Schwegler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Schwegler, of Cass City, was united in marriage with Arthur W. Battel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Battel, also of Cass City. Rev. Stanley P. Kim, pastor, officiated at the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride was charming in a powder blue costume suit, trimmed in braid of matching material. With it she wore black accessories and a corsage of pink and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Alice Buehly, who attended her cousin as bridesmaid, wore soldier blue with a corsage similar to the one of the bride.

James Ballagh of Greenleaf assisted Mr. Battel as best man.

The church, as well as the home of the bride where a luncheon followed the wedding, was decorated in bouquets of pink and white chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Battel left that evening on a short trip after which they will make their home on the Battel farm, three miles east and three miles north of Cass City. The groom, a prosperous farmer of this community, was graduated from the Cass City High School with the Class of '35, while the bride was graduated from the same school in 1937. ## Band Concert "Upped" Bond and Stamp Sales Here

The attendance at the concert on Wednesday night was slightly disappointing for such a splendid program presented by the Cass City High School Band, but the response in the sale of War Stamps and Bonds was pleasing to members of the band and sponsors of the program. The admission price to the concert was the purchase of a stamp or bond, and during the day and evening the total sales reached $3,267.00.

Willis Campbell, local chairman of bond selling, anticipates that November will show a substantial increase of sales in this community. Both October and November were set aside as bond buying months for farmers. Now that the busiest days on the farms are past, it is expected that bond sales will be on the upgrade here.

Coordination of Dairy Shipments Is Being Planned in Michigan

Coordination of transportation in the farm pick-up of milk and cream in order to conserve tires and truck equipment is the job now confronting a special committee named by the Michigan Allied Dairy Association.

The committee is composed of representatives of all branches of the industry and will assist in the organization of local market committees and the working out of plans for individual markets. F. M. Skiver, director of the bureau of dairying of the state department of agriculture, is chairman.

Following a conference with representatives of the Office of Defense Transportation and state war boards, a series of district meetings has been arranged in the lower peninsula to initiate planning for local markets.

These plans will be submitted to the Office of Defense Transportation for approval, after which the local market committees and administrators may make recommendations to the ODT regarding the issuance of certificates which are necessary for the operation of all commercial vehicles.

In the opinion of Skiver considerable savings can be made through an integrated schedule of farm pick-ups of milk and cream. One objective will be the elimination, as far as possible, of overlapping milk routes.

In addition to Skiver the committee is composed of James Hays, dairy extension specialist, Michigan State College; Paul Ouster, manager, Constantine Cooperative Creamery; Lew Reynolds, Kraft Phoenix Cheese Corporation, Pinconning; T. H. Broughton, Michigan Milk Dealers' Association; B. F. Beach, Adrian; W. L. Mann, Nestle's Milk Products, Cass City; and L. N. Franks, Ice Cream Dealers Association.

Allies Prepare Great Surprise

United States and Britain Making Secret Weapon, Says Gen. Barnes.

LONDON.—Brig. Gen. G. M. Barnes of the United States army ordnance mission is quoted as saying that the British and Americans both were producing a secret weapon that would prove "a great surprise" to the Germans.

The type of the secret weapon was not hinted but General Barnes said some of the new British weapons now in production were real "eye-openers."

Speaking after a tour of British munitions factories, he declared that United States and British armament production was sufficient both in quality and quantity for "the support of a full-sized army in any enterprise."

The general, 56 years old, is chief of the war department's design section and an expert on the design and manufacture of heavy ordnance, particularly anti-aircraft guns. He arrived in London recently at the head of a technical mission to work with the British in correlating Allied fighting material.

Germans Not Superior.
He pointed out that the nature of his work, concerned chiefly with developing advanced types of munitions, must be secret, but declared neither the British nor Americans had to concede "any superiority to the Germans in qualitative weapons."

"It is no longer a question of ordnance production as far as supplying a vast army is concerned," he said.

He was quick to point out, however, that the transportation of weapons from the United States to Britain was not in his field and said he could not comment on the shipping situation.

"A three-week tour of British factories has convinced me that America has a lesson to learn in the employment of women in munitions making," the general said at a press conference.

"We employ women, but we are going to have to employ many more. The British are using women in tasks such as boring guns, which in the United States is done only by skilled mechanics."

General Barnes expressed belief that American industry must train women for similar tasks.

Women Do the Work.
A spokesman for the ministry of supply, under whose auspices the general came to Britain, interrupted to say that in production of certain parts of a new British anti-tank gun, 60 per cent of the work was done by women.

The spokesman said the ministry was considering sending a group of British munitions workers to the United States to instruct American women in certain types of work.

British and United States ordnance already is rapidly being used interchangeably by the two armies, General Barnes said. He cited such devices as anti-aircraft artillery and gun mounts.

He described himself as astonished at how little bombing had damaged British industry.

The general said his mission would leave soon to return to Washington.

Navy Dogs Spot Raiders; Gunners Train on 'Point'

LONDON.—The commanders of British warships on North sea convoy duty have discovered that dog mascots, mostly mongrels, seem to detect aircraft long before their engine vibrations reach the men's ears, it was disclosed today.

The skipper of one ship insists that he has instructed his men to watch the dogs "point" and keep the guns tentatively trained in the direction of the point.

