatch $7,500 out of the air to light up two softball diamonds in the park, another $3,000 or so for crossing guards shouldn't be that hard to find.

As far as the village taxpayer goes, it really doesn't make much difference. Whether the school or the village pays the entire shot, it's really the taxpayers who will foot the bill.

Arguing over the details doesn't really make much sense.

I realize the school's budget is considerably larger than the village's and that much of their student transportation costs are reimbursed by the state.

It's also true that relations between village government and the school haven't always been completely placid.

Maybe this is one way of fostering a little cooperation. I'm not sure. Still, I won't be convinced the guards will actually take their stations until I see the sunlight glinting off their coats and badges.

But council's action last week is a step in the right direction. The guards probably won't have any police powers and won't be stopping traffic. They'll only gather a group of children until it's safe and then lead them across the street.

No big deal. Just a needed deal.

It's about time. Time invested in happiness is the best form of security.

TUSCOLA COUNTY Bean Queen Kristy Jo Mowry helped kick off Owendale's bicentennial celebration Saturday. The day featured a parade, a mustache contest and the dedication of an historical monument detailing the early history of Owendale.

in area voting Tuesday

Regent Deane Baker polled 792.

In Sanilac county, Brennan held a slim lead with 1,632 votes, just over 100 more than Esch.

In Huron county, Esch won with 2,130 votes, over 300 better than Brennan.

With 96 per cent of the state's precincts reporting, Riegle had 302,717 or 43 per cent of the vote. Austin was second with 202,546 or 29 per cent. O'Hara was third with 162,018 or 23 per cent, followed by Elzman with 30,673 or five per cent.

On the Republican side, Esch garnered 202,984 or 44 per cent, followed by Brennan with 127,714 or 27 per cent. Huber with 82,821 or 18 per cent and Baker with 50,902 or 11 per cent.

Locally, Elkland township voters favored Esch and Riegle over the rest of the field. Esch defeated Huber in Elkland township by just five votes-143-138-in a combined total of both precincts.

In the Democratic primary, Riegle garnered 87 Elkland township votes against 39 for O'Hara.

A total of 703 Elkland township voters went to the polls.

EIGHTH DISTRICT

In the Eighth District Republican primary, it was no contest as Saginaw County Prosecuting Attorney E. Brady Denton easily defeated three other challengers for the right to face Democratic Congressman J. Bob Traxler in November.

In Tuscola county, Denton scored better than 2-1 over his nearest opponent, Mark Nelson.

Unofficial returns show Denton with 2,855 votes, Nelson with 1,340, Carl B. Flynn with 254 and Gary R. Kitts with 162.

In Elkland township, it was much closer, with Denton besting Nelson by a 223 to 200 margin. Flynn and Kitts split a smattering of remaining votes.

In Sanilac county, Denton defeated Nelson by 2-1 and by an equally wide margin in Huron county, according to unofficial, incomplete returns.

In the Democratic primary, Traxler, facing no opposition, rolled-up 1,983 votes in Tuscola county, 1,048 in Sanilac and 1,442 in Huron county, according to incomplete returns.

Some 40 persons attended, including officials from Elkland township, the village of Cass City and State Representative Loren Armbruster.

What most of the persons present were concerned with were solutions to immediate problems. Where roads will go now. Whether or not the railroad from Imlay City to Caseville would be abandoned. Why the proposed expanded M-53 stops at Bad Axe.

These questions went unanswered. The panel's function is long-range development, Chisholm explained. What should be done to care for the area at the turn of the century.

What we would like from you tonight is input on local conditions that we should consider, Chisholm concluded.

BETTER HEALTH

Pills for all reasons

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

When a public figure was reported as having become comatose after an apparent overdose of a sedative that millions of patients, not enjoying notoriety, had considered to be harmless, the telephones in doctors' offices began to jangle.

The sedative involved in one such recent, widely publicized near-disaster, was the frequently prescribed and widely used sleeping preparation "dalmane," a derivative of a chemical substance called "benzodiazepine." Dalmane poisoning, even as a result of high overdose, rarely according to the experts results in more than a prolonged period of deep sleep.

This is in contrast to overdosage with the more familiar sleeping potions such as phenobarbital or other barbiturates, which are more regularly life threatening when taken in excessive amounts. Dalmane, however, like barbiturates and other sedatives, can be exceedingly dangerous even in usually therapeutic amounts when taken together with the most popular and the most pernicious of all drugs which plague modern man — alcohol.

Alcohol, plus sleeping pills — indeed alcohol plus almost any otherwise reasonably safe medication — can produce a danger and a menace to life.

It would be well for all those persuaded by the popular assumption that almost all psychological distress, as well as wakefulness in the night, requires to be treated with pills, to recognize that modern sedatives and mood elevators do not always mix well with other drugs; and further, to recognize that martinis, scotch and gin slings are every bit as much drugs as are those that junkies sell on street corners.

When the depressant effect of dalmane, as well as of other well known derivatives of benzodiazepine, such as librium and valium, is added to alcohol the result may be far more disastrous than the effect of either one alone.

An account of a tragedy or near tragedy involving public figures considered to be newsworthy should serve to remind us that in our massive acceptance of "pills for all reasons," potential tragedy that may never be announced in the evening news or spread in headlines is a threat to all careless pill poppers. This is particularly so for those who think that there is no harm in a nightcap to help the pill along.

The real purpose of tranquilizers, sedatives and soporifics is to provide temporary relief to the seriously ill. When they are employed as crutches for limping psyches and used as shields to ward off the effects of the everyday slings and arrows of outrageous fortune, they not only fail in their mission, but they can threaten the well being and the very life of those who abuse them.

Traxler slates Thumb

farm tour

U.S. Rep. Box Traxler, D-8th District, will make an official tour of Department of Agriculture Extension and Soil Conservation farm project sites in the Thumb Aug. 12 and 13.

