The Cass City Livestock Club was awarded second place with a group of three Shorthorns in the 4-H class and seventh in the open class.

While the club did not have as extensive a showing this year as last at the state fair, Willis Campbell, club adviser, is of the opinion that the total winnings will be approximately as great.

140 Attended Striffler-Benkelman Reunion Held on Labor Day

The Striffler-Benkelman reunion, held in the woods of the John Striffler Estate, northeast of Cass City, on Labor Day, attracted an unusually large number of members of the two families. About 140 were present for the bounteous dinner.

Mrs. E. W. Kercher conducted a memorial service for members of the families who had passed away during the year. Mrs. O. W. Nique acted as master of ceremonies and in Major Bowes style introduced the participants in the afternoon program. Donald Buehly gave a recitation; Richard Joos, a vocal solo; Mrs. George Kolb, a reading; piccolo selections, Charles Kercher, Jr.; Martha Ann Striffler, a vocal solo; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Joos, a duet; Mrs. Samuel Benkelman, a reading, "I Remember."

After the program, some of the "in-laws" were asked how they were related to either one of the two families and their replies were both interesting and humorous.

Rev. Roy J. Striffler told in an interesting "stump style" speech the history of the Striffler family.

Beautiful bouquets were presented to Mrs. Rose Joos, 86, the oldest member present; to Judith Ann Helwig, 18 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Helwig, the youngest member of the clan; to the William Quigley family for having the largest family present; Turn to page 5, please.

School Enrollment in Cass City Shows a Loss of Fifty Defense Work in City Plants Accounts for the Decrease in High School.

The average elementary school has shown a falling off in attendance in late years, but not until this school year has that been a tendency in the lower grades in Cass City. Compared with last year, the kindergarten and first six grades show a loss this week of 31 pupils, mostly in the kindergarten department.

High school attendance on the other hand has increased in most schools in previous years. That, too, has decreased in the local school this term, due in great part to defense work and big wages in city plants. Many older boys and girls in farm families have been attracted by the wages in defense plants with the result, in several cases, that younger brothers and sisters are kept out of school to help with farm work.

The senior high school shows a decrease of 21 in its enrollment, but the junior high has two more pupils this term.

The enrollment at the opening of school for three years is printed in the following table:

	'39-'40	'40-'41	'41-'42

State Financial Structure Is Becoming Clouded

Michigan's Revenue Boom for State Spending May Soon Come to An End.

By Gene Alleman in the Michigan Mirror.

Lansing — Michigan's revenue boom for state spending may soon come to an end.

While state officials are wary about prognostications in these days of overnight defense commands from Washington, the state financial structure is becoming clouded. Here are the reasons:

1. Curtailment of production of automobiles, projected to be 26.5 per cent for September, October and November and likely to be 50 per cent for the 1942 model year.

2. Curtailment of easy credit. It's 15 to 33 1/3 per cent down for many commodities, if you can get them at all.

3. Curtailment of gasoline consumption. Eastern states have been undergoing an emergency remedy for gasoline shortage (the latter being caused solely by lack of transportation) whereby gasoline stations are open from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m. and a blanket 10 per cent reduction is made in wholesale bulk deliveries. Although the rumor could not be verified, Midwest dealers including those in Michigan have been advising customers to expect similar restrictions here early in the fall.

4. Curtailment in production of non-defense goods in certain industries which are dependent on supplies essential for national defense. If the shortage of supply becomes acute—and that stage is rapidly developing—then defense orders will get the right-of-way and non-defense goods must wait.

Such priorities are already causing production delays for many non-defense items—such as furniture, refrigerators, washing machines, stokers and so forth.

In a period of unusual prosperity, a seller's market in fact, it is a paradox that fattened pocketbooks cannot buy some commodities at any price.

Put them all together, as the old ballad goes, and it spells one thing: Turn to page 6, please.

Today Is Anniversary of Big Fire of '81

Just 60 years ago today, on September 5, 1881, the Thumb of Michigan was visited by its worst forest fire with the loss of many homes and farm buildings and with untold suffering by many of its citizens. The Enterprise, Cass City's first newspaper, was established the same week and a few days after the fire subsided, in a paper dated September 8, 1881, the editors, Berry Bros., covered the story. Part of the fire article is reproduced in the following paragraphs:

"We write amid smoke and cinders of the most terribly ruinous fire that ever visited the Huron peninsula of Michigan.

"Ten years ago a conflagration swept through this region leaving in its wake a charred and blackened country, but with all its hideous terrors, it was not so terrible in its destruction of property and life as the fire of this week, for the very good reason that there was Turn to page 8, please.

H. L. Bond Sacrificed His Life in a Futile Attempt to Rescue Sister from Waters of Lake Michigan.

Roberta Bond, 28, was drowned in the lake surf at Frankfort Sunday at 11:55 a. m. and her brother, Hubert Lee Bond, 22, met death in the same manner after he had leaped into the water in an effort to save the life of his sister. Both are children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bond of Cass City.