"It is unfortunate," he said, "that dogs cannot tell the enemy from our own lads."

The same skipper is convinced that cat mascots aboard scent land through the murk long before land is visible.

Yanks in Great Britain Curb Vacation Travel

LONDON.—British civilians were asked to curtail their vacation travel so American soldiers and sailors could be moved to and from camps.

In newspaper advertisements the railway executive committee said:

"Their journey is necessary. The American Expeditionary force has a new priority on transportation in Britain, so passenger travel must be reduced still further. Before you travel ask yourself whether your journey is more necessary than those of many thousands of American troops and their equipment now arriving in Britain."

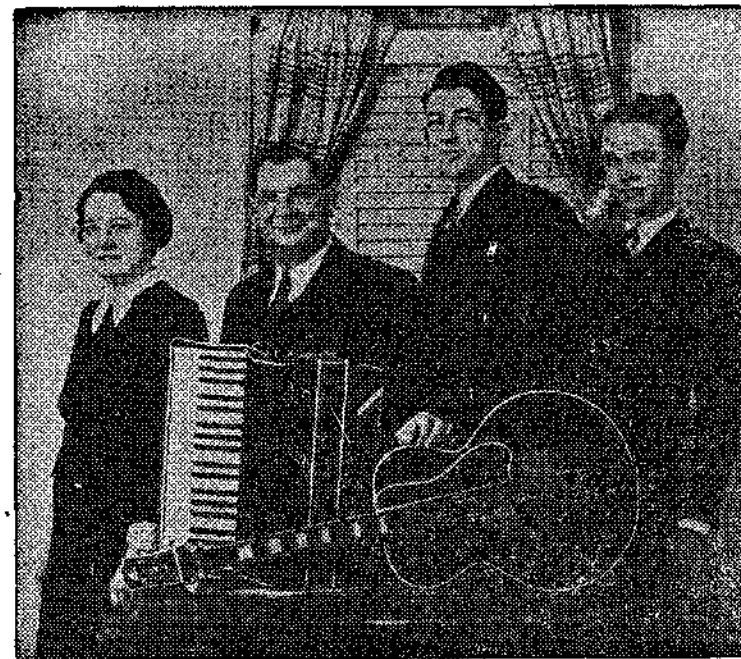

Six-Mile Run Helps to Get Men Into Clouds

KANSAS CITY.—The Hefflin twins, Clarence and Lawrence, puffed into the naval aviation cadet selection office, rushed to the scales and weighed in at 171 pounds each—one pound under the limit.

"They'd tried 10 days before but each weighed 185 pounds.

The last seven of the excess pounds disappeared from each twin in a six-mile run on the final day.

Consolation

This Virginia turkey is receiving more than the usual share of attention. With just a few days left on earth, Mr. Turk deserves a bit of happiness. He'll soon be the piece de resistance of some toothsome Thanksgiving dinner, and his little friend is doing her best to console him.

This is a message to people in rural communities.

In my travels throughout the country I have noticed that the housewives in the rural community pay very little attention to traffic when getting the mail from the mail box. If the mail box is located across the road, it is doubly hazardous because so many times they start reading the mail before they get into the protection of their own driveway.

This is a dangerous practice and should be discontinued. Wait until you know that the road is clear before crossing. Read the mail (if you must read it outdoors) in your own road or driveway.

These are some points to the good of the citizens living in the country and I urge that they be followed.

What U. S. Foresters Say

Foresters of the department of agriculture say the fuel value of some species of trees is but little improved by seasoning, largely because of the small amount of moisture they contain at the time of cutting. Black locust, shagbark hickory, lodgepole pine, American beech, Virginia or scrub pine, white ash, red pine, Douglas fir and Osage-orange are several.

We hope to win appreciation from those who employ us, by rendering the best service we know how.

1401 Persons Were X-rayed in Tuscola Co. by TB Association

A report to Tuscola county residents on the work accomplished by their last year's Christmas seals is submitted by Theo. J. Werle, Lansing, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

To wipe out tuberculosis, Christmas seals work in two distinct fields, Mr. Werle explains. (1) To find the unknown cases of tuberculosis, protecting the community from the spread of their germs and giving the sick a chance to become well. (2) To educate people to prevent tuberculosis.

The Michigan Tuberculosis Association x-rayed 179 persons in Tuscola County this year. Since Christmas 1931, when Christmas seals began the x-ray service, 1401 persons have been x-rayed in this county, Mr. Werle reports.

Preceding the x-ray clinic, an MTA staff member organized tuberculosis testing clinics in the schools of Cass City, Caro, Vassar, and Fairgrove. Calls were also made on 84 families known to have had intimate contact with tuberculosis, inviting them to come in for testing. The tuberculosis test was given to 814 persons and all who reacted were offered chest x-rays.

Because early tuberculosis shows no symptoms, the x-ray, which makes a shadow picture of the chest, is a great help in diagnosis. A trained tuberculosis specialist studies each film and determines whether or not disease is present. The MTA offers its educational services, including literature, posters, and a film loan library, to all civic groups, churches, schools, health directors, board of supervisors, libraries, and industries make use of this material, Mr. Werle says.

Princess Watassa, health ambassador for the MTA visited Tuscola County April 13-17, appearing before students of 32 schools. Her popular health legends were heard by 3079 students and 173 adults.

