

Nine Questions Will Be Asked Registrants

No Questionnaires and No Physical Exams Will Be Given Men Monday.

Only nine simple questions will be asked those men who register next Monday, February 16, for possible military service under the provisions of the Selective Service Act, Col. E. M. Rosecrans, state director of Selective Service for Michigan, emphasized today.

Registration of the individual should require a comparatively short time, the director said. The registrant will not be asked to fill out questionnaires but must only answer questions about his identity, his place of residence, and his mailing address. Also he will be required to list his telephone, if any; his age in years and date of birth, place of birth, the name and address of the person who will always know his address, his employer's name and address, and his place of employment or business.

While it is important that registration be conducted as speedily as possible, Col. Rosecrans said that every registrant will be given ample time to respond properly to the questions on the registration card, which on this occasion will be green. White and melon colored cards, respectively, were used for the first and second Selective Service registrations.

No questionnaires will be given registrants when they register on February 16, nor will they then be required to undergo any physical examination. Questionnaires are given to registrants after their order numbers have been determined and reached by their local boards. Physical examinations are given only after the boards have passed on the general qualifications of registrants and have determined that they should not be deferred for reasons of interest to the Nation.

New Regulations About Enlistments

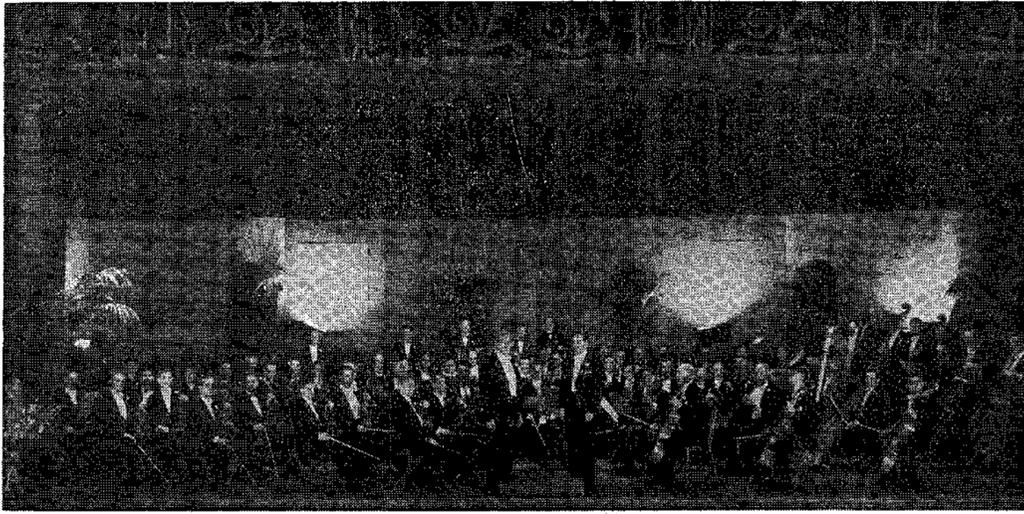

In order to be able to fill future calls for induction with men already found to be physically qualified, local draft boards have been instructed not to release any selectees for enlistment in any branch of the armed forces, except Flying Cadets, who has had his U. S. Army pre-induction physical examination and found acceptable for general military service.

Selectees for army physical examinations will be notified of this fact by their local boards and warned that, if they desire to enlist in some particular service, they must make application for such enlistment and be accepted before they are due to be delivered to a U. S. Army Examination Station for pre-induction physical examination.

Tuscola U. S. D. A. War Board Urges Fire Prevention

Inspection Survey for Each Tuscola County Farm Home in March.

In cooperation with the State and County Civilian Defense Council each County U. S. D. A. War Board in Michigan is sponsoring a rural fire prevention campaign. Assistance is being given to these boards by the extension division of Michigan State College and State Association of Mutual Insurance Companies.

An effort is being made to get information concerning fire prevention into every rural home in Tuscola County. Three folders are being systematically distributed by AAA committeemen, the AAA office and the county agent's office. They are titled: "Don't Feed a Fire," Extension Folder F-13; "Fire Hazard Chart for Your Home"; Barn Fire Hazard Chart.

