

Canning Sugar Applications Will Be Issued Locally

Representatives in Ten Villages Are Appointed by County Ration Board.

In order to help the people who want sugar for canning purposes, the county board offers the following suggestions which are in accord with the late ruling of the OPA.

Stamps 15 and 16, which are good for five pounds each must be used first; then application may be made with the people listed below who have volunteered to help in making out applications in the various villages. It will be necessary that the applicant bring his present ration book No. 1 with him when applying for this extra sugar. These applications will then be mailed to the Tuscola County Ration Board, from where the extra stamps will be sent directly to the applicant.

The same regulations apply as were in force last year; that is, one pound to each four quarts of fruit and under no circumstance is any one person to receive more than 25 pounds of sugar for the entire season.

Nazarene Church Has Good Increase in Its Membership

The annual meeting of the Church of the Nazarene was held at the church Wednesday evening when reports were given for the year from all departments. A good increase in membership has been made, and an average of nearly a hundred was reported for the year in the Sunday Schools. Offerings from all departments exceeded $3,000, besides moneys received for the building fund. Funds for the bond retirement are now in and will be paid on time at 4 per cent September 1.

Harvey McGregory was elected superintendent of the Sunday School; John Clark, for the five-year term of trustees; Herbert Wagner, young people's president; Mrs. Andrew Cross, president of Woman's Foreign Missionary Society; Mrs. Roy MacIntosh, chairman of board of stewards; Mrs. Geo. Cass City Again Tops War Bond Quota in June

For 12 Months, This Community Has Exceeded the Quotas Assigned.

For the month of June, Cass City was given a quota of $13,400 at purchase price in war savings bonds.

Chairman Willis Campbell reports the sale to be $23,037.50, which is $9,637.50 over and above the allotment.

In accomplishing this very fine record, Chairman Campbell designated the month of June as "Scout Month," and true to their tradition the Boy and Girl Scout troops of Cass City responded in a most commendable way, the boys disposing of $10,475.00 and the girls $7,281.25 worth of bonds for a total of $17,756.25. They sold all but $5,281.25 of the total sold.

Special mention is given to Scout Jim Wallace of Cass City, who really sets a pace for all Scouts in Tuscola County, since he alone disposed of $4,875.00.

"Exceeding their quota each month is traditional for Cass City, 1942, to June, 1943, they have each month topped their quota with the exception of one month, the month of March, 1943," says Clarence Bougher, county chairman of bond sales. "This shows without question of doubt that Chairman Campbell and his organization are alive to the job at hand, that of doing their best for their country and its future."

Boy Scouts Win "June-Jeep Month" Bond Sales Contest

Maturity Value of Bonds Sold by Boys and Girls Is $22,400.

The "June-Jeep Month" bond drive sponsored by the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts of Cass City proved to be very successful. The maturity value of bonds sold is $22,400.00.

It was first planned to buy a jeep with the proceeds of this drive and have it on exhibit here in Cass City. However, due to the patriotic cooperation of the townspeople and the farmers of this community, the value of bonds sold greatly exceeded expectations; therefore it is hoped the Scouts may be able to purchase some other article of war, such as an armored car or, if the sales warrant, a small tank.

The equipment thus purchased will be dedicated at a formal ceremony. At the same time, prizes will be awarded to the three top salesmen, Jim Wallace, Marion Croft and Albert McPhail. The night of the dedication the victorious Boy Scouts will be treated to a party by the girls.

The following list shows each Girl and Boy Scout's bond sales. The sales are all in terms of $25.00 war bonds.

	No.	Maturity
	Bonds	Value
Jim Wallace	282	$5800.00
Marion Croft	170	4250.00
Albert McPhail	91	2275.00

A Chronicle representative was stopped the other day by a Third Street resident and asked this question, "Did you realize that there are about 75 people living in Cass City who are employed nights and who sleep during the daytime hours at their homes here? Besides those working nights in the condenser here, the others are employed in war time industries in Saginaw, Bay City and other towns. All need their rest, but too frequently they are aroused from their slumbers by unnecessary noises."

According to the Chronicle's informant, automobiles are not the chief offenders, for he said shouting and loud talking contribute most to the day sleeper's annoyance.

Sgt. Edw. Graham Praises Red Cross Work in the Army

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Chester L. Graham of Cass City, Sgt. Edw. Graham writes from North Africa, under date of June 12:

"Have finally got around to write. We have had a lot of work to do lately or would have written before. I'm feeling O. K. and everything is fine here as could be expected. In fact, a lot better than I expected. At the present our 'chow' is fairly good; have no kick coming and there is a little recreation which helps in our off hours which, as I have said before, are few. We have a picture show twice a week which helps also.

"I visited Oran, Algeria, the other day and it was something to see—the manners and dress of the natives, I mean. It is composed of French and Arabs—just like nearly all of north Africa, especially Algeria. The Arabs are rather on the dirty type and have never heard of sanitation, I guess. You go into town and you have little kids trailing you for blocks if you can't shake them loose. They are after anything you give them, mostly 'bon bon' (French for candy) and cigarettes. It's quite a sight to see. The town itself is pretty from a distance, but when you come nearer it looks rather weather beaten. Their buildings

Mahogany Is Tough

Mahogany is used extensively in making plywood and veneers. A thin outer coating or surfacing of mahogany placed over a base of soft wood makes fine material for building fast PT mosquito boats. Thin sheets of mahogany and other woods from one-hundredth to one-tenth of an inch thick are cemented together under heat and heavy pressure, thus providing a semi-plastic material that is boil-proof, waterproof and lighter than steel.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for July 11

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

GOD CALLS A LEADER

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 3:1-12. GOLDEN TEXT—Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.—Exodus 3:10.

God calls men, commissions, and uses them to carry out His plans and purposes in the earth. What a great truth that is, and how it glorifies the destiny of man to know that it is divinely appointed.

As Joseph Parker effectively points out, the experience of Moses in Midian was a direct dealing with God, whereas we who may not be able to "see the fountain" must "be content to drink at the stream," but should always remember that the stream flows from that same fountain.

"Every man should put to himself the questions. What is my destiny? What does God mean me to be and to do in the world? . . . It is a most pitiable thing that a man should read of Moses being divinely called . . . to a special work, and fail to realize "that God has a special work for every man to do." Let us be careful that we do not "so pervert and misinterpret circumstances as to press them into a justification of self-will," rather than recognize them as "destiny which is beckoning us to duty."

For our instruction and guidance we consider, then, the story of the call of this outstanding leader of Israel. It presents him as a true servant of God, one who was—

I. Personally Equipped. While it is a blessed truth that God will use any man who surrenders himself to His control and guidance, no matter how limited that man's ability and training may be, it is also true that, other things being equal, the man with the best equipment will be the most useful servant.

God gave Moses a unique preparation. He was first of all a Hebrew, born among the people that he was to lead. He knew the luxury and all the cultural advantages of the Egyptian court (Acts 7:22), with the safeguard of training by his own mother as his nurse.