Typical of the enthusiastic reports on Princess Watassa from this county is one from W. A. Kubitz, superintendent of the Unionville high school: "Princess Watassa made a wonderful impression on the children. I think it a good campaign for better health. All children possible should be reached."

To interest students in building good health, six issues of the Wolverine Health Bulletin were mailed to all schools in the county. Health teaching aids, posters, pamphlets and booklets, were supplied to rural schools through the school commissioner.

The steady work of Christmas seals over the state, forced Michigan's tuberculosis death rate to the lowest figure in history last year—32 per 100,000 population. To hold this record against the onslaught of war is the job of the 1942 Christmas seal, Mr. Werle stressed. Tuberculosis, which has always increased with war, has already made sharp rises in England, Canada and France, he said.

Pennies Pack a Punch Invested in TB Seals

"Pennies Pack a Punch" declares the November issue of Health, Michigan Tuberculosis Association magazine, which gives a report of the work done in Michigan by last year's Christmas seal money.

The Michigan Tuberculosis Association x-ray unit in 57 counties x-rayed 5,856 persons. In 47 of these counties local agencies arranged for tuberculosis testing prior to the x-ray clinics. In ten counties where no other facilities were available the Michigan Tuberculosis Association tuberculosis tested 6550 persons.

Ninety-two new cases of tuberculosis were found and referred to Michigan sanatoriums for treatment through the case finding program of the Association.

In pushing the educational work to prevent tuberculosis, free literature was distributed in quantities through schools, churches, clubs, industries, health directors, and private physicians. During the year 77,810 persons saw tuberculosis movies, while Princess Watassa, Indian health-story teller, spoke to 55,186 children.

Thirty-five years of Christmas seal work has cut Michigan's tuberculosis death rate 66 per cent. However, Health warns against the sharp rise in tuberculosis which has accompanied every war. It reports that in England last year, tuberculosis deaths among children were 45 per cent higher than the 1939 level.

Grass Roots

John Hamilton, national committeeman, used the expression in a speech made at Topeka in January on the occasion of Kansas Republicans celebrating their 1934 victory. One explanation is that grass roots is equivalent to getting down to the brass tacks of a situation. Another is that the rally is held to revitalize the party from the roots up.

U. S. Soldiers' Gifts Are Sunk in Atlantic

The Army Postal Service has announced that 4,986 sacks of United States mail bound for American armed forces in the British Isles had been lost in the sinking of a United Nations cargo ship.

Much of the shipment was parcel post and represented one of the first parcel shipments of Christmas mail.

The War Department said that the lost mail was deposited in the United States during the latter part of September. Mails reaching the New York Port of Debarkation Army Postoffice later than Oct. 3 were not included in this shipment.

The War Department said that announcement of the loss should enable persons who mailed Christmas gifts and other classes of mail to Great Britain during the approximate period indicated "to be guided accordingly." Previous announcements said gifts for men overseas should be mailed before Nov. 1.

HOW MAINTENANCE

A RECENT SURVEY of war industry plants revealed that dirt accumulating on lighting fixtures is slowing down production by robbing workers of much of the light they need.

In the 27 war plants surveyed, the average loss of light due to dirty fixtures was 17.5%. In one plant producing airplane propellers, 38.2% of the light output was being wasted because dust from a hand-grinding operation was allowed to collect on the lights.

This dimout is serious because it hinders production. The remedy is simple: A proper schedule of lighting maintenance, under which lamps and fixtures are washed regularly, will help insure the maximum light output needed for efficient war production.

Frequency of cleaning depends on many factors, such as the type of lighting installation and the kind of work being done in a given area. For advice on how to set up the most economical schedule for lighting maintenance in your plant, or for help with any production lighting problem, call any Detroit Edison office. Our Industrial Lighting Engineers are at your service, without charge.

The Elkland Extension Group met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Claud Karr for an all-day meeting with a dinner at noon. The lesson, "Make Every Stitch Count," was given by the leaders, Mrs. Wm. Martus, Sr., and Mrs. Edward Golding. Twenty nightgowns were given out to be made for the Red Cross. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Alton Mark.

Miss Flossie Crane entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of the 34th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lorn Brown. The anniversary was Nov. 11, but the dinner was given on Sunday. Guests besides Mr. and Mrs. Brown were Mrs. Violet Beasars, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McBurney, Mrs. Bay Crane, Miss Katherine Crane, Mr. and James Crane and Joseph Brown.

Louis Cramton, Rotary district governor, told members of the Rotary Club here Tuesday that human sacrifice had been necessary to secure the freedom the nation enjoys today. That freedom is too often taken for granted and too few realize that it came through the sacrifice of hundreds of years which brought in turn the Magna Charta, the Petition of Rights, the Habeas Corpus Act, and the American Bill of Rights. The address of Mr. Cramton on "The Ancestry of Uncle Sam" was most informative.

Miss Virginia Gift, homemaking teacher in the Cass City High School, has resigned her position to engage in defense work in Saginaw. Miss Pauline Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Knight of Cass City, who has been teaching in Port Huron, has been engaged to fill the vacancy. She begins her duties here Dec. 1.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Guisbert.

