Tuscola dry bean crop lags

While last week end's rains helped Tuscola county's lagging 1976 dry bean crop, don't look for anything resembling a bumper harvest this year.

That's the word from Sam Woods, Thumb area field crops agent, who predicted Tuesday county bean farmers can look forward to about a nine bag (hundredweight) per acre average yield this year.

Woods said the figure represents a drop of about half a bag per acre over last year's yield, and falls well under the average state-wide yield of around 12 bags per acre in 1974.

"In Tuscola county, the situation is spotty," Woods said. "The reason is due mainly to the early heavy rains we had in the spring that hurt soil structure and provided poor growth conditions."

Once the rains stopped, hot, dry weather set in during the most active growth period, Woods said.

In the Cass City area, some beans have begun maturing, but few are ready to be pulled, he said. If the weather stays dry, he added, some navy beans near Reese may be ready for harvesting sometime next week.

The combination of early wet weather followed by hot, dry conditions have acted as a

3 die in accidents

Owendale woman killed in Saginaw crash

An Owendale woman was killed and her husband and son were listed in critical condition Wednesday morning following a three-vehicle crash Monday at the M-83-M-46 intersection in Saginaw county.

Dead is Mrs. Arlington (Arlene) Fritz, 49. Her husband and son Mark, 15, remained in St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw with their injuries.

According to Bridgeport State Police, the Fritz auto was struck head-on by a tanker truck driven by Norman Stanik, 39, Midland.

Police said the Fritz auto was westbound on M-46 when the crash took place.

The accident occurred when a car driven north on M-43 by Mrs. Lou Madison, 65, Flint, apparently pulled into the path of the eastbound tanker. The truck struck the Madison auto, crossed the centerline and struck the Fritz auto before coming to rest in a field and bursting into flames.

Two other passengers in the Fritz auto, James Hornbacher, 25, Sebawaing, and Barbara Hornbacher, 22, also of Sebawaing, were listed in good condition at St. Mary's.

Another passenger, Michael Fritz, 14, Owendale, was listed in good condition, police said.

Mrs. Madison was in fair condition Wednesday morning at St. Mary's. Two passengers in her auto, Earl Thiepen, 65, Flint, and his wife, Viola, 55, were in fair condition at the same hospital.

The truck driver escaped serious injury. The accident took place at 1:15 a.m.

Mrs. Fritz was born Nov. 27, 1926, in Elkton. She and Arlington Fritz were married May 30, 1947, in Pigeon.

Survivors include her husband; one daughter, Mrs. James (Barbara) Hornbacher of Sebawaing; four sons, Roger of Owendale, Thomas of Cass City, Mark and Michael, both of Owendale; three grandchildren; her father, Walter Schuette and stepmother, Ella Brueggeman Schuette of Sebawaing; two sisters, Mrs. Elma Mae Kanyak of Fenton and Mrs. Joyce Rosenthal of Elkton; three brothers, Richard Schuette of Texas, Dale and Donald Schuette, both of Elkton; one stepbrother, Robert Brueggeman of Bad Axe, and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was scheduled Thursday from Cross Lutheran church in Pigeon, with Rev. Raymond Orth officiating.

Burial will be in Grandlawn cemetery, Pigeon. Shetler-Bussema Funeral Home of Pigeon handled arrangements.

Tuscola county's traffic death toll jumped to 16 Monday afternoon in a tragic accident that killed a 24-year-old Vassar woman and her 22-month-old daughter.

Caro State Police identified the victims as Lynn Marie List, and her daughter, Shelli Lynn. They died in a crash at the intersection of Belsay and Barnes Road, four miles southwest of Millington.

Seven other persons were hospitalized with injuries.

Police said the accident took place as a truck driven west on Barnes Road by Mrs. List's sister-in-law, Christine List, 31, Vassar, apparently failed to yield at the intersection and was struck by a car driven by Richard Ernest Anderson, 34, Clio.

Anderson, who was headed south on Belsay Road, was listed in critical condition Tuesday afternoon at the University of Michigan medical center in Ann Arbor.

His wife, Georgiana, 32, was listed in serious condition at the Ann Arbor facility. Their two children, Kimberly Sue, 11, and Kristi Lynn, 9, were reportedly in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital in Flint.

Christine List and two of her children riding in the death car, Carmen Ann, 4, and Dustin James, 7, were also hospitalized at St. Joseph's with multiple injuries.

Police said both vehicles ended up in a large ditch. They said the two victims were pinned beneath the wreckage of the truck.

The accident took place at 1:20 p.m. Officers from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department assisted State Police in their investigation.

TWO INJURED

Two Kingston area women were injured, one seriously, in a car-truck crash late

Sunday night on Lanway Road, five miles southwest of Kingston.

Cindy Friday, 18, Kingston, was reportedly hospitalized for observation after the car in which she was riding struck a parked truck.

Caro State Police said the eastbound vehicle, driven by Kay Sandra Johnson, 39, of Kingston Rd., Kingston, struck the truck parked along the south edge of the road.

Police reported the truck was without lights when the accident took place.

Ms. Johnson was also treated at Marlette Hospital.

Three persons inside the truck, Wade Nolan Boyne, 16, Marlette, Duane Cumper, 17, also of Marlette, and Leslie L. Jones, 16, Clifford, were shaken up and sought their own treatment.

Boyne was ticketed for improper parking.

The accident took place at 11:30 p.m.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Marlene D. Parrish, 30, of 6305 Houghton St., Cass City, was uninjured Monday in a two-car accident at the intersection of M-81 and Akron Road, seven miles southwest of Cass City.

Caro State Police reported Ms. Parrish was headed northeast on M-81 when an eastbound car driven by Paula L. Hiser, 21, Caro, attempted to cross the highway on Akron Road.

Police said Ms. Parrish attempted to avoid a collision by turning east onto Akron Road but failed.

Ms. Hiser told police she did not see the oncoming car due to bright sun. She was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

Ms. Parrish was cited for having no proof of insurance. The accident took place at 3:10 p.m.

Gary Wills, 28, of Barrie Road, Uby, suffered multiple injuries early Saturday morning in a single-car accident on M-53 near Kinde.

Huron County Sheriff's deputies said Wills was northbound when he lost control of the car, ran off the east side of the road, pulled back, crossed the centerline and ran into a ditch on the west side of the highway.

He was treated at Huron Memorial Hospital. The accident took place at 12:45 a.m.

Charles Louis Crittenden, 17, Caro, escaped injury when his car went out of control and landed in a ditch on Rossman Road, less than a mile northwest of Kingston, Saturday morning.

Tuscola County Sheriff's officers said Crittenden was eastbound when his right front wheel went off the roadway.

The vehicle struck a metal bridge railing and came to rest in a ditch on the south side of the road.

The accident took place at 2:30 a.m.

Hearing set Monday

Gagetown, Elmwood plan building

A new municipal building housing Gagetown and Elmwood township governments could be a reality by next winter if present plans stay on course.

An agreement to build came following recent meetings between the village council and the township board where details of constructing and operating the facility were largely ironed out.

According to Gagetown President William Downing, the village would pay 60 per cent of construction costs, with the township picking up the remaining 40 per cent.

Downing said the village agreed to the figure since it's estimated Gagetown will use the building about 60 per cent of the time.

The village has also agreed to pay 60 per cent of the maintenance cost, with the remainder going to the township.

Another part of the agreement stipulates that Gagetown's share of maintaining the fire department would be one-third of the total cost, with Elmwood township paying two-thirds.

Downing says a site for the building hasn't been finalized. Opinion appears split over constructing it on a village-owned lot along State Street next to the Grand Trunk Western railroad tracks or building on the present fire hall site on Lincoln Street.

That's one of the issues expected to be discussed at a public meeting on the building scheduled Monday, Aug. 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Elmwood township hall in Gagetown.

Downing says there are no plans to levy any additional taxes to finance the building. The funds will come from federal revenue sharing along with local revenue.

Cost of the structure hasn't been determined yet, but Downing estimates it could run from $40,000-$50,000.

Present plans call for a 50 by 112-foot steel pole structure. Included are a 44 by 50-foot fire station, a 32 by 50-foot maintenance area, two offices for village and township business each measuring 22½ by 16 feet and a 22½ by 32-foot conference room.

The building would also include a brick front.

Downing says the new building would help cut costs for both village and township.

"Instead of having three buildings, you'd have one," he says. "Right now you've got the village hall, the fire hall and the township hall. They all need repair and by the time you do that, you'd be farther ahead with one new building."

Downing sees reduced heating and maintenance costs as major reasons to go with one building.

He said Monday's meeting is being called to explain the proposal, to answer questions and to get public reaction to the plan.

Elmwood township Supervisor Roy Messer agrees the need for a new building exists. Messer has been working with preliminary plans for several months. He says co-operation between village and township has been good.

While the idea of building a structure for both units of government has been okayed, there are still a few loose ends. One issue involves the actual construction.