He observed at first hand the oppression of his people, and made a self-willed and impulsive effort to deal with the problem. The result was that he had a "postgraduate" course of instruction and discipline in the wilderness, where he spent forty years in the school of experience.

We have learned anew from our war experience that training for service is essential. If that is true in military matters and in secular life, it is doubly true in the service of Christ. He does graciously use even the humble and untrained worker, but no one who has a vision of service will be content to remain unprepared.

II. Spiritually Qualified. Moses was a man who knew God. Had he been a worldly man he would only have been curious regarding the phenomenon of the burning bush. But he was how alert and reverent he noted and how immediately responsive to the instructions and the call of God.

Here God's future leader was made conscious of the infinite majesty and holiness of God, the need of reverence and godly fear, the purpose of the Eternal One to deliver His people, and the assurance that He would be with His servant. Such a spiritual experience made effective the excellent preparation which he already had for service.

All the training and preparation in the world is worse than useless in God's service apart from that spiritual qualification that comes from true regeneration and dedication to Him.

There is no more pathetic sight than a spiritually powerless church worker going through the motions of service for Christ. If we are in that condition we may be sure that we deceive no one but ourselves.

III. Divinely Called. Moses was called (v. 4), commissioned (vv. 6-10), and clad with divine authority (vv. 11, 12) for his great task.

God calls His servants to different responsibilities and in different ways, but the important thing is that we should know that we are in His will and that we are answering His call.

No one has any right to choose full-time Christian service simply as a desirable vocation. In any calling of life man needs God's guidance in order to make a proper choice, but in the ministry or missionary service it is an absolute essential.

If we were more careful to seek His will for every individual there would be less unhappiness in the world. But in the case of the one who goes out to speak for God there is not only the danger of distress, but of real disaster for himself and those to whom he tries to minister.

Prepared, qualified, and called, Moses is now ready to meet God before he goes on to his life of holy exploits for Him.

Grow Fence Posts

Farmers who plan to grow their own fence posts in a plantation of trees may wish to set out seedlings of osage orange, the most durable post wood that grows in the north. Better even than black locust, osage orange posts only two or three inches through often last for 12 years as fence supports, it is said. Posts four to five inches thick, cut from the trunk of an osage orange tree, are practically indestructible.

Treat Tool Handles

Commercially treated handles on picks, shovels, pitchforks, and other tools have that blonde look because they are bleached with hydrogen peroxide. Numerous other wood products are bleached either by spraying the chemical on the veneer to produce a surface bleach or by immersing the veneer to give a bleach that will permit deeper sanding operations.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Mosquito Bar

Among the casualties returning to the United States from the Solomons are men who have lost their hearing, not from injury, not from shock, but from attack by insects upon men who have been without mosquito bar protection.

We'll never know how many lives this mosquito bar has saved and you probably never will know just how much good your purchases of War Bonds have done, but you should know that regular and increasing purchases are necessary.

U. S. Treasury Department

Circumstantial

A distinguished visitor to a lunatic asylum went to the telephone and found difficulty in getting his connection. Exasperated, he shouted to the operator: "Look here, girl, do you know who I am?"

"No," came back the calm reply. "but I know where you are!"

Grim Prospect Judge (in traffic court)—I'll let you off with a fine this time, but another day I'll send you to jail.

Driver—Sort of a weather-forecast, eh, Judge?

"What do you mean?"

"Fine today—Cooler tomorrow."

Cute Little So and So Betty—Do you like that pie, Aunt Bess?

Aunt Bess—Yes, very much, my dear.

Betty—That's funny. Mother said you haven't any taste.

Daily Tummy Time

Bobby—Mommy, isn't it twelve o'clock yet? Isn't it time for lunch?

Mother—No, not yet, son.

Bobby—That's funny. I guess my tummy must be running fast.

Speak From Experience

Johnny—Dad, does bigamy mean that a man has one wife too many?

Daddy—Not necessarily, son. A man can have one wife too many and still not be a bigamist.

Dumb Dora

Mary—I've got a speaking part in the next show we're putting on. Have you?

Dora—No. The director said I was too beautiful for words.

She wants to win an unpopularity contest!

Elizabeth Jenkins Seeks Title of

"Most hated by Axis in 1943!"

THE AXIS has probably never heard of Miss Elizabeth Jenkins—but she's doing her level best to change that!

For example:

Elizabeth works in an essential industry thereby releasing, in effect, a fighting man. And out of the salary she gets for her work she puts 22% into War Bonds, through the Payroll Savings Plan. She figures that her investment may help to maintain the three fighting men who are closest to her—her two brothers and her father.

"They're fighting for me, and I'm helping to buy their fighting tools!" says Elizabeth.

Her father commands a brigade of the North Carolina State Guard. He saw action overseas in the last war and his stories have made Elizabeth keenly aware of the importance of her investment in War Bonds. He has explained that no matter how much spirit and fight a soldier has, he needs the best equipment money can buy. He has also pointed out that American soldiers are the best equipped in the world.

Miss Jenkins wants to keep them that way, because in addition to her father, she has two brothers in the Army.

Lieutenant Tom is an anti-aircraft artilleryman. Captain Jack is in the Air Corps. So Elizabeth is reasonably sure that in one way or another, the Axis will hear from the Jenkins family in the near future!

Are you doing as much for America's future as Elizabeth Jenkins? Every dollar you can lend helps, so . . .

Weren't there a few more dollars in your last pay envelope that could have gone into War Bonds—but didn't? Get out your pencil right now, and see if you can't boost the percentage you're putting aside for Uncle Sam—and yourself!

YOU'VE DONE YOUR BIT—NOW DO YOUR BEST!

Space Between Vegetables

The space between rows of vegetables depends partly on the amount of ground available, the type of vegetable and should be wide enough to run the wheel cultivator, if that tool is to be used. If not, easy hoeing width should be the minimum.

POOLED CREAM DELIVERIES SAVE TIRES, GAS, LABOR

FORMERLY—Each farmer carried his cream to town as suited his convenience

TODAY—Each farmer, in turn, delivers his neighbors' cream with his own, thus saving precious tires, gasoline and labor

Officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Office of Defense Transportation see in the current tire scarcity a serious threat to the quality of milk, cream, and other produce marketed by farmers. The danger lies in the tendency to less frequent marketing, with longer holding on the farm and consequent spoilage or lowering of grade.

The spirit of neighborly helpfulness traditional among farmers promises a way out, however, and plans for the pooling of cream and produce deliveries are being encouraged by our government. This spirit already is manifest in a number of states where groups of farmers are arranging to take turn-about in the use of their cars or trucks for milk and cream deliveries and the hauling of supplies back from town. Where before five cars from a given locality might have been seen on the road to town, each carrying a can or two of cream, today one departs, carrying the combined load of five farmers' cream. The result is a saving of no mean proportions. Sixteen tires have been spared the wear and tear of a trip; four vehicles have had another trip added to their lives, and the time of four men has been spared for field work. Besides that, and of equal importance, milk and cream, highly perishable products, have gone to market on schedule and at top quality. Valuable food and critical war materials have been saved.

