

Argyle Suffered $35,000 Fire on Tuesday Night

Herdell Garage and Mrs. D. McNaughton's Residence Were Destroyed.

Argyle had a $35,000 fire Tuesday night which destroyed the Herdell Brothers' garage and a two-story residence owned by Mrs. D. D. McNaughton. Max Laming, 17, of Tyre suffered second degree burns on one arm.

The fire started in the rear of the garage when Laming, who was overhauling his own car, inadvertently knocked over a can of gasoline and tripped over it. A lighted cigarette fell from his mouth into the liquid. The flames spread rapidly under a truck containing a 300-gallon barrel of fuel oil which caught fire, extending the flames throughout the interior of the garage.

Besides repair tools and parts in the garage, the fire loss included 12 new V-8 motors valued at $3000, a new shipment of spark plugs valued at $1000, a tractor, a truck, several cars, and 800 gallons of oil. Insurance on the building was $5000 and on the contents $4000, it is reported.

The house owned by Mrs. McNaughton was vacated by tenants five weeks ago.

Cash Crop Farms Promised Labor

Farmers in 27 counties in central, southeastern and Thumb areas have the promise that sugar beet workers will be available for field and harvest work in cherries, sugar beets, snap beans, tomatoes, cucumbers and similar crops this summer.

A cooperative arrangement has been set up with representatives of the five sugar processing companies operating in Michigan, it is announced by A. B. Love, Michigan State College emergency farm labor supervisor.

Within each of the 27 counties, a migratory farm labor committee will operate, composed of representatives of sugar companies, pickle companies, green and wax bean canners and tomato canners. Function of the committees will be to insure effective use of sugar beet workers on crops when they are not needed in sugar beet fields.

Field men will register each migratory worker with the county agricultural agent and accumulate requests of farmers for labor aid. These lists will be used to prevent waste of available labor within any county, or will permit a sugar beet worker to obtain a release to go to another area. The system will give the worker the necessary release and also certification for travel needs with the O. P. A. rationing boards, according to Supervisor Love.

W. E. McCarthy, county agricultural agent for Bay County, will serve as a clearing house for inter-county movement of workers for the nine sugar companies operating at Alma, St. Louis, Lansing, Mt. Pleasant, Bay City, Saginaw, Caro, Sebawaing and Crossfield. Another regional office will be established for the Mt. Clemens and Blissfield factory areas.

The Cass City Schools, local banks, barber shops, flour mill and grain elevators will recognize Monday, May 31, as a holiday and will be closed during the day. Several business houses in Cass City have announced their intention of making a like recognition and will be closed.

Contrary to the custom of past years, the post office will be open for business and rural letter carriers will make mail deliveries.

Here is the prospect of food for Michigan, as revealed by Governor Kelly's fact-finding committee:

Unless more residents grow more food in victory gardens, Michigan will have to import 70 per cent of its vegetable needs during the coming 12-month period.

A study of carload shipments of fruit and vegetables into the Detroit market alone reveals a 15 per cent reduction in supplies received. This trend is expected to continue downward.

Military and lend-lease are going to dip heavily into the normal supply available to civilians. This will be true not only of canned goods but also of potatoes and onions, much of which will be dehydrated in Michigan plants.

Bad weather this spring, delaying the planting of crops, has already prompted federal experts to forecast a 14 per cent decline in the 1943 truck crop as compared with 1942 yields.

While the situation is not serious, continued unseasonable weather could make it so.

Consider, for a minute, what Uncle Sam is requiring to feed our armed forces.

Federal demands for canned goods based on 1942 needs: Spinach, 48%; snap beans, 88%; lima beans, 56%; peas, 48%; beets, 100%; carrots, 130%; tomatoes, 40%; tomato juice, 43%; sweet corn, 40%; pumpkins and squash, 51%; catsup, 61%; tomato puree, 71%; tomato paste, 40%.

The average of these percentages is about 50 per cent—HALF of all the commercially canned vegetables!

Dehydration of vegetables will also remove substantial amounts of vegetables from the civilian market. We quote from the governor's food report:

"The government is greatly expanding its program for the production of dehydrated vegetables which is best evidenced by the fact that there were fifteen million pounds produced in 1941 and this is expected to increase to at least seventy million pounds in 1943.

"This increased demand for foods for dehydrating will be an additional drain upon Michigan's food supplies. At present, a dehydrating plant at Traverse City is ready to start operations. Plants at Holland and Port Huron are also in the process of construction.

"Two other plants have been approved: a potato dehydrating plant at Greenville and an onion dehydrating plant at Marshall. Present plans call for these plants to be in operation by August 1. The Greenville plant will be the largest of its kind in America."

In the frozen food field the governor's report says that Uncle Sam is also taking over 70 per cent of 1943 production.

"The increase in output of frozen foods will be primarily for the purpose of meeting expanding requirements of the armed forces."

What about the commercial truck growers?

