

100 Minute Men Will Secure Bond Purchase Pledges

Elkland and Cass City Canvassers to Complete Their Work on Tuesday.

Approximately 100 "Minute Men" have been selected by Willis Campbell, Elkland Township chairman, to aid in securing pledges to purchase War Stamps and Bonds for the duration. Each canvasser has been assigned either a section of land in the township, or a block or definite area in the Village of Cass City.

These men will meet at 8:00 a. m. at the school auditorium for breakfast on Tuesday, May 12, following which instructions will be given the group regarding the securing of pledges. It is anticipated that everyone in a position to purchase bonds and stamps in the township will be interviewed next Tuesday morning.

The Cass City High School Band will appear in their new uniforms for the first time next Tuesday morning and will play selections in various parts of the village at the time the canvassers start their work.

"United we stand, divided we fall," says Chairman Campbell. "Let's show that Elkland Township stands 100% against the Axis."

M. B. Auten, D. A. Krug and J. C. Hutchinson are co-chairmen of Elkland Township.

C. L. Bougher, Tuscola County chairman, has sent the various township and village chairmen, figures which represent the quotas set for each such area. "The quotas were set on the basis of the assessed valuations of the villages and townships," says Mr. Bougher, "consequently all should be equal and none carrying the load of another."

The following is a list of the local canvassers selected by Mr. Campbell:

All citizens in the Fort Custer area are requested to assist in this project for the soldiers who are traveling from Fort Custer to distant points. The following items are to be included in each travel kit:

One double-edged razor blade; one package of chewing gum; one 5c candy bar (wrapped); 1/2 size pencil or small pencil (sharpened); one U. S. postal card, writing paper and envelope; one orange or apple; one paper bag (3 pound size preferred) to be used as container for these articles; one magazine (light reading preferable) to be handed out with travel kit.

Cramton Is Rotary District Governor

LOUIS C. CRAMTON.

At the district meeting of Rotary International, held at London, Ontario, Monday, Louis C. Cramton of Lapeer, former congressman and circuit court judge, was the unanimous choice for district governor.

Keith McConkey, secretary of Cass City Rotary, and Willis Campbell represented the local club at the London meet. Both spoke briefly of the convention's program at the Rotary luncheon here on Tuesday.

"These are times that try men's souls."

The above seven words, which logically fit into Michigan life of May, 1942, were written by Tom Paine in "The Crisis." The year was 1776.

Michigan life at this moment is a fast moving panorama. Rapidly fading away are "business as usual" practices. For example, nearly all durable goods will cease to be manufactured by the end of this month.

Rationing and price control have been instituted, almost overnight. Citizenry is being regimented for all-out war sacrifice. It is the period of economic dictatorship, democracy's answer to the threat of dictatorship and convincing proof of America's awareness of its worldwide "war of survival."

Starting Monday, May 18, prices of important consumption goods such as meat, canned goods, clothing and drugs—will be pegged at their highest levels of March.

In terms of cents, the price control decree is expected to reduce living costs about 3 per cent below prices prevalent on May 1. Retailers must post public lists of ceiling prices.

On July 1 price control will affect retail services such as garages, tailors, laundries, dry cleaners and shoe repair shops, also as of March prices.

All retailers will be licensed by Uncle Sam. Violations may be punished by withdrawal of federal license, or fines not more than $5,000, or a year's imprisonment or civil suits for treble damages. Talk about an economic dictatorship!

Manpower in terms of human energies have been registered from ages of 20 to 65.

The registrations, as much as any other governmental action, have brought a realization of the war into nearly every Michigan home.

Thursday, May 7, was the final day for citizens to register for war ration stamp cards. Sugar stamps Nos. 1 to 4 inclusive will be good for purchase of one pound of sugar per individual each two weeks from May 5 to June 27.

Because sugar cane is needed to make molasses, molasses is used to make industrial alcohol, industrial alcohol is needed to make explosives, explosives are needed to sink the axis, and the axis threaten our freedoms. Michigan consumers must conserve sugar carefully—a small sacrifice but an important one.

Before you grumble about "bureaucracy" and "muddling at Washington" as the reasons why sugar must be rationed today, consider this additional reason:

The Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor and Manila resulted in stoppage of sugar supplies from the Philippines, while Hawaiian supplies became uncertain. Next, ships were needed to carry strategic goods.

