Three Injured in Two Auto Crashes

Theodore Kern and James Cramer were both seriously injured at 3:30 a. m. Sunday when the car driven by Kern left the Hinson Road just outside the Fairgrove village limits and struck a large tree head-on. Donald Crosby, the first to arrive at the scene of the accident, pulled both men free of the car which had caught fire. The Fairgrove fire department was called to extinguish the blaze. Both men were taken to Mercy Hospital in Bay City.

Cars driven by Carlton Berry and Miss Twila Kenney, both of Kingston, met at a highway intersection a mile east of East Dayton at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday. The Kenney car was badly damaged and Miss Kenney received slight injury to an ankle. Berry was traveling north while Miss Kenney was driving east on M-46.

CASS CITY EXTENSION GROUP PLANS TRIP TO CRANBROOK

The last meeting of the year of the Cass City Extension Club was held at the home of Mrs. F. L. Morris on Tuesday. During the business meeting, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Chairman, Mrs. Guy W. Landon; vice chairman, Mrs. Keith McConkey; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Ludlow; leaders, Mrs. Edith Bardwell and Miss Dora Krapp.

It was decided that the group spend May 22 at Cranbrook.

An attendance contest was held during the year. The losers in this contest entertained the winners by attending the theatre and partaking of light refreshments at the home of Mrs. D. A. Krapp on Wednesday evening.

Achievement Day will be held at the Caro High School on Tuesday, May 13.

Rotarians Hear Address on Mexico

If some Rotarians and Rotary Ann start on a vacation trip to Old Mexico within the coming year, it is probable that Irl L. Baguley of Caro will be partly responsible. Mr. Baguley was the speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon here Tuesday and gave an instructive address on a trip he and Mrs. Baguley took to that land of contrasts where there is no middle class but where one is either poverty stricken or lives in abundance and where both classes are altogether friendly to visitors from foreign lands.

There are beautiful mountain drives and farming scenes of a very primitive nature. No advance in methods of farming have been made in the last 500 years in many parts of Mexico. Few doctors are found outside of the large cities and governmental regulations have limited religious supervision to one priest to every 4,500 persons on the average. Baseball and football are better attended than bull fights by the natives, said Mr. Baguley, who exhibited moving pictures he had taken on his trip 3,000 miles below the international border line. J. A. Sandham was program chairman.

Several Rotarians contributed funds totalling $40 for the purchase of a public drinking fountain on Main Street.

Campbell Named Beef Cattle Supt. at the State Fair

Succeeds Himself in Position He Held for First Time Last Year.

Willis Campbell of Cass City was elected superintendent of the beef cattle department of the Michigan State Fair when the board of directors of that organization met recently. He was notified Friday that he was the unanimous choice of the directors to succeed himself in that position which he held for the first time last year.

Mr. Campbell has held a position in the beef cattle division of the state fair for the last six years, but for a much longer period has he been a familiar figure in that regard of the state exposition. As club adviser, he has attended the Detroit fair for a long period, coaching the members of the Cass City Livestock Club in their showing of prize winning animals in the 4-H and open classes. Boys and girls of that club have brought to Cass City many thousands of dollars received at the state fair in prize winning and sales of animals at the fair auctions during the early part of September.

Local Baptists Are Elected Officers of Huron Association

Baptist men, women and ministers of the Huron Baptist Association, which includes the Thumb, attended the forty-fourth annual meeting Monday, May 5, in the First Baptist Church in Harbor Beach. Eighteen from Cass City attended the meetings.

The theme of the meeting was "I Serve Christ." Rev. J. E. Moncrief, a missionary to China, was the principal speaker, delivering addresses before the association in the afternoon in the church and at a young person's dinner at night in the community house.

Ralph Andem, executive secretary of the Michigan Baptist Convention, gave an address, "Serving in the Small Town Church." Rev. H. W. Richardson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Port Huron, delivered the annual association sermon.

After luncheon at noon, business sessions of women's and men's groups were held at 1:00. Mrs. George McCormick of Deckerville presided over the women's conference and E. A. Wanner, Cass City, over the men's. A joint meeting was also held. Mrs. Guy W. Landon of Cass City was elected second vice president of the Women's Missionary Society and E. A. Wanner, also of Cass City, was elected president of the laymen's organization.

