

Protesting parents seek action in bus driver hassle

Protesting parents again appeared before the Cass City School Board at its regular meeting Monday night at the High School.

The parents were trying to force action against a driver that they felt harassed their children last year.

Spokespersons for the group were Mrs. Lila Arroyo and Mr. Frank who presented a petition with 33 signatures asking that the substitute and regular bus driver be taken from busses carrying their children.

The regular driver in question is Mrs. Margaret Battel. She has been a bus driver for eight years and Supt. Donald Crouse said that this is the first year that complaints had been lodged against her.

As a member of the Operators' union at the school, Mrs. Battel cannot be discharged without concrete evidence against her.

Meanwhile substitute bus driver Lester Battel has decided not to drive this year. Charges against him were not substantiated. Lie detector tests taken were inconclusive, Supt. Crouse said.

Jim Fox, the new supervisor of busses, said that finding drivers is difficult. A recent advertisement for three substitutes brought one response, he pointed out. The hassle is not worth it for them, he said.

While there has been no real agreement it is likely that there will be no change in regular drivers this fall.

The squabble did produce one result. The board adopted a new set of guidelines for discipline on the bus. It outlined all the infractions and the penalties for violations.

After the first violation a mandatory suspension of the student from the bus is required. An effort will be made to contact the parents of children to be disciplined on the day of the offense.

There was no real agreement between parents and the administration over the bus question but one problem that has faced the board for over five years appears solved.

The board authorized the hiring of three crossing guards on a share-the-cost basis with the village. The guards will be stationed at Ale and Main, Main and Seeger and Seeger and Rose Streets. The program will be reviewed after the first semester.

The remainder of the regular meeting included routine items. The "Reading Is Fundamental" (RIF) program was a success, according to a letter received from the American Association of University Women, sponsors.

The AAUW has received a $200 grant and the program will be expanded. It was held this year at Deford school only. In charge will be Mrs. Marie Miller and Mrs. Mary Albee.

Two bids for baked goods were reviewed. The low bid was Grocery Baking Co. of Grand Rapids. Aetna Insurance was low bidder for bus insurance at $3,284.55. Three bids were received.

OPEN BIDS

Bids were opened for products and services. Three bids for milk were received. The low bidder was London's Dairy at .0949 per half pint.

ALTER GYM

The board approved changes in the high school gymnasium to give the girls more space. One of the uniform drying rooms will be closed off so that it becomes part of the girls' locker room and a room next to the showers will be altered for the girls. The facilities will then be about equal, Crouse reported.

The board voted to pay the village to maintain the football field this fall. In the spring school personnel will care for the track and baseball fields.

Wiring for the new lights are now being installed, Crouse said.

ICC ruling deemed blow to saving rail service

Time may be running out on efforts to save Grand Trunk Western rail service into Cass City, according to the attorney representing Thumb area residents opposed to the line's abandonment.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has ruled that a detailed environmental impact statement requested prior to an abandonment hearing will not be required.

Attorney James Schouman of Dearborn said last week the ruling is a first step toward scheduling an abandonment hearing. Once the ICC decides to hold a hearing, it must be conducted within 180 days.

If local forces lose at the hearing, only court appeals could stand in the way of complete abandonment by Grand Trunk.

skids toward abandonment," Schouman told the Chronicle. "We still have a chance at the hearing but the soup is starting to get thick."

Grand Trunk originally applied to abandon its 66 miles of track running from Inlay City to Caseville in October, 1974. Since that time, local rail users have launched a campaign to keep service alive.

Schouman held out little hope for state subsidies to help keep the line rolling. Last summer, a rail planner with the State Highway Department told a public meeting in Caro that state subsidies would be forthcoming once a plan was approved by federal authorities.

According to Schouman, the funds don't exist. In its order, the ICC says a loss of rail service will not hurt the area economically. "It was concluded, among other things, that converting the small amount of present or prospective rail traffic to motor carrier would minimally affect the . . . levels of air pollution noise, fuel consumption and safety hazards," the order states.

"Increasing the current highway traffic levels would also result in only (small) change in the (surrounding) levels described," the ruling continued.

Schouman said he has challenged the ICC's conclusion, but was not hopeful the decision would be reversed.

Local groups have contended shifting from rail to highway transport would increase agricultural shipping costs and force prices of finished goods upward.

They have also said local highways would take a greater beating from increased truck traffic.

Owen-Gage delays move to close St. Agatha school

The Owen-Gage Board of Education delayed a decision on whether or not to close the St. Agatha building in Gagetown, during its regular monthly meeting at Owendale Monday night.

The board sidestepped a decision pending final enrollment totals which won't be known until school opens Aug. 30. But based on last year's student population, Supt. Ronald Erickson recommended the building be closed.

Under Erickson's plan, a combined fifth-sixth grade class and one all-sixth grade section would be moved from Gagetown to Owendale. He told the board the re-grouping would keep all class sizes under 26 students.

He admitted all this could change in light of the new state aid bill currently awaiting Gov. William Milliken's signature.

The bill states that students will be considered members of the school district in which they reside, not where they attend.

It further mandates that school districts accepting tuition students must charge the pupil's home district the per capita costs, but does not force the home district to pay. If the school district does not pay, however, the parents must.

In Owen-Gage's case, the cost will run in excess of $800 per student and could range as high as $1,000.

Owen-Gage officials are hoping for an influx of students from both Cass City and Lakers who previously attended those schools for only a token tuition charge.

With no firm student count yet known, Erickson sought permission to go ahead with closing St. Agatha's. He said the building could be reopened shortly after school starts if it is needed.