Traxler is making the tour as part of his duties as a member of the House Appropriations subcommittee on agriculture at the invitation of the USDA's Soil Conservation and Extension services.

The Soil Conservation Service tour Thursday, Aug. 12, will include visits to four farms to view soil, watershed and flood prevention projects and a luncheon meeting with soil conservation service county directors from Bay, Arenac, Saginaw, Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac and Lapeere counties at the Elbow Room in Caro.

The tour, to be conducted by Tom Jewette, SCS Thumb area conservationist and Bob Fellows, SCS state conservationist, will visit farms operated by Paul Finley, north and west of Caro; Donald Price, south and east of Caro; Frank Satchell, north and east of Caro; and Jerry Meyer, west of Munger.

The Extension Service tour Friday, Aug. 13, will include visits to three farms to view grain and livestock programs, a stop at the Sanilac County Fair to view various farm exhibits, and a visit to the Pigeon Co-op Elevator.

The farms to be visited and projects viewed include the Richard Donahue farm near Caro, corn growing and harvesting project; Paul Prouse dairy farm in Marlette, and Welland Herford farm near Elkton, cattle, sugar beets, wheat, corn and beans.

AGENT'S CORNER

Try versatile Zucchini

Ann Ross - Extension Agent

Zucchini, a summer squash from Italy, is gaining popularity for its flavor and nutritive value, according to Thumb Extension Home Economist, Ann Ross.

While a cup of raw, unpeeled zucchini has only 25 calories, it has 29 out of the 45 milligrams of vitamin C needed daily by adults. Even one cup of mashed, cooked zucchini still has over half of your vitamin C needs, and you'll get a bit of iron, vitamin A, and other valuable nutrients besides.

Zucchini may be eaten raw, in salads, boiled and buttered, cooked in casseroles, made into pickles or pancakes, baked in a quick bread, or even in lemon pie.

Zucchini may be canned in a pressure canner (it's a low-acid vegetable) or blanched for three minutes, cooled quickly and frozen.

Many prefer zucchini about five to seven inches long and about one and one-quarter inch in diameter, (about the size of cucumbers). But larger sizes are good, too.

Recipes are available at the County Extension Office.

Notes from the farm

By Don Kebler

The tri-county swine producers are picking out their choice barrows for the Aug. 7 Barrow Show at the Tuscola County Fair.

This will be the third year of this event which accomplishes three purposes. This allows our fine producers to proudly exhibit their excellent swine to each other and the public. It allows them to learn the quality of swine they produce by market judging standards. Lastly, they have the carcass evaluation made of their entries which also shows them the type of barrows they produce as a guide to breeding and feeding improvement.

Youth will also be entering this class and five trophies will be awarded.

Corn Borer is present in our corn now and it is too late to spray as the larva is protected inside the stalk. The best non-chemical control of this insect is still for everyone to plow-down their corn stalks in the fall or before May. There are two generations annually and it is the larva of the second generation that overwinters in the corn stalks and emerge as adult moths around June to lay eggs on the corn leaves.

Insecticides can be used effectively when the eggs are in the black-head stage or when the larvae are feeding down the leaf. When they are found in the leaf whorl and before they bore in the stalk they can be chemically controlled but with more difficulty.

The Western corn root-worm adult beetles have been observed on the tassels and silk within the last two weeks. These beetles are yellow with black stripes down the wing covers. They have long antennae. If you find as many as two or more adults per ear an aerial spray is advisable. Soil applied insecticides at planting time is a growing season control measure.

August is the time to take those soil samples for your fall wheat fertilizer needs. It still pays to apply at least half your wheat crop's nutrient needs at planting time and with the drill. Be sure to add all the phosphorus and potassium needed for the crop by the time the crop is planted. Additional nitrogen should be applied in late winter and early spring.

I guess I am a bit concerned about the potential nitrogen loss that can occur under certain conditions when applied before planting time. Both de-nitrification and

Blueberry canning tips

Allene Mills - Extension Agent

We are now in the blueberry season and I would like to share two methods that can be used in canning these for later use.

If you want to hold blueberries as much like their original texture and taste as possible when canned and to be used like fresh berries in cakes, muffins, pies, you must blanch them.

Put no more than three quarts of berries in a single layer of cheese cloth about 20 inches square. Gather and hold the cloth by the corners and dunk the bundle to cover the berries in boiling water until juice spots show on the cloth - about 30 seconds. Dip the bundle immediately in cold water to cool the berries.

Drain them. Pack into hot jars leaving 1/2 inch head space. Add neither sugar nor liquid. Adjust caps. Process pints 10 minutes, quarts 15 minutes in boiling water bath.

The second method is to use a raw pack. Wash berries, drain. Fill jars to 1/2 inch of top. For a full pack, shake berries down while filling jars. Cover with boiling medium syrup which is four cups of water and three cups of sugar. Leave 1/2 inch headspace. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath pints 10 minutes and quarts 15 minutes. The berries can be used for eating.

All The Way

When Pat was younger, he used to think I was a superman. He's older now, and he knows that I'm not. But he still has that special kind of confidence kids have in their parents... and more than anything else, I want to merit that trust.

There was a time when I seldom went to church. Then, one day I realized that if I were going to be the kind of father Pat needed, I had to have help - God's help. I went to church, and I prayed. At first, it wasn't easy to pray. But gradually the words came stronger and clearer.

Maybe I'll never be able to give Pat everything I'd like to give him. But he can always depend upon me for the most important thing of all: truth. I found truth in the Church.

Even though school-age children haven't overrun Cass City's summer arts and crafts program at the village park this year, organizers say it's been a good year—better in fact than in the past.

Cass City Village Council Meeting

A special meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held July 14, 1976 at 5:00 p.m. at the Municipal Building. Present were Trustees Rawson, Bliss, Tuttle and Ware.

It was moved by Trustee Tuttle and supported by Trustee Bliss that the digging of a landfill trench be authorized. Motion carried.