EXTENSION GROUP LEARNS NEW STITCHERY

The Elmwood Extension Group held an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Garfield Leishman on Wednesday, Nov. 11. The leaders showed the group how to do Italian hemstitching. They also showed several methods of decorating dish towels, several kinds of holders and other types of embroidery on pillow cases and table linen. The leaders gave criticisms on embroidery and needlework brought by members.

The next gathering of the group will be an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Harold Evans on Feb. 11. The subject for the lesson will be "Re-caning Chair Seats."

Deer Hunters

Bull Moose

The name was applied to Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 arising from his remark: "I feel as fit as a bull moose." Through constant use of this animal's figure by the cartoonists in connection with Roosevelt's political campaign as the presidential nominee of the Progressive party, he became known as the Bull Moose candidate and the party as the Bull Moose party.

Porridge Parties Are Peril to British Tea

LONDON.—Perhaps it won't be much of a surprise if one of these days some fine "porridge party" or other is recorded among the social doings. Porridge parties, instead of afternoon tea, have been held with success at the British government's Scottish office. With biscuits rationed, the idea may spread.

Venison Supplements Meat Ration

Several million pounds of venison from the 50,000 deer that probably will be taken in Michigan this fall will be a welcome addition to meat rations in many homes. Properly butchered, a deer yields much meat that can be stored for later use. Venison can be smoked, pickled or dried, but the simplest preserving methods, where cold storage lockers are not available, are cold-pack canning and old-fashioned refrigeration: freezing, wrapping and packing in sawdust in a barrel set outdoors. Venison may be kept 60 days past the end of the deer season without permit, six months longer if a permit is obtained from the state conservation department.

Good Care of Tractor Required at Present

Production Limitations Requires Check-up

With limitations on production, it's extremely important that every farmer gets full power and longer life from his tractor by taking the best kind of care of it, says E. R. Gross, professor of agricultural engineering at Rutgers university, in offering tips on making adjustments to the valuable machines.

"In order to get the maximum use out of every ounce of fuel, it is necessary to adjust the carburetor once or twice a year," Gross reminds farmers.

"This should be done with the tractor warmed up and while in operation on a normal belt load. A carburetor is not easy to adjust while on traction load. Too lean a mixture of fuel is as bad as one that is too rich.

"Although the right adjustments vary, you can gauge it accurately if you lean the mixture first by turning the load needle valve until there is missing or back-firing. Then turn the needle back until the engine carries the load smoothly, and adjust it slowly so that the full effect of changes in the mixture reaches all cylinders. If there is a separate idle adjustment, set it while on no load, but do not change the main needle except while on full load."

Ignition must be right for fuel economy and full power, Gross continues. Plug porcelain must be perfect, not fouled, burned nor broken.

Test the source of electricity. The spark should be continuous and give a good flame when jumping a three-eighths-inch gap. Be sure the plug is of the right type. Use the cold type plug for gasoline and the hot type plug for distillate or heavier fuels.

Time the breaker points, adjust for proper gap, a little less than the plug gap. See that they act freely, meet flatly rather than at a point and separate without a spark.

Wiring may be tested visually but the coil or condenser require a tester set for maximum and minimum capacity.

When Winter Comes

Although Old Man Winter didn't make his official 1942 debut until December 22, cold weather refused to wait for the meteorologist's "go signal." Here a lineman battles snow and ice to make sure that power is uninterrupted. The "Winter Solstice" doesn't mean half as much to this chilly gentleman as the thermometer's reading.

Save Empty Cereal Boxes Empty cereal boxes may be slipped over jars of fruit if one has no dark storeroom.

Full-fledged support of Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, in his program of war-time education was voted recently by Michigan newspaper editors in a formal resolution adopted at Ann Arbor.

Coming on the trail of criticism by university regents concerning Dr. Ruthven's war attitudes, the editors' action was a significant prelude to the Congressional enactment last week of selective service for 18 and 19 year old youth. Students will be permitted to complete their studies this year through June.

It is another reminder that World War II is far different than the first conflict 25 years ago. And it brings up an interesting situation, the plight of higher education in all-out modern war. Here is the story. You can be the jury.

What is the function of higher education in war?

Is it that of providing technical training in the fine arts of killing and self-defense to the exclusion of general cultural knowledge, or should such institutions try to train youth to the responsibilities of democracy, to provide an understanding of the problems of the present world, and otherwise to instill an appreciation of the humanities, sciences and arts while combining with these immediate instruction of war technology?

Does all-out war mean the all-out abandonment of cultural training?

Should we return to the "three R's" and close down our colleges and universities "for the duration"?

Dr. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, set forth his ideas on the function of higher education in war-time in a formal address to the newspaper editors. The occasion was the 25th annual meeting of the University of Michigan Press Club.

Here are a few excerpts, representative of Dr. Ruthven's thinking:

"Every professor fully understands that there must be a shift in emphasis in college and university programs during war periods. The curricula must be augmented by technical subjects, the student population and staffs decreased, and the educational facilities in many ways diverted to other purposes.

"Any doubt as to the appreciation of the nature and consequences of the war by college and university professors and administrators should be quickly dispelled by an examination of the changes made by these institutions in the last year. They have on the whole responded splendidly to the need of the war machine as presented to them in requests and directives from the officials in charge of the various war agencies. In a few months they have become indispensable adjuncts to the regular training agencies of the military departments." As an unprejudiced and informed observer of the

EPILEPSY

Some years ago I expressed the personal thought that if I had been gifted with the qualities of a research physician, the investigation as to the cause of epilepsy would have been my first challenge, after cancer. Despite the fact that it is one of the oldest known diseases, the actual cause is unknown.