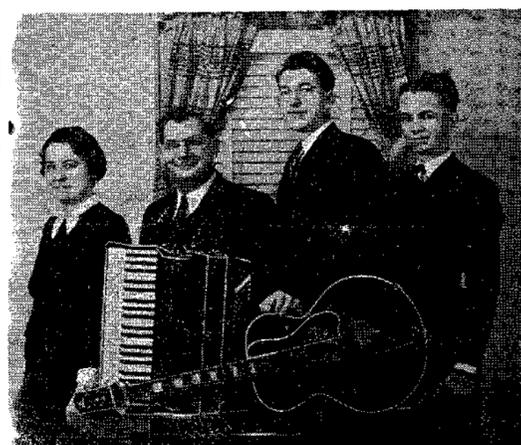

The county school commissioner and the rural school teachers will assist rural school children in making an inspection survey of each Tuscola County farm home. This survey will get under way in March.

Members of the U. S. D. A. War Board believe this to be a sound and wise program in times of war or peace. This is another job, if well done by every farmer, which will contribute toward the conservation of valuable and vital war materials.

Consider These Facts.

1. In the nation, it is estimated that a farm building burns every 15 minutes.
2. In the United States, farmers' losses by fire in 1940 amounted to about $100,000,000.
3. A total of 250 lives were lost during 1940 in Michigan fires.
4. For one's own protection and in the interest of National Defense let all do something about these situations.

Judge Pierce Regards Cigarette Seller as More Responsible

Frequent complaints have come to Probate Judge Almon C. Pierce that boys, some in the teen age and others younger, at various places in the county, have been furnished cigarettes contrary to law. He is of the opinion that those who sell the cigarettes being of more mature judgment than the youngsters should be held responsible for violating the state laws regarding such practices and will use his influence in having the proper penalty meted out to the sellers.

Here is the state statute regulating the sale:

"Cigarettes; furnishing to minor, penalty. Section 1.—Any person within this state who sells, gives to, or in any way furnishes any cigarettes in any form to any person under twenty-one (21) years of age shall be punished by fine not to exceed fifty (50) dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for not to exceed thirty (30) days for each offense."

The Christian Endeavor Missionary Circle of the Evangelical Church met Tuesday evening in the home of Miss Ruth Schenck. A business meeting was held and a potluck luncheon was served. Cards were written to the boys of the church who are in the service and were signed by all present.

Sixty-Piece Orchestra Plays Here Next Tuesday

Good-Will Evening of Entertainment Is Sponsored by U. S. Govt.

Defense Council has received from the Michigan Music Project of the Works Project Administration the program of the concert to be given next Tuesday, February 17, at 8:15 p. m., at the school auditorium in Cass City, by the Michigan WPA Symphony Orchestra. There will be no admission charge since wherever this orchestra plays is a good-will evening of entertainment, sponsored by the United States Government. Persons attending will be asked to buy defense saving stamps, the purchaser, of course, retaining the stamps he buys.

The evening's program is printed on another page of this number of the Chronicle. The orchestra will also present a program for school students Tuesday afternoon.

This orchestra composed of approximately sixty people was organized early in the year 1936. At that time it was known as the Detroit Civic Orchestra, and was sponsored by the Federal Government. In 1939 it became an integral part of the Michigan Work Projects' Administration.

In the five years of its existence, hundreds of concerts have been played in the intermediate and high schools of Detroit, Dearborn, Highland Park, Royal Oak, Pontiac, Mt. Clemens and Port Huron. In addition to these school concerts the orchestra has appeared in formal concerts at the Detroit Institute of Arts, where the best known Detroit singers and instrumentalists appeared with the orchestra as soloists. Among these soloists were Winifred Heidt, now with the Metropolitan Opera Company, Cameron MacLean, Mischa Kottler, Edward Bredshill, and many others.

Lay Plans for Scrap Material Collection

Tuscola County's Salvage Committee met at the courthouse Monday afternoon to lay plans for a county-wide collection of scrap materials of several kinds. The collection has been tentatively set for the second week-end in March. Members of the committee are W. B. Barriger, chairman of the board of supervisors and a member of the county defense council, Harry Burns and S. T. Bottrell of Millington, Norris W. Wilber and J. A. Gallery of Caro.

Members of the board of supervisors are to meet Friday morning (today) at the call of Chairman Barriger, where details of the collection will be explained to them and their assistance requested.

"Scrap will win the war" is rapidly becoming the slogan of the day, and the collection to be held early next month will take in not only scrap metals but old rags, paper and rubber.

Those having scrap materials to turn in will not be asked to donate them, although they may do so if they wish under the plan devised by the committee. The government is asking for no donations. It suggests that people having scrap materials sell them to scrap dealers in the regular way and keep the money (or put it into Defense Bonds); or they may leave the materials at central collection places where it will be picked up by county trucks, sold to dealers and the money turned over to the Red Cross.

