Temporary Rationing of Farm Machinery

Rationing Boards Have Been Named in Tuscola and Sanilac Counties.

Military requirements have forced drastic curtailment of materials normally going into farm machinery. Rationing has become necessary in order to insure a fair distribution of available machinery in channels where it will do the most good in wartime agricultural Authority to ration farm machinery was delegated by the War Production Board to the Office of Price Administration and redelegated to the Department of Agriculture. Accordingly, the secre-tary of agriculture issued an order effective Sept. 17, prohibiting the sale of farm machinery except as specified in the instructions governing the release of farm machinery.

In Tuscola County, Chairman
Chas. B. Eckfeld of the Tuscola Co. Agricultural Conservation Association, has been appointed chairman of the newly created farm machinery rationing board. Other members appointed by the U.S.D. A. War Board are: S. A. Noble, Gilford Township, and R. L. Robinson, Almer Township. Alternates are Nate Pattison, Almer, and George Wheeler, Snover.

The articles of machinery that must be approved by the rationing committee are as follows: Beet lifters, beet loaders, combines, corn Turn to page 8, please.

National Recreation Association. Of all the things the normal American family likes to do in its spare hours, playing games is perhaps the There are literally hundreds of different kinds to choose from, some for outdoors, some for indoors, some for children and some for grown-ups. But about the best games are those which the whole family can play together, and which can please five-year-old Bobby just as much as seventy-year-old Grand-

The best time for family games is in the evening, when supper is over and the dishes are washed; this is the time, and in most families about the only time, when everyone in the family is together and there is an ited at the home of Mr. Moore's hour or two to spend in recreation. sister, Mrs. C. Hill, and family at | For these occasions, it's a good plan to forget the adult games like bridge and five hundred, and turn to games which children can play as well as grownups.

One of the best of the around-thetable family games is the old favorite known as "I Doubt It"---almost everyone has played it at one time or another: it's fast and interesting. and a child can be just as expert as an adult after a practice game or two. Here is how it goes; any number at all can play, from three

The player to the left of the dealer begins the game, by placing all the aces in his hand face down in the center of the table and announcing their number and name, as "three aces." Next player must then play all his twos, the next player threes, and so on until one player has no more cards and becomes the winner. The order of cards in play goes from aces through to kings, and then begins all over again with

The feature of "I Doubt It" is that no player is forced to tell the truth when he makes his declaration; if he plays three cards, for example, and announces "three sixes," he may actually have the three sixes, or he may be playing entirely different cards and simply calling them sixes. Many times a player is forced to put the wrong cards on the table, for if it is his turn to play queens and he has none, he must still play at least one card and call it a queen. Whenever an opponent thinks a player is not telling the truth, he endorsed by the War Production may say "I Doubt It," and force the Board, the Office of War Informaplayer to turn the cards he has tion, the State Salvage Director played face up on the table. If the and the Michigan Council of Decards are what the player claimed | fense. them to be, the challenger must take all the cards on the board into his hand, plus the cards the last player has put down; if they are way. not what the player claimed them ment from Uncle Sam, and Michito be, the player takes back his gan newspapers intend to make misrepresented cards and picks up the pile on the table.

Whenever one player succeeds in getting rid of all his cards, the game is over, and each player is then given one point for each card remaining in his hand; the winner receives no score. A new hand is then shuffled and dealt, and play continues as before, until one of the players has scored a total of 300 points. The player with the lowest score is then

In addition to "I Doubt It," there are many other games which children like as well as adults-Michigan, Donkey, Grab, and Go Fish are four. Children like some of the simpler pencil-and-paper games and guessing games, too, as well as dominoes and parcheesi; they're all fun, and most important of all, are games at which a child has just as much chance to win as his father or grandfather. Try them out some evening in your own home, and see, Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Snake's Terminal Rings

A rattlesnake acquires from two to four rings a year. Under normal conditions a ring is added each time the snake sheds its skin and, contrary to the general belief that this occurs only once a year, the usual number of sheddings or sloughings each year is three. A rattle seldom contains more than 12 rings because the vibration at the tip of the tail is so great that terminal rings are worn down or broken off.

FOUR COMMANDMENTS OF CLEANLINESS IN CREAM PRODUCTION

thru fresh cotton filter

Unless he keeps a single key-word in mind constantly, it is impossible for a farmer to produce good cream -whether or not that cream is destined to be churned into butter. That word is cleanliness. The essentials of cleanliness in cream production are illustrated above.

