

67 Seniors Were Presented With Diplomas Tuesday

Sixteen Honor Students Awarded Medals by Superintendent Niergarth.

Sixty-seven members of the Class of 1941 of the Cass City High School received diplomas from the hand of Principal Willis Campbell at the Commencement exercises on Tuesday evening, June 10, in the high school auditorium. Preceding the climax of the evening's program, various graduates entertained the "packed-to-the-door" audience who had come to pay tribute to this year's graduating class.

After the curtains parted to reveal the graduates sitting on the stage in their dark blue caps and gowns, Neil McLarty started to read the list of class accomplishments from a scroll. Soon he decided that the audience would be more interested in seeing and hearing actual evidence of the talent belonging to the class, and he adopted the role of master of ceremonies and guided the rest of the program in an informal and efficient manner.

Charlie VanWinkle officially welcomed the audience in her talk as salutatorian, and Clayton Turner followed with a trombone rendition of "Stardust." With droll humor, Shirley Corkins quickly reviewed the thirteen years of school life behind the Class of '41 in her president's address. Then came an account of the senior boat trip by Alex Nemeth. This is the second time that a Cass City senior class has taken a boat trip, and from the description given, the three-day voyage from Detroit to Lake Superior through the Locks and return was an experience which in anticipation, the actual trip, and in recollection, will always be remembered with pleasure.

Dorothy Doerr and Mabel Jean Bradshaw indulged in their love for shopping to the extent of presenting a gift to each member of the class, with the appropriate remarks of giftarians. After the humorous gifts were distributed, they presented an eversharp pencil to Matilda Molnar, as a tribute to the graduate who was selected as having overcome the most difficulties in attending high school.

Pianistic talent was displayed by Alice Schwaderer as she played Beethoven's "Symphonie Pathétique." Then came Carolyn Auten's valedictory address in which she urged all young people to attend high school. She closed with a farewell toast to the parties and sports, the classes, the teachers, and the building. The presentation of class memorial was made by William Wehl. He said that Frederick Pinney and Willis Campbell conducted an "answer or dig down" contest as an entertainment feature for the luncheon program. It was fashioned after the Eversharp radio program and provided much fun.

Frank Reid, chairman of the committee in charge of installing a drinking fountain, reported that the pipes had been laid for the fountain at the corner of Main and Seeger Streets and all would soon be in readiness to quench the thirst of the passer-by. Local Doctor Aids 25 Graduates Here at First Commencement

Dr. F. L. Morris, as a member of the board of education, was happy, of course, in the completion of the high school courses of the 67 graduates of the Cass City High School Tuesday night. However, the doctor was particularly interested in the Commencement of Life of 25 members of the class some 16 to 18 years ago, for Mr. Morris, as he stood looking at the photos of the Class of 1941 in a window of the Mac & Scotty Drug Store a few days ago, counted the noses of 25 whose arrival in the world he superintended.

Fred Jaus and Mrs. Frahm Marry Sunday

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Baker at Clarkston was the scene of a wedding Sunday, June 8, at 2:00 p. m., when Mrs. Baker's sister, Mrs. Olive Wright Frahm, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wright, of Cass City, was united in marriage with Fred W. Jaus of Cass City. The Rev. Walter Ballagh, pastor of the Clarkston Baptist Church, performed the ceremony.

A navy blue crepe gown, with lace trim and long sleeves, was worn by the bride. Her corsage was of gardenia and white carnations. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Leland Nicol, brother-in-law and sister of the bride. Mrs. Nicol wore dark blue crepe and her corsage was similar to that of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Baker home when thirty relatives and friends were present. Ice cream and cake were served from a table lovingly with a beautiful cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, and two large white lighted tapers. The house was decorated with baskets of pink and white peonies and June roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Jaus returned to their home in Cass City that same evening.

Guests were present at the reception from Ann Arbor, Pontiac, Dexter and Cass City.

C. L. Morris in the Free Methodist parsonage at Ubyly. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Guilds of Cass City.

The bride wore dusty rose with white accessories and Mrs. Guilds a navy blue dress with white accessories. Both carried lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. George Holshoe and Mrs. Helen Karr, both of Cass City, left Wednesday morning for Dayton, Ohio, where they visited Mr. Wilson's father and Mrs. Holshoe's son, George Wilson. They returned home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their home with the latter's parents on a farm near Ubyly.