Further details will be published as the plan develops.

Sunday evening, Rev. E. M. Gibson will commence a three-week series of evangelistic services in the Mizpah Mennonite Brethren in Christ Church of which he is pastor. On Monday evening, Rev. Guy N. Bridges of East Jordan is the speaker. The church is located eight miles southeast of Cass City, on M-53.

Elkland Extension Group to Entertain Husbands on Feb. 17

The Elkland Extension Group met at the home of Mrs. James Pethers January 6. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Alton Mark. There were 14 members and three visitors present. The nutrition chairman, Mrs. John Reagh, gave a talk on nutrition for defense. A delicious planned dinner was served by the nutrition committee in the recreation room in the basement which was prettily decorated in red, white and blue streamers with napkins to match.

The leaders, Mrs. William Martins and Mrs. Edward Golding, gave the lesson on "Common Sense Treatment of Windows." The purpose of curtains is to soften or diffuse the light, and give privacy when hung across the window, they said. Luxurious fabrics and elaborate window treatment are for the mansion, while simple fabrics and simple window treatments are for the average home.

If one has problem windows, such as windows looking out on alleys or ugly back yards, cover windows with a heavier mesh material to seclude the view. While windows looking out on pretty green lawns and flower gardens may be treated as picture windows and covered with finer materials.

The electric meeting sponsored by the Detroit Edison Company and the R. E. A. was held in January at the home of Mrs. Claud Karr with a large group present who learned how to remake old lamps for indirect lighting.

The ladies of the group will entertain their husbands on Tuesday evening, February 17, at the home of Mrs. Clifford Martin.

COMING AUCTION.

Michigan Maples Offer Sugar Aid

Michigan's sugar maple trees offer a fractional solution of the sugar problem brought on by the war.

Some of the state's consistent syrup and sugar producers already are cleaning up equipment to get ready for an early run of sap, and others are urged to make similar preparations.

"Some new equipment may be available, but most operators will be forced to use equipment already on hand," explains P. A. Herbert, head of the Michigan State College forestry department. "Michigan farmers can increase materially their production of maple syrup and sugar."

One of the pointers from Professor Herbert is to use all equipment to its fullest capacity and to take advantage of the first sap run. Often the earliest sap flow is lost because trees are not tapped in time. Production, he says, is lowered but little if the trees are tapped before the season begins. The run can be prolonged by cleaning equipment and reaming the tap holes.

Home production of syrup and sugar does not require the elaborate outlay now used to produce first quality products that retail purchasers demand. Yet a tasty sweetening can be manufactured. For a farmer's home supply, wooden spouts can be used in place of metal spiles.

Any type of bucket can be used to collect the sap, according to Professor Herbert. Sap can be boiled in any large open pan.

This roughly made product likely will be darker in color, he says, but it will be just as nutritious as the lighter colored syrups and sugars.

THE STORY OF ELECTRICITY

Number Three in a series published by The Detroit Edison Company

Until the middle of the 17th century, men produced electricity by rubbing objects laboriously by hand. Then a burgomaster of Magdeburg, Otto von Geuricke, invented the first machine for generating electric sparks . . . a revolving ball of sulphur on a wooden shaft, turned with a crank. In 1675 Sir Isaac Newton, in his book Opticks, described the same experiment using a glass ball:

"A Globe of Glass . . . if swiftly turn'd around its Axis, will . . . shine where it rubs against the palm of ones Hand apply'd to it: And if a piece of white Paper, Cloth, or the end of ones Finger be held at a small distance from the Glass where it is most in motion, the electric Vapour which is excited by the friction will . . . be put into such an agitation as to emit Light, and make the white Paper, Cloth or Finger appear lucid like a Glow-worm."

In 1709 Francis Hawksbee, a talented Englishman who held the post of Curator of Experiments at the Royal Society, made a similar machine using a glass ball with the air evacuated. When he held his hand against the whirling globe, it became filled with a weird light "so great that large print . . . could be read by it, and at the same time the room, which was large and wide, became sensibly enlightened, and the wall was visible at the remotest distance, which was at least ten feet."

A trace of mercury vapor in Hawksbee's globe made the strange light even more intense. This phenomenon was the forerunner of the mercury vapor arc lamp invented by P. Cooper Hewitt in 1901 . . . that strong greenish-blue light seen so often in factories and engraving plants.