"Some people would like to contract the entire job," Messer says. "Others think we should contract for just the shell and then finish it off ourselves."

An answer may come out of next week's public meeting.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Never eschew the grass

BY JIM FITZGERALD

"Friday, in our never-ending quest for culture, we will sit on the hill," I told my wife. "But on Sunday we will eschew the grass and dine in the palace with the president."

"I don't think you chew grass; I think you smoke it," she said.

"This will be another fine opportunity for me to test the White Star Phenomenon," I said, ignoring her poor pun. She needs culture more than I do.

Anyway, we did it.

On one night we sprawled on the grass at the Meadow Brook Music Festival and listened to Maynard Ferguson defy death by hernia, wailing his trumpet to the shrillest notes this side of a dog whistle. We wore tennis shoes, ate cold chicken from a box, and avoided windburn by crawling into a Thermos bottle.

Two nights later we ate a three-fork dinner at the Sunset Terrace, the splendid home of Donald O'Dowd, president of Oakland University. The Terrace overlooks the Meadow Brook amphitheatre, so it was possible to look down on the peasants as we ate kabobs and brown tomatoes. At showtime we descended to stagefront, smug in the pavilion, to enjoy a scholarly program presented by the New England Conservatory Ragtime Ensemble.

The contrast between the two evenings at Meadow Brook was extreme — which is what I was seeking. I wanted to find out if, when it comes to culture, I still take after my father. This brings us to what I always have called the "White Star Phenomenon."

The White Star stands no more. Long ago it fell to urban renewal, that gigantic bruise of childhood memories. The White Star was once the sleaziest saloon in my hometown, Port Huron. It occupied a scruffy corner near the St. Clair River, in the Red Light district, where decent people never went.

I first went inside the White Star when I was 18. I was one of several brave soldiers home on furlough, during World War II, and had spent the night celebrating in the ribald manner befitting young men who knew this might be their last hurrah — death could be waiting in the next foxhole. (I was a clerk-typist assigned to the chaplain's office.)

Somehow it was decided that we should climax the evening by invading forbidden territory — the White Star. All our lives our parents had instructed us to beware of that bar. We had been warned against everything from opium addiction (from drinking from unsterilized glasses) to being shanghaied by Great Lakes sailors and forced to spend the rest of our years on Lake Erie, off Cleveland.

But this was war. Into the White Star we went.

It appeared as bad as advertised. The floor was dirt, most of the customers carried their heads between their feet, and the bartender's face looked like two blocks of broken sidewalk.

In those days you had to be 21 to drink. The bartender asked me for proof and I showed him a photostat of my birth certificate. The birth date had been suitably altered but the rest of the information was legitimate.

"Hey," said the bartender, "You must be Eddie Fitzgerald's son."

I was. And my companions fell on the floor laughing, splendor in the dirt.

It turned out my father was an old and favored customer. I soon became the same thing. And when my mother found out, she explained the phenomenon succinctly: "You're just like your father. You'd rather hang around with bums than bank presidents."

This is pretty much the truth, but I've always fought it.

That's why the Meadow Brook experiment was so appealing. If I liked Sunday's plush better than Friday's slush, I could pronounce myself cured. I could phone Mother and tell her it was finally OK to eschew my old cuspidor.

But it didn't happen that way.

Sunset Terrace is a lovely place. The free parking and preferred sitting made me feel important. And President O'Dowd is an unusually gracious host, forever youthful. He could be Gov. Milliken's younger brother, another cousin of Dorian Gray. It was a charming time.

But when Maynard Ferguson blew "I Can't Get Started With You" I was flat on my back, searching the sky for yesterdays, and my favorite girl tickled my shin with her big toe. It could never have happened in row HH, seats 32 and 34. It was a moment made for sighing.

"We should never eschew the grass," I sighed, in cultured tones.

Only folks who've nothing to do look upon life as a burden.

Political economy has been called the art of getting the most votes for the least money.

THOSE AREN'T trees Lyle Biddle of Cass City is measuring. Those are tomato plants. Biddle's plants measure six feet, five inches tall. He says he started them in April on his porch and transplanted them to his garden in June.

Cass City Police probe larcenies, vandalism

FROM THE Editor's Corner

almost constantly.

In that period he's seen the broken and maimed come in a never ending stream. Day after day, week after week.

And many, if not most, of the accidents have been alcohol related, he says.

When you hear this, suddenly the harsh laws that have been adopted in Sweden appear not harsh but sensible. In that country drinking (not drunk, drinking) drivers go to jail. Period.

The people know it. It's common practice there to appoint someone as the driver before the party begins.

The driver doesn't drink. Not at all. When it's his turn to be behind the wheel it's his turn to drink absolutely nothing alcoholic.

I'd back a law like Sweden's. I'd also back a return to the 21-year-old drinking law.

I've heard the arguments. Old enough to fight, old enough to drink. Better to drink at a bar than be forced into a car with booze.

The trouble is that they don't hold water. The very lack of judgement that makes an 18-year-old a wonderful fighting machine makes him a hazard with a bottle.

But that's not the worst of it. The really big concern is that the dip in age to 18 has unleashed a drinking spree for 14 to 17-year olds.

The 18-year-olds buy it for their younger friends.

It's one reason why authorities are unanimous in naming alcohol our number one drug abuse problem by a wide margin.

Remember, this is not a prohibitionist talking.

Certainly, a vast majority believe as I do that prohibition was a dismal failure.

You simply cannot legislate public morals.

But you can put teeth into a law for the common good.

I've got a hunch that the citizens would respect and generally obey a law like this.

Especially if they happened to be in the waiting room of a hospital when the latest accident victim is carried in.

The chessy cat grins you see on two Cass City High School coaches and two ex-coaches these days aren't there because a bunch of super studs joined their squads.

It's because they finished first in a golf scramble at Saginaw and came home with a huge trophy and (last but not least) $100 bucks per man.

They've qualified for the State meet later this year where they will be aiming for more hardware and more loot. The golfers are Dave Lovejoy, Paul Clabuesch, Roland Pakonen and Dale McIntosh.

*****

Tell them you read it here first. There will be a new golf coach at Cass City High School this fall. Tom Woody has resigned. He leaves lots of talent, too.

*****

It's been a wonderful summer for food-a-holics. First the raspberries were scrumptious. The cantaloupe are mouth watering and the sweet corn plentiful.

The sweet cherries were not all that great, but there were some. Anyway, I'd trade a quart of raspberries for a crate of cherries any day.

Diet? What's that?

*****

The Huron Daily Tribune has been sold to a newspaper chain headquartered in Illinois. It will be interesting to see the results.

In the big time a chain operation does well. Many medium size dailies - Saginaw, Bay City, Port Huron - are parts of a chain.

Smaller operations sometimes do not do as well. One prestigious weekly went bankrupt after merger. A weekly that under private ownership was a leader in the state.

*****

Why is it that you feel a kinship for local politicians on the State scene and State politicians on the national scene?

When Gov. William Milliken and Sen. Bob Griffin appeared on the tube in the GOP party at Kansas City it was almost like seeing the man next door make good.

It's the thought here that the national exposure won't mean anything at the polls come election time . . . but it certainly doesn't hurt either.

File $60,000 negligence suit

Two broken ankles may be worth $60,000 for Mrs. L.J. Kowitz of Millington.

Mrs. Kowitz and her husband filed suit last week in Tuscola County Circuit Court against the Millington American Legion Hall and Buchinger Builders.

The couple charges both with negligence in constructing steps at an entrance to the hall resulting in Mrs.

Kowitz' falling and breaking both ankles.

The accident took place the evening of March 20, 1975.

The suit charges the steps were not properly lighted, did not have a hand rail and had no anti-slip materials.

The suit also charges improper construction.

The defendants have not yet replied to the charges.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Pitchman
reporters

By Jim Ketchum

Old news reporters never die. They wind up as pitchmen (or pitch persons).

Take Nancy Dickerson, for instance. It's nearly impossible to turn on your radio these days without the sultry tones of Mrs. Dickerson speaking for the folks at Detroit Edison.

Generally, she wants us to straighten up and stop using all that energy on foolish things like air conditioning. Use less and pay more is her motto.

Then she explains the fine points of changing air conditioner filters. This is supposed to save energy. Actually, it doesn't work. You use more energy wielding the sledge hammer and crow bar changing filters than you save.

I guess what really bothers me is knowing part of my electric bill is paying Mrs. Dickerson to tell me I'm a bum for using so much power. Admittedly, she's a lot sexier than Reddy Kilowatt. But then Reddy Kilowatt was a cartoon character who didn't draw a salary, fringe benefits and a cost of living escalator. It saddens me a little because I can remember when Nancy Dickerson was doing more than making a fast buck for herself. She used to be one of the best in her business.

Mrs. Dickerson was the reporter who broke the story that Lyndon Johnson had chosen Hubert Humphrey as his vice-president.

