

East Dayton Man Accidentally Shot His Brother

Gilbert Bourdo Died as He Was About to Enter a Hospital at Caro.

Gilbert Bourdo, 19, was accidentally shot in the head by his brother, Daniel Henry Bourdo, 25, at their home a half mile west of East Dayton Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, and died as he was about to enter the Caro Community Hospital.

The two Bourdo brothers and their father, Leslie Bourdo, 59, were engaged in using apples as targets. As Miss Gertrude Bourdo, sister of the two brothers, and Jack McConn were walking toward the orchard, Daniel Bourdo turned to look at them, and in doing so, his gun was discharged accidentally. The bullet entered Gilbert Bourdo's head above the right ear.

In the excitement, there seemed to be a question of whether the brother's or the father's gun had fired the fatal shot. Sheriff Homer Hillaker took the two guns to a ballistic expert of the Detroit Police Department and there it was determined the bullet had come from the brother's gun, a .22-caliber rifle.

The injured man was taken to Caro and at the sheriff's office a physician was summoned, who recognizing the serious injuries inflicted, ordered the man taken to the hospital. Bourdo passed away when he arrived at the grounds at the hospital.

Miss Murray and John Neitzel Are Married at Gagetown

From Gagetown Correspondent.

Miss Margaret Jane Murray, daughter of Mrs. L. C. Purdy, and Mr. Frederick Neitzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Neitzel, of Detroit, were united in marriage at noon on September 6 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Purdy. Rev. Paul Albery was the officiating clergyman. They were attended by Gene Markert and Miss Charlene Leahy, both of Detroit. Vows were spoken before an embankment of cedars and gladioli arranged in the bay window.

The bride was dressed in a Burgundy velvet suit with air-blue accessories and the bridesmaid more air-blue velvet with Burgundy accessories.

Twenty-two guests were present at the wedding dinner served by Mrs. Dennis Rocheleau at the bride's home.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Neitzel, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joerin and daughter, Patricia, Mr. and Mrs. George Leahy and daughter, Patricia, all of Detroit; Miss Eleanor Reaume of Muskegon, and Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Purdy and daughter, Jean, of Saginaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Neitzel's wedding trip was through northern Michigan.

Mrs. M. L. Moore Surprised on Her 85th Birthday

Mrs. Alice Moore was completely surprised Friday evening when a number of her friends met at her home on South Seeger Street to help her celebrate her 85th birthday. The evening was spent in playing euchre and a potluck luncheon was served. Eighty-five years rest lightly on the shoulders of Mrs. Moore as she is unusually active and could well be taken for many years younger.

Alice Buckingham was born near Chicago, September 5, 1856, and moved with her parents when she was five years old to Ohio. The family settled on a farm near Kingston in 1867 and four years later she came to Cass City to live with her sister, Mrs. Charles Zinnecker.

When Miss Buckingham reached the age of 21 years, she went to Caseville where she conducted a millinery store for 13 years.

In 1891, she married M. L. Moore and three years later they moved to Cass City. Here Mr. Moore represented an express company as its agent. Mrs. Moore resumed her occupation of trimming and selling women's hats, conducting a millinery business here for 14 years.

While in her seventies, Mrs. Moore made several trips from Michigan to Texas and in her 83rd year she again visited relatives at Honey Grove, Texas, and each time she contemplated the trip with no hesitation or timidity.

Mrs. Moore has the reputation of being generous almost to a fault and a friend to everyone.

Football Season Opens Here September 19

The 1941 schedule of the Cass City High School's football team opens Friday, September 19. The Beecher School of Flint will send a team here to try their mettle with the local squad.

Following the opener, the schedule calls for contests with these teams:

September 26, Vassar, here.
October 3, Sandusky, there.
October 8, Caro, here.
October 17, Sebawaing, there.
October 24, Pigeon, here.
October 31, Marlette, there.
November 7, Bad Axe, here.
November 14, Harbor Beach, there.

Frutchey Bean Co. Erects Warehouse and Truck Hoist

Company Has a Building
Frontage of Nearly 600
Feet Along G. T. R. R.

The Frutchey Bean Company is erecting a warehouse, 40 by 24 feet in size, between their office building and their cloverseed warehouse. The new building will be used for general storage, principally to house beans and cloverseed.

Another improvement being made to their property next to the Grand Trunk Railway is the installation of a truck hoist and a bean pit. This will permit trucks to unload rapidly beans in bulk.

The Frutchey Company has nearly 600 feet of frontage of buildings along the railroad here. Four hundred thirty-nine feet are east of the railroad and include their office, a grain and a bean elevator, warehouses and coal sheds. On the west side of the tracks are coal sheds 62 feet long and a warehouse which extends 90 feet in length.

"Seems as though roller skates might come in handy here," remarked a Chronicle representative the other day to A. C. Atwell, the local manager. "There are days when I wish I had a bicycle," was the ready reply.

Vaders Return from Southern Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Vader returned Sunday from a visit with relatives in Detroit and a trip through Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. Mr. and Mrs. Vader left Cass City Saturday, August 30, going to Detroit where they joined their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Steen, of Detroit and all visited Mr. O'Steen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Steen, near Nashville, Tennessee, going by way of the Cumberland Mountains.

The party stopped at Chattanooga and had an unsurpassed view from Lookout Mountain and visited Chattanooga National Military Park. In Kentucky, they saw tobacco in all stages of its cultivation and fields of cotton through Tennessee. They picked some of the cotton. Mr. and Mrs. Vader and Mr. and Mrs. O'Steen had the thrill of seeing a detachment of United States soldier boys moving from Fort Knox, Kentucky, to a camp in Louisiana. There were reported to have been 40,000 in the group. Mr. and Mrs. Vader say that it was interesting to see the various conveniences used in moving the camp materials as well as the men.

The party met and passed tourists from 39 different states while on their trip. Many places of interest were visited in each state.

Funny How Those Phone Bills Mount

Chris Hoffenberger paid a rather expensive telephone call the other day which set him back $59.95.

Chris sent in a false phone call, maybe two, a while ago from the Wigwam near Caro to the sheriff's office. An officer made a useless trip. If Chris thought it was funny, he had an afterthought that probably changed his mind. A $25 fine in a Caro justice court, and $34.95 in mileage and other costs brought the total to better than half a hundred dollars. An officer made a trip to Detroit to make the arrest which brought Chris back to this county.

Three Injured in Seeger Street Auto Crash on Saturday

Speeding Car Hits Meat
Truck in Rear Scattering
Several Beef Quarters.

Peter Torz, 23, and Ernest Arn, 18, both of Deford, and Frank Laszlo, 25, of Decker, were taken to Pleasant Home Hospital here Saturday night with head and face injuries received at eleven o'clock when the automobile driven by Torz crashed into the rear of the Gross & Maier meat truck. The accident occurred on the corner of Garfield Avenue and Seeger Street, Cass City.

Both Torz and Arn were unconscious when taken to the hospital. All three men had head and face cuts and bruises but no bones were broken. They were taken to their homes Sunday evening. John Guinther, driver of the meat truck, and Lester Sharrard, riding with him were well shaken up by the impact but not injured.

Deputy Sheriffs Everett and Goslin investigated the accident, and Peter Torz, the driver, is charged with reckless driving.

The truck was traveling north on Seeger Street at about 20 miles per hour when it was struck by the automobile driven by Torz going in the same direction at a high rate of speed. The car hit the truck in the rear so hard that the front wheels of the car were against the axle of the truck. The car went under the truck and raised it off its rear wheels so that the truck brakes were ineffective. The truck was pushed 210 feet before stopping. Four quarters of beef left the meat truck in a hurry.

Will Make Plans for New Church Edifice

Dr. Roy V. Starr of Lansing, superintendent of the Michigan Nazarene district, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Bentley of Flint will be week-end guests of Cass City relatives and friends and on Saturday night will attend a meeting of the Nazarene Church board in the home of Rev. and Mrs. George D. Bugbee to discuss plans for their new church here. All will take part in services at the Nazarene Church on Sunday.

Mrs. Blessed Will Be Guest Speaker

Mrs. William Blessed of Port Huron, first vice president of East Central District, will be the guest speaker Tuesday, September 16, when the Woman's Study Club will hold their first meeting of the club year in the home of Mrs. H. T. Donahue. Roll call will be answered by members telling of their most pleasant vacation experiences.

