

Dr. J. A. Hannah Is Guest Speaker at Ladies' Night

Two Hundred Sixty Enjoyed Social Function of Community Club Tuesday

The lovely decorations of the junior-senior banquet at the school auditorium were left intact for the May meeting of the Cass City Community Club Tuesday evening and provided a beautiful setting for the Ladies' Night program of the club.

Following a tempting dinner, served by the women of the Church of Christ, Arthur Holmberg, president of the club, welcomed the guests.

Willis Campbell, Elkland Township chairman for securing pledges for war stamps and bonds purchases, gave a report of the work accomplished Tuesday by the Minute Men and J. Ivan Niergarth explained and showed moving pictures on "How to Attempt to Control a Fire Bomb in Your Own Home."

The Cass City High School Band, resplendent in their new uniforms, played several musical numbers.

State Representative Audley Rawson introduced Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, East Lansing, as speaker of the evening. He gave no particular subject but began his talk by saying: "This is a serious time and there are many things we as Americans should be thinking about."

"Much has been written and said about the fundamental differences between the basic philosophies or ideologies of the totalitarian states as contrasted to our democratic conceptions," he said. "I think it can all be boiled down to very few Turn to page 8, please.

Christmas Seal Sale Here Exceeded that of Previous Year

Superintendent J. Ivan Niergarth, who served as community manager in Cass City for the 1941 tuberculosis Christmas seal sale, received a letter of appreciation this week from Miss Mary Maier of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Cass City is one of the 117 community manager towns in the state which went above the past year's seal sale record, according to Miss Maier. She paid tribute to the school and to the entire town for the fine cooperation which made this increase possible.

Last year there were 149 towns Turn to page 8, please.

Bossie Goes Off Her Rampage on Taking a Ration of Sweets

One of Eugene A. Livingston's high producing cows went on a rampage on his Elkland Township farm recently and it was only after she had been issued several rations of sweets did she subside and return to her normal self. For a few days, it looked as though the owner might have to apply for a sugar ration card for Bossie, for Mrs. Livingston's sugar supply was reduced down to a half pound before a substitute sweet was discovered. This proved to be molasses. Mr. Livingston having purchased a five-barrel supply of this sirup to use for mixing with grass for silage. A pint of molasses a day for Bossie, like an apple a day for man, has kept the doctor away.

The four-year-old bovine suddenly became unmanageable and apparently went temporarily insane until the sugar and later the molasses ration was administered on the advice of a veterinary surgeon. The first dose was five pounds of sugar, two pounds the next day, and one and one-half pounds the third day, and then when the family larder could not furnish more sugar, it was decided to commence the molasses diet.

The malady which affects only a high producing cow depletes her sugar supply. In the temporary stage of insanity, the cow affected will chew her manger and attempt other unusual and unnatural feats. A diet which includes sweets restores the animal to a normal state of health.

COACH ROSS TO GO TO LANSING SCHOOL

Lester Ross, who is completing his fourth year as athletic coach in the Cass City High School, has accepted a position as coach of varsity football and basketball in the East High School at Lansing for the coming year.

Eaton Out to Win Senate Contest

Elton R. Eaton, editor and publisher of The Plymouth Mail, has announced that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

Petitions are already in circulation for him. Editor Eaton, who started in the senatorship contest two years ago but withdrew in favor of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg when he failed to win a place on the national ticket, declares that it is his intention to put up one of the hardest fights he has ever made for the nomination.

80 at Baptist Mother-Daughter Banquet on Friday

"A Great Woman" Was
Theme of Mrs. A. C. Mc-Donald, Guest Speaker.

Orchid and yellow was the color scheme used Friday evening when the Mother-Daughter banquet, sponsored by the Judson Bible Class of the First Baptist Church, was served at seven o'clock in the dining room to mothers and daughters of the church, the men of the church serving.

Eighty guests were present and seated at tables beautifully decorated with streamers of orchid and yellow crepe paper and bouquets of lilacs and yellow tulips. A large sign with the words "Mother-Daughter" was suspended from the ceiling, the letters being yellow on an orchid background. Small folders, in the shape of slippers containing the menu and program, were also of orchid and yellow.

The program, at which Mrs. Donald Withey acted as toastmaster, included group singing, prayer by Mrs. Frank E. Smith, reading by Irene Smith, a toast to daughters by Mrs. Harold Reed and a response to mothers by Miss Mary K. Brown. A vocal duet, "If I Could Only Hear My Mother Pray Again," was given by Mrs. Stanley McArthur and Eva Jane Somes. "A Great Woman" was the theme of a talk given by Mrs. A. C. McDonald of Farmington, the guest speaker.

Mrs. Robert Charleston, as the oldest mother present with a daughter, was presented with a plant and Mrs. Forest Tye as the youngest mother was also given a plant.

The program closed with a prayer by Mrs. Withey.

Public Invited to Band Concert Sunday Afternoon

Residents of this community are invited to attend a Sunday afternoon concert which will be presented by the Cass City High School Band on May 31. The concert will begin at 3:30 p. m. in the school auditorium.

The spirit of the band is unusually high this season because of the smart uniforms recently received. These uniforms make the Cass City group one of the finest looking bands in Michigan.

The Sunday afternoon program is diversified so as to afford everyone an enjoyment of good music. There will be no admission charge.

Two years ago I was a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Clerk when the late Ernest Haas was nominated. After considerable thought I have decided to be a candidate for that office again. Had Mr. Haas been spared to complete the usual two terms accorded Tuscola county clerks, I would have waited another two years before announcing my candidacy. Your support at the Republican Primary in September will be greatly appreciated.

Federal Price Control in Effect in Ten Days

Most Revolutionary Step Ever to Be Taken in Our National Economy.

Michigan Press Association
News Letter.

Michigan retailers are tightening their belts this week.

Federal price control, probably the most revolutionary step ever taken in our national economy, will go into effect in just ten days.

It's the NRA all over again, except Uncle Sam is wielding the big stick. The Blue Eagle is back. Like it or not, price control is on the way. And with it are due other economic restrictions, staggering in their aggregate significance. Most economists agree that you can't freeze prices without the accompanying power of rationing commodities of which sugar is only the first. The grade will be steep.

What is it all about, anyway? Let's take a look at it from the retailer's point of view.

On and after Monday, May 18, every retail store in Michigan must publicly display the ceiling prices of selected "cost of living" commodities—about 100 in number. After July 1 every retail store must have, available to anyone upon request, a prepared statement of the highest prices for all commodities which the store delivered or supplied during March, 1942, which is the period adopted for the price freeze.

Uncle Sam will possess control through automatic licensing of all retailers and wholesalers.

Exempt from price control are insurance, real estate and professional fees; advertising, motion pictures, wages, common carrier and public utility rates.

Although an estimated 60 to 70 per cent of all food consumed in the average family's budget are included in price control, the exemptions include eggs and poultry, all milk products, flour, mutton and lamb, fresh fish and seafoods and game, and dried prunes and beans.

Also excluded from price control Turn to page 6, please.

Senator Recommends Non-Competitive Postmaster Exams

Senator Prentiss M. Brown has recommended that a non-competitive civil service examination be given Arthur Little and that he be reappointed postmaster at Cass City.

The senator has made a similar recommendation for Mrs. Martha M. Rupperecht at Reese, and that Mrs. Rhea Henderson, acting postmaster at Kingston, be appointed permanent postmaster in that village.

BIG DEMAND FOR MOTHER'S DAY CAKES

Saturday may be classed as a busy day at the Sommers' Bakery. Outside of the Saturday trade in regular baked goods, 93 Mother's Day cakes were sold.

Salvage for Victory Campaign Here

A Salvage for Victory campaign, sponsored by E. Paul & Son and local community organizations, will be conducted in the Cass City community, from May 18 to 23 inclusive.

Sponsors in the campaign urge residents to "sell scrap when prices are good, when it is needed. Take an hour a day, gather up all old iron, be it ten pounds or 10,000 pounds, and take to your local scrap dealer. Tell your neighbors!"

Fine Response in Tuscola in Bond Purchase Pledges

Early Returns Indicate 98% of Persons Canvassed Will Cooperate.