"In the Detroit area it is apparent that commercial truck gardeners do not plan an increase of acreage over last year in vegetables because of limited facilities and limited labor supplies. Out-state our survey would indicate that growers who produce food for local consumption will not be able to increase their planting in 1943 to any extent. In several sections there will be less produced in 1943 than in 1942."

These facts do not make pleasant reading. But war isn't a picnic and the home front must expect to be second to the armed forces for all needs—clothing and food and everything else.

What can we do about it?

Here are recommendations of a group of Michigan food experts—Paul R. Krone, chairman of the OCD victory garden committee; Charles Figy, state agricultural commissioner; Robert J. Baldwin, MSC extension director; Lawrence O'Neil, state department of agriculture; C. J. Borum, state and federal cooperative crop reporting service; and M. L. Lowe, United States department of agriculture:

1. If you have not planted a big victory garden, do so.

2. Grow enough food to take care of your family needs next fall, winter and spring. That means home canning of food.

3. Grow non-perishable vegetables which may be stored, such as potatoes, carrots, cabbages, onions and rutabagas.

4. Avoid waste. Sell any surplus crops to your neighbors, local merchants and markets.

There is still time to act. It is not "too little and too late."

Sport Goods to Army

About three-fourths of all sports equipment now being manufactured goes to members of the armed services and to those receiving pre-induction military training.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman
Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have . . . as well as you possibly can. This column by the homeowner's friend tells you how.

ENAMELED TO NATURAL FINISH

Question: The house we bought has white enameled woodwork in the living room and dining room. How can I restore it to its natural finish?

Answer: You can take off the present finish with a commercial varnish and paint remover. Be careful to clean off all traces of the remover with benzine afterward. Both liquids are inflammable. Be careful of fire and have plenty of ventilation. Or you can use a hot solution of trisodium phosphate, three pounds to the gallon of water. This will soften the old finish so that you can scrape and wipe it off. Rinse thoroughly and allow to dry. You then can refinish with clear varnish, or whatever you wish. When using a paint remover, be sure to clean it all off after removing the paint; if any trace is left, it will continue to soften the new finish.

Rust Spot on Tile Floor

Question: I kept a steel cabinet in my bathroom for quite a while. When I moved it to another room I found it had left a large rust spot on the tile floor. Scrubbing with scouring cleanser does not remove it. What should I use?

Answer: Dissolve one part sodium citrate in six parts of water, and add six parts of commercial glycerine. Mix a portion of this with enough powdered whiting, hydrated lime or other absorbing powder, to form a paste, and spread on the stain in a thick coat. When it is dry, replace with fresh paste or moisten with the remaining liquid. A week or more may be required for the complete removal of the stain.

Covered Radiators

Question: I have metal covers on all the radiators; these are on top, but not the front and back. Does this lose much heat? I feel that the covers, besides keeping curtains cleaner, may divert the heat closer to the floors where our children play. We do not need the upper three or four feet in the room.

Answer: Heated air rises; therefore, in heating a room the warm air builds up from the ceiling down. A cover of any type on a radiator naturally would have a tendency to cut down the efficiency. The kind of cover you are now using does not reduce the heating efficiency of the radiator as much as a complete enclosure.

Sticky Enamel

Question: Recently we removed the finish from a walnut table with paint remover, then refinished with two coats of white enamel. Newspaper print and lint from clothes stick to the top. We have waxed it, but it still remains sticky. Is there any remedy?

Answer: I make the guess that after removing the old finish you forgot to clean off the paint remover, which still is active in softening the new finish. You had better start over again by taking off all the finish; but this time clean off the paint remover with benzine (being extremely careful of fire). Sandpaper, if necessary, and refinish.

Shutting Off Radiators

Question: I have a hot-water heating system. Would I save on fuel—and not interfere with the flow of water—if I shut off the third-floor radiator and possibly one or two on the second floor? Would it be better to remove the radiators entirely?

Answer: You should disconnect each radiator and plug the branch or pipe at some place below the unheated space to keep it from freezing. In the average hot-water heating system, the cutting off of a radiator should not interfere with the operation of the rest of the radiators and will effect a saving of fuel.

Freshening Up Leather Chairs

Question: What can be done with a maroon leather office set that fades when sat upon during warm weather? The color comes off also.

Answer: Begin by washing the leather (without using much water) with saddle soap, which can be had at a leather goods store. Rinse well and allow to dry. Then paint with good quality enamel, just as it comes in the can, without thinning.

Heel Marks

Question: Could you tell me how to get rubber heel marks off my polished hardwood floor?

Answer: Wipe with turpentine and fine steel wool. If this does not remove the marks, put a little scratchless cleaning powder on a damp cloth and rub lightly. Then wipe with a clean, damp cloth and re-wax the spot.

PETER'S COUNSEL TO SCATTERED CHRISTIANS

LESSON TEXT—1 Peter 1:1; 2:11-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king.—1 Peter 2:17.

Persecution for Christ's sake has been the lot of believers from the first century down to 1943. Sometimes it has been official, yet nonetheless severe and trying.

