

Mathews Named Clerk Nominee by 20-vote Margin

Another Close Race in Tuscola Primary Was for State Representative.

SUGGESTED HELPS FOR SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION

The State Department of Public Instruction has issued four suggestions for public schools to observe in the operation of school buses:

1. Review all bus routes to eliminate back-tracking.
2. Encourage pupils to walk to the main bus lines.
3. Discontinue unnecessary duplication and overlapping of bus routes in your district and with other districts.
4. Eliminate all nonessential driving. It appears that few new buses will be available for some time to come.

350 Merchants in Tuscola Are Selling War Stamps, Bonds

Twenty-five thousand merchants in Michigan who are members of the Michigan Retailers War Savings Committee, of which J. B. Webster, Jr., of Detroit is state chairman, are displaying a new window trim featuring their September theme, "America Must Win!" In addition, a colorful new official emblem, identifying stores which are members of the committee, will be permanently displayed by these stores throughout the war.

"More than 350 merchants in Tuscola County are cooperating in this job," stated A. C. Atwell, retail chairman for Cass City. "This is a good percentage, but our goal is to have every merchant doing his share. When the Treasury Department asked retailers of the nation to sell over a billion dollars worth of War Savings Stamps and Bonds during the present fiscal year, they made no exceptions, but included every store which sells any kind of merchandise or service at retail. This takes in everything from shoe shining parlors and barber shops to the largest department stores. If every merchant does his part, we can easily make the quota assigned to us. But if only half the merchants participate, then the other half must average just twice as much as they should have to. That's why we want every retailer in Cass City to help on this job."

Michigan retailers have set the pace for the nation in their accomplishment to date. The September quota for Michigan retailers is $5,217,610. Each merchant is asked to set his own store quota at two per cent, or more, of his retail volume each month.

Study Milk Routes to Conserve Tires and Trucks in Michigan

Duplication and overlapping of routes in the collection of milk and cream from farms had led the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture to make a study of the situation in a program designed to conserve tires and trucks. The Tuscola County War Board is making a survey here and when similar surveys are made in other counties in the state, a composite picture of Michigan will be forthcoming.

From contacts with haulers, plant managers and field men, the county board has been instructed to obtain their reactions and suggestions on the following points:

What can be done by voluntary cooperation with other companies in eliminating overlapping and duplication of routes.

How they feel about the possibility of using roadside pickups when weather permits.

What can be done about "swapping" patrons either among haulers for the same plant or among haulers for competing plants.

What are the practical possibilities for eliminating small routes and for combining routes.

Pauline Livingston Bride of Lt. Joiner

White asters, gladioli and ferns formed the setting for the wedding of Miss Pauline Livingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Livingston, of Gagetown and Lt. Robert M. Joiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. F. Joiner, of Bay City, at the home of the bride's parents Tuesday evening, Sept. 15. Rev. Richard A. Elve of the First Baptist Church of Bay City, of which both are members, officiated.

White slipper satin and Chantilly lace distinguished the bride's gown, which was fashioned on princess lines. A tiara of satin rosebuds held her finger tip English illusion veil. She carried Johanna Hill roses and bebe chrysanthemums in an arm bouquet. A matching rosebud was caught by the crossed cannon on the bridegroom's lapel.

Miss Audrey Livingston was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing rose colored faille. Her arm bouquet was of Better Times roses and delphinium. A Better Times rosebud was worn in the lapel by Paul Joiner, brother of the bridegroom, who assisted Lt. Joiner as best man.

The wedding march was played by Miss Marian Elbing of Bay City. She also accompanied Miss Gertrude Butterfield of Bay City who sang "O Promise Me" and "Because." Their corsages were alike of Gloria roses and bronze chrysanthemums.

Identical corsages were worn by the mothers of the bride and bridegroom.

The couple left immediately for Columbus, Ind., where they will make their home while Lt. Joiner is stationed at Camp Atterbury.

U. S. Has Scraped Bottom of Barrel for Steel Metal

Americans Everywhere Urged to Search Their Premises for Scrap.

Michigan Press Association News Letter.

Uncle Sam has scraped the bottom of the barrel for steel metal. Unless plain Americans everywhere, in thousands of villages and towns and cities, and on thousands of farms everywhere, dig down into their own scrap barrel, American boys will go without vitally needed tanks and airplanes and other arms of war and our Allies may be deprived of weapons with which to fight our battles before we can open our Second Front.

That's a pretty long sentence, but it may be longer one—as a dictator would impose it—if we Americans fail to deliver. But it's the plain truth.

Four Michigan newspapermen were invited to attend a conference in Washington a few days ago. They came from Detroit, Ironwood, Grand Rapids and Lansing. We happened to be one of them.

Traveling to Washington these days is no picnic, we assure you. We couldn't get sleeping accommodations out of Washington at all, although we made our reservations one week in advance. Finally, at the last minute while in Washington, we managed to get accommodations on another railroad.

We arrived at the capital at 8:20 a. m. and left at 5:20 p. m.—just long enough to hear this unusual story.

Government officials, headed by Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, reiterated the urgent need for more scrap iron. They were all "big shots."

Lieut. General Brehon Somervell, the commanding general for services of supply, and Vice Admiral S. M. Robinson, chief of bureau of procurement and material, both stressed the imperative importance of getting more metal to the steel mills in the next 60 days.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, said the war could be won quicker if "a great part of the effort comes from the grass roots"—the people themselves—in getting every ounce of scrap out of their homes and their farms. And that means old shovels, rakes, washing machines, irons, machinery—anything that contains iron.