Various games were played and ice cream and cake were served. Miss Horner received many gifts. LETTERS

From Philip Doerr.

Philip Doerr, now stationed at San Diego, California, has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Doerr, as follows:

"My face is sunburned now and I feel swell. The sun really gets hot out here. . . . I was on a work detail today shoveling clay. It will toughen me. Tonight I get my first liberty. I can go up town and back, but I am so tired I will go to bed instead.

Saving Cancelled Stamps. Mrs. J. D. Brooker has received the following letter from Mrs. Louis A. Gillet of Beacon, N. Y., which explains in detail the purposes for which stamps are collected in the United States for shipment to England:

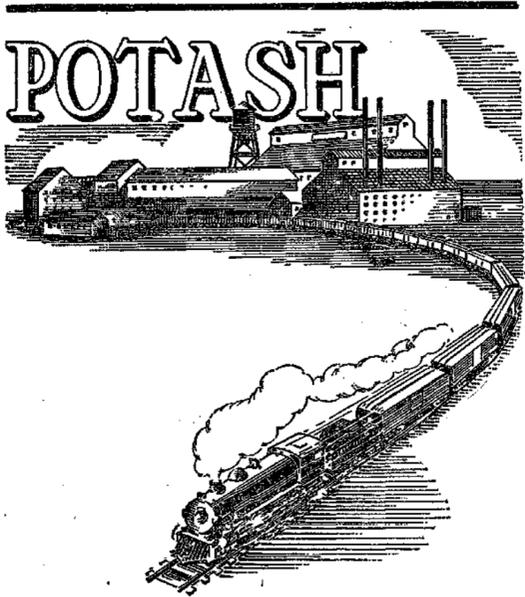

"Queen's Hospital, which is entirely dependent on subscriptions and is called one of England's voluntary hospitals, is located in London's east side or slum district and has 211 beds, and its branch in Brixhill—"The Little Folks' Home"—has 44 beds.

"Since 1934 friends in New York City have been saving cancelled stamps and sending them over to the hospital, which sells them to firms that pay 37c a pound for United States stamps, and this money is used to support children's cots at $250 a piece. Now the need for more help is very great, and stamps and inquiries are coming from all over the United States, with the result that we now support three beds and hope to do much more.

"After we receive the stamps they are sent to a private house in New York City where they are packed in bags and held until such time as we are notified to rush the bags to the docks. The British ships carry hospital supplies but we have to wait for space and then must deliver the bags at very short notice as the ships sail secretly.

"There is no regular organization, only friends of Queen's Hospital. The British War Relief Society has investigated and approves. As no money is solicited it is not necessary to be registered with the United States Government."

United Nations Rush Reinforcements To Far East Battle Fronts in Effort To Check Spreading of Jap Attacks; Nazis Again Take Offensive in Africa

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Somewhere in the Pacific ocean, this dramatic picture taken of a U. S. navy offensive patrol plane carrier being circled by a navy dive bomber as it begins its anti-submarine duties. Note in the picture that on both the side and underpart of the plane there have been deletions of certain parts and insignia which might give information to the enemy. Also on the top rigging of the carrier you will notice further deletions for the same reason.

LUZON: Epic Battle

Hailed as an epic of warfare that would live in all history, the defense of Bataan peninsula and of the fortress holding the entrance to Manila bay had been diverting large Jap forces needed elsewhere than in the Philippines.

The adding to MacArthur's embattled and smoke-begrimed army of a battalion of bluejackets and marines was welcome news and showed that perhaps not all of the men of Cavite and Olongapo had been withdrawn, but that they had been given a post of honor with the defenders.

Up on the Mariveles mountains they were entrenched, and no matter what strength the Japs hurled against them they were holding firm. On one moonlit night a whole regiment of small boats moved down the coast, using the same tactics that had hurled the British back on Malaya.

The effort was to get in on MacArthur's flank and confuse the defenders, at the same time signalling for an offensive on the central front. But the shore defenders and artillery opened up on the Jap invaders, left scores of them struggling in the water, and the few that made shore were quickly mopped up by the Filipinos.

There was apparently at least one Japanese warship which managed to run through the eight-mile strip of water between the fortresses at the entrance of Manila bay.

One of the United States' intrepid torpedo boat skippers, piloting his tiny craft at close to 80 miles an hour, swept down on her in the moonlight, and launched two torpedoes which struck the ship. She is believed to have been sunk.