The two were standing on the breakwater watching a glider meet when the force of a big wave threw Miss Bond from the north wall of the breakwater and she fell backwards into the water. She swam about 100 feet to a rock. Hubert Bond had reached his sister and was hanging with her to the rock when another wave covered them. When the water receded they had disappeared. The body of the young woman was recovered Monday forenoon and that of the young man was not found until about seven o'clock Wednesday evening.

The two young people had been visiting their sister, Mrs. Michael Shadko, at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Shadko at Beulah. They had come to Frankfort, on the east shore of Lake Michigan, that morning. Mrs. Shadko was some distance away from her brother and sister when the accident occurred. Waves in a heavy sea go to extreme heights and attain great force when they strike the breakwater walls.

Both Roberta and Hubert Lee Bond were born on the farm of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bond, in Greenleaf Township, the former on September 26, 1912, and Hubert on July 20, 1919. Both attended Cass City High School. Roberta was graduated in 1930 and Hubert with the Class of 1937. Miss Bond resided with her parents here and her brother was employed as a defense worker by the Fisher Body Corporation in Detroit.

Left to mourn their untimely death are the parents, two sisters, Mrs. Michael Shadko and Mrs. George J. Sweet, both of Detroit, and a brother, Charles E. Bond, Jr., of Lapeer.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Wendling Hastings at the Presbyterian Church here this (Friday) afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be made in Elkland Cemetery.

Bet on Weather? Not in Bean Field
Michigan bean growers, 40,000 of them, must be fairly good gamblers considering the hazards of the weather, the insects and diseases and the uncertainties of the consumer market.

One bit of advice to bean growers is not to attempt to outguess the weather. H. C. Rather, head of Michigan State College crops department, does not set himself up as a gambling specialist, but he says it's an easy 6 to 1 bet that in an average year a pulled bean crop will get wet in the five days it is left to cure.

Dry weather in July has materially reduced bean crop prospects in Michigan this year. The crop is to receive federal government price support. The next big bet, then, is with the weather at harvest time in September and October.

Growers who cure beans in small piles or windrows are betting the quality of the beans against the possibilities of rain. According to Rather, a betting commissioner would figure these odds for September and October in Michigan:
No rain any one day—2 to 1.
No rain 2 days in succession—1 to 1.2.
No rain 3 days in successions—1 to 2.4.
No rain 4 days in succession—1 to 4.1.
No rain 5 days in succession—1 to 6.6.
No rain for a week straight—1 to 16.

In other words Rather estimates the odds are better than 6 to 1 that any pulled bean crop in the field 5 days will get wet, even money it will get a rain of at least a quarter inch and about 1 to 6 it will get a soaker of an inch or more.

Wet harvests prevailed in 1936. The average pick or culling was 10 per cent. In 1939 half as much rain fell, half as often, the pick averaged 2 pounds in a hundred. Farmers using small field stacks built on a straw base around a steel fence post eliminate the gamble on rains and even in wet harvest seasons get good quality with low pick.

Cutting Red Tape
When the representative of a foreign power is presented to the President of the United States, it is customary for the two dignitaries to exchange the text of their little speeches beforehand. The reading of these speeches is a formal procedure, marked by stiffness and ceremony. Once, as an envoy was about to begin his little talk, President Roosevelt restrained him with a friendly wave of his hand. "Mr. Minister," he said, "I've read your remarks and you've read mine, so suppose we dispense with the speeches and have a friendly chat." The dumbfounded diplomat looked up startled at FDR; broke into a grin and sat down.

Home Remedies Often Prevent Finding Cause

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN you have a headache you may take aspirin, phenacetin, caffeine or other pain-relieving drug. In a short time the pain has "disappeared" or is so "dulled" that you are not in any distress.

Similarly you may get a pain in the stomach which you think is due to gas and a half teaspoon of baking soda may give relief.

Perhaps you have attacks of dizziness with nausea and vomiting.

Thinking this is due to sluggish liver and gall bladder, you take one or two teaspoons of Epsom salts.

Any itching anywhere in the body is treated with a solution of baking soda or the application of some ointment.

Any ache or pain in joints or muscles is treated by heat, together with some pain relieving drug.

Your physician is not likely to criticize any of the above methods of treatment except taking Epsom salts or other purgative for the pain in the abdomen. The abdominal pain might be appendicitis, and taking a purge is the cause of most deaths from this ailment.

In other words, the taking of a "home" remedy occasionally is not likely to do much harm or hide any underlying ailment. Where the harm does occur, however, is the taking of a drug regularly or often for some ailment because the drug relieves the symptoms for the time being.

Drug Obscures the Reason.

Why is the taking of a drug regularly likely to do harm? There must be some reason for the headache, the pain in abdomen, the nausea and vomiting, the intense itching. If a drug is taken regularly and relief obtained the cause of the ailment is not sought, and the condition may become progressively worse, even dangerous. Thus the headache may be due to anemia or high blood pressure, pain in stomach to ulcer, pain in abdomen to gall bladder disease, or constipation.

The point, then, is that while the use of home remedies "occasionally" should cause little or no harm symptoms which occur regularly or even irregularly but often should not be treated with pain-killing drugs. A visit to your physician and dentist to find the cause of the symptoms is the sensible thing to do.