Failure to observe these simple precautions is estimated to cost farmers of the United States $40,-000,000 a year, if seizures of unfit cream and butter, and losses resulting from the lower value of poor cream, are taken into account. Forty million dollars is enough to pay for a new battleship or to pay a big part of the U.S. farm families' yearly clothes bill. The farmer in search of extra profits and the farm woman who bears a large portion of the responsibility for the maintenance of the sanitary standards surrounding the production of cream | each time it is used.

must join hands to conserve this large sum of money which is literally escaping through their fingers. Old, unsanitary equipment cannot possibly yield No. 1 grade cream. A battered, seamed or rusty pail is a definite threat to cream quality. Old-fashioned strainers or unsanitary cheesecloth will spoil clean milk. An efficient, well-kept, mechanical separator is a necessity. Syrup buckets, lard cans, crocks, cooking utensils or other makeshift containers are not suitable for holding cream. Good equipment is a good investment, and the profits from the improved quality of the cream will pay for it over and over again, tests have demonstrated. But even good equipment must be well cared for. The best of equipment

Producing Own Home Beef Aids War Plan

500-Pound Calf at Ten Month Age Is Suggestion

Producing beef for home use is a real contribution to the wartime program. If some families are to have meat they must produce it, says Roy W. Snyder, animal industries specialist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension service. Even the nondescript, pot-bellied, small, rough-haired Jersey type calf can be made into satisfactory beef for family use. It needs to be fed a fattening ration for four to six months before being killed. Feeding not only makes more beef, but improves the quality to an almost unbelievable degree.

If a milk-pen calf is available it should be started on feed at once. Use the feeds grown on the farm. It may take 1,200 pounds of corn or mile, 1,200 pounds of hay and two sacks of cottonseed meal for the average inexperienced feeder to develop a calf into good edible beef, but the feed will be used to good advantage.

Feeding the calf until it weight at least 500 pounds when it is ten months old, is a good mark to shoot at. Feed it all it will eat so that it will put on fat as it grows.

A good practice is to feed grain as soon as the calf will eat it. Oats is best to get a young calf on feed, but if it is not available, feed corn, mile or some other grains.

When the calf receives less milk later in the feeding period, add cottonseed meal or cake to the grain an at Luzerne Saturday. at the rate of one nound five pounds of grain.

Drug Plants

Defense experts say that this country would be able to raise its own supply of drugs if the 60 medicinal plants now imported were planted here. All of the plants will grow here and the only drawback is the large amount of hand labor re-

Anise is grown commercially in Rhode Island. Its aromatic seeds are used for medicine, in baking and for flavoring confectionery. Oil is distilled from the seed which is used medicinally, in cordials and for flavoring in various beverages. Belladonna has been cultivated in California, Michigan, Indiana, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. When the leaves and roots are dried, they yield a drug which commanded high prices during the World war, but interest in this crop recently has declined. In certain localities in New England and the West, Lovage is grown. Its roots are used in the drug trade, | Greenleaf. while the seeds are used for flavoring confectionery.

Muck lands of southern Michigar and northern Indiana are used for growing peppermint. About 500.000 pounds are produced annually in this country.

Stigmas of the saffron flowers are used in cookery, for coloring confectionery and to some extent in medicine. It is grown as a small garden crop in Pennsylvania.

Bark Valuable

Bark from certain trees is valuable and can be sold.

Two companies in the Buffalo, N. Y., area buy the bark from hemlock and rock oak, while one firm in Fulton county, New York, buys alder bark. White ash logs are bringing top prices now for uses in the army, navy, and agriculture. The buyers want logs free from crocks and as four feet.

Lights of New York

Razing the city's elevated railroads—only the Third avenue line remains in operation-has robbed many New Yorkers, also numerous visitors, of opportunities for glimpses into the homes of the poor. The trains wound in and out among the tenements and car windows were about on a level with fourth floor windows of old walk ups. So it was possible to look right into Muntz. humble flats and observe what was taking place. That held true especially at night since the interiors of many tenements are so dark they Detroit. are revealed only by the aid of artificial illumination. The tenement dwellers apparently did not resent intrusions into their privacy since they seldom pulled their shades and often men, women or children, who happened to be at windows would riders who were staring at them.