After review of all bills it was moved by Trustee Bliss, supported by Trustee Rawson, that the balance due to Herron Builders be paid as soon as approved by the contract supervisor. Motion carried.

After discussion, it was moved by Trustee Tuttle and supported by Trustee Ware that the light poles and lights from the football field be installed around the two new softball diamonds on the east side of the park at a cost of $7,500.00, which cost would include new wiring from the top to the bottom of each pole. Motion carried with the condition that the Village receive all the old wire.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

pool, according to Cheryl Kozan, one of three supervisors for this year's activities. With arts and crafts at the new facilities building, it's only a short walk from the pool, she says. This helps bring more kids in.

"This year, we've averaged about 30 students a day," she says. "We have had as high as 100."

With another week left to run, Miss Kozan says the program is more than a baby-sitting service.

"We try to teach them something," she says. "We try to keep them busy but we also want to teach them how to get along with each other."

This year, students have worked with plaster of Paris, papier mache, needlepoint, painting and drawing. They've also made puppets, held a pet show and helped clean up the park in a day-long project.

"We've found that once a student gets involved with the program, they generally keep coming," Grace LaPonsie, another supervisor, said. "They're here because they want to be, not because they have to be here."

The program is strictly informal, with students coming and going as they please. They also have the freedom to work on whatever project they choose. The $500 budget pays for all the materials used by the students.

A third supervisor in the program is Joan Erla of Cass City.

Miss Kozan says one important part of the program is helping the students achieve self-esteem.

"We try to treat the kids as individuals," she says. "We try to make them feel important—to feel wanted."

Miss Kozan is a senior at Central Michigan University and plans to teach elementary education after graduation. She thinks the summer arts and crafts program has helped her as much as she has helped the students.

helped the students.

"In school, things are more structured and the kids mind better," she says. "Here, they don't always do just what you want them to do. It's a challenge."

Sanilac County Fair sets week-long run

Six days of fun, games, rides and exhibits get under way next week as the Sanilac County 4-H Fair begins its week-long run Monday, Aug. 9, at the fair grounds in Sandusky.

This year's edition of the fair promises a host of special events along with a variety of crop, livestock and home craft exhibits.

MONDAY

Monday is entry day with 4-H projects entered and some judged. Entries will be taken throughout the day for judging which will continue for the entire week.

Also scheduled Monday is the tractor pulling contest. Every type of tractor from garden variety through super stock will compete for top prizes.

The contest begins at 7:30 p.m. with stock garden tractors four through nine horsepower and up to 15 horsepower. Other classes include hobby garden tractors, 1,000 pounds single piston; mini-tractors, 1,550 lbs.; hobby modified tractors, 5,200 lbs.; farm class tractors, 6,000 lbs.; and super stock class tractors from 7,200 to 12,200 lbs.

TUESDAY

Tuesday is senior citizens day at the fair with free grandstand admission for everyone.

The pony pull is scheduled for 4:00 p.m., with horsepulling at 9:00 p.m.

At 7:00 p.m., the King and Queen contest begins, with a lucky man and woman being chosen King and Queen of the 1976 fair.

The Sanilac County Saddle Club will present its horse show at 7:30 p.m.

WEDNESDAY

Wednesday is Children's Day at the fair. Along with continued 4-H judging, the day will be devoted to the small fry from 1:00-6:00 p.m.

The evening's special attraction will be Grandpa Jones, one of the stars of television's "Hee-Haw" program. Jones is scheduled to perform at 7:00 and 9:00 p.m.

THURSDAY

Motorcyclists, this is your day. A gigantic Motor Cycle Thrill Show is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. at the fairgrounds.

Local riders are being invited to submit entries at area cycle shops. All events are open to both men and women.

New events this year include a slalom race set up in front of the grandstand, a broad jumping contest, a slow race and the ultimate skill contest—wheelies—with some riders able to even negotiate the banked speedway turns.

Trick and fancy exhibition riding by the "Spirit of '76" professional team plus exhibition two-wheel car driving is also on the bill.

FRIDAY

Another children's day from 1:00-6:00 p.m. and the final day of the 4-H judging highlight Friday's fair events.

The second day of tractor pulling gets under way at 7:30 p.m., with mini-tractor, hobby modified, farm class, super stock and four-wheel drive pickups all scheduled to compete.

SATURDAY

The final day of the fair includes a demolition derby scheduled to begin at 8:00 p.m. Take out those highway frustrations watching drivers trying to knock out their competition for the top prizes.

Exhibits will still be on display during the final day of the fair with many sporting a bevy of ribbons won in judging competition during the week.

Special kids get wet treat in swim field trip

Take 28 children and young adults, a warm day and an inviting swimming pool and chances are good you've got the ingredients for a fun-filled time.

It's no different when the people are mentally handicapped.

Last Thursday, July 29, a group of Darby School students from Caro spent about four hours as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Kapala of Mushroom Rd., Deford, splashing in their backyard swimming pool and having the time of their lives.

"This is just great," Mrs. Kapala said as she watched the youths and their supervisors enjoying the water. "I think it's a real accomplishment for them to get out in the world and enjoy themselves."

According to Ms. Betsy Osborn, lead teacher for the Severely Mentally Impaired (SMI) students, the outing

School to open Sept 7

Cass City Public Schools will open Tuesday, Sept. 7, for a full-day session, Supt. Donald Crouse said this week.

Crouse said the date was being announced early due to a number of requests from parents who still want to plan vacations this summer.

New teacher orientation will be held Wednesday, Sept. 1, with orientation for all teachers scheduled the following day.

Crouse said all students who have not registered for the new school year should do so during the week of Aug. 23. Principals will be at each school to handle registrations, he said.

Appointments should be made to insure a speedy sign-up process, he said.

A detailed schedule will be announced in about two weeks, he said.

was arranged as a field trip for the students.