Drug Addicts Not Physical Weaklings

ONE of the impressions of drug addicts many of us have, is that they are thin, undersized, pale individuals. And we are apparently justified in this belief because of the pale appearance and "hollow eyes" present in so many of them. It is only natural, therefore, that we think of them as becoming addicted to drugs because they are weak physically, even if not weak mentally.

It may come as a surprise, therefore, to learn that a study of the body build of drug addicts shows that they are not weak, delicate individuals but are of normal build.

Dr. R. R. Brown, in Public Health Reports, Washington, D. C., reports the results of his studies of 400 native white addicts following their admission to the United States penitentiary annex, Fort Leavenworth, Kan. Every case was definitely proved to be a drug addict, not just an "occasional" user of the drug. Measurements were taken of the unclothed patients and a record made of appearances.

It was found that these drug addicts were not of the weak, thin, undersized type, but were slightly above the average in both height and weight.

Under treatment at the institution, there was an average gain in weight of about 6½ pounds, after 5½ months.

What does the above teach us? The lesson for all of us is that the temptation to use drugs is not due to "gross constitutional weakness" of the body. It is something wrong in our character or makeup that makes us want to use a drug to put us in a dream state so that we do not have to face difficulties and trials.

Jackets! They Play Important Role in the Fashion Picture

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ACCORDING to fashion's say-so, you must be smartly jacketed everywhere you go. Your play suits, your daytime ensembles, evening dresses and afternoon frocks are all supposed to have complementary jackets, with a few "extras" to be held in readiness to report for duty at the beck and call of time and occasion. So no matter how many jackets you have they will be none too many to include in a fashionable wardrobe.

In a program of interchangeable jackets the secret's out, as to how to go victoriously through the mid-season stretch between summer and actual fall with "flying colors" so far as keeping a well-dressed appearance is concerned. Every woman wants to maintain a refreshing up-to-the-moment look in summer hangover apparel until autumn styles are set. This is quite a "trick" in the art of dressing. Interchangeable jackets that flaunt "the latest" in styling details is an answer.

With the thought in mind that the attractiveness of the jacket fashions pictured might inspire you in a sewing spree venture, we are especially calling your attention to the several pen and ink sketches, selected because the numbers are really very easy to make. You can buy up such pretty remnants at this time of year, so reasonable and with the investment of a little time and effort you will find yourself the happy possessor of jackets that, ingeniously interchanged, will set new tempo for your frocks in keeping with every move of fashion.

Referring to the pen-and-ink sketches, the ones at top to right and left, are of the casual type for town and travel wear. For these remnants of tweed will work up to good advantage and if you want to give them a "last word" touch, embroider a big scroll monogram somewhere about them—on pocket or sleeve or some other strategic point.

Outstanding on the season's program is the sleeveless long-torso jacket, known as the jerkin. It is the schoolgirl's idol and adored by sportswomen. The jerkin sketched at lower right is easy to make, easy to wear! Use bright corduroy or suede cloth. Jerkin patterns are available anywhere they sell patterns.

Coolie coats, the popular choice for evening wear, are ever so easy to make for they require little or no fitting. The "coolie" sketched at lower left is a "perfect little treasure." The material used in this instance is prettily embroidered in quaint little posies. Handsome brocade or metal cloth yields beautifully to the coolie treatment. Women of discriminating taste love coolie wraps made of fine wool or silk crepe in subtle pastel greens, violet shades, or Chinese reds. The newest thing is to embellish them with a restricted amount of sequin or bead embroidery. Note the model in the lower oval inset. In this instance the sheer crepe is in a soft stone blue, the embroidery done in silver threads and beadwork.

Accent Is on Luxury Blouse Type for Fall

The blouse program as mapped out for fall and winter will use much luxurious fabric. Pastel metal cloth made up in classic simplicity is one of the happy outlooks. Matching the pastel of the metal weave with crepe in identical tone presents endless possibilities for achieving charming effect. In some instances a bit of the crepe used for the skirt is repeated in stylizing accents on the metal blouse.

Wide use will be made of deep-toned satins and they will be made up similar to the manner suggested above for metal weaves. Silk jersey is also a favored medium. Used in vivid reds, greens or blues to wear with black suits, the new jersey blouses are stunning.

Drastic Changes Seen

In New Fall Silhouette Here are changes you will find as the new silhouettes make their debut this fall. There will be very few if any set-in sleeves. The trend is to deep armhole effects in dolman sleeves, cut all in one with the bodice or blouse top. Bulk above the waistline and slimming of skirts is noted.

Everything is being done to accent lower waistlines, especially with inset belts. Beltless dresses are very new in style stressing sophisticated simplicity.

There will be hosts of pleated fashions that emerge from long-torso lines with pleats manipulated to retain slenderized lines.

Chiffon House Coats

Torrid days call for cool apparel, a need which is filled in very lovely house coats made of pastel chiffons. You can bring the summer to a very happy conclusion wearing one of the very lovely chiffon creations.

COMMUNITY MOURNS.
The untimely deaths of Roberta and Hubert L. Bond at Frankfort
Sunday has brought a cloud of sorrow not only to the immediate family but to the community as well. The bravery of the brother in making the effort to save the life of his sister is highly commendable and universal sorrow is expressed at its futile outcome.
Sincere sympathy is extended to the family in the loss of the two fine young people of their household.