Two Akron Girls Win Trip to National Show

Tuscola County's 4-H dairy foods demonstration team won first place at the Michigan State Fair and with it a trip to the National Dairy Show in Memphis, Tenn., from October 11 to 18. Neva Achenbach and Marion Harrington, both of the Akron 4-H Food Preparation Club, are members of the county team. The award comes from the Michigan State Fair Association.

The demonstration presented by these two girls was entitled "Cheese and Milk Around the Clock." With the assistance of their club leader, Mrs. Bertha Achenbach, they developed this story which forcefully portrayed the many uses of cheese and milk which can be made in every day menus.

The two girls, both sophomores in Akron High School, had won the county contest held at Caro High School in July; the elimination contest at East Lansing in August; the state fair contest last week in competition against teams from St. Clair and Allegan Counties and Gaylord (representing the upper part of the Lower Peninsula) and teams from the Upper Peninsula. The demonstration was also given during the Tuscola County Fair, in the 4-H club building.

Miss Achenbach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Achenbach and Miss Harrington is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Harrington. All are of Akron.

W.C.T.U. Members Anxious to Keep Nation Out of War

Want to Keep Sons
from Drink; Don't Want
Them to Go to War.

By Gene Allen in the Michigan Mirror.

Lansing—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, crusader for prohibition since 1874, is enjoying an unexpected revival.

Reason: America's undeclared war on Hitler.

Just as World War I afforded Congress an opportunity in December, 1917, to launch the noble experiment while several million men were in military camps and industrial plants were striving for utmost efficiency, so the present emergency is being hailed by 600,000 members of the W. C. T. U. as an economic reason for curtailment of drink.

If we must tighten our belts and deprive ourselves of "non-essentials," then the problem of beer, wine and liquor is bound to bob up. Whether these commodities are "non-essentials" depends upon each citizen's ideas about personal liberty, personal health, national security and the like.

A situation such as this is made-to-order for ex-Governor Luren Dickinson.

Since departing from the governor's office, the 82-year-old arch-foe of sin and sipping has been doing some lecturing. He went to Florida, stopping over at Possum Poke in Georgia long enough to chat with ex-Governor Chase S. Osborn, and sent back a letter to a Hearst newspaper man containing glowing words about the nice publicity he had been getting.

At the Grand Rapids convention of the W. C. T. U. last Wednesday, (September 3), Dickinson reiterated his conviction that the world's problems could be quickly solved by prayer and suggested that maybe what President Roosevelt needed after all was just an old-fashioned prayer meeting at the White House or elsewhere in Washington.

While even Dickinson would probably qualify this statement in a practical way, as it would take a lot more than a prayer meeting to stop the Nazis at Leningrad, the fundamental truth of the epigram is beyond moral dispute. Dickinson has always been right, and even his critics used to whisper in

MID-MISSION SPEAKERS AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Lewis, missionaries to Brazil, will be speakers at the morning and evening services at the Baptist Church here Sunday, September 14. They are laboring under the auspices of Mid-Missions founded by Rev. William Haas, a Baptist pastor. This council was organized in 1920 and since February, 1937, has sent out 99 new missionaries, making a total at the end of 1940 of 145 working in 18 fields.

Martha McCoy Married February 22

Miss Martha Jane McCoy, daughter of Dr. I. D. McCoy, of Bad Axe and Mrs. Ethel McCoy, surprised her friends last week by announcing that she had been married to Mr. William M. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holden Miller, of Detroit since February 22, when they were married at Fort Wayne, Indiana. Both are students at Michigan State College, East Lansing, and both will again attend school there. An apartment has been made ready for them. Mr. Miller is employed in the men's department of Knapp's store in Lansing.

Road Improvement Livestock Sales Market Discussed

Two Committees of Rotarians Are Named to Further the Projects.

Cass City Rotarians evidenced considerable interest in the hard surfacing of the county road from the Colwood road east to the end of the pavement five miles west of Cass City, a distance of four miles, and the establishment of a livestock sales market here. After both subjects had been discussed briefly at the club luncheon at the Hotel Gordon Tuesday, Club President Ernest Schwaderer appointed two committees. A. T. Barnes, E. B. Schwaderer and Frederick Pinney were named to interview and interest the county road commission in the road improvement, and M. B. Auten, Audley Rawson and Dr. H. T. Donahue were appointed to further the livestock market project.

President Schwaderer announced the division of the club membership into two groups with M. B. Auten and Walter Mann as captains in an attendance contest which will end the latter part of November.

Dr. H. T. Donahue told the club briefly of the recent trip he and Mrs. Donahue had taken to Glacier National Park.

Why a horse carries a billiard cue at his side while racing, why others wear sheepskin strips under their eyes, why hobbles and other racing paraphernalia are used, the powers of the race judge, the classification of races—these and a score of other items about horse racing were explained to the laymen clearly and interestingly by Fred Striffler, leading horseman of the county seat.

M. B. Auten was program chairman.

Townsend Club Has Woman's Auxiliary

A woman's auxiliary of the Townsend Club was organized on Thursday afternoon when sixteen ladies, members of the woman's auxiliary of Brown City, held their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Omar Glaspie and were guests of the Cass City ladies. Officers elected are: President, Mrs. Glaspie; vice president, Mrs. Ella Vance; secretary, Mrs. Mary Strickland; treasurer, Mrs. Alice Moore. Following the meeting, a potluck luncheon was served and a grab bag created a great deal of fun.

Oak Bluff Camera Fans Make Thumb Trip to Take Old Landmarks and Beauty Spots

All Registered in Co. Have Received Questionnaires

Eighteen Will Leave Tuscola on September 17 for Detroit Induction Center.

The group of Tuscola County men who will leave Caro next Wednesday for induction into the army will number 17 men instead of the quota of 20 requested by the state draft board.

Arnold Neu and Wilbert Neu, both of Unionville, and Laurence Brock of Caro have filed appeals and Vivian Dalrymple of Millington has been deferred. Edward Smith of Caro will supply one of these vacancies. This leaves the number of Tuscola County men at 17. Kenneth Yale Whipple has been transferred from Ogemaw County to Tuscola County and will join the group here, bringing the total to go to the Detroit induction center to 18 men. Whipple is a volunteer.

The following is the revised list of men who will leave the county September 17:

Norman Parsell, Caro.
Philip Sage, Caro.
Jack Stapleton, Caro.
Gordon Aho, Mayville.
Elmer Bauer, Reese.
Albert Petho, Akron.
Earl Brown, Cass City.

Gagetown Brides at Double Wedding Were Dressed Alike

From Gagetown Correspondent.

St. Agatha's Church at Gagetown was the scene of a double wedding on Wednesday morning at seven o'clock and following wedding breakfasts the two couples left together on a tour of northern Michigan. Rev. Fr. McCullough was the officiating clergyman.

Gerald Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Walsh, of Gagetown and Miss Lela Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dafeo, of Caro were one couple, and the others joined in wedlock were Miss Genevieve Lafave, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lafave, and Harry Kehoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Kehoe, all of Gagetown.

The latter couple were attended by Gerald Walsh and Miss Lela Chambers. A wedding breakfast was served to immediate families at the Gagetown Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Kehoe will live with the bride's parents for the present.

Mr. Walsh and Miss Chambers were attended by Mr. Kehoe and Miss Lafave. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will reside in Bad Axe.

Both brides were attired in light tan suits with brown accessories. Both corsages were of gardenias.

BACK TO SCHOOL.

Although the average American boy who returns to school after the summer holiday may not consider himself lucky, he is one of the most fortunate youngsters in this troubled world today.

The truth is that there are not many countries left where young folks have an opportunity to acquire unbiased information, free from censorship and enslaving propaganda. There are not many countries left where they can grow in freedom and prepare themselves for the kind of work they want to do.

Yet such freedoms are but part of the liberty that has been traditional with us Americans—so traditional, indeed, that we tend to wear it as casually as our familiar clothes. To appreciate its real value we need only compare our way of life with that in many other countries. The want, the misery, the degradation of human beings that characterizes them is as alien to us as the languages they speak.

As we see our children return to school we need to remember that and to be grateful for it. Although we can not go back to classes with them, we can—and should—reflect on the value of our freedom and consider how we may best preserve it from destruction.