Currently, the school leases the facility for $11,500 annually.

Trustee Lee LaFave said she felt closing St. Agatha's would tend to overcrowd other school buildings.

Trustee Joe Warack countered by saying the district should attempt to save the rental cost if possible.

Last year, the St. Agatha building housed four classes totaling 96 students. Between 45 and 50 students would be enrolled in fifth and sixth grade classes at Owendale under Erickson's plan.

The board voted to table a decision on St. Agatha's until its September meeting.

STATE AID BILL

While the board was smiling over the new state aid bill which virtually restores student counts and funds lost over the years through transfers, there is one potential problem.

The board went on record opposing a "grandfather clause" which would keep tuition students from previous years in their present, low-tuition status. The change is currently in the committee state and is not included in the present bill.

In a letter drafted to the Michigan Association of School Boards, Erickson said the clause would not be beneficial to small K-12 districts and would wipe out the intent of the bill.

As many as 140 students could be affected by the clause.

Erickson requested and received permission to borrow another $80,000 against anticipated state aid. Earlier this year, the school voted to borrow $150,000 against anticipated revenues.

The superintendent said the additional borrowing was needed due to state aid losses last year, the CEV-SEV squabble in Huron county, a loss of students and attorney fees incurred fighting property transfers.

He said the amount should be repaid by January, following end-of-year tax collections.

Erickson said an expected return of as many as 100 students could put Owen-Gage's budget well in the black next year under the new state aid bill.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board voted to accept resignations from teachers Donna Sting, Sue Custer, Tom Ford and Margaret Bethel. Trustees agreed to rehire Doris Billy, Judy Campbell and Dean Roller, and voted to hire Lawanda Gnagy as a cook to replace Stella Errer.

The board agreed to allow the Owendale firemen to stage a circus on part of the football field, provided the

HARRY LITTLE

Civic leader

Harry Little dies

Cass City lost one of its most active civic leaders Friday, Aug. 6, when Harry L. Little, 67, retired owner of Little's Funeral Home, died at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Cause of death was reported as cardiac arrest. During his 30 years in Cass City, Little was a tireless worker in a wide variety of community projects. He was a charter member of the Cass City Lions Club and was chosen Lion of the Year in 1972.

Little recently retired as president of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce and was a member of the board of directors at the time of his death.

He was chosen as the Chamber's Citizen of the Year in 1974.

Little was also a past member of the Gavel Club and was a member of First Presbyterian church of Cass City.

He was active for many years in the Boy Scouts of America at both the state and local levels.

Little was born in Speaker township, Sanilac county, April 14, 1909, son of the late George and Edna Reddecliffe Little.

He and Edith McAulay were married June 11, 1932, in Sandusky.

area be cleaned up afterward and any damage be repaired.

Mrs. Geri Kretzschmer presented a report from the Owen-Gage Citizen's Committee. She said the group's most recent project was working for passage of the 1.5 mill increase in school taxes.

Area burglary ring smashed by police

A major burglary ring operating in the Cass City area for several months has been broken with the recovery of between $4,000 and $5,000 in stolen merchandise from a Cass City residence.

According to Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson, the loot was recovered last week and included a cache of electronics equipment, guns, and tools.

At least five persons, most of them juveniles, are involved in the thefts. Wilson said this week. The number could go as high as eight as the investigation continues.

The police chief said his department received a tip that stolen property was being hidden in a Cass City residence and that the tip led directly to the find.

Officers from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department and the Caro State Police post are assisting in the investigation.

Wilson said no arrests have yet been made, but at least one adult warrant and several juvenile petitions may be sought. He declined to reveal where the seizures took place.

Among the items recovered were a stereo, a number of citizen band radios, cassette tapes and tape players, a TV set, guns and hand tools. Officers also recovered a canoe which may be linked to a series of thefts which took place in the Cass City area over the past several months.

Wilson said Tuesday the seizures have closed out at least seven unsolved larcenies in the Cass City area alone.

Sheriff's officers are also looking over the loot in an attempt to solve several area larcenies.

Wilson said more stolen property may still be recovered in the course of the investigation.

OTHER THEFTS

Richard Patnaude of Colwood Rd., Gagetown, reported the theft of between $300 and $500 in tools from an outbuilding at his home last week.

Patnaude told Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies he discovered the theft Saturday.

Property taken included an arc welder, battery charger, a jack and a quantity of wrenches.

No suspects have been arrested.

Two hub caps valued at approximately $50 were stolen from the Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds lot in Cass City Thursday, Aug. 5. Cass City Police believe the theft was the work of juveniles.

Local police also investigated a 22 caliber gunshot which damaged a window at the home of Mrs. Lucille Sommers of Cass City, Thursday.

Police believe the incident may have resulted through careless use of firearms.

CASS CITY Police pose with a small portion of nearly $4,000 worth of stolen property recovered last week in Cass City, breaking a burglary ring which officers believe has operated for several months. Shown with the loot are officer Donald Miller and Chief Gene Wilson.

Administrative hikes granted

Board okays nine per cent raises

After discussion in a session closed to the press and the public the Cass City School Board this week raised the salaries of administrative personnel at the school.

Board President Ms. Geraldine Prieskorn said that each salary was considered individually and that no set raise was granted "across the board". However, it is likely that the increases averaged about 9 per cent, not including retirement benefits that increase when salaries increase.

Ms. Prieskorn said that the percentage of increase was not the determining factor. We tried to keep our salaries in the middle of the scale for the area, she said. All of them are in this range or lower after the raises, she explained.

