Local draft boards have been directed to proceed immediately with the reclassification of registrants out of Class 3-A. Such reclassification of fathers will proceed in order number sequence and at such rate as is necessary to fill calls. A sufficient number of such registrants must be in Class 1-A and available for induction after Oct. 1 to fill military manpower calls after that date. With the availability of this group for reclassification, no local board will have a reasonable excuse after Oct. 1 for failure to fill calls, say Michigan Selective Service System officers.

Each local board will proceed with the reclassification of 3-A registrants at such rate as is necessary to fill calls after Oct. 1. Each board is to have a sufficient number of registrants from all sources and dependency in Class 1-A as of the first of each month to equal 3 per cent of the local board's total military-age registrants from 18 to 45.

Footie Sentenced to 3-Year Term on Draft Violation

Roy Footie, 32, who was formerly employed as a farm hand in the Cass City community, on Friday, was sentenced to three years of imprisonment in the government penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind. He had eluded federal officers for more than a year after indictment for violation of the selective service act. Sentence was imposed by Judge Arthur J. Tuttle in federal court in Bay City, after Footie admitted that he failed to appear for induction in June, 1942, as ordered by the Tuscola Draft Board.

Footie's inability to produce his registration card when ordered to do so by officers at Munising several weeks ago resulted in his arrest.

Graduated

Lt. McDonald.

Leonard James McDonald of Gagetown received his Wings of Gold on August 17 at "The Annapolis of the Air," Pensacola, Fla., Naval Air Base.

Leonard enlisted on July 6, 1942, and spent three months in C. P. T. in Detroit and then went to Iowa City, Iowa, for three months of "toughening" training. He was sent to Bunker Hill, Indiana, for three months primary, then left for Pensacola, Florida, on April 30 where he finished his flying on Aug. 12. On Aug. 17, he received his commission as lieutenant in the Marine Corps fliers.

Lt. McDonald did not receive a furlough at this time but has moved on to an operational base. Lt. McDonald's mother, Mrs. Richard McDonald, of Gagetown, attended his graduation at Pensacola, Florida.

District Governor Addressed Rotary Club at Cass City

Complimenting the Cass City community on the fine appearance of farm crops, the wide village streets, beautiful homes and excellent school building, Claud Running of Clarksburg, Ont., district governor of Rotary, gave an address before members of the local club Tuesday evening. He pointed out the need of the present day for the Rotarian principles of good fellowship, high ethical standards, the application of ideals of service in business and community, the furtherance of international understanding, and the development of high ideals in the life of the individual.

Mr. Running was introduced by President Keith McConkey.

The dinner was served in the dining room of the Baptist Church, following toasts to the President and King and the singing of the national hymns of the United States and Canada. G. W. Landon was leader of group singing, with Mrs. Gordon Thomas as piano accompanist.

Secretary Leslie Townsend reported that war stamp sales had averaged $45 at each meeting of the local club the past year.

Guests Tuesday evening included Pvt. Andrew Barnes, Jr., of Fort Knox, Ky., Clarence Mayhew and A. Libkuman of Elkton, C. O. Needhamer of Lansing, John R. Ronald of Flint and Rev. Dudley Mosure.

Dr. Starmann Heads New Men's Club in Cass City

Charter Members Number 18; First Dinner Meeting Held Tuesday.

Dr. B. H. Starmann was elected president of a new men's club in Cass City when 17 of the 18 charter members met for their first dinner meeting Tuesday evening. Lester Ross is vice president; C. M. Wallace, secretary; and Clarence Burt, treasurer. The club plans to hold a meeting each Tuesday evening at the Hopper Restaurant.

The development of better speech in club members, the ideal of service and the cultivation of good fellowship are principles of the new organization. Each member of the club will suggest a name for the club at the meeting of the group next Tuesday and tell why he thinks it appropriate. After all have made their suggestions, a name will be chosen.

D. W. BENKELMAN BUYS SEEGER ST. RESIDENCE

Dorus W. Benkelman has purchased the Kettlewell residence on South Seeger Street now occupied by the Orion Cardew family. Mr. Benkelman and his father, J. A. Benkelman, plan to occupy the newly purchased residence in the near future.