SIX MILLION MORE.

Six million Americans will pay federal income taxes next year for the first time if the lowered exemptions of $750 for single persons and $1,500 for married persons are retained in the tax bill now under consideration in Congress.

At the present time federal government expenditures average $52,000,000 a day, and, as the defense program gains momentum, that figure will undoubtedly increase. To help meet such huge expenses, everyone must contribute his share. Rates on higher incomes are being sharply increased, but, even so, no one group can possibly pay the entire sum. There are not enough rich people in America for that. As a matter of fact, the total incomes for a year of all Americans earning $10,000 a year and over would meet government expenditures for only two months.

While paying an income tax will be a new experience for the low income group, actually they have paid direct federal taxes on cigarettes, gasoline, theatre admissions and other items in the past, and have also paid hidden taxes in connection with every loaf of bread, pair of shoes and almost every other article they buy. Such revenue, however, no longer produces sufficient funds for regular expenditures, plus defense, and so income taxes must be used to take care of the rising costs of government.

How much those costs have risen is evident from the fact that at the turn of the century a man with a wife and two children, earning $100 a month, paid only $5 of his salary in taxes, direct and indirect. Although he may earn $150 a month now, even before the huge armament program was launched his taxes had risen to the equivalent of $25 a month and they are still going up.

It is because of this rise that the demand is growing for greater economy in non-defense spending. Now that 6,000,000 more voters will have to pay an income tax, perhaps that demand will become even more insistent. In the past their taxes have been hidden to such an extent that many of them failed to realize how directly they were affected by federal expenditures. The income tax should serve to emphasize the fact that they pay a share of the cost of government and that, the lower that cost is, the lower their share will have to be.

—Industrial Press Service.
It begins to look as though easy, peaceful times are gone for a good many years to come. Wars are fought on borrowed money and the paying of the present bill is going to take a long, long time.

Don't let Ickes, oil conservationist, find out they are selling gasoline in Australia for 64 cents a gallon. That might give him an idea.

The trouble with a lot of "boys" around fifty years of age who go out for a big evening is they think they are as fit as a fiddle when in fact they are only tight as a drum.

DRIVE CAREFULLY

"PROTECT OUR CHILDREN"

By FRED W. BRAUN, the Safety Man.

With the opening of school come increased driving hazards for motorists. Children crowd the streets, especially near schools, and it is a wise motorist who will exercise great caution in entering these vicinities.

Many of the children started to school for the first time and are not familiar with the hazards of crossing streets. Soon they will learn to look out for your car, but until that time you must look out for them. The rule is drive slowly and keep your car under absolute control so that you can stop in an instant—ready to save that child who may dash across the street in front of you.

Watch out especially for youngsters on bicycles. They have been taught certain rules of the road with respect to automobiles; but like automobile drivers, they too slip out of line once in a while and you must be prepared for such an emergency.
Hundreds of little children are killed or injured each year going to and from school and the motorist invariably gets the blame regardless of circumstances. To avoid this responsibility, avoid the accident. The solution is: Drive Carefully!

GAGETOWN NEWS

Death of Helen McCarron—

Don't take my WORD for it!

FRANK COLBY
LOUIS PASTEUR

French chemist; originator of pasteurization.

In the recent talking film, based on the life of the great scientist, it was noted that few members of the cast (all portraying native Frenchmen) were able to correctly pronounce the name Louis Pasteur.

Louis was heard generally as "LOO-wee." Pasteur was favored with as many variations as there were players, with these mispronunciations predominating: "PASS-cher, PASS-tyoor, pass-TOO-er."

The players' inability to pronounce the name of the very man the picture honored seriously marred an otherwise creditable production.

Might I suggest to Hollywood that French coaches may be hired for very little money these days? Might I also point out that nowhere else in the world but in the studios of Hollywood is the word monsieur pronounced "mesher," to rhyme with fresher?

Pasteurize should never be pronounced "PASS-cher-ize." The French -teur should not be confused with the -ture of such English words as picture, feature, nature. It should be pronounced "ter" as in terminate.

Correct pronunciations:
Louis: loo-WEE
Pasteur: pass-TER
(Capitals indicate syllables to be accented.)

DISCHARGING A RESPONSIBILITY

A Statement of Employee Policy by the Central Western Division of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

The privilege of leadership in any industry carries with it heavy responsibilities and obligations. Honest discharge of these duties, we feel, is imperative to the maintenance of an orderly, going business—a business in which management shares with its employees and customers savings effected through efficient operation. Such a business is ours.

The necessity of taking stock is recognized in all business by employee and management alike. In the A&P organization, however, there is considerably more to this routine "must" than counting the number of cans of foodstuffs on the shelves of our stores; the tea, coffee and butter poundage. Stock-taking with us means consideration of all the interests of our customers, suppliers and our employees.

Officers and directors of A&P are confronted by this tremendous responsibility every day. Careers, human personalities and scores of other "intangibles" are in the balance. Shelves are easily restocked; not so these other factors.

After a series of "stock-takings," with pardonable pride we announce that, effective this week, all of the some 4,500 full-time store clerks in this area will share with fellow employees from coast to coast what we believe is the first 5-DAY, 48-HOUR WEEK in the history of the retail food industry, labor contracts and other local variables permitting.

To our employees in this division whose untiring efforts and efficiency have made possible the position we enjoy in the food industry, and to hundreds of thousands of satisfied customers whose cooperation we respectively seek in making our new work schedule a success, we take this opportunity to reaffirm a few of the cardinal principles upon which A&P was founded 82 years ago by the late George Huntington Hartford, father of its present day owners.

The new work schedule is in line with a long-standing policy of A&P to give its employees the shortest working hours and the highest wages in the industry. It provides that wages of all employees will be the same as for the 52-hour week which has been in effect for several months.

It was in the cracker-barrel period a quarter-century ago that A&P boldly defied tradition and broke with the dawn-to-dusk hours of the grocery business by reducing the work week from 72 hours to 65.

Regardless of the highly-competitive nature of the food business, A&P has always felt work hours of retail food store employees were too long. It has constantly sought ways and means of reducing them so that A&P employees could enjoy more leisure and, to a greater degree, the warmth and comforts of home life with their families.

Our recent decision to further reduce employee working hours once again has paced the industry in raising the living standards of retail clerks. But the management is confident the continued efficient support of its employees will prove, as it has in the past, that better working conditions, fewer hours at the store and more at home, and higher wages will in no way endanger the savings we have always made available to our customers.

Wage increases and added compensation during the last year, coupled with a recent shortening of working hours, have given A&P employees the best average wages and the shortest general working hours in the industry—dramatic evidence that through efficient operation it is possible to achieve both low prices to consumers and good working conditions for employees. Wages of full-time clerks in the Central Western Division alone have risen approximately 65 per cent since 1934, at which time they exceeded appreciably the average for retail food store employees in all sections of the country.

During the last decade, A&P has effected a considerable reduction in working hours, inaugurated vacations with pay, provided free and additional group insurance, sick benefits, half-days off, hospitalization and compensation to employees joining the nation's armed forces as well as many and frequent increases in the wage scale.

The A&P management has always been keenly conscious of its responsibility to its employees, many of whom have devoted their working lives to its interests.

The company will continue to maintain the same interest in its employees' welfare it has always shown. Additional improvements in working conditions and benefits will continue as rapidly as increased efficiency in operation make them possible.

Out-of-town guests present were Mrs. Frank Ludwig of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sprague of Bay City, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Gates of Reese, Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Wanner of Brown City and Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Turner of Akron. Mr. and Mrs. Sprague received many lovely gifts.

Much Cheaper
"Women don't interest me. I prefer the company of my fellow men."
"I'm broke, too."

Something Wrong
"Mummy, is it one o'clock?"
"Not yet, dear."
"H'm, my tummy's fast."

Pretty Pink Icing
The Vogue of cakes with pretty pink icing vanished in the early Eighteenth century when science discovered that the source of the coloring matter was not a plant seed but the cochineal insect.