The 1942 meeting will be held in the First Baptist Church of Port Huron and Rev. E. A. Katterjohn of Brown City was elected to deliver the association sermon at that gathering.

Baptists Buy Bus to Bring the People to Church

Persons Lacking Transportation Have Only to Make Request for Bus Service.

In an endeavor to bring the ministry of the church to a greater number of people in this community, members of the congregation of the Cass City Baptist Church have contributed sufficient funds to purchase a bus which will be used to transport persons to their church and Sunday School. The initial trip will be made Sunday, May 18. The bus, formerly used for transporting school pupils, will hold 40 children. "We are particularly interested in children, and while we want all ages to use the bus in coming to services on Sunday, we hope many children will take advantage of its facilities," Rev. Frank B. Smith, told the Chronicle Tuesday.

Anyone who desires transportation on this church bus needs only to telephone Mr. Smith, No. 203, or send him a postal card through the mail. No adherence to the Baptist Church is required, of course, and no questions are asked regarding the particular faith of a person who may use the bus to attend services on Sunday mornings and who have no other means of transportation.

4-H Forestry Clubs Plant 1,500 Pine Trees Friday

The Donaldson 4-H Forestry Club and the Connor 4-H Forestry Club, both located in Indianfields Township and organized last fall, made their first planting of forest trees Friday, May 2.

The planting was made on land which has been leased to these two 4-H clubs, to be used as a community forest by the State Department of Conservation. Use of this land for this purpose may be had as long as it is maintained as a community forest. The land is located in the northwest quarter of Section 24, Indianfields Township.

Fifteen hundred pine seedlings of three species (1000 Jack Pine, 400 White Pine and 100 Norway Pine) were planted by the 20 members of these two 4-H Forestry Clubs under the direction of Mr. Reynolds of the State Department of Conservation, H. D. Parish, district 4-H club agent, and Norris W. Wilbur, county agricultural agent.

Most of the guests at the party hailed from Tyre, Gagetown, Ubly, Decker, Cass City, Kingston, Sneed, Unionville, Owendale and DeFord which portrays, in part, the range of territory from which people come to trade in Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Sommers were happy to entertain so many of their customers and consider the party a very successful event.

N. Carpenter, Writing from Honolulu, Says No Place, in His Opinion, Is Like Michigan

Norman Carpenter, who left Saginaw January 3 and arrived at Fort Slocum, N. Y., on January 7, for service in Uncle Sam's Army, is now stationed at Hickam Field, six miles from Honolulu. He has written several letters to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon J. Carpenter, of Cass City, and his sister, Miss Marguerite Carpenter, of Caro. Interesting excerpts from three of these epistles are printed in the following paragraphs:

Aboard U. S. Army Transport "Republic" February 12, 1941.

"We left Brooklyn Army Base about 12 o'clock noon Thursday, February 6. We're now about 240 miles out of Panama and are due there about eight o'clock in the morning, February 13. We ran into a very severe storm about the third day at sea. It affected everyone by seasickness. I had a very mild case of it and was sick only about a half day while others were sick three days and nights. The waves were as large as houses. The ship rocked back and forth and up and down.

2,500,000 Bible Verses Read by Tuscola Pupils

During a recent Bible reading contest conducted for one month by the Rural Bible Mission to see which one of the 120 schools in Tuscola County would have the largest number of Bible verses read, it was ascertained that in that number of schools the pupils read a total of 2,500,000 verses. Five children read all the verses in the Bible. One of them was a second grade pupil.

The pupils of the Connor School in Indianfields Township, who read 205,320 verses and won the contest, were awarded a beautiful red and white banner. This school has an enrollment of 48 and the teacher is Mrs. G. Trisch.

This work among the rural schools in Tuscola County is under the direction of Rev. Leland Conner, Vassar, and is carried on in the schoolhouses in the winter. In the summer large Bible schools are conducted and the children are brought in busses. Last summer 2,000 children in this county were in summer Bible schools.

