This and That

THIRTY-ONE may become 13 in so many ways in a print shop that one is sometimes at a loss to explain just how it happened. The typist might have struck the wrong typewriter figure key by mistake, the figure "3" might have been slow in leaving the linotype magazine and the figure "1" might have beat him to the stick, and then the write-up man, given the right information, might have put it down incorrectly in composing the item. The last is probably what happened last week when the Chronicle announced that "Jimmy Champion is the second lower school boy in 13 years to receive an upper school letter in any sport." Had the three and one occupied their right places it would have read "thirty-one years" which is correct. Jimmy is attending the Morgan Park Military Academy in Chicago.

THEN THERE was that item about the A. & P. fire alarm Tuesday night when the Chronicle stated "a burned-out motor in the basement caused the Simmons." It should have read "caused the excitement." The word "Simmons" was set on a linotype slug to make a correction in a first page article. How it came to take the place of the word "excitement" in the local columns on page four is another one of those errors which occasionally creep into a newspaper.

WOULD YOU call the beauty spot next to the S. T. & H. Oil Company's service station "A Little Holland" because of the profusion of tulips? If you do, there are several Little Hollands in town, enjoyed alike by the growers, their neighbors and the man traveling the village streets.

OFFERING each child under 15 years of age a new 1940 nickel as a souvenir when he attends morning service next Sunday is a new innovation in eastern Tuscola. Such an offer appears in the church news in the Chronicle this week.

"Jack" Glazier, 39, of Cass City, who caused the arrest of his son, Arthur, 20, of Lapeer when he accused the young man of the theft of $700 from his father's trouser pocket, was taken to the county jail for questioning Thursday. When officers threatened to take the older man to Lansing to submit to lie detector tests, Glazier admitted the theft accusation was false and that he hoped to send his son to a state prison on the spurious charge. Justice St. Mary assessed costs of $26.90 to the father. Leif W. Nelson, 30, of Detroit was arrested at Colwood on May 19 by Sheriff Massoll and Deputy Sheriff Hillaker on a drunk and disorderly charge. He paid $9.75 costs.

A ten dollar fine, costs of $9.30 and a jail sentence of 10 days was meted to Willard W. Baxter of Mayville on a drunk and disorderly charge. He was arrested May 18 by Sheriff Massoll.

Incisions were Self-inflicted the Coroner's Jury Finds

The coroner's jury, convened to inquire in what manner Dr. William Paul Petrie of Caro came to his death, met at the courthouse Friday.

Death was caused, the report read, "some time between the late evening hours of May 13 and the early morning hours of May 14, by a hemorrhage from an incision at the left of the radial artery at the left wrist and from an incision on the anterior aspect of the left arm just above the level of the elbow. This second incision severed the brachial artery, partially severed the radial artery and severed the cephalic vein. These incisions were made by one or more cutting instruments. It is our finding that these incisions were self-inflicted."

The jury called by Coroner Lee Huston had the following members: Fred J. Purdy, R. L. Dixon, Don Sheldon, Harold McQually, F. W. Darbee and W. H. Gildart.

Lansing—Michigan's own chronicle conflict between organized labor and management flared into newspaper headlines again when 160,000 C. I. O. members threatened an official strike at General Motors plants.

On Wednesday of this week (May 21) 83,000 employees of the Ford Motor Company participated in a collective bargaining election, the largest yet conducted by the National Labor Relations Board. The Ford industrial empire was the last remaining unorganized oasis in the Detroit automobile field.

Governor Murray D. Van Wageningen, who achieved new national prominence by his successful shirt-sleeve settlement of a wildcat strike at the Ford plants, has been forced virtually to abandon his executive office at Lansing during the few remaining days of the present legislative session in order to give personal attention to the industrial crisis.

As it has been emphasized repeatedly in the past, Michigan is becoming a leading "arsenal" for national defense armament.

The current wave of labor unrest thus involves our national defense and our democracy's pledge of aid to England.

Struggle for Profits

Underlying the disagreement between capital and labor, in Michigan as well as elsewhere, is a basic struggle over the share of profits each group shall receive during the present boom.