Scenes extending in panorama from far uptown down to South Ferry, were more or less homey. Often I have observed the man of the house, at the end of a day of toil, sitting comfortably with his shoeless feet on a chair or a window sill, contentedly smoking his pipe and perusing the evening paper while man. his wife prepared supper. Women engaged in never-ending household tasks, from scrubbing floors to dusting, were too common sights to be noticed. Washing and ironing also seemed to go on forever in the tenements, particularly those down town. Then, too, before such occupation in homes became outlawed, there were the makers of artificial flowers, whole families turning out roses and other simulations and receiving for their toil, perhaps a few

Help on Coast

Areas Set Up in Winter Are Abolished.

SAN FRANCISCO.-Several thousand German and Italian aliens who were required to move out of prohibited or restricted areas set up in California by Attorney General Biddle in late January and early February will be able to move back into or work in those districts under a new proclamation just issued by Lieut. Gen. John L. DeWitt, Western defense commander.

Guiseppo DiMaggio, 69-year-old father of Joe DiMaggio, the baseball player, may return to Fisherman's wharf to keep an eye on Joe's restaurant and reminisce with his old cronies, many of whom likewise had been barred from that picturesque district. Hundreds of Italians who had to leave homes they had occupied for many years in industrial Pittsburgh may now move General DeWitt abolished all "prohibited and restricted areas within the Western defense command" as established by the attorney general, thus making available a substantial number of farmhands and fruit pickers for work in California's fields and orchards situated within those areas.

Help Truck Farming. Italian aliens had been an important factor in truck farming in the Half Moon bay district near San Francisco. They had been barred also from considerable farm land in Monterey county as well as in Southern California and elsewhere in the

Although General DeWitt's proclamation thus should help the state's economic situation, this consideration was not a motivating factor in his decision, according to observers. A spokesman explained the situation this way. The attorney general's orders, which cleared the prohibited areas of German and Italian aliens by February 24, were issued before a long-range pattern for dealing with the enemy alien problem had been worked out. They were thus looked upon as a stop-gap measure to protect the coast from possible sabotage and fifth column activity until there was opportunity to develop a broad program.

When General DeWitt received, under presidential order, the right to deal with the Japanese, German and Italian situation as he deemed best consonant with requirements of "military necessity," he retained all the prohibited and restricted areas as designated by Mr. Biddle.

Some Places Proscribed. But, it is understood, retention of these areas would not follow the present pattern of dealing with enemy aliens. There are still certain places into which an Italian or German may not go, and all these places are guarded by physical barriers and sentries. They are along waterfronts and near military and naval installations.

In addition to providing some additional farm labor in needy areas, General DeWitt's proclamation will make available more workers for industry, because, in some plants enemy aliens are not barred from the payrolls.

The new order had the effect of restoring almost normal family life to thousands of Germans and Italians, but compliance with curfew, residence and travel restrictions is still required. German and Italian aliens in California must, in spite of the relaxation of the earlier orders, remain in their homes between 8 p. m. and 6 a. m., may not travel more than five miles from their homes, and must obtain permission from a federal attorney before changing their residences.

> NEW ORLEANS, LA .- Miles Purdy, Keyser, W. Va., youth with his shipmates from their torpedoed transport in the Gulf of Mexico met up with one climax after the other, only to have him put the finishing touch to the adventure with final and unusual surprises. The ship Purdy was on was tor> pedoed sometime shortly after midnight and crippled. All on board abandoned the ship. While they were floating about in life boats the sub resurfaced, shelled the ship, sank it. Ten hours after the sinking, two of the life boats were picked up and the crew brought to shore. The one

> Purdy was in with his shipmates was overlooked. After six days of floating, an airplane flew overhead and failed to see them.

Two more days they drifted. On the eighth day a fishing craft was sighted. Later it was learned that the fishing vessel was then 300 miles off its course!

After considerable time the vessel came near, recognized the life boat, and took the crew aboard.

Purdy then recognized the captain, Russell Calvert, as being a neighbor from the same county in West Virginia.

Shortly after Purdy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Purdy, received notice that their son was numbered among the missing from the ship sunk at sea, they received a wire from him here that he was well and safe. He then returned home on a 28-day leave.

Purdy volunteered in the army over a year ago. He has a corporal's rating.

Rise in British Crime WASHINGTON .- The war has produced in Britain an increase in bigamy, crimes of violence and juvenile delinquency, Sir Norman Birkett, noted British lawyer and judge of the king's bench division of the high court, told reporters at a press conference.