CONGRATULATIONS.
The community, of course, anticipated that the youthful members of the Cass City Livestock Club would "perform" as usual in their annual trek to the Michigan State Fair with their livestock exhibits so the article on the first page of the Chronicle this week enumerating the reserve championships and other high honors won is no surprise. Congratulations are extended to members of the club, their parents, and their adviser.

Funeral of Victim of Drowning Accident Held at Caro

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Parrish of Cass City attended the funeral of the latter's sister, Mildred I. Brock, 12, at Caro Saturday.

A playmate, Shirley Anne Groat, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Groat, of St. Clair, were drowned Wednesday evening, August 27, in Pine River on the farm of Mildred's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brock, two miles west of St. Clair. It is thought that the girls stepped into a deep hole in the river bed while bathing.

Kenneth Brock, 23, brother of the older girl, who said he had been bathing with the girls earlier, was nearby when he heard their call for help, but was unable to swim. He ran for assistance but the girls were out of sight when the father and son arrived at the river.

Funeral services for Mildred Brock were held at 2:00 p. m. on Saturday in the Nazarene Church in Caro. Burial was in the Caro Cemetery.

She is survived by her parents; three brothers, Glenn Brock, Pontiac, Melvin and Kenneth Brock, both of St. Clair; two sisters, Mrs. Steven Parrish, Cass City and Mrs. Melvin Gibbs, Caro; and her grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Guilds, Pontiac.

GOLDEN-RIPE JUICY PEACHES FOR LUSCIOUS JELLY
(See Recipes Below)

IT'S CANNING TIME

With food taking on a greater than ever importance under the national defense program, you'll want to make a thoughtful selection for stocking a shelf of extra good jams and jellies for later use. When winter comes you'll glow with deep satisfaction over your canning efforts of the summer.

Since a record breaking peach crop, the third greatest in the history of the country, is expected, plan to put up many, many jars of this golden ripe fruit, not only as jam, jelly, or marmalade, but as conserve combined with other fruits.

*Ripe Peach Jelly.

(Makes 6 medium sized glasses)
2 1/2 cups juice
3 1/2 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
To prepare juice, pit and crush thoroughly (do not peel) about 2 1/2 pounds fully ripe peaches. Add 1 cup water, bring to a boil and simmer, covered 10 minutes. Add a few peach pits, crushed, to mixture while cooking. Place fruit in a jelly cloth bag and squeeze out juice.

Place the juice over a hot fire, and add fruit pectin. Mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Add the sugar, stirring constantly. Bring to a fully rolling boil, boil hard 1 minute, remove from fire, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

*Peach Marmalade.

(Makes 11 small glasses)
4 cups prepared fruit
7 1/2 cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel off the yellow rind of 1 medium orange and 1 medium lemon with sharp knife, leaving as much of the white part on the fruit itself. Put rinds through food chopper twice. Add 1/4 cup water and 1/4 teaspoon soda, bring to a boil and simmer covered 10 minutes. Cut off the tight skin of the peeled fruit and slip the pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice and the juice of an additional lemon to the rind, simmer, covered 20 minutes.

Peel 1 1/2 pounds of ripe peaches. Pit, grind or chop fine. Combine with fruit. Mix sugar and fruit, place in a large kettle. Bring to a boil, boil gently 5 minutes. Stir constantly while boiling. Remove from fire, stir in bottled pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly and paraffin at once.

Preserved pears make a good accompaniment either for the meat course or for muffins and rolls served at luncheon. You'll like:

*Pear Chips.

8 pounds pears
4 pounds sugar
1/2 pound ginger (preserved)
4 lemons

Wipe pears, remove stems, quarter and core. Cut into small pieces. Add sugar and ginger and let stand overnight. Add lemons cut in small pieces, rejecting seeds and cook slowly 3 hours. Put into glasses.

LYNN SAYS:

To test when jelly is done, dip in a clean spoon and hold it high. When the last drop sheets or flakes off the side of the spoon, remove from the fire. Another way which I like too, is to see if two drops drip off the side of the spoon simultaneously. If they do, the jelly will jell.

Fresh fruit which is ripe should be used for jams, jellies, conserves, marmalades, and preserves. Remove any spots or bruises as they may cause your whole batch to spoil. Cook them as short a time as possible so they will retain their lovely colors and look as though they were brought from garden to glass jars.

Pick a rainy day or a day before you start canning to look over your equipment and get it clean for use. Dirty jars should be boiled in soda water and washed in soap suds. Boil old lids 20 minutes in soda water using 1 teaspoon soda to 1 quart of water.

Vitamin A

Vitamin A helps body grow, throw off cold infection, prevent certain eye diseases. Daily requirements: Pint of milk, one or two eggs, half ounce butter, vegetables like broccoli, brussels sprouts, carrots, sweet potatoes. (The deeper the color of the vegetable, the more vitamin A.) Fairly stable. Not readily destroyed in cooking, remains in frozen and canned foods. Can be stored in the body so a temporary lack is not immediately evident.