The students attend classes through the summer as well as the rest of the year, Ms. Osborn explained. A swim outing is one of their favorites, she says.

"Some of them are a little shy," she commented. "But generally most of them open up before too long."

It was obvious Thursday as aides helped older students attempt the fundamentals of kicking and learning how to stay afloat.

Younger students clung affectionately to teacher aides who held them in the warm, inviting water. In spite of the wide variety of mental handicaps represented, they didn't get in the way of having a good time.

One little girl who had undergone open heart surgery as an infant and who had suffered an oxygen deficiency to her brain, smiled with wide blue eyes as she lay in an oversized carriage resting after her turn in the pool.

She did not speak but her face said she was happy.

Mrs. Kapala said she and her husband were glad to donate their pool for the youngsters.

"I think these people are doing wonders for the kids," she commented. "I'm glad we can help out."

JENNIFER KAPALA - an aide, helps one of the younger handicapped students enjoy herself in the warm water.

Bicentennial gets Gagetown okay

Gagetown Village Council voted to participate in the village's Bicentennial celebration during council's regular meeting held Monday night at the village hall.

Council agreed to give the organizing committee up to $300 for expenses.

The celebration is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 4, beginning with a parade at 10:00 a.m., followed by a potluck picnic at the village park.

Council discussed the possibility of allowing a beer tent but turned thumbs down on the idea.

The organizing committee is continuing to accept entries for the parade, it was reported.

In other business, council approved a permit for the Gagetown Fire Department to hold a circus Saturday, Aug. 21. Shows will be held at 2:00 and 8:00 p.m. at the village park.

Paul Lefler, Tuscola County Building Code administrator, explained current county building codes to council. Lefler said the objective of the codes is to make sure work is done properly.

He said any electrical work over $50 must be approved by the county as well as plumbing work. Septic permits must be obtained from the Thumb District Health Department, he said.

Council also heard a request from Laurence O'Deff of Detroit to paint the village water tower. O'Deff told council the job would take four days and cost $2,500. A five-year guarantee would be included.

Council tabled the request for further discussion.

Trustee John Rinke was appointed street administrator. Other members of the street committee are Elmer Shope and Tom Reehl.

Council heard a number of complaints concerning barking dogs in the village and promised to check into the situation.

Trustees agreed to strictly enforce an ordinance stating minors must be off village streets by 10:00 p.m. The ordinance was originally passed in 1965 and amended in 1970.

Police probe IGA theft

Cass City Police apprehended a 16-year-old juvenile in connection with the theft of $60 in groceries, beer and wine from the Cass City IGA Foodliner Sunday.

Officers reportedly arrested the youth, whose name was being withheld due to his age, after reportedly finding him intoxicated. Investigation led police to a garage in Cass City where a shopping cart and the stolen merchandise was found.

Police said a backdoor padlock at the grocery store was forced open.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies are continuing an investigation of the case.

Caro State Police are probing the theft of a van from Kingston Teen Ranch which took place Friday. Two juveniles, ages 14 and 15, disappeared from the ranch the same day.

The van was reportedly stolen during the early morning hours from the ranch, located four miles south of Kingston.

At press time, the van and the youths were still missing.

CASS CITY Girls' Softball team members got together for an all-star game Monday night at the village park. Four members from each squad were chosen to participate. Final score was 11-10.

Members of the two all-star teams are [front row, from the left] Kelly Hall, Tammy Rabideau, Tammy McKee, Denise Okerstrom, Lori Opanasenko, Karen Little, Vicky Pobanz, Shelly LaPeer, Tina LaRoche, Kari LaBlanc, Chris Proctor and Sandy Guo.

Essexville man dies in Tuscola crash

Alan W. Harder, 16, Essexville, became Tuscola county's 14th traffic fatality of 1978 early Saturday morning when his car ran off M-25, two miles northeast of Quinacasee, landing in a drainage ditch.

Harder was killed instantly according to Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies.

Two passengers in the car, Thomas Alexander, 16, Madison Heights and Keith Weiler, 17, Essexville, were seriously injured. They were taken to Bay City Mercy Hospital.

The auto reportedly traveled 350 feet before striking the ditch bank.

The accident took place at 6:40 a.m.

The number of area traffic accidents declined sharply this week with only minor property-damage accidents reported.

One of the most spectacular accidents took place Monday when a huge bulldozer-tiling machine slid from the rear of a flatbed truck and rolled on its side at the intersection of M-53 and Argyle Road, seven miles southeast of Cass City.

Mike Cook, Peck, driver of the truck hauling the $100,000 machine, was uninjured.

Cook said he was headed south on M-53 and attempted to turn east onto Argyle Road when the accident took place. John Cook, Peck, owner of the machine, and several workmen spent over an hour attempting to right the machine.

The accident took place shortly before 2:30 p.m., and was not policed.

Ada May Wagoner, 65, of White Creek Rd., Kingston, was shaken up Friday when a car driven by her husband, Frederick, 75, struck a second vehicle at the M-46-Ringle Road intersection, five miles northeast of Vassar, Friday.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated said a car driven by William Orville Cragg, 37, of Fair-grove, was eastbound on M-46 and attempted a left turn onto Ringle Road when the Van Wagoner vehicle struck it from behind.

Mrs. Van Wagoner sought her own medical treatment. No ticket was issued. The accident took place at 3:40 p.m.

Patrick James McCarty, 49, of 5700 Uby Rd., Uby, escaped injury when his car struck a deer on M-46, six miles southeast of Caro. Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies said the deer ran from the south shoulder into the path of the car.

The accident took place at 9:20 a.m. Saturday.

Kenneth Sylvester, 18, of 4551 Shabbona Rd., Cass City, was uninjured when his car slid out of control and landed in a ditch on Phillips Road, about a half-mile north of Deford, Saturday.

Caro State Police said Sylvester was northbound at about 45 miles an hour when his vehicle slid sideways on loose gravel and went into a ditch.