Of the three basic principles of quality cream production—cleanliness, cooling, and frequent marketing—the last is of great importance. Two or three times a week is none too often to get cream to market. Longer holding on the farm tends to nullify the good work of keeping cream clean and properly cooled. Time gives bacteria the opportunity to multiply, and they do that at an astonishing rate. Objectionable flavors become more pronounced each day and quality is lowered correspondingly. The result is either a product unfit for food and subject to rejection, or one of such inferior quality that it cannot bring a first-grade return.

bilized profitable returns to agriculture when labor and industry are taken care of is interfering with crop production. Office of Price Administration regimentation is resented."

Dondoro concluded: "If the people of this country, when wage scales and national income are the highest in the history of the nation, are unable to pay for butter, coffee, meat and for food at decent prices to the producer, when will they be able to pay for it?"

Rep. Earl C. Michener, Adrian—"The great mass of farmers do nothing to create or support a black market. All the farmers want is a fair price in the market place. . . . While most labor in war industry is today receiving unheard of compensation and is abundantly able to pay for its food at a much higher price, yet we are all mindful of the school teachers, the clerks, and the white-collar employees who have had no increase in wages but who must buy their food in the same market with the high-salaried war worker."

Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott, Port Huron—"In order to crystallize the issue as to whether the American people today might not be in a better position to pay their food bill than ever before in the history of this country, I want to read one sentence from the last report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture in which, in summarizing their findings, it is said:

"The total cost to consumers of fixed quantities of food making up a typical consumer's food basket was smaller in relation to average consumer income in recent months than at any other time on record."

"That is not amazing because we know that consumer purchasing power has been increasing by leaps and bounds. . . . The only way we can siphon off this purchasing power so that there will not continue to be this constant threat to inflation is, first, by taxation, and second, by the sale of bonds to individuals who will hold these bonds."

Rep. Fred L. Crawford, Saginaw—"When consumers' goods, both durable and non-durable, are disappearing from the market, due to the dollar flow which is increasing tremendously, the stream widening all of the time, and also to decreased production, and there is a disposition on the part of many and for economic reasons, to want to decrease the buying power, I cannot understand why people who claim to be intelligent will advocate a subsidy and the so-called rollback theory and have the federal treasury actually pay a large percentage of the grocery bill of those who are receiving the benefits of the increased dollar flow, incident to war financing."

"I know what wages are being paid on Army and Navy construction jobs and in those industries where armament, munitions, machine guns, tanks, and planes are being built. The beginning wage rate in my town for war workers is around 89 cents an hour. I have about 26,000 organized workers in my area, and I am not going to stand here and advocate that the people of this country subsidize their grocery bills. Let them pay their own grocery bills out of the wages that the United States Treasury is paying them for the war work they perform."

Rep. Clare Hoffman, Allegan—"Perhaps some day one of the four freedoms—freedom from fear—will be restored to the American workingman and he will be permitted to accept and work at a job without being required to buy a work permit of a political ally of the administration." (He referred to a statement by the National Labor Relations Board charging that certain unions had "perverted" the war production program by compelling hundreds of thousands of workers to pay initiation fees for the privilege of working for the United States government. The NLRB called this practice a "most lucrative labor racket.")

Rep. Albert J. Engel, Muskegon, informed members of Congress that unskilled workers were receiving fantastically high wages in war plants. He told of an 18-year-old girl, coming from behind the counter of a dime store, who was making $65 a week after two weeks' training. This girl's annual pay was $3,380, while the base pay of a major in the Army is $3,000.

Engel said that machine gun assemblers were receiving $4,700 to $5,740 a year, while Lt. General Somervell, chief of the Army service of supply, was paid only $8,000.

Judging from the one issue of the Congressional Record, Michigan congressmen are well posted on the state of affairs on the Michigan home front. Their expressions are significant in reflecting the workings of a democracy in wartime.

Re-Use Packages

As many factories now make packages for war supplies instead of for food, and since steel for nails and wire is scarce, re-use of crates, boxes, barrels, baskets, burlap and cotton sacks is urged, to prevent a widespread shortage of food packages.

About War-Time Weddings

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"Morgan's mother got mad, too, and showed us a letter in which he asked her to influence me to get a divorce."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

HERE is a letter from a girl in Scranton, whose problem is one that is giving a good deal of concern to many a good father and mother in America in these days. Donna is 22; last September, after a five weeks' courtship, she eloped with an ensign three years older than herself, a man who left two weeks later for the South Pacific battle front.

Donna was at that time taking a nurses' aid course in a Philadelphia hospital, but in October her stepfather died suddenly, and she went back to Scranton to find a paying job, and help support her mother and half-brothers, aged 10 and 7. She is working hard, and sending almost daily letters to her sailor, but added to her new responsibilities and her anxiety about his safety are worries that are even more serious.

"Morgan comes from a very grand family," writes Donna. "I suppose I knew it when we first were going together, but I didn't realize that it would make so much difference. The way I do things isn't good enough for him. For instance, he has sent me back one or two of my letters all corrected in red pencil; I guess I don't write very good letters, but they are the best I can do. I get tired and grimy and greasy and of course haven't beautiful paper nor a handsome desk—nothing like that. Mama and I and the boys have three rooms; they sleep on couches in the sitting room and we have our meals in the kitchen. Mama takes them every day to a neighbor's house where about a dozen kids of defense workers come, and she gets awfully tired, too, but between us we manage to pay bills and keep the home going."

Errors in Girl's Letters.

"Well, after Morgan had corrected my letters and dropped a good many hints about grammar; I got mad and said I didn't think that was so important. I'll tell you what I did; I said that his letter had 'inferred' that he was in Honolulu; I said that my brothers were 'disinterested' in their home work; I spelled the horses at the mill 'ponies'; and he said that everytime I said 'Mama says' I spelled it 'sais'."

"Do you think that's so serious? I'm goodlooking, I've had offers from Hollywood when I was working in the Dime stores; I can cook. I dance well, I dress neatly, and I thank to Mama and my stepfather, who was a real daddy to me after my own father died, I've never run around or made myself common. Well, anyway, Morgan wrote me for heaven's sake to get away from home and all my crowd, and go to a good boarding school or college for a few years; until the war is over, anyway. That letter just about broke my heart and I went around for a few days feeling as if I would die, and then came a visit from his mother—nice enough, gentle and patient, but talking to me as if I were something under her feet. She wanted me to go to a fine school in Pennsylvania, for which she would pay."