In the canvass of minute men in Tuscola County the first of the week, the returns thus far received by Clarence Bougher, county chairman, indicate that from 98 to 99 per cent of people approached by canvassers gave pledges to systematically purchase U. S. bonds and stamps during the duration. The response was most gratifying, says Mr. Bougher.

Because pledges given were confidential, Mr. Bougher says that not even total pledges in any one township or village, will be made public. He plans, however, to release figures next week which will reveal the percentage of people who were contacted and made pledges.

Willis Campbell, local chairman, was equally pleased with the fine response exhibited by the people of Elkland Township. Tuesday morning, 90 men, following a breakfast at the school auditorium, contacted residents of the township and village.

"I appreciate the fine cooperation of this group of workers and the promptness and energy in which the task was undertaken," says Mr. Campbell. "If some persons were missed in the canvass, they may still make their pledges at Wood's Drug Store or by seeing me personally."

To the voters of Tuscola County: I wish to announce my candidacy on the Republican ticket for the office of County Treasurer.

Your support and vote at the primaries, September 15, will be greatly appreciated.

Diamond Jubilee W. C. T. U. Meet at Kingston May 22

The diamond jubilee convention of the Tuscola-Huron Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held Friday, May 22, at the Methodist Church in Kingston with morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Mrs. Ruth Losie of Port Huron will show slides on alcohol and cigarettes at the evening meeting. Mrs. Clara P. Todd of Plymouth, state treasurer, will attend the several sessions of the convention.

Cass City people desiring to attend the convention next Friday are requested to meet at the Nazarene Church at 9:00 a. m. and conveyances will be provided for the group. Next Friday being the date of the regular meeting of the Cass City Union, members of that group will gather at noon in the Kingston Methodist Church for a brief session.

Mrs. Twilton Heron is spending the week with relatives in Ann Arbor and is attending the Adult Education Conference.

Caro First in Upper Thumb Track Meet

The Upper Thumb track and field meet in Caro Monday afternoon started at 2:00 p. m. and ended in a heavy downpour at 5:00 p. m. Caro cinched the meet by taking three places in the broad jump and piling up a total of 44 points. Other schools followed in this order: Harbor Beach, 38; Cass City, 32; Sandusky, 25½; Vassar, 22½; Bad Axe, 11½; and Sebewaing, 7½.

Cass City, Caro, Harbor Beach, Bad Axe and Vassar all scored two first places each. From Cass City, Root placed first in the pole vault, Clement first in the 100 yard dash and second in the 220. Profit tied for second in the 200 yard low hurdles, Auten third in the 880, Dorus Doerr fifth in the mile, and Slicker fifth in the 440.

Junior-Senior Banquet Was a Colorful Event

200 Juniors and Guests
Enjoy a Delightful Program and Dinner May 7.

The Junior Class of Cass City High School played host to the seniors, faculty and board of education on Thursday evening, May 7, at a banquet and dance, held in the school gymnasium. The setting for this year's festivity was a flower garden, in the center of which was a "Wishing Well."

The ceiling of the gym was entirely covered by crepe paper streamers of "French Blue" to represent a daytime sky. Butterflies of fantastic size and color were suspended in the sky and balloons of pastel shades were intermingled with them. The walls of the garden were bedecked with trellises of yellow, pink and American Beauty roses. In between the trellises, the brick garden walks were covered with ivy vines. The "Wishing Well" was also covered with roses and vines. A low white picket fence surrounded the two-tiered band stand. The banquet tables gave a colorful effect with the green and white table covers, enhanced by rose nut cups in yellow, the pastel shades on the program covers, 18-inch taper candles and the bouquets of yellow and pink snapdragons.

At 7:00 p. m., 200 juniors and guests marched into the beautiful floral garden to an appropriate procession played by Charles Keen. After Arthur Holmberg gave the invocation, the group sat down to a most delightful dinner prepared by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church and served by twenty sophomore girls. During the progress of the dinner, group singing held the spotlight. Demands were made through song for several personages to "take a bow," "get under the table," or "march around the table." The spontaneous hour of song and fun came to a close with the singing of "Remember Pearl Harbor," "Star Spangled Banner" and "America." During this time, a photographer took several photos of the gathering and setting.

The banquet program was centered on the theme "Senior, We Are Wishing You Well," and got under way with the singing "Wishing" by the Juniors and their guests. Miss Lulabelle Heron, pre-Turn to page 5, please.

I AM AN American Day
(May 17, 1942.)

I am an American.
I do not care for war. But I care less for abject slavery.
I do not like to fight. But I would sooner fight than be ruled by a tyrant whose goal is the subjugation of all mankind.
I do not like to kill. But I will not rest until the crazed ambitions of madmen are forever dead.
I do not want to die. But I prefer death to the loss of our heritage of freedom.
I am an American.

Train Million For Arms Work

Ex-Auto Workers Given Special Courses for Armament Program.

DETROIT.—This is the story of an important battle that America is winning.

It is the battle to train a million workers to make armaments that our armies will fight with.

The biggest piece of the armament program falls to the automobile industry, which recently stopped making cars and is in the process of conversion to war work.

When it is going full blast again—it is hoped within the "ten silver months" remaining this year—it will near around a million workers, twice as many as there ever were before.

Virtually all of these will have to have had some special training.
There is hardly an operation in armament manufacture that will be just the same as one in automobile manufacture, which was so specialized that you had one machine to bore one-eighth inch holes, another to bore one-sixteenth holes; one machine to bore two holes at once, another to bore four holes at once. It takes four times as many operations to make an airplane engine connecting rod as it does to make an automobile connecting rod.

Training a Million.
The scope of training a million people may be compared with the problem that confronted the army at the time of the first draft a year ago.

How are you going to do it?
The problem not only has been solved, but the training is underway, turning out workers as fast—except in the highly specialized tool-and-die bottleneck field—as machines can be installed for them to operate.

The General Motors institute at Flint turned out 16,000 last year.
Henry Ford has started an airplane engineering school in connection with his Pratt and Whitney engine manufacturing that is training several thousand men and is establishing a school for 8,000 at his Rising Willow Run bomber plant.

All these projects make only a small dent in that envisioned 1,000,000. The bulk of them will be training products of the very factories where they will work.

The auto companies got going on this program over a year ago, when defense orders first started coming through.

In preparation for General Motors' aluminum fabrication plant, a small group of supervisors was sent to study operations of the Aluminum Company of America plant in Cleveland.

Start Spreading Out.

Another group went to the Pratt and Whitney airplane plant in Hartford, Conn. A hundred men from a Fisher Body plant went to the North American Aviation factory in Inglewood, Calif.

When these groups got back they started spreading out what they had learned.

The last level of training, the biggest job since it involves the biggest number of workers, is accomplished by two principal methods: The "supervisor" system, where a trained man keeps an eye on several novices each at his own machine; and the "trainee" method, where a novice is assigned to an experienced workman at a machine to learn from him.

Here the industry follows its basic mass production principle of breaking a big job down into easily manageable parts, and tackling the parts one by one.

A 30-caliber machine-gun has 285 parts, with an average of 30 manufacturing operations for each part.
For speed the work is laid out among as many operators as possible. If one man is performing three operations they see if they can't divide it among three men doing one operation each.

This reduces to a minimum the amount that an operator has to be taught. Teaching him is similarly speeded by breaking down his operation into its essential parts.

Player Confesses Famed Basketball Shot Fluke

PORTLAND, ORE.—Bob Leute will be remembered by basketball fans as the Idaho collegian who, back in 1934, sank an 80-foot toss, but Bob confesses it was an accident.

"It was really a rotten play," he grins.

"Believe it or not, I wasn't aiming at the basket, but at my teammate, Walter Carter, who was standing under the rim. I just threw too high, and bingo—I was the most surprised guy on the floor."

Caves in New Zealand Equipped as Shelters

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND.—
Caves capable of sheltering thousands of residents of Mount Eden are being equipped with electric lighting and with seating facilities.
The caves, including one cavern said to have a capacity of from 5,000 to 10,000 persons, were opened after having been closed for years to prevent children from getting lost in their depths. Volunteers worked to provide the sanctuary.

Mosquito Shuns Treated Water

Gardeners and fishermen alike will rejoice later on this year if thoughtful persons take time out now to treat water surfaces with some anti-mosquito precautions.