275 Attend Birthday Party

Those having anniversary parties usually receive gifts, but that procedure was reversed Saturday at the Sommers' Bakery birthday celebration. There 275 persons were treated to doughnuts and coffee and three persons were awarded three beautiful Mother's Day cakes which will be presented to them tomorrow.

Most of the guests at the party hailed from Tyre, Gagetown, Ubly, Decker, Cass City, Kingston, Sneed, Unionville, Owendale and DeFord which portrays, in part, the range of territory from which people come to trade in Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Sommers were happy to entertain so many of their customers and consider the party a very successful event.

a very pleasant job. I am a "runner," or messenger boy to you. I carry messages, bulletins, etc. from headquarters to all parts of the ship, to officers, etc. I am on deck most of the time where the office is located. I have a black band around my arm with the word "runner" in red letters. I can go any place while others have to stay in their designated places. I don't have to wait in line to eat but can go ahead of all.

"About the ship we are sailing on. It is 615 feet long and it is about like going around Cass City when going about it. It burns 700 gallons of fuel oil a day. There are 2,500 to 3,000 passengers on board. There are 1,200 troops, the rest being military officers, civilian passengers and the ship's crew. The ship was owned by the Germans at the time of the World War but was seized by the U. S. during the war.

"The storm we were in was said by the crew to be the worst they had seen in a long time.

"The cold weather doesn't bother me at all right now. It is just like a hot muggy night in July in the boat as all have to work. I have

ONE OUT OF FOUR FOR TAXES.

The experts have figured it out that one dollar out of every four earned by the American people will have to go for taxes for all the units of government, federal, state, county, city, etc.

The poor man may not realize that he pays many of these taxes, since he gets no income tax bill, and he may not own a house. The truth is occurring to him that he pays in countless indirect ways. He is probably seeing by this time that when corporations and producers are taxed, they have to consider the taxes a part of the cost of business, and add them to the price of goods. So the dollar which he pays for some article may very likely include 20 cents for taxes. When this truth is generally realized, those useful statesmen once known as treasury watchdogs will be very popular.

MOTHER'S DAY OBSERVANCE.

It is a fine thing to wear a carnation in honor of Mother on the second Sunday in May, but if the observance stops there it may leave 364 days in the year when the woman to whom you owe your life and welfare is more or less forgotten.

Mothers ask for two things, affection and some degree of respect for their principles. A woman is happy if her children go out in the world and behave in a manner worthy of her. If they do good work in the world, and are a credit to themselves and the family, she is well satisfied, even if they are unresponsive.

Women watch their children every day to see if they are developing in the right way. Every time they perform actions showing worthiness of the mother rejoices. If the children are contrary and troublesome, their conduct is an incessant source of anxiety. Many women spend countless wakeful hours at night worrying about their youngsters.

Some children expect all the devotion they get from their mothers as something to which they are entitled, and for which they are not required to offer any thanks. They feel that offering such thanks is about like thanking a workman to whom you are paying good money. They don't seem to realize that women give their children far more than they can ever expect to receive from them, hence that special outpourings of gratitude are called for.

People should on this occasion think over their lives, and ask if they are acting in a way their mothers would approve of. If they are not, and if they will change their ways so as to conform to these higher standards, they will accomplish more than they would by a thousand gifts. Living the way the mother wants them to live is the best Mother's Day gift.

CHANCES FOR RECREATION.

The old time town just provided working places. It was not thought necessary to do anything particular for recreation. More progressive places have discovered that they made their communities more attractive by providing chances for the people to engage in athletics and popular amusements.

So these communities found that when they provided playgrounds for the children, the kids were less apt to get into mischief. When they provided baseball grounds, tennis courts and golf links, people were better satisfied, and they spent their money at home. Also people were happier in a community where these facilities were provided, so they were less likely to go elsewhere. The progressive city of the future will provide all these opportunities and many more.

HANDFUL TO 30,000 ACRES

Literally from a handful, the new Michigan State College oat, Huron, has increased since its announcement and release for increase in 1937 so that now there is enough to plant 30,000 acres this spring. Most of this will remain in fields within the state, although some already has filtered into at least 15 other neighboring states. The hand is that of E. E. Down, plant breeder of the experiment station staff, who worked for more than 10 years in selecting this smut resistant oat.