Justice Birkett said that the interruption of normal family life and the relaxation of parental control due to the movements of large numbers of the population into the army and evacuation areas were responsible for this increase. The blackout was mainly responsible for the larger number of crimes of violence, he said. Despite these crimes and the emergency powers held by the British government, however, the essential freedoms of the British people had been maintained, he added. Freedom of speech, both in parliament and in the press, had been maintained, and even enemy aliens who had to be interned had received the right to a limited amount of freedom to govern themselves, he

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Yank Fliers and Subs Blast Jap Ships In Battles for Supremacy in Pacific; Rubber Czar Speeds Synthetic Output; Fuel Oil Rationing Covers 30 States

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

William M. Jeffers (right), newly appointed rubber administrator, confers with War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson concerning problems to be solved in the nation-wide rubber conservation program which he heads. The former president of the Union Pacific railroad called for the co-operation of all Americans in making the program effective. Task number one for Mr. Jeffers is to sten un the production of synthetic rubber and increase the capacity of new plants making it.

PACIFIC FRONT:

Jap Ships Smashed The Japs got a taste of American

air and undersea power when aircraft and submarines struck at widely separated points on the farflung Pacific battlefront and damaged or destroyed 18 enemy ships.

In the Solomon islands, American bombers attacking the enemy base at Retaka bay, north of the American airfield at Guadalcanal, damaged two cruisers and destroyed vital enemy shore installations.

In the Aleutians heavy army bombers and long range fighters inflicted severe damage. Included in the American score were two mine sweepers sunk, three large cargo ressels damaged, three submarines hit and trapped and "several small craft" damaged. In addition the U. S. raiders set fire to storehouses and supply dumps ashore, destroyed; noted that there was "grave dansix enemy planes and killed or wounded approximately 500 Jap

Elsewhere in the far western Pacific, submarines sank four ships and damaged four others. The successful attacks on these eight ships raised to 107 the total of Japanese vessels of all types which the navy has reported sunk or damaged by American submarine attacks since

FUEL OIL RATION:

Forecasts 65 Degrees

Home owners in the 30 eastern and midwestern states affected by the WPB's fuel oil rationing order were told by Price Administrator Leon Henderson that domestic allotments would be pegged to a daytime temperature of 65 degrees under average weather conditions.

Approximately 3,140,000 oil-burning residential units in the rationed area will be affected by the order. The plan is designed to reduce consumption 25 per cent in the desig-

Mr, Henderson said the amount of oil allowed each heating unit would be based largely on the floor space and the amount of fuel used last year. In order to obtain coupon rationing sheets, householders will be required to furnish local rationing boards with detailed information concerning the dwelling and fur-

DRAFT:

Fathers or Boys?

Congress was given its choice between drafting 1,500,000 youths of 18 and 19 years of age or the same number of married men with dependent families by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service

In a statement before the house committee investigating national defense migration, Hershey said: "We are going to get 18 or 19-year-olds, or 1,500,000 men out of the family.' He added that the war department has certain reasons for wanting younger men and that industry would be disturbed less by taking the youths.

RUBBER CZAR: Tough Job Ahead

Blunt, energetic Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers had a big job on his hands and he knew it War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson knew it too, for when he announced Jeffers' appointment, he called it "one of the toughest" assignments in the whole war effort.

As recommended by the President's special inquiry committee, Mr. Jeffers was given full authority over every phase of the rubber program. He was charged with reorganizing, consolidating and administering the government's efforts to alleviate the rubber shortage.

One of the new rubber czar's biggest tasks was to drastically step up synthetic rubber production. The report of the President's committee headed by Bernard M. Baruch had ger" that construction delays might hold up the present program as much as four months, leaving rubber supplies next year insufficient even for military needs.

Directness was one of the things Jeffers was noted for as president of the Union Pacific railroad. He showed the same approach when he

"This means I have a tough job. But it is also a job for all the people of the United States. The biggest stockpile of rubber we have is on the wheels of our automobiles. I ask every motorist, every truck driver, everybody who runs a car. to remember that he is now the custodian of a material more preclous than gold."

RUSSIA:

Needs Second Front

As the news from Russian battle sectors had become gloomier, the increasing necessity of an Anglo-American second front in western Europe to take the pressure off the battered Red armies and thus avoid complete disaster was urged by Soviet military experts in London.