"This made Mama mad and she said that we didn't need Morgan in our family and that she was sorry I'd ever seen him. Then Morgan's mother got mad, too, and she showed us a letter in which he asked her to influence me to get a divorce. After she went away Mama had hysterics and I cried myself into headaches for days, but there it is—what shall we do?"

"I love my mother and my broth-

DON'T RUSH MARRIAGE

Hasty war-time marriages are not wise as is shown in this case of a 22-year-old girl who, moved by youthful passion, rushed into marriage with an ensign. Helping to support her widowed mother and two brothers has left her little time for education and the finer things of life. His rich family has provided him with a wealth of culture and refinement. The girl is wholesome but she reveals her ignorance in letters to him. He is shocked. His mother offers to send the girl to school and brings up the ugly word—divorce. Torn between her duty to her mother and husband she asks for advice.

ers and I love them to need me; it breaks my heart to have my happy love-affair go all to pieces this way, but I don't feel as if I'd ever love Morgan again. Shall I consent to a divorce? I wish you could have heard all Morgan's mother told us about his relatives, and the beautiful country places they live in, and everything. What shall I do?"

Girl's Spirits Wounded.

This letter has mistakes in it, quite a few of them. Inelegance, too, Donna feels "like she would die," she is "real goodlooking," her stepfather treated her "awful." At the end of the letter, in reference to Morgan's snobbish mother: "anyone who thinks they are so much better than ordinary people are not the kind of friend your mother-in-law should be," says Donna. Isn't it a pity that her good, generous heart, her deep affection for her own people, her youth and beauty and love should go down before such artificialities as this! For down they will go, sooner or later. Her real qualities of heart and soul, her native charm and eagerness will wither very quickly in the atmosphere of elegance and distinction that is Morgan's background. The talk among his friends will be Greek to her; theirs is a world of beauty and graciousness and culture; they know enough about Europe, music, books, tennis and polo, they know enough of the world's prominent personages, to make conversation an agony to her. She doesn't speak French or Spanish; she doesn't know the great symphonies; she's never been to grand opera or to Palm Beach or London or Hawaii.

Donna, when he comes back, must either separate Morgan from his people, which apparently would be a most unwelcome idea to him, or she must become the silent, the unappreciated member of the group; the common girl Morgan married so hurriedly just before he went away. Poor Donna, always doing and saying the awkward, the timid, the wrong thing!

Price of Hurried Marriage.

What is the solution? Donna, in your hurried marriage you were like a man who hurriedly commits a murder. There is no happy solution. The solution is there for the benefit of other girls; girls who have not yet jumped into war-time marriages, but have left their affairs at the courtship stage. My own advice to all girls, unless the friendship between them and their sailors and soldiers and marines is of really long standing, based on other things than young passion, is to wait. I would have advised Donna to wait.

Now she should write Morgan that she regrets her imperfections as a scholar, and if she can, manage to go to some kindly school teacher, and try to correct her differences.

We don't believe it is revealing any military secret to observe that the Michigan home front is having tough going this summer.

Here are the signs:
The farmer is seriously concerned, and rightfully so, about the prospect of a dwindling supply of foodstuffs and meats next winter because of the incessant wet spring which delayed planting of grains, sugar beets and beans. Acreage yields will be cut sharply. The farmer opposes the OPA price subsidy.

The industrial worker is restless over the spiraling rise in the cost of living. He is wondering what may be the ultimate outcome of Washington's inability to "hold the line." Food prices have been climbing steadily.

Draining of manpower to essential war industries, where fantastically high wages are being paid, is beginning to cripple civilian economy.

We re-affirmed many of these conclusions after glancing through a recent issue of the Congressional Record, the printed proceedings of the House and Senate at Washington.

Here are some quotations from remarks made by Michigan congressmen:

Rep. George A. Dondero, Royal Oak—"This morning I received a telegram from two farmers' organizations in my district, the Oxford Cooperative Elevator Co. and the Oakland County farm bureau, both saying this:

"Farmers and farm leaders are emphatically opposed to any rollback in farm prices. So much unfavorable publicity from Washington. Absence of guaranty of status. Concluded on page 3.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Senate, House Conference Committee Stops Roll-Back of Retail Food Costs; Revised Bill Approves Funds for FSA; Heavy Aerial Action Marks Pacific War

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

To test new rubber life rafts and accessories, six men were cast adrift off Cape Fear, N. C., in the Atlantic. The men were equipped with a new lightweight life preserver which also holds rations and other essentials, solution for purifying salt water for drinking and ears out of which a mast and boom can be erected by linking them together in a right angle.

PRICE 'ROLL-BACK': Doomed by Committee

Drastic revision of the administration's subsidy program was indicated by action of a senate and house conference committee, which prohibited use of funds for the "roll-back" of retail food prices. The committee's move would kill the present "roll-back" of butter and meat, only permitting payments to processors for commitments to June 15.

However, the committee did authorize the payment of 150 million dollars in subsidies to offset increased transportation costs, and stimulate the production of scarce metals and essential food products. Congressional approval, however, would be required for expenditures over 150 million dollars.

The conference committee's action ignored an appeal by the War Labor board for the adoption of the administration's "roll-back" program. Citing its policy of limiting wage increases to 15 per cent over the January 1941 level, the WLB declared that the cost of living has spiraled up 6 per cent since last October, with food alone rising 12.9 per cent.

The conference committee increased the Commodity Credit Corporation lending authority 750 million dollars to an aggregate of 3 billion, 400 million dollars. Under the terms of the bill which also extended the life of the CCC for two years, the war food administrator would be allowed to buy food from farmers and resell it at a loss to stimulate production.

CHEERS ALLIES: Major Blow Invasion talk quickened with the statement of Malcolm MacDonald, British high commissioner to Canada, that the Allies would soon assault Hitler's European fortress.

In predicting the invasion, MacDonald said a series of small forays could be expected to feel out the enemy before a major blow would be struck.

MacDonald saw further cheer in the Allies' operations against U-boats in the North Atlantic. Even as he revealed that one submarine had been sunk each day during the preceding two weeks, Goering's Essener National Zeitung confessed that the Allies had surprised the Nazi U-boat force by the use of aircraft carriers in convoys.

As invasion talk increased, Allied bombers continued to pound Germany.

TREASON: New Trials in Chicago

Basing part of its decision on a recent Supreme court ruling, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals voided the conviction of six defendants for treason in Chicago and ordered the case reheard.

It was pointed out that the Supreme court had held arraignment before a magistrate necessary before a suspect could be questioned. In the treason case, statements had been taken before such arraignment, although the government claimed the suspects had waived the right of appearance before a judicial officer.

The appeals court also held that the individuals were entitled to separate trials which the court denied, and Judge William J. Campbell had erroneously instructed the jury.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

RYE: Rye sold at a 15 year peak for the Chicago market at $1 per July delivery.

CHEMICALS: Three chemical companies have been indicted on three counts alleging violation of the anti-trust act. They are National Lead company, E. I. du Pont de Nemours company, and Titan company.