The accident took place at 3:00 p.m.

Set engine show

The Thumb Area Old Engine and Tractor Association of Michigan will hold a gas engine and tractor show Aug. 13-15 at the Caro Fairgrounds.

The public is invited to attend.

Philadelphia: past, present combine to tell America's Revolutionary tale

By Jim Ketchum

If it hadn't been for what happened in Philadelphia 200 years ago, Cass City's recent Bicentennial celebration might have been held in the woods with five squirrels and three elk in the parade.

Cass City's patriotic happening captured part of that spirit as each Bicentennial

Huron

Memorial inks agreement

Kenneth E. Wolt, President of Saginaw General Hospital, has announced that Saginaw General has entered an agreement to provide management services to Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe.

The Board of Trustees at Huron Memorial hospital voted unanimously at their July 20 board meeting to accept the affiliation agreement that Saginaw General Hospital had presented the previous week.

The agreement provides for Huron Memorial's participation in materials management, preventative maintenance, purchasing advice and agreements, financial and budgeting assistance, industrial engineering, administrative manuals, computer services, physician recruitment, etc.

Huron Memorial trustees will maintain final control and authority over the hospital's operation.

Saginaw General Hospital recently received a $250,000 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek to help develop "Operation Outreach", the contract management services program it offers to hospitals in the Thumb area of Michigan.

Huron Memorial Hospital follows Hills and Dales Hospital in Cass City, Harbor Beach Community Hospital and Deckerville Community Hospital in participating in the program.

observance across the nation does. But it becomes more real when you see where it all began.

Surprisingly, it isn't too hard. Not if you get there early, preferably during the middle of the week.

The historic area in Philadelphia is both state and federal park area. That doesn't mean Smokey the Bear will greet you with a pail and shovel.

It does mean you'll be able to get around thanks to a plentiful supply of park workers who give surprisingly good directions. It helps to have a good map, too.

The best way to see where the Revolution began is on foot. Park your car anywhere you can, put on your sneakers and start walking. Most of what you want to see is within walking distance anyhow.

If you can't or don't want to walk, horse drawn carts are available. These are not run from the goodness of anyone's heart. They cost.

Besides, much of what's historical is an easy three or four-block walk from Independence Hall.

Take the Liberty Bell for instance. It's been moved into a glass pavilion across Chestnut Street. Get there before 9:30 a.m. and chances are good you can walk in without waiting in line.

Yes, Virginia, it's cracked (remember, you read it here first). It happened during the funeral of Chief Justice John Marshall in 1835.

The bell was ordered by the Pennsylvania Assembly in 1751, and cracked while being tested. It was shipped back to England where it was cast a second time and returned in 1752.

The park people will let you touch it. Just don't try sneaking in with a hammer to ring it. It makes the guards nervous.

INDEPENDENCE HALL

The main attraction is Independence Hall. Guided tours route you through an information room where they tell you what you'll see and to not run up and down the stairs. They'd like the building around for the tricentennial.

The tour includes the room where the Declaration of Independence was signed and where the Constitution was hammered out.

As with the Elkland Township Cultural Center, the building doesn't make any money. But it's nice that somebody thought to maintain it. Maybe someday, someone will say the same thing about the Cultural Center.

Next door is Congress Hall where the House and Senate met from 1789 until 1800. Again, not a money maker. Just a piece of history.

Within three blocks are the First and Second Banks of the United States, and Franklin Court, site of a large brick home of Benjamin Franklin.

The Franklin area, which fronts on historic Market Street, includes an underground museum where, among other things, you can dial a number on a special phone and hear a cryptic quote from a historical figure regarding Benjamin Franklin.

The museum also contains furniture and some of Franklin's personal belongings.

Not far away is Christ Church Cemetery where Benjamin Franklin is buried. It's traditional for new brides to throw pennies on Franklin's tombstone for good luck.

What it really does is make a little money for the park service, since no admission is charged.

In fact, for nearly everything in Philadelphia that pertains to the Revolution, there's no charge. Just like back home.

That includes a newly-constructed visitor center five blocks away from Independence Hall. The main floor includes a number of color photos depicting scenes from the Revolution, along with an information booth.

On the second floor, there's a 20-minute film on the Declaration of Independence and covers a capsulized history of the Revolution. It's free, too.