The job is so simple it would appear to be good business for resort owners and home folks to reduce the buzzing, biting populations of summer pests, suggests Prof. E. I. McDaniel of the Michigan State College entomology department.

For large water surfaces, such as ponds or large puddles, a dusting of Paris green will do the trick.
The quantity should be small to avoid injury to plants or other insects. A half pound of the powder provides enough dust to cover a half acre water surface. The powder is applied by scattering with a duster.

The treatment kills mosquito larvae and discourages adult mosquitoes from laying eggs on the treated water area. Puddles in fields or ruts in roadways should also be treated to complete the control.

Householders with garden pools can do the job with goldfish instead of the poison. One suggestion from Professor McDaniel is that the fish should not be too well fed. If the goldfish are kept hungry they'll live longer and mop up the mosquito larvae with greater efficiency.

Prevalence of mosquitoes depends on rainfall in spring and summer months. The story about the pests hatching in hollow trees is correct, says the college authority, but in such cases the hollow trees hold sufficient pools of water to hatch the larvae and feed them until they fly.

Treatment of cisterns is simple.
A cupful of fine oil keeps the mosquitoes out, yet does not prevent use of the cistern water for cooking or other purposes.

Freshen Crumpled Flowers

To freshen crumpled artificial flowers, hold them over the steam from a tea kettle for a few minutes; then pull them out into shape and shake them until they are quite dry.
This treatment works wonders, especially with velvet flowers.

Blow Soap Bubbles

Next time the children have a party let them blow soap bubbles, with a little glycerine added to the soapy water. The glycerine will make the bubbles look much prettier—all rainbow colors and iridescent—and they'll last longer, too.

You know how important it is to have correct tire inflation. Tires underinflated 30% lose at least one-quarter of their possible life. But you can't get correct inflation with inaccurate tire gauges—and it's a fact that many gauges now in use are inaccurate by a number of pounds.

To guard you against this danger, Standard Oil has equipped its men with devices for testing the gauges of all Standard Oil dealers. A constant inspection is maintained so that faulty gauges can be discovered and adjusted.

ELECTRICITY and War

WAR brings rapid changes, but here are the facts about your electric service as it exists today:

LINE EXTENSIONS: Because of the critical shortage of copper, aluminum, and other metals, restrictions have been placed on line extensions to serve new customers. Unless our poles and lines run within 250 feet of your building, we are unable to extend these lines without approval of the War Production Board at Washington, D.C. Where buildings are nearly completed, and an extension of our lines is necessary to serve them, we will assist in preparing the forms required for special approval, and forward your application to the proper authorities in Washington.

ELECTRIC APPLIANCES: Electric appliances, like automobiles and other things made of metal, are being curtailed; and necessities like ships and defense housing will have first claim. We expect that electric ranges and water heaters will be available to a limited extent for replacement of worn-out appliances and for defense houses having priority.

USE OF ELECTRICITY: Last fall curtailment in the use of electricity became necessary in some parts of the country, mostly where unusually low rainfall affected water power plants. We have had ample generating capacity and still do for anything which can be foreseen. If a shortage should appear, requiring necessary curtailment, we will let you know about it.

THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY

War and Women Are Best Word Coiners

Cause of Many Additions To Dictionary.

NEW YORK.—Priority, which has taken from Mr. Ordinary American most of his luxuries and a lot of what he thought were his necessities, has given him one thing—a new word.

Priority will be in the new editions of the dictionaries, Dr. Charles E. Funk, lexicographer who has been passing judgment on words for 40 years, said as he thumbed over the last proofs of spring editions.

"War and women are our best word makers," Dr. Funk said. Bottleneck, Dr. Funk said, is a perfect example of a war-born word. "It sounds like a word we have been using for years," he explained, "but as a matter of fact it will get in the dictionaries for the first time in 1942."

"I believe women coin more words than wars. No matter what the situation, they find an expression for it."

"We have them to thank for hair-do and beautician. Housewives have also coined vacuuming, but it has not yet been put in the dictionary."

Jeep and peep, describing war vehicles, make their bow in the coming editions.

Blitz is an example of words that come into the language through the back door—brought in from a foreign language.

War words which already have found their way into the dictionaries include blackout, blind flying, fifth column and dive bomber.

Quisling—meaning you know what—already has been included in one or two of the six standard dictionaries, Dr. Funk said.

Maine Now Looms as New Source for Minerals

PORTLAND, MAINE.—Deposits of inexhaustible mineral wealth soon may be tapped throughout this state to supply war industries with essential alloy products.

According to geologists, some of the world's richest deposits of beryl and molybdenite, important sources of alloys for airplane construction, are to be found in Maine quarries. Previously undeveloped because of the high cost, old and new quarries may be opened to supplement the present national mineral supply.

So valuable is one deposit of molybdenite in the Atlantic coastal town of Cherryfield that the German government tried to buy the town's Catherine Hill at the beginning of the last war.

West of Augusta in Albany is the Bumpus quarry, where the world's largest beryl crystals were found a few years ago. Adjoining it are numerous other undeveloped beryl deposits.

Swiss Censors Afraid Of 'America, I Love You'

BERN, SWITZERLAND.—The song, "America, I Love You," has caused considerable consternation in this neutral capital. Censors, asserting that the words are "too pro-American" and not in line with Switzerland's neutral policy, have cut out parts of the American film, "Tin Pan Alley," in which it appears.

In so doing, the censors brought on a storm of protests from moviegoers, who said the deletions spoiled the plot.

A night club featured the song sung by an American Negro. Three nights later the Negro said he had been asked not to sing the words, although the orchestra was allowed to play the melody.

The censors did not chop up another American picture, in which Cary Grant, playing the part of a newspaper city editor, directs one of his assistants to "stick Hitler on the funny page."

Old Locomotive Given Its Chance in Movies

GRASS VALLEY, CALIF.—Engine No. 5, with 600,000 miles of travel and 40 years of service on the Nevada County Narrow Gauge railroad behind her, has gone into the movies.

The old girl hasn't been cast in any particular role yet, but residents of this historic district expect to see her soon, chugging through some epic of the West.

No. 5 was sold to Frank Lloyd Productions, Universal City, Calif., and carted away on a truck because there aren't any narrow gauge connections between here and Hollywood.

Built by the Burnham, Perry and Williams locomotive works in Pennsylvania, No. 5 was purchased in 1900 by the narrow gauge line between Nevada City, Grass Valley and Colfax.

Vessels in Convoys
Although there are fewer than 40 vessels in most convoys, some such groups, when carrying important people and valuable cargoes through dangerous zones, have been known to comprise as many as 80 naval ships and armed merchantmen. These giant convoys require an area of about 35 square miles, usually travel at only 10 knots and may be discovered by their smoke at a distance of 50 miles.

What about A&P Low Prices now that everybody is talking about Ceiling Prices?

Now, and after May 18th (when ceiling prices become effective), all A&P Super Markets and A&P Food Stores will continue to give you real low prices on fine foods every day, just as they have been doing.

The new "ceiling price" regulation will not alter in any way A&P's low price policy. This means that every day at A&P you will continue to get the best foods the markets afford at our lowest possible prices.

And here is another important fact to remember. FOOD PRICES WILL NOT BE IDENTICAL IN ALL FOOD STORES on and after May 18th. Prices will continue to differ in food stores on the same articles—just as they have heretofore.

Our Customers Save Money

A&P, during the last eight years, has made big reductions in its operating costs. These savings have been passed along to our customers, so that today they have 9c more of every food dollar to spend than they did in 1933.

It is A&P's policy to continue to conduct its business as economically as possible, thus to give you the utmost for every food dollar you spend at A&P Stores.

Dying Captain Sticks to Post

Mortally Wounded at Pearl Harbor, Asks, 'How's Fight Going?'

WASHINGTON.—Soon after the battle of Pearl Harbor, the navy, in announcing the death of Capt. Mervyn S. Bennion, pointed out that the officer had declined to leave the bridge of his ship even after his stomach had been laid open by the splinter of a bomb.

In a memorandum issued to the press, it made public an anonymous eyewitness account of Captain Bennion's death.

It read as follows:

"I came out of the conning tower just after the captain had been hit by a splinter of a bomb intended for another ship. He was lying severely wounded and still conscious on the signal bridge, with the top of his stomach laid open.