Smartest Accessory

White, crisp, ruffled embroidered muslin curtains—very full—are the smartest accessory for a room in Southern Colonial mahogany. The same petticoat idea may carry over for lamp shades and dressing table stool.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

'Communist Plot' Is Charged by Vichy Following Shooting Attack on Laval; British-Russian Forces Occupy Iran; Senate Launches Gas Shortage Probe

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Some of the 11,000 workers in the Kearny N. J., shipyards are pictured as they went back to work after the U. S. navy had taken over supervision of the plant. Producing defense shipping, the yards had been closed for 18 days because of a C.I.O. strike.

LAVAL: And a Purge

In Paris three men were guillotined as the first action in a purge of anti-Vichy elements, following the shooting of Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat, French leaders advocating closer collaboration with Germany. Special courts convicted the assassins and it was declared that the attack on Laval was but part of a vast "Communist conspiracy."

IRAN: An Occupation

That the Russo-British action against Iran would be virtually an occupation rather than a full-fledged invasion was seen almost immediately after the troop movement started.

Two things were early indications of this fact, first the sending by British transport planes of small detachments of troops far into the interior to protect British industrial outposts; second, the fact that points like Bandar-Shahpur, which could have been bitterly defended, fell at once to the invaders.

In fact, it was apparent that while the Iran government might have been under the Nazi thumb because of the presence in the country of hordes of fifth columnists, it was not a heavily implanted thumb, and within the government itself was apparently enough friendly strength to create an early offer of peace.

That Russia and Britain would regard this peace offer as acceptable only if they were given control of key points, was obvious. The refusal of the Iranians to expel the Germans, as demanded by Britain and Russia, was Nazi-inspired, it is true, but the decision to offer to expel them after the invasion was under way, and the Nazi bluff had been called, was entirely too pat to suit the invaders.

A glance at the map was sufficient to show the tactical importance of Iran in any defense of India and the Middle East, and collaboration with Russia from the great centers of British supply would demand some point of land contact.

Also the oil establishments on both sides of the Caspian sea demanded protection, and the position of Iran demanded control of that area in order to accomplish this.

The Berlin reaction to the Iranian adventure of the Soviet and Britain was not expressed until the campaign was nearly over, and then it was called "a classical case of brutal attack on a neutral state which had done everything to prevent war and respect the interests of third parties..."

GAS: Senate Probe

It was forecast that Leon Henderson, price administrator, was contemplating setting a ceiling price on gasoline in the East, as reports of profiteering by individual filling stations poured in as the shortage, real or imaginary, began to be felt.

The senate undertook an investigation to answer these questions: 1. Is the shortage real or imaginary? 2. Is there an organized effort to confuse the public? 3. Was the country justified in transferring 50 tankers from the gulf-eastern trade to Britain? 4. Are the tank cars being used to their fullest ability to overcome the shortage?

At the same time the President had signed an order giving the right of eminent domain to a company which was to build by December a 1,200 mile pipeline from the central southern oil fields to the southeastern refineries.

The mayor of Atlanta, Ga., showed how much confusion there was by informing the oil administration that the oil companies told him there was plenty of fuel oil and plenty of gasoline and plenty of transportation for Atlanta's needs. He asked: "Why, therefore, should Atlanta be made the victim of propaganda?"

RUSSIA: Still Fighting

Despite the loss of Dniepropetrovsk, with or without the huge power dam, and in spite of repeated German communiques which announced the continued successes of the Nazi arms at the north and south, there was every evidence that the Soviet was continuing to fight, and to battle with an organized army of sorts.

It was one thing for the German-Finnish army to report itself 35 miles from Leningrad and another thing to explain the lack of announcements of airplane damage to the city of any extent.

The Germans also reported advances south of the city, yet these were averaging eight to nine miles a day, as against the 30 or 40 miles daily gained in the battles of France and Poland.

The Russians reported a fierce battle for the mastery of the skies over Leningrad with the issue in doubt. The city, they said, was still unhit. Moscow also elicited the breathless praise of the British mission for its defense against German air raiders. There was every indication that the Russian strength and ability had been underestimated both by Hitler and the rest of the world.

It was true that the third month of the war found the whole left bank of the Dnieper in German hands, but there was evidence that the Germans had planned to conquer what they sought of Russia in one month, and then to offer peace to Britain. The peace offer was still in the offing—so was the German drive on Russia, as far as the objectives were concerned. Any serious capitulation on the part of the Soviet seemed as far distant as ever.

The Russians had reported a daring adventure on the central front, the sending of a well-equipped army in a southerly direction, to attempt to cut the German lines at Gomel, and to trap the entire advance force. No definite report was forthcoming as to the outcome of this effort, but British hints sent out over the wire, after bright hopes had been entertained for nine days, during which some 20 villages were retaken, finally seemed to show a growing belief that the effort had failed.

JAPAN: Again Storm Center

The official Japanese pronouncement that it would consider the shipping of oil to Vladivostok by Britain, the United States or the Dutch East Indies an unfriendly act again placed Nippon in the center of a storm, especially as this was considered Japan's official answer to the warnings of Churchill.

Russia's answer to Japan was that she would consider it distinctly unfriendly act if Japan interfered in any way with Russia's commerce through her principal Siberian port. The Russians called to the attention of Japan that the material thus received was not in any way to be used as a reservoir for any attack on the Japanese, but solely to defend herself against the invasion of Germany.