By L. L. STEVENSON

This year, it will be an all-American Christmas tree. Even glass ornaments, formerly imported, are now the product of American factories. As for the toys themselves, they are all-American also and that doesn't pertain only to the manufacture. Just about every phase of American life, art, industry, farm life, entertainment, transportation, science and homemaking has been reproduced in miniature for the 1940 Christmas of American youngsters. National defense preparations are reflected in increased numbers of miniature battleships, airplanes and anti-aircraft guns modeled after U. S. army and navy equipment. This year toys of this classification approximate 1 per cent of the total toy volume. Taking it all in all, kids will have more than 100,000 new toys with which to amuse themselves, while Santa's pack has reached a total value of $240,000,000.

As perhaps you may have surmised from the foregoing, I have paid my annual visit to the toy fair. There I learned that the war in Europe is not the reason why it will be an all-American Christmas this year. As has been stated here previously, for the last 20 years, American manufacturers have set world styles in toys. For 10 years, less than 5 per cent of American youngsters' toys have come from abroad. Most of the imported merchandise has been novelties from Japan. But this year novelties as well as toys have been made by American labor, according to James L. Fri, managing director of the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A. And this year's toys being American-designed and made, paper hats, balls, balloons and box kites are decorated in red, white and blue.

Among the many new things noted was a whale which actually spouts and swims under water when properly manipulated which, I am convinced, means less protest at bathing time. Then there is a bathroom where dolls can take real baths and a drugstore with a soda fountain that works. A traffic project kit will give children a chance to set up signs and streets and get their safe driving lessons early. As for dolls, one that struck this observer especially was a miss with a magnetic hand that holds onto anything placed in it. There was also a composition doll with a skin that wrinkles like a real baby's and actually feels warm when it is caressed. One of the new doll kits includes sponge rubber bath toys as well as soap, bath mat, towel and talcum powder.

Just as soon as possible I got around to the electric trains. This year Junior, if his old man will give him a chance, can unload freight cars by remote control or operate an electromechanical crane that loads and unloads cars. Bridges automatically stop trains when they open and an electric elevator lifts logs to a platform to be loaded by remote control. That made me think of the old lumber days in upper Michigan when the "top loaders" were among the aristocrats of the lumberjacks. And I came away from the fair with two regrets. One was that they don't give samples and the other that I had been born so many years too soon.

Strange as it may seem, there is a bee keepers' association up in the Bronx. It has 50 members all of whom keep bees as a hobby. The total population of their hives is said to be about 25,000,000. Among them is Lloyd Jones, 50 years old, slight and bald, and so nearly blind that he cannot recognize persons. Up until 12 years ago, he was an accountant employed by the New York Central. Failing sight caused him to give up his job. Four years ago, the widow of a friend gave him her late husband's bees and equipment. He now has about 300,000 bees which aid in his support by producing honey. During the summer, he harvested and sold about 125 pounds.

Bees will swarm, and when they swarm, they cause trouble. When that happens, Jones is summoned, sometimes by the park department but more often by bus drivers or others. His 85-year-old mother acts as his guide and he goes after the bees with a net. A veil is his only protection. The bees often give him "the works." But he doesn't mind much. He has been stung so often "bee bites" mean little to him. (Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

This Kind of Tonic

Goes to Your Head

SPARTANSBURG, S. C.—A doctor at a hospital recommended that a patient take three drams of whisky daily for "appetizer" purposes.

A new nurse, reading the prescription incorrectly, gave the patient three ounces—a stiff drink in any language.

It wasn't long before she discovered her error.

HEY! LISTEN!

Two laborers were working on a very tall building. Suddenly the one at the top leaned over and shouted down to his mate: "Hey, Jake! Come up here a minute and listen!" Minutes passed as Jake toiled slowly up a series of ladders. At last, panting, he reached the top. "I can't hear anything," he said, after listening intently. "No," the other agreed. "Ain't it quiet?"

LIGHT WEIGHT

"You say that fellow's the lightweight champion of the town? Don't look like a fighter."

"He's not—he's the leading coal dealer."

Never Saves Money

I'm glad I do not have to pay Big coal bills any more. I've saved a lot of money now Since winter's fairly o'er.

I told my wifey what I'd saved. Said wifey, with a sigh, "I need some spring and summer clothes."

So I kissed the roll good-by.

Her Cash Conundrum

Full of admiration for his own financial knowledge, Smith began to discuss the state of affairs over the supper table.

"I must confess," he said, "that the money market worries me a good deal."

"It's not the money market that worries me," replied the wife. "It's the market money."

Slow Poke

"My grandpa has reached the age of ninety-six. Isn't it wonderful?" "Wonderful nothin'! Look at the time it has taken him to do it."

Give the Girl a Chance

"You spend as much on clothes as my secretary earns in a year!" "You should raise the poor thing's wages, dear."

How About Minnie?

Teacher—What is a comet? Pupil—A star with a tail. Teacher—Very good. Name one. Pupil—Mickey Mouse.

Saying Farewell

"There's Jones, and he hasn't bagged a thing yet. I'll make a noise like a rabbit behind this bush and fool him."

LONG STAY

Bessie—I don't think aunty will stay; she didn't bring her trunk. Billy—Huh! Look how long the baby has stayed and he didn't bring anything.

A True Genius

Landlord—Washington once slept in that bed you occupied last night. Guest—That's more than I could do.

Not Neutral

I send this little valentine To say that I adore you, There's no neutrality in mine, I'm absolutely for you.

Too True

"Why is the stork picked out as the bird to travel with the doctor?" "I think it must be because he's got such a beautiful bill."

Old Timer

Policeman—How did you get up that tree? Tramp—Ain't you got no sense? I sat on it when it was an acorn.

Good News

Wife—I'm going to wear my skirts longer, dear. Hubby—It delights me to hear you say so.

Inspiration

"My husband is an artist. He always finds inspiration in my cooking."

Passes Out

First Boxer—When I hit someone, he remembers it. Second Boxer—When I hit someone, he doesn't.

Sage Observation

Mrs. Stubblefield—You know, I just adore bridge. I could play it in my sleep. Partner—Apparently you do.

Smaller Yet

Harriet—Have you ever seen anything smaller than my shoes? Jack—Yes, your feet.

Say 'Ah,' Please

Mother—Junior, say "Ah," so the doctor can get his fist out of your mouth.

Stair Carpet Pads

If you do not have proper stair-carpet pads, fold five or six thicknesses of brown paper or newspaper, not as wide as the carpet; lay it about six inches from the side ends and a little over the front edge, and secure it at each end with a tack. If you do this you will find your carpets will last a great deal longer.

First Bathub

The first bathub in the United States was installed by Adam Thompson, a wealthy grain and cotton dealer of Cincinnati, in 1842. He had a party of gentlemen to dinner, all of whom tried out the new invention.

Woolknits for Fall Are Smartly Styled

New Model Jackets Sans Shoulder Seams.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS
Developments in woolknit dresses and costumes for fall are varied and important. There is a definite trend toward young looking fashions that introduce chic dressmaker details.

You can get dresses with skirts that look exactly as if they were pleated. They also have the appearance of being handknit. Stunning cape ensembles add zest to the woolknit vogue. Shown in advance collections are such intriguing models as a cape outfit of nubby wool and rayon knit in a slate gray, with white stripes for the dress and tuxedo revers on the full length cape. Silver buttons and red leather on the belt flash a message of chic and charm.

Welcome to campus and classroom are cunning woolknit jumper dresses. One especially to be coveted, is a natural zephyr knit jumper frock with ribbed yoke and waistline. The brief guimpe beneath is zephyr, striped in moss green, rust and natural. One of the smartest models brought out stresses the new long jacket without shoulder seams. This fashion is very smart and proclaims the fact of being "new" at first glance. The jacket and sleeve are knit in one, after the latest style dictates. Color effect is also out of the ordinary as it appears in a red and black knit fabric giving a mottled beautifully autumnlike effect.

Sweaters, skirts, slacks suits and sportswear in general are new and colorful throughout the entire fall woolknit program. Classic sweaters are longer. V-neck sweaters are gaining in importance. Interesting midriff treatment is seen in a few of the machine knits and in most of the hand knitted dresses.

Woolknit fabrics show amazing variety. You can get knits in plaids, in stripes used horizontally, vertically and diagonally. Ripple-weave knits are being shown, also chevrons and jerseys. There are jacquards available, shadow plaids, corduroy-type ribs and fabrics that look like worsteds and tweeds. Taking it all in all the outlook is for a tremendous season in woolknits.