1,965 Sugar Registrations Reported Here

People from Five School Districts Here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, 1,965 persons residing in five school districts were registered in the sugar rationing program at the Cass City School. Two hundred more registrations were expected yesterday (Thursday). From Winton District, there were 108; Quick District, 111; Paul District, 157; Bird District, 117; Cass City District, 1,472.

"It was surprising how little sugar there was in the larders of households in the community," said Supt. J. Ivan Niergarth, in charge of the registration here. "Several families had no supply on hand. The largest quantity reported was 650 pounds. We appreciate the early registration of people of the five districts. At only one time was there any congestion of registrants here during the first three days."

Out of 510 Land Parcels Advertised Only 33 Were on Sale

Five hundred ten land descriptions which had been advertised for sale at the May Tax Sale in Tuscola County were taken from the list by the time of the opening of the tax sale on May 5 because owners had paid the tax assessments. Of this number 132 descriptions had been settled for on May 1, 2 and 4. On these three days, back taxes collected amounted to $2,652.65.

When the sale opened Tuesday morning only 33 descriptions remained unpaid. Six of these sold Tuesday, totalling $95.06. The sale will be continued until noon on Saturday, May 9.

Start Occupational Questionnaires

Occupational questionnaires were ready Thursday to be sent to over 500 men in Tuscola County who were registered in the third draft enrollment. There were 1,769 men registered at that time and questionnaires will be sent to all that number as soon as they can be addressed to the group.

Ration Periods for Sugar Purchases

George F. Childs, executive administrator of the Tuscola County War Ration Board, says the first four stamps in the War Ration Book One are good in the following periods only:

Stamp No. 1—May 5-16 inclusive.
No. 2—May 17-30.
No. 3—May 31-June 13.
No. 4—June 14-June 27.

Kindergartners and the First Graders Entertain

Two delightful events took place Friday afternoon at the school here when children of the kindergarten and first grade entertained.

The children of the kindergarten pleased their mothers at a May Day party. After a trip to the first grade circus, the boys and girls danced around the May pole, played two selections with rhythm band instruments and sang a number of songs. May baskets were given out and the mothers were given wall plaques, which the children had made. The girls of the home economics class served small crackers, animal cookies and chocolate milk to the children and the mothers. Miss Ruth Shenck is teacher of the kindergarten.

After working on a circus project for two weeks, the project correlating with reading, writing, language work, original stories, spelling and art work, the children of the first grade gave their program proper Friday afternoon, giving three performances of one-half hour each. All children from the kindergarten through the fourth grade attended.

Very large animals were drawn free hand and large dry goods boxes were used as cages for the animals.

Garden Worms That Talk

Earthworms actually communicate with each other by faint sounds emitted by their mouths, according to a German scientist. This is reported in an article about worms in the magazine You're Wrong About That. The worm voices, asserts the article, "are used in emitting faint sounds, rarely in solo number but generally in series marked by a definite and changing rhythm. So apparent is this rhythm that it leads to the conclusion that these sounds are broadcast with the object of communication. The sounds resemble the clicking and ticking of a mass of infinitesimal clocks and can be heard quite clearly."

Blast of Bomb Is Seldom Found Fatal

Resistance of Human Body Proven to Be High.

LONDON. — A young English anatomist, Prof. S. Zuckerman, famous for his researches into the anthropoid ape, believes the human body can resist bombs and their blast far more effectively than bricks, mortar and concrete.

Since the bombing of Britain's towns and cities by the Luftwaffe began it has been generally held that blast would destroy the lungs or other vital parts, but the main damage is due to bruising caused by the impact of the blast wave on the body's wall.

Some people have been killed by the blast itself, but hundreds have escaped even the slightest injury, while brick and concrete buildings have collapsed.

Others have been in rooms in which bombs have exploded. The buildings have collapsed around them, but they have escaped unhurt. One man was only 25 feet away from a 2,000-pound bomb.

If a person throws himself down when he hears a bomb coming there is only a slight chance of his being hurt by the blast itself. Most of air-fall casualties are caused by falling debris.

Research and experiment on this question of bomb blasts have resulted in the design of shelters being altered.

A government laboratory recently designed a new-type steel helmet for fire watchers and civil defense workers. It was criticized on the ground that it was not as strong as the type used by the services.

It was tested. This is what happened. Live ammunition was fired at one of them at a velocity of between 350 and 400 feet a second. The helmet was only slightly dented.