Any child could see the truth of this statement, but the more that Russia was on the defensive in the west, the bolder Japan was bound to be.

Japan, however much she might be worried by possible British-American-Dutch military and naval action against her, could not be expected to lose much sleep over Russia, which she had whipped in 1904, and which now was embroiled in a war to the death with the Nazis.

But if Russia's attitude was to be actively backed up by Britain was another picture, and if the United States was to become active in a British-Japanese war, then the picture was still different again.

To most observers, Japan seemed to be feeling her way.

'Return Ticket'

Here are at least three refugees that were lucky enough to have a "return ticket" to England. After a stay of a year in the United States, these three British children (left to right) Keith Padin, Valerie Collins and Colin Radin, are shown as they appeared in the Pan-American Clipper plane in which they were flying back to England.

ARMY:

Praise From Stimson

Secretary Stimson gave the army a pat on the back when he said those troops maneuvering in the Pacific zone, which he inspected, were far, far ahead in their training of any of the divisions sent to France in the first World war.

Stimson and General Marshall looked them over, and expressed pleasure at the job being done with the West coast troops. The general said: "The army has shown tremendous improvement since the maneuvers in April. The object is to permit soldiers to make all the mistakes when they are not too costly and can be corrected."

He indicated that the army will not be caught napping when the time comes to expand its numbers again. He said:

"Camp sites are being selected and preliminary surveys made for 20 cantonments. If the need arises we shall be in a position to start building immediately. If it doesn't, we can file the plans away."

ICELAND: News at Last

The ban of the government on news from Iceland was lifted, and returning correspondents began picturing to Americans what life is like on the newest frontier to the east.

One of them described the country as "a fishy smell surrounded by piles of cinders," and quoted the first soldiers he talked to as saying "it ain't much compared to the U.S.A."

The town of Reykjavik, they reported, has two movies, but both have their ticket windows closed at 3 p. m.—sold out. However, the Americans had seen all the pictures before, so they didn't mind—much.

The only refreshing beverage was beer—1 per cent. The stores open at 1 a. m. and close at 6 p. m. and at noon Saturdays. The girls, the American soldiers reported, were like the climate—cold!

Yet the economic conditions, the wealth of the people, and the character of the buildings were uniformly reported to be good. Most of the houses and buildings in Reykjavik were said to be of sturdy reinforced concrete and would have done credit to any modern American city.

TAXES:

Still in Making

It was evident that the huge tax bill, which many thought was "all set for passage" after the house got through with it, paring the expected $3,350,000,000 down to $3,206,000,000, was still in the making.

For the senate, more co-operative with Capitol Hill, was quick to recommend a widening of the income tax base, bringing about 7,000,000 more taxpayers into the fold, and later engaged itself with a move to raise corporate taxes as well.

The income tax recommendations alone, if carried out and put through the house in conference later, would increase the total amount to be raised to $3,500,000,000, and many expected still more to be tacked on.

What would be the reception of these ideas in the more recalcitrant house was difficult to foresee, but that there would be bound to be some increase over the amount set down by the lower chamber seemed fairly obvious.

The main thing was that the tax bill, generally believed to be ready for passage, still faced rehashing before a final vote.

FAST HOP: Atlantic, 7 1/2 Hours

A new achievement for the high-powered, four-motored Liberator bombers made by Consolidated for the British was reported when the company announced that one had flown the Atlantic, 2,350 miles from Newfoundland to Ireland, in 7 1/2 hours.

The details of the flight were sent to the company by the British ministry for aircraft production, and were obtained from the navigator.

Concluded from first page.

LESS TAX REVENUE in the next few months. And that, ladies and gentlemen, could easily give Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner and the state legislature a financial headache of amazing size. We're not forecasting that it will develop. Your guess is as good as ours. It just COULD happen!

Automobile Revenue

Take the automobile situation, for example.

Here is something right at home. It vitally affects the welfare of hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens.

In addition to inflicting temporary unemployment upon some automobile workers, curtailment of automobile production will mean a decrease in sales tax revenue. Recent reports of the sales tax department show that Michigan's state treasury has been receiving about one-fourth of all sales tax revenue from purchase of new automobiles. The 3 per cent levy is bringing around 73 millions annually; one-fourth of that is 18 millions.

Cut automobile sales one-fourth to one-half, and you can figure quickly what it will mean to the state budget—$4,500,000 to $9,000,000 less revenue.

Of course, there is no state sales tax on government orders. When you substitute tanks for automobiles, you substitute a non-productive tax product for one that helps to balance budgets and provide funds for old age pensions, library books and other deserving needs.

Installment

When Uncle Sam decided that we were on the verge of getting inflation drunk on easy credit, he knocked the props out from the "$1 down, $1 week" type of consumer spending.

Now, if you want to buy a refrigerator, washing machine, electric ironer, stove, air conditioner or radio, and prefer to spend some of your future earnings for immediate use and enjoyment of such commodities, you must plunk down 20 per cent in cash before you sign the contract. The down payment on a furnace, stoker, oil burner or water heater must be 15 per cent.

