Bank Clerk Was Convicted Friday in Ugly Fraud

Miss Winnifred I. Dew, 31, of Ugly, former bookkeeper in the Ugly branch of the Hubbard State Bank of Bad Axe, was convicted on five counts of misapplication of funds, moneys and credits by a jury in Federal Court in Bay City on Friday morning after 16 hours of deliberation. A conspiracy count was dismissed.

Earlier Friday morning, Kenneth L. Wright, Ugly furniture dealer, was acquitted by the jury of aiding and abetting Miss Dew in the misapplication charges of the indictment returned against the pair early this summer and conspiracy to defraud the bank.

The jury convicted Miss Dew a little more than an hour after it had requested further instructions in her case from Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle, and had been told: "If you believe Miss Dew's testimony on the witness stand, she is guilty according to the statute."

Charges against the pair were brought after Federal agents discovered a $90,000 shortage in accounts at the bank and Fred H. Brown, former bank manager, committed suicide last January.

Wright was acquitted of all charges.

One Seriously Injured in Five Crashes Sunday

L. D. Duncan of Mayville, Suffered Fractured Skull in Early Morning Crash.

Five crashes Sunday made it the heaviest date thus far in August for automobile casualties. The opportunities for injuries to drivers and passengers were numerous, but fortunately serious injuries were limited to one person.

When Miss Alice McCreedy of Unionville, travelling two miles south of Bach, made a left hand turn at the intersection to drive east toward Gagetown, the car she was driving was hit on the left side by one owned by L. D. Duncan, 21, of Mayville and operated by Ray Mannual, also of Mayville, and also going in a southerly direction. The McCreedy car was sent down the road 75 feet by the impact and went into a ditch on the left side of the road. The car driven by Mannual rolled over the end of a culvert bridge and landed on its top in a ditch at the intersection.

Duncan was taken to the office of Dr. L. D. MacRae at Gagetown where X-rays revealed a skull fracture. He also suffered a concussion of the brain, small lacerations of the skull and minor bruises. He was taken to his home in Mayville Thursday.

With Miss McCreedy were two friends, the Misses Elizabeth Freeman and Letha Dillon. All three miraculously escaped injuries.

The accident occurred five and a half miles west of Gagetown at 2:30 a. m. Sunday. Mannual was given a summons for reckless driving by Deputy Sheriff Julius Goslin, who investigated the accident.

James Moses of Minden City received a bruised leg and Mrs. H. Bender, one of three passengers in his car, a bruised arm when the Moses car going east and an automobile driven by Vincent Kyser of Flint travelling north were involved in a smash at the highway intersection five miles north of the Caro Standpipe Sunday afternoon. The Moses car landed in a ditch.

Two cars were passing at the point of a hill two and a half miles southeast of Kingston Sunday evening and each driver tried to miss the other but failed. In the side-swiping, both cars were damaged. Joseph Prabucki of Kingston was driving east and Harold Woods of the same place was going west at the time. Mrs. Prabucki and daughter received slight injuries.

The same day, on M-46, cars driven by Robert Wills and Elmer L. Kirk, both of Midland, travelling in opposite directions, crashed a mile east of Kingston. The Kirk car skidded about 150 feet, hit a ditch and rolled over once on the left side of the road. The Wills auto stopped 75 feet away. Both were damaged and Mrs. Kirk suffered a few cuts in the accident.

At the south village limits of Mayville at 3:00 a. m. Sunday, the cars of Rodney Duchemin of Detroit and S. R. Roman of Caro were damaged when they came together. No one was hurt.

Infantile Paralysis Was Less than the Average Figures

Infantile paralysis cases reported in the first week of August have been under average figures, the Michigan Department of Health says, but adds that the course of polio is unpredictable.

"No one can tell in advance how polio may affect a community, nor say what the outcome of a case may be," says Dr. Allen Moyer, State Health Commissioner. "The patient who recovers without paralysis and the one who has a crippling after-effect may look just the same at the beginning. The physician must have a chance to see polio early and follow the case by day. Proper care helps to avoid paralysis, but if it does develop, the crippling effects can be overcome in part by rest and use of splints. For these reasons, the physician should be called for any of the signs which may be the first symptoms of polio—fever, vomiting, pain or stiffness of the neck and back."