40,000 Trees Planted in U. S. Tung-Oil Project

WASHINGTON.—More than 40,000 tung trees, the beginning of what department of agriculture scientists hope will be a successful tung-oil industry in the United States, were planted last spring in test orchards throughout the Gulf coast region.

Sharp reductions in imports of tung oil because of the war in China and the generally unsettled conditions in the Far East have stimulated interest in growing tung trees in this country. Tung oil is an indispensable ingredient of quick-drying paints and varnishes.

For three years the department's bureau of plant industry specialists have been scouting tung orchards in the South for superior trees. Combining these orchards, they selected some 500 trees which were hardy, high yielding and early maturing. Nuts from these trees yield a high percentage of good quality oil. About 80 of the best trees from this selected lot of 500 were chosen for propagation. Thousands of young trees were produced from them.

Besides breeding tung trees better adapted to the climate of this country which will yield larger quantities of oil, department of agriculture scientists are studying various problems of growing trees.

Research men warn prospective tung growers, however, that the industry is still an expensive and speculative enterprise if attempted on a large scale.

Woodsmen in New York Keep Weasels as Pets

ALBANY, N. Y.—Bane of chicken farmers, the weasel is the valued house guest of many Adirondack woodsmen, the state conservation department reports.

The bloodthirsty little animal puts a house cat to shame as a mouser. His service is invaluable inasmuch as large amounts of stored food-stuffs may be spoiled by rats and mice, and replacements often involve a long trek to civilization.

The weasel usually lives in the log walls of the camp cabins and one forest ranger said his pet, Wandering Willie, prowled around the place undisturbed by the presence of a human being.

Australia Finances War With Compulsory Loans

MELBOURNE.—Prime Minister Arthur Fadden of Australia, announced a war budget of $966,000,000, featuring a compulsory loan plan. The budget includes $651,000,000 for war expenditures.

Fadden said this "national contribution" will apply to every income, no matter how derived. A person with an income of $450 a year, without dependents, will make a $33 loan contribution; an income of $1,500 will provide $285; $3,000 will provide $564; $15,000 will provide $9,888, and $120,000 will provide $104,388.

Foes' Stamps Banned In German Exhibits

BERLIN.—German philatelists have learned that dealing in postage stamps of countries at war with Germany is forbidden.

The "Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger" said: "Trading in these stamps would aid the enemy financially, and exhibition of such stamps runs counter to feelings of the German people."

Dear Mom:

Everybody in Camp has been busy writing letters to reach home in time for Mother's Day. There's a war on, and we've got a job to do, but we're all thinking of our mothers, nevertheless.

Truth is, we're thinking about you and home more than ever these days. Because it gives us a clear idea of what we're fighting for. We're all fighting for our country—and to us that means everything. It means the United States—it means our town, and, most of all, it means home. It means our folks—like you and dad. We're all working hard at our jobs, too, because winning a war isn't the simplest thing in the world. But we want to get it over with as soon as we can, and get back home to get you in person, on a future sunny spring morning with a "Happy Mother's Day, Mom!"

CARO

How putting the

SQUEEZE

helps lower your electric rates

Most of the electricity produced in the Detroit area comes from coal burned in large power plants. The heat energy in the coal is transformed into electrical energy and sent out to customers' homes over wires. For many years, our engineers have devoted time and effort to squeezing MORE electrical energy out of LESS coal. How successful have they been?

Back in 1906, three-and-a-half times as much coal was required to make electricity as today. In 1912, two-and-a-quarter times as much was needed. By 1925, the amount was down to one-and-a-half times as much. And today, with more energy being "squeezed" from coal than ever before, the amount of coal required is still being whittled down.

Coal is only a small part of the total cost of making electricity. Other factors are involved. But the story of coal typifies the many improvements we are constantly making—large and small—to lower the cost of electricity. The average price per kilowatt-hour paid by our residence customers today is 46 per cent less than in 1921. The Detroit Edison Company.

SILENT BIRD

The customer walked into the pet shop.

"I like parrots," he informed the shopkeeper, "but I want one that can keep its mouth shut. I don't want my wife to know everything that's going on."

"The shopkeeper pointed to a multi-colored parrot.

"Here's one that speaks French," he said. "Yet all you have to do is to tell him to keep quiet and he shuts up like a clam."

"The customer hesitated.

"Is that the most intelligent parrot you have?" he asked.

The proprietor looked around. Finally, he pointed to another bird.

"If you're looking for a really intelligent parrot," he confided, "that's the one you want. Would you believe it, that bird can keep its mouth shut in six different languages!"