Anxious About Battle.

"At that time I was the only officer with him and he was very desirous to know how the battle was proceeding and what action our own ship had taken. I kept him informed as much as possible and then, in the absence of morphine, attempted to give him ether.

"I remained with him for about a half hour as he lay there, and later moved him into a shelter under a splinter shield, but he refused to be moved either from the bridge or into the conning tower for protection.

"Later a senior officer arrived and attempted to direct his removal from the bridge, but the captain again refused and remained on the bridge. A pharmacist's mate arrived to administer as much first aid as possible. When all the officers and men on the bridge had been cut off from below by fire, it was again suggested to the captain that he be moved from the ship, but he refused, and it was necessary, because of the flames, for the officers to take him up to the navigation bridge, just above the flag bridge, where he remained until his body was removed later.

First Thought of Men.

"What he wanted to know most was how the battle was proceeding. He asked two or three times, 'How's the fight going?' His next concern was to get all wounded men off the ship and to have all available men in condition to get on other ships to fight. His first thought was of his men. He was exceedingly pleased to hear what guns were able to fire. He was removed that afternoon.

"He made all of his men go to their stations. A marine (who was manning his station on the foretop of a ship alongside) saw the captain try several times to get up. The captain, because of his wound, had lost control of his legs and tried repeatedly to get up but was unable to do so.

"There is reason to believe that Captain Bennion died about 11 o'clock on the morning of December 7. He was alone when he died, having resisted all efforts to take him off the bridge and having ordered all officers and men to their stations.

"The pharmacist's mate was with Captain Bennion for a short time, but was ordered away by the captain to take care of others.

"His concern was for the safety of his own ship and particularly his men."

California Pays Workers

To Learn Aircraft Trade
SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—A statewide program to train thousands of men and women as skilled aircraft workers has been inaugurated in California.

Persons between the ages of 17 and 44 are eligible for the courses, which will be conducted in junior colleges throughout the state. Applicants will be selected on the basis of mechanical aptitude tests and will be paid $75 per month while learning.

Classes are offered in engine, propeller and instrument mechanics, radio, electricity, sheet metal, welding, machine repair, painting, leather and canvas working, aircraft mechanics, wiring, cable splicing, hydraulics and woodworking.

British War Hero's Widow Will Run for Parliament

WELLINGTON.—In response to widespread demand among the electorate, Mrs. Arthur Grigg, widow of Major Grigg, a member of the New Zealand parliament who was killed in Libya, has become a candidate for the Mid-Canterbury seat on the National party ticket. It is believed in Christchurch that no other candidate will be nominated.

State Still High in Major Crops

Three major crops still give Michigan top ranking over all other states in the production of field beans, sour cherries and cucumbers for pickles.

Farm crops authorities, horticulturists and other specialists at Michigan State College claim a share in the state's honors. The information and service available through the federal-state extension service administered by the college helps bolster quality, volume, efficiency and marketing.

Recent rankings on the basis of 1941 yields, announced by the federal-state crop statistician's office in Lansing place Michigan at the head of the list of states producing late truck crops of celery and cantaloupes.

Other production ranks include second place in the nation for late market carrots, late strawberries, peppermint and spearmint and late market cucumbers.

Third place rankings are granted the state for buckwheat, grapes and late onions. Michigan stands in fourth place for sugar beets, red clover seed, late market asparagus, canning beans, late market and kraut cabbage, late market tomatoes and maple syrup and sugar.

In fifth place are such crops as Michigan pop corn, snap beans for canning and peaches. Two other fifth place crops formerly ranked Michigan higher. These are alfalfa seed and potatoes. Sixth place crops are those of green lima beans for manufacture, apples, alsike clover seed and alfalfa hay. Alfalfa acreage ranks second, but college crops men assert that if other acreage where alfalfa is mixed with brome grass for hay and pasture is included, Michigan stands at the top.

At least in variety, Michigan farmers can claim top ranking by reason of soils, climatic variations and technical knowledge.

Farmers to Share in Price Control

Michigan's 136,000 farmers would "lose their shirts" in any widespread inflation, therefore they stand to gain by the new federal cost of living control measures which are going into effect this week and next.

That is the opinion of R. V. Gunn, Michigan State College agricultural economist, to preface a plan to acquaint all of the farmers in the state with the obligations and the opportunities which are apparent in the federal regulations. Rural neighborhood groups will get details throughout the state.

President Roosevelt's seven-point economic outline serves as background for the control over cost of living. These seven points are: 1. Tax heavily and hold profits down. 2. Fix ceilings for wholesale, retail and manufacture prices. 3. Stabilize wages. 4. Stabilize prices received by farmers. 5. Encourage the purchase of war bonds. 6. Ration essential scarce commodities. 7. Discourage credit and installment buying and encourage the paying off of debts.

"This is the first time since 1910-14 that a farm parity seems to be at hand for many of farm products in terms of prices received and prices paid," Professor Gunn explains. "Estimates of 1941 national income set a record of 92 billion dollars. Eighteen billions probably went into taxes and savings, leaving 74 billions for spending. In 1942, the national income may jump to 117 billions, but instead of having 74 billions of goods for consumers to purchase, there likely will be but about 65 billions in goods. After applying 31 billions to taxes and savings, there still would be an estimated excess of spending power of perhaps 17 billions. Unless this is directed into war bonds and paying of debts, plus the use of a program such as this cost of living control, inflation cannot be avoided."

"Those with money would compete in the bidding for the smaller stocks of consumer goods. The farmer, as in other inflation periods, likely would be left far behind."

siding as toastmaster, welcomed the guests of the Junior Class. In introducing the theme of the banquet, she explained two possible interpretations, and then made some humorous remarks about the lack of scientific corroboration of the benefits of the wishing well.

Speaking as president of the Junior Class, James McCoy made a wish that not only the three R's and the vocational skills, but also the ideals which the school fosters will be employed more effectively in the future.

Gerald Kercher, Senior president, felt that despite the theme of the evening, patriotism was of such importance today that its need must be re-emphasized. He expressed the wish that it would not be necessary to abandon plans for a banquet in 1943 because of the war.

The honor of representing the faculty fell to Miss Marjorie Wallingford, who, because of her coming marriage, will not return to Cass City next fall. Miss Wallingford encouraged wishing provided it were not of an idle nor harmful character. She demonstrated the value of wishing by hoping among other things that we would have a new era of peace.

The concluding number of the program was presented by the high school chorus of 75 voices. They sang "Sing Loud Hallelujah" by Luvaa and "On the Road to Mandalay" by Speaks.

The boys of the Junior Class cleared away the banquet tables and prepared the floor for dancing. Harold Hine's Dance Band of Midland furnished the music for the three and a half hours of dancing.

A large number of alumni, townspeople and neighboring high school students attended the dance. The grand march was led by Ed Doerr and his guest, Jean Profit.

The elaborate decorations and preparations were made possible by the cooperation of the full membership of the Junior Class, who worked diligently to make their banquet and dance an outstanding one. Fred Auten, Vera Lounsbury and Cora Wise were in charge of decorating; Ed Doerr, music; Joan Muntz, invitations; Lulabelle Heron, the program; and Ruth Tuckey, the dinner planning. Orion Cardew, Junior sponsor, directed the preparations.

The Whisky Rebellion was an uprising in western Pennsylvania in 1794 against the federal government occasioned by the attempted enforcement of the excise law on domestic spirits.

Health Rays Bring Praise to Georgian

Stops Infection Following Surgical Operations.

BUENA VISTA, GA.—Dr. Deryl Hart, native of Buena Vista, and at present chief surgeon at Duke hospital, Durham, N. C., is receiving acclaim in the world of science because of having perfected a beam of light which will, among other things, protect a person from catching cold from another, and combat infection following surgical operations.

Dr. Hart's experiments began in 1936 with ultra-violet rays, when it was found that 206 out of 1,735 surgical patients contracted unexplainable wound infections, 19 of them dying. After numerous experiments he decided that infectious organisms were being carried into open wounds by ventilating air or by the breath of the surgeons themselves. A five-year study followed, during which he visited hospital operating rooms in nearly every state in the Union. His belief was confirmed by thousands of experiments.

