Two New Public Hunting Grounds in Heart of Thumb

Two Areas Embracing 14,000 and 6,000 Acres in Extent Are in Tuscola.

Approval of two new public huntng grounds in the heart of the Fhumb, favored hunting range of city folk from the densely populated southeastern corner of the state, dominates current developments in the state conservation commission's land acquisition program.

To be known as the Deford and Vassar projects, the two areas, respectively more than 14,000 and 5,000 acres in extent, are in Tuscola County, within 85 miles of Detroit, 45 miles of Flint, 30 miles of Saginaw. Like others of southern Michigan's growing list of "wildlife restoration areas," the land is to be acquired with "Pitt-man-Robertson" funds, three-quarters of which are furnished by the federal government from revenues of excise taxes of sorting arms and ammunition.

Scarcity of materials and high labor costs are curtailing developmental work on these areas, and diverting a proportionately larger part of the funds into land purchases. chases.

The Deford and Vassar areas, now heavily hunted, are known to produce good crops of pheasants and rabbits, and some partridge. Both places, it is said, will benefit from food and cover management.

In the busy reference room of a city library I had just given a student a copy of Whittier's "First Snowfall." We stood up, each by his desk, and recited it in unison, a method much frowned upon today, of course; but we loved it. You see it is a really quite charming poem." Remember when every housewife bought ice from the iceman and cooked in iron pots and pans? When old folks were convinced that the automobile was a reckless invention and nearly everyone walked to work? WHAT DEFENSE BONDS REALLY DO.

In many appeals which are being made to us to purchase defense stamps and bonds, the inference is given that the chief use of the stamp program is to raise money to manufacture cirplanes and tanks for the defeat of Axis forces. That much of the money will be so used is true and the appeal for more weapons is especially effective because we all realize that more military equipment is needed.

Time Is Short

In HUNDREDS of Michigan defense factories, the words "TIME IS SHORT," are becoming more important each day.

Your telephone company, too, realizes that time is short. We have been driving night and day to meet the vastly increased telephone demand largely created by defense activities. This demand requires more telephones, more lines, more equipment and supplies of all kinds.

Today the nation faces shortages in many basic telephone materials, such as copper, aluminum, magnesium, steel and rubber. Substitutes are being developed, but there is increasing difficulty in meeting all telephone needs as promptly as in the past. However, we believe you will agree with us that defense must come first.

To keep telephone service at full efficiency, so that no delay in communication can interfere with the defense effort, here are several ways in which you can help:

Give us ample notice when you wish to have a telephone connected or disconnected. Keep your telephone conversations as short as possible.

Try to avoid the peak traffic periods-10 a. m. to noon, and 2 to 4 p. m.—especially on Long Distance calls.

That if the organization of a so-called best interests of the "All-Out" prosecution of the war objectives for our whereby no duplication of efforts be done by any groups of the County in the defense of our County and the successful prosecution of our War efforts, and to have a frank understanding between the County Defense Council and this Committee. We felt that if the efforts of the two groups could be combined with