By far the largest raise granted was to the school nurse. The salary jumped from $5,700 to $8,200 yearly. Changes in qualifications for the job were said to be the reason.

Administrative salaries ranged from $29,750 for the superintendent to $16,800 for the co-op administrator. A complete breakdown of the new salary schedule is printed at the end of this article.

OPERATING ENGINEERS

Members of the Operating Engineers union which includes the bus drivers, cooks and custodians at the school have signed a two-year contract.

Bus drivers were increased from $1160 per run, per year.

Alex Greenleaf is nursing along a couple of rare plants at his home on Oak Street, but his next door neighbor, Jim Woodward, is one up on him without really trying. Greenleaf has a plant that droops when you touch it as well as one that eats insects. Woodward has potato plants. So? So these potato plants are producing little green tomatoes. Top that if you can.

Editor Jim Ketchum speaks for himself, not for the paper, when he says that crossing guards should be hired regardless of who pays. I feel that it is the school's responsibility, not the village's.

What's more, his arithmetic is faulty if he feels paying as a villager or as a member of the district is the same in the long run.

That's because there are three times as many pockets in the school district (valuation) as there are in the village to share the cost.

Mark L. Nelson, defeated in a bid for the Republican nomination for congressman, did himself no good when he issued a statement last week blasting the Republican party, and Brady Denton who took the nomination.

The drums are beating already for the Richard Nixon interview shows that a syndicate is peddling to TV. A record viewing audience is expected.

Outside of curiosity, the reason for the interest escapes me. Is there anything in the record that indicates the answers will be anything other than what Mr. Nixon chooses them to be?

The best that can be said is that the shows should close a sordid chapter in our nation's history and we can get on with the business at hand.

Add Don Crouse's name to the persons who brought an old paper to the Chronicle. We get those every so often. We enjoy it because it shows interest in the paper and the community. Without either the Chronicle would have long since withered away.

I guess the vast majority of the readers don't realize that we have a copy of every issue from the first one published. They are housed in what we believe are fireproof files. I'm prejudiced, of course, but I agree with Meredith Auten who often calls them invaluable.

At the very least they represent the most complete history of the community available.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Anything for tradition

BY JIM FITZGERALD

For the Fitz family, it has become a tradition to return to Port Huron for the start of the famous Mackinac sailboat race.

For me, as the only son in the family, the big weekend has developed into a tradition within a tradition. That is, it is not only traditional that I be there for the race. It is also traditional that I never see the race.

My father died several years ago, so there is no one but me to pass on the family name and the varied wisdoms which he attached to it.

My oldest of four sisters, Terrible Jean, tried to horn in on my pass-on privilege by marrying a Fitzgerald, but that doesn't count. In fact, it only confused a lot of people.

Terrible Jean and I were both a long time getting married. As we approached our 30th birthdays, still single, the pressure from our mother became intense. She wanted us to get out of the house and get wed. She was afraid she'd never have grandchildren, and she was also afraid she'd never have anyone in our bedrooms who paid rent.

Terrible Jean was the first to falter. The confusion came when her engagement was announced in the local newspaper. When some of her friends read she was marrying a guy of the same name, they went into incest shock.

"Those poor kids got so sick of being nagged by their mother, they are marrying each other," someone said.

It wasn't true, of course, and I still feel guilty about not returning my half of the wedding gifts.

But I digress. I was talking about Dad and the family's Mackinac tradition. He lived by the St. Clair River and Lake Huron all of his life. Over 40 Port Huron-to-Mackinac races practically splashed him. But he never looked at one.

His explanation was simple: "I can't get excited about a race that begins here on Saturday and ends 300 miles away next Tuesday."

This is the tradition to which I was born, and to which I remain faithful. The start of the Mackinac race is a thrill for the participants, for sure. But for the audience far away on shore, there is more excitement in watching a three-legged race at a Kiwanis picnic.

It wasn't easy for me to avoid seeing the race start this year. Living in Detroit there is a crazy insurance man named Bob Adams who owns a huge tugboat. He is also a native of Port Huron and he used to belong to the neighborhood mafia which was led by Terrible Jean who was later portrayed in the movie by Marlon Brando.

Adams thinks it is great fun to pile all of his friends onto the tug and chug out into the lake where the race starts. Terrible Jean enjoys this seven-hour outing to the incredible extent of continually jumping off the third deck with a great whoop, thus splashing fish onto cars passing overhead on the Blue Water Bridge.

When I refused Adams' invitation, pleading lost barnacles, Terrible Jean was quick to call me a big sissy. This is the same thing she called me 45 years ago when we played follow the leader and I refused to follow her into the French Foreign Legion.

I'll tell you, these Mackinac family reunions can be a traumatic experience for a sensitive man who still nurses the scars of a childhood spent with four sisters, one mother, no brothers, and a father who had sense enough to be a traveling salesman. The biggest surprise of my teen years was to be drafted and learn that Adolph Hitler wasn't a woman.

So, if the race bores me, and my sisters abuse me, why do I show up in Port Huron every year at Mackinac time?

For the spectacle. I don't mean the spectacle of white sails on blue water. I mean the spectacle of my four sisters and their various husbands at the same party, boisterously reliving old sins and falling hilariously into new ones, trying mightily to outdo each other in their efforts to embarrass me, the only gentleman in the clan.

This year's prize went to Bill, husband of Terrible Jean, who set the fashion pace at the before-race dance.

When he was ready to leave, he had trouble finding his own windbreaker. He tried on 10, while taking off none, and appeared prepared to break the biggest wind.

Someone pointed out he was wearing the layered look, currently stylish, and he began to model it by shedding it, with a drum roll for each shed, and a cymbal crash poised for skin.