The attack was carried out directly into the glare of the warship's searchlights, and under the full power of her guns, but so skillfully did its skipper maneuver that she was not struck, and escaped with all hands to tell the tale.

WAVELL: And Reinforcements

The statement by General Wavell that "great reinforcements" were to arrive, and calling on the Singapore defenders to "defend the city as Tobruk was defended" was more than a little significant.

Tobruk was the bastion that held out for months despite being surrounded on three sides by Axis forces anxious to wipe it out, and finally was relieved by the allied winter drive.

Wavell's statement to the Singapore army smacked of a situation which might see sufficient reinforcements sent to Malaya to do the same thing, not only to relieve the garrison, but send the Japanese on the run again.

Whether this reinforcement was going to be sent to Singapore itself, or whether a method was to be found of striking at the Japanese rear, which might be lightly held, was not revealed, but either method, it was pointed out, might work.

No British commentators felt that the war in the South Pacific would be lost utterly if Singapore was to fall, but the ability to hold the East Indies would immeasurably be weakened if this was to happen, hence Wavell's strong appeal to the city's defenders to hold out at all costs.

General Wounded

General Clinton A. Pierce, who has been reported wounded in action in the Philippines. He is the first U. S. general wounded in action in World War No. 2. This picture was taken before the outbreak of the war in the Pacific.

SINKINGS: Continue Heavy

The U-boat raids on the North Atlantic continued heavy, with a total of 18 ships attacked of which two escaped and 14 went to the bottom, with about an average loss of life.

Since our entrance into the war, two navy tankers had been torpedoed, the first managing to reach Iceland under her own power, but the second one, the Neches, going down with a reported estimated loss of 56 men, with 126 men escaping to fight again.

The location of the Neches' torpedoing was not immediately announced by the navy, but ship losses had been small in the Pacific after Pearl Harbor, more than equalled two to one by Allied sinkings of Jap ships.

There were growing reports of Allied naval strength in the Pacific, showing that increasing numbers of ships were active in those waters, and in one case having carried the attack to the Japanese-held Marshall and Gilbert islands, generally in the Australia defense zone, with terrific results.

In this action, though no strictly war vessels of Nippon were sunk, the navy reported several auxiliaries were sunk and damaged, which might include tankers, transports, supply ships used for naval purposes.

That our forces lost 11 planes but no ships showed that probably one of our aircraft carriers was in the neighborhood, and that a vessel of this size was being used in a task force offensive action demonstrated that Admiral Nimitz was keen on getting even with Japan for Pearl Harbor.

RUSSIA:

Buying Insurance

The Russians, having fought the Germans back considerably past their announced "winter line" on the northern sectors, might be said to be buying insurance against the Nazis' spring drive.

Some observers, including Senator Tydings, in addresses had warned that the Germans had some 100 divisions of soldiers that they had been holding out of action, just for the spring offensive against Russia.

The Red armies were not, however, believed to be losing anywhere nearly as heavily on the whole front as were the Germans, so this taste of victory, even though temporary, was expected to stand them in good stead when the time comes to hang on after May 1.

Experience of 1940 and 1941 was that the Russian winter would not break until about that time, to any appreciable degree, and at that point the Germans might be expected to launch another all-out attack.

The Red armies were well into Smolensk province, reporting that the Germans, instead of fighting holding actions, were now hastily moving back to better fortified lines, and trying at all costs to save as much material and as many men as possible.

It was considered probable that the Russians would be able, before the coming of spring, to shove the Germans at least back to Smolensk, thus giving the Nazis 230 miles to cover in reaching Moscow again, a distance that the Russians had already fought over twice, once going and once coming, and which they would defend even more stubbornly than the first time.

And they would, it was pointed out, be able this time to get an ever-increasing amount of Allied aid, and not be subject to the same quality of surprise which gave the Germans so much advantage the last time. The battle-lines now being so well drawn, it would be impossible for the Nazis to gain much momentum.

INSURANCE:

On War Damage

The senate, by passing a bill giving owners of property free insurance up to $15,000 for war damage, showed that it is willing still further to commit the public credit to eventual victory in the war.

Some senators brought up the point during the debate that if property owners are to be given insurance without paying premiums, why should not the congress also give free insurance to civilians killed as the result of the war.

Michigan's "news story of 1942," when recorded by historians, will probably be the unparalleled scrapping of the automobile industry and the latter's complete conversion to production of munitions.