And everytime someone signs an installment contract, the State of Michigan starts to collect 3 per cent sales tax on the total amount. Easy credit, together with easy money, boosted the sales tax total from 60 to 73 millions in 12 months. Where the tax total had been 46 millions six years ago, it soared to 73 millions in the past fiscal year ending June 30, 1941.

If credit curbs tend to reduce spending, then the immediate affect would be a decline in sales tax revenue. The long range affect might be something else, merely channeling consumer dollars into other fields. If you can't "afford" refrigerators, washing machines, radios and automobiles from the month's pay check (with respect to the larger down payment) then you may prefer to buy jewelry, clothing, food delicacies, sports equipment and other non-defense articles.

Business Week recently recorded these gains in sales for 1941, compared with 1940: Automobiles, 37 per cent; jewelry, 28; household appliances, 23; furniture, 22; building materials, 22; men's clothing, 19; shoes, 19; women's ready-to-year, 12; drugs, 9, and groceries, 5.

Gasoline Revenue

By constitutional amendment, the state's tax on gasoline must be used for highway building and maintenance.

Hence, the possibility of gasoline rationing does not affect the state budget except as it might curtail the activity of local and state highway departments.

But we're all interested tremendously in good roads. Here are some comparative facts concerning gasoline taxes:

1937.....	$29,375,000
1938.....	27,679,000
1939.....	29,788,000
1940.....	32,392,000

According to the Michigan Petroleum Industries' Committee, gasoline consumption has been running about 15 per cent ahead of last year as shown by collection of taxes. June collection for May consumption was $3,332,000, a revenue gain of $384,000 or 13 per cent. May ran more than 15 per cent. July's consumption, based on collections in August, should reach an all-time high. Automobile travel at the Straits of Mackinac, for example, is running far, far ahead of last year.

Priorities

Because such essential commodities as steel, aluminum, copper and silk are being diverted from consumer-good industries, business is in a restrictive phase for the moment. Demand for these commodities is far ahead of existing supply. Hence, the necessity of priorities.

Business indexes have been declining for three successive weeks.

It is a temporary period of adjustments, while the demand for non-durable goods—wool, cotton and rayon, for example—are hitting new peaks. Department store sales have been as high as 40 per cent ahead of last year.

Automobile financing in May, 1941, was nearly 50 per cent above May, 1940.

It is a novel situation.

State's Finances

Michigan's state budget was predicted on two-year continuation of the defense boom.

It assumed that revenues will be maintained at 1941 levels.

Appropriations made by the legislature and approved by the governor call for an increase of 13 millions during the current year for comparable items in 1939-40. Even on this basis the budget, as originally drafted, contemplated a surplus of $4,500,000 for 1941-42 and $5,100,000 for 1942-43. If revenues were up to expectation, the two-year surplus of $9,000,000 could be used to reduce the deficit, estimated August 1 to be $14,411,000.

Budget Director Leo Nowicki is said to be apprehensive that curtailment of automobiles, an end of easy credit, and the bottlenecks in priorities may combine to reduce sales tax revenues and thus throw the budget out of kilter, at least to the extent of not reducing the deficit during boom years.

"The revenue picture looks brighter than it did sometime ago," said Mr. Nowicki, "despite the prospect that we will experience a decline in revenue in the immediate future. Many men are now at work for the first in years and there is more buying power available."

Payrolls

State payrolls have consistently climbed during both Republican and Democratic administrations, and Michigan's so-called bi-partisan government is no exception. Payrolls were $1,428,000 higher for the first six months of 1941 than they were over a similar period during the Fitzgerald-Dickinson regime. Furthermore, new civil service salary scales will add $1,900,000. Thomas J. Wilson, civil service director, is threatening to discharge 2,000 to 2,500 workers, but so far the economy has been confined to newspaper headlines. Old-time observers at Lansing wag their heads and smile.

This is the financial situation at Lansing today. Since the legislature is still technically in session, Republicans may be able to justify further the unparalleled adjournment by "coming to the rescue" if and when state tax revenues start skidding.

It could happen.

Running Water is "CHEAP HELP" for the Farm

"To pump all the water for our stock would mean a good many hours of hard work," says Mr. Lewis Drott, Geiger Road, Monroe, Michigan.

"Six dollars' worth of electricity will pump all the water we can use in a year. No farmer could get cheaper help on his farm. And our stock tanks are always full of good drinking water."

Investigate running water for your farm. Compare the cost with the benefits in time and labor saved. You may find that you cannot afford to be without an automatic water system.

PROMPT SERVICE

"Hang it, boy!" exclaimed the guest, as the youthful assistant in the Texas hotel came bounding in on him without knocking, "haven't you got any manners?"

"Of course I rang," asked the boy.

"Didn't you ring three times?"

"It may have been three, as I was in a hurry for shaving water, but that doesn't excuse you for bursting in the door."

"I'm sorry," replied the boy as he backed out, "but it's one ring for the porter, two for the boy, and three for a gun, and when a guest rings for a gun in this hotel, the orders are to get it to him before the other fellow can apologize!"

Foolish Questions

The lawyer became somewhat nettled in his cross-examination, but the insignificant-looking little woman in the witness-box didn't.