She worked for CBS and NBC before turning to nobler pursuits on public television. Maybe when the air conditioning season is over, they'll switch her to furnaces or vacuum cleaners or pop-up toasters. With any luck, she could find her way into hot water heaters and electric frying pans.

She's not the first electronic journalist to hit the road for greener pickings. John Cameron Swayze was one of the first.

Just before Huntley-Brinkley arrived at NBC, Swayze held down the national news anchor slot. Held it until Timex came along. When he decided there was more money in watches than TV, Swayze thought it was better to take a licking and keep on ticking.

Chet Huntley went the commercial route, too. He flew with American Airlines for several years before he died. When he went to that great airport in the sky, chances are he took an American Airlines nausea bag with him, just in case.

So far, nobody has asked me to become a spokesperson. I haven't been offered a job as pitchman for soap flakes, drain cleaner, political parties or candidates.

For awhile at least, I think I'll pass. I may have a believable face, but it's a face I still want to look at in the mirror each morning without wincing.

So far at least, I still can.

Administrator Paul Lefler says Building codes help protect public

If you plan to build a house or add on to your present home, chances are good you'll get to know Paul Lefler.

He doesn't build houses. His job is to make sure the ones that are built are done right.

Lefler, 48, oversees State Building Codes in Tuscola county. And if you don't live in Cass City, Caro, Fairgrove, Vassar or Millington, he's the man you'll have to see for your building permit.

Lefler's Department of Public Works has been in business since May of 1975. He admits his office did not begin with the warmest reception.

"A lot of people got the wrong idea about the codes," Lefler said as he took a break in his Caro office. "I don't think there's a legitimate builder in the county who's complained. Most of the problems came with people who didn't understand building and what we were trying to do."

Lefler says the codes, which he described as minimal, are needed to protect the public. It's designed to keep unscrupulous builders from constructing inferior homes.

It mandates basic requirements for basement depth, footings, type of material and construction design. Without it, no one is protected, he claims.

"We had one homeowner in Koylton township who had a finished basement with paneling, carpeting and a bar," he says. "Because the builder put the tile in one foot above the footings, the wall cracked. The only way to save the house is to raise it and dig a new basement. The owner figures it will cost him around $6,500. All this happened before the codes went into operation."

Lefler's department operates on an annual budget of $45,000. Included are salaries for Lefler, an electrical and plumbing inspector, and two office staff.

He maintains the department really doesn't cost county taxpayers anything. He says the fee system used for permits and inspections pays the cost.

Fees are charged for the building permit and for electrical and plumbing inspections. The plumbing fees are based on the number of fixtures in the building.

Charges that the county Department of Public Works and its Building Code Administrator are taking away local control aren't fair, Lefler says.

"I believe firmly in local control," he says. "But this is a state act, passed in 1972, which mandates that either local building administrators will enforce the codes or the county will."

In Cass City, for instance, Supt. Lou Lonsie handles building permits. In Elkhart township, Lefler takes over. Five townships in the county have hired full-time building inspectors. If they fail to do their job, the state can step in, relieve the local inspector and turn the job over to Lefler.

"I don't like the word enforcement," Lefler said in reference to his job. "I prefer to think that we work with people who are building and try to help them as much as we can. We try to be flexible in what we do."

In one case, Lefler okayed a house with footings less than the mandated 42 inches deep because soil conditions didn't warrant it.

Part of the problem is attitudes.

"We've had private builders come in here with a chip on their shoulder," he says. "But after we sit down and try to explain what we're doing, we manage to get them agreeing a little."

The department's size is still small enough to treat each permit on a personal basis, he says. One man building a garage has been in nearly every day for advice, Lefler says.

"In fact, once I went out to the site and ended up driving a nail in a board to show him how it should be done," he says.

Lefler believes his department has helped bring about better construction in Tuscola county in the past 15 months. This is what we're here for, he says.

"We have a few sub-standard builders left," he says. But others who were sub-standard have started building better homes and it's shown in fewer complaints. It'll take awhile for some of these outfits to shed their bad reputation, but in time, it'll happen. They'll gain a good reputation."

Lefler says the codes have also helped drive out "shysters"—unscrupulous builders from out of the county who charged enormous fees and did sub-standard work.

"This is how the act helps protect the public," he says.

Construction is nothing new for Lefler. He has either owned or worked for building firms since 1950. The Onaway native has worked in engineering and drafting, with over 10 years in residential design and construction.

He says he's available to speak at any village or township meeting to explain the codes.

"We want to work with people, not against them," he says.

Attempted negligent homicide plea heard

Sentencing was set Sept. 27 for Tom Marvin Dubay, 19, Reese, in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday following his guilty plea to attempted negligent homicide.

Dubay was charged in connection with a traffic accident that took the life of Alan Mark Jacobs last April 25.

Bond was set at $1,000 while Dubay awaits sentence.

The accident took place on M-81 near Reese. The prosecution had charged Dubay drove his vehicle while under the influence of liquor at speeds approaching 75 miles an hour.

During the arraignment, Dubay stood mute to a count of negligent homicide, opting for the reduced charge.

The arraignment was one of eight heard before presiding Judge Martin Clements.

Carol Jean Ladd, 17, Mayville, stood mute on a charge of larceny over $100. An innocent plea was entered in her behalf and pre-trial examination was set for Aug. 30.

Bond was continued at $1,000. She was arrested in February in Dayton township.

Robert Wallace Giddings, 24, and Joseph Ambros Taylor, 18, both of Caro, were arraigned in connection with larceny in a home on Decker-ville Road in Ellington township in June.

Each stood mute and innocent pleas were entered for the pair. Pre-trial examinations were set for Aug. 30, and $500 bonds for each were continued.

Joyce Renee Moncman, 23, Vassar, stood mute during her arraignment on a charge of possessing the controlled drug phendimetrazine. An innocent plea was entered in her behalf and pre-trial examination was set for Sept. 13.

Bond was continued at $500. Ms. Moncman was arrested in Vassar in June.

Frank Sholes, 19, Flushing, faces pre-trial examination Aug. 30 following his arraignment Monday on fraud charges.

Sholes stood mute and an innocent plea was entered in his behalf. His bond was continued at $3,000.

Sholes is charged with writing three checks totaling $270 last January without sufficient funds. He was arrested in Mayville.

In an unrelated case, John Achtabowski, 43, Vassar, was arraigned on an insufficient funds charge. His initial guilty plea was denied by Judge Clements and an innocent plea was later entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for Aug. 30, and a $2,000 bond was continued. He was arrested in May in Millington.

Robert Okony, Mayville, stood mute during his arraignment on charges of delivering the drug LSD. An innocent plea was entered in his behalf and pre-trial examination was set for Sept. 13. A $3,500 bond was continued.

He was arrested in December, 1975, in Mayville.

One sentencing was handed down. Nolan Nash, Caro, was ordered to serve one year in the Tuscola County Jail following his guilty plea to a breaking and entering charge.

He was arrested in January in connection with a break-in of a Wells township home.

Nash will receive 86 days credit for time served.

Judge Clements denied an appeal by Mark Smith, Saginaw, that his sentence in District Court was too severe.

Smith was sentenced by Judge Richard Kern on a charge of careless discharge of firearms. He was ordered to pay a $200 fine and serve 20 days in the county jail.

Lawyers for Smith contended the sentence would make it difficult for him to hold his job.

Clements remanded the case to District Court.

A new trial was requested for William Henry Hicks, Lapeer, following a recent conviction of destroying police property.

Hicks' court-appointed attorney, Forrest Walpole, was granted permission to write a letter to a juror in Hicks' case concerning an alleged stay in a mental hospital.

No decision was made regarding a new trial.

Local road revenue share shows drop

While fuel tax revenues continued to increase as more Michigan motorists took to the roads, local shares of highway revenues for the second quarter of 1976 showed a decline.

Cass City's share for the second quarter totaled $8,872, a decline of roughly six per cent from the same period in 1975. The story was the same for surrounding villages. Gagetown received $2,986, a drop of four per cent. Kingston's share, $2,147, reflected a six per cent decline as did Ubly which received $3,804.

Tuscola county's second quarter share of highway revenues also showed a six per cent drop from the second quarter of 1975, standing at $388,626.

Sanilac county lost seven per cent over the April-June period in 1975, receiving $367,765 this year.

Huron county experienced the smallest area loss, five per cent, over second quarter 1975 revenues. Its share was $344,970.

Statewide, receipts from state gasoline, diesel fuel and liquid petroleum gas totaled $101,767,466, a 5.6 per cent increase from the comparable quarter in 1975.

Gallons of gasoline taxed set a record of just over four billion in the 12 months ended June 30, topping the previous 12-month high set in 1972-1973.

A drop of 13.2 per cent in weight taxes paid by Michigan motorists helped offset gains made in gasoline sales. Revenues totaled $24,377,047.

BETTER HEALTH

Vitamins

BY DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

Substituting for the vacationing Dr. Welch this month is Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, former nationally syndicated columnist and Emeritus Consultant of Medicine, Mayo Clinic. These selections are taken from "Dr. Walter C. Alvarez on Health and Life," published by Major Books.