But Terrible Jean descended upon him like a November squall. Ten windbreakers were Kleenex, and Bill disappeared in a magnificent

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

A host of friends paid their last respects to Harry Little. Because Harry was Harry he had a host of friends.

Maybe half came because he was a civic leader and half because of the good times they spent with him. I belong to the last half. I happened to spend what was to be his last night with him.

It was fun. It always was when Harry donned his other hat.

Yes, Harry wore two hats. Under one hat he started the Lions Club, served as president of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, was a member of the Cass City Development Association and a leader in most all civic projects.

I like to remember the times when he wore his other hat. The periods when he took time out to smell the roses.

I go back a ways with Harry. It is more years ago now than I care to remember when I first really got to know him.

He took me trout fishing. I knew even less about it than I do now. He shepherded me to the Rifle and AuSable and after the fishing was over we cruised Mio where about as many people knew him as they did here in Cass City.

It was a toss-up whether the fishing or the fellowship that followed was the biggest attraction of the fishing trips.

When Harry was having a good time everyone had a good time.

Not much ever got him down for long. He was determined to go like he always did for as long as he could.

The party Thursday was typical. Harry was having a good time . . . and so was everyone else at Sherwood Forest Country Club on his last night.

There's no doubt that if it had been up to him, his sudden collapse and death was the way he would have wanted it.

Your neighbor says I'd vote for a woman

In a recent article, a News-week columnist suggested that President Ford should consider a woman as a possible vice-presidential running mate. The same column suggested that 30 per cent of the American voting public would not vote for a woman simply because of her sex.

Larry Davis of 6644 Pine St. says he would have no hesitancy about voting for a woman as president or vice-president.

"I believe there are women who are just as qualified to be president as men," Davis says. "It really should make no difference."

Davis agrees that placing a woman on the national ticket would make it less electable in 1976. But the day is coming when a woman can run for president and win.

"I think we'll definitely see it in my lifetime," Davis says. He discounts the argument that a woman could not hold up under the pressure of high-level international negotiations.

"Our leaders today don't seem to be holding up too well in international politics," Davis says. "I think a woman could probably do better."

Davis is a native of Bad Axe and is employed at General Cable Corp. He and his wife have two children.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"Here are some air-conditioning tips that will keep you from getting hot under the collar this summer"

Detroit Edison is a concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation. The wise use of energy plays one of the most important roles in that effort. But it requires a working partnership between those who supply energy and those who use it. Here are some ways you can help conserve energy and save yourself some money the rest of this summer.

You can dial up and hold your costs down.

Don't overcool your home. That's a wasteful use of energy. And expensive. For the most comfort and the most efficiency, set your thermostat no lower than about 10 degrees below the outside temperature. If it's 85 degrees outside, then set your thermostat at about 75 degrees. Otherwise your air conditioner has to work extra hard and your costs go up and up. In a typical house, you can save about 5 percent in operating costs for every degree you move the thermostat up. So, if your house is going to be empty for a few hours, move your thermostat up 5 more degrees and pocket the savings.

Staying comfortable this summer can be a breeze.

When the sun beats down, the heat in your attic builds up and it can be like living under an oven. An attic exhaust fan will get the hot air out and let the cooler night air in, and take the strain off your air conditioner. Good attic insulation works wonders at keeping your home cooler in summer and it will pay off again by saving on heating costs next winter. And don't forget light-colored shingles reflect heat. Whatever you do to keep heat out of your house saves money in air conditioning. Window fans work, too.

Shades of the past.

Before you had air conditioning, there were things you did to keep comfortable, like pulling down the window shades and closing the draperies on the sunny side of the house. That's smart. Because a bare window lets in as much as 35 times more heat than an insulated wall.

So do the same now and you can reduce your air-conditioning costs by as much as 12 percent. Shade your windows from the outside with ventilated awnings or trees and save even more—up to 22 percent of your air-conditioning operating costs.

MODEL NUMBER ACR20B 74F
VOLTS	CYCLE	PHASE
115	60	1
COOLING BTU/HR	AMPS	WATTS
6400	7.5	800
BTUs		WATTS

You can figure this out yourself. Just divide the BTU number by the number of watts. For example, a unit that delivers 6400 BTU's with 800 watts has an EER rating of 8. (800 goes into 6400 8 times.) The recommended EER number for any air conditioner is 8 or more. You may pay a little more, but you'll save on energy costs in the long run.

Detroit Edison has a folder, "How to stretch your air-conditioning operating dollar." Pick one up at any customer office and start saving, or write to: Customer Relations, Detroit Edison 2000 Second, Detroit, Michigan 48226

Save energy for all it's worth.
THE POWER IS IN YOUR HANDS.

Detroit Edison

Maintain your cool.

If you want your air conditioner to take good care of you, keep it clean. This means changing or washing the air filters often. Also, vacuum the inside coils and keep outside coils free of debris. Clean registers and return ducts regularly on central air-conditioning systems, and keep the cooling drain open for free condensate flow. And don't block air flow with furniture or draperies. Your owner's manual lists other maintenance tips. Follow them and keep cool all summer.

Buying a new air conditioner? Maybe the most important numbers aren't on the price tag.

First of all, it's important that you get the right size unit (BTU's). Your salesman can help on this if you tell him the length and width of the area you want to cool. Another number that's important is the EER number. This stands for Energy Efficiency Rating.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Is Mars worth it?

By Jim Ketchum

Watch the evening news these days and odds are good you're apt to see what looks like your favorite parking lot or a new subdivision in Arizona.