Women's Share of War Is Service

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Mary has knitted more than one hundred helmets. The small girls knit, too. They are knitting those all-service garments that reputedly are most popular in any cold-weather camp.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE American woman is going to come of age in the next few years. She is going to put aside the grabbing, boasting, playing, unthinking ways of a child, and develop her own consciousness and her own soul.

She is going to waste less food; buy fewer things that she doesn't want; stop throwing aside perfectly good garments for newer garments; stop flocking to poor shows that she doesn't care much about seeing anyway.

She is going to learn the value of the things she has always taken for granted; things she has felt that everyone has and she must have as a matter of course. Money is going to look quite different to her in the next few years, and such common-places as a good dinner, a safe home, firelight and books and friendly faces, suddenly are going to appear to be the miracles they are.

All One Now. And since immigration has stopped short, and may not begin again for a decade, we're gradually going to unify ourselves into a strong, nationally leveled people. Not Irish-American any more, not Italian-American, not belonging any more to the varied lands that gave our forefathers birth, but all one now, devoted solely to our own country, and the immortal principles that have made her what she is.

We will not buy it cheaply, the world-peace that must come out of all this. There will be no nation in the world that will not be bled white before it arrives. But when it does arrive, if it finds us understanding ourselves and our neighbor and our social obligations better, it will not have been in vain.

This is the story of Mary Cates. I know there are many women like her, but she happens to be the example that has come to my personal knowledge and I want the women who "would love to do something but don't know how to get at it," to hear about her.

Mary is 34, the wife of a man whose income is $2,400 a year. She has daughters 8 and 10 years old, and a stepson who has just volunteered for service in the marines.

To begin with Mary saves two dollars a week, and takes two more out of the paycheck each month, to buy government stamps. She puts these in her daughters' names. She made a house-to-house canvass of her entire neighborhood—a rather humble one—to pick up games and packs of cards for the boys' club in the nearest camp. She had printed at her own expense a list of things, often thrown away in the household, that would be acceptable gifts for soldiers. At Christmas time she had six soldiers to dinner, and a small present for each was on her tree.

Mary knits helmets steadily; she has knitted more than a hundred altogether. The yarn is given her, but she does the knitting.

Children Help. The small girls knit, too; they are knitting those all-service garments that reputedly are most popular of all in any cold-weather camp. These are first simply oblongs of knitting about 24 by 22 inches. They are sewed into tubes, to be pulled up into the armpits to protect the entire body from cold, or to be drawn over the head to keep throat, chest and shoulders warm. An old and faithful Red Cross worker, Mary keeps up this obla-

DOING THEIR SHARE

Mary Cates might be someone you know. She might be one of your friends or neighbors. She might, in fact, be you yourself. She is a typical American mother, poorer than some, richer than many. With three children to take care of, neither she nor her husband has much money to spend on entertainment or luxuries. But they manage to buy defense stamps—not just once in a while, when they think of it, but every week. Mary knits, and her little girls are also learning to knit. Her stepson wants to join the Marines. Simple, average, everyday Americans, they do their share to help our country win the victory which may, at long last, mean a permanent peace.

tion, and she does not forget prayer. Every morning before seven she walks to church for 20 minutes of an earnest service, and when she walks home to start breakfast her face is always bright.

But perhaps the finest thing about Mary Cates is her mental, moral and spiritual attitude. Her only brother is out on the great north Atlantic on a destroyer; Mary knows in her heart what the news from Don may be at any moment. But she faces whatever may come with complete fortitude.

She will do what she can, in the years ahead, every day and every hour; she will pray and work and plan over each new duty, each change as it arrives, and no one will ever hear her complaining of the world that is at war, or vainly wishing that things could go back to what they were.

Things won't go back. They'll never quite go back. But perhaps we'll all be simpler and kinder, less exacting, less rapacious, when this tragedy is over. Perhaps the sacrifices, hospitalities and generousities of war will be extended to days of peace, and nobody will have ten times too much of the necessities of life, and nobody will have only one-tenth enough.

Lift Your Hears. So lift your hearts, and get into the side of this fight that does not involve hate or revenge or ugliness of any kind, but just loving and serving. The situation is not of our choosing; the decisions have been made for us, and in that very fact there lies a certain sorrowful satisfaction, a certain conviction that no matter how difficult our path may be, at least it has been made plain.