Many people feel that with vitamins, one cannot get too much of a good thing, but this is not true. Most vitamins, like vitamin C, are water-soluble, which means that the body only uses what it needs, but with vitamins A and D, it is possible to get too much of them, and an overdose can be dangerous.

For example, many youngsters, hearing that vitamin A is effective in an ointment for treating teen-age acne, think that taking large doses of vitamin A by mouth will prevent acne; unfortunately, in high doses, vitamin A can cause loss of appetite, dryness or roughness of the skin, headaches, severe itching, loss of hair, frequent vomiting, fissures in the angles of the lips, a tired feeling and much more.

I read that in Britain, some years ago, when almost all foods were fortified with vitamin A, people were often consuming 25,000 to 50,000 International Units a day -- five to ten times the Recommended Daily Allowance in America. After a year or so, the overfed British began getting a jaundiced look, as their fat actually turned yellow. Obviously, taking too many vitamins can be as risky as taking too few.

I see that the great interest in vitamin E continues to rage on. As science writer James Trager wrote in his book about foods and digestion, "The Bellybook" (Grossman Publishers): "If there were good evidence that vitamin E supplements did retard old age, or performed any of the other health miracles with which they are credited, health and life insurance companies would be quick to supply the drug to all policy holders." The final conclusion is that of the Food and Drug Administration, which says, "At present there is no unequivocal evidence that vitamin E has any therapeutic use."

I have often warned people that when they have some unpleasant symptoms that cannot be explained as due to a known disease, they should stop taking all drugs -- including vitamins.

Dr. S. Szanto wrote an interesting article (in "Modern Geriatrics and Modern Medicine of Great Britain"), showing clearly how harmful vitamins in large doses can sometimes be.

Dr. Szanto tells of the puzzling disease of a frail, lethargic old lady, who appeared to be senile and was confined to a wheelchair. Aside from a slightly elevated blood pressure, nothing wrong could be found, even with thorough testing. Her daughter was distressed, because with the patient's mental deterioration, her inability to hold her urine, and her general weakness, it was difficult to care for her.

While the old lady was in the hospital, her doctors saw to it that she did not take any medicines. While the testing and searching for an explanation of her trouble went on, time passed, and she began to get better.

Then one day, two months after she had entered the hospital, Dr. Szanto found her walking back from having some physiotherapy, smiling happily and chatting with a nurse. The doctor talked about letting her go home, and she promised him she would eat properly.

Then she said, "Yes I will take care of myself and take all the chocolate tonics again." The doctor immediately asked her about the "chocolate tonics," and the whole explanation of her trouble came out.

A year before, she had had a cold, and a doctor had given her some antibiotics and some "tonic pills," which turned out to be multivitamin pills. The old lady liked the "chocolate tonics" so well that she had gotten more, and ate them like candy every day until she was taken to the hospital by her daughter.

She admitted that the doctor had not told her to take the pills in large amounts, but she confessed that she usually had consumed about 50 tablets each day. The pills were found to contain, among other things, vitamin D, which in the enormous doses of 13,000 to 15,000 units daily was poisoning her. She should not have had more than 400 units a day.

This story shows clearly how people can sometimes harm themselves with "too much of a good thing."

On the other hand, my dear friend Dr. Erwin DiCyan, Ph.D., in his book entitled "Vitamins in Your Life" (Simon & Schuster), discusses the vitamin deficiencies that can come with overuse of alcohol, not only because alcoholics generally do not eat properly, but also because alcohol can deplete vitamins and minerals by interfering with the way the body normally uses them.

Some experts blame a lack of magnesium for such effects as brain damage and delirium tremens (DT's), because the alcohol causes the body to excrete magnesium too fast.

Also there is evidence that alcohol increases the amount of cholesterol in the body, not because it carries in cholesterol, but because even a moderate amount of alcohol increases the stores of plasma triglycerides, which some experts believe may have an even more important role in producing heart attacks than does cholesterol. When alcohol is used excessively, the cholesterol level can rise far beyond that produced by eating a cholesterol-rich diet.

Sheriff records

busy month

Elkland township ranked third in the number of complaints reported to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department in July, according to Sheriff Hugh Marr's monthly report to the Board of Commissioners.

The township recorded 102 complaints, ranking behind only Vassar township with 134 and Millington township with 108.

Your neighbor says

No to capital punishment

A recent Supreme Court ruling has resurrected the possibility of capital punishment being reinstituted in several states. Advocates believe the gas chamber and the electric chair act as deterrents to crime. Opponents say it is a needless waste of life.

Arthur Holmberg of Cass City is opposed to capital punishment.

"I don't believe it acts as a deterrent," he says. "I don't believe it is effective and I see it as a step backward."

Holmberg says he is opposed in principle to the taking of life and believes the death penalty would act more to appease society and not place a damper on crime.

"I think sure punishment is a better deterrent," he says. "To often, criminals have the feeling of just waiting for parole. If our courts were to mete out certain justice, it might help us as much as anything."

A respected educator, Holmberg came to Cass City in 1935 as a science teacher. He served as high school principal from 1943 until his retirement in 1969.

Horses, livestock, and exhibits will be featured during the week, along with a host of games, rides and treats for the whole family.

Action begins Sunday with a rodeo sponsored by the Indian Trails Riding Club, at 2:00 p.m. at the grandstand. Young and old alike will have a chance to see some of the top area riders and their mounts perform.

Also scheduled at 2:00 p.m. is a championship horseshoe contest.

MONDAY

The fair swings into high gear Monday with entry day. Hundreds of projects and exhibits are expected to be set up awaiting judging throughout the week.

At 1:30 p.m., the North Huron High School Band will perform, followed at 2:00 p.m. by harness horse racing for two and three-year-old colts at the grandstand.

At 7:30 p.m., State Championship Horse Pulling under 3,200 lbs., gets under way at the grandstand.

TUESDAY

Tuesday at the fair swings into motion at 9:00 a.m. with judging of youth livestock. Some of the finest livestock specimens raised in Huron county will come under the crucial eye of the judges, all hoping for coveted blue ribbons.

At 1:30 p.m., the Bad Axe High School Band will perform, followed at 2:00 p.m. by a second day of harness racing.

Following horse pulling the previous night, the tractors take over at 7:30 p.m. at the grandstand.

Tuesday is also children's day at the fair, with reduced ride prices until 6:00 p.m.

WEDNESDAY

Livestock judging will be completed Wednesday, beginning at 9:00 a.m. The youth horse show is also scheduled to get under way Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

The third high school band of the week—Harbor Beach—is scheduled to perform at 4:00 p.m., followed by another day of harness racing at 5:00 p.m. at the grandstand.

One of the most thrilling acts on wheels—Danny Fleenor's Hurricane Hell Drivers—will have grandstand crowds on the edge of their seats starting at 8:00 p.m.

Fleenor and his crew make automotive acrobatics look easy as they literally defy death behind the wheel.

THURSDAY

Laker High School's band makes its bow as the final band of the week to entertain fairgoers, beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the grandstand.

Two big events—the youth livestock sale and another day of harness racing, are scheduled for 2:00 p.m.

Thursday night's activities get under way at 8:00 p.m.

with the youth talent show, followed by the crowning of the youth King and Queen of the Fair.

The evening will be capped off when the 1976 Huron County Bean Queen is crowned in ceremonies scheduled for the grandstand.

FRIDAY

Open Class horse judging kicks off Friday at the fair at 9:00 a.m.

At 2:00 p.m., a special senior citizen program is scheduled. The highlight will be the crowning of the Senior Citizen King and Queen.

Also scheduled in the afternoon is the crowning of the 1976 Queen of Queens. The winner will compete at the Michigan State Fair in Detroit in September.