If inflation comes as it did during the World War, and prices get radically out of line, it will be in spite of everything than can possibly be done to prevent it. Inflation is disastrous because it is always followed by a pay day which more than takes the profits of high prices and leaves a train of wrecked and bankrupt individuals and businesses in its wake. Much effort and thought is being expended to guard against a repetition of the disastrous World War experiences resulting from inflation. In spite of everything that can be done there will be a measure of inflation and higher prices this summer and fall.

Frequent warnings and rumblings are heard that new highs in taxes are to be experienced by everyone in the near future to pay for the defense program. Income tax rates will be doubled and in most cases tripled and new nuisance taxes and excise taxes will be set up. These taxes will all be in addition to local taxes which of course will be only mildly affected by the cost of the defense program. In order to make the blow easier and afford a means of paying these taxes on the installment plan the Treasury will offer for sale "tax anticipation certificates" that may be used in the payment of taxes. These may be purchased out of the current receipts or savings. They will draw a little interest.

Under consideration by Congress, as a means of raising funds to pay for the defense program, is a "use tax" of $5 on each automobile, 10 per cent on new automobile purchases, a tax on used car purchases, taxes on candy, chewing gum, club dues, typewriters, electrical appliances, refrigerators, radios, cameras and supplies, sporting goods, phonographs and records, jewelry, furs, toilet goods, matches, luggage, rubber goods, electric and metal signs, soft drinks, local telephone bills, gasoline, tobacco, and many others. So far the beer block has been able to prevent consideration of a defense tax on beer.

A local reader of this paper received a letter the first of the week from a friend of his who lives in the middlewest. The friend states that times are pretty hard in his section. It is getting as hard to borrow a dollar as it is to earn one.

By a vote of 101 to 6 the legislature of Illinois has forbidden girls and women to serve as bar maids in that state. A neighboring editor pertinently adds: Can it be that the United States is beginning to show some signs of recovery from its national drunk?

Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas, years ago said: "The purification of politics is an iridescent dream." If Ingalls were making the statement today he could also include with politics, the reduction of taxes.

Farm wages are the highest in history. Because of the increase two changes are coming in the farm industry; the employment of more power machinery on the farm, and farms limited to what one man can handle.

The new tax schedule now being worked over in Congress is designed to reduce to a minimum the number of millionaires created by war and defense industry. It has been discovered that it is difficult to control the amount of profit made in these industries, but comparatively easy to take it away from those who make it by taxes.

This country is soon going to learn whether or not a government can control prices and keep them within reason. At the present moment every effort is being made by the government to hold prices in line. Rising prices are somewhat like rising flood waters. Once they break over the dyke, control is impossible. The secret of price control lies in preventing their ever making the first break. Even those in charge of price control expect some rises. Their hope is to keep the rises that do come, in line. Legislation will probably be invoked where there is a tendency for certain prices to spurt ahead.

It may be true that there is no such thing as an absolutely worthless man, but sometimes it requires an expert to discover what some men are good for.

Hot Days Add Peril to Foods

Keeping the family food supply in good condition is a big problem these hot days. Home economics specialists at Michigan State College suggest use of tips listed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for taking care of food.

Milk, cream and raw meats head the list of foods most likely to spoil at any time of year. These foods need to be kept at a temperature at least as low as 45 degrees Fahrenheit. Keep milk and cream tightly covered. If a refrigerator and a special meat compartment in that is available keep raw meat there. If not, keep raw meat lightly covered with paraffin paper in a shallow dish. Take the store wrapping off all meat as soon as you get it home.

Raw meat should not be kept on hand more than 2 or 3 days at normal refrigerator temperatures. Ground meat should not be kept more than 24 to 48 hours. Use liver and other meat organs the same day you buy them.

Butter picks up odors easily, so it should be kept tightly covered. Wrap hard cheese tightly in waxed paper. Keep soft cheese in its original containers, either tightly covered or wrapped.

Put eggs in the refrigerator right away and keep them there. Take only as many out at one time as will be used right away. Be especially careful of cooked egg dishes. Many a case of summer food poisoning can be traced to them. Make cream puffs, potato and other salads in which you use egg dressing, egg sandwiches, deviled eggs, and custard on the same day you eat them. And keep them in the refrigerator up to serving time.

What Cut of Meat Do You Like?

Do you know meat simply as "meat," or do you know it by its full name—as a cut of meat? The latter is all-important, for it enables you to prepare meat as intelligently as you prepare salads or soup or pastry.