FARM: Approve FSA Funds

Final congressional action on the $75 million dollar farm bill was further delayed with the senate's return of the bill to a conference committee for adoption of provisions for crop insurance and incentive payments.

Before returning the bill, the senate approved conference recommendations for the farm security program. Twenty million dollars was appropriated for the administration of the agency and it was authorized to borrow 60 millions for rehabilitation loans. Transfer of the FSA functions to the War Food administration also was approved.

In sending the bill back to the committee, the senate insisted on acceptance of its provisions for continuing wheat and crop insurance, and on removal of restrictions against use of 400 million dollars of soil conservation payments for incentive awards to producers.

The conference version had recommended an appropriation of 30 million dollars for loans to tenants for farm purchase. It also permitted the FSA to use as much of its funds as necessary during the first four months of the fiscal year before passage of legislation in congress over the future of the FSA. The senate approved both sections.

CABINET RIFT: Wallace vs. Jones

Differences in the presidential cabinet flared into the open when Vice President Henry A. Wallace accused Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones of hamstringing operations of the Board of Economic Warfare.

As chairman of the BEW, Wallace directs the agency's program for the purchase of material and development of strategic natural resources in foreign countries. As chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Jones is responsible for furnishing the funds for the BEW operations.

Wallace claimed that the RFC was lax in building up a stockpile of strategic material before Pearl Harbor, although expressly authorized to do so. Jones countered with the assertion that of 1 1/2 billion dollars of precious material bought by this country, the BEW initiated only 5 per cent of the purchases.

PACIFIC: Action in Air

While American aviators bombed Kiska seven times in one day in the North Pacific, the deliverance of heavy blows at Japan in the Southwest Pacific was promised by Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault upon his return to China from conferences at Washington.

As the soupy Aleutian weather cleared enough to warrant operations, medium bombers hammered at Kiska, blowing up anti-aircraft emplacements and runways. The raids brought to 16 the number staged by American airmen in three days.

In predicting an offensive against the Japs in the southwest, General Chennault said conferences in Washington had convinced him that the U. S. was concentrating most of its naval action in the Pacific and that Allied leaders were making a most judicious use of resources for global warfare.

CHESTER DAVIS: Resigns Food Job

As support grew in congress for his appointment as Food Czar, Chester Davis resigned from his position as War Food administrator. Lack of sufficient authority and opposition to the government's subsidy program were the reasons Davis gave for his action.

President Roosevelt accepted the resignation and immediately named Marvin Jones, a former Texas congressman and chairman of the United Nations' recent food conference, as his successor. Mr. Roosevelt also relieved Davis of responsibility for plotting the 1944 food program, saying it would not be proper to tie another administrator to somebody else's policies.

In his letter of resignation, Davis declared that subsidies would not tend to halt inflation in this country unless accompanied by current tax and savings programs. Mr. Roosevelt replied with the statement that congress had failed to enact the added tax legislation he had asked.

In answer to Davis' assertion that authority over broad food policy and the day-to-day decisions were being exercised elsewhere, Mr. Roosevelt said he had named a War Mobilization director for the purpose of co-ordinating all functions of the war agencies.

MEDITERRANEAN: Blast Axis From Air

While the Axis continued to report Allied concentrations in North Africa, U. S. airmen struck at Nazi aerial installations in Greece, further diverting attention to the Balkans.

Strong formations of Liberator bombers raided Axis airdromes near the ancient Greek capital of Athens. Although enemy planes arose in number to the defense, hits were reported on hangars, fuel dumps and aircraft spread over the fields.

In announcing the raids, the ninth U. S. air force also revealed that the Axis continued their novel attacks on our planes by attempting to drop bombs on them from fighters overhead.

British Wellington bombers dropped incendiaries and block busters on Naples as direct attacks were continued on Italy. Docks and industrial installations were reported struck and the Italians admitted damage.

COAL PRODUCTION: U. S. Names Director

While 156,000 miners stayed out of the pits, Carl Elbridge Newton, 45-year-old president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, was appointed to direct the operations of the nation's mines now under government control. The selection of Newton was announced as Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes told a congressional committee that there was no hope for an early return of the properties to the owners.

Although many locals voted to resume work, thousands of soft and hard coal miners insisted they would not go back without a new contract. Pits of several steel companies in Pennsylvania were affected, but in Illinois where the union and operators had come to an agreement before the War Labor board refused to recognize the concession, all of the 25,000 miners were on the job.

Formerly an assistant United States attorney in New York and special assistant state attorney general in New York, Newton was named president of the Chesapeake and Ohio last December 15. However, he had been connected with railroad matters since 1938. In his capacity, Newton is answerable only to Ickes, although he will have the services in Ickes' office.

U. S. BACKS GIRAUD: F.D.R. Shows Support

President Roosevelt's approval of General Eisenhower's support of Gen. Henri Giraud's French command in North Africa was seen in an invitation extended to Giraud to visit the U. S. Although Giraud accepted, he is not expected to make the trip until cessation of hostilities.

General Eisenhower came to Giraud's side during the recent conferences of the French National committee at Algiers. Gen. Charles DeGaulle had boldly sought to subordinate Giraud to a military commission and replace certain of his officers. General Eisenhower then stepped in and insisted on the retention of Giraud's command.

Back of the maze of political complication, one could see General Eisenhower's firm respect for the honor so strongly cast in military men. It was General Eisenhower who negotiated with Admiral Jean Darlan for French North Africa's collaboration with the Allies at the time of the U. S. landings in 1942. When Darlan was assassinated, General Giraud inherited his position as high commissioner and with it, Darlan's organization.

NAZI SPY:

Trial for espionage with death or prison facing him if convicted loomed before 57-year-old Ernest Lehmitz, Staten Island, N. Y., air raid warden, following his confession to the FBI that he had informed the German government of American troop movements, convoys and arms production.

Lehmitz had communicated with the Nazi intelligence by using invisible ink to write between the lines of apparently harmless letters to acquaintances in Germany.

ROBIN L. GORD'S BARN

"Tsay," said a bumptious individual to a man standing at the street corner, "just tell me how I can get to Blank street."

"Well," was the reply, "take the third turning on the left, first to the right, second to the left, fifth to the left, cut across a square, pass through a crescent, take the second to the left, and you'll get it."

The stranger jotted down the particulars and followed the instructions given. After three-quarters of an hour he was startled to arrive at the place where he had asked the question, and to see the same man still standing at the corner.

"Why did you direct me wrongly?" he demanded, angrily.

"You asked for Blank street, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, I directed you all right. This is Blank street."

THAT DOES IT

"Is she pretty?"

"Well, she always gets a seat in a bus."

Cryptic Response

The landlord of offices tenanted by a firm of Scots lawyers whose lease was about to expire wrote to ask whether they were going to continue in occupation. Their reply was:

"Dear Sir, We are, Yours truly—"

Not appreciating this effort in economy of words—and paper—he wrote again to demand whether or not it was their intention to remain. The answer was:

"Dear Sir, We remain, Yours truly—"

The landlord is not trying again.