Its import staggers the imagination. Developed for 35 years into one of America's leading industries—one accredited by economists with leading the nation out of the world war depression—the automobile industry does not exist today. Assembly lines are being torn out. Space is needed for war orders.

Try to comprehend this: War work of the Ford Motor Company will require twice as many employees as were needed for making of automobiles and trucks. Instead of 100,000 workers, Ford must have 200,000!

Chrysler's government contracts for army tanks today are ten times greater than the original order from Washington, large as it was. General Motors is doubling its dollar volume.

A labor shortage, such as Michigan has never experienced, is regarded as inevitable. Military needs will take tens of thousands of men under 44. Married men with family dependents—a wife with or without children—and single men supporting parents or other relatives face the prospect of ultimate military service.

Government aid for dependents will be supplied. Furthermore, thousands of women will probably work in war factories before Victory is achieved.

Transportation of workers to Michigan war plants is a major problem. Conversion of automobile carriers into buses is proposed in Detroit. New highway and parking facilities are being studied. It's one of the numerous new headaches plaguing war planners.

Michigan dairymen are asked to increase milk production 10 per cent. Uncle Sam wants Michigan's 950,000 cows to produce an average of 520 MORE pounds of milk per animal than the 5,200 pounds averaged in 1941. To do this each cow will require 1,000 pounds additional hay and 500 pounds more of cereal grain. Sooo Bossy!

Layoff of 315,000 automobile workers and the financial burden of providing unemployment compensation were responsible for the second special session of the state legislature at Lansing this week.

Michigan's law permits maximum compensation of $288 per jobless worker, $16 for 18 weeks. President Roosevelt has proposed that Congress supplement these payments to allow a total of $624 at the rate of $24 for 26 weeks. Since automobile plants are being converted by the government to war needs, the White House feels that the government should share the extra burden of unemployment compensation, ordinarily shouldered by employers.

Election year factors are seen in the action of the state administrative board (bi-partisan in control) to send Governor Van Wagoner and Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly to Washington for a bi-partisan recommendation.

Kelly comes from Detroit, hub of the motor industry. Van Wagoner's political strength has been in metropolitan centers rather than upstate, as the election polls show.

Michigan employers have been paying the highest rate of tax in the nation, 3 per cent as against 2.7 per cent maximum paid by practically all other states, according to the Michigan Manufacturers' Association.

That accounts, in part, for our $140,000,000 reserve fund. Ten states pay more than Michigan in maximum unemployment payments; only three states pay more than Michigan in minimum payments.

Federalizing of the employment security system, as suggested in Washington, is seen at a threat to employer-earned experience rating by which a lower levy is possible through stabilized work.

Administrators of many of the state unemployment compensation laws are opposing federalization. The Southern Governors' Conference went on record (1) that the complete administration of state employment services be restored to the respective states as soon as the present emergency has passed, and (2) that nothing in the present emergency would justify the federal government in taking over the administration of unemployment compensation. Governor Van Wagoner admitted the other day that he was the "only governor" who apparently was not opposed to federalized control.

Old-fashioned vacations, as contrasted to modern gypsy outings, may become the 1942 vogue in Michigan. Chief reason: Tire rationing. That's the forecast from the East Michigan Tourist Association which concludes that people are going to stay "put" for vacation duration, preferring a cottage or hotel to days of restless motor travel.

Our adviser, Frank Davis, adds: "We have already seen evidence of doubling up in automobiles and an increased amount of bus and railroad travel."

George A. Osborn, editor of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, offers several reasons why Michigan should have a fair tourist season in 1942: (1) A survey of automobiles using the Straits ferry last summer disclosed a majority of cars were less than one year old. Tires should be in good condition. (2) British have found that vacations were more necessary than before due to increased pressure of war work at long hours.

Less gasoline tax revenue is anticipated, however, by Highway Commissioner G. Donald Kennedy. In 1941 the gasoline levy produced $32,000,000. Effect of tax cut: Road construction will be limited to defense needs.

Michigan distributors, retailers and wholesalers, were recently recognized officially by the Michigan Council of Defense through appointment by Governor Van Wagoner of the Michigan Food Council as a sub-committee to the council's consumer committee.

Willis Keasey, Michigan Retail Grocers' Association, is president of the state food group, while W. F. Doyle of the Michigan Chain Stores Bureau, is vice president. Among the members are Leo V. Card, commissioner of agriculture, and W. G. Armstrong, master of the State Grange.

If consumer groups start crying "profiteering" at grocers, the council will be expected to provide the answers—right in committee conferences.