Quills and Feathers To Feature Fall Hats

There is much novelty in the new hat arrivals. The tendency is to manipulate fabrics in intriguing and original ways. Among the fabrics used often is jersey, with an angora finish and milliners are creating draped turbans and toques of long scarf effects in lacy feather-weight woolknit manufactured especially for millinery purposes. These scarfed novelties will also be worked into snoods and apron drapes at the back of hats.

Look for quills and feathers galore, for they are "on the way." Not one quill but several, will appear dramatically posed on a beret or turban or novelty shape. Feather-adorned felt hats will be very popular this fall.

Bretons still maintain as a favorite type in the simpler and wider-brim felts. Sometimes these will have a crochet edge instead of a ribbon binding.

Belts Cleverly Handled Reduce Waistline Span

In the march toward smooth silhouettes designers are manipulating belts in subtle ways. The latest move is to inset the belt in a svelte graceful midriff treatments. When shopping for the new gown take note of this, for it is surprising how this technique takes away inches from the waistline span.

Hawaiian Legend

The Hawaiian legend about the goddess of volcanoes is that the goddess of volcanoes was Peha who had the power of transforming herself into a hag. As she passed along the highway in the guise of an elderly, destitute woman, she would beg alms. Refusal to grant them resulted in the outburst of a volcano.

What to Do For Relief Of Fatigue

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE drug, benzedrine sulphate, is being used by some students to "brighten them up" during the writing of examinations. It is also being used to relieve tiredness or fatigue in those who find they must be bright and alert for some special occasion.

Now, we all get tired at times and the best way to relieve fatigue and get back our energy is to lie down and rest when this is possible. The taking of a drug to "pep us up" should not be done as a regular thing. Anything that pep us up and gives us false energy must be paid for later because Nature pays all her debts. The tiredness or fatigue that some individuals feel at 11 o'clock in the morning is not due to any hard physical or mental work but to eating a "small" breakfast, because they have no appetite in the morning or do not get up early enough to have time to sit down to a proper breakfast. This same "hurry," prevents them from taking time to establish a regular bowel or intestinal habit. They are thus in a constipated condition with large amount of waste constantly lying in the lower bowel. This large amount of waste constantly presses against the little nerve endings of the bowel causing tiredness in the brain.

Others feel tired at four o'clock in the afternoon because they eat a very light lunch. It is lack of food which causes the tired feeling. Benefit of Small Meals. Drs. Haggard and Greenburg of Yale were able to prove that the same amount of food given in five servings instead of three prevented the midmorning and midafternoon fatigue. Workers were able to do 15 per cent more work by simply eating "part" of their lunch at 10:30 a. m. and part of their evening meal at 4 p. m.

The thought, then, is that when we feel tired, instead of taking medicine to stimulate us, we should rest, lie down if possible. If unable to rest, then eat a little food—candy, banana, orange, some crackers should give us relief from fatigue. We should not be ashamed to lie down and rest for five to fifteen minutes any time we feel tired.

Use of Insulin To Prevent Itching

THE reason that insulin is proving so helpful is that the various glands of the body depend upon one another to some extent for their best work or use in the body. Therefore if one gland is not working properly, not producing enough of the right kind of juice, some of the other organs and tissues are going to suffer. And so we find that a lack of insulin in the blood, by upsetting the work of other glands and their juices, allows certain ailments and symptoms to occur.

One of the mean or distressing symptoms common to man is pruritis—itching. It is known that insects and parasites cause itching and also the eating of certain foods and the use of certain drugs. There are, however, many cases of pruritis where the cause is difficult to find. Dr. C. G. Vervloet, Amsterdam, in investigating the use of insulin in pruritis, observed that several patients with hepatic (liver) disease in whom insulin gave good results, were relieved also of the severe itching of the skin. He found that twice 10 units, or twice 15 units, to which sugar was added, was usually sufficient to relieve the itching.

How was the itching relieved by insulin? Dr. Vervloet believes that the insulin relieved the itching because of its effect upon the liver and kidneys. As you know, the liver and kidneys are the great filters of the body, removing from the blood materials which, if left in the blood, could cause chronic illness or death. When the liver and kidneys are not getting the normal amount of insulin from the pancreas to help them to filter out harmful substances, they allow enough of these harmful substances to remain in the blood to cause pruritis or itching. By receiving insulin daily, the cells of the liver and kidneys do a better job of filtering the blood.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What is the best natural cure for constipation? 2. Would coffee help correct this condition? 3. Is coffee injurious to the heart?

A.—1. The best natural laxative is exercise, especially bending exercise with knees straight, and eating fruits and vegetables. Simplest drug is cascara sagrada. 2. All liquids help the common form of constipation. 3. As to effects of tea and coffee on the heart, most physicians advise that they be reduced.

Clipped Comments

Europe's Prospects.

Efforts have been made to ground us in the belief again that we are preserving democracy in Europe, that Great Britain is once more fighting the battle for democracy. The effort has not been entirely successful, especially since Russia joined the democratic allies. Furthermore, there are too many people who remember how we entered the war in 1917 to aid democracy and the result.

As a matter of fact, democracy seems to have less chance in Europe now than it has had since the war started. There seems to be two reasonable possibilities for Europe since Russia joined the fray. France, Britain's ally of the first World War, has collapsed and seems about to desert to the totalitarian cause. This leaves only two powers fighting in Europe. These powers are Germany and Russia. One or the other bids fair to win control of the continent of Europe, and Great Britain doesn't have the manpower to do much about it.

It would seem therefore that no matter which power wins on the continent there is not much hope for democracy. If Germany wins we can expect Nazi ideology to dominate the continent and certainly there is no democracy in Nazism. If Russia wins we can expect, despite any promises and commitments in advance, that Stalin will dominate Europe. This means a communist controlled continent and there is little hope for democracy there.

It would seem that the cards are stacked now so far as soon restoring democracy to a war-torn Europe is concerned. We might as well face the situation instead of indulging in wishful thinking.

Whether Germany or Russia wins, Great Britain now, with the passing of France and the desertion of Spain and Italy, seems to have lost her grip on the continent. If the Russians succeed in crushing Hitlerism, it must be remembered that they love Churchill no more than they love Hitler and are only waiting for the day when they hope to deal a death blow to hated "capitalism." They are cooperating now only because their own system is in danger.

Let us therefore remember that Great Britain is not fighting now to democratize Europe but to save herself. This she has every justification for doing. We are aiding her because we feel that the collapse of Great Britain would bring the danger nearer to us. This is the real fact—not the idealistic chatter about spreading democracy over the world.—The Republic-Bulletin.

Fads and Fancies

Latest in "family fashions" is husband-and-wife robes. These twin house robes are made up in handsome cravat silk with identical cord-and-tassel ties. They are sold at smart haberdasher stores. Gloves are now selling with a clever drawing attachment that enables you to adjust them to any desired length from short for street wear to long for dress-up and evening wear. It is a high style quality fabric glove of exquisite fit and perfectly detailed. This glove is a real "find" and comes in fashionable fall colors. Needless to say it is eminently practical.

According to early fashion reports fringe-trimmed dresses will abound in the new autumn collections. Not only will fringe in all widths be used but the more exclusive fashions are stressing hand-tied fringe treatments, in achieving a distinctive styling.

Thornless Hybrid Tea Rose

Thornless Beauty is the world's first recorded hybrid tea rose of this kind. It is a beautiful shade of crimson, perfectly formed, fully double, about four inches across and the roses bloom all summer. The plant patent has been applied for.

Many Young Folks Stop at Our Pumps Regularly

These young folks, nowadays, are always in a hurry to get some place and they want and expect lightning service. Well, we can't always give it to them as fast as they want but apparently it is as fast or faster than they can get what they want anywhere. They come in frequently—feel free to ask for that "extra" service that counts.

Braided Effects

Much braiding is appearing throughout late summer fashions. It is said this matter of using braided trimmings will be accentuated throughout fall fashions. An interesting reaction to the call for braided effects will be hats with braided work on off-face brims that corresponds with braiding on jacket or frock.

We are prepared to serve day and night, and to meet any possible emergencies.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Food Shortage in Europe This Winter Means Thousands Doomed to Starve In Most of Areas Occupied by Nazis; U. S. Court Obtains Spy Confessions

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

The scene is a street in Uniondale, N. Y. The country is not at war. It is, however, arming for defense. Arming as never before. For the menace, it is charged, is world wide. And so an army pursuit plane leaves Mitchell field, New York, one day. A few minutes later it crashes in Uniondale street. You see the wreck still burning. You don't see three children burned whose clothes caught fire. The pilot of the plane bailed out.