New Huron Oat Wins Wide Use

At least 30,000 acres of farmlands, principally in Michigan, will be planted this spring to the Huron oat, smut resistant variety with an exceptionally superior test weight obtained through years of breeding and selection at Michigan State College and announced as recently as 1937.

Figures of its increase are startling. A peck of the oats in 1937 produced on test plot checks a yield of eight bushels, planted on college land in 1938 for a production of 130 bushels. This was then released for increase in 1939 by selected growers out in the state. They multiplied the 130 bushels into 2,950.

In 1940 an estimated 60,000 bushels were produced and were available this spring for planting. Growers had 739 acres inspected and 48,000 bushels certified. Another 500 acres likely were grown but not inspected. The yield of 60,000 bushels is sufficient to plant about 30,000 acres.

Parents of the new oats are Victory and Markton. Neither has a heavy test weight but each bears marked resistance to smut. The new oat retains this resistance with a surprising extra dividend. That is its attractive test weight, averaging more than four pounds a bushel in 1940 over other oat varieties grown for certification. The original plant breeding cross was obtained with scores of others from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Huron County in Michigan is "mothering" the new Huron oat. One grain elevator company alone is reported to have obtained 12,000 bushels and distributed that amount of seed in 1941 to its patrons. Another elevator company is reported to have handled 4,000 bushels.

A novel type of handling seed has been announced in the Thumb area. Grain elevators offered seed oats in return for a promised three for two or two for one after threshing.

Sheepmen Plan Picnic for June 3

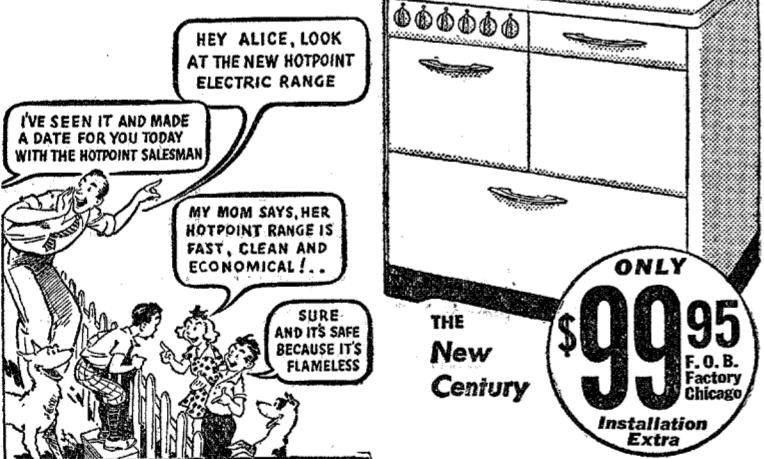

One of Michigan's most productive farms has been selected as the site for the annual picnic of the members of the Michigan Purebred Sheep Breeders' Association Tuesday, June 3.

The farm is that of H. D. Woodworth and Sons, northwest of Porterville in Eaton County. Delmont Chapman, South Rockwood, in Monroe County, as president of the state association, has called for full attendance for an inspection of the farm in the morning and a discussion on sheep management and the sheep outlook for the afternoon. Members of the animal husbandry department of Michigan State College are scheduled to appear on the program.

The Woodworth farm is gaining prestige for several activities. There is a flock of 36 registered Shropshire ewes culled rigidly each year to maintain Shropshire type. The farm also has 35 registered Holsteins with cows producing an average of more than 400 pounds of butterfat each of the past 10 years. Other attractions are the 21 registered Percheron horses which won trophies and ribbons at five fairs in 1940, and the Woodworth's seed corn drier that handled 1,400 bushels of seed corn for 1941 planting.

Leaders among Michigan's sheepherds are sponsoring other ventures for 1941. Exhibits of sheep and wool at county fairs and the State Fair are being encouraged, as well as competition in the annual International Livestock Exposition in Chicago and operation of the ram truck for distribution of better breeding stock.

Northern sheep counties are to be visited by the ram truck this year, according to E. L. Benton, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the college. This is scheduled late in October.

Yard Lighting Helps on Farm

Yard lights, controlled from the house and from outside, add much to the safety and convenience of the farm family, it is pointed out by agricultural engineers and home economists of the Michigan State College extension service.