There are more than a hundred cuts of meat. All are nutritious, but may not be suited to the same purpose. For instance, you would not buy a cut of sirloin as a stew, would you? Yet there are cuts for stewing that taste as fine as the best sirloin—and cost much less. Ask us the names and uses of meat cuts.

STACKING BEANS SAVES DOLLARS

No Need to Try

Umbrellas—

Michigan Has

747,000 Acres

Planted to Navy

Beans This Year

This Farmer
Laughs at Rain
Prospects. He Has Used the Recommended
System for Stacking His Beans

Michigan farmers responded to an appeal from Washington, bolstered with a promise of guaranteed prices, with a record planting of 747,000 acres of the white pea or navy beans. Which leads H. C. Rather, head of the Michigan State College farm crops department, to suggest this is an excellent year to protect the quality of the harvest with use of the stacking system. Straw bases, poles and some neat stacking are in order—with extra dollars from smaller picking out of culls as the direct return to growers.

Michigan Beans Set Acre Record

A planting record of 747,000 acres in Michigan this year gives indication of what may be a bumper crop of navy or white pea beans. "You can't protect beans with an umbrella," warns H. C. Rather, head of the Michigan State College farm crops department. He suggests bean growers in more than 40 Michigan counties make plans to mature the beans in well constructed field stacks for proper curing.

Farmers receive pay for beans on the basis of a price per hundred-weight, less any deduction for the percentage of "pick" or cull beans.

Beans that "pick" at the rate of 1 per cent or one pound in a hundred are worth but $4.14 if the basic price is $4.25 a hundred.

"That isn't much of a deduction," says Rather. "But extend the pick to a greater percentage, perhaps because the beans were not properly field cured. When beans pick 5 per cent the farmer gets but $3.70 of the $4.25, when the pick is 10 per cent the return to the grower drops to $3.15. If the pick goes to 20 per cent, the beans are worth just about the value of hog feed."

Michigan's huge bean crop usually gets its most severe test in September, month of heaviest rains. Recommended bean stacks are those 4 to 5 feet in diameter, built on a straw base, stacked with straight sides up and down and with beans piled well over the top of the center post to help shed rain and aid in drying.

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN

Lansing—What is going to happen to the waterfalls of the Upper Peninsula?

Here is a question that involves a controversial issue, and like everything else you find many sides to it. It isn't all one-sided by a long shot.

The two Tahquamenon Falls in Luce County are now under state ownership, having been transferred by the federal government to the state conservation department in a swap of timber land.

But many other scenic waterfalls in the Upper Peninsula are owned privately, and two of these—Victoria and Bond Falls in Ontonagon County—have been exploited for commercial purposes by private power interests.

Having just returned from a 1,200-mile trip into this fascinating country between Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, we have some first-hand impressions. You may be disturbed by them. We were.

National Defense

National defense is doing things to this northland region.

Strangely enough, while it has stimulated the greatest tourist season in many decades if not in all history, it is creating a new demand for commercial use of two natural resources—waterfalls and timber—which are conceded to be valuable tourist assets.

Iron and copper ore are imperatively needed for America's defense. Old mines are being reopened, while new mines are contemplated. Wisconsin industrial towns also need electric power.

To meet this existing and prospective demand, the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company, for example, recently completed building of a dam and reservoir on the Michigan River near Crystal Falls. It is called the new Way Dam. A new large lake has been created which will add to existing fishing grounds in Iron County.

Below this reservoir the power company is contemplating the building of a hydro-electric plant. A possible site for the dam and plant is the Michigamme Falls, a picturesque scenic spot in a deep narrow gorge through which waters of the Michigamme River roar madly.

Horseshoe Rapids

Land around the Michigamme Falls has been acquired by the power company.

This utility has also bought land around the Horseshoe Rapids, another scenic spot on the Paint River and some ten miles or more from Crystal Falls through a blueberry plain. A possible hydro-electric development is in the offing for this location.

You may recall having read about the Victoria Falls on the Ontonagon River which was converted by the Michigan Copper Range Power Company into a commercial hydro-electric plant. In order to assure a steady flow of water to the Victoria Dam, the utility (formerly an Insull subsidiary) has diverted water from a branch of the Ontonagon River just above Bond Falls.