A hard-hitting industrialist, whose language consisted of short, blunt words and whose broad jaws reminded us of a bull dog almost "stole the show."

"We have at last struck the bottom of the barrel," said R. W. Wolcott, president of the Lukens Steel Company and chairman of the American Industries Salvage Committee. "The steel mills of the United States have only a two weeks' supply of scrap. The scrap is in the hands of the people. It is gold to the steel mills. Only a miracle can prevent reduced steel operations within the next few months."

Here was a realistic picture of America's plight.

Two weeks! And our war effort is just getting under way.

America's tremendous problem in arming itself while it supplies lend-lease arms to Russia, Australia, England, China and others was outlined by Donald Nelson.

Here was a man whose soft pleading voice did not do justice to the vast economic powers which he wielded. A dictator would have been ashamed to plead with newspaper editors as he did humbly and modestly at this conference in Washington.

"We're not doing a good job yet at winning the war," he said. "Our enemies have accumulated tremendous reserves—Japan in eleven years, Germany in eight or nine years. With our left hand we have to help arm our allies, and with our right hand we have to produce and equip for our own American army and navy, and at the same time maintain our own economy and sustain it all."

Here was a good epigram: "Instead of too little and too late, we are trying to do too much in too little time, and I think we will do it."

Why the shortage of scrap iron?

Well, here is one answer, and it may surprise you. American industry and American labor are doing the job in fewer operations than even the engineers foresaw.

Capacity production has not been reached. More scrap iron is needed. Turn to page 5, please.

Paul Anthes Writes from Camp Robinson

The following paragraphs are taken from a letter written by Corp. Paul Anthes of Camp Robinson, Arkansas, to the Chronicle recently:

"It was terribly hot here in July—100 to 110 almost every day—but we became used to it. August was cooler with much rain and September is getting warmer again. It is 90 today."

"The time has passed so quickly it seems as if I arrived here only last month. It was seven months Sept. 5 since I came to this camp. I have enjoyed these seven months even though I am in the army. After all, there are a lot worse places to be than this. I don't mind it at all."

"As you probably know, I am working in the kitchen as a cook and have been made a corporal which makes me feel good."

"We are losing about 200 fellows next week as they have completed their six weeks of training. They will be shipped out for further training. There will be another 200 in shortly."

"I am fine and hope every one at home is the same. I keep up on the news through the paper which I have been getting each week. I hope to see you all in the near future as I am looking for a furlough soon."

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. James Crane from their son, Corp. Jas. W. Crane, that he had been transferred to an unannounced location.

Posted Addresses in Panel in Store Window Increases Mail to Men in Service of U. S.

When Mac and Scotty McCullough placed a large panel in the east window of their drug store here in June which contained hooks for holding the name cards of 160 men called to service in Uncle Sam's armed forces from this community and their addresses, the board would be filled by September. This, however, is the case and Floyd Reid has built another panel of similar size which will contain facilities for holding another set of names and addresses and will be placed in the west window of the store. It is planned to use one board for men in the army and the other for navy men.

Friends of men in the service have found the project a great convenience with the result that soldiers and sailors have received much more mail than they would otherwise receive, and how those boys enjoy receiving messages from the folks at home! Not infrequently, some one will get the inspiration to write a letter to John Jones, or whatever his name might be, and then take the letter down to the store to get John's latest address. Relatives of service men have been quite faithful in reporting new addresses and every few days one of the boys will drop a line to Mac & Scotty, giving them his new address to post in the window.

At least one society in town, the Rotary Club, has made letter writing to service men a project. Names of service men are drawn from a box by members of the club and the person whose name is drawn a short time later receives a letter or card from a Rotarian.

Capt. Kenneth Higgins, stationed at Detroit, is the highest ranking officer whose name has been posted on the service panel.

Mac & Scotty are planning to place pictures of service men from this community in panels placed above the merchandise cases in their store in the near future.

Use Pressure Cooker

Hot as boiling water is, it is not hot enough to kill some of the "fifth columnists" which cause canned vegetables to spoil. The steam pressure cooker is the only ally which a homemaker has when she is canning non-acid foods such as peas, lima and string beans, beets, carrots, corn and spinach.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

FDR Plans Nationwide Gas Rationing With 35-Mile Speed Limit for U. S.; Double-Time Pay Banned for Duration; British Renew Madagascar Occupation

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

When the U. S. marines accomplished their history-making offensive in the Solomon Islands, amphibian tractors churned South Seas water to carry them to their first attack to win back Jap-held territory since the start of the war. The tractor is in the background as these marines dug in at the beach soon after the battle's opening. The area was soon cleared of the enemy.

GAS RATIONING: President Acting

For weeks silver-haired Bernard M. Baruch and co-members of the President's special rubber committee had labored over the problem of what to do about the nation's steadily diminishing rubber supply.

When the committee handed Mr. Roosevelt its report, the President was ready for action.

First, he announced that "as rapidly as arrangements can be made" he would put into effect a set of recommendations submitted by the committee, including nationwide gasoline rationing and drastic restrictions on civilian motoring.

Made public in the President's announcement were additional steps recommended by the committee which included:

A 35-mile speed limit for passenger cars and trucks; an average annual mileage of 5,000 miles per car, permitted only for "necessary driving"; release of more rubber to the public for recapping old tires to maintain necessary civilian driving; imposition of gasoline rationing nationally on the basis of 5,000 miles per year per car; compulsory periodic tire inspections; voluntary tire conservation pending establishment of gas rationing.

Submitted with the committee's recommendations was the blunt declaration that rubber conservation was now a matter of "discomfort or defeat."