Surprise, it's Mars. Thanks to the folks at NASA, the beautiful downtown red planet has been ours for the viewing.

When you think about it, that's pretty amazing. That's Mars we're talking about. Not the Mojave Desert, Mars.

It takes eight months just to fly there and 10 minutes for the radio signals to get here from there. Yet there is life on Mars and it is us.

For a few millions in research and the actual nuts and bolts, we've built a machine that'll dig the niftiest trenches you ever saw and analyze soil with the precision of a chemist.

I guess we can take a measure of pride in our success. But that old, gnawing question keeps coming back—is it worth it?

We asked the same question in 1969 when Neil Armstrong took one small step for man. Actually, he was just testing the greens out for Allan Shepherd and his hidden golf ball trick.

Whether or not you think it's worth it depends on your priorities I guess. We've learned a lot of things from the space program like how to make teflon.

For six billion dollars, our pancakes no longer stick on the griddle.

We've learned some things about our weather from satellites and something of what the moon is. But is Mars really worth it? I doubt it.

I wonder how much cancer research could have been bought for the price of Viking I.

Sugar beets don't need nitrogen

By William Bortel

Several inquiries have arrived in our office during the last ten days in regards to foliar spraying micro-nutrients with nitrogen on sugar beets. Sugar beet growers are interested in foliar spraying since their beets are turning yellow.

Let's take a close look at the beets turning yellow. Michigan Sugar and we of the Extension Service believe the yellowing of the beets the latter part of July and August is the true pattern of what sugar beets should look like at this time of the year. We have been looking at beets with excessive amounts of nitrogen during the last several years and this kept the beets greener into the harvest season.

However, if a beet grower wishes to maximize the sugar levels of his beets, the beets have to stop their rapid growth and build up the sugar levels. The longer the beets stay green, the slower they will respond to increasing sugar levels.

Michigan Sugar and the Co-operative Extension Service believe it is real questionable to apply foliar nitrogen at this time of the year for three reasons.

1. We have not found the response to foliar nitrogen to be economical at this time of the year. The tests we have seen of late application nitrogen did not prove to be economical with more beets to cover the cost of material and application.

2. A grower is very apt to find the purity levels of his sugar beets lower with late application of nitrogen than if the nitrogen was not applied in July or August. Nitrogen is needed early and the beets are best to run out of nitrogen and build up the sugar and purity levels.

3. The contract with the sugar beet grower and company agrees that nitrogen is not to be applied after June 20.

Two drivers injured in Sunday Cass City crash

Two drivers received minor injuries and a total of 12 passengers were shaken up Sunday afternoon in a two-car crash at the intersection of Houghton and Seeger Streets in Cass City.

According to the Cass City Police report, a car driven by William Daniel Bell Jr., 17, of Traverse City, was westbound on Houghton Street while a car driven by Jack Lincoln Van Allen, 42, of Lapeer, was northbound on Seeger.

The report indicates the Bell vehicle failed to stop for the intersection just before the crash. Bell later told officers he did not see the stop sign due to large bushes growing nearby.

Bell and Van Allen were both treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital. Bell was cited for failure to yield the right of way. The accident took place at 4:35 p.m. James H. Corlis, 19, of 2615 Kingston Rd., Kingston, escaped serious injury Sunday night when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a mailbox on Cedar Run Road, south of M-81.

Tuscola County Sheriff's officers who investigated said Corlis was southbound and passed another vehicle when his car skidded on the gravel road, struck a mailbox on the east side and continued 40 feet into a field.

Corlis and a companion, Thomas Lee Wilson, 21, Marlette, were arrested by investigating officers on charges of being intoxicated on a public highway.

Corlis appeared this week in Tuscola County District Court and paid fines and costs totaling $100. The accident took place at 8:45 p.m. Patricia Kathleen Farnum, 27, Caro, was treated for minor injuries at Caro Community Hospital resulting from a two-car accident on Hurds Corner Road, five and a half miles southwest of Deford, Saturday.

Caro State Police reported the accident took place when a car driven by Pierre Dwayne Cramer, 52, Akron, pulled from a private drive into the path of a southbound car driven by Ms. Farnum.

Cramer said he did not see the approaching vehicle due to tall grass in the area. He swerved but struck the Farnum auto in the left side.

Cramer was cited for failure to yield the right of way. The accident took place at 6:15 p.m.

IT WAS standing room only as Cass City High School graduates got together for a reunion Saturday night.

1,000 attend $676,000 suit class reunion moved to Caro

A crowd of over 1,000 persons jammed into Colony House Saturday night to attend the all-class reunion of Cass City High School.

A total of 1,035 meals were served, with another 40 persons turned away.

Mrs. Nancy DeLong Dickenson, 90, a member of the class of 1904, was the oldest person to attend.

The MacRae family had eight family members who graduated from Cass City High School in attendance.

The committee in charge of the reunion included Jeanette Bond Shadko, Florabelle Urquhart Sullivan, Loren Wilson Hobbs and Agnes Milligan.

A Tuscola county woman's negligence lawsuit filed against Caro Community Hospital, a nurse and the manufacturer, selling company and salesman of a plastic catheter has been moved from Genesee county to Tuscola County Circuit Court.

The suit, filed by Susan Keefe, seeks a total of $676,000 in damages resulting from an incident Sept. 20, 1972, at the hospital.

In her suit, Ms. Keefe charges part of a plastic catheter broke off in her left pulmonary artery as it was being removed at the hospital.

It charges Quarry, Inc., distributor of the device, C.R. Bard, Inc., manufacturer and John Sugrue, salesman, with negligence.