At complete variance are the points of view of labor and capital. The C. I. O. "Economic Outlook" for January, 1941, says the C. I. O. will "continue to strive . . . to improve the wage structure of our members and to obtain improved working conditions. This involves obtaining for the workers an increasing share of mounting profits."

C. I. O. officials make much ado of New Deal statistics showing that less than 23 per cent of the nation's workers earned $1,400 or more a year; one-third of all workers earned less than $400 a year.

The A. F. L. in its March, 1941, "Monthly Survey of Business," points out that General Motors in its report to stockholders showed it had made $717 per employee in 1940; American Telephone and Telegraph, $689; DuPont, $1,363; General Electric, $747; and U. S. Steel, $402.

According to labor, capital is not sharing war-time profits with the worker.

Capital's Answer

The official transcript of a press conference held April 24 with C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, states the viewpoint of management.

In anticipation of a small increase in the cost of living, estimated recently by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to be 2.6 per cent since the war started and another 3 per cent between March and autumn of this year, General Motors offered to raise 1941 wages an average of 3 cents an hour, or $15,000,000 a year. (C. I. O. asked for $50,000,000.)

The average earnings of all hourly paid General Motors employees have been $41.24 a week. The average hour rate for all men and women in all G. M. divisions has been 97.9 cents; for men alone in car and body plants, $1.05½.

Mr. Wilson said: "The wage rates in General Motors car, body and automotive parts plants are already as high, or higher, on the average than rates paid in the industry by others. G. M. rates are very much higher on the average than rates in other heavy goods industries. Recent substantial increases granted in other industries still have their average earned rate less than G. M. is already paying."

More Profits to U. S.

The 1941 industrial picture is, indeed, confusing to the layman.

It is a paradox of production and gross profits rising, while stock prices continually decline on the New York market.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., recently reported to G. M. stockholders about 1941 first quarter operations. Sales were $191,042,000, or 41.7 per cent higher than during the 1940 first quarter. Yet, because of rising federal taxes, the net profit was $2,500,000 lower than for the same quarter one year ago!

This tax total, in relation to total sales, was $46,849,000 a gain of 256 per cent more than in the 1940 quarter.

More profits? According to the G. M. official report, there will be less profits to be shared among the investors who own the company, let alone split up a share of the declining profits among the workers.

Defense Jeopardized?

What has been the effect of industrial strikes to date upon national defense?

Here, the student of propaganda will encounter varying viewpoints also.

Labor's attitude may be summed up as follows: Bottlenecks that delayed defense production were due more to an unwillingness of capital to accept national defense contracts on a basis of a 7 or 8 per cent profit limitation which existed in the Vinson-Trammell Naval Expansion Act of 1935, prior to its 1940 repeal. A monograph by TNEC also make this charge.

Business Week (March 1, 1941) is quoted as saying: "Actually in the first six months of the defense program there have been fewer man-days lost in strikes than in any other comparable period since the passage of the Wagner Act, and labor disputes have not been nearly as serious as they were in 1917."

Management's Answer

Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and of the Curtis Publishing Company (Saturday Evening Post) declared on March 26:

"It is alarming for fathers of draftees in this country to find out that enough time has already been lost through strikes to build 480 destroyers and half a million modern Garand rifles for their boys to carry."

The management of General Motors, for example, has felt that the union was trying to subsidize another wage increase at the cost of the rest of the country.

"It shouldn't be necessary to have strikes all the time in order to have collective bargaining in the country," said Mr. Wilson. "It seems we ought to get broadminded enough so that collective bargaining doesn't always mean to collect and that the bargain part of it ought to come in."

Socialism, Fascism?

It is a memory of World War profits, which brought a crop of more than 10,000 millionaires between 1914 and 1917, that prompts labor to suspect management is not giving the worker a fair share of 1941 profits.

Management answers by pointing to the soaring toll which federal taxes are exacting.

What will be the final outcome of this internal dissension?