INCIDENT:
U. S. S. Greer Attacked
When the news was flashed that a submarine attacked the U. S. destroyer Greer while the latter was en route to Iceland, the words "incident of war" leaped to the thoughts of many. Still, there were other "incidents" and they did not bring war. The Greer was not hit.

FOOD:
For Conquered
Most were agreed that the coming winter will find starvation walking the lands of conquered Europe. Germany took the bull by the horns by stating her position clearly. Not only, said Berlin, was Germany not going to feed the hungry in conquered Europe, but she felt at complete liberty to feed herself from the stores of conquered countries. If anybody was to feed conquered nations, let Britain and the United States, who control the seas, do it, declared Berlin.

As long as this was the declared Nazi policy, it was a certainty that the United States and Britain would do no feeding of these populations, for if the food was sent over, Germany felt "at liberty" to feed herself with it. The food would just be going into enemy hands and doing no good to the starving millions, it has been held.

Assuming that the Russians in conquered sections of the Ukraine had not been able to flee, but had been able to burn their wheat, as seemed likely from general reports from the area from both sides, then there were a few million Ukrainians in danger of starvation within the shortest possible time.

Nor were the people in France, Norway, and the low countries in any better condition, and with the exception of the Rumanians, the Hungarians and the Croats, reportedly fighting with the German arms, and the Finns, coming down from the north into Russia, most of Europe was going to be hungry.

I talked with a Russian refugee from Paris, who had been conquered by the Germans but escaped to this country by a devious route, and he told of the French people eating dogs, cats—any meat they could get their hands on.

Starvation already was stalking the land in August, he said, when he escaped via Lisbon.

Medical men said this hunger would not point definitely to revolt, however, for starving people soon lose their ability to fight or to resist even the inroads of their own hunger. Starvation carries with it only apathy, finally coma and then death, they declared.

MISCELLANY:

Berlin: German fashion dictators had decreed shoes of straw as an "ersatz" for leather. Rationing decrees that each person may buy only two pairs of leather shoes each year. Now, such is the demand for straw shoes (which wear out in four to six weeks) that the manufacturers are running out of straw.

Spy

Lucy Boehmler, 18, who pleaded guilty in New York to charges of espionage for Nazi Germany. She is said to be part of a ring which visited various parts of the country to obtain military secrets.

LENINGRAD:
Near Siege
Despite what undoubtedly has been one of the greatest defensive actions in world history, the Russian defenders of Leningrad had before them the question of a siege of the city itself, and the problem of whether they could hold the attackers back until cold weather comes to their rescue.

Like northern New England, Leningrad weather is described as "nine months of winter and three months of early spring," and this spring-tide has now given way to the autumnal rains, which will shortly be supplanted by winter's heavy snows.

The Russo-Finnish campaign at the beginning of the war demonstrated that mechanized warfare doesn't pan out so well in the snow and ice, and the Reds are hoping that if they can hold out through the rest of this month, they'll get a progressive breathing spell along the whole front that will permit American aid to materialize, and a reorganization of their defense.

It was evident, not only from the Soviet but from the German communiques that the Russians were putting up a magnificent resistance all along the line, that Budenny's army got across the Dnieper without being completely knocked out as the Germans had forecast, and that General Timoshenko in the center is carrying on a protracted and more or less successful counter offensive, while Voroshiloff on the north is holding the attacking Germans and Finns back as long as he can, while keeping his armies generally intact.

Berlin dispatches told of Russians "contesting every foot of ground," and halting the spearhead advance of the Nazi forces to only a couple of miles or so a day.

Moscow said that first reports of a separate peace with the Finns were premature and inaccurate, yet this might have meant simply that the Russian negotiations with Finland had fallen down, and that the Finns had decided to stick with the Nazis and carry through.

Some observers had thought that as soon as the Finns reached the Russian frontier, and had recaptured all the old Finnish territory that Russians had taken over at the beginning of the war, they would probably quit, or be glad to negotiate for peace.

GASOLINE:
Still a Fight
The gasoline shortage in the eastern section of the United States still was in the controversy stage, with much of the muddle being discussed in print, and revealing how hopelessly confused legislators, administrators and oil operators were with regard to each other and the problem itself.

Some filling station operators wanted to close down, said they were forced out of business. Others wanted a price rise of a cent a gallon. Others wanted a government subsidy. Still others said they were getting along O. K.

Some oil suppliers said there was no shortage, others wanted barges built, still others wanted 17,500 idle tank cars used, and yet the Washington authorities said they couldn't find the cars.

The railroads offered to cut the tank car rate 50 per cent, from 5 cents a gallon to 2½ cents, and the big oil companies pointed out that the tanker rate was one cent a gallon, though this was difficult to figure because practically all the tankers are owned by the companies themselves and they need figure no profit. Meantime, three pipeline propositions were milling around, trying to get ready to start, while several senators and congressmen, including Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, charged "bureaucratic blundering."

HITLER:
Long-Range Plan
Perhaps the most novel view of Hitler's long-range war plan came from the pen of the talented John T. Whitaker, former Chicago correspondent in Europe. He said Hitler believes fifth-column activity in America is undermining democracy, and that eventually Washington will call on the British to surrender. Whitaker says the Germans feel that America, not Britain, is the "weak sister."

NOVESTA.
Collision Near Silverwood—
Mr. and Mrs. William Englehart were returning home Sunday evening after spending the day with the former's sister, Mr. and Mrs. MacPhillips, in Lapeer when they collided with a Lapeer car on the corner, three miles south of Silverwood. Mr. Englehart was driving south when a car came from a cross road in front of the Englehart car. Both cars were thrown into the ditch and almost completely wrecked. It is believed that no one was seriously injured. Mrs. Englehart was thrown to the floor of the car and quite badly bruised and shaken. She was taken to the MacPhillips home in Lapeer where she is under a doctor's care until she is able to return home. A baby in the Lapeer car was also injured.

Sunday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Henderson were Mr. and Mrs. George McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. John McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. Ali Jarman and baby and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Quick. Supper guests were Mrs. Charles Cunningham and daughters, the Misses Leota and Pearl, of Saginaw and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henderson and family of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mason of Detroit visited Sunday and Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pringle.

Sunday callers at the Robert Horner home were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rickwalt and family of Caro and Mr. and Mrs. Audley Horner and daughters of Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henderson and family of Kingston and Mrs. A. J. Pratt and sons visited in Linwood Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. West visited Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ashe near Vassar.

Robert Brown of Caro was a Tuesday caller at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. William Churchill and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Henderson.

NATION OUT OF WAR

resignation, "You can't argue with God."

Keeping Out of War

The W. C. T. U., like about everybody else in Michigan, finds itself concerned in the present national crisis of whether we can stay out of war.

The white-ribboned mothers do not want their sons to drink. They also don't want them to go to war.

There is probably no church group in Michigan so devoted to the cause of peace as the W. C. T. U. They hate war with a grim determination that is kindred to their moral zeal for the good life. Likewise, they would be among the first to commend President Roosevelt for keeping us out of the holocaust, as he pledged one year ago to do. His opponent was Wendell L. Willkie, but that is beside the point.

At the Grand Rapids convention last week, the temperance ladies heard Charles P. Taft, assistant federal coordinator of health, welfare and related defense activities, declare: "War can be avoided and will be avoided." Then he added by postscript: "Surely we don't want to fight, but we have been thinking too much about how unpleasant it is to fight and not enough about the priceless heritage for which our forefathers for 300 years did fight and sometimes died. We ought to choose war only when the alternatives are worse."

Slump in Morale

Whether you are interested in liquor or an automobile or silk stockings or almost any other commodity, you invariably think around the circle until you come back to the central query in America today: "Where are we going from here?"

It is just another way of saying that some of us don't know where we're at and our morale is not what it should be.

Morale is a military word for enthusiasm, and belatedly it has become apparent to a lot of bigwigs in Washington as well as elsewhere that the public is reluctant to accept war time sacrifices in peacetime.