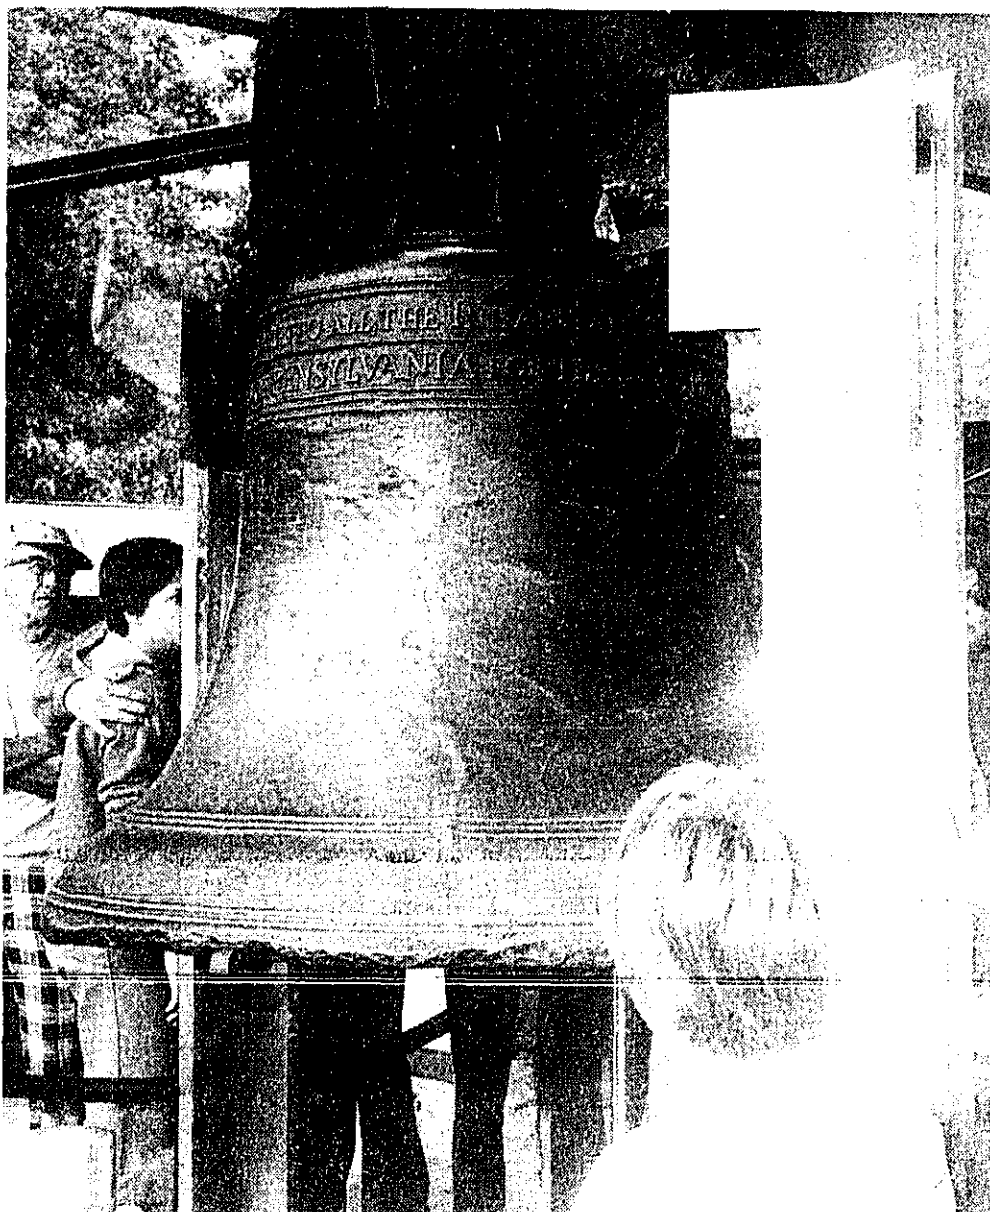

It would have been easy for the city to have torn down the buildings years ago and replaced them with high-rise office buildings or parking lots.

But a part of our history would have been swept away in the process. Perhaps someday, someone will want to see Cass City's Cultural Center, too.

With luck, it will still be there.

INSIDE INDEPENDENCE HALL--this is where it all began with the Declaration of Independence in 1776.

THE LIBERTY BELL.....it really is cracked.

REGULAR MEETING OF

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held July 27, 1976 at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present.

The minutes of the regular June meeting and a special July 14th meeting were read and approved.

The financial statement for June was reviewed.

The date was set for the middle of August. Council was in agreement with recommendation of the Public Utility Committee to change the opening of landfill from Thursday to Wednesday from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

It was reported by the Public Safety Committee that a survey has been taken of surrounding communities that have crossing guards and it was reported that the approximate cost of one guard is $2,000.00 per school year. A motion was made by Trustee Tuttle and supported by Trustee Jones that we accept recommendation of the Public Safety Committee that the village participate with the Cass City school in cost of the three crossing guards on a 50-50 basis provided that the school do the hiring, administration, pay fringe benefits and do all the paper work. Roll call vote 5 yeas, 1 nay.

The superintendent's report was reviewed.

It was moved by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Bliss that the bills as examined be approved for payment including final payment to Herron Builders for the pool. Motion carried.

The Council approved a parachute jump at the softball diamond during the game September 12th between the Cass City Firemen and the TV 5 allstars.

There being no further business it was moved by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Tuttle that the meeting be adjourned.

Court refuses guilty plea in restaurant break-in

In spite of his guilty plea, Marcus E. Bradley, 22, Caro, will still face a Tuscola Circuit Court trial Aug. 31, following action Monday before presiding Judge Martin Clements.

Bradley attempted to plead guilty to a larceny charge involving a break-in at the KuKuKow restaurant in Caro June 11. Clements refused to accept the plea.

The judge said he ordered a trial because Bradley's version of the incident did not support his guilty plea. When a defendant pleads guilty, Clements said, his story must establish his guilt. Bradley's did not, he said.

Gary Lee Haynes, 24, Vassar, stood mute on two charges of marijuana delivery when he appeared in court Monday. Innocent pleas were entered in his behalf and pretrial examinations in both cases were set for Aug. 30.

Bonds of $3,500 in each case were continued.

Haynes is charged with delivery of marijuana last May 27 and June 24. Both incidents allegedly took place in Vassar township.

Stanley Walter Albin, 28, Caro, entered a nolo contendere plea to criminal sexual conduct in the fourth degree at a pretrial hearing held Monday.

The plea was accepted and sentence was set for Sept. 27. Bond was continued at $750. Albin was charged April 4, following an incident in Wells township.

Two auto negligence lawsuits seeking in excess of $800,000 were filed this week in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

A suit filed by James and Loyce Lounsberry of Marlette charges Caro Honda Sales and its owner, Dallas H. Nichols, with negligence in the repair of a motorcycle tire that allegedly led to an injury accident in Colorado in 1974.

In the suit, the Lounsberrys charge Caro Honda with faulty installation of a rear tire on their motorcycle. The tire allegedly blew out in Colorado, causing the machine to fall over, injuring Mrs. Lounsberry. She allegedly suffered rib fractures and multiple contusions and abrasions.

The three-count suit demands $100,000 for each count, claiming negligence by Caro Honda workmen who installed the tire.

