The reality and dependability of the entire plan of salvation hinged on the return of Christ from the dead. Had the grave held Him, His claims of deity and of the ability to forgive sin would have been entirely discredited. Because He lives we shall live. The experience of regeneration is therefore likened in Scripture to a passing from death to life (John 5:24). Thomas saw the Lord, and believing, passed from doubt to faith. We cannot see Him now, but we have the blessed privilege of believing and thus receiving life (vv. 29. 31). This was the message which the now radiant and empowered disciples went out to preach. The book of Acts tells us how effectively they did it, and shows how much of their preaching centered on the fact of the resurrection. The command and the commission was not to them alone, but also to all of us who believe in Christ. May God take out of us the fear of men, overcome our weakness, and send us out with renewed faith to make this life-giving message known to our fellow men.

While you're improving your farm for greater "war food" production, do the job for keeps, with concrete! Here's a "how to do it" book that will help you build such essential structures as:

Barn Floors Watering Tanks Feeding Floors Septic Tanks Walks, Runways Home Improvements Manure Pits Foundations Concrete Masonry Trench Silos Construction Hog Wallows Cisterns Soil-Saving Dam

Remember, concrete is firesafe, termiteproof, easy to work with, low in first cost, needs little upkeep, endures for generations-and it requires a minimum of critical war materials.

'The Little Cove'

Situated 410 miles east of Tripoli and 150 miles west of Bengasi, El Agheila fronts the sea, with boggy salt marshes at its back. These natural barriers determine the defensive position by squeezing the coastal passageway into a rather narrow corridor. As a town, El Agheila (the little cove) is of small significance. Less than a thousand people live in it. Wartime facilities include an air field and a radio station, supplemented by a hospital and food stores.

Uncle Sam has adopted a new policy of buying quick frozen vegetables for his army, thus saving hundreds of tons of tin and steel for war production and giving the armed forces better food.

WHEN YOU FLY KITES, PLAY SAFE-THIS WAY

SPRING WEATHER brings out kites, of course. It's fun to fly them-but be sure to see that it's done safely! When the youngsters go out with kites, see that these safety rules are observed for the children's sake:

Fly kites only in the open fields, entirely away from any electric line. This is safer for the kite, too; it doesn't get tangled with wires and lost or broken.

String containing metal (such as Christmas tinsel cord) should not be used. If it should come in contact with an electric line, serious injury might result. Even plain cotton cord conducts electricity when wet, so don't allow kite-flying during a rain. String that has fallen into puddles should be well dried out before use. Don't use metal frames in kites.

A live wire looks like any other wire. It may not be an electric line, but another wire carrying electricity can charge it by touching it some place that you cannot see. So teach children to stay clear of any wires while flying kites.

Kite flying is fun-and it's safe, when you're careful.

GIVE AND TAKE: In Russia

Kharkov had fallen once more to the Nazis and still they pushed eastward. This was the story from the Ukraine sector of the broad Russian front. In another important sector, further to the north, the Russians were having the better of it as their four-pronged offensive swept swiftly through the area around Smolensk.

This and the fighting around the anchor point of Orel were more immediately important to the Russian cause than what happened at Kharkov. For Orel serves as the turning point between the southern and central fronts. Hitler could ill afford to lose this base.

While Russian sources admitted that Kharkov was important they also pointed out that a strong defense line had been established beyond the city and further claimed that Hitler's troops found nothing but dead Germans on the city's streets when they took it. Military experts reasoned that Hitler 'had thrust about 25 fresh divisions into his drive for that point. Moscow said that the reason Germany wanted the city was to atone for the great losses suffered by the Nazis at Stalingrad in midwinter.

SKIP-YEAR TAX: Battle Lines Drawn

When House Democratic leaders decided to support a tax collection system, without abatement, as approved by the ways and means committee, their action presaged a payas-you-go tax battle which may reverberate in the 1944 political campaign.

Party lines in the house were well defined, for the most part. Republican leaders were lined up for and Democrats against the Ruml plan to skip an entire income tax year. However, there was some cause for worry among opponents of the skipa-year proposal. In addition to the powerful Republican membership which had lined up for abatement, some Democrats indicated they would vote with the Republicans.

THUNDER:

Over Germany Since the RAF staged its first colossal 1,000 plane bombing of Cologne last spring, Nazi industrial and communications centers in both Germany and the occupied countries have been subjected to concentrated pounding from the air. Out of 500 bombers, 475 returned after the last shattering attack on Essen. Railroad lines and the big automotive center of Rouen have been the principal targets in France. The extensive system of canals has been bombed in Holland and Belgium. And in Germany, the great naval base at Wilhelmshaven, the big port of Hamburg, the steel industries of the Ruhr, and the engine factories been 0.5 per cent. of Dusseldorf and Nuremberg have SECRET AIRFIELDS:

FLARE - UP: In France Hopeful eyes turned for several days on the high mountain passes near the French-Swiss frontier where large numbers of French patriots had mobilized to launch guerrilla warfare against Italian and German troops. For the most these forces consisted of young Frenchmen who were being recruited for forced labor inside Germany. First reports from Zurich and Berne, Switzerland, indicated that British RAF planes were dropping guns and ammunition to the men waiting in the Alps. German sources soon claimed that many of the men were deserting because of the lack of such supplies. This claim was substantiated by neutral reports. Much support and advice to the movement was given by the Algiers radio. This source claimed that Italian troops in the area were refusing to help pry the patriots loose from their positions.