The manner in which Christians face their difficulties is one of the best testimonies to the reality of their professed faith. Sometimes, however, in the midst of their trials the enemy of their souls brings discouragement—and then they need the counsel and encouragement of others.

Such was the situation when Peter addressed his first epistle to the early believers who were scattered abroad (1:1). His counsel was just what they needed, and is equally helpful to us. They were to be:

I. Separated As Pilgrims (1:1; 2:11, 12).

Christians are in this world but not of it. They are passing through, wayfarers on their way to the eternal dwelling place of God. That does not mean that they are not interested in the welfare of those round about them, or delinquent in sharing the responsibilities of life, but it does mean that they are to have the pilgrim's detachment from the things of the world and the flesh.

In the days of Peter, membership in the church was not considered a normal or respectable thing. It marked a person as belonging to a hated sect, one which was falsely accused of many evil deeds. For example, Christians met at night, men and women together for communion service. Because they spoke of this as a "love feast," they were accused of immorality, and because they spoke of the body and blood of Christ they were said to be eaters of human flesh.

Christians must meet such malicious reports. How? By silencing their accusers by their good works.

II. Submissive As Citizens (2:13-18).

One of the hallmarks of Christian character is willing and gracious recognition of proper authority, whether it be in the state, in the place of employment, in the school, or in the home. He does this for the Lord's sake (v. 13), and even when that authority is in the hands of an unreasonable man.

This does not mean that the Christian is to encourage or countenance tyranny and oppression, but that he is loyal to the state and to his employer, even though the present representative be a hard, unjust man. In all well ordered society there will be proper and effective means to correct injustice. But in and through it all the Christian shows his faith by his behavior.

Observe that government, in the plan of God, is for the purpose of keeping order, encouraging the good, and punishing the evil (vv. 13, 14). The powerful influence of the Christian Church should keep it in that right channel, or bring it back if it has strayed. Always loyal and obedient, the believer should use his ballot and his personal influence to establish and support good government.

III. Suffering As Christians (2:19-25).

Christ is our "example" (v. 21). Since some have interpreted this word and the statement "that ye should follow in his steps" as indicating that we are saved by our imitation of Christ, it is well to point out that this would be quite impossible. We would have to begin where He began—He was without sin (v. 22). But we have all "sinned and come short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23). We need a Saviour—not an example as far as redemption is concerned.

In the ever present problem of suffering, we as redeemed ones do have Christ as our example. He who was sinless and without fault bore the shame and suffering of Calvary without complaint. When He was reviled He did not retaliate, when He was hurt He did not threaten revenge (vv. 22, 23), but was willing to leave the ultimate judgment in the hands of God, who will have the final word.

We ought to do the same when we suffer for Christ's sake. If we suffer because of our own sin or folly, we can claim no credit for bearing it patiently (v. 20). But when we have done well and then are persecuted, we have opportunity to show whether our profession of being followers of Christ really means anything. At this point some Christians lose their testimony and influence by a bitter, vengeful spirit.

These are trying days for the souls of men. In many parts of the world Christians are forced to drink the bitter cup of persecution. To the glory of God we record the fact that they are doing it heroically and in a true Christian spirit.

Use Old Boxes

As food packages grow scarce, users of apple boxes, potato crates, and other containers can help prevent the shortage from growing more serious by reusing second-hand containers such as the shippers of eggs now use egg crates.

Use Old Sweaters

Many of the attractive multi-colored sweaters now in vogue are made of the remnants of two or more old or outworn knitted garments. Before the castoffs are taken apart, they should be washed in soap and water, and the wool will be easier and pleasanter to handle.

Woolens Care a Wartime Job

Adequate summer storage of woolens forms another phase in which Michigan housewives can share in the nation's patriotic efforts.

Remember the average man in the armed forces requires about 200 pounds of fleece wool for uniforms and blankets, also remember that the United States wool supply is limited and that good care of clothing is good economy at any time and especially in wartime, say members of the home economics extension service at Michigan State College.

For summer storage, the best advice is to put woolens away clean and free from pests. Wool should be stored in a dark, dry, cool place. If the choice is between a hot, dry attic and a cool but damp basement, then the attic is best since dampness invites mildew. Trunks, closets or heavy paper containers in which wool is stored should be tightly sealed.

Mending before severe damage occurs helps conserve woolens. Gentle airing blows out stale odors and lifts the nap of woolen cloth. Sun baths rout the moths, but bright sun may fade colors.

Dirt is akin to insect pests in damaging wool. Perspiration weakens wool. Spots serve as bait for moths and grit helps cut through woolens.

Sudden temperature changes are harmful to wool. In cleaning, wool should not be plunged into hot water. Such a practice shrinks and mats the fibers. Drying over a hot stove or in cold blasts of air also shrinks and hardens wool fibers.

Manganese for Nickels

More than 100,000 pounds of metallic manganese, recovered from low-grade domestic ores by an electrolytic method, have been delivered to the treasury department and U. S. mint as another tangible product of the program for freeing the U. S. from dependence upon foreign sources for this strategic mineral. Metallurgists determined that several alloys using manganese possess the physical and chemical properties required as a substitute for the five-cent coin heretofore made of 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel.