MADAGASCAR: 'Full Occupation'

Even as communiques revealed that the British had opened a general offensive against the west coast of Vichy-held Madagascar, the state department in Washington announced that Great Britain with the full approval of the United States had decided to undertake "further military operations" in the Madagascar area.

British action was taken to eliminate reported refueling of Jap submarines in secret harbors and Nazi espionage in connivance with Vichy agents.

Significant of the close military collaboration between Britain and the United States and their indifference to Vichy France opposition, the state department announcement declared:

"The full military occupation of Madagascar by British forces will not only contribute to the successful conduct of the war against the Axis forces, but will be in the interest of the United Nations."

DOUBLE-TIME PAY: Curbed by FDR

"Penalty double time" pay for millions of industrial workers was abolished for the duration of the war when President Roosevelt signed an executive order banning the practice for Sundays, Saturdays and holidays.

The President's action thus invalidated contracts in which employers were required to pay workers double time for work on Saturdays or holidays, even though these days fell within the regular five-day work week.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had taken the step in line with an understanding previously arrived at with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Philip Murray, president of the CIO.

The order was signed at almost the final hour of a deadline set by the United Automobile Workers union, of the CIO. The UAW which had voluntarily surrendered such double time had protested that rival organizations had not made the same sacrifice. Enactment of the order thus eliminated a possible labor conflict.

RUSSIAN FRONT: Nazis Rule Air

The gloom of Russia's military predicament was darkened when correspondents in Moscow were permitted to cable the news that the German air force had secured virtually undisputed sway over the beleaguered city of Stalingrad, key industrial and communications center of the Volga area. Added to this pessimistic report was the news that additional "populated places" adjacent to Stalingrad had been lost by the Russians.

With Nazi Marshal Fedor von Bock hurling massive armored and infantry forces into a frontal drive against the city, it was only by the stubborn resistance that the Reds were able to continue their formula of "fall back and keep fighting."

The only comforting aspect was that the Nazis were paying costly prices in men and equipment for every foot gained.

In the Caucasus area the news had likewise been adverse, for the Russian high command acknowledged that fighting had reached the "outskirts" of Novorossiisk, last remaining naval stronghold on the Black sea.

VOTES: For Armed Forces

Wherever they are serving Uncle Sam on the far-flung war front, more than 4,000,000 men and women in the nation's land and naval forces were given the right to vote in the coming November elections and in subsequent elections until the end of the war, when the house of representatives approved legislation extending the ballot to absentee members of the army and navy.

The house's action set a new precedent, for never before in time of war had the armed forces been able to vote away from their home districts.

Affected by the new law was every citizen serving in the army or navy, including members of the Army Nurse corps, the Navy Nurse corps, the Women's Navy reserve, and the Women's Army Auxiliary corps.

SOUTH PACIFIC: Japs Persistent

Australia felt again the chilling threat of a Japanese approach, as Nipponese and Allied armies had fought for control of the Port Moresby area—only 375 miles from the northeast tip of the Australian continent.

In a drive which had started late in August from the Kadoka area, north of the Owen Stanley mountains, the Japs by infiltration and flanking methods against the Australian defenders had pushed southward through the highest pass in the range toward their coveted goal.

Meanwhile, in answer to General MacArthur's plea that each American kill one Japanese apiece, Yankee forces resumed the offensive in the Solomon Islands. A communique indicated that the positions originally seized by the American marines had become so well established that they could now be used as a springboard for delivering further hard blows at the enemy.

BRIEFS:

LONDON: Sir James Grigg, secretary of state for war reported to the house of commons that up to the present date, the government had been notified that 77,190 British war prisoners were in Axis hands. He said that figures did not include prisoners taken in Malaya or most of the other Far Eastern theaters. The number of these had not been determined.

LUXEMBOURG: Defies the Nazis

Plucky Luxembourgers gave the lie to Nazi propaganda that they were voluntarily acquiring German citizenship and entering the enemy armed forces, by staging a general strike—the first in a German-occupied country.

The pint-sized duchy, which has a population of but 269,913, is nevertheless one of the world's most important steel producing regions. The exiled Luxembourg ministry in London reported that German authorities had declared a state of emergency and threatened striking workers with death.

Repressive measures were imposed throughout Luxembourg when the strike which started at Schifflingen, spread to other towns. Sabotage against railroads in the tiny country was reported widespread, with workers putting equipment out of order.

TRUCKS AND TAXIS: Face U. S. Control

The operation of 5,000,000 commercial motor trucks, 150,000 buses and 50,000 taxi cabs will be placed under government control by November 15 as a measure to conserve transportation facilities for war purposes, it was announced by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation. Passenger cars and motorcycles were exempted from the new regulations.

The ODT's order directed operators of commercial vehicles to obtain a "certificate of war necessity" to obtain fuel, tires, tubes and accessories.

Mr. Eastman said the certificates for commercial vehicles would require a tire check every 5,000 miles, or every 60 days, whichever occurs first, to assure proper inflation and repairs. Certificates, he indicated, will be issued to all types of trucks, vehicles built primarily for transporting property and passengers and others available for public rental, such as ambulances and hearses.

The objective, he said, is to limit their use to operations necessary to the war effort, or to the essential domestic economy.

FRANCE: Petain Is Warned

Edouard Herriot is one Frenchman not afraid to raise his voice in blunt opposition to Vichy. Jules Jeanneney is another. Both command respect in Unoccupied France, for Herriot is mayor of Lyons and a former premier and Jeanneney a former cabinet member. Both were leaders of the last parliament of the Third Republic.