With the aid of the Westinghouse laboratories he adapted a mercury-vapor ultra-violet light and rigged it up in his operating room. Immediately the percentage of infected wounds fell from 11.9 to 0.24 per cent, and not one patient among 2,500 cases has died of this kind of infection since.

Several years ago his discovery was adapted to throw a germ-proof screen of light between bank tellers and the public.

In bakeries, too, where they are used, they keep the food sterile, and in manufacturing plants, dairies, etc., they effectively kill all germs.

Dr. Hart received his A. B. degree from Emory university, Atlanta, in 1916, his master's in 1917. In 1919 he was graduated in medicine from Johns Hopkins university, where he remained as an instructor in surgery until 1922, when he went to Duke.

Dysentery Is Checked By New Sulfa Remedy

BALTIMORE.—A new sulfa drug that very nearly sterilizes the intestinal tract and gives startling cures in dysentery—severe disease of soldiers and children alike—has been reported. It not only reduces the danger of infection and death in certain kinds of surgery but greatly relieves post-operative gas pains.

This powerful cousin in the famous sulfa family is succinyl sulfathiazole, developed by Dr. Edgar J. Poth and his associates, Dr. F. Louis Knotts, Dr. James T. Lee and Dr. Frank Inui, of the department of surgery, Johns Hopkins medical school. It is reported in the February issue of Archives of Surgery.

In humans the drug reduces the number of bacteria in the large intestine to one-millionth of its normal population, or even less. Relatively so few organisms remain that the danger of peritonitis or deep abscesses after operations on the large intestine is tremendously reduced. In 100 human cases there were "no deep abscesses and no peritonitis following operations due to failure of the drug to be effective," Dr. Poth said.

A Former Lobster Bait, Sea Perch Is in Demand

PORTLAND, MAINE.—Although strikes, bad weather and war-bans have choked off the usual supply of ocean fish for New Englanders, thousands of pounds of pink sea perch daily are being shipped to western and midwestern communities.

Perhaps because it lacks a distinctive taste, natives here rarely eat perch, preferring halibut, haddock and cod. But inlanders relish the small fish and in 1941 alone one large company bought 10,000,000 pounds from local fishermen.

Before 1938 and the erection of a large fish processing plant in Portland, the sea perch, also known as rose, brim or red fish, was almost a nuisance to druggers. Then the fish was sold generally for lobster bait.

Texas Oil Fields Will Yield Big Scrap Crop

FORT WORTH, TEXAS.—Abandoned bull wheels, rusted drill stems and pipe, half-buried cable and forgotten boilers—the flotsam in the wake of a rush for oil—will vanish soon from the oil fields.

The petroleum industry is co-operating with the government in collecting scrap iron, steel, aluminum and rubber.

CIRCUIT COURT

Michael Petoskey, found guilty of negligent homicide several weeks ago by a jury, who recommended leniency to the court, was placed on probation for two years by Judge George Desjardins at the opening of the May term of court in Tuscola County. Petoskey was ordered to pay $250 court costs and had his driver's license suspended for a year. He is not to leave the state except with permission of the court and it was recommended that he pay $100 towards the expenses of the companion riding with him who was injured at the time of the accident. Petoskey was involved as a driver in an automobile collision at a highway intersection, a mile west of Juniata, on January 4, in which Roland Salsbury, a young soldier home on furlough, met his death.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Increasing U. S. Air and Naval Power Demonstrated in Pacific Sea Battles; U. S. Wants Car Owners' 'Extra' Tires; OPA Decrees Gas Quota for East Coast

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

The strategic importance of Madagascar to the two main supply arteries of the United Nations armies in the east are indicated by the above map. By capturing the key naval base of Diego Suarez, British Commandos supported by marines, infantry, air forces and naval units, assured protection of these vital supply lines.

MADAGASCAR: 40-Hour Triumph

A 40-hour epic of British Commandos' gallantry came to a victorious conclusion when the Diego Suarez naval base on the northern tip of Vichy-held Madagascar surrendered. While French army outposts still held military control over the Madagascar hinterlands, the fall of the huge naval base assured the United Nations possession of the vital gateway to their eastern supply routes. Moreover, it was vindication of a new spirit of aggression which made the Japs "miss the bus."

Military authorities in both America and Britain pointed out that the successful attack marked a refreshing contrast to the fiasco at the key port of Dakar, Africa, a year ago. It was revealed in London that the Commando attack on Madagascar, supported by marines, RAF forces and naval contingents, had been planned three months in advance.

PRESIDENT OF PERU: Closer Latin Ties

Closer knitting of relations between Latin America and the United States was seen in the visit of President Manuel Prado of Peru to this country.

When Senor Prado arrived by clipper plane, it marked the first official visit in history, of a South American president to the United States.

Significance of this precedent-breaking official mission to the future of Pan-American resistance to Nazism was seen in the fact that Peru was the first South American country to break off relations with the Axis under the accord reached last January at the Rio de Janeiro conference. President Prado's anti-dictator policy before the war was an important step in the virtual exclusion of Axis propaganda from Peru.

Under a recent decree, Peruvian armed forces now function under the direction of U. S. army and navy officers.

RUBBER: U. S. Wants Tires

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, intimated that county fairs, football games and other public gatherings might have to be curtailed this year in the interest of rubber conservation, when he announced that the government planned to purchase extra tires from private car owners. By "extra" was meant more than five to a car, he said. Purchases will be on a voluntary basis.

At the same time the Office of Defense Transportation disclosed that it was drafting plans for "rationing" civilian travel by train, bus or airplane. Officials declared that "travel-as-usual" would be a thing of the past by the end of 1942. They expressed the belief that sharp curtailments of non-essential trips would be necessary before the end of the summer.

That requisitioning of civilian tires and cars would be undertaken if necessary was a view supported by a number of Washington officials.

In outlining his views on motor car use curtailment, Mr. Patterson said the prospects are that there will be sufficient rubber for the army, navy, war-workers and essential civilian supplies. He pointed out that there was a million tons of rubber "now rolling on the highways" and that it must be conserved.

Civilians who expect synthetic rubber plants to bring any relief this year are doomed to disappointment, it was declared. All such rubber is earmarked for the nation's armed forces.

PACIFIC SEA BATTLES: U. S. Shows Power

A crucial test of the United Nations' increasing strength in the Australian sector was given as Japanese sea and air might massed northeast of the key continent in a thrust, from New Britain, the Solomon Islands and the Loyalside Archipelago.

Within a five-day span American warships and planes had taken a toll of 16 Japanese ships either sunk or badly damaged. Engagements were the heaviest since the battle of the Java sea.

Concentration of the Japanese naval forces in the Australian area was regarded as a threat to the steadily expanding U. S. communication lines in the South Pacific. Blocking of this threat meant that not only would Australia's position be more secure, but that the "springboard" for an ultimate United Nations' offensive against the Japs to recapture the East Indies and the Philippines would be further prepared.

Japan's strategic power in this area lay in its possession of the Solomon Islands which form stepping stones along Australia's northeast flank starting from Rabaul on the island of New Britain and extending down to New Caledonia.

GAS RATIONING: East Coast First

Eventual gasoline rationing for the entire United States loomed as a future possibility when the Office of Price Administration limited the sale of motor fuel in the Atlantic Seaboard area to two to six gallons weekly to "non-essential motorists."

The initial rationing applied to 10,000,000 motorists in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia. Officials stressed the fact that sufficient gasoline would be provided for essential driving but not enough for extensive "pleasure" driving or other non-essential purposes.

The OPA's order included three types of ration cards: "A" for non-essential motorists; "B" for essential users such as defense workers, public service officials and others; and "X" providing for unlimited usage. This latter category included doctors, nurses and kindred professional people whose duties require rapid and extensive travel.

In the scale of gasoline usage, the "A" range was based on an average mileage estimated at 4.5 miles daily. The "B" range covered from 4.5 to 13 miles daily and the "X" for mileage far in excess of these averages.

LIVESTOCK SHOW: War Casualty

Indicative of necessary war-time restrictions on the nation's transportation facilities, was the decision by its directors to cancel the International Livestock Exposition held annually in Chicago for the past 42 years.

The anticipated lack of transportation facilities to handle the livestock formerly shipped here from all sections of North America was cited as the principal reason for the cancellation.