Enforce Wartime Living

From the outbreak of the war until the beginning of this month, 8,198 trading rules and regulations have been issued for enforcing wartime living in Britain. Today's Briton finds that every part of his daily routine is affected by those rules and regulations—his food and his clothing, his fuel and his housing, his transportation and his recreation—even his garbage is affected for inspectors stage surprise raids.

Leaders Play Backgammon

Decisions which will guide United Nations' strategy in this critical era of the war apparently were shaped largely over a backgammon board, according to a press report from Allied headquarters in North Africa. During their ten days at Casablanca, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt did much of their work at night and usually did not retire until 2 or 3 a. m., long after most of the members of their party. At these night sessions the President and the prime minister often played backgammon while discussing and formulating the world strategy of the United Nations.

PARAGRAPHS ABOUT FOLKS IN THE SERVICE

Concluded from first page.

Corp. He attended high school at Cass City. Mrs. Pangman resides on R. R. No. 1, Decker.

Lt. Norman Carpenter, who has been at Camp Swift, Texas, since Dec. 1, has been transferred to Camp Hood in the same state.

Wm. N. Harrison of Camp Claiborne, Louisiana, came Monday to visit his mother, Mrs. Nelson Harrison. He is enjoying a week's furlough from his military duties.

Cpl. Wm. C. Catton has been transferred from Camp Pine in New York to New Brunswick, New Jersey. Mrs. Catton, the former Eunice Schell, is with her husband.

Sgt. Stephen Knyzewski of Camp Gordon, Georgia, is spending a 17-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Knyzewski. Miss Anne Kudiak of Toledo, Ohio, is also a guest in the Knyzewski home.

Pvt. Joseph Gruber of Fort Brady visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob L. Gruber, from Tuesday, May 18, to Thursday of this week. This is Pvt. Gruber's first furlough in seven months. He says rain is not so prevalent in the North as it is here but a little snow is still found in the woods.

The George Rabideau home was made happy by the presence of three sons who came within the past week to visit their parents. Leland came from Sault Ste. Marie on a three-day leave and Wayne is here on a nine-day leave from Great Lakes, Ill. Both are apprentice seamen. Leland returned to the "So" on Wednesday. Robert Rabideau, who is employed in Detroit, spent the week end with his parents and brothers.

The following paragraphs are taken from a letter which was written to "Scotty" McCullough by Robert Gallagher in Iceland: "Well blow me down, that drug store of yours really keeps up on everything. No matter what the crisis is, you are always in there helping out, and this time you are doing a swell job. Your letter dated March 8 arrived today and after receiving it I couldn't go back to sleep again. Sleep! No doubt you are wondering what I mean by being asleep while a mail call is going on. Really I wasn't, for when they started calling out those names I for one was right there in the front row. Worked all last night and didn't get to bed until eight this morning so I was sleeping soundly until that happened. Our mail call was right after dinner and although I tried several times to go back to sleep it was of no use.

"Your letter, those pictures, names and addresses were the best news I've had in months. It seemed good to see a few familiar faces again; also all the boys look very nice in their uniforms. Haven't heard from Frank Fort now for quite a while although I have written him several letters. Some of them get lost every now and then so it's rather hard to know whether they receive all of them or not. In his last letter he mentioned something about his going on board ship pretty soon so maybe that is what happened.

"Was very sorry to hear about the two gold stars you have on your rack. Guess they can't all be lucky though. Didn't know that so many fellows had left from Cass City until I noticed it in your letter. That town must be pretty well deserted by now.

"Kercher and myself are keeping the flag flying in this neck of the woods. Only had the chance to see him once but we sure batted the breeze that day. See by the paper where he is doing a little different work now than he had been doing before. Will you let me know if a change of address ever shows up for him. We are a long ways apart now but there is always a chance that some day we might bump heads again if we're in the same location.

"I had read about that little snow storm you had back there in the paper. I went a long time without any Cass City papers but they have finally started coming in again so now I have caught up on all the latest news. Am going to have some more pictures taken in a little while. Scotty, and I'll send you one. We are not allowed to have cameras here so the snapshots will be out. Instead it will be one just as before only full length, as you asked for.

"Say, when you are working on that four to seven shift, you can just picture me as being the person on the other end of the line. I wouldn't be the one to answer but would be standing real close by. More later, Scotty, for I want to do a little writing to some of the boys. Thanks again for everything."

HE WAS RIGHT

"Decidedly a suspicious-looking fellow," muttered Mr. Jones, as the whole family gathered in the drawing-room and focused their attention on a shabby man who was eyeing the house furtively.
"I guess he's a burglar reconnoitering," said 16-year-old Charlie.
"More likely one of Madge's admirers," drawled 20-year-old Albert. Mother, always charitable, did not think the young man looked a criminal.
"Father," whispered Charlie, "he's making for the side door."
Father looked uneasy. "Come on, Albert," he said, with forced eagerness. "Let's see what his game is."
They found the young man leaning over the side gate—sniffing.
"You the boss here?" he asked Mr. Jones.
"I am."
"Well, I fancy the back of your house is on fire."
It was.