Thus Frenchmen everywhere listened when these two delivered a solemn warning to Marshal Petain and Pierre Laval that France may suffer "convulsions" if the Vichy government attempts to draw the nation "into war against our Allies."

"... Convulsions will follow."

In an unprecedented letter indicating the present regime, Herriot and Jeanneney implied that despite the French defeat in June, 1940, and the armistice with Germany and despite the rise of Petain and Laval, they still consider France bound by the treaties of alliance with which she entered the war.

TANKS VS. PLANES: U. S. Passes Axis

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, had good news for the nation when he announced in Cleveland that American tank production had reached "an impressive figure" and that Uncle Sam was now turning out more planes than Germany, Japan and Italy combined.

Answering criticism of American war material, Patterson said that in speed, range, toughness of armor and hitting power, the U. S. medium tank, either the M-3 or the M-4, "is superior to the best German tank," as "proved in combat in Egypt."

Combat records, he declared, also had proved the Curtiss P-40 better than the Jap Zero planes.

SEA SAGA: Wakefield Rescue

A grim drama of the sea, abounding in tales of heroism was unfolded when survivors of the burned naval transport Wakefield were landed at an Atlantic coast port.

Formerly known as the liner Manhattan, one-time queen of the U. S. merchant fleet, the Wakefield had been severely damaged by fire, but more than 1,600 passengers and crew members had been removed without loss of life.

What to Do

By PHYLLIS BELMONT

The man I am going to marry lives with his parents in a beautiful home. They have asked me to be married there rather than in my own home which is very much smaller. May I do this?

Answer—Even in the most informal weddings one formality is observed. The bride must be married in her own home, or from the home of one of her own relatives or friends, never from the home of any member of the bridegroom's family. If the bride has no home of her own, she should meet the bridegroom at the church or rectory at the hour appointed for the ceremony.

Many a bride has been tempted by the thought of using the home of her future husband as a setting for her wedding, but she must not do this, and even if it means having no wedding reception at all, she must not use his home until she may use his name.

Protection against moths can be given such chests by painting them inside with a moth repellent paint—or regular paint mixed with cedar leaf oil.

Good Health

by DR. JAMES W. BARTON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

POISON IVY

Shortly after I graduated, while on a vacation I was called from the mainland to an island in one of our northern lakes. No word was sent as to the nature of the illness but as I had my bag with me I felt reasonably sure of giving the patient some help.

Dr. Barton

On arrival, I found that it was a youngster of ten with a well developed case of poison ivy. I found in my bag some carbor oil—equal parts of lime water and linseed oil—used at that time for the treatment of burns. I reasoned that the lime water would relieve the itching and that the linseed oil, itself also soothing, would hold the lime water against the skin for a longer time. I also prescribed small doses of Epsom salts which would not only get some of the poison out of the system but would draw a lot of water out of the eruptive blisters in the skin.

When I went over to the island a few days later, the skin was almost clear and the itching had stopped. The mother told me that this was the quickest recovery the child had ever made. Since that time I have heard of other physicians who have had success with carbor oil in the treatment of poison ivy.

The old method of treating burns with carbor oil is not in use now, as tannic acid has been found more effective. And what is most interesting to me is that this new remedy for burns is now being used with great success in the treatment of poison ivy, as reported by the United States public health service. After several experiments it has been found that a 10 per cent solution of tannic acid in water, applied to the inflamed skin, after skin has been cleansed with alcohol, stops the itching and discomfort within one or two days and all symptoms disappear within the end of a week. The application should be made by a physician or one qualified to recognize poison ivy, as "it might do harm if it were used on some skin inflammation that was not poison ivy."

What about preventing poison ivy?

Science News Letter reports that the National Institute of Health has developed a vanishing cream containing 10 per cent sodium perborate. The cream is rubbed into the skin before going into the fields or woods all day. The vanishing cream should be made up fresh every two weeks. Cream is washed off with soap and water every four hours and fresh cream applied.

Electrocardiograms For Heart Patients

Until recently if an individual had a heart stroke—coronary thrombosis—he was considered doomed and if he carried sickness insurance the company expected to pay this insurance until he passed away. However, as so many of these heart patients recover, some never having a second attack and others having several attacks, the insurance companies are stressing the clause in the contract which states that the disability must be total and permanent.

In an article in Medical Record, Arthur J. Brothers, New York city, advises the lawyer and the physician representing the patient that an electrocardiogram of the heart and also X-rays (fluoroscope) examination should be made as soon as possible after attack occurs as this would not only show the actual condition of the heart but would be necessary and valuable evidence should court proceedings follow later.

"In representing a heart patient an attorney is usually confronted with two problems. He must first prove that there has been a thrombosis (blockage of the blood vessels supplying heart muscle) and next that the patient cannot or must not return to work. It often happens that a physician was not consulted at the time of the thrombosis and when he does enter the case, the evidence of the event is no longer fresh and clear. The attorney may also find that a physician was promptly consulted but did not realize the need of obtaining and preserving an electrocardiogram which is 'objective' evidence of the damage done to the heart."

Electrocardiograms should be taken five days and again ten days after the event.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What can I do to increase my height? I am nineteen years of age and am only five feet four inches tall.

A.—All you can do is get more rest. If the parent you most resemble is short, you are likely to be short. However, there are methods of making yourself taller by use of certain types of shoes, etc. Machines used for straightening spines sometimes add an inch to the height.