Another suit filed by Diane Britting of Genesee County charges Clifford Thomas Alderfer, Carl Hiser and Norma Ross with negligence in a 1974 accident in which she received leg injuries.

Ms. Britting's suit seeks $502,550.95 in damages. It charges Hiser parked a car he was driving in Fairgrove and that the car rolled backwards, pinning Ms. Britting's leg between the vehicle and a nearby house.

Alderfer is listed as owner of the vehicle while Ms. Ross is named as owner of the property where the accident took place.

Ms. Britting claims she suffered bruises, edema and thrombophlebitis as a result of the accident.

Dorsey band due here

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, directed by famous trombonist, Murray McEachern, is coming to Cass City's Colony House for a concert and dance sponsored by the Cass City Rotary Club Thursday, Aug. 19. One ticket will admit to both the concert (9:00-9:45 p.m.) and the dance (10:00 p.m.-1:00 a.m.). Jerry Prieskorn, Cass City Rotarian and chairperson of the affair, indicated, "Colony House has a limited capacity and we expect a complete sell-out."

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra was one of the major bands during the golden era of the big bands.

Now, with the resurgence of the big bands, Tommy Dorsey Orchestra is on tour again, playing before record crowds everywhere, this time directed by Murray McEachern, one of America's greatest musicians and showmen. McEachern has toured with such greats as Benny Goodman, Glen Gray, Paul Whiteman, Freddy Martin, David Rose, Harry James, and Meredith Wilson. He played the trombone for Jimmy Stewart's starring role in the movie, "The Glenn Miller Story," and did the same for Paul Newman in the movie, "Paris Blues."

Big band buffs, those with a bit of nostalgia in them, and everyone who enjoys beautiful music and dancing will be thrilled when Murray McEachern lifts his baton to lead the One and Only Tommy Dorsey Orchestra in "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You" and other famous Dorsey tunes in concert and dance at Cass City's Colony House on Thursday, August 19.

Advance tickets are now on sale by Rotarians. All tickets are $1.00 more at the door.

Letters to the Editor

Campaigns for crossing guards

Dear Sir:

I would like to congratulate the Village Council on their decision to participate in the funding of school crossing guards. I realize that it is debatable that the Council has any responsibility in this area, and therefore, it is all the more to their credit that they elected to show the way and actively demonstrate their community spirit and sense of responsibility.

Now it is up to the School Board. Will they accept the responsibility for the administration of the program? If so, how soon can it be implemented?

Responsible school crossing guards are necessary, and need to be operating at the start of the coming school year if at all possible. Therefore, I urge the School Board to act with all speed to safeguard the young children of the village. I also urge concerned citizens to make their feelings known to members of the School Board either prior to, or at the next board meeting Aug. 9.

Yours sincerely,
Alan A. Miller

Former area man gets NMSU post

A former Cass City resident has been named head of the Department of Agronomy at

New Mexico State University. Dr. Koert James Lessman will assume the post Aug. 15. Lessman has been at Purdue University since 1962 when he was employed as an assistant professor. He was promoted to associate professor in 1965 and to a full professor of agronomy in 1968.

He received his bachelor of science degree in crop science "with high honor" from Michigan State University. He earned both masters and doctorate degrees from Iowa State University. His major area of interest as a master's degree candidate was plant breeding.

His research while pursuing his doctorate was on grain sorghum.

While at Purdue, Lessman conducted research into possible new crops for Indiana and the Midwest. His major contributions have been in the selection and development of Crambe and Vernonia.

Crambe is a new crop valued as a source of oil for use in industrial applications. The seed meal is rich in protein.

Vernonia oil is high in epoxy acid and may find utility in the paints and plastics industries.

Lessman is author or co-author of 19 journal articles and seven research bulletins or similar publications.

Thanks, says bicentennial commission

Dear Editor and Cass City and surrounding Community members:

The Cass City Bicentennial Days: Yesterday a celebration, today a memory. The Bicentennial Commission hopes that you have many fond recollections of the events of July 23 through July 25.

Indeed it was a good feeling to see our community come together and proclaim its "yes" to the 200 years of our nation's history, as well as to the precious past of our town.

It is true that the success and enjoyment of this celebration depended to a large extent on the Cass City people who actively participated in the events of the weekend. But we would be sorely amiss not to recognize the individual and group efforts that were spent in preparing "The Cass City Bicentennial Days."

These personal contributions made the weekend. Therefore when the Commission recalls the events of July 23 through July 25, our memories will speak not only of happiness, community spirit, and appreciation for life gone by, but also of the energy, hard work, commitment, and responsibility of residents of Cass City.

With that memory, then, we would like to thank you, and trust that you will accept our sincere gratefulness for what you shared in this significant moment in the continuing life of our nation and our village.

With deep appreciation
Cass City Bicentennial Commission
Jack Esau, Chairman

Table title tilt till season's end

Interest should be maintained until the end of the season in the Cass City Church League as the on again, off again clash between the league leaders has been carded Thursday or Friday, Aug. 19 or 20.

That's when undefeated Deford faces undefeated Lutherans in the battle that will undoubtedly decide the regular season championship.

The game was rained out, then scheduled for last Friday and then postponed again.

Both of the league leaders won games during the week, but it was the Catholics that made the big stride ahead with three wins.

TUESDAY GAMES

In the early game Church of Christ rolled over Colwood, 10-5. Rich Lowe posted the win over Dave Smith. Don Englehart showed the way for the winners with a home run among his three hits. Rich Lowe, Kurt Little and Tim Knoblet had two hits each. Rick Smith had three hits for the losers.

In the nightcap, Deford defeated Lamotte. No details were available.

In a rained out game made up Wednesday, the Catholics won a slugfest from Shabbona, 14-13. Don Ouvre slammed three hits for the Catholics while Jay Tuckey and Ron Ouvre chipped in with two hits. For Shabbona Les Severance and Roy Sefton had two hits each.