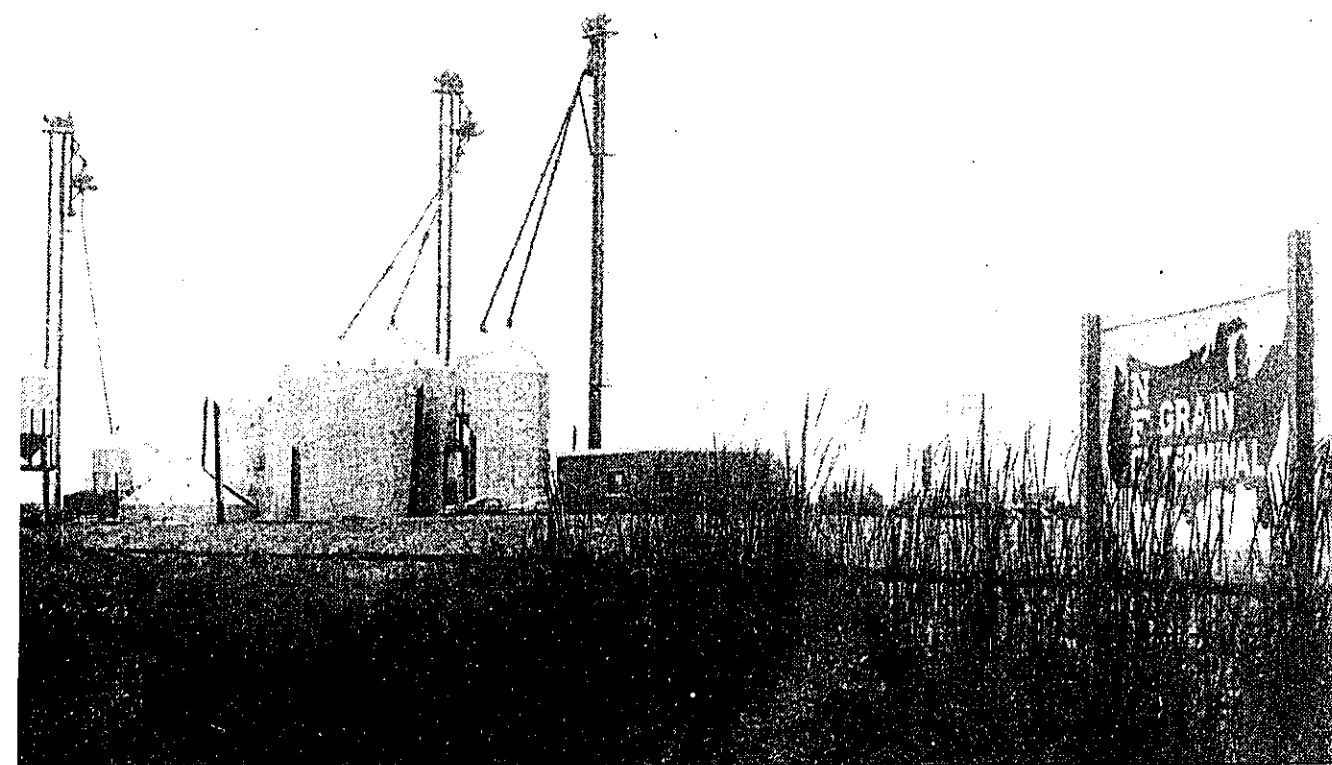

Another night of tractor pulling gets under way at the grandstand at 8:00 p.m.

SATURDAY

The final day at the fair features two demolition derby heats, scheduled for 3:00 and 8:00 p.m. at the grandstand.

Pair face B&E charges

The trial of two men on breaking and entering charges in Tuscola County Circuit Court was scheduled to go into its second day Wednesday following opening arguments and witnesses for the prosecution Tuesday.

Gerald Essex, Unionville, and Louis Guilds, Caro, are charged with breaking into a mobile home in the rural Caro area last February.

The pair are being tried together as separate defendants before Judge Martin E. Clements.

The trial was scheduled to last three days.

RICH LAUTNER isn't modeling a new shirt style. He's wearing a plaster cast as he recovers from a broken vertebra suffered in a water skiing accident in early July. Shown signing the cast is his sister, Patti.

Crawford family holds reunion

The Clayton Crawford annual family reunion was held at the Cass City Park Sunday, Aug. 1, with 52 members and three guests, Mrs. Emil Bluhm and Mrs. Mayros, from the Detroit area, and Charles Dorsch.

The oldest member present was Lila Parkinson and the youngest was Carrie Crawford. There were no births, but one death, Glenn McClorey, during the past year.

Members attended from Detroit, Pontiac, Troy, Dryden, Eloy, Arizona, Caro, and Cass City.

The reunion will be held next year at the same place on the first Sunday of August.

'I'll ski again' youth says after brush with death

Some day, Rich Lautner may make it through a vacation without an accident. In past years, he's suffered a broken arm, a smashed finger, a head gash that required six stitches to close and a case of the mumps.

But this year, he came as close to dying as he ever wants.

The active 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lautner of Cass City broke the fourth vertebra in his neck in a skiing accident on Long Lake, eight miles southwest of Traverse City, July 2.

Lautner is back on his feet these days, wearing a cast which immobilizes his neck and covers the upper half of his body. It's a little uncomfortable, he says, especially when it comes to sitting for a long time.

"The accident wasn't anybody's fault," he recalled as he sat back in an overstuffed chair in the living room of his home and shifted the weight of the plaster cast.

"I had let go of the rope and I was coming into shore when I lost my balance and fell forward," he said.

Lautner explained when a skier lets go of the tow rope and turns at an angle to the boat, he actually travels faster since he's riding the boat's wake.

"I figure I was going about 25 or 30 miles an hour when I fell," he said. "It's hard to tell."

As he fell, he struck his head on the sandy lake bottom breaking the vertebra. The injury momentarily paralyzed the youth and he lay face down in the water for from 30 to 45 seconds, unable to breathe or signal for help.

"I didn't think about panicking," he said. "I remember telling myself to keep trying to move my arms to signal for help. It was only about a half a minute but it seemed like an hour. Finally, I managed to move one of my fingers for a signal."

In the meantime, Lautner's father realized something was seriously wrong with his son and raced to his aid. Just as he arrived, his son managed to raise his head for a gasp of air and to call for help.

Before he was moved to Traverse City hospital, emergency medical personnel at the scene tested him and found he could move his toes and fingers. That largely removed the threat of permanent paralysis.

But his ordeal wasn't over. It had just begun. Doctors initially thought no bones were broken and believed Lautner could be treated with a neck brace.

But the brace failed to hold his head straight and his doctors had to place him in traction for five weeks. He was then transferred to a Saginaw hospital where he was told to expect another six week stay in traction.

"When they moved me, they put this cast on me," he said, motioning to the plaster vest that resembles a large T-shirt. "They told me I'd only have it on long enough to be transferred and that I'd go back in traction. But when I got to Saginaw, they X-rayed me and told me I could go home."

While Lautner is on the mend, there are a lot of things he can't do. He is still unable to lift his left arm above his forehead, but he says his strength is gradually returning.

"It's also hard for Lautner to play his set of drums these days, since his cast restricts his movements. Driving a car and all sports are also out for another six weeks or so."

When it comes to sleeping, he can either lie on his back or if he has lots of pillows, he can lie on his side.

"Taking a bath is harder. It's almost like having to use a birdbath," he said with a smile.

WILL SKI AGAIN

The accident hasn't dimmed Lautner's love of water skiing one bit.

"I definitely plan to ski next year," he said. "This isn't going to make me give it up."

Not only does he plan to ski, he's also interested in another sport—hang gliding.

"While I was in the hospital in Traverse City, I met a guy who's into it," he said. "Next summer I want to try it."

For now, walking and bike riding are about the only exercises he can do.

But it doesn't really matter that much. He's looking forward to next summer

Some find it easier to please others than please themselves.

Thud! —The $2 bill falls flat in Cass City

It's been four months since the U.S. Treasury brought the two-dollar bill back into circulation and judging by its popularity in Cass City, the treasury is wasting its time.

The "two-spot" was resurrected last April after a 10-year retirement, given a new reverse side (Jefferson's home, Monticello, was replaced by the signing of the Declaration of Independence) and sent into circulation.

The revival was partly due to the bicentennial and partly because treasury officials hoped the two would replace some of the one-dollar bills in circulation. With fewer bills, it was reasoned, change-making should be easier and the money would take up less space.

In Cass City, the two-dollar bill has fallen flat on Thomas Jefferson's face.

Very few persons ever ask for two-dollar bills, according to Art Randall, cashier at Cass City State Bank. In fact, most of the two-spots issued by the bank ultimately come back, he says.

"We generally have a drawer full all the time," Randall says. "I think we've reordered twice since April. We try to give them out when we cash a check where more than two one's will be needed, but we don't try to shove them down anybody's throat."

Randall says area residents just aren't used to the pesky twos yet. They were a novelty in the beginning, but their popularity has dropped sharply since then.

Pinney Slate Bank official William Ruhl agrees. We just don't get much demand for them, he says.

"We probably get most of the bills back that we issue," he says. "I really don't know why they aren't popular. Canada's used them exclusively since they established their system. I think part of it is that we aren't used to them."

Ruhl says very few businesses in Cass City ask for the new bill. In fact, most bring their twos in as exchange for ones.

Part of the reason is that most business cash registers in town can't accommodate another denomination of bill. Mrs. Gladys Albee of Albee Hardware says that's the main reason she doesn't like the twos.

"We don't have room in the cash drawer for them," she says. "When we take one in, we have to put it under the drawer or stick it someplace so it won't get mixed in with the other bills."

Mrs. Albee says the store may take in three or four two-dollar bills in a day but that they aren't returned in change to other customers because it's too time-consuming and can lead to errors.

"The two dollar bills we get are turned in to the bank at the end of the day," she says.

Gerald Prieskorn, Ben Franklin Store owner, uses the new bill primarily because his cash registers have enough bill compartments to handle it.

"Our cash registers automatically record change," he says. "So if a customer has $7.21 coming in change, we'll give them a five, a two and change."