Elkland Township War Chest Drive Is Under Way

The Elkland Township War Chest drive is being conducted this week by 21 solicitors in the village and 31 workers in the township section outside of Cass City.

The campaign committee composed of Dr. E. C. Fritz, chairman, and Keith McConkey, Hugh Munro, Willis Campbell and Pete Reinstra, vice chairmen, have divided the village and township into 52 districts, with a solicitor in each district, none of whom will have over 15 families to call on. It is hoped that the drive can be completed by Aug. 30.

Ralph Clara, who covered sections 5 and 6 was the first to report his collections. All donations will be published as they are turned in by the solicitors.

Bankers of Thumb to Meet Here Tuesday

The Tuscola County Bankers' Association will have bankers of Sanilac and Huron Counties as their guests here Tuesday when a dinner will be served that evening at the Presbyterian Church dining room. Congressman Jesse P. Wollcott will be the speaker.

McGregorys Sell Farm and Buy Village Property in Cass City

Frank McGregor has sold his 40-acre farm on M-53, in Section 8, Evergreen Township, to Noble G. Jump for $2,750.00. Mr. Noble resides in Detroit, and while hunting in Evergreen in the autumn season, decided he would like to own a farm in that community.

Mr. and Mrs. McGregor will move to Cass City soon. They have purchased the residence on the corner of Pine and Brooker Streets and five village lots from John Seeger and his sister. The house was damaged by fire several months ago. The McGregorys plan to repair and remodel it this fall. This residence is among the oldest in town and formerly stood on the corner of Seeger and Pine Streets and served as a repair shop and residence of Gottlieb Ahr, pioneer shoemaker of Cass City.

William Lyon Phelps Died in New Haven Saturday

Distinguished Educator and Writer Well Known to Residents of Thumb.

Dr. William Lyon Phelps, known to many people of this community through visits to the Huron City Church on summer Sunday afternoons, died Saturday, Aug. 21, at his home in New Haven, Conn. The distinguished author, lecturer, educator and man of letters had been in ill health since June 21 when he suffered a stroke.

Dr. Phelps was born in New Haven Jan. 2, 1865, entered Yale as a student in 1883 and joined the faculty in 1892. Although he retired in 1933, he was active as a writer and lecturer until the time of his fatal illness.

In Huron City, he married the former Annabel Hubbard in 1892, and until her death in 1939, he spent his summers in the little village at the tip of the Thumb. In 1921, Dr. Phelps organized Sunday afternoon services in the little Methodist Church in Huron City, continuing them each summer until 1939. Twice the church had to be enlarged to accommodate the crowds who gathered to hear him speak. People of many denominations and faiths came from the entire Thumb area and from much greater distances to listen to his sermons.

The tribute which follows was written by Mrs. Dorian M. Russell of Grand Rapids in a personal letter to Mrs. A. J. Knapp of Cass City. It is indicative of the esteem in which Dr. Phelps was held not only by his personal friends but by those who knew him through his sermons.

Gideons from Cass River Camp Held Rally in Caro

Gideons from Cass City, Caro, Vassar, Mayville and Gifford held a rally Sunday in 11 churches in and near Caro. Six of these were small country churches.

The Gideons began the day with a prayer meeting in Hotel Montague at 8:30 in the morning, after which assignments were given. At two o'clock they returned to the hotel where 52, including four pastors and wives and ladies' auxiliary members enjoyed a banquet that was served by the hotel. The afternoon until four o'clock was spent in singing and giving reports. At four o'clock a team of Gideons held a service in the Sunshine Church, west of Cass City. An evening service was held in the U. B. Church at Colwood.

The amount taken in during the day was $412.00. This is equal to 1,648 Testaments, as $1 places four in the hands of the Armed Forces. Over 5,000,000 Testaments have already been delivered to the members of the Armed Forces since Pearl Harbor and there is at present a back order of 450,000 Testaments.

"America's greatest army is now in the field to help defeat the evil forces which have been unleashed upon the world in all their barbaric power and savagery," say officers of the Gideons. "The flower of our American manhood and womanhood is enlisted in this just cause and under the guidance of the Prince of Peace we shall be victorious! These valiant men and women who are fighting our battles in all branches of military service need the Shield of Faith! Under the strain of days of action; in the lonely hours of illness and during the quiet of the night when there is time for thought and meditation; in the hours of trial and tribulation when the blood and lust of battle tries men's souls, they need the Word of God as a fountain of strength and spiritual inspiration!"