We know that too much liquid in the body brings on the attacks in some individuals. We know that some cases are due to injury. We know also that cutting down on starch foods and increasing fat foods is all that is necessary to prevent attacks in some individuals.

In addition to the knowledge now possessed by physicians everywhere there are many research physicians still patiently working on the problem of epilepsy. It might be well to speak of the Harvard Epilepsy commission where the original work of Drs. H. H. Merritt and T. J. Putnam on dilantin sodium outlined in the Journal of the American Medical Association four years ago, is being further investigated and results reported to physicians everywhere.

For years, successful treatment of epilepsy has, as outlined above, been (a) cutting down on liquids, (b) cutting down on starch foods, (c) increasing fat foods. The medical treatment has been phenobarbital or other of the barbiturates which replaced the bromides of former years.

A new drug in use for the past few years is dilantin sodium, the use of which has been reported by Drs. Merritt and Putnam in Boston, and Dr. C. P. Kimball among the children attending the Detroit board of education's special school for epileptics.

While physicians report still some unpleasant reactions from dilantin sodium and prefer phenobarbital, more and more dilantin sodium is coming into general use to prevent the epileptic convulsions.

Until, then, the cause of epilepsy is found, epileptics can, in most cases, live safely with none of the fears of attacks occurring in public or dangerous situations by following the diet suggestions mentioned above and the use of dilantin sodium or phenobarbital as prescribed by their physician.

Massage Relieves Pain and Stiffness

During and immediately following the war of 1914-18, the value of massage in quieting pain, loosening up stiff joints and muscles, aiding the circulation, helping to move the wastes along the large bowel was so well recognized that schools of massage, sometimes as a part of a course in physical therapy, were established, and, when connected with recognized colleges, diplomas were given.

Just before this present war started massage was not receiving as much attention as it deserved but now there is renewed interest therein in actual field operations and even in training camps.

Unfortunately it is only at war time that physicians as a whole give any attention to massage; even then it is left to non-physicians not only to give the actual massage but often to prescribe the type of massage that should be given in any particular case. Thus Dr. Ralph Pemberton, Philadelphia, in his "Handbook of Physical Therapy" states "There is probably no other measure of equal known value which is so little used and understood by the medical profession as a whole."

At one time it was thought that massage had just the same effect upon the muscles as exercise; in fact was a form of exercise but the benefit derived is now believed due to another cause.

Why is massage so helpful to stiff, painful joints and muscles? In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. George Morris Piercel, Philadelphia, states that from direct observation on the circulation of the blood in the little blood vessels (capillaries) massage causes an increased rate of blood flow and changes in the vessel walls followed by an increased interchange of substances between the blood and tissue cells. That is, the blood takes away from the tissues the substances causing tiredness, stiffness and pain, and brings to these tissues fresh blood.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. North African Occupation Seen As 'Springboard' for European Front; Hitler's Seizure of Southern France Thins Axis Forces for Russ Campaign

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Territory in North Africa occupied by U. S. expeditionary forces under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be used as a springboard for offensive action against Italy, the Adriatic Balkans and possibly southern France, military experts believe. Principal features on above map show (1) American control over Atlantic ports in French Morocco; (2) Mediterranean ports of Oran and Algiers in American hands; (3) strategic Bizerte in Tunisia, which would complete Allied control of the south Mediterranean; and (4) Vichy-held Dakar, which military experts expect to be taken over by Allies.

BLITZ TIMETABLE: Beats Schedule

Two immediate jobs had remained for Gen. Dwight D. ("Iron Mike") Eisenhower's American invasion forces after they had completed their spectacular blitzkrieg of French Morocco and Algeria in the record time of 77 hours.

One job was to secure control of rectangular Tunisia, a French protectorate jutting northward into the Mediterranean and offering via strategic Bizerte an ideal stepping stone toward the Axis "soft spots" of Italy and the Adriatic Balkans.

The other job was to complete with their British Allies the nutcracker drive into Libya to smash forever Marshal Rommel's all but extinguished Afrika Korps.

The capture of Morocco and Algeria had given the Americans control of 1,300 miles of precious North African seacoast on the Atlantic ocean and the Mediterranean sea, including the key ports of Casablanca, Rabat, Oran and Algiers. Significantly enough, it was Adm. Jean Darlan, French chief of all defense forces who had given the "cease-firing" order to the French North-African colonies. Darlan was now in a new role of collaborationist with the United Nations, after secret negotiations with American army officers. The welcome of the American forces by the French-African inhabitants had been warmed by the presence with them of heroic Gen. Henri Giraud, dramatically flown to Algeria from France after a secret rendezvous with British airmen.

Neighboring Tunisia was of key importance not only because of its strategic value for future offensives against Hitler-dominated Europe, but because of the concentration there of Axis air-borne troops and combat planes. Hitler had not intended to give up North Africa without a struggle. His hold upon it would not have been possible without Tunisia. Possession of the port of Bizerte, best equipped French Mediterranean naval base, by the United Nations would mean that the Allies would have relatively easy access to Sicily and the Italian mainland and an effective springboard to nearby Tripoli, former "powerhouse" of Axis North African activities. Success of the AEF operations prompted President Roosevelt to raise Gen. Mark Clark, second in command, to the rank of lieutenant general.