He snapped: "You say you had no education, but you answered my questions smartly enough."

The witness replied meekly: "You don't have to be a scholar to answer silly questions."

Son—I don't know.

Father—Why don't you know?

Son—Because in our school we do all our arithmetic in oranges.

Lot of Difference

FIND 19 PEACH VIRUS INFECTIONS

Nineteen specific locations in which the mysterious "X" disease or virus of peach trees has been identified include only one area near Metamora in Lapeer county in which peach trees have been attacked. The other 18 infections have been spotted on the alternate host, the chokecherry. Identifications have been made by inspectors of the Michigan State Department of Agriculture and by plant pathologists of the Michigan State College. Orchard operators are being encouraged to spray and kill chokecherries to prevent further spread to peach trees. Insert shows ragged or "Lion tail" effects of virus on peach foliage—a distinctive symptom.

Budgets and Babies Viewed as 'Career'

'41 Coeds Regard Marriage As Being 'Major Job.'

COLUMBIA, MO.—Budgets and babies stand high on the list of the American college girl, 1941 model, taking precedence over careers and jobs.

This was revealed in a survey conducted here among students of Stephens college and high school seniors to determine what these girls seek for themselves when their college years have ended.

According to the survey 99 per cent of several hundred girls who answered the questionnaire regard marriage and raising families as a major career. Only 11 per cent of the girls thought it advisable to work after marriage unless economic reasons made it necessary, while 71 per cent said they thought it more important to manage their homes efficiently and to raise healthy children.

The survey was a part of the activities of the "marriage problems" course of Stephens, designed by President James M. Wood to equip students to meet those problems which will confront them as wives and mothers in one of the world's only remaining democracies.

"As far as Stephens is concerned," said Mr. Wood, "we feel that one of the most important things we can accomplish for the girls who are our students is to prepare them as citizens of a democracy for the unprecedented problems ahead. Our entire curriculum, seeking that objective, is keyed to the development of the well-rounded girl and woman."

"Only through the training of the 72 per cent of mothers who must rear children and maintain their homes on less than $30 a week can we hope to maintain our present form of government," Mr. Wood concluded.

'Enemy' Astronomers Are Now Exchanging Papers

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—The barrier of war is being removed for astronomers of England and Germany by an exchange service established by the American Astronomical society, according to Bart J. Bok of Harvard observatory, chairman of a committee which serves as a medium for the exchange of data.

Scientists in the United States, England, Germany, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium, and Poland, Dr. Bok revealed, are now regularly exchanging astronomical papers.

At least once a month the American committee, which has mailing headquarters at Harvard Observatory, sends copies of four astronomical magazines, together with abstracts and papers from various observatories to astronomers in Leyden, Berlin, Brussels, Paris, Florence and London. These astronomers attend to the circulation of the literature to interested scientists in their own countries.

Arrangements for the exchange were begun in September and have been in effect since December, Dr. Bok said, but it was not until this month that the Royal Astronomical Society of England accepted the invitation of the American committee to join the exchange.

Will Use Corncocks to Make Munitions of War

LOS ANGELES.—A process has been devised by Francis E. Wilkinson of Glendale to utilize corncocks in the manufacture of munitions for war.

To employ the process a plant is to be built near Missouri Valley, Iowa, which in the fall is expected to start converting 40 tons of corncocks a day into nitro-cellulose, a base for explosives, and into a synthetic rubber which can be fused with natural rubber in making tires.

Mr. Wilkinson, who is supervising completion of a cob-processing laboratory in Iowa, intends eventually to use annually for defense products 26,000,000 bushels of cobs which otherwise would be burned as waste.

Army Buck Private Is Given Lesson in Tactics

CHANUTE FIELD, ILL.—A lanky recruit shuffled up to a group of officers and drawled: "Which one of you guys is the major?"

The major's wrath soared to the stratosphere while he delivered this lecture: "Your commanding officer has evidently been remiss in training you. Report to him the first thing in the morning and tell him that I said you should be properly instructed in how to approach an officer."

The rookie reported the next day to his commanding officer—the same major.

Ethiopia's Last Weapon Stinging Blow to Italy

LONDON.—Sylvia Pankhurst, British feminist, said recently that the Ethiopians used a "secret weapon" against the Italians—bees.

She said the native "patriots" in the recent reconquest of the country loosed swarms of bees on Italian camps. While the Italians were swatting and fleeing, she said, the Ethiopians would dash in, seize Italian weapons and turn them on the former owners.

poor man in Sanilac, who fought fire until one of his arms was nearly burned off, returned to his home where his two children were nearly suffocated, and realizing that he could not save them both, had to choose which one to carry off with the arm he had left. He hesitated with bewilderment for a moment, and then as the hot flames were already blistering him, picked up the older child and escaped, while the younger was burned to a crisp.

Keeping Chestnut Color

To preserve the natural color of chestnut paneling, use a protective coating of white wax or white shellac. A thin coat of shellac followed, when dry, by a finishing coat of white wax, is recommended. Polish until the finish is as high as you desire. If you prefer a dull coat, use two thin coats of shellac, sandpapered down between coats.