Light is important in and around farm buildings when there are sick or injured animals to care for, in case of fire, or to discover prowlers. Good yard lighting near the house has social uses, to light the way to the front entrance for visitors or make possible outdoor evening games and parties in mild weather. One of the best locations for the principal yard light is on a pole about 15 feet above ground, where it will illuminate the house entrance and all the paths between the house and other buildings. Two or more lights may be needed to cover both the front yard and the farm buildings. If one of these is a floodlight it will be useful for outdoor work at night on the automobile or farm machinery.

For mounting a yard light on a pole, an arch-type holder eliminates the shadow of the pole. Another good mounting, used on a barn or silo, is a bracket formed by bending the conduit. A suitable bracket can be purchased complete with a reflector and a base for attaching. All outdoor lights need weather-proof reflectors and porcelain lamp holders to keep water out of the socket. Lighting engineers recommend the 200-watt size bulb for out-of-doors, and suggest painting buildings and fences a light color for better reflection.

An important business deal was consummated Monday when William McCallum disposed of his grain business in Cass City to the Wallace & Orr Co. of Bay Port. Another livestock problem evident to Professor Brown is the frequent lack of satisfactory pasture during mid-summer. He calls this one of the limiting factors in livestock production in many sections of the state. The mature, dried-up grass pasture so common in July and August offers little except scenery to livestock.

On farms where an alfalfa or clover meadow is not going to be available through the summer months, immediate steps should be taken to provide rape pasture for sheep and hogs and Sudan grass pasture for cattle to get by this critical period in livestock production.

The ideal plan, the livestock authority claims, is to have enough alfalfa acreage so that the first cutting provides an ample hay supply, leaving the second cutting to provide pasture during the late summer.

"The weather here is just perfect. The food couldn't be better. I had thought on first arriving that perhaps Hawaii had been greatly exaggerated but find it is true in every sense of the word. However, of all the places I have been, nothing compares with Michigan.

More school aid for rural districts would be forthcoming under the Michigan Education Association bill, now before the legislature.

The M.E.A. formula of school aid, for example, would give Detroit only $300,000 more out of $46,000,000 than it received last year out of $41,000,000.

The minimum amount would be $42,000,000, an increase of million dollars; the maximum would be $46,000,000. The former amount is more likely than the latter.

products to Great Britain. Instead, he would turn over more destroyers and other naval craft to British and Canadian sailors of which an ample supply is said to be available.

In taking this stand Senator Brown is in agreement with Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R) of Grand Rapids. Both Brown and Vandenberg voted against the selective service draft; Michigan representatives were overwhelmingly opposed to the act.

In giving his reasons Senator Brown pointed out that the American people, as shown by frequent Gallup public opinion surveys, are opposed to an "all-out" participation in the European war with all that this would mean—transporting of a huge expeditionary force 3,000 miles to a Nazi-dominated continent, unreserved use of our naval air force, and a sky-high boost in our national debt.

Right or wrong, public opinion continues to influence the actions of men who depend upon ballots for re-election.

$200,000,000 Budget

State payrolls for the first quarter of the Van Wagoner administration were substantially higher than for the same period one year ago.

Furthermore, a $200,000,000 budget is in prospect for the coming biennium. Governor Van Wagoner asked the legislature to appropriate $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 to apply directly on retirement of the state's $28,000,000 debt.

The legislature's decision, as shown by passage of a bill by Senator Bishop, would not earmark definite money for debt retirement but would take potluck with chances of surplus revenues. The Bishop measure, already adopted by the senate, would prohibit expenditure by a state agency of any money in excess of the legislature's appropriation.

We all advocate safe driving and believe in safety on our highways. At home and in clubs and hotels, we constantly tell others what fine drivers we are, how long we have driven an automobile without an accident, etc.—remarks that emphasize our safe driving habits. But on the road—ah, that's a different story.

Safe driving is not a matter of our past record, but of the lessons we have learned from past experience, of the habits we employ on the road today, and of the preparations we take to insure highway safety in the future—and underneath it all lies courtesy. Our cement roads provide for smoother driving, multiple lane highways offer safe facilities for increased and faster traffic, and through highways cut travel time. However, these improvements, designed for convenience and safety, will not serve their purpose unless our driving habits and manners show similar advances.