Not Necessarily Expensive An attractive table isn't necessarily an expensive one. The important thing is to have the table cover clean, the silverware shining, the glassware clear and sparkling. All these details have a marked effect upon our appetite as well as our health. A centerpiece of flowers or green leaves, however simple, adds a touch of pleasantness. Meals, above all, should be pleasant. Many cases of indigestion start with a heated table conversation.

Research in Shellac Varnishes In England studies are being made on the possibility of replacing the alcohol in shellac varnishes with water. A concentrated solution of lac in alcohol is carefully mixed with a dilute ammonia solution and the resulting mixture then diluted with water to the proper consistency. Such films are unaffected by water but are brittle. A reasonable degree of flexibility can be obtained by the addition of water-compatible plasticizer.

Notice to the Public

In order that prompt and efficient service may be rendered, it is necessary that a sincere cooperation be the following:

had from the public and that consideration be given

- 1 Requests to physicians for home visits must, when at all possible, be placed in the morning. This will conserve time and prevent needless long drives and a retracing of routes.
- 2 Use should be made of office facilities when possible and should be arranged by appointment with the physician's secretary. This will prevent delays and waits.
- 3 Night calls MUST be limited to emergencies only. Physicians will be physically unable to make any unnecessary night calls.
- 4 Serious cases and those needing close observation, such as confinements, should whenever possible use hospital facilities—if only for a few days.

YOUR EARNEST COOPERATION IS NEEDED IN THIS EMERGENCY. ONLY BY A CLOSE OBSERVATION OF THE ABOVE CONSIDERATION WILL IT BE POSSIBLE TO GIVE PROMPT AND EFFICIENT SERVICE.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Buying Victory Bonds Is Self-Protection

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

You do a sensible, even a selfish thing when you buy Victory Bonds; you do a smart thing in a businesslike way. It is self-protection, nothing nobler than that.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE probability is that you and your husband have invested a certain amount of dollars in Victory Bonds and Victory Stamps. And you probably feel a little thrill of pride and patriotism with every dollar so invested.

But the real truth is that there is no reason here for complacency. You do a sensible, even a selfish thing when you buy Victory Bonds; you do a smart thing in a businesslike way. For if there is to be an America tomorrow, your bonds and stamps will be the most valuable things in it, and if there isn't—an impossible hypothesis, which I put in merely for illustration—noting that you have hoarded or saved, money, property, stocks, will be worth what is classically known as a tinker's dam.

More than that. If we of America rise to this situation, not with a sense of being generous and reckless and wholehearted, but because we appreciate the facts of the case, this country will be spared inflation. Our financial authorities could create that inflation now, very simply. They have the power to float billions of new bills amongst us; we wouldn't full realize, seeing these new bills, that every one of them meant that what you and I have in the bank was worth that much less.

It is Self-Protection. So buying bonds is self-protection, nothing nobler than that. If we don't, we lose what we have. If we do, we keep what we have and add to it valuable investments that in ten years will be redeemed at interest.

You'd get the general idea fast enough if someone went to your bank and drew out one-third of your money. A thief who did it would be punished to the full extent of the law. But this wouldn't be a thief; this would be a person with perfect rights, who might remind you, as he went away with your good money, that in another three months he meant to come and get another third.

If your comment on this is, "That's outrageous!" the real answer is simpler still, "That's war." We are in a desperate battle now against forces that may gain power over all the world, or that may be curbed and controlled for 100 years. Curbed and controlled until the horrors of militarism and invasion die away into the sunrise of a saner day. We can't stop now. We can't go back to the comfortable day when one hundred dollars in the bank was one hundred dollars, and nobody could take it away.

Ten Per Cent Is Too Little. The only thing we can do to save what we have is to invest in America. They are talking now of "10 per cent" investing. That seems to me too little. My own suggestion would be that every family give one-third of its income to the government for safekeeping until the day of peace. Wages are high now; salaries have ballooned upward, and every man who wants a job—and quite a few who don't—is at work.

Hearts are opened to deeds of courage and to the facing of changes; many of us who have never seen any good in war itself are nevertheless determined to find good in the enlarged opportunities of sharing and brotherliness that wartime emotions bring with them. We are all knitting, cooking, writing letters to camps, gathering up

After the War

You have heard it said many times that anything worth doing is worth doing well. Why, then, should we not give our best to the war effort? For surely there are no higher aims than ours should be today. Unless we demonstrate our faith in those aims by doing our best to realize them, we must not be surprised if others doubt their value. After the war is over will we be able to say with pride, "This is the democracy I helped preserve"? Or will we have to listen while a conquering enemy tells us that democracy could not have been worth while if those who enjoyed its benefits did not think enough of it to fight for it? We cannot all fight with guns. But we can fight with dollars—and fight now!

tinfoil and rubber, active in many ways we didn't think necessary or possible a few years ago.

What we women have to get through our heads is that no service to the family compares to the service that is investment in Victory Bonds. It is small use to get into uniform, keep office hours, collect packs of cards and packs of cigarettes for the boys, and at the same time to say dreamily, "I did buy two dollars' worth of stamps from Marion and I meant to buy more, but I forgot."

Would Prevent Inflation. Victory Bonds ought to come next to rent and grocery bills. If the government could count on one-third of the national income in the next two years, we wouldn't have to have inflation. We would be the only country that ever came through a war without it.

But while women are under the delusion that buying Victory Bonds is a pretty and loyal gesture, done partly to please dear Louise Baker, who sits at a little table selling them in that hot department store five mornings a week, the government's vigorous determination to spare us inflation is jeopardized. Our fate is in our own hands now; it is for us to decide it.