Traditionally the mecca for rural Americans of all ages in the week following Thanksgiving, the exposition recorded an all-time high attendance of 400,000 last year.

TRADE BARRIERS: Ban Local Restrictions

Suspension of trade barriers between states which are adversely affecting war production was predicted following the close of a federal-state conference on war restrictions in Washington.

Particularly critical at present are state and local laws governing man power, construction and housing, the delegates were informed. Steps must be taken by state governments to relieve this situation, speakers declared.

Rent Ruler

Charged with the responsibility of setting up machinery to place ceilings on rents affecting more than 86,000,000 persons, Paul A. Orter, deputy administrator of the Office of Production Management, is directing the federal rent control program under the supervision of Price Administrator Leon Henderson. Landlords in affected areas have until June 28 to stabilize rents in line with OPA recommendations.

'BACKDOOR THRUST': Japs Use Burma Road

Japan's "backdoor" invasion of China via the Burma road continued into Yunnan province despite U. S. army air attacks which knocked out 74 enemy planes in a single week.

Seriousness of the newest threat to China's resistance was seen in the decision of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to take personal command of his armies. That Chiang could count on stout co-operation from his American allies was shown by the repeated attacks by big Yankee bombers from India on the Jap's main airbase at Mingaladon north of Rangoon, Burma. This field was the main Japanese base for the all-but-finished Burma campaign which had been extended to China.

The effectiveness of the American air offensive was illustrated by reports that each bomber was able to drop 250-pound explosives on the field in spite of heavy anti-aircraft fire.

CHARGE ACCOUNTS: Time Buying Curbed

Every American who used a charge account or an installment purchasing plan to acquire the goods he uses in everyday living was affected by the Federal Reserve board's orders clamping the brakes on time-payment buying. The orders, tightening restrictions already in effect, were the latest move in President Roosevelt's attack on spiraling prices.

The Reserve board decreed: 1—A limit of 12 months in the period over which most consumer's goods could be purchased on installment plans.

2—Down payments of one-third cash on a majority of consumer's items. Exceptions were automobiles purchasable over a 15-month period and furniture and pianos for which a down payment of only 20 per cent is required for purchase of over a 12-month period.

3—Payment of charge accounts in full by the 10th day of the calendar month after purchase. Failure to abide by this order would prevent the purchaser from buying on the account until he settled up.

4—The following additions to the list of goods on which regulations already apply: automobile batteries, tires, tubes and accessories; bedding, draperies, household electrical appliances; used furniture; athletic goods; household equipment; non-military clothing including shoes, hats and other haberdashery.

SPECIALISTS SOUGHT: Also Allied Nationals

Two moves to increase the flexibility of the army were made when the war department announced the creation of the new army specialist corps and the selective service headquarters declared that nationals of all Allied nations will be able to join either this country's forces or those of their home nation.

Men with certain specialized skills will be recruited for the army specialist corps. They will replace those who are capable of going into active military service. In general, no men subject to the draft will be admitted into the new corps, according to the announcement. Those accepted may become officers ranging from lieutenants to "director generals."

In the move to recruit nationals of our allies, Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, announced that reciprocal arrangements had already been worked out under which Canadians residing in this country might join either the Canadian or American forces. This agreement will be extended to other nations.

MISCELLANY:

Honolulu, Hawaii, first American area to suffer Axis aggression, proved again that its people are grimly determined to see the war effort through, by oversubscribing four times the Islands' War quota of $250,000 War Bond quota.

New York: Rationing of silver bullion supplies for industrial purposes has been undertaken because of increased industrial demand.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Evidence: A stubby, stolid-faced Oriental sitting alone in a downtown-bound Broadway street car, caused considerable speculation among other passengers because of inability to determine whether he was a Chinese or a Jap. A little girl, who with a man, evidently her father, sitting a little farther back, was not at all interested in knowing whether he was friend or enemy since her attention was centered on a brightly colored toy balloon which she allowed to fly here and there. Several times, her father, speaking in a low voice, warned her that she might be annoying those about her, but the child continued her play, with a loud pop. The Oriental not only all but jumped out of his seat but glared at fellow passengers who laughed. And so there was a general opinion that he wasn't Chinese.

Doing His Bit: Michael Calabrese is a taxicab driver. His earnings average $25 a week with which he supports not only himself and his wife Tessie but also his two sons, Peter, nine years old, and Joseph, two. Six months ago, a passenger gave him a $5 bill in mistake for a one. When Calabrese discovered the error, he couldn't find the passenger so he turned $4 over to the police. No claimants having appeared in the time set by law, he went to headquarters and was given the money. He didn't take it home, however. A young woman was collecting for the Red Cross, and without hesitation, Calabrese thrust the $4 into the box. He admitted to police officers he could have used the money, but to give it to the Red Cross seemed "the right thing to do."

Reprieve: Another Broadway trolley incident concerns a very fussy woman in a hurry to get to her destination. The car, proceeding along in the morning downtown rush, seemed to make just about the average speed which isn't fast or steady, but taking everything into consideration, is about the best that can be accomplished. The woman, instead of sitting quietly, kept picking at the motorman and finally, just before getting off at Fifty-ninth street to take a crosstown car, accused him of deliberately making her late to work.

"I'm sorry, madam," returned the man at the control, "I can't do anything about it today, but if you come back tomorrow morning, I'll put wings on the car."

Different: New York's first "black-out marriage" took place in the Venetian lounge of the Hotel Forest. Blackout curtains were installed and all lights were dimmed while air raid sirens were simulated by turning the radio on full blast. It seems that the novel ceremony was merely a whim of the bride, and the Hotel Forest had been selected because she lives in Forest Hills. But there were no further revelations to identity of bride, bridegroom and wedding guests so possibly it wasn't merely a publicity stunt.

Faith Restored: Lotie Lehmann, soprano, was selling defense stamps in one of New York's large department stores recently and in the crowd was a small, meek-looking woman who waited her turn to make a purchase very impatiently. When she reached the table, her face flushed with excitement and she burst out, "Oh, Madame Lehmann, I'm so glad I heard your last concert—it was such a worth-while experience." She paused a moment, then went on, "You know, I was beginning to get worried about you. Your concerts before were such disappointments—but your last one restored my faith in you." And that is Madame Lehmann's current favorite story about herself.

Canned: Police of Manhasset, L. I. rushed to a house in which neighbors the other afternoon heard sounds of a gun fight and struggle. The officers sired their way in and, to their amazement, found, instead of a raging battle, merely a peaceful family scene. It seems that Jay Jostyn and his wife had been listening to a recording of the radio program in which Jostyn plays the title role and the neighbors had mistaken the canned revolver fire for the real thing. Hitching Post Permit Sought by Merchant

ST. LOUIS—Business has increased at Walter Newell's cowboy store to such an extent he has applied for a city permit to erect a 20-foot hitching post out front for "horseback riding" customers.

Newell specializes in "dude ranch" equipment for city dwelling cowboys.

Not All Sweets Need to Be Sugar

Sugar continues to make news and history but it isn't necessary to dip into the sugar supply to sweeten many of the normal Michigan meals.

Suggestions from the home economics extension service at Michigan State College indicate the several ways a cook can turn to save sugar.

One cup of refined white sugar can be replaced by one cup of maple sugar, maple syrup or honey or by 1 1/2 cups of sorghum syrup or cane syrup or by two cups of corn syrup.

In the lemonade season a handy recipe can be used without disturbing the sugar. A tasty hot weather drink includes 2 1/2 cups of corn syrup, one quart ice water or carbonated water, a half cup of strained lemon juice and an eighth teaspoon of salt. Mix the corn syrup and ice water, add the lemon juice and salt and serve with cracked ice.

In changing from sugar to syrup for sweetening, some modification is made in most recipes in the liquid.

Michigan State College authorities recommend:

For cakes and cookies, use honey to replace sugar, cup for cup, but use only half the quantity of other liquid usually recommended. If the original recipe suggests a cup of sugar and a cup of milk, then the cook can use a cup of honey and a half cup of milk.

When corn, cane or maple syrups replace sugar, reduce the liquid in the recipe by one-third.

Those who turn to sorghum syrup can follow the same rule as with other syrups, but the baking powder should be reduced. A half teaspoon of soda should be added for each cup of sorghum and this has the leavening power of two teaspoons of baking powder.

are books, magazines, periodicals, newspapers, precious stones, etchings, sculptures, used automobiles and many others.