The bride graduated from Bad Axe High School in 1934 and the groom from Cass City High School in 1937.

Churches Unite for Baccalaureate Service on Sunday

Rev. Frank B. Smith Had "Success" as the Subject for Address to Seniors.

The school auditorium held a very large audience Sunday evening when Rev. Frank B. Smith, pastor of the local Baptist Church, gave the baccalaureate address at a union service of local churches.

The procession, with Barbara Jeanne Bardwell at the piano, was very impressive as members of the Class of 1941 marched into the auditorium and through floral arches held by junior girls in the main aisle. Lowell Sickler, president of the junior class ushered the seniors to seats at the front of the auditorium.

Rev. Wendling H. Hastings presided at the service. The invocation was given by Rev. Henry Bushong, the responsive reading was led by Rev. E. R. Wilson and the Scripture lesson was read by Ali B. Jarman. Rev. S. P. Kim offered prayer and at the close of the service Rev. George Bugbee pronounced the benediction.

The combined choirs sang "Benedictus Es Domine" and Miss Eleanor McCallum sang "The 91st Psalm" by McDermid. Mrs. Ethel McCoy assisted at the piano for both numbers.

Choosing "Success" as his subject and basing his remarks on the text from I Corinthians 3:11, "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ," Mr. Smith addressed the senior class, in part, as follows:

"The period of youth, up to and including the completion of high school, is in many ways the most momentous in a person's existence. It is during this period that a combination of circumstances, environment, training, leadership, exemplary living, etc., influence the formation of those convictions that have a tendency to shape the character and conduct of mature manhood and womanhood.

"You young men and young women of today are the leaders and stalwarts of tomorrow. The security of our country, politically, economically, educationally and spiritually depends upon your sincerity, honesty, initiative and

'Anyone Can Sing National Anthem'

You don't need a perfect voice to sing our National Anthem correctly, according to Miss Lucy Monroe, famous singer of stage, radio and opera. Miss Monroe ought to know, too, because she is considered the foremost exponent of the National Anthem today.

"There has been a lot of talk from various quarters," she says, "that the National Anthem is much too difficult to be sung by the average American, that its register is so high it is a vehicle for opera stars. This is a lot of bosh.

"There's only one way of singing the National Anthem, and that's to sing it as you would at a patriotic gathering."

Miss Monroe has sung this stirring song so many times that she has been honored with the title of "Star Spangled Soprano." Her fame as an interpreter of the National

LUCY MONROE "Star Spangled Soprano"

Anthem has made her the official soloist of the American Legion and the Gold Star Mothers. As star of the "American Jubilee" at the World's fair last summer, she sang the song more than 700 times to over 2,000,000 people.

This spring Miss Monroe made what she considers "an all-American recording" of the "Star Spangled Banner." With the accompaniment of the National Symphony orchestra, she sang the song from the authentic first edition in the Library of Congress.

The disc was recorded at Constitution Hall in Washington on the tenth anniversary of the congressional act which made the "Star Spangled Banner" our National Anthem.

Because of her heritage and training Miss Monroe is considered an all-American artist. Her family came to America in 1610, and seven of her ancestors fought in the battle of Bunker Hill. She is a member of the family which gave the White House President James Monroe.

In addition to being featured in more than 500 coast-to-coast broadcasts in four years, Miss Monroe has sung with four of America's outstanding opera companies—the Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and the Metropolitan. Yet for all the "glamour" there is to an opera star, she prefers to be known as "the girl who sings the Star-Spangled Banner."

Father's Day

Fathers throughout the nation will receive special recognition on Father's Day, June 15, for the many sacrifices they make to raise their families. Being men, and men being what they are, Father will say he doesn't want to be thanked; but there's a general suspicion that they really like a little recognition despite their crusty exterior. Two fathers who deserve special recognition for their accomplishments are pictured below.

1. The Honorary "D.D.T." This fellow has completed a special course offered to prospective fathers by a New York hospital to prepare them for jobs to come and has been awarded the degree of "D.D.T."—Doctor of Diaper Technique. Intricacies of bathing or diapering Baby without dropping it or breaking any bones hold none of the terrors for this foresighted father.

2. The Typical Father. Awarded special recognition by the National Father's Day Committee for his portrayal of a father in the movie short, "The Forgotten Man," Robert Benchley is pictured experiencing an inconvenience of a typical father. He has deserted the favorite chair in the living room for another in the basement while Daughter entertains her beau.

proper preparation in the chosen field of your endeavor. There never has been a time in the history of mankind, that the need of sane, clear thinking, honest, God-fearing men and women, is as paramount as at the present.