THURSDAY GAMES

The Catholics continued to roll Thursday with a 9-5 nod over Missionary. Bliss received credit for his second win in as many nights and Joe Mellendorf took the loss. The Catholics had 8 players with one hit while Ernie Cameron collected 2 hits for Missionary.

The late game was rained out.

Playing rained out games evidently is just what the doctor ordered for the Catholics. They made up a game with Lamotte Friday and walked off with a 12-0 win. It was Bliss over Fishell. Jay Tuckey had three hits and Mark McClorey rapped a home run. Bliss held Lamotte to four hits.

In the nightcap Friday the Baptists and Lamotte completed a rained out game and the Baptists won, 17-12. Gary Mellendorf got the win. Brian Helwig rapped three hits for the Baptists and Clare Trischler hit for the circuit. Dale McClaren had two hits.

MONDAY GAMES

Brian Helwig, following in the footsteps of his father and brother, pitched the Baptists to a 6-3 decision over Colwood Monday. He bested Dave Smith. For the winners Rod Hutchinson and Lee Taylor had 2 hits each.

For Colwood Dwayne Smith and Dave Smith had two hits each while Lowell Smith cracked one for the circuit.

In the nightcap the Lutherans continued to roll with a 6-0 decision over Shabbona. Al Romig continued his fine hurling with the shutout.

BABE RUTH CHAMPIONS--The Cass City Number One baseball team won the post season play-offs last week in the Thumb Babe Ruth League.

Babe Ruthers cop title

For the first time in four years, Cass City's entry in the Thumb Babe Ruth League walked off with the play-off championship.

Coach Dean Hoag's charges won it with a forfeit and a pair of victories.

Monday Caseville failed to appear on time and Cass City was the victor.

The team worked its way into the finals Thursday with a 10-5 decision over Port Austin.

Cass City scored twice in the second on walks to Ross Ridenour, Rusty Hoag and Earney Stoutenburg and a single by Buck Zawilinski.

They added a run in the third on singles by Ken Martin, Tony Doerr and Hoag.

Things were made easy for Martin on the mound when the team scored three times in the fourth and four more in the sixth inning.

Hits by Steve Richards, Martin, an error and a single by Doerr sparked the rally.

In the sixth, walks to Todd Alexander, Jeff Hartel and Ridenour and a double by Hoag accounted for the runs. Martin went the distance for Cass City.

Friday Jeff Hartel was the key player as Cass City took the championship with an 8-1 decision over Port Hope.

Hartel pitched a one-hitter and struck out 14.

Cass City scored in the second on singles by Hoag and Richards. In the third, an error followed by doubles by Hartel and Doerr netted two more runs. A walk to Alexander, a stolen base and a single by Hartel added another run to Cass City's total.

The game turned into a rout when Cass City scored a pair of runs in each of the final two innings.

In the sixth Ridenour singled, Stoutenburg walked and Alexander singled for the runs. In the seventh, singles by Doerr, Hoag and Don Doerr netted the runs.

Hartel's wildness opened the gate for the lone Port Hope run. Hartel walked two and tossed a wild pitch to allow the score.

In the regular season Cass City tied Uby for the division title. The league has two four-team divisions.

Coach Dean Hoag said the boys on this year's team were very coachable and a pleasure to work with.

The Cass City Merchants completed a clean sweep of the Thumb B Travelling League in the second half competition with two more wins. The Merchants are now 9-0 and have the second half title.

Victims of the high-flying Cass City team were Mayville Monday, July 26, and Unionville Thursday.

At Mayville the Merchants coasted to a comparatively easy 6-2 decision. Rick Reynolds tossed a four hitter and his teammates backed him with a 10-hit attack.

The long ball proved decisive for Cass City. In the third Don Galbraith rapped a homer with one on and Elwyn Helwig and Ken Lowe also blasted round trippers.

The four runs were all that were needed. Cass City added two insurance runs in the sixth as Henry Cooklin doubled home two runners.

Cass City was forced into overtime against Unionville to keep its record clean. The score was 3-2.

Unionville scored twice in the third to take a 2-1 lead. Cass City came back and tied it up in the fourth.

That ended the scoring until the ninth when Cass City pushed over the winning run.

Wally Hempton walked. Toner singled him to third and Galbraith sacrificed him home.

Helwig set down 16 straight batters before Unionville got a man on with a hit. But the next two batters grounded out to end the game. Helwig struck out 11.

Toner led the attack with three of Cass City's six hits. Lowe had two hits and Elwyn Helwig the other safety.

CENTRAL STATES YOUTH EXCHANGE PROGRAM OF ROTARY INTERNATIONAL

WANTED: HOST FAMILY FOR EXCHANGE STUDENT

Cass City Rotary has approved the hosting of 3 students during the next 18 months. The first to arrive will be Liliano Garcia, a 17 year old girl from Los Mochis, Mexico. She has had 3 years of English in her Mexican school.

In the Rotary Youth Exchange Program, 3 host families are used for each student making a stay of just under 4 months with each family. The Rotary club is looking for families that would like to have a young international ambassador as a part of their family.

Mail this application to Rod Krueger at Anrod Screen Cylinder Co., Cass City or Tom Proctor at Old Wood Drug.

The students participate in both school and community life and add to our community. Pat Torriglia of Argentina continues to be hosted in Cass City at the Ken Martin residence and will be moving to the Rod Krueger home before school begins.

Host families for Miss Garcia are now being arranged. If interested, please contact the Rotarians mentioned above.

This application is for a family desiring to host a student. It should be filled out in triplicate; one copy retained by the Host Family; one copy retained by the hosting Rotary Club; one copy sent to the District Youth Exchange Committee.

This program is designed to further international good will and understanding. It is important to your family, to your hosting Rotary Club and to the student, that your Youth Exchange Committee find the most suitable student for your home. Your cooperation in furnishing the following information will assist greatly in achieving this goal. Use a separate page for additional information.