In remembrance of those members who passed away during the year, Mrs. Tirrell, in charge of the memorial service, read the names and for each quoted a scripture verse and placed a white carnation in a basket of green ferns, while Mrs. Arlene Retherford sang a selection, "Above the Bright Blue."

A reading was given by Mrs. Wm. D'Arcy of Kingston. During the convention musical numbers were interspersed. These included two duets by Mrs. Walter Kelley and Mrs. Earl Rayl; music by Edwin and Junior Rayl; Gerald Hicks; vocal selection by four Rayl youngsters; men's quartet composed of Walter, Warren and Harley Kelley and Glenn Tausley; vocal solo by Mrs. D. C. Masure of Cass City.

Beautiful floral decorations were graciously presented by the Burwell Holden greenhouse of Caro and the Hunt greenhouse of Cass City.

The consensus of opinion was that it was a very interesting and profitable convention. Mrs. Ruth Losie of Port Huron gave the main address and showed pictures of alcoholic influence on the human brain.

Sarge Takes Order Seven doughboys with an infantry outfit in the Hawaiian Islands gave their first sergeant an order—and made it stick! The order was to make a trip of 65 miles to Honolulu and buy them each a $50 war bond with money they had saved. The topick, Robert A. Scruton, recognizing the men were busy with their training, obeyed to the latter. He even had to "sweat out" a three-hour line because the bond booth was crowded.

Victory Garden Is Ration Book's Friend

Opportunity to Save 2,772 Ration Points

A 25 by 50-foot garden plot plus 25 tomato plants, a couple of pounds of seed and someone to plant, harvest and can them, equals 2,772 ration points saved in the course of a year.

So let ration points, as well as nutritive values and the family budget, provide the yardstick by which you measure returns from your 1943 garden. That's the advice given by Prof. F. G. Helyar of Rutgers university, chairman of the state Victory garden and food conservation committee.

And remember, if you have not yet started your Victory garden, it's not too late. But you must get busy now.

The plan on which he has figured the 2,772-ration point return, based on present point values, includes two rows of tomato plants, each row 50 feet long; two rows of snap beans, planted from a pound of seed; two rows of carrots, planted with an ounce of seed; and a similar planting of beets and of lima beans, for which an ounce and a pound, respectively, of seed will be needed. Professor Helyar estimates that on the average the tomatoes will yield three bushels of fruit, or 34 quart jars and 1,481 ration points. The other crops, measured on the same basis, will produce as follows: snap beans—one bushel, 16 quarts, 358 points; carrots—one bushel, 18 quarts, 408 points; beets—one bushel, 16 quarts, 256 points; and lima beans—one bushel (in the pod), nine quarts, 274 points.

Crop Corps Insignia

Measured from this standpoint, it is obvious that the garden will not only help keep an average-size family fed in accordance with good standards of nutrition for the year, but it will save them from spending their ration points for foods that will probably be drastically needed by families in metropolitan and city areas who are unable to garden, Professor Helyar adds.

Commercial Uses for Our Citrus Fruits

Back in 1920, grapefruit was an inexpensive delicacy. Have you heard of the woman who boiled one for hours and could not make it tender? Today, five times as much grapefruit is grown and it is well known by rich and poor.

Our grapefruit is grown mostly in Florida, Texas, Arizona and California. California and Florida produce 97 per cent of our oranges and virtually all lemons are grown in California. These citrus fruits are used almost entirely for food, but there is still a great waste from canning and marmalade making and a need to find non-food uses for citrus.

Orange and lemon oil is produced commercially in California. Grapefruit oil is a very new product valued in the textile industry to fix turkey red dye. The peel and pulp of citrus fruits may also become an important source of pectin which is sold commercially to add to other fruit juices in making jelly. It may also be possible to recover some of the valuable vitamins and turn them to commercial uses. Citric acids are being produced for food flavors and uses in medicine. Novel food products are appearing such as citrus powder and citrus butter. Canning of grapefruit hearts

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Invasion of Attu Is Second Step In Drive to Oust Japs From Aleutians; Discount Rumors of Nazi-Italian Rift As Allies Plan Heavy Knockout Blows

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

ATTU: Second Step in Aleutians

Firmly established on Attu, westernmost of the Aleutian islands in Japanese hands, strong American forces pushed forward against bitter opposition by the enemy.

First to admit the American landings, the Japs also were first to confess that heavy U. S. aerial and naval bombardments provided an irresistible cover for a continuing stream of reinforcements.

Pressing their defeat on Attu, the Japs made much of the claim that their troops were fighting numerically superior forces.

In Washington, Col. R. Ernest Dupuy declared that the attack on Attu was the second step in the drive to oust the Japs from the Aleutians. The first, he said, was the American occupation of Amchitka and Adak to establish bases from which to strike not only Attu but also Kiska, 172 miles to the east.