"Doubtless, the aim and objective of each and every graduate under the hearing of my voice tonight, is to achieve Success in capital letters. Real and lasting success never comes by chance, but by vision, ability and effort. You young folk are starting in the so-called Battle of Life, with at least one advantage—the seemingly limitless energy of youth. This advantage, together with the Four Great C's of Success, form an unbeatable combination.

"As you travel along in the 'Battle of Life,' you can take with you as your traveling companions the four proven C's of success; and when you do, you will find no barrier insurmountable; no obstacle too great.

"Take with you courage which is an admirable quality in everyone. Courage is a necessary qualification in a person's make-up, without which it is impossible to attain worthwhile and lasting success.

"Convictions are commanding. It is something for one to be willing to die for his convictions, but it is much more important to have convictions worth dying for. A life is, in many respects, governed by the convictions formed. It is one thing to have convictions, and it is another thing to have the courage to stand firmly upon those convictions. To lack the courage to do so, is to render those convictions, regardless of how noble they may be, absolutely worthless and useless. It requires fortitude to stand firm when the whole world may be against you. It takes courage to fight on when the odds are seemingly far too great. Yet practically all men of renown who have produced worthwhile benefits to mankind, had to stand alone, with nothing to back them up but the courage of their convictions.

"Self confidence is the element, that, when combined with natural ability, knowledge and preparation, forms an unbeatable combination in the field of achievement. Self confidence is the honest knowledge and estimation of oneself. The knowledge of ability and limitations; the estimation of vision and possibilities. The assurance of ability to overcome all obstacles, to surmount the steepest barriers, is to attain the highest of objectives. "True confidence is one of the greatest assets in your progress toward success. To know yourself, to have faith in your ability, to exercise this confidence with effort, to insure a lasting structure that will stand against the battering of the elements of time. "Character is defined as distinctive qualities or traits; also moral excellence. Consciously or unconsciously we influence others. 'No man liveth to himself,' and a good example is an influence for good. We like the actions, the speech, the character of a good man, a true man. We admire a good healthy character, with a high conception of manhood, with a cheery spirit, and a brave determination in action, unselfish, friendly, not ashamed of his Lord, seeking to be helpful to others. Such a character has tremendous power. People love it. It attracts them. A man or woman with stalwart character invigorates the atmosphere in which he moves. They will make mistakes, but the mistakes will be forgotten in the strong sweep of goodness and honesty which never can be separated from them. They are far from perfect, but somehow they make people love perfection and strive after it.

"Real character is manifested in the attributes—sympathetic understanding and affection; unselfishness; keen discernment; a balanced use of heart and brain; loving acts of service; common sense; and faithfulness.

"After giving brief consideration to Courage, Confidence and Character, we now come to the last and by far the most necessary and important element of success.

"While the first three great C's of success, Courage, Confidence, Character, are very important, the final C, Christ, is priceless. 'What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?' Mark 8:36.

"The first three C's of success concern the material things. The final C concerns spiritual things. Material things are temporal—they come to an end. Spiritual things are eternal—they go on forever.

"The one and only authority we have in considering spiritual things is the divinely inspired revelation from God, His Word, the Bible. Upon the premise that God's Word is true, that His word is sure, I submit to you the truth that if you would be a success in life, you not only can take Christ with you, but you must take Christ with you. "Success is only as it is pleasing to God."

South to Have Defense Role

Many Projects Under Way To Aid in Expansion of Army and Navy.

ATLANTA.—The South is preparing to take a big part in the program for the development of the army and navy to meet defense demands. The federal government, realizing the strategically important geographic location of the southern and southeastern states, has made huge appropriations for the development of military and naval bases in the area. Even more funds are expected to go into the military development of the South.

In every southern state, chambers of commerce, National Guard officers and patriotic organizations are working to insure the best locations for training camps, air fields for naval aviation bases—to be used when and if needed.

The government has authorized or begun construction in the South of these projects:

Enlarge Training Facilities.
Enlargement of Fort McPherson at Atlanta, for which $1,500,000 was authorized by the house military affairs committee. An army supply base to serve the entire Southeast will be located at the fort.

Expansion of Fort Benning, at Columbus, Ga., to allow additional personnel to use the facilities of what is already the world's largest training school for infantry.