Although the eleventh-hour arrival of thousands of crack Siberian troops at Stalingrad had enabled the Reds to throw fresh reserves against Marshal Von Bock's Nazi legions, the over-all picture remained somber. The need for a diversion elsewhere appeared as pressing as ever.

Soviet representatives in London were said to believe that Allied invasion of western Europe would draw 30 to 40 German divisions away from the Russian front.

Meanwhile as massed squadrons of the RAF had continued their smashes at German industrial centers in a "softening up" drive, Production Minister Oliver Lyttleton declared:

"We are approaching the breathless moment when, if Russia holds a few more weeks, the gathering forces of the greatest alliance the world has ever seen will give us the first evidences of victory." Captain Lyttleton had predicted in July that the next 80 days would be

LABOR DRAFT:

Looms for Millions

Approximately 18,000,000 Americans faced the possibility of being shifted, hired or replaced, as Paul V. McNutt, war manpower director, told congress that the national labor shortage is becoming so acute that compulsory home front service for both men and women appears in-

McNutt said the nation must and 4.000,000 new workers between now and 1943 and that a large number necessarily must come from the ranks of women and of men either too old or too young for military

There were 57,000,000 persons employed in June, 1942, he said, and between 62,500,000 and 65,000,000 will be needed by December, 1943. There is no "evidence," he added, that labor reserves-including women, Negroes and other minority groupswould prove adequate.

The manpower chief said he believed "the mere existence of statutory power to force an individual to serve where he is needed" would be all that is necessary to establish a system of labor allocation that would help meet the problem.

FARM MACHINERY:

On Ration List

New farm machinery and equipment went on the rationed list when Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard signed an order in Washington. The present order applies to sales for the remainder of 1942. Mr. Wickard said a permanent order would be issued later governing 1943 sales and production.

The curtailment program was made necessary by military requirements, the secretary added.

"The temporary rationing system for 1942," he said, "is designed primarily to control the distribution of the limited supply of farm machinery and equipment now on hand and to assure its greatest possible contribution toward meeting the goals of our food-for-freedom pro-government ministers and all other federal, state and municipal agencies to take measures dealing with military, economic, scientific and labor measures necessary to defense.

Already in force was compulsory military service for males between the ages of 21 and 45. Men between the ages of 21 and 30 were placed in the "first line" with all others placed in the "second line." Action against Axis submarines was being steadily taken by the Brazilian air force. Internment of Axis fifthcolumnists had been accomplished and Axis-owned banks, insurance companies and other enterprises had been closed.

MORE CHICKENS:

To Supplement Meat

More chickens in every pot were forecast when Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard called on poultry raisers to produce 200,000,000 extra fowl this fall and winter to help counteract a prospective meat shortage for civilian use.

National poultry organizations estimated that 600,000,000 additional pounds of poultry could be produced for consumers if 200,000,000 birds were reared to a weight of three pounds each. Secretary Wickard was assured that poultrymen and farmers, utilizing existing brooder houses and other production equipment not normally used to capacity during the season would participate in the program.

The lieutenants-R. P. Beuan-Green of London and H. F. Briggs of Hull-said that before the fall of Tobruk all of their artillery except one gun was knocked out by the Germans.

After Tobruk fell, a German armored car roared up the coast and took them prisoners.

While the Germans were busy the lieutenants stole a British staff car. Several had been taken over by German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel for his own use, but they didn't realize it until they passed two sentries. They expected to be shot; instead they received the Nazi salute.

"Then we joined a German convoy moving east," Lieutenant Briggs related. "There were so many British vehicles with it, Jerry took no

They weren't found out until they reached Bardia, near the Egyptian-Libyan frontier. A sentry tried to stop them, they said, but "our staff car was going almost 50 miles an hour and we nearly ran him down." The Germans gave chase, but failed to catch them.

Within the British lines they were severely shelled before they succeeded in "surrendering" and identifying themselves.

Rebuilds Radio on Ferry Plane Despite Injury

LONDON.—Despite the fact that the blood was flowing freely from his injured hand, Alexander Sutton, 19 years old, of Glasgow, a wireless operator on board an American bomber being ferried to Britain, dismantled his radio when it broke down and reassembled it unaided.

The bomber was about halfway across the North Atlantic when the radio went wrong. It was midnight, and there was little fight by which to make repairs. Knowing that the captain of the plane depended on getting wireless bearings, Sutton decided to dismantle the whole set. He had memorized the blueprint and he started in almost pitch darkness to carry out the difficult task. After two and a half hours, he got the set going again, but the captain was astonished to see the boy saturated in blood. He had gashed his hand while dismantling the set, and the fact that the bomber had been flying at over 20,000 feet had caused the blood to spurt freely from the wound.