Many years ago I found some lines of an old hymn. I've thought of them often in the last few weeks. Here they are, perhaps imperfectly quoted, but the spirit is there: When you come to the Red Sea place in your life, When there's nothing else you can do, There is no way back, there is no way 'round, There is no other way but through. Then trust in the Lord with a faith supreme, 'Till the dark and the night are gone, He will still the waves; He will calm the storm. When He says to your soul, "Go on."

There is no other way for us now but THROUGH. And we will get through.

KINDERGARTNERS AND THE FIRST GRADERS ENTERTAIN

Concluded from first page. mals, excelsior being used as straw. Smaller wagons and miniature animals were made for bulletin boards. The circus was carried out entirely by the children, every child in the grade taking part.

Two little girls sold and took tickets at the door, each ticket costing a pin. Three little girls presided at the stand where lemonade was sold for one cent a glass.

Bobby Kitchen, as circus ringmaster with long whip, announced the various acts, speaking through a megaphone. Music appropriate for a circus was played on a nickelodeon.

Among the performers were a living skeleton, a trained mud turtle, two snake charmers and the fat man and fat woman who danced. A camp of gypsies entertained with gypsy dances and two little girls with parasols walked the tight rope. A rough riding cowboy did tricks while riding a bucking broncho, the broncho (two boys) also did his share of stunts. The antics and tumbling acts of the many clowns and Indians were much enjoyed.

All costumes were unique and very colorful. Mrs. Zora Day, first grade instructor, was given much praise for an outstanding performance.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

gic war materials, and sugar is being shipped to our allies under the lend-lease plan. Ships which could carry sugar are critically needed to transport tanks and airplanes, for example, to the Russian front.

Just another reason why you will have only a pound of sugar during the next two weeks!

Food experts say we really don't need any sugar at all.

We do need the food energy that sugar gives us. And the same energy can be obtained from cereals, bread, potatoes, fats and other similar starch foods, rich in carbohydrates.

Sirups and honey may be used instead of sugar in baking. Cakes can get along without frosting, and milk has its own sugar.

Corn, carrots and sweet potatoes are vegetables rich in their own sugar.

Custards and puddings need little sugar; salads practically no sugar. And literally tons of sugar are wasted by Americans daily because they do not stir thoroughly their cup of coffee or tea!

Speaking of transportation, have you bought your winter's coal supply yet and have you joined an "auto club"?

The two things are not unrelated. Coal is shipped by railroad, and it accounts for one-fourth of the rail traffic of the nation.

Michigan automobile plants, fast being converted to war production, are beginning to turn out an increasing amount of tanks and bombers and other machines of death. Furthermore, these finished machines require thousands of parts which, in turn, require transportation in thousands of freight cars.

By next fall and winter, two things will probably take place:

One is a critical congestion of railroad transportation, just as shipping today is faced with a critical shortage. Every ton of coal bought today for delivery this spring and summer will free railroad cars next fall and winter for rush shipment of tanks and guns and shells and will ease any threat of a coal shortage.

A plane for MacArthur's men, a tank to shove the Germans back to Berlin, a gun to blast the Japs out of Manila—will NOT be held up in order to ship coal for your home. Want to help MacArthur? Then order your coal TODAY!

Second coming event of transportation importance is an inevitable depletion of rubber tires. How long will your present tires last? There's the rub.

Governor Murray D. Van Wagener has summoned mayors of some 30 leading cities of Michigan to consider adoption of the "Pontiac Plan" (explained in this column last week).

Instead of the wasteful spectacle of four or five automobiles heading in the same direction at the same time, each with an empty back seat, one car might do the job. Traffic would be reduced, parking problems eased, many lives saved—all because the Japs seized rubber plantations in Malaya, 10,000 miles away!

"Drive slower and speed victory" may be another 1942 war slogan.

These are small sacrifices for us to make. Michigan citizens are going to make them cheerfully and willingly. For we realize that the war can be won or lost on the home front, that in the doing of thousands of little things, not always in spectacular acts of bravery, we on the home front make our contributions for victory.

Andre Plead for Soldiers' Death

Note to Washington Prayed To Be Spared Dishonor Of Being Hanged.

NEW ORLEANS.—A New Orleans collector has bought for $400, a scrap of paper containing the proud words Maj. John Andre penned to George Washington asking death by a firing squad.

The yellowed, 161-year-old letter—which was never answered—has been in the hands of a New Orleans family for generations. It was sold by Leo Brownson, a broker, who would reveal the name of neither seller nor buyer.