Expansion of the Opa-Jocka naval air base at Miami, at a cost of $3,500,000, intended to increase the navy's control over the Caribbean sea and the Central American zone—an obvious point of attack.

Construction of an even larger air base at Jacksonville, Fla., near the Georgia border, primarily designed for huge flying boats. The base will cost some $10,000,000, while an additional $3,000,000 has been proposed for a school for aviation mechanics at the base.

Selection of Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., and Barksdale field, Shreveport, La., as army air training schools. Both are used now for combat training of army pilots.

May Add Aviation Units.
Recent completion of an army bombing base at MacDill field, near Tampa. It will serve as "southeastern headquarters for army squadrons.

Possible addition of aviation units to National Guards. The Georgia National Guard has been selected as one of eight in the country to incorporate a bombardment squadron, while the entire force is mechanized. Nearly all of the projects listed were under construction or being constructed at the time of President Roosevelt's announcement of his plan for national defense. When the vast program does get under way, even more development of southern resources is predicted.

In addition to actual work under way, authorities have pointed out that the southern climate is ideal for year-round training of all branches of the service; that northern Alabama is a great producer of iron ore and finished steel; that the mountains of Kentucky and West Virginia are full of coal necessary to war industries, and that Georgia's mineral wealth is extensive.

Uncover Large Roman Fort in Great Britain

CARLISLE, ENGLAND.—Workmen constructing air raid shelters in the suburb of Stanwick have uncovered a nine-acre Roman fort dating back to about the second century. The fort, which formed part of Hadrian's wall, is rectangular shaped, 580 feet by 700 feet and is 300 feet broader than any other fort on the wall. Hadrian's wall, 74 miles long, was built by Roman Emperor Hadrian in about 120 A. D., and stretched from Solway firth to the mouth of the Tyne. It was designed to protect Roman Britain from the tribes of the north.

Former Miner Devises New Dust-Type Explosive

MILLERSVILLE, W. VA.—Alva Rivers, ex-coal miner, believes he has invented an explosive sufficiently powerful to end the European war in 30 days. "My invention is a special explosive combined with a dust which is more effective than poison gas," said Rivers, who claims his mining experience has made him familiar with explosives. "This gas-dust remains four or five days in the vicinity of the explosion."

Army Training at Texas A. & M. Dates to 1876

With their college educations these men are instructed in military science, tactics and field drill that qualifies them as officers. Ever since the college was established in 1876 one of the required courses has been in military science and tactics. Last June, 360 graduates were commissioned.

Only One Direction

It is impossible to go either east or west of the north-south poles. Since the poles are extremities of an axis of a sphere, there can be nothing on the earth that is either east or west of them, since nothing on earth lies in the same plane. From the north pole it is possible to go in only one direction on the earth—south, and from the south pole one can go only north.

Never Destroyed Letter

Though a man high in his country's councils, Sir Robert Peel was always terribly conscious of his hands, gripping the back of a chair, pulling at his fingers, or clasping and unclasping them in fidgety fumbling. He never burned or destroyed a letter or document, leaving over a hundred thousand papers.

Midnight Pigeon Hunt

PINNEY STATE BANK

Legislators Plan to Pass Brake Bill Over Governor's Veto

Lansing—A determined effort will be made to pass the Brake Anti-Chain Bank Bill over Governor Van Wagoner's veto, which came after the measure had been passed by both Senate and House by a two-thirds majority. The veto was not announced until after the legislature's regular session had ended.

The opportunity to pass the bill over the veto will come with the July 8 and 9 short session. While usually few members return to Lansing for the short session, this year it will be different. The two-thirds majority, and others who either did not vote on the Brake Bill or who opposed it, are indignant over the governor's rebuff. They consider it a direct affront to the dignity of legislature. They are preparing to return to Lansing July 8 and 9 and assert their equal right with that of the governor in the enactment of laws.

The Brake Bill would put a definite end to the expansion of branch banking to widely-separated communities. It would limit branches to within a radius of 25 miles from the parent bank. It is intended to preserve the independence of banking in all communities, large and small.

The Brake Bill has the support of Michigan Bankers' Association, which represents all banks in the state, and which, just a year ago, passed resolutions in favor of the bill. This position was reaffirmed at the meeting in Lansing, June 4, of the legislative committee of Michigan Bankers' Association, which in a resolution empowered the association's executive manager "to set in motion all the available machinery necessary to further acquaint the public, the newspapers, the bankers, business men, Senators and Representatives with the injustice and danger if Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner's veto of Senate Bill No. 1—the Brake Anti-Chain Bank Bill—is permitted to stand."