A cashier at Ben Franklin said while there's been little problem with the twos, some older customers grumble when they receive them. They would prefer two ones instead, she said.

Years ago, the two-dollar bill was considered unlucky and some holders would tear off a corner, ostensibly to "cure" the bill of its bad luck.

Never popular, the bill finally went out of circulation in 1966 due to a lack of demand. The bill became a collector's item and all but disappeared until it was reissued with a new reverse side this year.

Mrs. Pat Wagner of Mutual Savings and Loan says she's been passing out two dollar bills steadily since last April and finds little resistance to them.

She says the bill makes for easier handling since there are fewer of them than ones. She discounts the statement that the bill is confusing.

"A person who would confuse a two-dollar bill for a $20 would probably confuse other bills, too," she says.

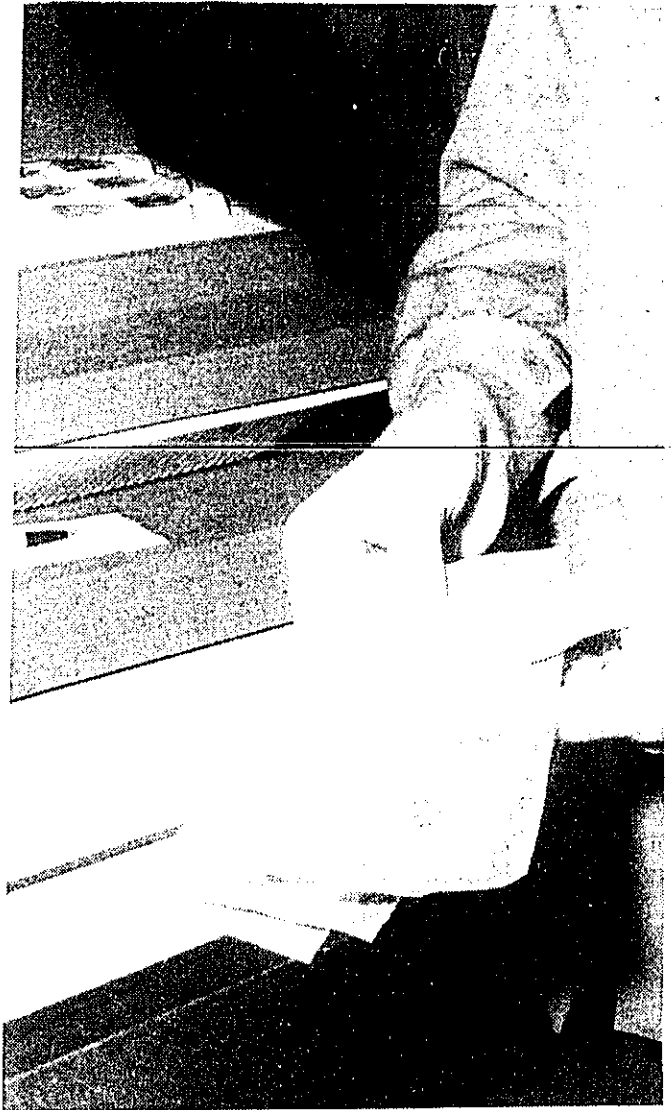

The two-dollar bills are used when there aren't a lot of customers, according to Mrs. Mary Rexin, a cashier at Old Wood Drug.

"When you use one, you have to stop and think exactly what you're doing," Mrs. Rexin says. "It isn't like using any other bill."

She says often, a customer will refuse a two-dollar bill in change, preferring two ones. "For the most part, people would rather not have them," Mrs. Rexin says.

Mrs. Joan Merchant of Sommers Bakery says she takes in from four to five of the unpopular bills each day. People like to get rid of them, she says.

She says she doesn't mind. She saves the bills as souvenirs of the bicentennial year.

THOSE PESKY two-dollar bills—most businesses in Cass City don't like them.

Weather hurts 1976 Tuscola bean crop

"double-edged sword", Woods said, and have cut into a potentially good crop.

County farmers planted about 10 per cent more beans this year than the 78,600 planted in 1975, he said. Yet harvests will probably be down from last year's less-than-bumper crop.

Weather has hurt this year's beans more than disease, Woods said. Some blight has been reported, mostly in the western part of the county.

Bean rust has been a bigger problem in the Cass City area, Woods said, and it could hurt late-planted beans.

He downplayed effects from air pollution which has been studied in Tuscola county during the past three years.

"It's probably not as serious as some persons thought," Woods said. "What we need is more monitoring for ozone and sulfur dioxide. But the equipment is expensive and we can't afford it." He said it's difficult to gauge air pollution effects on bean plants since most of the trouble starts once the beans naturally turn yellow and begin maturing.

"When we don't understand what happens to a plant, sometimes we tend to blame it on air pollution," Woods said.

He said beans planted around June 20 were helped by last week end's rains which dumped about .8 inches in the Cass City area. It helped, he added, but we still need more.

He said bean growth generally looks better in Huron county than Tuscola, since more fields were planted later and could benefit from recent moisture.

DEMAND LACKING

Woods said demand for dry beans is sluggish and probably won't pick up until this year's crop goes to market.

"If anybody's sitting on beans from last year, I'd say keep them for awhile," Woods said. "The demand just isn't there. The canners are taking a wait and see attitude toward the new crop."

Wicks Agriculture Elevator in Cass City reported Tuesday bean prices are averaging about $15 per hundredweight.

Soon... the Explosion

According to pessimists it won't be long before the world blows itself up. Now that man has the capability to wipe out civilization, they say, his unrestrained instincts will drive him to do just that.

But are man's instincts unrestrained?

The principles of law, morality, responsibility are the foundations of an orderly society. They have their roots in religion.

In the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, the life and message of Jesus Christ, the hopes and destiny of mankind are expressed. Earnest men have been channeling instincts and spiritual energies to positive purpose for generations.

Next time someone says "soon—the explosion", invite that person to come to church with you and your family.

Career brought Miller 'home' to U.S. from native England

By Jim Ketchum

When Alan "Dusty" Miller of Luton, England, met and married Marie Jones in 1968, he never dreamed he'd wind up working in her home town, Cass City. But thanks to a depressed auto industry and a surplus of engineers, that's exactly what happened.

Miller, 34, his wife and three children have been in Cass City for the last year and a half and even though they miss some aspects of life in Great Britain, they're still glad they came to the United States.

"I had always said that if for any reason we had to leave, this (the United States) would be the place to come," Miller said as he relaxed in the family's recently-completed home on Cass City's east side.

His colorful nickname "Dusty" came logically, he says. "In England, a miller is someone who grinds flour and he's generally dusty."

This is actually Miller's second stay in the United States. He first came here in 1966 to study at General Motors Institute in Flint. He returned to England two years later, this time with his bride and an engineer's job at Vauxhall, GM's European subsidiary.

As time went on, Miller said he could see the company's demand for engineers was dwindling. By mid-1974, it was time for a change.

"I could see there was no point trying to find a job with another auto firm in England because the demand just wasn't there," Miller recalled. "I could see the job becoming more and more uninteresting, so it was time to move."

He, his wife and now three children arrived in the U.S. in late 1974 in the midst of the worst auto industry slump since the great depression of the 1930's.

"I landed with no job but with a lot of hopeful replies," Miller said with a wry smile. "I was fortunate to have a job a week later."

The job was with Walbro in Cass City. He knew a little about the area since members of his wife's family resided in Cass City. Mrs. Miller was born in Cass City but spent most of her life in Flint.

NO DISSATISFACTION

"I didn't come to America through any dissatisfaction with England," Miller said. "It was simply a matter of opportunities."

He says the family's life style hasn't changed drastically since they settled in Cass City, but, one nice change is a reduced cost of living.

In England, Miller says gasoline sells for $1.50 per gallon. Other living costs are high, including taxes.

"The tax rate is lower here than in England, but then the level of service is also less," he says. "In England, we have a national health insurance scheme which pays for everything. Here, either you or your insurance company pays."

Miller says budgeting is a little easier since you know exactly what your health care costs are going to be each year.

There are a few other superficial differences. "In England, I enjoyed climbing mountains and playing soccer," he said. "Well, of course here you don't have either of those."

Mrs. Miller said one of her biggest adjustments came in driving.

"After driving small cars on the left side of the road, it was quite a change driving a large American car on the opposite side of the road," she said.

Their children, Ann, 6, Alan, 4, and Michael, 3, also adjusted well to the move. "We were fortunate that we moved into an area with lots of children," Mrs. Miller said.

In fact, the Millers say they have no plans to ever return to England permanently.

"We'd like to go back for a visit, but I see no reason for going back to live there," he says.

AMERICANS SEEN "BRASH"

Americans are seen as a brash, fast-paced breed by many Britons, Miller says.

"Most of the Americans anybody sees in England are tourists," he says. "They see what's considered flamboyant clothing hurrying from place to place and thinking a dollar can buy anything."

He says the stereotyped American also gets exposure in exported movies and television programming.