In it Andre, imprisoned for plotting with Benedict Arnold, pleaded with General Washington in polite, nicely turned phrases to spare him death "on a jibbet." Andre wrote the request on the eve of his execution at Tappan, N. Y.

Washington's denial of it caused subsequent charges of harshness on the American commander's part that have been the subject of much historical argument.

His manner of death, however, was only the last blow in a life of disappointments for John Andre. Perhaps the greatest came when the strict parents of Honora Sneyd forbade him her hand.

Joins Royal Army.

He then joined the royal army in Canada. Honora married another in 1773, but Andre's account of his capture with the surrender of St. John's in 1775 notes that he was "stripped of everything except the picture of Honora, which I concealed in my mouth. Preserving this I yet think myself fortunate."

Exchanged for an American prisoner in three years, Andre returned to service and won rapid promotions. His ill-fated rendezvous with Benedict Arnold occurred when, as an adjutant general of the British forces, he landed at West Point flying a flag of truce.

Pretending to arrange for disposition of a Loyalist's confiscated property, he obtained vital defense maps from the traitorous American officer. The plot might have been successful had not American fire forced his sloop o'war, the Vulture, to move down the river.

Andre changed into civilian clothes and hurried toward the English lines, but three colonial militiamen captured him near Tarrytown. They found the telltale papers in his boots.

Pleads With Washington.

The event later was commemorated by an American statue to the three who seized the British officer, and by a British tablet in Westminster Abbey eulogizing Andre. The historic letter to "His Excellency General Washington" will be sent to the Library of Congress in Washington to be photographed and then returned to New Orleans. It follows:

(Dated October 1, 1780.)
"Sir:

"Buoyed above the terror of death by the consciousness of a life devoted to honorable pursuits and stained with no action that can give me remorse, I trust the request I make to Your Excellency at this serious period and which is to soften my last moments will not be rejected.

Scooter Ambulance Is Devised for Injured

LOS ANGELES.—Something new and novel in the way of emergency transportation for injured persons is to be demonstrated before the Los Angeles County Council for Civilian Defense.

It is a motor scooter ambulance, consisting of a canvas-covered litter carried on a wood and steel frame mounted on springs and attached to a high-powered motor scooter. There are observation windows of celluloid that may be opened by zippers and ventilators in the canvas top.

The scooter itself is equipped with a siren, red emergency light and a tandem seat to accommodate driver and an attendant.

Alfred Mailing, inventor of the one-patient ambulance, said he designed it for economy and emergency utility.

Mail Goes Through, but Stumps Capital Police

WASHINGTON.—A mail carrier left his cartload of letters outside a senate office while he went inside. When he came out, the cart was gone. He reported to the capital police, and they finally found the cart, empty, in another corridor.

A check disclosed that all the mail had been delivered.

"But who took the cart and delivered the mail we don't know," a policeman said.

Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, Henry J. Morgenthau, Jr., in his radio address informed the nation that 50,000,000 Americans would be asked to invest at least 10% of their earnings every month in War Bonds.

The goal is to sell $600,000,000 worth of War Bonds and Stamps during the month of May; $800,000,000 in June, and $1,000,000,000 every month thereafter. Michigan's quota for May is $21,646,500, which is $8,061,838 increase over the $15,584,662 which the state averaged over an eight months period from July, 1941, through January, 1942.

Frank N. Isbey, state chairman, has set up a tremendous state organization. For the outstate campaign an army of 115,000 pledge seekers has been enlisted. The shock troops of this army will be the workers of United States Department of Agriculture War Board, of which Maurice Daan at Lansing is the president. The U. S. D. A. through its nine various agencies will have a minimum of one man for each square mile in the rural sections of the state.

In the towns and cities, with a population of from 300 upwards, there is a local chairman and a permanent War Bond Savings Committee. Each of these local chairmen is in turn responsible to his county chairman, who will supervise the drive in each county.

Mr. Isbey stated at the headquarters of the War Savings Bonds Committee for Michigan in the Buhl Building, that he felt certain that the citizens of Michigan would not let the nation down in doing its part in loaning the Government voluntarily the funds necessary to carry on and win the war.

May Quota for State, $21,646,500

The above map of Michigan shows the War Bond quotas, by counties, for the month of May, 1942. Total War Bond quota for the State is $21,646,500. Every income earner in the State is expected to step-up War Bond purchases on a basis of ten per cent or more of income. This is necessary to help America's armed forces take the offensive against the Axis powers. The American voluntary method of War Bond purchases must be successful in reaching the quotas set by the Treasury Department for every county in the nation. The job of every American now is to stop spending and save dollars to help win the War.