Every one of the 35 men present at the Lansing meeting voted in favor of this resolution except two, who are officials of the Michigan National Bank, organized last December 31, with home office in Lansing and branches in Grand Rapids, Port Huron, Saginaw, Battle Creek and Marshall.

New Style Gloves

The first time you see a pair of leather gloves without the usual "points" ("points" are those tufts-effects which run up the center of the back), the plain expanse of leather may be quite a shock to you. Probably you'll wonder, too, if the absence of the points won't make your hands look larger. The answer to that is... it won't particularly, and even if it did, who cares, because the "pointless" glove looks so new and smart. It's an idea quite a few American leather glove designers are playing with, so you won't have any trouble finding some to try on and see how they look on your own hands.

Sheriff Forgot, Life Saved

The life of a condemned man in New Orleans was saved recently when the sheriff assigned to dispatch the murderer to eternity forgot to show up at the jail on the day set for the execution. The murderer could not be legally hanged on another day, so his life was saved.

Many Women Drive Up. This summer a daily average of 650 automobiles—about half of them 1940 models—sprawled up the most famous of all Rocky mountain peaks. Many women drove for their first time on a mountain road. The time required was usually from one to three hours—depending chiefly on the number of stops to gaze at Colorado Springs and Manitou nestling on the Colorado plains below.

During June, July and August 31-643 cars climbed the mountain, compared to 28,898 cars and 118,942 passengers in 1939. More than 21,700 Coloradans led the 1940 list, while 6,542 Kansans and 5,546 Texans reached the top.

All 48 states and many foreign countries were represented by the 132,924 motorists making the climb. Thousands of others rode up the cog railway.

When they reached the summit most of the tourists remained for about 30 minutes. Few became ill unless they stayed for longer visits, which often brought on attacks of mountain sickness.

Bad Effects of Exertion. Some motorists became ill because they ran about and jumped to show their exhilaration. They were cautioned by summit house officials against overexertion.

Some visitors saw gray clouds hanging below them. Others saw no clouds, but the rolling prairie stretching into the horizon. Still others were engulfed in snowstorms and addressed picture postcards to Midwesterners telling of "sleeping under blankets every night" while in the mountains.

Although the brief automobile season is limited to summer months, the hikers' season is year round. Members of the AdAmAn club climb the peak every New Year's eve—regardless of the depth of snow or howling winds—to set off fireworks.

It Sure Is "When I read about the marvels of electricity it makes me stop and think." "Imagine that! Isn't it wonderful what electricity can do!"

Private Stock Customer—I simply couldn't wear this coat. It is too tight. Clerk—Pardon me, madam, but I've shown you all of our stock. That's your own coat you have on.

Teasers and Tee-Hees Old Lady—Young man, I'm tired of hearing you snifle. Have you a handkerchief? Tommy—Yes, ma'am, but I don't lend it to strangers.

SHARE THE WEALTH "I believe in calling a spade a spade." "Yes, and it's just like you to call somebody else's spade your spade!"

His Money's Worth "How would you like your egg served, sir?" "Is there any difference in price?" "None whatever, sir." "Then serve it on a thick slice of ham."

Sad Man "What's the matter with Brown? He looks glum." "He's been contesting his wife's will." "I didn't know she was dead." "That's just it. She isn't."

Simple The New Nurse—Don't you like that poem, "Twinkle, twinkle little star, how I wonder what you are?" Little Waldo—No. Why wonder about the elements of a star when a simple spectrum analysis will solve the question?

New Airline Terminal New York city's new Airline terminal was built at a cost of $5,000,000.

Pike Was Wrong! His Peak Scaled

Every Year Thousands Climb to Summit of Famed Mountain.

PIKES PEAK, COLO.—Lieut. Zebulon Montgomery Pike, for whom Pikes Peak was named, apparently was no prophet. He asserted in 1806 that the peak would never be scaled. This summer 132,924 persons visited the summit.

Pike's imagination probably couldn't have visualized a winding highway upon which automobile racers climbed the bald top in less than 16 minutes—as they have done annually at Labor day races for more than a score of years.

In the early days rugged adventurers rode horseback up the peak which is snow-capped 11 months of a year. Then came the cog railroad, one of the wonders of the pre-automobile era.