Will it be more centralized control, such as further state socialism or possibly an adaptation of fascism to meet American attitudes? These are questions which thinking citizens, no doubt, are asking themselves today. Public opinion, influenced by events more so than by words, will supply the answer.

Worth Millions, Wore Wig

John Elwes died worth four millions, was a member of England's parliament, but he wore a wig he had found in a filthy ditch. He wouldn't light a fire to dry his clothes, soaked while saving cash fare by walking home in a storm. He'd give away huge sums, but refused a doctor to save expenses when in a dying condition.

Status Quo

"Status quo" means the existing state, and in referring to a country such as the Dutch East Indies it simply means that it still is under the jurisdiction of the Dutch.

Ruled by Commission

Necklace Insured for Million
Insured for nearly a million dollars, one of the world's most precious diamond necklaces has been transported in extraordinary ways since its owners arrived here as war refugees from Europe. They are so famous internationally that names cannot be revealed. A big bank has charge of their necklace in New York. Novel precautions are taken each time it leaves the bank's vault. It has been carried through the streets in a Lucky Strike cigarette carton, and in a paper shopping bag from the bargain basement of a popular department store. According to theory, the more commonplace the appearance of the package with the diamond necklace in it, the less risk of a hold-up.

Prune Salad Just Right
Toasted chicken sandwiches and a pineapple-prune salad are "just right" for Sunday evening tea. Spiced, pickled or minted prunes are also excellent for Sunday night suppers as a garnish for a platter of cold meats—sliced roast or ham. A dish of assorted dried fruits, stuffed with cheese, is a welcome addition to the buffet table.

Civil Service Exams for Housemaids in Employ of the State
Housemaids, watchmen, laundry workers, and telephone operators who entered the state service between May 15, 1939, and January 1, 1941, are being notified by the State Civil Service Commission this week that they must apply for examinations to be given on June 14 and that they must pass high enough to be certified to the head of their department in order to be eligible for appointment to a permanent position under the provisions of the recent "civil service" amendment to the state constitution.
This step is in accordance with the Civil Service Commission's decision that all persons who were appointed to an unclassified position under the provisions of the nineteen thirty-nine civil service act who do not have status with the State Civil Service Commission must compete for their positions against all qualified applicants. Announcement of these examinations have been mailed to the county clerks and to the local offices of the Michigan State Employment Service. Applications may be filed any time before May 28, 1941.
Examinations have also recently been announced for prison warden, vocational counselor, millwright, fingerprint clerk and fingerprint expert. The examinations for prison warden are to fill positions as warden and deputy warden at Jackson, Marquette and Ionia. The examinations for fingerprint clerk and fingerprint expert are to fill new positions on the staff of the State Police Department. The Civil Service Commission expects to schedule examinations for approximately two hundred classes of work within the next few months and to examine over twenty-five hundred present state employees to determine their fitness to continue in their positions.

SOLDIER BOYS AT CAMP LIVINGSTON WRITE FOLKS AT HOME

drive me nuts though. We have to learn about 50 different kinds of military also Morse codes besides being a radio operator. We also study maps and how to break down enemy codes. It surely is deep. I sometimes wonder what I am doing at this job anyway. It seems as though they are talking in a foreign language when some of this junk is being explained. As for the infantry there is a lot of hard work especially during the first four weeks of training. But after that I guess it is not so bad as it is not so much the same thing over and over. I got three weeks of the four weeks basic training in the infantry. Now I have to learn the basic training of a radio operator. But maybe it will be worth it after it is all over.
"As for the eats here, they are not so hot. We are fed on the rate of field rations which is 42 cents a day per man. So figure it out for yourself."

Private Ralph L. Maharg, Co. E, 125th Infantry, A. P. O. Box 32, Camp Livingston, Louisiana, Train Co. 4, writes his grandmother, Mrs. James Maharg, R. F. D. 1, Gagetown, as follows:

"I left Flint March 7 and went to Camp Grant, Illinois. We left there on the following Monday for Camp Livingston, La. There are 430 from Flint that left that city when I did. I know most of them and I know about all the officers in our company here. They are all Flint men. We are all living in tents.