FOOD CONFERENCE: Post-War Agriculture

Reconstruction of agriculture in Europe after the war was the principal subject of discussion among the representatives attending the United Nations food conference in Hot Springs, Va.

According to Marvin H. Jones, chairman of the parley and head of the U. S. delegation, conferees are chiefly concerned with getting the farmlands of reclaimed countries back into production.

Problems connected with such an effort, such as adequate distribution of supplies and materials, and the planning for the production of crops which would furnish local populations with nutritional diets, were brought into study.

The conference, in the nature of a discussion, brings no binding agreements among the nations, Jones said. Representatives will present conclusions of the conference to their respective governments for further action.

ITALY: No Setup

After a sudden welter of rumor, it appeared as though the Allies would have to take Italy the hard way. The Italians and Nazis gave no sign of handing it over on a silver platter.

King Victor Emmanuel answered wild rumors originated by the Free French that he was about to abdicate by appearing at an art exhibition in Rome to receive the applause of his subjects.

Talk that Hitler was preparing to abandon Italy to its fate and draw all Nazi forces into the Brenner pass were immediately counteracted by plentiful assurances in the German press that Der Fuehrer had no such idea.

Allied airmen apparently were the first to take these rumors with a grain of salt. Even as the abdication talk, etc., intrigued the arm chair strategists, bombers were plastering the seaplane base of Lido di Roma, 15 miles from the Italian capital. Hangars, moorings and planes were the targets.

Rome admitted damage in the vicinity, but claimed Axis planes had bombed Algerian harbors "with good results."

RUMPL PLAN:

In Again, Out Again

Passed by the senate, the Ruml plan was rejected by the house for the third time, in the wake of an open letter from President Roosevelt indicating he would veto such a bill.

As a result of the action, some form of pay-as-you-go legislation was put squarely up to a conference committee of the house and senate.

The committee had two bills as a basis on which to map pay-as-you-go. One was the senate measure modeled after the Ruml plan, forgiving all of either the 1942 or 1943 income tax, whichever is lower, and only assessing incomes in excess of normal. The other was the house bill, only wiping out the regular 6 per cent tax plus the first surtax rate of 13 per cent on 1942 income.

In both cases, a 20 per cent withholding tax would be taken out of all weekly or monthly wages after deductions of lawful exemptions to apply on the 1943 tax. Farmers and professional people would pay on their estimated tax in quarterly installments, making a final settlement on March 15 of the following year.

PRODUCTION: On Schedule

"On all important categories in the President's (war production) program we are up to and ahead of schedule."

With these words, War Production Board Chairman Donald Nelson described the nation's booming industrial effort. Only in the matter of airplanes did he speak with reservation, declaring the situation was one with emphasis now placed on quality rather than quantity.

Changing needs of the services may necessitate some alterations in production plans, Nelson said, echoing reports that revised schedules have slowed the tempo of some plants while increasing it in others. Tank production has been chopped, Nelson revealed, since Great Britain and Russia have reduced their estimates of their needs.

GERMANY:

Ruhr Flooded

Flying at an altitude of 100 feet, four - engine British Lancasters dropped heavy mines in the huge reservoirs of the Eder and Mohne dams in northwestern Germany. Then British airmen watched the mines swirl into the dams' sluices, explode and break open big breaches through which the pent-up waters roared to deluge the Ruhr and Weser valleys below.

Hydro-electric stations throughout the area were crippled by the rising flood waters; traffic on the vital Mittelland canal, which unites all of Germany's river transportation, was disrupted, and the important industrial city of Kassel and others beyond were inundated.

Reports reaching Switzerland said at least 4,000 people had been killed and 120,000 made homeless by the torrents. The German high command admitted property damage and casualties "were very high as walls of water rushed through populated districts."

Visitor

80,000 Lost

In 17 months of warfare, U. S. losses have approximated 80,000 men.

Army casualties include 6,076 killed; 12,277 wounded; 24,345 missing, and 12,244 reported prisoners. Of the wounded, 4,000 have returned to duty or been discharged from hospitalization. The major losses in prisoners or missing were suffered in the Philippines.

In the navy, 7,218 have been killed, 4,683 wounded, and 12,061 missing. Since September, 1941, the merchant marine has reported 4,555 casualties.

COAL TRUCE: Still Friends

Continuing to act in unison, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and United Mine Workers' chief John Lewis arranged for a 15-day truce in the tangled mine situation.

Once before, the two had agreed to a 15-day breathing spell, as 465,000 bituminous and anthracite miners were preparing to stay away from the pits. Miners were lining up behind Lewis again to strike when extension of the truce was announced.

"But you cycle on the right side in France, Italy, Switzerland, and Germany," he added.

"Suh," said the Negro, "when I gets to Germany Ah'll cycle on whichever part of the road Ah likes best, and nobody's going to stop me—no, suh!"

"Look here," said the captain to the newly appointed sergeant, "there are men coming into camp night after night after 'Lights Out' has been sounded. It's got to stop!"