FARM TOPICS

DIET OF LEGUME IS VITAL FACTOR

Can Detect Distress Signs When Food Is Lacking.

By E. E. DETURK
(Professor of Soil Fertility, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois)

Legumes, like other crops, fly unmistakable distress signals when their diet lacks important plant food elements, observations made in the past cropping season indicate. Yet they frequently show these nutritional deficiencies by slow growth, rather than by any specific abnormalities of form or color. They are likely to produce undersized plants which are normal in appearance otherwise.

Ordinarily the early symptoms of plant food hunger take the form of changes in color. The most common color symptom results from chlorosis—or loss of the green color. This may be followed by the death of the affected area. The chlorosis may consist of paling of the ordinary green color, or the appearance of various shades of yellow or even white dots and patches.

In general the lack of one or more of the three major plant food elements—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium—will result in ill health for the crop.

Nitrogen deficiency results in slow growth of the legumes, a decrease in the branching of the plants and smaller plants at maturity. These may occur without the appearance of specific symptoms and have little value to the farmer or agronomist attempting a diagnosis. Severe nitrogen deficiency often causes mild chlorosis in which the leaves gradually become pale green with a yellowish tinge rather than distinctly yellow. The chlorosis usually spreads evenly over the entire leaf surface.

A lack of phosphorus manifests itself in slow growth. The legume plants remain small and undeveloped. Flowering and seed production tend to be delayed and a bluish-green tinge may develop in the leaves. But there are no specific symptoms that can be used with assurance for purposes of detecting phosphorus deficiency.

Of all the symptoms observable in legumes, those of potassium hunger are probably the most outstanding and easily recognized.

Broad-leaved legumes such as the soybean show evidence of insufficient potassium by irregular yellow mottling around the edges of the leaflets. The discolored areas soon merge, forming a continuous yellow border around the tip and along the sides, but rarely around the base. Death of the chlorotic area that first became mottled follows promptly along with a downward cupping of the leaf edges. Then the dead tissue falls out, giving the leaflet a ragged appearance.

Dairy Production

The "all-out" dairy production program for defense needs and higher returns to the dairymen should be tempered with careful feeding and management practices, believes C. S. Rhode, extension dairy specialist of the University of Illinois college of agriculture. Overfeeding on high protein rations, short dry periods and failure to supply adequate amounts of minerals are some of the things to be avoided. Balancing the grain mixture to fit the kind and quality of available roughage, the use of bone meal in the ration when needed and a dry period of a month to six weeks are some of the points that should receive attention.

Good Care of Soil

Aids Defense Plans

Contour farming, strip cropping and terracing can help in increasing yields to meet the needs of the national food for defense program, says Lindsey G. Cook, extension soil conservationist at Rutgers university. This is the time to make plans for 1942, he reminds farmers.

"American farmers will be asked to produce greater quantities of food than ever before in the history of the country," Cook reports. "Farmers are fast finding out, by means of research and experience on their own farms, that conservation practices play a definite part in increasing yields."

"This is the time to begin planning the farm program for next season in such a way that record production can be obtained without the wasteful practices of the last war."

Lines' Bending

Swinging round the circle to see where soil conservation is working and where farmers are still losing too much of the soil that they might be saving, Dr. H. H. Bennett of the U. S. department of agriculture found that out in "the region of straight line plowing," the contour method is making progress. More than half the corn in the typical Corn Belt county of Montgomery, in Iowa, was planted on contour this year. None was continued in 1937.

A MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY
WASHINGTON

May 1, 1942

TO THE PEOPLE OF MICHIGAN:

This week a new campaign for the sale of War Bonds and Savings Stamps is under way throughout the Nation. It is the War Bond Quota Campaign.

It is urgently necessary that you double the rate at which you are now buying War Bonds and Stamps. This will mean the sale direct to individual Americans of War Bonds and Stamps to the amount of not less than one billion dollars every month.

One billion dollars a month is the National quota. It is equal to one-tenth the combined incomes of all Americans.

This money is needed to buy the tools of war for our fighting forces. It will not pay for all of them. Our war expenditures now are at the rate of about FOUR BILLION a month, and they are growing daily. But a billion dollars a month direct from the people will make all-out production possible. Without it we cannot do our best; without it we cannot put forth our full effort.