Gained a Bit

An Irish priest had been transferred from one parish to another. One of his old flock met one of the new. "Well," he said, "and how do you like Father Murphy, Dennis?"

"Ah, to be sure," answered Dennis, "he's a fine man; a fine man, but a trifle bellicose."

"Bellicose, is it? Well, if that isn't queer. When we had him, he was as thin as a rake."

Gambling Instinct

A Scotsman visited Niagara Falls with an American friend.

As they approached the great rush of water, the latter said: "There's a story that if you throw a penny into the falls, it will bring you luck."

"Is that so?" inquired the Scot.

He considered a moment, and then asked, hopefully: "Ha' ye a long bit of string?"

GOING UP

"When water becomes ice," asked the professor, "what is the greatest change that takes place?"

"The price, sir."

Wrong Method

"Look here, Mrs. Murphy, why have you been hitting my little Bobby?"

"I only hit him because he was rude and called me a fat old pig!"

"But, good gracious, Mrs. Murphy, you ought to know better than that. Hitting my son won't do you any good; you'll have to start dieting!"

Pedestrian Note

"Well, I've got one record to be proud of anyhow."

"What's that?"

"I've lived in this town seven years and haven't been run over by an automobile yet."

An Improvement

"Jack is one of those fellows who reads up on things and then insists on talking about them."

"Well that beats the fellow who insists on talking about things without reading up on them."

(Fuel)ish Question

"Pops, why do they call it hard coal?"

"Because, Tommy, it's not only hard in itself, but hard to get and harder still to pay for."

Wages Jump

In August, 1939, the month before the European war broke out, average hourly earnings in manufacturing were 63 cents. Average hourly wages began to rise early in 1940 and by December 1940, the average hourly wage was 68 cents. Still further rises have been registered in 1941 and 1942 so that by November, 1942, the latest available figure, average hourly earnings in manufacturing were 90 cents.

Like so many French-Canadian towns, La Tuque in Quebec received its name from a picturesque landscape feature nearby. This is a great rock resembling an old wooden bonnet, or tuque, of the type worn by habitant trappers and farmers.

Listen to Morgenthau-Marshall Tell Power of Payroll Savings!

Washington, D. C.—How important is the average worker's war bond purchases out of his pay every payday in the grand strategy of the Allied High Command? Does the extent of his or her War Bond allotment have a part in determining when, where and the strength of our military blows?

Any worker listening in on a recent conversation between General George C. Marshall, President Roosevelt's Chief of Staff, and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., learned the answers to these questions.

Said General Marshall:

"Mr. Secretary, I want you to answer a question for me and to answer it with complete frankness. Can we military leaders plan to fight this war in an orderly way—in the surest and most effective manner—or must we take extraordinary risks for fear the money will not hold out?"

Replied Secretary Morgenthau: "General, the American public will take care of that. What they have done in the Second War Loan drive—the money they have produced and the spirit they have shown—is proof enough for me that they will not let our fighters suffer from lack of support until we achieve complete victory, no matter how long that may be nor how much it may cost."

Up your War Bond allotment out of your wages today. Figure it out for yourself how much above 10 per cent it should be.

Many Spiders Helpful

Although most people kill spiders on sight, there are in reality only a few species that are to be feared. They even have an actual utilitarian value, their webs being employed for cross hairs on telescopic gun and bomb sights, range finders and optical instruments. In defense of spiders, it also may be said that for food they prey on insects, many of which are injurious to plants and man.

Time of Cutting Hay
Decides Food ValueEarly-Cut Hay Has More Protein Content

High quality hay is more important than ever with the acute feed shortage farmers are facing this year. The time of hay cutting is one of the most important decisions a dairyman will have to make concerning his hay crop this year. Research in Missouri has shown that timothy, for example, has 135 pounds of total protein per acre if cut when coming into bloom, whereas if cut when the seed is in the dough, it contains only 92 pounds of protein per acre. The same general tendency in favor of early cutting is as true of alfalfa and the clovers as it is with timothy.

Besides having higher feeding value, early-cut hay is more palatable, so cows eat more of it. Furthermore, since early-cut hay has a higher proportion of leaves to stems than late cut hay, there is less waste in feeding. Cows often refuse the stemmy stuff they are sometimes offered. An additional advantage of early cutting is that the seed produces a more vigorous renewal growth which can be quite useful in late summer.

Dairy and crop specialists believe that the hay should be cut in the stages indicated as follows: Timothy, after heading but before blooming; red and alsike clover, half to three-fourths full bloom; alfalfa, first cutting, quarter bloom; alfalfa, last cutting, before September 15 in northern states.

Dead Animals

Even the horse struck by lightning near the pasture fence or the cattle that die from disease have some commercial value. Rather than bury them on the farm in shallow trenches or washed-out gullies covered with brush, the farmer can get rid of this nuisance by merely telephoning the rendering plant to send a truck. Usually there is little or nothing paid, unless the animal's hide has value.

Once in the rendering plant, the dead animal is converted into a dozen commercial products that have found a market within the last 20 years. The hide may be salable either for leather or the hair or wool that can be scraped from it. Flesh is cooked to expel fats and greases which go into soap, axle grease and other inedible tallow products.

The problem of disposing of dead animals is not confined to the farm. In a city the size of Columbus, Ohio, (300,000) about 2,800 dead animals must be disposed of yearly, including horses, cows, dogs and cats. Care of this refuse is handled by the city rendering plant which disposes of garbage and sells all possible by-products in order to cover the cost of the service. After the water and grease is pressed out, the solid part is dried, ground and added to selected garbage and sold for feed for livestock.

Choose Breeders Early

Selection of 1944 poultry breeding stock should be started early. Chickens for broiling, frying and roasting are of better quality and can be produced cheaper when they come from good breeding stock, and some characteristics show up only when birds are young.

Males of the heavy breeds should show tail feathers at 12 days of age and complete back feathering at eight weeks to be worthy of being retained as breeders.

Before the Mayflower arrived in the New World, the first ocean-going ship to be built on these shores had been launched on the Maine coast. The time was 1607 and the ship, the "Virginia" made many trips across the Atlantic. Today, American shipbuilding is one of the major industries and the only one to meet and exceed presidential directives in 1942. Deadweight tonnage in 1942 was in excess of 8,000,000 deadweight tons.

Concealed Blood

In the 18th century, Lord Nelson is credited with having the sides of decks, gun carriages and sometimes the guns on a warship painted red. The theory was that blood stains from men killed or wounded in action would blend in color with the paint and the morale of gunners who replaced the dead or injured would be less likely to be affected.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

Question: Is there any chemical that can be used in a cesspool that is clogged and overflowing?