The suit also names Loretta Hoose, a nurse at the hospital.

The four-count suit seeks $169,000 for each count, and was originally filed in September, 1974. A change of venue was granted last week.

No date for trial has been set.

CETA job crunch seen looming

Upwards of 92 Title II county CETA employees could be without jobs after next Jan. 31 unless new federal monies start flowing down the pipeline from Washington, the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners learned Tuesday.

Meeting in regular session at the courthouse in Caro, the board learned the present 111 Title II county employees would be slashed to just 29 after January unless additional CETA funds are appropriated by Congress.

The remaining employees would be funded through Sept. 30, 1977.

Presently, the county receives approximately $90,000 per month in Title II monies. That total would be pared to $23,875 per month after January.

Comr. Maynard McConkey, Cass City, who also serves as chairman of the Thumb Area Consortium which administers all CETA funds in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties, said there is no assurance more money is coming.

That doesn't necessarily mean the financial well has gone dry, he added. Often, new appropriations are made shortly before massive layoffs are expected.

McConkey characterized the reduction as a "contingency plan" which may not be needed.

Tuesday's session dealt largely with money or the lack of it. Don Peterhans, director of the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility, appeared to ask for a $50,000 financial cushion for the beleaguered institution.

Earlier this year, the facility's state payments were cut by about $3 per day per patient. Peterhans told the board about $2 of that total has been recovered, but more money is needed to meet payrolls.

The board turned down the request, saying it didn't have $50,000 to spare. It did guarantee to help Peterhans meet payrolls if they fall before state payments are due.

County Road Commission Engineer Robert Wellington received an okay from the board to begin bridge construction following passage of a special millage last week.

Since the Road Commission will receive no tax monies from the millage until next April, the board allowed Wellington to use Road Commission monies in lieu of tax receipts to begin bridge building now.

Owen-Gage okays millage

Owen-Gage School District voters continued supporting their district Monday as they overwhelmingly approved a 1.5 mill increase in school taxes.

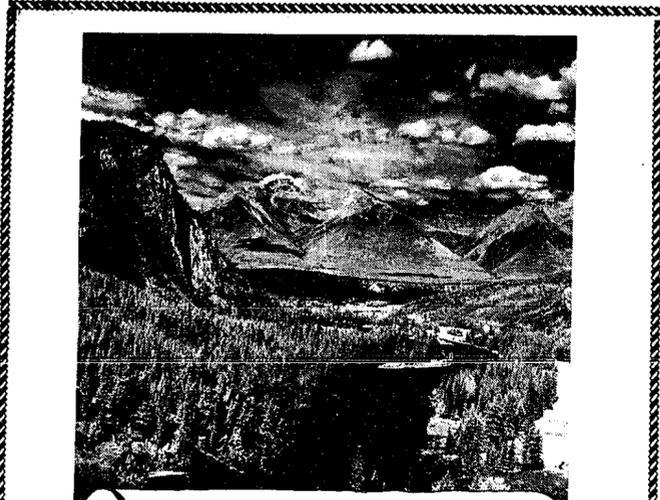

Unofficial returns show the millage request passed by a 404-247 margin with nine spoiled ballots.

The increase places school operating millage at 26.5 mills, and is expected to generate approximately $27,000 per year in additional revenue.

The American Quest

First came the convictions... solid rock-like convictions... about man and his rights... convictions about God and the gifts with which He generously blessed mankind. Then, came a search to implement these convictions: the result was our Declaration of Independence.

American liberty like America itself had its beginning in the quest for spiritual identity. In the wilderness itself the pilgrim fathers searched and labored to build a civilization based on their religious convictions. They probed their minds and hearts and discovered that they shared a common vision of "one nation under God." Again, the Declaration was the inspired result.

If our third century is to be one of "independence," like the two that have preceded it, all of us must continue this quest, and maintain this eternal vigilance of faith and religious commitment.

Police probe murder-suicide

Bad Axe State Police said Wednesday morning no new leads have surfaced in their investigation of the apparent murder-suicide of a rural Bad Axe couple, Sunday afternoon.

Charles W. Slack, 58, and his wife, Julia Helen, were found slain in their home on Van Dyke Road by the couple's daughter, Mrs. Beverly Schelke, and her husband, Donald, both of Cass City.

BETTER HEALTH

Hay fever

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

With the coming of the "Ides of August," autumn sufferers with hay fever are abruptly reminded of their good intention to "do something" about their seasonal ordeal. As their eyes and noses once more begin to flood and the explosion of their sneezing rents the air, they may be regretting their forgotten determination of last year to have some shots.

Such good intentions are too often quickly forgotten when the frost comes, the pollen count drops and the inaccurately named "hay fever" season comes to its end.

Hay fever, or more precisely seasonal pollinosis, is induced by windborne pollen or fungi. The spring variety is caused by tree pollens from such trees as oak, elm, maple, pecan, birch and cottonwood.

In the summer, the culprits are grass pollens of infinite variety, including such engaging labels as Bermuda, timothy, sweet vernal, orchard and Johnson.

In addition to these are the fungus spores of alternaria, helminthosporium, hormodendrum, wheat and corn rusts and smuts.

And now that August is here, their places are taken by the pollens of the ragweed family in the eastern and central United States, and by the pollens of the chenopod-amaranth families of the western states. The latter are more familiarly known as pigweed, love-lies-bleeding and other varieties of weed, some of whose more civilized cousins are spinach and beets.

The nose, roof of the mouth, throat and eyes, which are sensitive to these pollens, begin to itch abruptly after exposure. Then come the tears, the watery nasal discharge and the explosive sequence of sneezing.

drying up the discharge, diminishing the itching and slowing the insistence of the impulse to sneeze.