An ultimatum had been issued by the Germans before the fighting began but the French declined it saying that they were ready to fight through to the end. While non-Axis nations were cheered by the news of the resistance there was little hope that the uprising could spread far.

In announcing the meat rationing, government officials were careful to point out that while the total amount to be consumed by the nation would be cut 12 to 15 per cent, there would still be enough meat to allow healthy diets for U.S. citizens.

pounding the Mareth line. An elab orate system of fortifications hewed into the mountains, this line stands between the bulk of the opposing armies.

After a month of offensive operations against the American and British lines in central and north Tunisia, Rommel has pulled in his wings. Although the Allies restored much of their original position, they have concentrated their effort on softening up the enemy from the air.

Allied air operations have been particularly extensive over Sicily, American and British bombers have been pounding the great Axis base at Palermo. Prosinone and Pozzallo were the latest Sicilian centers hit.

MORE TIRES: On April 1

Liberalizing tire rationing for the second time, Price Administrator Prentiss Brown expressed the belief that all motorists would be able to keep their cars on the road as the result of the release of additional tires by Rubber Administrator Wilham Jeffers.

Effective April 1, grade 2 tires will be available to drivers with gasoline mileage allowances exceeding :240 miles a month. This includes most B. C and T card holders. Motorists eligible for 560 or more miles will be allowed a limited number of grade 1 tires, the highest grade casing. However, all must be obtained with certificates issued by local ration boards.

These changes do not affect A card holders, who are eligible for used or recapped casings. Most of the rationing formalities on reunsatisfactory system" which sends capped tires have been removed by farm machinery where "it is not adapted." Brown.

In flights into the interior, the RAF has been using giant Lancasters, Halifaxes and Stirlings, which carry the devastating block busters in their bomb racks. Wellingtons have headlined in the bombing and strafing attacks on communications cen-

HIGHLIGHTS ... in the week's news

The great raids, with hundreds of planes participating on a daily schedule, are believed to have caused considerable damage to communications which the Nazis will need to shift troops and supplies to meet an Allied invasion. German war industry appears to have been badly crippled. But with the American air force joining in the attacks in increasing numbers, raids to date

may have been only a good begin-

The importance of a strong home front-especially in the food sectorwas re-emphasized when officials of 12 cornbelt states concluded a series of meetings to offset what former President Herbert Hoover calls Formula Fades "symptoms of a dangerously degenerating agriculture." Governors of eight states and high ranking officials of four others drafted a series of recommendations that, among other things, would: Recognize farming as an essential var∠industry; release immediately all present stock of farm machinery now in the hands of leaders or distributors and provide sufficient material for completion of other units not now finished; grant selective service deferment for "all experienced labor essential to farm production" and "terminate the present

Held Dutch Harbor The story behind Japan's failure to seize Dutch Harbor, the navy's Alaskan stronghold, is due largely to the "existence" of two imaginary salmon packing companies. The facts have just been revealed.

The two packing firms were no more than covers for one of the Alaska defense command's most remarkable jobs-the secret construction of two airfields to guard Dutch Harbor. When the Japs approached the naval base last June 3 (with two carriers, three cruisers, eight destroyers and four transports—perhaps as strong as the forces which struck at Pearl Harbor) they understood there was no airfield within 800 miles of Dutch Harbor. In the midst dl their assault the Japs found themselves hit from behind by land based planes and bombed and torpedoed by land based planes. Their spy work-so successful at Pearl Harbor-had failed.

LITTLE STEEL:

A source of comfort to almost every labor union official is the fact that the Little Steel formula is fast disappearing as a factor in wage increases approved by the War Labor board. The bulk of wage adjustments now is based on "inequalities.' Reason for the disappearance of the much-debated formula is that a majority of employees already have received the 15 per cent general increase permitted by the formula as a cost-of-living adjustment. WLB officials state that scarcely any important branches of industry have not raised wages at least that much since January 1, 1941.

Skipper Infestation of Stored Meat The best method for keeping skippers out of meat is to keep files from coming in contact with the meat while the meat is being handled. A dark, cool, well-ventilated fly-proof smoke house is a great help in this respect. Occasional smoking of the meat during summer storage will also be helpful. Another method is to wrap the meat in paper and muslin and hang in the smoke house.