Next came early model cars—man-painted with the slogan: "Pikes Peak or Bust." Their drivers envisaged plenty of trouble on the hairpin turns and when the 14,169-foot-high peak was scaled smoothly they boasted about it back home.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO? McGinn appeared before the magistrate on a charge of assault and battery, the charge having been brought by Kelly. The magistrate was attempting to get both sides of the story and asked McGinn what induced him to administer such a terrible beating to the plaintiff.

"Sir," said McGinn, "suppose a man called you a dirty Irish scallywag—what would you do?" "Said the magistrate with a smile, "But I'm not Irish!"

"Well," responded McGinn, "suppose he called you the kind of dirty scallywag that ye are?"

Display of U. S. Flag Has Etiquette 'Code'

THE CORRECT USE OF THE FLAG

- Do not let the flag touch floor or ground.
- Do not place any object or emblem above the flag.
- Do not use the flag as drapery. Use bunting.
- Do not use the flag as part of a costume or uniform.
- When used on a motor car, the flag should fly from a staff.
- Do not use the flag in any form of advertising.

Above are six tips for flag etiquette as outlined by Mrs. Russell B. Williams, Chicago, chairman of the flag committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The D. A. R. is in the midst of nationwide campaign to popularize flag etiquette.

On important national holidays patriotic citizens throughout the country like to display the American flag as outward evidence of their loyalty toward their nation.

On days like these, being familiar with proper flag etiquette is valuable and important. For rather definite and well-defined courtesies toward the national banner have been developed in military and civilian practice of flag display.

Most people realize in a general way that good care should be given the flag and its use as a common piece of cloth should be avoided. But sometimes lacking is the knowledge of more specific rules regarding its display.

Compiled here are a few rules of flag etiquette for the display and use of "Old Glory."

When the flag is displayed on a wall, the stars should be toward the left with the stripes floating to the right.

When hanging with the stripes in a vertical position, the stars should always appear in the upper left hand corner.

On parade, the American flag always claims the place of honor—at the right.

When flown at half-staff, the flag should be hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-staff position. Before lowering the flag, it should be raised again to the peak. On Memorial day, May 30, the flag should be displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset.

The flag must not be used as a table cloth. Nothing but the Bible should rest upon the flag.

Never display the American flag with the union down except as a signal of distress.

The flag should never be used to decorate platforms or stands, or draped in any fashion for decorating purposes.

When used to cover a casket, the flag should be placed so that the stars are at the head in the upper right-hand corner (over the heart) looking from the foot. The flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground.

No other flag should be hoisted above the American flag except a church pennant, which can be flown from the masthead above the Stars and Stripes when religious services are in progress in a military chapel or aboard a United States navy ship.

Lansing—Michigan's second industry, the tourist business, faces the uncertainty of a war economy with its leaders determined more than ever to meet the challenge by positive action.

At the governor's office last Friday was held an unusual conference.

Present were managers of the regional tourist associations, officials of state departments and leaders of the Mackinac Island city, state park commission and the newly formed harbor authority. Their objective was an aggressive program to lure outstate visitors to Michigan this summer.

Florida resorts experienced a good season last winter, but the volume of business was noticeably off. Families in the middle-class income bracket are beginning to apply their own budget priorities in order to meet increased federal income taxes. A new spending class comprises 1,250,000 families with incomes of from $1,000 to $2,000 a year to spend. These folks live in the industrial centers which are enjoying a temporary boom from national defense orders.

Competition

Another factor in the Michigan picture is the growing competition among states for a slice of the rich tourist trade. Nearby Mid-west states—Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota—as well as New York, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and several others are vying with each other for vacation dollars.

The average tourist state advertises through a state financed centralized office, while Michigan's eminence as a popular vacationland has been achieved through co-operation of private operators and the state government. The situation of four regional associations, each being financed in part by the state, is the exception to the general rule. These associations have succeeded in obtaining appropriations from state legislatures, session after session, because of the outstanding results which they have been able to show.

At a round-up dinner of travel editors and state officials held recently in Grand Rapids the chief suggestion voiced was a need for a centralized tourist program in Michigan, if we are to meet this augmented competition of rival states and to counteract any loss in business due to the war.

Mackinac Island

Michigan's most historic shrine, according to the Daughters of the American Revolution, is Mackinac Island.