NAZARENE CHURCH RETIRES FIRST BONDS

Rev. George D. Bugbee believes friends of the Church of the Nazarene will be interested to know that the money is on hand to retire the church's first bond issue which is due Sept. 1. In September of last year, Mr. Bugbee organized a "dollar a month" club among members and friends of the church which has been a great success.

Gaylord Wright's Bravery Praised

Carl Wright of Cass City was made happy by the receipt of a letter from Major J. H. Whitaker, regarding Carl's brother, Gaylord, who is in the Aleutians. The major writes under date of July 28: "During a recent engagement with the Japanese, your brother, Gaylord, earned the admiration and respect of the men. Repeatedly he went out under fire to care for the wounded without concern for his own safety. No doubt this prompt, efficient medical aid saved many a soldier's life. You can be proud of Gaylord and I sincerely hope to send him home soon."

Defense Councils Warned of Nearing Farm Labor Crisis

Most Important Crops and Those Needing Much Hand Labor Mature Soon.

The farm labor problem in Michigan will reach a crisis some time in September, county and municipal defense councils have been warned by Don C. Weeks, director of Civilian War Service for the Michigan Office of Civilian Defense, who urges extra efforts to meet the impending emergency.

Many of the most important crops and those requiring the greatest amount of hand labor mature next month. Weeks pointed out. Complicating the situation is the fact that many communities will have to switch then from youth to adult volunteer labor, due to the opening of school and the heavier work to be done then.

Among the suggestions to defense councils for meeting the emergency are: A house-to-house canvass by neighborhood war clubs to assemble lists from which volunteers would be called; the appointment of neighborhood leaders who would take the responsibility for recruiting workers when specific needs arise in the community; solicitation of volunteers through service clubs and the like, and using Civilian Defense Volunteer Offices to supply needed clerical and telephone assistance.

The United States Employment Service has responsibility for farm labor recruiting in 14 major cities; elsewhere, county agricultural agents are responsible. All OGD activities are supplemental to their work.

In addition to the need for harvest volunteers, there will be an urgent need for workers in the canning industry, councils are warned. The USES is handling labor recruiting for the canneries, but the OGD can help supply the needed manpower through the use of the methods suggested, it is pointed out.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MRS. REED MONDAY

The Ladies' Aid of the Baptist Church gave a farewell party Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Cecil Brown for Mrs. Sophronia Reed who, with her daughter, Charlotte, left Thursday for Hazel Park for a few days' visit. From there they will go to Denver, Colorado, where Mrs. Reed will be supervisor of the dining room and kitchen of the Denver Bible Institute. She had been employed as a nurse in Pleasant Home Hospital. Games furnished entertainment at Monday evening's gathering and ice cream and cake were served. Mrs. Reed was presented with a gift.

$1,557,000.00 in Bonds, Maturity Value, Is Goal

To Be an Outstanding Campaign to Secure Money for U. S.

Starting a minute after midnight Thursday, September 9, Tuscola County people will be asked to purchase war bonds to the extent of $1,557,000, maturity value.

This can be considered one of the outstanding campaigns to secure money for the treasury. It will cause each and every citizen of Tuscola County to dig deep in his pocket if this amount is to be achieved, and Tuscola County has never in the past waived from its responsibility.

"Every available volunteer will be asked to assist in this huge undertaking; each and every home, business, industry, organization, etc. will be contacted," says Clarence Bougher, county war bond chairman. "When you as citizens are asked to assist, remember that it is your duty to do this. In doing so you will be virtually in the 'front line at the battle front,' since you will be supplying those many vitally needed armaments that are and will be required to maintain our present offensive position on land, on the sea, and in the air."

"Between July 1 and the end of 1943, it will cost us about 50 billions of dollars to equip our men and take care of other war expenditures. That is about $100 for every man, woman and child in our country for planes, tanks, ships, equipment and supplies, and it is up to us, the people, to 'fork over' that money—take it out of earnings, accumulations and buy government securities."