A controversy ensued with the state conservation department which happened to own acreage below Bond Falls and consequently had riparian rights. A "gentlemen's agreement," which has not been made into legal contract, resulted whereby the power company is maintaining a sufficient flow of water over Bond Falls to preserve its scenic appeal. Furthermore, the company has even "patched" the face of the falls with concrete, and not one tourist in ten thousand would ever notice it.

What Should Be Done?
It is easy to express snap judgment and say that the power company is to blame.

Actually, if anyone is to be blamed at all, it is probably the indifferent and apathetic citizen who takes little interest in esthetic affairs of this kind. "If he can drive his automobile right to the falls and view it from the car, then he will entuse," observed a state conservation official at Lansing. "But otherwise, it seems that the average man and woman do not care."

The fact remains that the waterways belong to private utilities simply because no one else has been interested enough to induce the state legislature to appropriate funds to acquire the waterfalls for perpetuity of all future citizens.

$3,000 a Park a Year

Is the conservation department to blame? Well, figure it out for yourself.

The department has 56 parks to maintain and administer. Its annual budget is $160,000 or just about $3,000 per park per year.

The department also administers the upkeep of some 4,500,000 acres of forest land in Michigan. Two million acres of this were acquired in the 1938 tax sale.

Obviously with $3,000 to spend on each of its 56 parks in Michigan, the conservation department is barely able to maintain the grounds and provide occasional improvements. Unlike other states, Michigan does not charge an admission fee into its public parks, and there is little likelihood that this precedent will be changed by the legislature.

The fault, if any, lies in the apathetic attitude of the average Michigan citizen.

Miner's Falls, near the Pictured Rocks at Munising, can be reached only by going through a cheap hot dog stand at the entrance by the road. You trespass over private land to see the falls, a 70-foot drop of water that is enjoyed by tens of thousands of visitors annually.

Unless enough citizens demand that scenic waterfalls be preserved through public ownership, then you can expect private interests to continue to exploit them for profit. This is not a criticism of power companies. After all, they own the land and pay taxes on it.

Electric cooking—

A Great Help in any Kitchen!

Mrs. Frank Ashton, Bridgewater Township, Washtenaw County, has used this electric range for seven years. She says it is her idea of a perfect cooking help for the farm housewife.

Cooking can be a comfortable and pleasant task for you, too. With an electric range in your kitchen you don't have to watch over the food like a mother hen over her chicks. Electric heat is easily controlled. You can put an entire meal in the oven, set the automatic controls, and go on about your other work. At dinner time the meal is cooked just right and ready to serve.

You and your family deserve the convenience and healthfulness of electric cooking. See the new electric ranges displayed by your dealer or at any Detroit Edison office.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

British See Far East 'Squeeze Play' In Japan's Attitude Toward Thailand; Nazis Claim Big Victories Over Reds; Mussolini's Son Killed in Air Crash

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Here's a striking contrast in the modes of fighting equipment. According to the Berlin caption the picture shows a German horse-drawn artillery piece racing past a burning Soviet tank somewhere along the Russ-Nazi battle lines of the eastern front.

DEATH:

To a Youth

From Rome came the report that Bruno, the second son of Benito Mussolini, had been killed in an air crash while on a plane testing flight near Pisa. He was 22 years of age and ranked as a "Captain of Aviation." He had seen action in three wars. In Ethiopia, in the Spanish war and in the present war he had engaged in what Italian sources described as "daring" and "risky" actions.

GERMANY:

Makes Claims

The Germans, who had been pictured fairly hopelessly stalled on the Eastern front, with the Reds growing in strength and in some points taking the offensive, came out finally with a statement in which they made the largest claims thus far.

They claimed 895,000 prisoners taken, and "many times more" in killed and wounded; the entire Russian resistance shattered; no semblance of order in the Red army; and pictured Moscow as without any clear picture at all of the situation, blindly believing its army still fighting.

When it came to giving details of places, the communique, while a lengthy one, was not very communicative.

But from it one could picture the front through the German eyes, with Smolensk, in the center, a sort of island of doomed Russian battalions, still holding out, although surrounded.

Leningrad, on the north, was a hopeless city, menaced from the south and the north, with another small "island" of surrounded Red troops still holding out in the vicinity of Tallinn, Estonia.

Kiev, on the south, was shown in this document as partially surrounded, with two huge pincers having pierced the Stalin line north and south of the city itself, which is an integral part of that line.