Because it is situated between the upper and lower peninsulas and is at the crossroads of the Great Lakes, this rocky scenic spot belongs to all the state to a greater sense than does the average tourist attraction.

It is the plan of the tourist groups, voluntarily banding together for a 1941 "All-Michigan project," to stage a historical pageant on Mackinac Island during July. The pageant would be the spearhead of a national drive to lure outstate visitors to Michigan—and when they are here, to show them our many other points of interest from Greenfield Village at Dearborn to the Porcupine Mountains near Ontonagon.

Due to a 1941 legislative enactment, the old business section in Mackinac City is being given a treatment of historical restoration. It will become the Mid-west "Williamstown" with authentic colonial atmosphere. Several hundred thousand dollars are being spent at the island to create bathing beaches, parks and recreational facilities in order that visitors may have something to "do" on the island other than to climb hills and to watch ore-bearing boats go by.

Northwest Passage

In quest of the "Northwest Passage" to Japan, Jean Nicolet canoed through the Straits in 1634.

The rich fur trade there attracted both the French and British.

At the end of the American Revolution, British troops refused for 13 years to evacuate the island.

When the War of 1812 was declared, the British on St. Joseph's Island amassed a force of 1,000 soldiers, Indians and trappers. They landed secretly at night on the western side of the island, mounted two cannons on the promontory above the fort, seized the island without a battle and continued to hold it until news of the signing of the Treaty of Ghent reached America in 1815.

John and Jacob Astor of New York then formed the American Fur Company with headquarters on Mackinac Island. As many as 3,000 Indians camped along the beach during July and August when they brought the beaver pelts to the trading post.

Frontier Scene

"The Michigan Guide," (Oxford Press) recently compiled as a WPA Writers' Project under the supervision of Harold Titus, novelist of Traverse City, gives this colorful picture:

"Woodsmen of various nationalities slept in tents and stables or wrapping themselves in pack bedding, spent the night in the open. Clerks and voyagers, adventurers from the leading European countries, were quartered in tents, barracks, and the agency house.

"The American soldiers, of equally varied stock and lineage, occupied the fort and served as guardians of the frontier. Couriers de bois, unattached woodsmen who worked spasmodically, lived in a constant state of debauchery while their funds lasted and their credit remained stable.

Picturesque

"All the frontiersmen lived a rough adventurous existence, punctuated by drunkenness, brawling and not infrequent murders. Dances and banquets were given for traders on their return from the wilderness, and invariably the merry-making lasted until daybreak. The man or group thus honored would return the courtesy the following night.

"This round of activities, wealth of characters, and constant bustle made Mackinac an exciting and picturesque settlement during its heyday as a trading post. But, after 1830, the fur trade declined, and when Astor closed the company's office on Mackinac, the island populace gradually diminished, leaving only a few whites and Indians."

It is this historic setting, "restored" by paint and architectural veneer, which may provide Michigan with its national bid for tourist dollars in 1941.

Friday the 13th; —It's Here Again!

FRIDAY the 13th—America's No. 1 jinx day—has arrived. And, while people walk around raised ladders, avoid spilling salt, tighten their hold on rabbit foot charms, and keep an alert eye "peeled" for coal-complexioned cats, conversations take on an air of uneasiness—

"Me sleep on the 13th floor? No, suh!" "We can't be married then—it's Friday!" "Lissen, Gus, we ain't pullin' no job tonight—it's the 13th, see!" Why, these superstitions? Well, it's an old, old story. The number 13 was blackballed by the ancient Babylonians, and in the Christian era has been associated with the 13 who partook of the tragic Last Supper. The unpopularity of Friday is analogous to the primitive conviction that Friday was taboo—it was spoiled by bad magical conditions. And so, despite the advance of science and free-for-all education, people cling to these myths. Friday the 13th annually costs this country a large sum of time and money. People postpone trips; business men defer decisions; Wall Street patronizes "forget" the stock exchange; race track enthusiasts place small bets, or none at all; and society folk leave the 13th guest uninvited! And, ironically enough, we continue to laugh at voodooism!

67 SENIORS WERE PRESENTED WITH DIPLOMAS TUESDAY

Concluded from first page. The drinking fountain which the Class of '41 was placing in the high school symbolized a "thank you" from them to all those who had made their high school education possible.