"When you purchase war bonds, you are not making any real sacrifice, since you are investing your money in the very best secured investment known—investment in your own free government—and it will be returned to you with interest."

"This is not a 'part time' war; either we make a continuing all-out effort to win or we push victory many years into the future. Partial participation in the financing of the war won't do. No matter how much you have invested."

Concluded on page 8.

Committee Wants Alleys Lighted

The light and water committee of the common council recommended to the village trustees that the alleys on each side of Main St., between Seeger and Leach Streets, be lighted to provide more automobile parking space for shoppers. Whether the council will be able to go ahead with the project at this time depends whether materials will be available to make the improvement.

Auction Sales

Arthur Whittenburg & Son have rented their farm ½ mile west of the Tuscola County Farm on West Deckerville Road, north of Caro, and will have a farm auction on Thursday, Sept. 2, when horses, cattle, poultry, implements and grain will be offered for sale by Worthy Tait as auctioneer. The State Savings Bank, Caro, is clerk. Full particulars of the auction are printed on page 7.

Harold Lee has rented his farm and will have an auction sale today (Friday) 6 miles south, 2 miles east and ¼ mile south of Cass City. The auction was advertised in detail in the Chronicle last week.

John W. Little has engaged space in the Chronicle next week to advertise a farm sale 4 miles east and 5 miles south of Cass City on Thursday, Sept. 9.

Walter Anthes will have an auction sale, 2 miles south and 1½ miles east of Cass City on Tuesday, Sept. 7, full particulars of which will be printed in the Chronicle next week.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Novesta Church of Christ will hold their monthly meeting with pot-luck dinner on Wednesday, Sept. 1, at the church. Dinner will be served at noon. Free will offering. Everybody welcome.

Trimmer Hogs to Be in Style

Michigan hogs will step more lightly and at a younger age when they trip to market this fall, if farmers wisely conserve feed and observe the lessening demand for the heavyweight hogs.

When swine numbers were low and feed was plentiful, it was patriotic and fattened the farm income to market hogs at 250 or 300 pounds, according to H. F. Moxley, animal husbandry specialist at Michigan State College.

Now hog numbers are high and feed prospects are relatively low. Moxley suggests farmers plan marketing hogs at 180 to 220 pounds, since hogs make the most economical gains up to those weights.

After hogs reach 200 pounds in weight, Moxley points out, it takes 50 pounds more of feed to put on 100 pounds of gain than it did per hundred for the first 200 pounds.

One proof of the trend to lighter hogs and the ratio of hogs to feed supplies has been the sharp drop in feeder price pigs.

Liberal feeding of concentrates is necessary in finishing pigs to 180 to 220 pounds for market. Many early spring pigs are now approaching market weights and will be sold in late August, September and early October. With limited feed supplies, the early marketing, Moxley concludes, is necessary to make the most economical use of farm feeds and to leave some feed on farms to finish the pigs farrowed after the early spring pigs.

Greatest Freight Year
In 1942 American railroads delivered the greatest volume of freight in history for an average less than one cent for hauling a ton of freight one mile.

Yield More
Danish cabbage plants set from June 20 to 30 usually yield 25 per cent more than those set two weeks later.

Recommend Potash
For good crops on sandy or gravelly soils, or on fields that seldom get manure, potash should be applied in addition to superphosphate.

ISRAEL'S SIN AND RESTORATION

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 32:7-10; 34:9.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is long-suffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression.—Numbers 14:18.

God is righteous, and cannot look with approval or in forgiveness upon sin until His mercy has been stirred and set free to act by repentance. Then He whose wrath is hotly kindled against man's transgression shows Himself as the tender and gracious God, "keeping loving-kindness for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin."

This grace of God is fully revealed in Christ and the redemption which He brought to man, but is prefigured in the experiences of Israel under the law.

I. God's Wrath Kindled (Exod. 32:7-10).

There are those who would have us think of God as a benevolent old gentleman who is easily hoodwinked by clever sinners who can talk fast to cover their iniquity. Even if He does see it, He is supposed to be so tenderhearted that He overlooks their sin.