Those who are fortunate enough to have remembered, when the siege was over last year, to undertake a series of desensitizing shots may very well be experiencing a milder ordeal than usual. They may even find themselves quite free of symptoms.

More often than not, however, even for them, experience has shown that the judicious use of antihistamines may still be necessary.

There is an added measure that is not frowned on by most doctors that has helped some through these dreaded dog-days, and perhaps your doctor will consent to let you try it.

It consists of touching the inside of your nostrils, each night and morning, with a dab of dilute cortisone ointment. This is said to provide remarkable local protection against the invasion of the irritating pollen.

There seems to be no significant danger of systemic effect by absorption of such minute amounts of the active agent in the ointment, and there are those who have found great relief from their seasonal ordeal. Let your doctor decide if he thinks it is worth a trial for you.

Navarro reunion held at park

The Third Annual Navarro Reunion was held at the Cass City Recreational Park Sunday, Aug. 1.

Approximately 50 family members attended from Pontiac, Lapeer, Detroit, Hemans, Marlette, Sandusky and Cass City.

The election of officers was held. The new officers for this year are Eugene Salas of Detroit, president; Louis Salas Jr., vice-president; George Navarro of Pontiac, treasurer, and Linda Salas of Detroit, secretary.

The youngest member of the reunion clan was Steven Allen Navarro, and the oldest member was Louis H. Salas. Eugene and Linda Salas came the longest distance, from Detroit.

Next year's reunion will be held around the same time and place.

Zoning break for foster homes?

Zoning laws won't be able to stop the establishment of adult foster care homes with six or fewer persons under proposed legislation already approved by the Michigan House of Representatives.

The three-bill package would prevent local zoning ordinances from prohibiting the establishment of an adult foster care home in areas designated for residential development.

Ironically, the bills were passed less than two weeks after the Cass City Village Council refused to okay a zoning change which would have established an adult foster care facility in what is now the Konrad Konowski home on Church Street.

Council heeded pressure from area neighbors who feared such a home would lower property values and make the neighborhood a less safe place to live.

The bills must now win Senate approval and be signed into law by Gov. William Milliken.

According to Sally Lawton, public affairs director of the Statewide Care Home Association, the group is lobbying for passage in the current legislative session.

If the bills are not passed by the end of the year, they automatically die and must be resubmitted, she said.

Statewide represents 1,600 adult foster care homes in Michigan, about 50 per cent of the total number of homes. The group lobbies in the legislature and with the Department of Social Services for laws it wants to see on the books.

The three bills would forbid counties, townships, cities or villages from using zoning rules to keep foster care homes licensed by the state out of restricted areas.

The measures say state-licensed foster facilities would be considered a residential use of the property for local zoning purposes.

Homes of six or fewer persons originally from the same county would have to be allowed in a single-family area. Seven or more would require a change in zoning.

Ms. Lawton said the organization plans a campaign to win senate approval of the bills.

Under the laws, the proposed Cass City home would have been legal without a change from single-family to multiple-family zoning status, Ms. Lawton said.

Fire damages tractor

A fire believed started by faulty wiring did approximately $50 damage to a tractor at the William Zimba farm, 12 miles southeast of Cass City on Mushroom Road, Saturday afternoon.

Elkland Township Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said the blaze was out by the time firemen arrived at the scene.

Firemen answered the alarm at 2:30 p.m.

1975 fire loss hits $402,000

Fires during 1975 did a total of $402,990 damage in the Cass City area, according to the annual Elkland Township Fire Department summary compiled by the Fire Marshal Division of the Michigan State Police.

The report shows total property loss hit $275,500, with damage to contents totaling $127,490 in the area serviced by the department including 167 square miles in surrounding townships.

Hardest hit were one and two family dwellings with loss totaling $200,900. Storage areas, such as barns, sheds or warehouses, suffered a total $98,310 loss.

Damage to mobile homes totaled $18,900.

According to the report, the department made a total of 70 runs in 1975, with 52 runs within the department's territory. Elkland firemen assisted at six fires and aided in the investigation of eight blazes.

The report indicates 59 runs were related directly to fires, with 11 others involving emergency medical, rescue, non-fire emergency and false alarms.

This is the second year fire departments have used a detailed fire incident report. After each run, a three-part form detailing the fire must be filled out and sent to the Fire Marshal Division in Lansing.

So far this year, the department has made 61 runs, according to Fire Chief Jim Jezewski. Last year, that number was not reached until the end of September.

Damage totals so far in 1976 are unavailable, he said.

Crafts artist to conduct clinic

The American Wind Symphony Orchestra will appear in Saginaw Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 18, as part of a 76-stop bicentennial Odyssey.

The orchestra will be floating into Saginaw on a barge from its home base at the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers at Pittsburgh.

The group also provides free instruction in the arts as it tours the waterways of West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan and New York.

In a special outreach program, art instruction will be given in two other Michigan communities, Midland and Cass City.

Cass City was able to secure Edith C. Mitchell, craftsman, for an Arts Symposium at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 18, through the efforts of the Cass City Arts Council and the Michigan Council of Arts. It will be held at the Cass City Cultural Center.

Ms. Mitchell is a quilter and the owner of Blue Mountain Designs. She teaches typically American art at the Adirondack Lakes Center for the Arts and has been artist-in-residence at both Glens Falls High School and the North Country Community College of Malone, New York.