One woman I know finds herself today with an income of something like $350 a month. Up to this time it has hovered irregularly around $140. She is putting $100 a month into Victory Bonds. Three of her four children work, and she insists that one-third of what they earn shall be invested that way.

She does her own work; the family table is the same plain old table; the girls put aprons over their office clothes and do the bedrooms and the dishes; the small boy sweeps porches and runs errands just as he did before the aggregate monthly family income was approximately $700.

I said something, praising the spirit of this woman, but she laughed it off.

Excellent Opportunity. "Wonderful!" Milly Carter echoed scornfully. "There's nothing wonderful about it. It's a chance to fix this family up for life. In ten years these girls will be married, and each one will have a good sound investment that will mean a home for all of them. I never dared hope for such an opportunity. America is still the land that gives the working people the best break," Milly concluded, her eyes on the flag that flies cheerfully above the shabby Carter home. "I'm taking advantage of it as my ancestors did, that's all."

MIXED, ISN'T IT?

Mrs. A.—Do you ever give your husband present hints?
Mrs. B.—Of course I do.
Mrs. A.—Do you? Why the least hint makes my husband so mad.
Mrs. B.—Poor dear, you don't know the combination. I tell my husband I don't want what I want and then I get it.

All the Time

A boil on the stove, worth two on the neck.
A man with a pull is worth two with a push.
And an ace in the hand is worth two in the deck.

Back Pating

Miss Sharp—The great men are all dead. Isn't it a pity?
Smart—But the beautiful women are not.
Miss Sharp—Of course not. I always except present company.
Smart—So do I.

ANOTHER SPRING

"You brute! The idea of your calling your wife the last rose of summer and other insulting names."
"Hold on, Judge! I never used that metaphor. You see, a rose dries up some time."

That's Something

"I went to an open-air performance of a Shakespearean play the other night."
"Like it?"
"Well, the scenic effects were good."

No Discount

Willie—What's the meaning of the phrase "The long and the short of it," Pa?
His Pa—I don't know anything about the long; but the short of it is right after the first of the month.

The Professor—Not exactly; he's a roamin' candle.

"Go back to your old home town, y'boob, don't let me disturb your slumbers."

Susceptible

Pretty Camp Visitor—Major, did you get that scar during an engagement?
Major—No; the first week of our honeymoon.

Enough's Enough

"So, your sister don't like my mustache?"
"She says it's all right what there is of it, and there's enough of it—such as it is."

No Reflection

"Dauber is gaining fame as an exponent of the cubist style of art."
"Where does he get his talent?"
"His mother used to be a prize crazy quilt maker."

For December 20

"Do your Christmas shopping early" is a good idea, don'tcha think?
"Yeah! Great—but it never works, look at us now."

Use of Words

"She is working a present for me."
"You mean she is working you for a present."

Yes? No?

"So you want a raise, what for?"
"Well, boss, my rent's up and my car's down."

30 Days' Grace

"Grace spends an awful lot of money."
"Not a saving grace, then?"

ed. If the scrap can be found in homes and farms, and there are literally millions of tons of it available there today, American factories can produce more tanks, more airplanes, more cannons and other essential armament for our Yanks and Allies overseas and our army at home. That's the story, folks. Newspapers have been invited to tell it to you to see that this metal is turned over to Uncle Sam. Do your part.

Animal Life Museum
Madagascar has been called a museum of ancient forms of animal life. They have been saved from extinction because there was no competition with stronger creatures. Apparently once a part of Africa, the island was severed from the continent before larger mammals developed. It has no lions or elephants; even apes and monkeys are missing.

Filler for Cracks in Floors
In very old houses, large cracks are sometimes to be found between the floor boards. There is no filler that will hold in them permanently, due to the expansion and contraction of the wood. Temporarily, the cracks can be filled with a mixture of shellac and sawdust. Summer is the best time to do this, when the cracks are narrower than in winter, to prevent bulging. It is necessary to mix this in small quantities, and to work fast, to avoid premature drying of the mixture. After drying, the filled cracks can be sand-papered smooth.

From Drachme
The word drachme may have several meanings and is probably derived from the Greek, drachme. It may mean a small quantity. We also have an apothecary weight of that name equaling 60 grains or one-eighth part of an ounce, writes Kurt M. Semon in American Collector. It may mean a small drink, such as could be swallowed in one gulp. This, together with the use of certain dainty vessels for tasting wine or spirituous liquors, probably accounts for the name of these vessels—drachme cups. In England they always figured as tasters.

Even Cabbage Is Versatile
Cabbage is versatile and is very good when freshly green and not too solid. Briefly boiled with nothing added but salt and a little butter.

New Colors for Safety
White and very pale colored houses have too high a visibility for safety in air raids. A neutral yellowish gray is visible only from about 1,600 feet in moonlight or 2,300 feet under flares, whereas white is visible from 6,500 to 10,000 feet. Recommendations are being made in the case of new construction for the use of ultramarine, bluish oxide reds, lime green, chrome green and dark yellow to brown ochers.

Insulation Means Power for Victory
Insulation saves fuel, and fuel is turned into power for production of planes, tanks, and guns for war. Insulation saves fuel that causes transportation bottlenecks. Insulation is not expensive when the house is being built, and it will reduce the operation or fuel cost of the house substantially each year.

JUDAH: AN EXAMPLE OF SELF-SACRIFICE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 44:18-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us; and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.—1 John 3:16.

The family is still the fundamental unit of society, and is therefore of more importance than the church, the state, or the social order of which it is a vital part. Every force which encourages the breakdown of the sacred relationships of the home and family is set for the destruction of society itself.