It is desperately needed for another reason. We can't fight a war and at the same time live and spend as usual. There are not enough goods to go around—the things we buy with money. If we go on spending at the 1941 scale, we'll be robbing the fighting men to add to our own comfort or pleasure. We'll be driving up the cost of living for all of us. We'll be imposing dire hardships on our neighbors.

What is asked of you is ten per cent of your earnings—a tithe for liberty. It is not a tax; it is not even a contribution; it is a loan at interest, for your use and protection later.

Your Government asks you to cut down your expenditures, TO SAVE—your boys on the firing line and in the training camps, through your Government, ask you to save so that they may have what they need to win WAR for you—America asks you to save; TO SAVE TO WIN THE WAR; to buy War Bonds and Stamps up to not less than ten per cent of your income.

Is Liberty worth it? Is Democracy worth it? Is America worth it? I think I know your answer.

Sincerely,

Amgenhauf

The above letter was sent to this newspaper by Secretary Morgenthau in Washington. We publish it in the interest of the War Bond Quota Campaign and earnestly recommend that all our readers do their share in the tremendous job ahead of financing the War effort.

Sees Chance of Another Ice Age

Scientist Says It's Likely If Earth Either Warms Or Cools.

WASHINGTON.—Either increase or decrease of the earth's temperature may cause an ice age, depending on local conditions.

This is the hypothesis advanced by Dr. Walter Knoch, chief climatologist of the Argentine weather bureau, in a bulletin issued by the Smithsonian institution.

It often is popularly assumed that the great ice sheets which covered large areas of the northern United States during the last geological period must have been due to a decline in temperature—for ice and snow are naturally associated with cold.

How It Works Out.

A few years ago both the British meteorologist, Sir George Simpson, and Dr. Knoch himself advanced a contrary, and seemingly, quite paradoxical, explanation—that ice ages may be due to a rise in temperature. This would cause more precipitation.

In the polar regions, where the average temperature most of the year would be close to the freezing point, this would fall in the form of snow. The snow would pile up and become compacted into glacial ice.

The glaciers would flow southward. They would produce their own cooling effect as they progressed. There would be considerable melting each summer but never enough to overbalance the new ice arriving from the north.

By the same reasoning, an ice age would begin to decline as the earth grew cooler and precipitation decreased. The summer melting in temperate climate would continue, perhaps at a slightly reduced rate, but the building up of new glacial ice would be reduced so as to more than counterbalance this slight loss.

This explanation seems adequate for most of the northern hemisphere but is far too simple for the earth as a whole, Dr. Knoch concludes as the result of extensive studies of local conditions in southern Patagonia and Tierra del Fuego, now extremely desolate regions.

North and South Differ.

In the north, polar ice would pile up over the Arctic and come down over the land where it would affect profoundly local temperatures. In the south there would be an increase of polar glaciation which would flow northward into the sea where, with a more uniform effect of the increased terrestrial temperature, it would melt more quickly than at present.

For southern mountain regions, however, the situation may be quite different. His studies, he declares, make it apparent that "in some mountains the glaciers of closely adjoining peak regions can advance or retreat either with a general increase or a general decrease of the temperature of the earth's atmosphere."

A great deal, he points out, depends on local conditions of cloudiness and prevailing winds. With an increase in precipitation due to an increasing temperature ice certainly would pile up on the high mountains, even in temperate climates. But, under appropriate conditions, the total cloudiness would prevent melting and glaciers would overwhelm the lowlands.

The warden, taken aback, said: "Oh, that's not my job; but I think perhaps you could spray them."

CUTTING

He was noted for the efforts he always made to attract to himself any strange young woman who came into the district, the local girls avoiding him as a bore.

One night, at a dance in honor of her arrival, he sought an introduction to the new school teacher.

Grasping her hand tightly in his moist palm and gazing soulfully into her eyes, he said: "Ever since I heard of your arrival I've had a beautiful picture of you in my mind."

"Really?" answered the teacher icily. "How small you make me feel."

The young couple stood before the parson. Both seemed very frightened. The parson glanced at the young man.

"Do you," he said slowly, "take this woman to be your lawful wedded wife?"

"I—I really don't know," stammered the young man nervously. The parson turned to the girl.

"And do you," he asked, "take this man to be your lawful wedded husband?"

"Well," hesitated the girl, "I'm beginning to wonder."

The parson nodded.

"That's great!" he cried grimly. "I now pronounce you man and wife—maybe!"