The claims were contained in four special communiques from the headquarters of Adolf Hitler himself, and were broadcast throughout the German nation.

RUSSIANS:

Their Version

Completely ignoring the claims of the Germans, the Reds, admitting Nazi pressure on the south, say that they are counter-attacking and were using the same tactics "which threw the Germans back in the central front."

In fact, the Russian reports considered the front from Smolensk to Bel-Tserkov, a distance of 350 miles, as a single unit, rather than a definite pincer movement, and said that there was mobile fighting going on all along this front.

In fact, the Reds asserted they were holding the Germans in two other sectors, that of Khloim, 180 miles south of Leningrad, and on the Estonian front—where the Germans had claimed important advances.

The Russians also reported taking many prisoners, and revealed that many of them are either 17 years old or the older type reservists, showing that the Nazis are drawing heavily on their reserves.

BRAZIL:

In Azores

The United States is secretly urging that Brazil take over the Azores islands, Portuguese possession, in the interests of Western hemisphere defense, Berlin had charged.

Although this was promptly denied in Washington, considerable prominence was given the dispatch, in that the question of the Azores was prominent in Washington's long range plan for defense of the Western hemisphere.

Early Bird

PHILADELPHIA, PA. — First veteran to appear on the scene for the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here was Jack Farley, known as the "Irish Traveler." He hitch-hiked to Philadelphia from Louisville, Ky., and is being rewarded at convention headquarters by getting the first badge.

HOSIERY:

And the Women

The governmental placing of silk in the vital raw material category closed down the silk hosiery industry and sent American women in a wild blitzkrieg on the silk stocking counters of the nation.

There were no tears shed over the situation, the women apparently regarding the whole thing as a sort of a gay lark, and dashing into the stores to stock up—just to be doing something more than for any other reason.

For surveys of women's opinion showed that the ladies were perfectly willing to go bare-legged, if necessary; to spray "makeup" stockings on their legs, or to wear cotton, if they could be made good-looking.

It was obvious that the new nylon industry would not be able to supply the demand, at least at prices women were willing to pay.

But as to the cotton situation, the government had finished researches at Beltsville, Md., from which had come 150 types of cotton stockings, many of them pretty stylish-looking.

Philadelphia, with a $25,000,000-a-year hosiery industry, and other nearby cities and states with smaller organizations, began changing over to cotton right away. One mill already had out a line of samples of cotton lisle stockings, several of them of the "mesh" type.

These were displayed by pretty models, and the salesmen started out to see what the reception of the American Woman would be.

On that, they said, depended what the factory would do—close up or continue to put out the cotton stockings.

LLOYDS:

And War Bets

Lloyd's was reputedly offering odds on the end of the war, even the likelihood of Washington, D. C., being bombed—circumstances which told their own story.

The war is more likely now to be over December 1 than it was at this time last year. Lloyd's was offering 7 to 1 last year, and now has reduced the odds of the war ending in 1941 to 3 to 1.

As to the bombing of Washington, the odds were 1,000 to 1. However, as it was pointed out, the odds weren't really that much, for it was simply the offering of a premium of $1,000 for $1 that no property would be lost within a year in Washington, thus really meaning that Lloyd's was betting 1,000 to 1 that no particular private property in Washington would be damaged.

SPIES:

Meet Doom

The reports issued constantly to British citizens that "even the walls have ears" were given point when it was told that two Nazi spies, Karl Theo Druke, German citizen, and Werner Heinrich Waelti, a Swiss, were executed as spies.

The story was romantic enough. The two men, equipped with radio sending and receiving sets, flew near the English coast and were set down from a seaplane. They then rowed ashore in a collapsible rubber boat. Both had foreign passports and spoke English.

For a time they evaded discovery. They had split up and were heading for Edinburgh, Scotland, by different routes.

Their bags were examined, and when the radios were found, the jig was up. Later, the government said, they were found to have food, including sausage made in Germany. They were hanged.

R.A.F.:

Busy Over Reich

Better weather renewed reports of increasingly heavy R.A.F. raids over cities of the Reich, including Berlin itself.

The communiques told of bombers braving storms and high winds to make their raids, although clear skies over Germany gave the pilots a visual idea of the damage.

Among the towns raided were the industrial centers of Mannheim, Frankfurt and Karlsruhe.