Use Dry Ice Instead of

Powder in Militia Guns DENVER .- Col. Clyde E. Hill, commander of the Colorado defense force, has announced that the unit will be armed with "dry ice" guns to replace the Springfield rifles taken over by the army.

Hill explained that the new weapon is powered by gas from dry ice which propels a bullet with the same velocity as a powder-burning car-

Ray J. Monner, Denver, designed the dry ice gun which he said had been demonstrated to the war department.

The rifle shoots a .22 caliber bullet. Its operation is based on the fact that gas evaporating from solid carbon dioxide (dry ice) exerts about 1.170 pounds of constant pressure per square inch in the gun's magazine. A trigger opens a valve, releasing the gas pressure and discharging the bullet. One loading of dry ice. Monner said, would fire 1,800 rounds of ammunition.

JOSEPH: AN EXAMPLE OF FORGIVENESS

LESSON TEXT-Genesis 45:1-15; 47: i, 12. GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Ephesians 4:32.

Forgiveness, opening the way for the restoration of fellowship and the showing of kindness, brought the story of Joseph and his brethren to a happy ending. Under the good hand of God the story which began with tragedy is brought to a conclusion of blessing.

Following the earnest plea of Judah, the heart of Joseph could no longer withhold itself from the full expression of affection and devotion to his family.

1. Love Overcomes Fear (vv. 1-4). Joseph tenderly shielded the family troubles from the eyes and ears strangers by sending out the Egyptians. It was the first step of consideration which paved the way for reconciliation. How often just the opposite is done-airing family affairs before the world, and humiliating those who may be in the wrong, thus making it difficult for them to admit their guilt.

Then, too, this was a moment too tender and delicate to be seen by outsiders. The tears of a strong man like Joseph mean a deep movement of spirit-a solemn and often a sacred moment. It should also be noted that the brothers were afraid, and well they might be, because of their sin against Joseph. After almost 50 years these unrepentant men found themselves face to face with the one whom they had supposed they had disposed of, and they knew their sin had found them out. It always does, sooner or later, but inevitably. How great and noble was the forgiving love of Joseph; an example to us, especially appropriate and needed in a world of hate and bit-

II. Grace Overrules Sin (vv. 5-8). The guilt of these men was none the less and Joseph could not remove it, but he encouraged them by showing how God had used their evil devices to work out His own good pleasure. He can make the wrath of man to praise Him (Ps. 76:10).

It is worth stressing again that in the very hour when the prospects for Joseph's future usefulness seemed ruined. God was opening the door to the greatest experiences of his life and was preparing him to serve the thousands whose lives were saved by his wisdom and ability in the years of famine.

Nothing is more important in the life of a child of God than to be yielded to His will, unmoved by circumstances, abiding His time, responding to His guidance whether it be by the opening or closing of doors, prosperity or adversity. And herein is the marvel of it all-even sin may be overruled by God's grace for His own glory. That does not invite anyone to sin that grace may abound (Rom. 6:1, 2), but it does offer encouragement to the one who has fallen, that God can redeem the years that the locust have eaten (Joel 2:25). Our lesson also sets us an example of how true forgiveness acts. something we need. So often when forgiveness is asked or granted there is an "I can forgive but I can't forget" attitude, which means that while hostilities have ceased. at least temporarily, there is no real friendship or the disposition to show kindness. Is there any real forgiveness at all in such an attitude of heart and mind? We fear not. III. Kindness Provides the Best (vv. 9-15; 47:11, 12). It might have been enough to send food and a kind greeting with the brothers to their own land, but love does not seek the minimum expression of its feeling. It asks not how little, but how much can I give or Bringing his aged father and brothers into the land of plenty was not enough, Joseph also gave to them the "best of the land" (47:11). His thoughtful consideration in sending for his father (Gen. 46:5-7) was part of the same piece of kindness.