Her quilts, pillows and other craft items have been exhibited throughout the state of New York, including the Schenectady Museum, the New York State Crafts Fair in Ithaca, the Hyde Collection in Glens Falls and the Adirondack Lakes Center for the Arts.

In its stop in Saginaw the 65 members on tour will present a two-day long series of instructions and art demonstrations.

It will be capped by an evening concert at Ojibway Island at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 17, and an ecumenical service at the First Congregational church in Saginaw.

AT CASS CITY Tuesday in an outreach program will be Ms. Edith Mitchell who has received nation-wide recognition for artistry in the crafts field.

Set student physicals for Aug. 21

Physicals for all Cass City High School students planning to participate in athletics this school year will be held Saturday, Aug. 21, at 1:00 p.m. at the high school gym.

Physicals will be held for both boys and girls. Varsity football coach Roland Pakonen requests all football players and those planning to play to report prior to their physicals at 12:00 noon.

Local golfers cop Cement tournament

Two Cass City golfers teamed with a Caro golfer Sunday to win the annual Tuckey Cement tournament.

The golfers were Dick Wallace, Ron Geiger and Bob Buckley.

The trio started out as poorly as possible with a bogie on the first hole, considered one of the easiest to birdie at Caro Golf Club where the tourney was played.

It was the finishing holes where the trio won the tournament. Both Wallace and Buckley chipped in from off the green to show the way to the four-under par performance of the team.

For winning the trio divided $300. The tournament is a scramble where each team hits the best ball of the three players after each shot.

There were prizes for the first 10 places.

Lutherans in Church loop drivers' seat

The Lutherans moved into the favored position in the race for the Cass City Church League this week after a stunning upset of previously undefeated Deford by Shabbona.

It was not the loss that was so remarkable. It was the one-sided defeat. After all, Shabbona is capable of winning against any team on a given night.

But last Thursday Deford lost to Les Severance and Company, 10-0, in a game called after five innings. Not even the most ardent Shabbona rooter expected that.

The loss moves the Lutherans into the league lead all alone as the clubs head into the final week of the season.

Providing there are no further upsets Deford will have a chance to tie for the lead when the club faces the Lutherans after the end of the season.

Other than the Deford upset it was a typical week in league competition with any team capable of winning or losing any night.

Take the Methodists and the Catholics for instance. They met twice during the week and split.

In the early game Tuesday, Aug. 3, Ed Stoutenburg bested Paul Bliss in a Methodist win, 9-7. Bob Kozan rapped out a home run and three other hits to show the way. The Rev. Russ Stanley had two hits, including a home run. Phil Mitten also blasted two hits.

For the Catholics Jay Tuckey collected two hits. When the two teams met Friday it was the Catholics' turn to win, 10-8. Ron Ouvry and Jay Tuckey each rapped two hits.

For the Methodists Mike Lowe and Paul Stanley had two hits. Bob Kozan and Randy Damm hit for the circuit for the losers.

The Lutherans had little trouble winning the only game they played during the week, 6-0. Al Romig showed again that he is the class of the league on the mound as he whitewashed the potent Shabbona team. Ken Martin had two hits for the Lutherans and Dale Auslander rapped a pair for Shabbona.

In the late game Tuesday night, Lamotte rolled over Missionary, 21-8. Lamotte showed power up and down the line-up as eight players rapped two hits each. Leading the losers were Roger Root, Jim Brown, Jim Tuckey, Ernie Cameron and Fred Martin with two hits each.

Missionary won its second game of the year Thursday with an upset over Church of Christ, 7-3. Roger Root tossed the win and Rich Lowe took the loss. Lowe did his best in his own behalf with two hits.

MONDAY GAMES

The Catholics chalked up their second win of the week Monday with a 10-3 nod over Lamotte. Mike Gruber and John Smentek rapped two hits and Ron Ouvry had three hits for the winners. Tom Smentek allowed Lamotte just three hits. Marv Fishell took the loss.

When Shabbona is hitting it spells trouble for the opponents. They were hitting in the late game Monday. In five innings they rolled over Colwood, 15-3. Les Severance and Dale Auslander had two hits each. Roy Sefton had three hits including a home run and Russ Smith rapped three safeties.

Seek 'grandfather' school bill change

Where the majority of some 90 students who live in the Owen-Gage district but are tuition students in Cass City will go to school this fall rests with efforts to establish a "grandfather" clause amendment on a bill deemed held to be signed by Gov. William G. Milliken.

The bill makes it mandatory to charge tuition at no less than per capita cost which last year was $837.15 in Cass City.

Last year the students living in the Owen-Gage district paid token amounts to attend school in Cass City.

There is a very good chance that an amendment will be passed, Supt. Donald Crouse said, that will allow a student that was attending a school other than in his own district to finish school at that district. This type of legislation has been labeled "grandfather" provisions.

However, Crouse stressed, parents of students attending Cass City will be responsible for the tuition if the amendment fails to pass. The crucial day is the official counting date for State Aid payments...

...the fourth Friday of September. Students attending school at that date are members of that system for the year regardless of what happens afterwards.

Rev. Hoffman to speak

Rev. Dr. Oswald Hoffman, International Lutheran Hour speaker, will be the guest preacher Sunday, Aug. 15, at St. John Evangelical Lutheran church, Kilmanagh, as part of the church's year-long centennial celebration.

The service will begin at 11:00 a.m. and will be held outdoors, weather permitting. Special music is also scheduled.

A picnic lunch and an afternoon program are planned. The church is located seven miles northeast of Sebawaing on Kilmanagh Road. Pastor is Rev. Henry Brinker.

In case of inclement weather, activities will be moved to the Sebawaing Elementary School.