As the United States News, edited by David Lawrence, puts it, "If the people will not accept the sacrifices without shooting war, then shooting war may become necessary to fulfill the foreign policies laid down by this government. A war, with loss of American life and sinking of American ships and forcing of the issue of victory or defeat, would be expected to provide the necessary emotional stimulus."

"Not Quite Waked Up"
Michigan-citizen William Knudsen, director-general of the Office of Production Management, recently voiced regret that the United States lacks the spirit to do the job.

"I don't think we have got it," Knudsen is quoted in the press as saying. "I think a good many of us have, but we haven't all got it. I have been all around, and we haven't quite waked up. Nobody has dropped any bombs on us yet."

Frank L. Kluckhohn, Washington correspondent for the New York Times, says that Americans, unlike the British who do their best work calmly, "are capable of gigantic efforts only when their emotions and dramatic instincts are aroused. They like a 'cause.'"

This idealistic trait in American character prompted W. E. Woodward, American historian, to remark ironically in his "New American History": "At heart we are a nation of Sir Galahads, hell-bent on rescuing the Holy Grail, at whatever cost." Exaggerated as it is, the statement does possess considerable merit.

Reform in Eclipse

The congressional vote on extension of the draft found both Michigan senators and nearly all representatives betting that we would stay at peace. Though division of opinion at Washington was a reflection, according to Walter Lippmann, newspaper columnist, of the Russians' amazing stand against the Nazi.

Yet the crisis in morale is not limited to the United States. English journals recently cautioned Britons that the "Yanks are not coming" and that British confidence in victory had become, due to Russia's unexpected resistance, perilous over-confidence and complacency.

Can America make good on the government's promise of all-out aid, as provided in the lend-lease act, without being in a shooting war? Or must we fight first before we sacrifice willingly? Here is the crossroad at which we find ourselves—like it or not.

It relegates the renewed objective of the W. C. T. U. into temporary eclipse. That reform, like many others, is linked inseparably with coming world events.

SHABBONA.
The Hyatt family reunion was held at North Lake Sunday. Fifty-two were present and enjoyed a bounteous picnic dinner and day of visiting and singing. Relatives were present from Flint, St. Clair, Port Huron, Bad Axe and Shabbona. Paul Auslander was the oldest member present and Judy Osentoske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Osentoske, of Bad Axe, the youngest.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Stephenson of St. Petersburg, Florida, having visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Auslander of Shabbona for 10 days, left Saturday afternoon for Saginaw where he was to preach in the Epworth Methodist Church on Sunday morning. Mr. Stephenson was pastor for 20 years of the great Halstead Street Methodist Institutional Church of Chicago. Mrs. Stephenson is a sister of Mr. Auslander.

Fire Active Chemical Action
Fire is an active chemical action in which a fuel combines with oxygen from the air.

Now that schools are again in session, a few words of warning to the parents are timely.

Teach your children to be extremely careful on their way to school; teach them to cross streets only at intersections and then only after they have looked to left and right. If your children must walk on the highways, instruct them to walk on the left-hand side and to step off the road if necessary. Remind them daily!

School patrols stationed at busy intersections near schools have made crossing streets easier and safer for our children. Yet accidents happen not only where traffic is heavy, but also where traffic is light.

Urge your children to use good judgment on their trips to and from school.

Electric Cooking SAVES TIME

Mrs. W. J. Hogan using her electric range

THE WOMAN who cooks for a farm family has a big job, and an important one. She deserves the best equipment money can buy.

Mr. W. J. Hogan, Washtenaw County farmer, bought his wife an electric range about four years ago. Mrs. Hogan says that her range is so convenient to use that it makes her work much easier. It cooks and bakes perfectly. And the saving of time means a great deal in getting the day's work done.

Put an electric range in your kitchen. You'll find that electric cooking makes a considerable difference in time and steps saved. And the whole family will taste the difference, too.

See the new electric ranges displayed by your electrical dealer, hardware, department store, or at any Detroit Edison office.

FOLLOWED INSTRUCTIONS

The new maid, preparing to serve at her first dinner party, was instructed by her garden-loving mistress to place a "little flower" in each fingerbowl for the guests.

That point in the course of the meal arrived, and to the hostess' perplexity, she saw that no blossoms were floating about as planned, but that the water had a decidedly murky nature.

Asking the maid afterward as to the cause of the murkiness, she was informed: "Why, ma'am, Ah jes' put in a little flour like you tole me."

Good Reason

"Don't they teach you to salute in your company?" roared the major to Patrick Malone, who had passed him without raising his hand.

"Yes, sir," replied Pat.

"Then why didn't you salute?"

"Well, sir," Pat replied, "I didn't want to attract more attention than necessary, because I'm not supposed to be out without a pass."

HASN'T DECIDED

"Is your husband going south with you?"

"I haven't decided whether to ask him or not."

Vivid Memory

A Negro whose recollections of great men appeared to run back farther than one listener could stand was finally asked rather sarcastically:

"I suppose you remember the day George Washington took a hack at the cherry tree?"

"Oh, yas, sah, I 'member dat very well. Why, I done drove that hack."

Time Will Tell

A boy in grade school refused to sew, thinking it beneath the dignity of a ten-year-old.

"George Washington sewed," said his teacher, "and do you consider yourself better than George Washington?"

"I don't know; time will tell," replied the boy seriously.

Successful Bazaar

"Your club must have realized quite a neat sum for the poor with the bazaar."

"It was quite a success. We had a little supper afterwards and came out just about even."

Already Sold

"What did Miss Sharp say when Tom told her he would like to make himself solid?"

"She replied that so far as his head was concerned he would have nothing to do."

Cause Enough

Bystander—"You took a great risk in rescuing that boy; you deserve a hero's medal. What prompted you to do it?"

Johnny—"He had my skates on."

Indispensable

"The banquet tonight can't get along without me."

"You have a very good opinion of yourself. Billed for a speech?"

"No; I was invited to listen."

"My, this must be one of those Southern winter resorts one reads about."

Stone Age

Mrs. Highbrow—"Don't you find the Stone age interesting?"

Mrs. Lowbrow—"Yes, indeed! Jimmie's just that age now, but it's awfully hard on our windows."

Takes the Cake

Bobby had been to a birthday party. Knowing his weakness, mother said, "Bobby, you didn't ask for a second piece of cake?"

"No, ma'am. I only asked Mrs. Smith for the recipe so you could make some like it, and she gave me two more pieces, just of her own accord."

For Better Speech

"Joan can swear like a pirate."

"It's shocking, but you should say like a pirate!"

Looking Backward at Events That Happened 25 and 35 Years Ago

The documentary stamp tax imposed under schedule A and B of the War Revenue Act has been repealed by Congress. It is therefore no longer necessary to stamp notes, drafts, mortgages, deeds, stock certificates, transfers and other documents.

Rabbits' Tastes Save Fruit Trees

When the snows blow next winter and the law-protected cottontail rabbits get hungry, valuable fruit trees won't be gnawed by the hungry animals if they are protected by a process perfected and tested by horticultural workers at Michigan State College.

By experimentation the process has been simplified and the materials now recommended do not curtail tree growth as some of the previous preparations indicated.

Rosin and ethyl alcohol are the ingredients. The rate is seven pounds of rosin to a gallon of alcohol. The rosin is pulverized and the mixture is permitted to stand 24 hours in a warm room. No heat should be applied as this not only is dangerous but would drive off enough alcohol to alter the composition of the mixture.

Rabbits have a habit in tough winter periods when food is scarce of chewing off tender areas of bark. Orchard operators call this girdling. It leads to tree killing or the necessity of grafting new tops. Surveys indicate the rabbits reach as high as two feet above the height of drifted snow, so that protection of the bark must extend to that probable height.

One gallon of repellent has been found sufficient to treat 150 to 200 two-year-old nursery trees. The exact number depends on size of trees and height of treatment.

A cheap brush is used for the application. The brushing is done while the tree bark is dry. Subsequent moisture causes a white precipitate but this does not affect the repellent results. One application has been found sufficient for a winter season.

Schools Resume Lunch Program

Peanut butter, pork and beans and concentrated soup are headliners on the varied list of foods which will be available for free distribution to school lunch projects in Michigan during the 1941-42 school year, E. M. Rowlands, acting regional director of the Surplus Marketing Administration, announced in Milwaukee recently.