"It's the same sort of stereotype you have among Americans who see the English as dressing in tweed suits and bowlers and carrying umbrellas wherever they go," Miller says.

These days, Britons are more concerned about the turmoil in Northern Ireland than they are about Americans, Miller says. With no end in sight, the grinding civil war continues to cost the nation money and lives.

Yet there is no vast protest movement similar to that against the Vietnam War in the United States, he says.

"The two situations are different," he says. "In Vietnam, you got the impression the native population didn't care who governed them. In Northern Ireland, they very much care who rules them."

Miller still keeps up on English news via shortwave broadcasts from the BBC.

But home is in America and as far as he's concerned, that's just fine.

August 12, 1976

The Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan

Attn: Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir;

It was our privilege to enjoy many of your community bicentennial festivities and we thank you very much. Our favorite activities were the community church service, which was very inspirational, and the lovely display of fireworks. We appreciate the courtesy and friendship extended to us by many of your citizens. You are to be commended on magnificent organization and a well-rounded program of bicentennial displays and activities.

To the citizens of Cass City, we wish you the very best.

case (selling our house for an Adult Foster Care Home) and covered the proceedings quite thoroughly and well. However in the last issue of your paper, you published some facts that were not quite accurate.

The new bill you mentioned, was passed 2 weeks before our hearing, not 2 weeks after. Specifically it was passed on 6-11-76 and our hearing was on 6-29-76, so at the time of the hearing our village lawyer should have been aware of this, as our Village Council acted illegally in all its proceedings.

State-wide publication of AFC states, Several municipalities have attempted to license and regulate Adult Foster Care Facilities. This is contrary to state law. But now the question is - who is going to compensate us for losing the buyer.

Sincerely,

Lottie Konwalski

(Editor's Note): The bills in question were passed by the House of Representatives June 11. But according to Sally Lawton, public affairs director for Statewide Care Home Assn., the bills still must pass the Senate before they become law. Hence, council did not act illegally.

Bus story upsets reader

8-14-76

Dear Mr. Haire,

It seems each time you have written about the bus incidents you have boldly used my name and I resent your using my picture without my permission, which I would not have given. I realize you have to fill space, but certainly you could have found something better. I hope not to see that picture in print again.

This has been a unified matter as many of the parents were very concerned about the physical abuse being used on the children, but could not get the administration to show any concern.

I did not circulate or present the petition. It was circulated by Mrs. Duane Rushlo and Mrs. George Frank.

As to your previous opinion that we didn't have much of a chance to win, you may also derive your own opinion as to whether our charges were substantiated. You apparently did not get all the information from the executive session of the school board and I would be the last one to tell you what other action was taken.

I am finally satisfied with the action taken and I think the other parents would agree, only we wish the seriousness of this charge would have been handled in the matter of which it should have been, back in March when we tried to get some action. It does not seem we should have had to go to all the trouble and have to seek legal advice to get someone else to do the job they are responsible for.

I certainly hope in the future all matters will be looked into more thoroughly and problems may be handled more smoothly than ours was.

Yours,

Mrs. Luis Arroyo

Dear John and Jim,

I'm sure I speak for over 1000 other CCHS graduates and Chronicle subscribers when I express my disappointment in your dismal coverage of our 'all-school reunion' at Colony House last week.

It is embarrassing to mail the "3-inches-of-space" you allocated this highly successful event to friends in at least 10 states and Canada who traveled thousands of miles to attend. At least the pictures were attractive.

But where were the interviews, the descriptions, the recollections, the incidents that distinguish in-depth reporting from mere surface-scratching?

Reader blasts Owen-Gage over lawyer fees

Dear Editor,

Well, well, Owen-Gage School District is back to mass confusion again. The school board and administration has spent thousands upon thousands of dollars of the people's money to drag a parcel of property back into its district that had been transferred out.

This is so confusing because the superintendent of O-G a

Let's see more heart in reporting

Aug. 14, 1976

C'mon John, I'm sure you can be as humane in reporting the news as the Saginaw News is, if you really try. The supposedly cold, indifferent big city newspaper reported the Slack murder-suicide with the heading, I'm So Very, Very Sorry. That was a portion of the note Slack left addressed to Kids. Surely, since the Shelkes are part of our community you can find it in your heart to treat them as human beings if the big city of Saginaw can. Let's have less indifference and more heart in your reporting.

What about my record?

8-9-1976

(Editor)
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan 48726

(Dear Sir)!!!!

I noticed you mentioned in the paper of August 7th, where a man joined the Marine Corps and this was thirty five year's ago. My question is this, did you lose my record of thirty-five year's ago July 21st, I saw nothing mentioned of it, that paper of your's is very much in need of a better way checking dates, or was it intentional?

Sincerely,

little over a month ago, in a public letter to this paper, called this group of people non-builders, tainted and extremely undesirable people. Then why did they go to all lengths and spend tremendous sums of the people's money to accomplish this action?

Legal fees can run into the high five column figures fast when lawyers charge $80 an hour. If it cost around $1,000 for the school lawyer to prepare and talk before the State Board for 15 minutes and then answer their questions, consider what that court case must have cost with the hours of preparation and two days in court.

When Owen-Gage appeared before the Municipal Finance Commission a few weeks ago there were FOUR LAWYERS representing Owen-Gage. Granted, one represented the Citizens Group. A professional estimate of the cost of the forces out that day was about $2,000 of the people's money.

If Owen-Gage takes the MFC to court as has been mentioned, if they do not get a favorable answer from them, how many thousands will that cost? Now don't stop your mental adding machine yet, there is much more to come.

Lawyer fees when he accompanied the superintendent to talk to a Senate Committee, Traveling and lodging to and in Lansing. Lawyer fees and court costs when trying to get a case moved to another court. The same expensive process for three other transfers. Fighting the same cases over again everytime they go to a higher court. And how many other legal entanglements with other districts, people, etc., that we have heard mentioned and possibly some that have not been made public yet. The cost would stagger the budget of a school many times the size of Owen-Gage.

And for what? Can Owen-Gage shoulder the financial burden of these actions and, more than that, can they, and do they want to shoulder the reputation they are obtaining?

The people of Owen-Gage now have taxation without representation. The board by resolution gave the superintendent the authority to do whatever he felt was necessary to save the district. He is not an elected official and does not respond to ALL the people although ALL the people pay his wages. Did the district hire him to run the school or wage an ongoing legal parade? No one seems to know how the district stands financially, all is known however, is that the school has borrowed $125,000 against anticipated taxes in May! And now in August it is reported $80,000 more will be borrowed! Top that with statements that the school will most likely be in the red and the $27,000 the increased millage gave them will HELP TOWARD THE DEBT.

The board asked the people to go to the polls Aug. 9 and give them an extra mill and a half, putting our millage sky-high above any other district in Huron county, and for what? To educate children or pay the high legal fees? And what has been gained by all the legal hassle?

THE ACT OF DEPRIVATION NOW BALANCES THE SCALES OF JUSTICE HEAVY IN THE FAVOR OF THE TRANSFER PEOPLE. Everyone that is the least bit alert to what is going on in this country knows how the higher courts of the land rule when people are deprived of the rights the Constitution and the Bill of Rights guarantees them.

The State Board of Education know these people's rights and those of their children and were bound by the Constitution to grant their request. They tried to avoid the legal battle that would give the people the same end as they granted in their ruling.

As unacceptable as it may be to some people, the State Board was trying to be gracious and protective to all the Owen-Gage people. There IS a destruction process going on here, but the shot has been called wrong. It is a SELF-DESTRUCTION process.

A district that could exist as long as it wanted to even after losing every property transfer (loss of property and valuation would only kick in state aid) is in trouble because of its financial burdens. When will the next request for increase millage come? In November, December? The law requires a balanced budget. How can the budget be balanced with high legal fees, a $25,000 remodeling project, loss of funds due to the difference in county and state valuations last year, the normal increase in operating, employee raises, newly acquired land, and who knows what else!!! The process is kindled by misguidance, confusion over issues, internal problems, discourse and the discontent that is rising steadily.

Added millage can only add more fuel to the fire of destruction. The school board must learn to live and operate within a reasonable budget the same as the private citizens who are paying the taxes they are spending so freely and without accountability to the people. Nothing constructive can come from pouring gasoline on the fire.

One who is concerned for ALL

Immunization clinics set

The Thumb District Health Department offers a free immunization clinic for all residents of Tuscola and Lapeer counties. These clinics are designed to serve children from two months through school age.

Mrs. Evelyn Billings, department Director of Nursing, says immunizations are important, particularly for measles, at this time of year.

"Measles, particularly in young children, is often a very serious disease," she says. "Complications can include pneumonia, middle ear infections, or encephalitis. Encephalitis in the young child may cause permanent brain damage, mental retardation or even death."

Children should be started on immunizations as early as two to three months of age. The vaccine for diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough given in a single shot, should begin at two months and must be repeated two more times during the first year.