Ready-Made Landing Fields

American engineering skills and mass production facilities have combined to make possible the rapid construction of airfields by the use of prefabricated materials. By employing Marsden mats which are laid in interlocking sections, landing and take-off strips are constructed in a matter of hours when it would take days or weeks to do the job by other methods.

The operation simply calls for the clearing off of a given area and laying the mats. Bomb craters are repaired in the same way. It is so simple that the most primitive native labor can handle the operation efficiently, and no heavy equipment is required. Thus, when a task force arrives, it is possible almost immediately to provide facilities for the necessary air forces.

The accompanying pictures from Guadalcanal show "ready-made" air fields so installed.

The interlocking steel Marsden mats are delivered in bundles, as shown here. The space for the airfield has been cleared and graded.

Here natives on Guadalcanal are laying the interlocking steel mats for a landing strip.

Melanesian Allies who have been projected centuries ahead with the arrival of American task forces and modern production methods. The natives seem to be very "strong" for American-made pipes, to say nothing of American tobacco.

Right: In event of an attack where bombs are dropping on the landing strips, quick repairs can be made by filling in the holes with crushed coral and laying new steel mats.

Take Off Old Paint
Painted surfaces that are chalking require only dusting or brushing before application of fresh paint. However, all paint that has started to scale or peel should be removed by scraping or brushing and all loose putty should be removed from nail holes, joints or cracks. In the case of badly cracked or peeled paint, where some of it remains strongly adhesive, and would leave an uneven surface for repainting, it may be taken off with the aid of a prepared paint remover.

Soil Conservation
Crop residues in adapted areas protect the soil against high runoff and excessive erosion by wind or water and slow down evaporation. Crop residues such as combine wheat stubble and straw can prevent the formation of a compact layer on cultivated soil. During heavy rains two to four times as much water may be lost from a soil having a bare surface as from one covered with crop residues.

Lone Star Shines
From Pearl Harbor to November, 1942, the ratio of Texas enlistments in the army to her population is .326 per cent, higher than in any other state.

Old Glory, with the flags of our Allies, England, Russia and China, waves proudly on many battle fronts these war-scarred days. It carries its message of hope and freedom to the humblest souls of the oppressed peoples in the conquered lands and definitely warns the aggressor that the day of reckoning is at hand. In the history of our nation the flag has had a notable series of traditions to endear it to the hearts of Americans. The battlefields of this war will add to its great glory. The bravery of America's fighting men recalls the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes: "One flag, one land, one heart, one hand, one Nation, evermore!"

Germans Round Up Polish Men

Premier Sikorski Reports Big Seizure by Gestapo To Frustrate Revolt.

LONDON.—The German Gestapo, presumably seeking to solidify the eastern reaches of Nazi occupied Europe against possible future extensions of the powerful Red army offensives, has begun a wholesale manhunt to round up Polish manpower, which already during the last few days is known to have affected 75,000 civilians, it was announced by Premier Wladislaw Sikorski of Poland in his first press conference here since his return from the United States.

According to the premier of the Polish government here, the latest reports received indicate the lock-stock-and-barrel deportation of peasants from the villages in six districts, including the Lublin area. There have been a colossal number of arrests in Warsaw, Cracow and other large towns, recently.

The latest repressive measures are directed by the Gestapo, not the labor front, said General Sikorski, testifying that this is not a forced-labor draft but a deliberate effort to crush the underground movement and accelerate the cruel processes of destruction of the Polish nation.

Manhunt Called Worst.
"The manhunt exceeds all earlier ones," the grim-looking general told the assembled correspondents, speaking Polish through an interpreter. "The aim is internment and destruction of all youthful enemies of the Reich. All between 15 and 50 are being rounded up. Even those showing documents proving useful employment—except workers in public utilities or German firms—are taken."

"They are being loaded and sealed in unheated trucks, transported to Lublin and probably sent to the concentration camp at Majdanek, newly established near Lublin and being expanded to 80,000 capacity. Some of those arrested are being sent to camps previously known as extermination centers for Jews."

"In the last few days 35,000 persons were grabbed off the Warsaw streets. The population is most excited, expecting United Nations reprisals. In some cases active defense measures have been initiated by the people. We have since had further news that these manhunters have spread all over the country and to other cities, such as Cracow."

Suffer Great Misery.
"Several trainloads of children whose parents had been seized passed through Warsaw. The children were in a state of great misery. All the healthier children were being sent to Germany, which demonstrates that the 'Herrenvolk' (master race) are short of children. This last outrage created the strongest excitement in Warsaw, leading to violence and bloodshed."

"Further expulsion of the population has recently begun in an area north of Warsaw, near Bialowiesza Forest, where 40,000 have been ousted."

Premier Sikorski declared that the Germans were most intent upon destroying the Polish underground movement as well as smashing the nation in a physiological sense, but that the resistance had not weakened and the peasants were still holding back food deliveries despite the threat of shooting. The Nazis are shooting, hanging and internment all the inhabitants of districts where sabotage occurs, he said, but he added a warning that the war could not drag on indefinitely without disastrous repercussions in the occupied lands.