Men have too often chosen to go the way of the flesh, and therefore they have disregarded God's plan and purpose. But marriage is just as sacred as ever in His sight; the home is to be kept for Him; and brotherly love still finds a high place among the virtues of real men.

Today's lesson is a continuation of the story of Joseph's life. As we study it we must bear in mind Joseph's dealings with his brethren, who as yet did not recognize him as the one they had sold into captivity. He was bringing them kindly but definitely to the point of real repentance, so that he could show himself gracious to them.

To do so he had brought disaster upon them. Being happily on their way homeward with a new supply of food, they were overtaken and proved to be thieves, and Benjamin, the beloved of their father Jacob, stood condemned by their own words, to death.

In that crisis the mouths of the others seemed closed, but Judah, who had really saved Joseph's life (Gen. 37:26, 27) and who had apparently come to himself as a man of essential goodness, pleaded for Benjamin's life. That plea presented a truly sacrificial brotherly love, as he manifested

I. Courage (v. 18).
Easy rests the yoke of family life as long as all is joyful and prosperous. But when adversity strikes, when sorrow comes, or sickness, or sin, then the true test of devotion is at hand.

It was a brave and manly thing for Judah to stand before the one whom he knew only as the man who was "even as Pharaoh." The circumstances were all against him. He expected the flaming anger of the offended ruler. His brethren had collapsed in despair. It was one of those dark hours which come to every family when someone must demonstrate true love by being strong-hearted and steady.

II. Intelligence (vv. 19-29).
Crises call for more than a cheerful smile or an encouraging word, much as they may mean in such an hour. We must be prepared by our close contact with our loved ones to speak and act with vigor and assurance.

Judah's plea is a masterpiece of argumentation and appeal, demonstrating that he was not only well-informed about his family and its problems, but ready to use his knowledge skillfully and effectively.

III. Self-Denial (vv. 30-33).
One step deeper goes the devotion of this man to his father and his brother. He had done no wrong that merited punishment, but evidently his brother Benjamin had been guilty. Had he been of the spirit of Cain he would have said, "Am I my brother's keeper?" and let him answer for himself. Why should Judah suffer for another? Why should he allow himself to be imprisoned in a strange land to save his father from sorrow and his brother from what seemed to be the just reward for his deeds?

Thus reasons the man of the world, but such is not the language of the true brother, who says, "Let thy servant abide instead of the lad as a bondman."

IV. Love (v. 34).
Love for father and brother underlies all of the courage, conviction and self-sacrifice of a man like Judah. In his younger years, and possibly under the influence of his brothers, he had failed in that respect, but now his real devotion to his brother was evident.

That affection was a real, powerful, and beautiful thing, and yet it is but a faint prefiguring of the affection of the One who "sticketh closer than a brother," who "though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich" (Prov. 18: 24; II Cor. 8:9).

Let us improve the opportunity to review our relations with our own family, to determine whether there is aught that we in intelligent and courageous self-sacrifice should do for our own.

You have seen the picture of Car-nation Ormsby Maudslayi, the new world champion milk cow, in the newspapers, the movies, the magazines. You have read of her amazing performance, producing nearly 42,000 lbs. (about 5000 gallons) of milk in a year. You have noted her great size (weight 1750 lbs.), her unusual depth of body, her ability to convert cheap rough-ages into milk.

But never before, perhaps, have you seen the picture of her shown here, the picture which shows her at the most critical time of her life. This was taken before she had that size, that capacity, that almost perfect functioning of the vital organs required to produce an average of 115 lbs. (13 gallons) of milk every day for 365 days.

For the first 3 months of her life she had Calm Manna as part of her ration, and the significant thing is that many of the greatest cows, and the greatest horses, and the greatest beef cattle, and hogs, and sheep have likewise received Calm Manna in those first months when bodies and body functions are being developed.

Drop in, and let us tell you about this great product

We're Busy Helping Uncle Sam

...—V...—

LAST YEAR, America's railroads moved 475 billion ton-miles of freight, history's greatest traffic job. (We'd like to tell you how many millions of soldiers and sailors we carried, but . . .)

This year the railroads may haul 50 million carloads of freight—10% to 15% more than in 1941.

We did the 1941 job pretty easily because freight shippers and receivers and the public cooperated. We can do this year's bigger job if we again get that cooperation.

This all-out war requires all-out transportation. Uncle Sam is depending on the railroads for that. We're handling 70% of his military freight. To let him down would be tragic.

So "the tall man in the high hat" comes first.

At any time now there may be one, even two or three fewer cars in your passenger train. You'll excuse it, won't you? Uncle Sam will be using them.

Or your freight may move out, or come to you, a little later than you had hoped. We're certain you'll overlook that, too. We'll be moving important things for Uncle Sam.

We knew you would. And you'll be helping him, too.

Conservation Farming Most Effective Way

Nation's Farmers Learned Lesson During Last War

This time it's going to be different!

American farmers learned a bitter lesson from the last World war. In today's war they are answering the demand for more food by careful planning to avoid the ruinous exploitation of soil resources which cost so much last time.

"Flow to the Fence for National Defense" was the cry during the World war. Forty million acres of grass never before broken were uprooted by the plow. Much of that land should never have been permitted to be sown to anything but grass.

Conservation practices were forgotten in the zeal for "more of everything."

This time farmers have a national wartime farm program developed by farmers and co-ordinated through the United States department of agriculture adjustment and conservation agencies. It is a plan for getting more of the right things and it stresses conservation farming.

Experience has shown conservation farming is the most effective way to boost output now and make even greater production possible tomorrow.

