The past twelve months have brought us muchhave taught us much. Now we appreciate the things we used to take pretty much for granted. A year ago we were confused and bewildered by this war. Now at least we know what our job is-what part we must do. Over 200 of our boys are in the service, and other dozens will join them soon. Scarcely a family has been left untouched. We at home are asked to produce more, use less, work harder and do our jobs more efficiently. We can and we are doing

No one would dare tell us we don't love those boys of ours who have gone to war. Of course we're all proud of them. Don't forget, however, that they think a lot of Cass City too. They are telling their buddies all over this world what a swell place Cass City is. That's what they are fighting for-that this community, and thousands more like it, may continue to have the right to exist. They won't fail us-we must not fail them. No matter what we have done so far, for 1943 nothing less than the very best we are capable of will do-in the way we do our jobs, the way we buy bonds, and all those things which make our community the place they can continue to be proud of. Let that be our resolution for 1943-NOTHING LESS THAN OUR VERY BEST.

T will never spear a Jap. Never sink a sub. Yet an electric turbo-generator is a weapon of war - a deadly weapon. And this one is doubly so. It is deadly because the flood of war products from Southeastern Michigan will help tip the scales and seal the doom of our enemies.

Play Two Instruments

Broadly used now to indicate a person who can do two jobs, doubling in brass originally referred to a musician who could play two brass instruments in an orchestra. In old minstrel days, players often were required to play in the orchestra in addition to their parts in the minstrel itself. Advertisements often asked for minstrels who could "double in brass." Gradually the expression was extended over the theatrical world,

NOT A SECRET WEAPON

But the turbo-generator is not a secret weapon. All the world knows that the United States has more electric power to forge the tools of victory than all the countries of the Axis combined. The Detroit Edison Company is a conspicuous example, with 51/2 times the capacity that it possessed in World War I. Without that tremendous capacity, it is unlikely that the Detroit area could have become - so quickly - the bristling arsenal that it is today - producing planes, guns, tanks, ships, and countless other instruments and materials of war for the free peoples of the world.

WHY AMERICA IS SUPREME

Why is America supreme in electric power? The answer can be found in the American economy of abundance, based on the concept - "The more electricity that is used, the less it costs to produce it. And the less it costs, the more it will

TWO YEARS TO BUILD

Now this new turbo-generator is being added to The Detroit Edison Company's generating capacity. Since it takes nearly two years - and approximately a million and a half dollars - to complete one of these huge marvels of modern science, you can see that your electric company has always had to prepare for the future far in advance. The new generator which brings its urgently needed power at this critical time was on order long before the blow at Pearl Harbor shocked a peaceful people and set the wheels of war production turning madly.

ENOUGH FOR 250,000 FAMILIES

This newest turbo-generator provides an additional 75,000 kilowatts - or enough electricity to care for the normal needs of 250,000 average families. Yet, this 75,000 kilowatts is only a small portion of the entire present Detroit Edison capacity. In a world of peace, this added capacity would have been utilized to assure ample electric vice to which the customers of The Detroit Edison Company have become accustomed. It would have meant greater comfort and convenience for larger numbers of people. It would have brought added promise of the continuation of the reasonable rates for electricity which customers of The Detroit Edison Company enjoy. But circumstances have changed its immediate destiny. Marked for continuous action behind the lines, this industrial weapon will be devoted largely to the grim needs of war.

A MODERN MIRACLE

There are many vital elements that participate in the complete cycle for the production and supplying of electricity to homes and industry. However, the turbo-generator is the heart of the enormous operation. It is the mechanism that converts the energy of extremely hot steam at high pressure into electric current. The Detroit Edison Company, in selecting a General Electric turbogenerator, gave well-merited recognition to 40 years of leadership in the building of these great machines and in improving their design to obtain greater efficiency. Your section of the Country is getting the finest equipment that technological skill has devised - the most reliable equipment that money can buy.

A small bathroom heater does a good job for short periods of time-an hour or two. It's fine if used in a small space. Why isn't the idea practical for heating a whole house? Or why can't electric heat be used throughout the house as a means of raising the temperature from 65 to 70 degrees?

There are two reasons. First, to achieve the cleanliness and convenience of electric heat, you sacrifice 80 per cent of the coal used to make electricity. Only ONE TON OUT OF FIVE is actually delivered to your home in the form of useful heat. This represents a loss--especially when you can burn coal in your own furnace at 50 to 60 per cent efficiency. Even using electric heat to raise your house temperature 5 degrees is not recommended today.

Second, electricity must be made the instant it is being used and on cold days each home would require about 80 times as much as it uses normally. The extra power plant equipment to produce enough electricity to heat houses on a cold day would be partly idle on a warmer day; and it would be completely idle all summer. But the expense would continue the year round, and to cover this all-year expense, the cost of electricity would be high.

All the above pertains to house heating. Electricity is, of course, highly economical for steadier uses like water heating, cooking or other uses of refined heat requiring closer control.