ROMMEL: 'Nutcracker Bait'

Like a groggy prize-fighter backpedaling before a knockout punch, Marshal Rommel's shattered Afrika Korps had scurried across Libya pursued by General Montgomery's conquering Eighth British army.

The chase had been nip and tuck with Rommel trying to reach Tripoli, his main base near Tunisia in an effort to use his remaining strength to make a stand. But Tripoli meant no rest for Rommel, for oncoming American armies from Algeria in the west and Montgomery's battering ram from Egypt in the east would converge in a mighty nutcracker movement to annihilate Axis power in North Africa.

HITLER: Seizes All France

Military observers agreed that Hitler's seizure of unoccupied France meant a further lengthening of his lines and a weakening of his forces.

The Fuehrer had no other choice than to try to close the "back door" to prospective Allied invasion by ordering his own legions southward to the Mediterranean and the Spanish frontier and those of his Italian "stooge" northward to the Riviera. Corsica, island birthplace of Napoleon, was likewise seized.

But Hitler's move into southern France meant that 20 to 30 Axis divisions would be tied down in occupation duties, thus weakening the English channel invasion coast and also his forces along the far-flung Russian front where action was at a stalemate. He had likewise enlarged the area where the Nazis would be sabotaged as they already have been elsewhere in occupied Europe.

Reports from Russia indicated the Nazis had already begun to withdraw troops to build up their defenses elsewhere in Europe. These were further substantiated by word from Greece indicating the arrival of fresh German units at key seaport bases.

Significantly, Hitler had first stopped his occupation forces 30 miles short of the French naval base at Toulon, designating it as a "camp retranche" to be by-passed and set apart from occupation. Center of speculation since the 1940 armistice, the French fleet comprising 62 warships was the prize at stake with the Axis standing on the near side of the Mediterranean and Allies on the other. Now an Allied "collaborationist" in Africa, Adm. Jean Darlan had added his voice to that of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a request for the French fleet to join him in Algeria.

From both sides of the Atlantic official optimism over the war's future outlook was expressed by leaders as a result of the Allied successes in North Africa. President Roosevelt predicted the Axis' inevitable defeat, and welcomed the increasing number of Frenchmen who are joining the United Nations' cause. In London Prime Minister Churchill for the first time since the bleak days of 1940 told the British public to rejoice. Mr. Churchill pointed out that a direct thrust across the English channel was coming in due time. He suggested that the day would be nearer as soon as it was evident that Germany was becoming "demoralized." The prime minister said that the Allied drive in Africa had as its primary objective the "exposure of the underbelly of the Axis, especially Italy, to heavy attacks."

The extent of the armada that had carried American and British forces to the shores of North Africa was disclosed by Oliver Lyttleton, British minister of production, who said that 500 transports and 350 warships had comprised the mammoth invasion fleet.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

LA VALETTE, MALTA: British forces in Malta opened a new air-drome with ceremonies presided over by Viscount Gort, commander in chief. Lord Gort said he was looking forward to the day when the island which has withstood so many Axis aerial attacks would become an advanced base for an offensive against Italy in movements from North Africa.

HAVANA: President Fulgencio Batista of Cuba will pay an official visit to the United States, arriving in Washington December 8, it was announced here. The Cuban chief executive will confer with President Roosevelt and then visit various American cities. General Batista will make the trip on the invitation of President Roosevelt and will be a White House guest overnight.

DRAFT: Inductions Soar

Induction of 18 and 19-year-olds into the nation's armed forces by January 1, 1943, appeared certain as the senate finally approved legislation lowering the selective service induction age. In order to fill military requirements up to the first of the year, local boards throughout the country indicated they would soon have to begin drafting childless married men.

Final impediment to the law's passage was hurdled when a group of senators decided not to press their attempt to require a full year's training for all the 18 and 19-year-olds before they could be sent into combat service overseas. The house had previously approved a measure eliminating this feature.

Meanwhile, selective service headquarters disclosed that local boards had been advised that "increasing demands of the armed forces require that a large number of men in essential activities who are liable for service be released for induction."

This meant that war plants would have to release key workers for the army and navy.

RUSSIAN FRONT: Nazi Drives Stalled

Communications from Moscow took on an increasing note of optimism as the Russians maintained that the German offensive against the Red lines from the Baltic to the Black sea had been smashed for the year.

Southeast of Nalchik where the German drive for the strategic Trans-Caucasian military highway had been stalled, the Russ defenders continued to repel attacks. Elsewhere in the Caucasus the Reds were holding the Nazis well in check. Soviet armies continued to keep a German force encircled in the mountainous vicinity of Tuapse, Black sea base, and thwarted every enemy attempt to break through.

The defenders of Stalingrad continued their heroic resistance. While small enemy detachments infiltrated from the south these were thrown back. Meanwhile Soviet troops northwest of the city continued to harass the Germans.

SOUTH PACIFIC: MacArthur Pincer

Slam-bang warfare continued in the air and on the ground in the South Pacific, with American and Australian forces pressing the Japs hard on New Guinea and at Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands.