Farming on the contour, for instance, has increased corn production twofold on farms in test areas. Also, it has required 7 per cent less time and 10 per cent less fuel in preparing land and seeding small grains than non-contoured farming.

It is estimated that if contouring were extended to one-third of the corn acreage in the corn belt, production would be increased 100 million bushels, an average increase of six bushels per acre.

In West Virginia, a 30 per cent increase per acre in tomato yields was achieved through use of strip cropping.

By following good range management, a West Texas rancher increased the weight of his calves by 75 pounds at selling time.

This year a minimum of 20 per cent of the crop land of a farmer participating in the AAA program will be devoted to soil-conserving crops and land uses.

Conservation is already paying war dividends. Without the advances of recent years, America's farms would not have a chance of reaching 1942 production goals, not to mention the strain of producing even more in 1943.

Thus farmers recognize conservation as the key to getting the most of the right products now and continuing to get them as they are needed without permanent injury to our land resources. That is the lesson they learned from last time.

Over 215,000 tons of food are represented by the game animals, game birds, and game fish taken by sportsmen in one year.

Agricultural Notes

Domestic consumer demand for farm products will continue to rise during the next few months.

Planting Walnuts

Walnuts may be planted in the fall where wanted or the nuts may be kept over winter stratified in moist sand in a sheltered place out of doors so they do not dry out and where they will not freeze. When planted in rows the nuts should be covered about 1 to 1½ inches deep. The plants in one year should attain a height of 12 to 14 inches and may be transplanted in the spring. Protection of the nuts from burrowing rodents should be given when they are planted in the fall.

FUN FOR YOUR FAMILY

By MISS ABBIE CONDIT

National Recreation Association.

Leaf designs are especially appropriate for autumn decorations, and spatter printing is one of the simplest and most effective ways of transferring the design from the original leaf to paper or cloth. The leaves and ferns of late summer and early fall provide plenty of variety in size and shape for amateur leaf printers.

With a few simple properties you can spatter-print leaf designs which will add just the right touch to nature scrapbooks, stationery, greeting cards, book covers, place cards and party favors, book plates, calendars, and other homemade gifts.

Your family can be easily bribed to help you hunt for prize specimens by making guarded remarks and vague promises about jolly leaf-craft sessions and spatter-print parties in the winter months to come. They'll soon discover that collecting autumn leaves is almost as much fun as printing designs from them.

Collect all your materials in the kitchen or work shop before the printing session begins. In addition to pressed leaves and ferns, you will need poster or cold water (powder) paints; squares of screening, preferably the rustless copper window screen; and old, discarded toothbrushes which have been boiled or disinfected. Typing paper is excellent for leaf printing.

Cover the table or work bench with newspaper and advise the erstwhile artists to wear old clothes or smocks. Remember that this is a "spatter" party! Mix the paints to about the consistency of thin cream and put in cups. These can be left in the middle of the table with the screens and brushes for all to use.

Lay the leaf or leaves on a sheet of paper in any design or pattern.

Unpressed leaves or those which do not lie flat can be held down with pins placed vertically in the stem or veins. When you dip the toothbrush into the paint, remember to brush off the excess paint on the inside of the cup. Don't rub the brush across the rim of the cup or it will spatter the artists as well as the leaves!

Hold a piece of screen about two-thirds of an inch above the leaf and brush back and forth across the screen with the toothbrush. Fine speckles of paint will drop through and cover the background, leaving the silhouette of the leaf untouched. When the paint is dry, pick up the leaf and you will have a perfect print.

If you have too much paint on the brush it will fill up the holes in the screen. The screen can be cleaned by laying it on a newspaper near the center of the table and rubbing with the brush until the paper soaks up the excess paint.

Delicate leaves and ferns with irregular margin surfaces make the most interesting designs. Use a variety of colors and make the spattered background as light or dark as you wish. Always let the first coat dry before using another color over it. It's fun to experiment with different colored paper and paint combinations.

Once you've tried spatter painting you'll find an amazing number of uses for it. Any type of design can be cut out of cardboard and used as the center for a spatter print. Leaf designs are especially appropriate for nature book covers, paper napkins, picnic plates, scrapbooks, and autumn party decorations. Children will love this kind of family fun. And they won't mind learning about leaves and ferns if they can spatter paint to their hearts' content!

Save Your WASTE FATS to make explosives

You can serve in a very large measure by a very small effort on your part. All you have to do is to bring in waste fats and grease to our market and receive 4 cents per pound.

1. The need is urgent. War in the Pacific has greatly reduced our supply of vegetable fats from the Far East. It is necessary to find substitutes for them. Moreover, fats make glycerine. And glycerine makes explosives for us and our allies—explosives to down Axis planes, stop their tanks, sink their ships. Millions of pounds of glycerine are needed and housewives can help supply them.

2. Don't throw away a single drop of used cooking fat—bacon grease, meat drippings, frying fats—every kind you use. After you've got all the cooking good from them, pour them through a kitchen strainer into a clean, wide-mouthed can. Keep in a cool, dark place. Please don't use glass containers or paper bags.

3. Take them to our market when you've saved a pound or more. We will pay you for your waste fats and get them started on their way to the war industries. It will help if you can deliver your fats early in the week.

FOUR THINGS NOT TO DO

1. Don't bring less than one pound at a time.
2. Don't bring your fats in glass containers or paper bags.
3. Don't let fats stand so long that they become rancid. If they do, the glycerine content is reduced.
4. Don't bring your fats on week-ends if you can avoid it. Help us by returning them early in the week.