Answer: Nothing that is really practical. Trouble starts with the soaking of grease into the masonry walls, which prevents the liquids from seeping out to the ground. The surest remedy for that condition is to dig a new but smaller cesspool alongside, to be filled by overflow from the first one. Properly built, this should last for many years. In building any cesspool, a grease-trap should be set into drain-pipe leading from the kitchen sink, which will separate the grease and avoid trouble. Of course, the grease should be removed from the grease-trap every three or four months.

Moisture in Basement

Question: I have a room in the basement that once was used as a coal shed, and the odor of moisture still persists. Will you tell me how to remove the odor, as well as the moisture?

Answer: Scrub the walls and floors with a solution of washing soda, about a cupful to each gallon of hot water. Rinse with clear water and, when the surfaces are dry, sprinkle a generous amount of chloride of lime around the edges of the floor. This chemical is an excellent deodorant. If dampness, but not water, comes through the concrete, apply a coat of damp-proof cement paint—the kind that comes in powder form and is mixed with water.

Ripping a board with a rip-saw—that is, cutting it with the grain—is no trick for this woman who has learned how at home repairs class. When she has completed the course, she will be able to do most any wood working job about the house.

Closing Cracks

Question: Is there any material that could be applied to storm sash to prevent cold air from seeping through the cracks between the sash and window frames? Would Scotch tape applied around each window last throughout the winter?

Answer: If the sashes do not sit snugly, fill the open spaces with a paper pulp. To make this, tear a newspaper into shreds and boil in water for an hour or longer. Squeeze out the moisture and force the pulp into the cracks while still moist; it will harden on drying. When dry, the filler can be given a coat of shellac to make it thoroughly waterproof.

Rough Plaster

Question: My living-room walls are rough plaster, painted. How can I make them smooth for papering?

Answer: Rub down the high points of the plaster with sandpaper wrapped around a block of wood. The remaining low places can be filled with a thick mixture of powdered whiting and glue size, put on with a trowel. The walls should be sized before papering.

Picket Fence

Question: In putting in a four-foot high picket fence, to what depth should the cedar supporting posts be placed?

Answer: To be safe, set them four feet in the ground. Although cedar is resistant to rotting, it will be an advantage to paint the underground portions of the posts with creosote or tar.

Preserving Birch Logs

Question: I have secured some birch logs from the country which I should like to use as a decoration in my fireplace. Is there something in which I could dip them to preserve them and keep out the ants?

Answer: If you suspect that the logs contain insects, sponge them with kerosene. You can preserve them by coating them with spar varnish. Get a clear variety so that the wood will not be darkened too much.

Starving Chinese Are Eating Grass

Famine Strikes Province in Densely Peopled Area.

CHENG TU.—Travelers from Honan province tell of a famine so serious that many sufferers have eaten grass and the bark of trees to keep alive.

Crops have failed, villages have been deserted and food prices have reached prohibitive levels when food is available at all, according to these reports from this densely peopled area of China.

The Honan famine may become the worst in China's history unless widespread relief measures are taken to feed and relocate millions of persons, according to W. W. Alley of Chinese Industrial co-operatives who just has completed a survey of the famine areas for United China Relief.

Mr. Alley reported that 10,000,000 persons are affected by the famine. He warned that "millions will die" if evacuation of starving people is not begun at once.

Two Yenching university students who left Peking 26 days ago to reach their school in Chengtu said they had passed through areas that were "like a nightmare." They spent six days walking through famine-ravished districts.

"We could get food, but it was terribly expensive," one student said. "One pound of flour cost 24 dollars ($1.20 in American money). The cheapest meal, consisting of a bowl of noodles and a few pieces of cabbage, cost 20 dollars ($1).

Letters received by American missionaries from Chinese friends in areas occupied by the Japanese revealed that Shantung and Anhwei provinces in eastern China were suffering from the most severe famine in a decade.

New Insecticide Found in Chinese Yam Bean

ITHACA.—Cornell university scientists announced recently the discovery of a lethal home front weapon, a new insecticide which "may help to protect millions of dollars worth of vegetable crops in 1944."

Source of the pest destroyer is the Chinese yam bean, the origin of which has been traced to Central America and Mexico, where the plant is cultivated for the food value in the roots.

According to Prof. Roy Hansberry of the agriculture experiment station, this "promises a future nearly by insecticide supply unlimited by shipping shortages, Axis conquests or submarine warfare."

The active principal of the bean, effective in killing pea aphids, Mexican bean beetle and other pests, is concentrated in the seeds. It is described as having many of the values of "rotenone" insecticides, most of which have come from the South Pacific area.

Professor Hansberry said the most effective use of the bean is made by dusting with a mixture of ground seeds and talc.

"Tests have shown that yam bean dust will kill cattle lice," and added, "and it may find other uses in addition to the control of vegetable crop pests."

Favors Transit Service To All Amusement Parks

WASHINGTON.—It's all right for transit companies to provide bus and street car service to amusement parks if it does not interfere with transportation needs of war workers, the Office of Defense Transportation ruled.

The agency said, however, that rubber-tired vehicles should not be furnished to amusement parks and other recreational centers if rail service is available, and should not duplicate rail service for any substantial part of the trip.

Turn About's Fair Play, Fighting Men Discover

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Vancouver quietly and patriotically suffered a serious food shortage so its fighting men might train in comfortable warmth. In turnabout fashion, the army supplied enough wood cutters for two weeks to pile up 1,416 cords of brushwood for the district's furnaces. Then the city donated $500 to a fund to buy band instruments for the army.

Women of Scotland Now Get Eggs From Seagulls

LONDON.—Thrifty Scottish housewives are beating the wartime egg shortage by trapping and domesticating seagulls, the London Sunday Pictorial reported.

After a couple of months of good feeding, the housewives claim, the seagulls are as good as hen eggs for cake making.

U. S. Flyer Helps Raid Mother's Home City

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA.—Staff Sgt. E. R. Donadio of New York rode in a Flying Fortress that participated in the raid on Naples, where his mother was born.

"My parents came from Italy, but my whole family is hell against the Axis," Donadio remarked later.

FUN FOR YOUR FAMILY

By MISS ABBIE CONDIT

National Recreation Association.

Buttons have always held a strange fascination for grownups and children, but now they are coming into their own for a very practical reason. With dresses becoming plainer and materials less interesting in wartime, trimmings are taking a new turn and we are discovering that buttons can do more to brighten up an old dress than almost any other ornament.

Of course many kinds of buttons have disappeared from the store counters because of war shortages, but with a little paint you can dress up old buttons to look like new. Go through your button box and see what you have on hand. Then get out your paints and go to work.

Cover the button first with a coat of white shellac and allow to dry. Mix a small quantity of oil paint to the right shade and thin somewhat with turpentine. Apply this to the top of the button and allow it to dry thoroughly. You may then add any design you wish in a contrasting color. If the button is to be washed, protect it with one or two layers of white shellac.

Carved Buttons.