General MacArthur's headquarters reported that at Oivi on New Guinea, Allied forces were using pincer tactics to squeeze the Japs out. Australian columns had cut off a

... Pincer squeezes Japs.

Japanese retreat by means of a flanking movement. The Japs' effort to cut their way through to the rear had been stopped by American troops flown by aerial transport to the vicinity of Buna, 55 miles north-east of the Oivi battleground in the Owen Stanley mountain area.

At Guadalcanal, American troops met enemy attempts to recapture Henderson airfield by an offensive that threw the Japs back several miles. An example of spectacular heroism in the Guadalcanal fighting was cited by a navy department release recounting the feat of Marine Pvt. Albert A. Schmid, whose companions in arms say he killed more than 200 Japs in a single night, while manning a machine gun.

From Washington came a navy communique announcing the sinking of seven more Jap ships in the southwest Pacific by American submarines.

U. S. ARMED FORCES: To Total 9,700,000

Armed forces for the United States totaling 9,700,000 by the end of 1943 were envisioned by President Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt's estimates included an army of 7,500,000, a navy of 1,500,000 and marines and coast guard forces totaling 700,000.

The bulk of future additions to the military forces will go to the army, whose present strength is 4,500,000, the President pointed out. The navy will be augmented by 500,000 and the marine corps and coast guard by 300,000 men during the next 12 months.

On the basis of calculations that it requires nine workers to support one fighting man in the field, the President's estimates would mean that a working force of 87,300,000 men and women at home would be needed to back up the armed forces.

Speltz is an extra crop for feed that ripens about the same time as wheat. Seed is sown at the rate of two bushels an acre in the fall, and the yield is usually about 50 bushels. Speltz is mixed with wheat and oats and ground fine to be made into a slop for pigs. Speltz alone is a good cattle fattener.

Share-the-Meat Campaign Opens in Michigan on Nov. 30

Neighborhood War Club leaders in all sections of the state will begin training Nov. 23 for the job of enlisting the people of their communities in the nation-wide meat conservation program. War Club leaders will begin a house-to-house educational survey Nov. 30 to explain the reason and necessity for conserving meat, distribute "Share the Meat for Victory" folders and sign up householders who wish to attend food demonstrations.

First steps were taken during the week of Nov. 9 to 16 when representatives of the State Nutrition Committee of the Michigan Council of Defense met with chairmen of county and local councils of defense, county nutrition committees and chairmen of Neighborhood War Clubs to explain the details of the meat conservation program.

Organization of Neighborhood War Clubs, designed to enlist every family in all phases of the home defense war effort, is going forward rapidly in all parts of the state, according to Mrs. Margaret E. Blaney, chief of the MCD Volunteer Activities Section, who is in charge of developing Neighborhood War Clubs. County Councils of Defense in 75 of the state's 83 counties have reported progress on war club organization, and clubs are fully organized and active in many communities.

Shipments of Beans Reach New Record in Michigan

Shipments of beans during the month of October were the highest in Michigan's history, according to figures reaching the state department of agriculture.

The total of 749,913 bags were moved, compared with a 13-year average for October of 735,768.

The government purchased 618,851 bags, although its shipments amounted to only 319,247.

The agricultural marketing administration's pegged price for beans is now $5.35 for U. S. No. 1's and $5.20 for U. S. No. 2's, F. O. B. Michigan shipping points. This represents an increase of 25 cents within the last three weeks.

After deducting the shipper's profit and cost of handling, the grower receives approximately $4.80 of the pegged price.

Beans cannot go much higher, if at all, as the OPA has set a ceiling price of $5.70 for U. S. No. 1's. Michigan's bean crop this year amounted to 6,400,000 bags, an all-time high. The state produces 90 per cent of the dried navy beans grown in the nation.

CASS CITY DEFEATED HARBOR BEACH, 48-13

Cass City High School's football warriors ended their season last Friday with an impressive 48 to 13 win over Harbor Beach.

Sparked by the veteran Eugene Kloc, who garnered 36 of his team's total, Cass City scored almost at will and never was the outcome of the game in doubt.

In the first quarter, Kloc climaxed two Cass City drives by plunging over from the three and seven yard lines respectively, to give the locals a 14-0 lead.

In the second frame, Kloc turned in his first long run of the game when he cracked the middle of the Beachers' line and ran 55 yards for his third touchdown. Kettlewell added a touchdown just before the half ended on a 20 yard run and at the intermission Cass City led 28-0.

Using a liberal sprinkling of reserves, Cass City still stuck to the touchdown trail in the third period when Kloc added his fourth and fifth tallies on a short plunge through the line and a 65 yard romp.

Cass City's final score came in the final stanza when Bob Ryland hit the middle of the line for five yards and a touchdown.

Harbor Beach chalked up their two counters late in the fourth quarter on runs by Meyer, veteran Beacher end.

In addition to Kloc's brilliant work, outstanding plays were turned in by Sweeney, Clara and Bishop.

Drive On to Wipe Out Trench Mouth

Fear Disease Might Become Serious Problem.

NEW YORK.—Vincent's infection, commonly called "trench mouth" in the last war, may become a serious problem again, as it was in World War I, according to Dr. Theodore Rosebury, assistant professor of bacteriology at Columbia university. Although no severe outbreaks of the disease have been reported thus far among United States troops, from 1917 to 1919 there were 6,189 recorded cases of the infection in the army, resulting in the loss of 92,860 days, he revealed.