No ceilings exist on food or beverages sold for consumption on the premises by restaurants and hotels because of difficulty of enforcement due to possible adjustment in quantity and quality of servings.

Farmers may sell commodities grown and processed on his farm to a total of not more than $75 in any one month without price restriction.

Of course, used household merchandise is excluded. And so are professional or skilled services.

How will this affect the retailer?

According to Otis Cook, manager of the Michigan Retail Institute, the general effect will be unfavorable on small units of business unless the Office of Price Administration grants equitable relief from the arbitrary freezing of both retail and wholesale prices to March, 1942.

More important than price freezing, in Cook's judgment, is the prospect of a growing scarcity of merchandise due to war priorities and a resultant shrinkage of sales and profit. Rationing of important commodities is regarded by Cook to be inevitable.

One favorable factor may be a tendency for the price ceiling to become the prevalent selling level. As sales drop off, selling prices will rise toward the ceiling.

Lag of price movements is the basis of complaints by retailers.

For example, a store may have sold in March a product for $1.00 which it purchased six months before for 60 cents, thus allowing 40 cents for operating costs and profit.

At the same time this store, if it bought the same merchandise in March, might have had to pay 70 cents. Hence the selling price would have become $1.10.

When the government froze the price at $1.00, it automatically cut the retailer's margin from 40 to 30 cents, a 25 per cent difference. The OPA insists that any "roll back" must be at the expense of manufacturing and wholesale prices; that the $1.00 ceiling must prevail, come what may. But will this be done?

One general effect is a drastic readjustment in which efficient stores may make the grade but inefficient units may not.

Services, instead of merchandise, may become substitute sources of retailing revenue.

One compensating factor for the small retailing unit which may help to offset the disadvantage of price control and rationing is today's transportation situation due to the scarcity of rubber tires. People will tend to shop at the nearby local stores whether they are in cities or small towns. This offers an opportunity, almost unparalleled, to merchants of rural trading centers whose chief competitors in the past have been Chicago mail order houses and the large city stores.

Advertising, if used intelligently becomes a powerful and profitable selling weapon.

Rationing of gasoline, which is now being introduced in Atlantic coast states, may be extended nationally by July 1, 1942.

The big "if" in the picture, as it is reported reliably to us, is whether volunteer rationing of automobile transportation can be effected in Michigan through public acceptance of the "Pontiac Plan."

If citizens are willing to make sacrifices by voluntary action, then gasoline rationing may be put off.

The same conclusion may be drawn with regard to purchase of war bonds and stamps. If citizens agree to voluntary payroll deductions, then enforced methods may be avoided.

Sharks Aid War

Australia's most unpopular fish—the shark—has been literally pressed into service of the war effort. Shark oil is being used to replace the 80,000 gallons of cod liver oil which was annually imported before the war. The Council of Scientific and Industrial Research has proved that Mako shark is 50 times richer in vitamin A than standard cod liver oil.

PER GALLON

If you've ever experienced the grief and loss of money resulting from an unsatisfactory paint job, you will appreciate the age old adage which says: "Only when quality is maintained, can low price be considered a bargain."

You may feel assured that neither Bradley-Vrooman Company, who make the paint we sell, nor we, who offer it to you, would sanction the sale of an inferior product.

Nevertheless, we believe a startling bargain will induce people to paint their property right now—so we've set aside a quantity of BEST QUALITY House Paint, which we will sell at a sharply reduced price.

The necessity of acting promptly is self-evident—better arrange to have us set aside some of this paint for you while it's on sale.

Discover Scheelite
One of the most important of chance discoveries was made in the yellow pine district of central Idaho, where an extensive deposit of scheelite of high commercial value was found in the course of testing low-grade antimony. Scheelite is a source of tungsten, so important a metal in defense that it has been placed under full priority control by the Office of Production Management. Tungsten-content steel is used almost exclusively in construction of machine tools because it retains its cutting qualities under extreme temperatures.

Whistle Facts
The whistle of a locomotive is higher in pitch as a train approaches and lower after it has passed because as the train approaches vibration strikes the ear with increasing frequency causing a higher pitch. After passing the vibrations are strung out as the distance increases.

Current Wit and Humor

HE SHOULD BE

A stranger entered a church in the middle of the sermon, and seated himself in the back pew. After a while he began to fidget. Leaning over to the white-haired man at his side, evidently an old member of the congregation, he whispered: "How long has he been preaching?"

"Thirty or forty years, I think," the old man answered. "I don't know exactly."

"I'll stay then," decided the stranger. "He must be nearly done."

Reprimand

The manager of a vaudeville house was testing the abilities of a few candidates for stage honors one day last week, and this is how he let down one of the would-be funny men:

"Your songs won't do for me. I can't allow any profanity in my theater," said he.

"But I don't use profanity," was the reply.

"No," said the manager, "but the audience would."

That's Why

Clown—Do you know why the ringmaster likes to flourish a big whip?

Equestrienne—Well, why?

Clown—Because it's a snap.

GENEROSITY

"That guy I just struck was a heap more liberal with his advice than I was."

"What talk did he have?"

"I said I was cold and he told me to go to blazes."

Isn't It?

"Do you see anything about that girl's face you like?"

"Yes, her hat."

"But her hat isn't her face."

"No, but isn't it about her face?"

Landlord

"Our landlord stutters frightfully, but there's one time when he never hesitates."

"When is that?"

"When he comes for the rent."

On His Toes

"Cheer up! I'll have you on your feet."

"Within a month," said Dr. Jill.

He did—my car was sold to meet his monumental bill.

In No Hurry

Brown—We must all die sooner or later.

Smith—Yes, but we all put it off to the last minute.

Question

Bess—Mrs. Newcome never gets asked to any bridge parties.

Jess—Does she play too well or not well enough?

Courage

Grace—She confesses to 42.

Jane—That certainly requires fortitude.

PRECAUTION

"Daw! She's turned me down! I'll drown myself. But I'm got to throw you in first to see how deep it is!"

Exchange

"I stole a kiss the other night. My conscience troubles me. I'll give back two for each I stole. To set my conscience free."

Oh-Oh!

"Mamma," said little Elsie, "do men ever go to heaven?"

"Why, of course, my dear. What makes you ask?"

"Because I never see any pictures of angels with whiskers."

"Well," said the mother, thoughtfully, "some men do go to heaven, but they get there by a close shave."

Reaction

"What did your father say when he heard I had kissed your sister?"

"He said that was encouraging."

William Lenhard and William Shinska enlisted in the Army Air Corps and left last Thursday for Camp Custer.

Electric Toaster

It is really very simple to adjust the regulator in any electrical toaster to best or optimum time. In experiments to determine the best slice of toast this "optimum toasting time" was set at 1 minute, 12 seconds. And in all tests, too, the toaster was allowed to heat up 1½ minutes before toasting, which made the toasting start uniformly the moment the slice of bread was inserted.

Bear on Fifth Avenue

Shades of the wild West—a bear cub was trapped off Fifth avenue in New York city. The critter—a baby "honey" bear—was cornered in the boiler room of an uptown garage by Paul Strauss, attendant. Police said they didn't know anybody who had lost a bear. The S.P.C.A. took it.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Watch the Bicycle Rider!

Yes, watch him closely. How many times have we had narrow escapes from accidents because a bicycle rider swerved without warning into the path of our auto. When approaching a bicycle rider, expect the unexpected; give him plenty of room.

The tire shortage and gasoline rationing have induced thousands of Americans to ride bicycles for transportation as well as for pleasure and exercise.

If you are still one of the fortunate Americans driving an automobile, be extra careful of the bicycle rider.

Drive carefully—don't kill a war industry's worker—we need him alive.

Baked Potatoes Do Right by Supper
(See Recipes Below)

Supper Social

The simple suppers at which a crowd gathers are pleasant for their warm friendliness, for the cozy talk which they inspire. They are especially easy to give if you plan to have each of your friends bring a dish for the supper—a pot luck, as it were. This will save each woman the time and effort of making a whole meal, and then you will all be together for knitting, sewing or defense work on the calendar for the evening.