Sponsors claim that the plan would effect an annual "saving" of $5,000,000 to $20,000,000. Critics say this is nonsense, that it would only clip Republican branches of state government of present prerogatives and the economies would be disappointingly small, if any at all.

Governor Van Wagoner has cast his support to the bill with a flat declaration that its defeat would be "outright betrayal" of the wishes of the people.

Dog Racing

Dog racing tracks in Michigan appear to have a fair chance.

Again, it is an old story of rural vs. city, plus a friendly interest in Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor sports promoter.

Three times in past sessions the house of representatives has voted favorably for a Fitzsimmons-sponsored dog racing bill. And three times the state senate has applied the brakes.

This time it may be different. The bait for upstate vote exists in a provision that 90 per cent of the state revenue (Fitzsimmons believes Michigan could net $750,000 to $1,000,000 a year from six to eight tracks) would be returned to counties in proportion to their population. Ten per cent would be earmarked for crippled children.

Dog racing is a city sport, ideal for gamblers. Races draw patronage from city dwellers; they are held at night, permitting attendance of factory workers and housewives. With national defense payrolls mounting ever higher, dog racing promoters believe Michigan is ripe for a "killing."

dispense state aid for crippled and afflicted children.

In 61 out of 83 counties doctors receive no fees for services performed in behalf of either crippled or afflicted children. Hospital fees are now $3.50 a day, and only hospitals in Ann Arbor, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Traverse City and Marquette possess surgical equipment to take care of crippled children.

Because medical care has been authorized by the probate judges and the bill has been turned over to the state, doctors charge "political patronage" while the judges decry "high medical fees." It has been a bitter controversy.

The medical society's plan, which is endorsed by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign War, Michigan Welfare League, Michigan Hospital Association, Michigan Crippled Children's Society and members of the state crippled children commission, would establish a "filter system, first to determine the economic need through the local department of social welfare in each county, and second to ascertain the medical need by medical examiners who would donate their services.

The probate judges' bill, House Bill 297, would continue power in hands of the probate judges. The medical society's bill, House Bill 317, would affect a double check on economic and medical needs, while permitting applications to be received by the probate judge.

Installment Inflation?

Retailers are being cautioned by the Michigan Retail Institute not to rely heavily on installment selling. In fact, the use of extensive credit for merchandise has reached such a proportion that it is said to be headed for a disastrous collapse.

J. Anton Hagios, credit executive of the Retail Dry Goods Association of New York, recently warned in an address at Muskegon:

"Installment selling is destined for a fall—yes, a terrific fall—unless steps are taken now to restrict and readjust the installment terms structure. Credit volume is much greater, time payment terms are excessively long, and above all, we are granting credit to customers in very much lower income

Wolves Shelter
2 Outcast Babies
In Real Life Tale

Story of Romulus and Remus May Be Fable, but This Is Substantiated.

DETROIT.—A story of two outcast baby girls in India who were suckled and sheltered by wolves was told here by Dr. Robert M. Zingg, of the University of Denver, at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"The fable of Romulus and Remus in Roman history may be only a fable, but here is a story, scientifically substantiated, that proves there is no innate enmity between wild beasts and human beings," the young anthropologist said.

"I have collected a group of 30 similar cases, all of which have been proven to be true, in which human babies have been found living in an animal state and have been brought back into civilized society."

The object of Dr. Zingg's research was to throw light on this question: Is heredity or environment more important in the growth of a child? The answer, he says, is environment.

The Indian girls were discovered in 1920 at Madrasore, in northern India, by J. A. L. Singh, an Anglican missionary, who heard the natives speak of two "tiger men" they saw.

Children Captured.

Singh built a platform in a tree near the giant ant hill in which the "tiger men" lived with wolves, and at nightfall two female wolves, three cubs and the two wild girls, all running on all fours, came out.

The next day he dug into the ant hill. Attacked by one of the female wolves, he shot her. In order to capture the children, who clawed and howled like wolves, he had to throw gunny sacks over them.