Lieutenant Can't Smoke In Presence of His Wife

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—Life isn't tough enough, but Sergt. William LaFond, attached to the recruit induction center here, has to have extra problems—his wife is Lieut. Charity LaFond of the WAACS, stationed at Des Moines, Iowa.

Sergeant LaFond met her at the railroad station when she arrived on furlough. They greeted with suitable affection, chatted a while and then the sergeant lit a cigarette.

Up strode an M.P.

"Put it out," he ordered. "An enlisted man can't smoke in the presence of an officer."

Japan to Close 70 Pct. of Textile Mills, Say Nazis

LONDON.—Radio Berlin said the Japanese minister for economic affairs had announced that more than 70 per cent of Japan's textile mills would be closed, and the workers in them drafted into war industry. Sixty to 70 per cent of the machinery in the closed mills will be scrapped for arms, Radio Berlin said.

'Periods of Success' Are Cited in U-Boat Warfare

LONDON.—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, told the house of commons that there had been "periods of the most heartening success" in the fight against Axis submarines.

Because of the difficulty of confirming hits in "all the numerous attacks on enemy U-boats," however, it is not possible to say whether they are being sunk faster than they are being built, Alexander said.

This and That

TOMORROW (Saturday) is the day set for the tin can collection in Cass City. Householders are requested to place flattened cans in containers at convenient places at the curb where they will be picked up by the village truck.

"HI, SKINNY! The pool is open!" It won't be so many weeks now until some youngster will be calling that to his playmate. For a time, it was feared that there might be a lack of chlorine for the pool, but it will be open at least a month. Sufficient disinfectant is here to last that length of time, and there is promise of more on a month to month basis.

"HOW DO you do! My, I haven't seen you in years!" Remarks like this will not interrupt the speaker at the Memorial Day program at Elkland Cemetery next Sunday for the committee in charge have decided that no set speech will be given at the exercises. The high school band, the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts will participate in the patriotic program which starts at 3:00 p. m., Central War Time. Rev. Frank B. Smith is chairman. The program was printed in the Chronicle last week.

TWO EVENTS made Sunday an unusual day for Caro. The fire department of the county seat had its shortest run that afternoon in many a moon. The Hotel Montague is located across the street from the fire hall, and the dinner hour at that popular inn was interrupted by the arrival of the department who came to extinguish the flames which started in a waste paper basket in a room on an upper floor, probably caused by a lighted match or cigarette being carelessly thrown there. Not much damage resulted. The other event was the arrival of the first all-passenger train to reach the Michigan Central Railroad station there in several years. It consisted of six coaches, two diners and a baggage car. Trains in late years that travelled from Vassar to Caro have been either all freight or mixed trains. Three hundred native Jamaicans detained at the yards of the Caro plant of the Michigan Sugar Co. and were sent to various points in the territory devoted to growing sugar beets for this factory. The Jamaicans were brought into the territory as beet workers by the U. S. Employment Service.

SO MANY directions and admonitions are coming to consumers through newspapers and over the radio that it's difficult to remember them all or decide which thing to do first. One very important government message is to order coal now for next winter. There are just so many cars available for delivery of coal from the mines, just so many trucks available for delivery to your home. A steady flow of coal into homes during the summer will avoid congestion and delays next fall. Your coal may not be delivered for weeks after you order it, but if you wait until the end of summer you may not get it in time for comfort when cold weather comes back. Another suggestion: Have your heating plant cleaned and repaired now for efficient service next winter.

FORD TAKEN TO STATE PRISON AT JACKSON

Edsel G. Ford, 23, of Silverwood, was taken to Jackson Monday by the sheriff's department to serve from three to fifteen years in the state prison. He pleaded guilty May 19 in the Tuscola County Circuit Court to the charge of statutory rape and was sentenced by Judge DesJardins.

Color Relieves Strain

In a shoe plant, it was noted that there was no color contrast between black shoes and black finishing machines. A worker complained of headaches and blind spots. The manufacturer told the operator to select the contrasting colors from the paint shop and then clean and paint his machine. Following establishment of sharp contrasts of color between the work and the machine, the personal injury rate fell off by nearly 70 per cent.

A stout string and two stakes are a vegetable garden necessity. When not in use to mark rows for planting, the string should be rolled up on one stake and put inside, out of the weather. If the stakes are cut the exact length to act as a measure for spacing between the rows, it will add to the convenience of the gadget.

It's a Big World

Soldier telephone operators at Chanute Field find that in addition to channeling more than 700 telephone calls daily, they have to be tracers of many personages. The latter chore has been forced on the hard-pressed switchboard men by confused or uninformed relatives and friends who wish to speak over a Chanute Field telephone with "Johnnie." When such a call comes through, as it does many times a day, the operator tactfully questions the vague caller to learn the family name, rank, and squadron of the "Johnnie" called for.