An assortment of attractive main dishes are usually received with enthusiasm. Try these for enchanting appetites:

*Russet Half Shells. (Serves 8)

- 6 medium-sized Idaho bakers
- 1/2 cup hot milk
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 large onion, chopped and cooked in butter until tender
- 12 small pork sausages

Scrub and bake potatoes at 400 to 450 degrees. Remove piece of skin from top of potato, or cut large potatoes lengthwise in two. Scrape out inside being careful not to break the shell. Mash thoroughly, or put through a potato ricer. Add butter, salt, pepper, milk and cooked onion. Beat well. Pile mixture lightly into shells, top with two small pork sausages that have been partially cooked (boiled in a small amount of water). Return to oven and bake at 350 degrees until sausages are cooked through and browned.

If you want to provide everything for your pot-luck supper from individuals except the main dish, here is one that will fill the bill perfectly. Simple to put together and as colorful as it sounds, the salmon loaf doesn't need much watching if you are busy with other things:

Salmon Loaf. (Serves 25)

- 4 cans salmon
- 1 quart fresh bread crumbs
- 2 cups diced celery
- 2 ounces butter
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon onion juice
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 8 eggs
- 1 quart scalded milk
- 1 40-ounce package frosted peas
- 2 quarts medium white sauce

Combine salmon, bread crumbs, celery, butter, seasonings. Beat up

Lynn Says:

Laundrying Tips: With soap one of our prime, do not waste items, you will want to make the most of every scrap of soap you have. Save the small soap scraps from the bathrooms and kitchen, put them in a soap shaker so you will make use of them in washing dishes.

To have clean clothes even in spite of economical soap usage use your washing machine wisely. Use only just so much water in your machine as the water line indicates and do not overload your machine. Six to eight pounds of dry clothes are about right for the average washing machine.

Mix the soap thoroughly with the water before putting in the clothes. About two inches of soap suds are necessary to do the job up right.

Water temperatures play an important part in laundrying. Do not use very hot water for white clothes. For colored clothes, water comfortable to your hand is best. For synthetic silks, wools, rayons, water should be lukewarm.

Paragraphs About Men in the Service

Clifford Ryan, recently advanced to the rank of corporal, is spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ryan, near Sandusky, and called on friends in Cass City Monday. He is stationed at the Marine Barracks at Parris Island, South Carolina.

Carl D. Hartley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hartley, enlisted in the U. S. Marines recently and left for San Diego, California, where he is now stationed.

Frank Fort and Julius Gurdon, who are in training at Navy Pier, Chicago, Illinois, spent a few hours Sunday morning at their homes here. They were accompanied to Detroit by Barney Freiburger also of the U. S. Navy at Navy Pier, who visited relatives in Detroit.

Private Milton Powell of New Jersey spent a week's furlough last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Powell, of New Greenleaf.

Leslie Doerr, pharmacist mate third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Doerr, who has been in training at Great Lakes Naval Training Station since last June, was expected home this week, but word was received from him that he was leaving to act as medical attendant to a group of navy men moving across country. He expected to return in about ten days.

EVERGREEN.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McDonald of Farmington were callers at the Frank McGregory home on Saturday.

Miss Lila Chapman spent Sunday afternoon and evening with friends in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Snyder of Lake Orion spent the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. William Kitchen.

Freeman Whitaker was a business caller in Detroit the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Chapman were callers in Bay City on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ward of Detroit were callers in this vicinity Friday.

Several of the members of the Evergreen W. C. T. U. attended the county convention at Croswell on Thursday, May 7.

words. We believe in: 1—The dignity of the individual and his inherent right to live as an individual, not as an automaton of the state. 2—Respect for the truth. Without such a fundamental respect decent human relationships become impossible. 3—In government of law. Government by and at the whim of a dictator's decree is intolerable. 4—In a good God. Without such a belief there is little incentive for the perpetuation of human relationships on a basis that has made our civilization possible.

"These four simple precepts are not shared by Adolf Hitler and his stooges," Mr. Hannah remarked. "To us they are what makes life worth living, and their perpetuation is worth any amount of trial and sacrifice. What do men want—all men everywhere? To live decently; some security; stable income; opportunity for their families."

He spoke of Michigan State College as a great university with three important functions: Educational opportunities for our students; research program with emphasis on agricultural research; agricultural extension program.

PROPER HANDLING OF CREAM ADDS TO FARM PROFITS

As in everything else, there is a right and wrong way to do every farm chore. The above chart shows right and wrong ways of carrying through certain farm practices connected with the handling of cream, as determined over many years of experience. No butter can be better than the quality of the cream from which it is manufactured. The main responsibility for the quality of butter consumed by the American people must ultimately rest on the cream-producing farmer.

After all is said, the big job in producing quality cream on the farm lies in keeping outside bacteria from contaminating the cream while fighting strenuously to keep the bacteria normally in milk at a minimum. Principally it is a task in sanitation: Clean barn, clean udders, clean hands, clean utensils, cooling of the cream immediately after separation, and frequent matings. It is as simple as that.

To prevent foreign matter such as particles of dust or dirt, hair and similar bacteria-bearing substances from contaminating milk and cream, the person doing the milking should wipe the udder with a damp cloth, wash and dry his hands, and do his milking into a clean, well-tinned milking pail. The milk should be strained through a cotton-disc strainer and separated immediately. The fresh cream should be put into a separate can immediately and cooled to below 60 degrees. This rapid cooling will retard bacterial development which causes cream to spoil. Water cools cream a great deal faster than the coldest air. Plans for the construction of an efficient cream-cooling tank for the average farm, like the one shown in the illustration, together with instructions for its operation, may be had without cost from the state agricultural college or through the local creamery or cream buyer.

LETTERS

From Iceland.

Private Gerald E. Fischer, who is now serving in the U. S. Armed Forces in Iceland, writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fischer, of Owendale, as follows:

"Dearest Mom and Dad:
"Gee, I am sorry I didn't write sooner, but the mail doesn't go out of here very often, so if you have to wait a month or so, between letters, don't worry as everything is O. K. We have hobnailed shoes, parkas, fur hats and ski goggles. It is O. K. here once you get used to it.

"One sees the sun but twice a day—as it comes up and as it sets—as it is so cloudy and rainy all the time. I haven't received any mail here. It takes so long getting here and then it takes a long time getting it out to us.

"We get $6.00 extra per month for overseas duty. We are working hard every day digging holes and doing guard duty at night. We have free shows four nights each week. I go whenever possible. It is really all the amusement there is here.

"I'll be seeing you some year. All my love."

Good Marksmanship of Marines.

Corporal Ernest A. Kelly, U. S. Marine Corps, of Parris Island, South Carolina, writes that after six months working on the school range, by request, he was transferred back to coaching recruits on the firing line. He writes that "the Corps is pretty proud of its record and would hate to have anyone do anything to lower the standard. Once in a while a recruit comes in that is mentally deficient, of extremely ignorant, but that is the fault of the doctor at the recruiting office for letting him in. As a general rule, the overwhelming majority of recruits are picked men and feel it is a privilege to belong to the Marines.

"Every lecture to recruits on their first day on schedule here on the range, I always stress the point where the Marine Corps is proud of its traditions, especially the tradition of a unit composed almost entirely of good marksmen, and that one absolutely essential requirement of becoming a Marine is to qualify with the rifle. My concluding sentence usually is this: 'And I don't care if you stay in the Marines for 20 years if you can't qualify with your rifle, you are absolutely not a Marine, even if you do call yourself one.'

"Keep in mind that most boys who don't qualify are still good shots in comparison with other branches of the service. The standards are much higher here in the Marines."

Mr. and Mrs. John Guisbert, David Hutchinson is very ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Philip McComb.

Mrs. Archie McLachlan and mother, Mrs. Archie Gillies, spent Wednesday in Bay City.

When Friend Night was observed in Gifford Chapter, Gagetown, guest officers were present from Midland Chapter, Midland; Sharon Chapter, Bay City; and Martha Washington Chapter, Saginaw; Caro, Fairgrove, Cass City, Sebewaing, Pigeon, Elkton, Bad Axe and Uby. Supper was served to 150 beginning at five-thirty and the guests officers presided during the initiatory work in the evening.

Anna Ross of Midland, Past Grand Electa of the Grand Chapter of Michigan, was among the guests.