"I don't mind it much being in the army. We all have a good time though we have to work hard at drilling and marching. I think that I will be put in the Coast Artillery or in the Tank Squad. That is what I asked for. They are placing most of us men in what we ask for because most of us will come out officers as we are the first draftees to reach this camp. The rest of the men are National Guard men and they will be leaving in October. That means we will all be moved up in their places and be over the other draftees that come in.

"It has been very hot down here—about 105 and 108 degrees most of the time, but at night it is very cool. We sleep with two wool blankets over us. We can stand the heat in the day time when we have it nice to sleep at night.

"This is a funny state. There is very little farming down here. The people raise only enough to live on. Everybody is very lazy down here. Even the fellows in the army are getting like that because it is so hot.

"There are a couple of fellows here from Cass City that I know, Bill MacCallum and a Homer boy. I have only seen them once. I went to school with them in Cass City.

"I have been in very good health although we are starved all the time because there are so many new men coming into camp every day. There are about 40,000 men in our camp. Now, that is a lot of men to feed, don't you think? We eat downtown when we have any money."

Safetygrams
BY
FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

By the end of May or the second week in June, practically all schools in the country will have closed for summer. Then we shall have an additional traffic problem to contend with—millions of children playing in the streets.

The sentence "Let them arrive alive" has appeared in this column often. All of the many sayings regarding the prevention of automobile accidents to children have been repeated and repeated—they are told to us, but they bear repeating because children are the most valuable asset in the country today. Every time a child is hurt, the nation suffers.

Schools have done a splendid piece of work in educating children in the prevention of automobile accidents, the proper methods a pedestrian should pursue, and all other safety precepts that children should know and observe. The automobile driver should do his part and cooperate with the schools and the children in the prevention of automobile accidents to this very fine and valuable group of young people.
It's smart to drive carefully.

South Americas Climb U. S. Ties

Tours of Military Leaders Serve to Strengthen Defensive Policies.

WASHINGTON.—Quietly, and with a lack of publicity, the United States is extending its military picket lines deep into the hearts of South America republics.

It is a "goodwill" picket line, apparently devoid of the usual trappings of "significance," or "implication." It is being forwarded under principles voiced by gatherings of foreign ministers of the Americas at Panama last year, and Havana last summer.

Inter-American co-operation is its foundation stone. If military fanfare by the United States as the greatest military factor in this hemisphere is lacking, certainly meticulous observance of the principle of inter-American collaboration on all hemisphere problems is not.

The latter principle is being hoisted, unostentatiously but definitely, into the saddle of control of the whole Western hemisphere defense scheme.

Defense Survey.

At the moment, 23 ranking officers of 11 Latin American countries, including the big nations of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, are seeking everything the United States has to offer in the way of army defense organizations. These three so-called "A. B. C." powers of South America know the fifth column menace as well as does the United States.

Venezuela and Mexico, whose oil resources are known to all, have officers in the group. Nicaragua—possible seat of a new Isthmian canal between the Atlantic and Pacific, is represented. So is Cuba, the lush island lying immediately south of the Florida peninsula, and Ecuador, with a Pacific seaboard offering easy approach to the Panama canal.

These officers are following in the air wake of a group of 20 others from such republics as Colombia (oil and coffee), Peru (metals), Uruguay (hides, meat and harborage), Costa Rica (coffee and air fields adjacent to Panama), Bolivia (vast tin resources), Honduras, Guatemala, Dominican Republic (all with comfortable approaches to the Panama canal).

Warlike Displays.

When the current flight ends, a total of 43 Latin American chiefs of staff and their expert aides will have made business-like flights to such important United States army posts as Langley field and Fort Monroe, Virginia, Randolph field in San Antonio, Texas, and Barksdale field in Louisiana.

For their benefit mock airplane bombings, landing of parachute troops, and the thunder of anti-aircraft guns are being staged. The rumble of tanks; mechanized infantry and cavalry, the boom of coast artillery, welcomed them to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, Fort Benning, Georgia, Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Their odyssey in search of defense information takes them to the great automotive production center in Detroit, Mich.