Thousands of teachers, parent-teacher associations and other school lunch sponsors are now laying plans for resumption of school lunch programs. Allocations of these foods already have been made to state welfare agencies for distribution in Michigan and the 11 other states in the midwestern region.

Other items on the list of available foods include grapefruit segments, grapefruit juice, prunes, honey, corn meal, and wheat products consisting of cereals and both white and graham flours.

The regional director said it is likely a variety of fresh fruits also will be available again this year, particularly citrus fruits and apples.

The school lunch program, which last year helped see that five million undernourished and needy children in the United States were better fed, is one of the chief outlets for surplus foods purchased by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in its efforts to broaden domestic markets and bolster farm prices.

Last year during the peak month of March, the school lunch program was operated in 2,492 schools of Michigan. A total of 124,816 undernourished children received benefits of the program in these schools.

It is predominately a rural program. Seventy-seven per cent of the participating schools and 63 per cent of the children served live in rural areas. In comparison with the 5,000,000 children who participated during the peak month last year, the present national objective of the program, Mr. Rowlands explained, is to reach all of the 9,000,000 children shown to be undernourished in a recent national survey, nine million youngsters who are living below the danger line of health.

The Michigan Bean Growers' Association at Grand Rapids September 13 voted in favor of $5 per bushel for beans, beginning October 1, with an increase of from 10 cents to 15 cents a month thereafter to cover storage and transportation. These prices may be increased and to regulate the market a committee was named.

Local sponsorship is the keystone requirement for any school lunch project. The federal government provides certain basic foods, and the community carries on from there, furnishing the leadership to organize and direct the program. The sponsoring group see to it that food is clean, well cooked and that sanitary equipment and premises are provided. It supplies such supplemental foods as are necessary to turn out an appetizing, well-rounded meal each noon. The whole community helps.

Work Projects Administration and National Youth Administration help may be secured in many cases. Home demonstration agents of the Michigan State College extension service advise and help get school lunch programs started. The Surplus Marketing Administration has a special school lunch representative in each state to assist schools and sponsoring groups.

Sponsorship usually comes from school officials, teachers, parent-teacher associations, patriotic organizations, lodges, women's clubs and any other groups interested in improving health and general welfare conditions among children of their communities.

Persons interested in starting school lunch programs can obtain full information by writing to the State Director of Commodity Distribution at the State Welfare Office, or to the Regional Director, Surplus Marketing Administration, 1050 Empire Building, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

FOR A REAL TASTE THRILL, COOK IT OUTSIDE
(See Recipes Below)

OUTDOOR SUPPERS

If you've a longing to do something different, an outdoor supper's the answer. Get the smell of woody smoke into your food, the crackle of burning embers for atmosphere, the sound of sizzling meat held over glowing flames during the supper hour and you'll experience a taste-thrill you'll long remember. Everything tastes better cooked outdoors!

Toss some cans of beans into a gay kerchief, wrap fruit, cookies, cake into waxed paper, whip up some barbecue sauce to use with the meat, and the meal is under way.

Outdoor cooking equipment may be as humble as a few large bricks, an iron grate, or an extra rack from the oven, a long handled fork for each member of the family. A light camping stove or a more elaborate grill such as a vertical or horizontal stove of sheet steel including drip and ashpans, a roasting spit, and warming shelves may also be used. Whatever you use, remember, it's the cooking outdoors which makes the meal.

You will want meat and plenty of it for fresh air whips up the appetite. The family will come back again and again for this delicious meat with a sauce all its own:

Tomato Horseradish Mustard Marinade.

For 3 pounds of spare ribs or beef short ribs use:

- 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish mustard sauce
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 cup tomato juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 onions, chopped fine

Combine dry and liquid materials well and beat thoroughly. Place meat in a shallow bowl or glass dish and cover with the marinade. Turn every 3 or 4 hours and marinate in refrigerator for 48 hours. Drain meat well before barbecuing and baste frequently while cooking over coals. The marinade may be thickened and served as a sauce over the meat. Your barbecuing will be more successful if you marinate the meat. It's especially good on the less expensive cuts.

If you'd like a meal-in-one with a minimum of fuss but nourishment plus, try this potato salad made with frankfurters. If you're accustomed to your old and cherished potato salad recipe, I'm still sure that you'll like this one:

Frankfurter Potato Salad.

(Serves 6)

- 3 medium sized potatoes, cooked, diced
- 1 cup diced celery
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 pound frankfurters, skinned and sliced
- 1/2 cup salad dressing
- French dressing

Marinate the potatoes in the french dressing. Combine all ingredi-

LYNN SAYS:

While cooking under the sky over hot coals you'll want to remember:

Charcoal burns to fine, lasting coals and gives a nice steady fire for barbecue cooking. For best results when using either charcoal or wood should be burned until the flames disappear. Then the meat should be placed 8 to 10 inches above the coals and turned every few minutes to insure even cooking.

Hard woods like oak, hickory, madrone manzanita and maple give a lasting glowing bed of coals. Soft pine is suitable for quick grilling like hamburger and hot dogs.

Whatever type of grill you use, pick a spot that's shady, not too far from the kitchen if you're doing it in the back yard and not too near heavy shrubbery.

dients and mix with potatoes. Chill 1 hour and serve with lettuce.

If you decide on hamburgers some night for your open grill stove try them this way: Add 15 per cent suet to your regular meat. Press the uncooked hamburger into thin flat cakes between waxed paper. Put two cakes together with a filling made from finely chopped raw onion mixed with steak sauce and rich prepared mustard, pressing the edges of the cakes firmly together. Broil quickly on both sides. Serve on large, toasted buns which have been buttered.

Here are two variations you may wish to follow if you serve baked beans often:

Maple Beans—Substitute 1/2 cup maple syrup or three tablespoons maple sugar for brown sugar and molasses.

Baked Beans with Sausage—Arrange parboiled beans and uncooked sausage in alternate layers; substitute 1 can tomato soup for molasses and part of water.

Boiled Campfire Coffee.

- (1 quart)
- 4 heaping tablespoons coffee
- 4 cups boiling water
- 1 egg

Combine the coffee and egg in the pot and mix thoroughly. Pour in water and bring slowly to a full boil, stirring coffee down in a warm place for 3 to 5 minutes. Use 1/4 cup cold water to settle grounds.

Easy to make but easier to take is this cocoa cake made with sour cream. Even if you want to serve it with the richer ice creams you won't feel too stuffed with it because it is light textured and feathery. If there is no sour cream to be had sweet milk can be substituted, but use it with 2 teaspoons of baking powder instead of the soda.

*Sour Cream Cocoa Cake.

- (Makes 2 9-inch layers)
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 egg whites

Mix cocoa in boiling water and stir until smooth. Cool. Cream shortening and sugar together until light, then add cocoa. Sift the dry ingredients and add alternately with cream to the first mixture. Beat until smooth after each addition. Add vanilla then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour batter into pans lined with wax paper, and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 minutes. Put together with Chocolate Icing.

- 2 cups confectioners' sugar
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 ounces melted chocolate
- Milk to moisten
- Vanilla

Cream butter and sugar, add melted chocolate, milk, and vanilla and beat until smooth. Spread between layers and over cake.

*Refrigerator Cookies.

- (Makes 7 1/2 dozen)
- 1 cup butter
- 2 cups brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup oven popped rice cereal
- 3 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream butter; add sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in cereal. Sift flour with baking powder and work into first mixture, a small amount at a time. Knead and shape into rolls about 1 1/2 inches in diameter; wrap in waxed paper, covering ends so that dough will not dry out. Store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven (425 degrees) about 10 minutes.

NECROLOGY

Selena M. Randall.

Charles E. Randall received word Monday night of the death of his sister, Miss Selena M. Randall, who passed away in a Lansing hospital that evening.

Selena M. Randall was born in Cass City October 29, 1892. She was a daughter of the late William and Mary Randall, and left Cass City with her parents 36 years ago, going to Lansing, where she has since lived.

She was employed as secretary for the Arctic Ice Cream Company in Lansing.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in the home at Lansing and burial was in Lansing.

Miss Randall is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Spurgeon of Detroit and Mrs. Minnie Summer-ville of Chicago; four brothers, Charles E. Randall, Cass City; William E. and Louis Randall, and Arthur Rickerd, all of Lansing.