Measles, rubella and mumps vaccines should be given soon after the first birthday. If your child has not received immunizations according to this schedule, they may be started at any time.

State law requires that all children be vaccinated against measles, rubella, polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough before starting school. This does not mean that parents should wait with their child's immunizations until they reach school age. Children need to be protected as early as possible.

The free clinics take place at the department's main office located at 2266 W. Caro Rd., Caro, every Thursday from 9:30-11:30 a.m. and 1:00-3:30 p.m. Appointments may be made by calling 673-4178.

Plan fifth annual Walk-A-Thon

The Fifth Annual Big Brother-Big Sister Walk-A-Thon will be held Saturday, Sept. 25, beginning at 10:00 a.m. at the Caro Fairgrounds.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters is a non-profit agency that works with boys and girls from one-parent homes in Tuscola county. The Walk-A-Thon is the principal fundraiser for the program. This year's Walk-A-Thon will be the best ever, according to Director Rich Firebaugh.

Unlike previous years when the Walk-A-Thon had several sites in the county, this year's event will be held at one site.

"The main reason for the change is so that people can get together in a large group; walk together and have fun together. We think it will make the Walk-A-Thon more appealing," Firebaugh said.

Children and adults from all areas of the county are encouraged to come to the Caro Fairgrounds and walk representing their community. Transportation to the Walk-A-Thon site will be arranged for children without a ride.

Prizes at this year's Walk-A-Thon will include three ten-speed bicycles to the three children who bring in the most money in pledges, and over a dozen other prizes. In addition, each walker in the ten-mile event will receive a Walk-A-Thon tee-shirt. Refreshments, including hot dogs and pop, are being furnished by the Knights of Columbus.

Pledge sheets will be available around the last week of August, according to Firebaugh. They can be obtained at local schools or by calling the Big Brother-Big Sister office at 673-6996.

Philathea class has swim party Friday

Members of the Philathea class of First Baptist church had a swim party and hot dog roast at the Elwyn Helwig home Friday night. Sixteen persons were present.

Alvin Hutchinson, class president, conducted a business meeting, during which the group decided to have a canoeing party Oct. 2. They also made plans to attend the Gaither concert in November.

State Kirtland's Warbler population on the rise

Adding 40 more birds to the total population doesn't seem like much. But when it's Kirtland's warblers you're counting, that's a different story.

Michigan—the summer nesting ground of the endangered bird—reports the latest beak count at 199 nesting pairs, 20 pairs more than last summer's estimate.

"This upturn may not seem very significant at a glance, but we are encouraged by it," says John Byelich, a wildlife biologist with the Department of Natural Resources. "In face of the fact there are less than 400 of these birds left in the world, every one of them counts preciously in our efforts to save this species.

The Kirtland's warbler winters in the Bahamas, then moves to northern lower Michigan for the summer.

Nesting grounds, in areas posted against trespassing through Aug. 15, can be found in Crawford, Oscoda, Roscommon, Ogemaw, Kalkaska and Wexford counties.

TRAINING RECEIVED at Carmel Valley Country Club in Carmel, Calif., should help Jeff Prieskorn and the Cass City High School golf team this fall. One of the teaching techniques includes the use of a sequence camera by Ben Doyle, club pro.

Merchants lose 1st to Pigeon

Playing before the home folks doesn't appear to be an advantage for the Merchants' softball team. Seldom do they play at Cass City Recreational Park. And it may be a good thing.

The team made one of its infrequent appearances here Thursday and lost its first game of the second half, 7-5.

The Merchants were coasting along on a 5-2 lead in the fifth and all appeared well. Most nights a three-run cushion for Craig Helwig is more than enough.

But not Thursday. The visitors netted a run in the sixth and then added four big ones in the top of the seventh to salt away the game.

Pigeon jumped on Helwig and Rick Reynolds for 12 hits to give Don Englehart the win.

Jerry Toner went three for three with a home run, double and single.

Tuesday, Aug. 10, the Merchants whipped Frankenmuth, 4-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Craig Helwig.

Frankenmuth scored in the second on a home run. Cass City tied it in the second when Wally Hempton singled, stole second and rode home on a single by Reynolds and a sacrifice fly by Don Galbraith.

Frankenmuth moved back in front with a single run in the third and Cass City took the lead for good in the fourth. Reynolds singled, took second on an error on a grounder by Jeff Hartel. Galbraith singled Reynolds home and Hartel scored on a passed ball.

In the sixth Cass City scored an insurance run. Hempton reached second on a misjudged fly ball and scored on a double by Galbraith.

Toner, Hempton and Reynolds had two hits and Galbraith led the way with a single and double that drove in three runs.

Swimmers win

Cass City swimmers defeated Caro and Marlette teams in a meet held Sunday at Cass City.

The winners will meet Caro a second time Saturday beginning at 9:30 a.m. at Cass City. It's estimated about 35 swimmers from each team will be competing.

No admission is charged.

Lutherans—Deford set for title clash

The Lutherans are now the odds-on favorites to take the regular season championship of the Cass City Church League but the play-offs could well be a different matter entirely.

That's because many of the teams are beefing up squads for the post season classic. The Baptists and the Methodists have players who have been with the travelling league dotting the line-up in recent games. If they play you can throw previous results out the window.

Going into the final week of the season the championship is still undecided.

After Monday's action the Lutherans still had three games to play. One of the games is with Deford. A victory over the sluggers from the south would virtually lock it up for the league leaders. A loss would probably force a play-off for the title.

It was almost all over without the long awaited meeting between the two clubs. The Catholics were ahead of Deford by three runs going into the seventh inning, but the sluggers came to life and tied the game in the final regular inning and then won it in the eighth, 19-11. The game was played Friday.

Lewis Tibbitts hit a grand slam home run in the eighth to ice the victory. Dave Doerr also hit for the circuit. Roy Hull and Alvin McKee rapped three hits each.

Home runs were cheap in the slugfest. Ron Ouvry, Paul Bliss and Jim Mastie each cracked circuit clouts for the losers. John and Tom Smentek each rapped two hits.

In the nightcap Friday, Lamotte needed just five innings to roar by Church of Christ, 14-4. Dave Marshall and Dale McClaren each had 3 hits for Lamotte while Luis Arroyo had three hits and Jeff Hartel and Rich Lowe, two hits, for Church of Christ.

TUESDAY GAMES

The Baptists upset the Methodists, 5-3, Tuesday, Aug. 10. Gary Mellendorf limited the Methodists to just five hits. Ed Stoutenburg took the loss.

In the nightcap, Deford stayed in the running with a 14-7 decision over Missionary. Dave Doerr showed the way with four hits while Alvin McKee and John Rayl had three hits each. Fred Martin and Ernie Cameron hit home runs for the losers.

THURSDAY GAMES

The big reasons that the Lutherans are undefeated this season are the pitching of Al Romig and a tight defense. The same combination worked Thursday as the Lutherans measured Church of Christ, 7-2.

John Hacker had two hits to show the way for the winners. Romig allowed only two hits as he tossed the win, striking out 13.

In the nightcap the Baptists surprised Shabbona, 6-2. Gary Mellendorf allowed the losers six hits while Dale Auslander allowed just five hits.

But the Baptists made their hits count to score the win. Terry Hendrick and Auslander had two hits each for the losers.

MONDAY GAMES

Church of Christ got back on the winning side of the ledger Monday with a 5-2 nod over Shabbona. Rich Lowe took the win over Dale Auslander. Tim Knoblet and Luis Arroyo had two hits each for the winners while the Bader brothers, Phil and Bill, had two hits each for Shabbona.

In the late game the Methodists rolled over Missionary, 17-9. Ed Stoutenburg received plenty of support as Don Galbraith had three hits, including a home run; Mike Lowe, two hits, including a circuit clout, and Rick Damm, two hits. Stoutenburg allowed five hits and Roger Root was tapped for the loss.

Alternatives

to nursing

home urged

You're getting older. Your sight isn't as good as it used to be. You can't get around too well. You'd like more than anything to spend the rest of your life in your own home. But you can't make it by yourself.

An institution may be the solution.

But must it be? Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Troitt, and others think there are alternatives.

"Upwards of 25 percent of those in nursing homes right now do not need that kind of care," Fitzgerald said in a speech before the Michigan Hospital Association.

"And if you ask the elderly they will more often than not say they want to stay in their homes."

Day care nurses are one answer.

"There is a need," Fitzgerald said, "to expand the availability of home health care and other less expensive alternatives to institutional long-term care by expanding Medicaid reimbursement options."

WHY IM-PRUV-ALL SILAGE?

TIME! The major factor in putting up quality corn silage.

No matter what storage method the farmer used, silage normally takes from three to five weeks to complete the major portion of the ensiling process. During that time, nutrient losses are high. The longer a feed ferments, the more carbohydrates are burned up. This lowers T D N and increases storage loss. If the fermentation time is reduced to three to five days, the result is better silage. Why not stop in at Klein's and check out Im-PRUV-ALL today.