Joseph puts to shame the modern "hard-boiled" attitude toward needy and aged members of the family. In their eager and relentless pursuit of fame or riches, many ignore or trample upon the members of their own families. Often they are ashamed of the broken bodies, the humble apparel, the broken or uneducated speech of their parents. They fear lest their new-found friends in the circle of wealth and supposed "position" will think them strange or ridiculous. God pity the man or woman who is ashamed of a humble or aged father and mother! Joseph, who really had an exalted position gained by merit and by the blessing of God, never forgot his place before God as a son in the family and as a brother. Let us tissue. consider him and do likewise.

output of work in the long run. As to just what vacation one should take, the individual knows best because, after all, to get away from the routine of work at, or away from home, to get a real change is the important factor in getting the most out of a vacation.

Doing what you want to do is another large factor in getting the most out of your vacation. The fact that after waiting for months you are now able to do what you have planned to do, gives a vacation a flying start in enjoyment.

Unfortunately, before some can go on a vacation, they have a great amount of work to do-mental and physical-so that by the time they are to go they are completely exhausted. For them to rush off and do what they most want to dohike, dance, play strenuous games like tennis-is a great mistake with body and mind so tired.

As pointed out before, the word vacation means to vacate, to leave your present surroundings amid different circumstances.

In planning to get the most out of a vacation, I have previously suggested that it is best to rest the first two days of your vacation to get over the tiredness due to getting ready to go. Then, when rested, you can indulge in the swimming, boating, dancing, walking, climbing you had planned. Then, before you return to work or business, spend the last day or two the same as the first two days-resting and loafing.

Preserving The Hearing

As we think of the great number of hard of hearing individuals who are now wearing satisfactory hearing aids we are apt to think that we have reached the point where all the hard of hearing accept this condition and are willing to wear hearing aids. But this is not so.

university school of speech, in an article on the conservation or preservation of hearing in the Journal of the American Medical Association says:

"Recently an employer was asked what his reaction would be if someone asked permission to test the hearing of his employees. He replied that he preferred to let sleeping dogs lie. A locomotive engineer was asked if he would invite some members of his union to come to the laboratory for hearing tests. No charge was to be made and the results were to be confidential. None appeared for the tests." Why do employers and employees avoid these tests? Employers are afraid that additional legal regulations and questions of compensation will arise. Employees are afraid that it will bring about loss of employment. It is likely that most of us, whether we were employers or employees would do just as this employer and employee did. However, just a little thought should convince all of us that as most cases of hard of hearing are not in an advanced condition but still have considerable hearing ability, the common sense thing to do would be to find out how much hearing was lost, what was causing the loss, what could be done to prevent further loss and what could be done in the way of treatment or a hearing aid to bring the hearing up to or nearly up to normal. Dr. Bunch recounts the measures being used in factories, tunnels, airplanes and other places and occupations, to preserve, not restore, the hearing. One of the simple methods used to preserve hearing by shutting out noise is use of absorbent cotton ear plugs, covered with vaseline.

FORT LEWIS, WASH .-- A superfighter from the combat engineers is being trained by the United States army to become one of the most heavily armed soldiers in the world and even more versatile than his British counterpart, the Commando.

If a soldier of the Mikado's army suddenly sees a black-faced, knifewielding warrior jump out of the jungle one of these days, he probably won't have time to realize that he is about to become a victim of an American Pioneer, the name of the super-fighter.

The hard bitten Pioneer will be called upon to do the initial work of a battle or campaign. He is taught to fight with machetes and wicked, curved bush-knives as well as with Tommy guns and rifles. The Pioneers are armed with rifles, Tommy guns, 30 and 50 caliber machine guns, 37 mm. cannon. axes, bolo knives, machetes, saws and an ample supply of TNT and other explosives.

Officers training the Pioneers here said that the Pioneer would be sent into enemy territory to establish bridgeheads, to demolish enemy installations and to prepare paths, roads and bridges for the infantry advance.

Officers said the Pioneers were not expected to do their fighting with wicked machetes, bolo and bush knives, unless they had to. But ask a Pioneer which he would use-his knife or his rifle—if he ran into a few Japs in the brush.

Four Types of Alaskans The native Alaskans can be divided roughly into four groups: the Indians of southeastern Alaska, the Indians of the interior, the Aleuts and the Eskimos.

The Indians of the southeast inhabit all of that section except Annette island and the south end of Prince of Wales island. The Indians of the interior-the Athapascanslive on the south coast and in the interior from Cook inlet on the west to the Canadian border on the east and north to the watersheds of the Yukon and the Arctic ocean.

The Aleuts, who live principally on the Aleutian islands, are related to the Eskimos but distinguished from them by language and customs.