Buttons carved from wood are beautiful. They can be made in any size or shape, and one also has a choice of lovely natural colors which can be found in almost any locality. Here is a list of possible woods with their colors: holly, white; maple or pine, natural; ebony, black; walnut, brown; mahogany or rosewood, red; cedar, natural marked with red; basswood, natural (soft for carving).

Nut and fruit pits have been popular as decorative buttons the past few years and are easily made. Whole nuts can also be used if they are sorted carefully as to size and shape. A small screw eye inserted through the shell will enable you to sew the buttons to a dress or pocket. Be sure the nuts are perfectly dry and shellac them before using. Attractive buttons can be made by cutting black walnuts crosswise into several layers. Smooth the surfaces with a file and shellac. A small drill will make the button eye.

Chessmen are easily made into amusing buttons by adding screw eyes to the different pieces. The pawns might be used as buttons and a single knight or rook added for a neck ornament. Checkers can be used in the same manner.

Trimming earrings to match the trimming on your dress. Use old frames of discarded earrings, prying off the ornamental part and attaching buttons to match those on your dress. This is done by sealing the back of the button to the earring with household glue or cement. If you wear a comb in your hair, it can also be decorated with buttons by using strong thread or millinery wire.

A charming and colorful button boutonniere can be concocted from a variety of glass buttons with some raffia or scrap leather to complete the design.

Selecting Buttons.

People are often apt to take buttons for granted without realizing that care is necessary in selecting buttons that match the background color. If you have a dress with a tiny bit of color that you would like to emphasize, you can do it by adding buttons in that color. A plain fabric may be trimmed with buttons of any contrasting color. Wooden buttons are good with knobby fabrics and plaid materials.

Augusta

Augusta Travers—you know, the one who runs the little hat shop down on Main Street—she's always been dead set against gambling in any form. Never will forget when I was a kid and she found little Hammy, her youngest nephew, playing marbles for keeps out back of the shop. Took it on herself to give him a whaling and point out the evils of gambling. She's a strict woman, Augusta, real strict. Good as gold, of course. But mighty set against the lighter things of life.

Well, so you could have knocked us all over with a feather when Augusta started her gambling campaign for War Bonds and Stamps, right out in the window of her shop.

First she got hold of the photographs of every boy here in town, who's joined up, and pasted them on a big board in the window, with little American flags at the corners. Half the town was down there watching her do it. She left the middle empty. Then she brought out a placard she'd had printed up and put it in the middle, and this is what it said: "These are the Local Boys who have enlisted in America's War—They are betting that you are buying War Bonds and Stamps—Hitler and the Japs are betting you aren't—Place your bets inside."

My wife couldn't wait to get herself down there and inside Augusta's shop to see what in the wide world had happened to her, turning right around about gambling like that. You know my wife. She kind of likes to talk. She went right up to Augusta and said, "Augusta Travers, seems like something's come over you. Why, I never thought I'd see you running a gambling campaign in your own shop."

Mean to tell me it's a gamble whether this country buys enough bonds to win this war?" Augusta asked.

I forgot to say. Wasn't just a hat my wife brought home. Was a hat and a $25 bond.

Women Recruits to Aid Farmers

Non-farm women in Michigan have begun answering the call for recruits for emergency farm labor in five Michigan counties, reports Miss Ruth Peck, assigned by Michigan State College as assistant state emergency farm labor supervisor in charge of the Women's Land Army.

Recruitment in Grand Traverse and Manistee Counties is being handled through specially-appointed committees, while in such counties as Ionia, Kalamazoo and Oakland the state office is working directly through the home economics extension councils already cooperating with Michigan State College.

In Grand Traverse County, Mrs. Carl Anderson of Traverse City is heading a sub-committee of the farm labor advisory committee to handle Women's Land Army activities. Local OCD authorities have extended the use of their files of local women's organizations. Members have been contacted urging enlistment. The committee is also listing women for seasonal and emergency cherry picking or for duty as squad leaders for Victory Farm Volunteers.

Local business groups are cooperating in setting up "call-in" stations where growers can contact home canners to move small surpluses of fruit and vegetables. Farmers phone in to such centers as the Traverse City chamber of commerce building, and listings are posted prominently on bulletin boards or in show windows. The individual canners then pick the surpluses.

Call-in stations have also been set up by the Manistee board of commerce and in Manistee County, where Miss Ethel Larson is heading the W. L. A. committee. Miss Larson is also chairman of both city and county Victory garden programs, and the committee is working through those programs and the OCD lists in recruiting the women's groups.

Mrs. James Vary, county emergency farm labor assistant-at-large, is conducting recruiting in Ionia County through the home economics extension groups, and Miss Margaret Linsell, county home demonstration agent, is acting in the same capacity in Kalamazoo County. In Oakland County 46 home economics extension groups are recruiting within their own memberships, and all have set up plans to pool efforts and equipment for such peak-season jobs as group canning and cooking for threshers.

Farm Feed Still Two Times Normal

How serious is the threatened feed shortage in Michigan? Will livestock numbers have to be reduced?

Those questions, asked by Michigan livestock farmers, have been analyzed by K. T. Wright, farm management specialist at Michigan State College. Available feed left over from the record 1942 crops on the average farm in the state was, on July 1, twice the amount normally left per head of livestock.

The cow, the sow and the hen ate better since last fall than ever before in the state, according to the rate feeds were fed the first six months of 1943. If livestock men are forced to tighten down on rations, that will be the result of reduced feed crop harvests or increased numbers of livestock, according to Wright.

To enable any individual farmer to help size up feed prospects, Wright points out some of the possibilities for the state. If only 70 per cent of the intended oat acreage was planted, as has been reported, and if only 85 per cent of the fields intended for corn got planted, the total feed-grain production in 1943 at average yields of 1932-1941 would be 20 per cent less than normal per animal.

Assuming no change in livestock population but adding the extra feed now on farms from 1942, each animal unit on January 1 would have 42 tons of feed, a normal carryover. But livestock men would not be able to feed as generously as they did in the first six months of 1943, Wright concludes.

If crop harvests fall below estimates because of lower acreage and lower yields, or if livestock numbers increase, hogs will have to go to market next year at lighter weights, poultry feeds will be less plentiful, and fuller use of hay and pasture in feeding cattle will be necessary, the summary indicates.

"We've had a little rain here lately and does it ever come in big drops; nearly knocks you over. Mildred said you heard about my running into Frank Fort in New York. It was quite by accident. It was just on the street (Park Ave.) outside of the U. S. O. and we were just coming from the ball game in Yankee Stadium. We had a little chat but I had to leave for camp so had to cut it short. I've been trying to run into someone I know over here but haven't had much luck so far. I understand the old bunch I was with at school are in England. I certainly wish we had gone there. At least they wouldn't be talking Arabic and French although it's hard enough to talk to an Englishman. I know because I've talked to some of them in town—members of Gen. Montgomery's army."