Taken back to his missionary home the children were named Kamala, eight years, and Amala, one year. They would eat only raw meat and milk, but gradually they were trained away from meat. They could not see by day, but had the eyes of cats at night. They had no sense of nakedness and had to be sewn into loin clothes.

With human beings they were frightened, but with cats, dogs, chickens and even birds they had complete friendship and understanding.

For the baby, the ordeal was too much. She died one year later. But Kamala survived for eight years. Mrs. Singh gradually massaged her leg muscles and taught her to walk and to speak 50 words.

Learns to Walk.

Kamala learned to walk, but to run she dropped down on all fours. Slowly, little by little, her savage past receded in her mind. She learned to love a red dress and wore it day and night. She learned to pick up her food instead of gulping it out of plate. Mrs. Singh's constant companionship finally made her feel at home with human beings instead of with animals.

Kamala learned to run errands and do simple chores around the house, and to use her eyes in daylight.

How far she would have climbed toward normalcy will never be known. She died of uremic poisoning when she was 17.

"All the evidence we have," Dr. Zingg said, "indicates that if a human is lost in babyhood and is actually suckled by female wolves he will never develop into a normal person. If the child is lost at the age of three or four, and is simply sheltered by wolves but not breast fed, he can be reclaimed into society."

"And that seems to prove that the first three years are the crucial ones. We learn more in those years than in the rest of our lives put together, and what we learn then never will be completely forgotten."

Burglar Alarm System For Great Dream Highway

PITTSBURGH.—The new Pittsburgh-Harrisburg "Dream Highway" will soon be a challenge to hold-up men.

A new burglar alarm system, guaranteed robbery-proof, is being installed at a reported cost of $385,000. It will be placed in all restaurants, service stations, toll booths and maintenance buildings along the 160-mile route.

It works as follows: If a bandit should walk into a service station, the attendant would step on a concealed button. The ensuing alarm would instantly and automatically connect with a radio system which will flash the signal to the Pennsylvania motor police.

Two-way radio sets are being installed in the 25 police cars patrolling the turnpike. These sets will enable patrolmen to converse with headquarters at Bedford, Pa.

Gnat Spins Net to Catch Spider, Then Eats Him

CHARLOTTE.—North Carolina has a fly which reverses the proverbial role of spider and fly, and spins a web to catch spiders. The fly, a gnat which eats mushrooms when adult, was described recently by Dr. B. B. Fulton of North Carolina State college. In its youthful stages it spins the webs and lurks at the center like a spider, rushing out to pounce on whatever gets entangled, including many spiders.

Mother WHOSE HANDS ARE UNTIRING

(WNW Service)

AS A war-conscious nation pauses humbly to pay homage to the spirit of Motherhood, thoughts of mankind drift emotionally to the name "Mother."

Beyond the name are the deeds and the actions, the unselfish life, devoted not alone to those of her own blood, but to all living things—it is to these that mankind gives praise.

Mother's hands are never idle, not until that last day when man carries them away from the home they have long loved. They represent her very spirit. They are tender, gentle, pathetic hands, possessed of some magical power to heal and comfort!

They have woven a little, shining needle in and out of sachet-scented baby garments, and softly caressed the tiny new head. The babe has ceased his crying and smiled.

They have, with tender firmness, guided the six-year-old's pink fingers to form "A."

They have compassionately wiped the teardrops from fat young cheeks, and proffered a sugar cookie.

They have, though weary, set the perfectly-appointed table for the evening meal, and cleaned the last speck from the best china.

They have, at sunset on Sabbath evenings, softly pressed the ivory keys to bring forth the appealing melodies of beloved hymns.

They have been tightly clasped in supplication when the darkness of midnight enveloped a tired world, and little ones dreamed.

They have carried trays to the room where you could have heard a pin drop, trays with brown-capped custards, and nourishing broths. They have stroked the fevered head, and smoothed the pillow.

They have made futile, fluttering motions in grief when soot-stained hands would never be warm again, but have courageously swept away the scalding tears that pelted downward like spring rain.

They have passed like a benediction over the golden fuzz on the new grandson's head, and he, too, under their magical charm, has ceased his crying.

They are not just hands. Rather, they're just a different way of saying MOTHER!