Deep-voiced Stella Gryskiewicz sang an arrangement of Stephen Foster's "Beautiful Dreamer," and Leola Jane Smith stimulated laughter with her interpretation of the monologue, "Helen at the Ball Game." An appeal to the gods by June Gilbert, which reminded one of Shakespearean lines, brought a manuscript mysteriously descending from the air. It contained the prophecy of the graduates' future in verse form, and after Miss Gilbert had read the predictions, the book mysteriously disappeared into the air again.

With a clever introduction, Winifred Orr revealed the two members of the graduating class who had been selected by the Camp Publishing Company as having the most beauty and personality expressed in their senior pictures. Dorothy Doerr and Ralph Ball received large colored photographs of themselves because of this honor.

Sixteen graduates had maintained the average of B or better during their four high school years, and for this accomplishment, they were awarded scholarship medals by Supt. J. Ivan Niergarth.

After the diplomas were distributed, Meredith Auten, representing the Board of Education, presented the Kenneth MacRae family to the audience. As each name was called, the 12 children and the father and mother of this family came to the platform, each child carrying the diploma that signified graduation from Cass City High School. Mr. Auten paid a tribute to this family in which all the children have gone to some higher school of learning after high school graduation. Honorary diplomas were presented to them.

After the benediction by Harland Lounsbury, the Class of 1941 received the congratulations of relatives and friends and joined the ranks of the hundreds of alumni of Cass City High School.

Looking Backward at Events That Happened 25 and 35 Years Ago

Twenty-five Years Ago. June 16, 1916.

Village taxes in Cass City will be a trifle higher than in 1915. The council has fixed the rate at 12 mills. The total valuation for the village $731,790.

Elkland Township's valuations were fixed by the board of review as $1,603,280 for real estate and $267,080 for personal property, making a total of $1,870,360. The personal property shows a lesser amount than last year owing to the fact that automobiles this year cannot be assessed by the local assessing officer. According to the tax roll, 97 automobiles are owned in Elkland Township. A conservative estimate averages the real value of each at $500.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mudge of Novesta Township have succeeded in locating their son, Harry, whom they expected home from Portland, Oregon, last April and from whom they have failed to hear in four months. Harry is now in Mexico pursuing bandits. He offered his services to the War Department shortly after the call for 25,000 men to strengthen the organizations engaged in the punitive expedition after Francisco Villa. He was assigned to the Thirteenth Cavalry.

Charles Evans Hughes of New York for president and Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana for vice president are the men nominated at the Republican convention at Chicago Saturday. Col. Theodore Roosevelt of New York and John M. Parker of Louisiana are the Progressive Party nominees.

TODAY you can buy a bargain in power. Price: About 2c an hour per horsepower.

At that price an electric motor gives you time-saving and labor-saving help for a variety of jobs, at low cost. The cost is so low, in fact, that you can save money by letting an electric motor do many of the jobs now done by hand or by other power on your farm.

For example: 2 1/4c worth of electricity will churn a hundred pounds of butter. 1c will separate a thousand pounds of milk. 1/2c will turn a grinding wheel for an hour.

1c will hoist more than a ton of hay into a mow. 2c will grind at least a hundred pounds of feed. 2 1/4c will shell a hundred bushels of ear corn.

It will pay you to hire electrical help, especially now that farm workers are getting scarce. Your dealer or the Detroit Edison Farm Service man can supply any information you need to put low cost electric power to work on your farm.

To Plan Social Life for Army

Movies, Dramatics and Games to Be Provided For the Soldiers.

WASHINGTON.—Movies, amateur dramatics, books, games, songbooks and army hostesses to supervise "the social life of the enlisted men" are all to be provided for National Guard and selective service trainees, as well as for the men of the regular army.

To Boost Morale. In all these various activities of the morale division, it was emphasized, the sole aim would be to strengthen the will and ability of the soldier to perform his military duties.

"A singing army is a fighting army," said Major General Bell in the World War, and it is planned to publish an army songbook to encourage the soldiers of 1940-41 to keep up the tradition.

The army motion picture service will provide moving pictures. A typical week's offering at an army theater includes three outstanding features and also a double feature.

Movies Available. At each cantonment there will be two theater buildings, each seating 1,000, and at larger tent camps "big top" tents will accommodate as many as 2,200.

In World War days the army hostess was a familiar figure. When the army was demobilized in 1919 no new hostesses were appointed.

College Names Fireman Aid to Museum Curator. LANCASTER, PA.—Franklin and Marshall college honored John Price, a city fireman who never progressed beyond grade school, by naming him assistant curator of the college museum.