While "trench mouth" was treated as a communicable disease in the last war, and is still considered to be so by many medical authorities, Dr. Rosebury offers evidence in a recent study that nutritional deficiency and other environmental factors are primarily responsible for its existence.

"Since the disease has been prevalent among soldiers, and is likely to become so again," he states, "it is important that the question of communicability be answered in order to justify the use or lack of use of isolation and other sanitary precautions in handling outbreaks."

Most of the earlier reports on the disease, suggesting that it is transmissible, date back to the first World war.

Drs. Hirschfeld, Beube and Siegel of Columbia university, in a study they made on the history of the disease, have traced its symptoms as far back as the Egyptian era, and the Greeks, with their huge armies, seem to have been particularly affected, Dr. Rosebury points out.

British Describe Latest Bomber, Avro Lancaster

LONDON.—Britain took her Avro Lancaster off the secret list, and British aeronautics writers quickly hailed the battle-tested machine as the biggest and fastest heavy bomber in the world.

The newly unveiled giant, like its famous teammate in raids on Germany, the Short Stirling, carries an eight-ton bomb load, but its pace of 300 miles an hour and up is better than the Stirling's.

The Lancaster is armed with ten .303-caliber machine guns mounted in four power turrets. It has a maximum range of 3,000 miles, 1,000 more than the Stirling, and is thus a prime weapon for raids on selected targets deep in Germany. Its first officially disclosed operation was the daylight raid on Augsburg, Bavaria, last April 17.

In July several Lancaster squadrons made the longest daylight attack flight of the European war—1,750 miles through bad weather to bomb the Danzig submarine yards.

The Lancaster's weight is 30 tons. It has a wing spread of 102 feet and a 33-foot bomb compartment. Aeronautical writers report it is one of the favorites of Royal Air force crews because of its exceptional speed and maneuverability.

Rubber Quest May Open Vast Colombia Tracts

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA.—A plan for the opening of millions of square miles of virgin rubber tracts in eastern Colombia has been put forward by the United States government's Rubber Reserve corporation, it was learned recently. Corporation officials are discussing the project with the Colombian government and the Avianca Air Lines for construction of landing fields in the jungles to take out the rubber.

An announcement in newspapers that contracts have been signed was termed inaccurate by officials, who declared the negotiations are still in progress.

The territory which would be opened for exploitation is roughly bounded by the Rio Meta, the Rio Putumayo, the Brazilian boundary and the eastern Cordillera de los Andes. This vast triangle covers almost half of Colombia's area.

With present transportation methods, it takes at least two months to reach the most accessible ports near the Brazilian border. Most of the territory never has been explored by white men.

Farming by Night Is Seen Ahead for Britain

LONDON.—Minister of Agriculture Robert Hudson told the house of commons that plans for increasing wheat acreage might necessitate night work for farmers.

He said the area under wheat would be increased by 600,000 acres and "if certain arrangements were being discussed now mature, farmers will be expected to work by night as well as by day."

Troops Are Studying Japanese Language

TAFT, CALIF.—They're sure they'll never need it here, but it might come in handy in Tokyo, so a number of troops at Gardner Field are learning to speak Japanese under a simplified system.

Heretofore it's been considered a job of years to acquire a working knowledge of Japanese.

Paragraphs About Men in the Service

Gerald Kercher, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kercher, and Howard Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Moore, passed scholastic and physical tests in Saginaw Tuesday and enlisted for Aviation Cadet Training in the Army Air Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kerbyson were delighted to hear from their son, Gerald, after a silence of several weeks. He had taken a long voyage and sent a letter at his first opportunity to mail it. He said he was enjoying the best of health.

Corp. Ernest Behr from Hamilton Field, California, came Sunday and is spending the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Behr.

The following letter was received by the Chronicle from Paul Anthes, who is stationed at Camp Robinson, Arkansas. It is dated Saturday, Nov. 7. He says:

"Hello, All! "Twenty-six hundred miles of a G. I. trip! G. I. means Government Issue. On Oct. 26, 450 fellows, including myself and other cooks, took a troop train from Camp Robinson to a camp near New York City. We cooked six meals on the train. If you ladies think it is a hard job cooking in a kitchen, try it on a train, traveling 60 to 70 miles per hour over a rough road. It meant hard, dirty work without sleep.

"We had a swell train with Pullman cars and hot meals three times a day. I assure you all the boys are getting the best possible.

"We were two days enroute and went through Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York. We arrived Wednesday and were dead tired. We spent most of Thursday in New York City taking in things of interest. We left on Thursday evening arriving in St. Louis, Mo., Friday afternoon, 21 hours without getting off. With a six hour layover in St. Louis, we were able to see a little of the city. It was very interesting. We arrived in Little Rock, Ark., Saturday, Oct. 31.

"It certainly was a hard but enjoyable trip. We saw some very beautiful country, especially the Pennsylvania mountains. Seeing New York was very thrilling and interesting. It didn't cost us fellows more than about $6.00 or $8.00.

"Things here are about the same. The fellows in this regiment have their six weeks of training in and waiting shipment.

"The weather has been cool and rainy. The leaves are in full color now. Enjoy hearing from each and every one of you. "Love to all in Cass City." PAUL ANTHES.