Such folk had better read these words, "That my wrath may wax hot." The wrath of God is a real and awful affection of the divine nature and it is revealed against man who sins against His holy law.

The special sin of Israel on this occasion was idolatry, which is the setting up of some material symbol to represent the invisible God. Moses had been with God in the mount for 40 days. He had been the Lord's representative in their midst. His presence had evidently been the chief stabilizing influence.

Having their eyes set on a man, or a material object to take His place, they had lost sight of the invisible God. So they proceeded to establish this idol which would provide a center of worship. At first it was evidently intended to remind them of God, but soon it led them into heathen revelry (Exod. 32:6, 17, 18).

Whatever a man puts between himself and God, even though he may at first intend it to be but a reminder of God, will lead him away from God. Ritual, symbols, theology, scholarship, all good in their places, may become the idols which separate present-day man from God.

II. God's Mercy Invited (Exod. 34:4-6).

Aaron had only a weak "alibi" to offer. The golden calf had practically made itself (see Exod. 32:24). How quick man is to justify himself instead of admitting his guilt. No doubt our excuses sound just as silly as Aaron's in the ears of God.

Moses knew better. The sin was dealt with in drastic fashion. When one deals with a wild ravenous beast, there is one remedy—"shoot to kill." Not only were the leaders of the wickedness slain, but the ground gold of the calf image was put into water, which all Israel drank. Thus were they all marked as sharing the guilt of this idolatry.

There is a lesson here for us. America is far from God. We need to seek His face in repentance. But let us remember that we (that is, Christian men and women) are a part of America. It is our guilt, and we ought to be on our faces before God, pleading for God's mercy upon our land.

Moses was now ready to seek the Lord's mercy for his wayward people. He is the intercessor, the intermediary. God had a man who had compassion and love in his heart, and the Lord heard him. Loving-kindness and tender mercy flowed forth in place of flaming anger.

Note that God has not changed. He is the unchangeable One. His wrath is still hot against man's sin, but man has repented, and moved out of God's wrath into His love and grace. That too is always being shown to His obedient children.

III. God's Covenant Renewed (Exod. 34:27, 28).

Moses had broken the first tablets of commandments. The people had sinned and were not then ready to listen to any word from Jehovah. But now they were prepared to receive it, and God renewed the covenant as He again gave Moses the law.

There is no need for despair in the heart of the one who deals with God. The missed opportunity for obedience and blessing may be gone forever, but God is still on the giving hand ready to meet the returning prodigal, ready to give beauty for ashes (Isa. 61:3) and to restore the years that the locust has destroyed (Joel 2:25). Amazing grace!

In the keeping of these commandments, Israel was assured of the blessing of God. As we pointed out last week, the real fulfillment of the law came in Jesus Christ, who did not set aside its requirements, but met them all, for all who believe in His name.

DEFORD NEWS

Obituary of Mrs. Hale

Maude S. Ross was born in Delaware Township, Sanilac County, on Mar. 27, 1882. She passed away at Pleasant Home Hospital on Thursday, Aug. 19. She had been ill since Nov. 1942.

On Dec. 24, 1916, she was united in marriage with Calvin C. Hale in Pontiac, where they resided until Mar., 1928, when they came to a farm near Kingston, where she resided until the time of her death.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Hale is survived by two brothers, Wm. Ross of Port Huron and Guy Ross of Carsonville; three sisters, Mrs. Roy Kile and Mrs. Earl Harmon of Pontiac and Mrs. Nellie McGregory of McGregor; and several nephews and nieces. Mrs. Hale was a Christian and died in the faith. She lived her religion in the sight of her neighbors and friends.

Funeral services were held at the Douglas Funeral Home at Cass City with Rev. G. I. Friday of Decker in charge. Roy Severance and Mrs. Don Caister of Shabbona were the singers. Interment was made in the Novesta cemetery.

The church services at Deford will be held one hour later beginning August 29. By a vote taken, it was decided to use the slower time. Preaching service at 10:00 and Sunday School at 11:00.

The Deford school will open on Sept. 7 with Paul Koeltzow and Mrs. Delbert Profit as teachers.

Mrs. Lloyd Hicks will have charge of the Crawford school and will begin teaching Sept. 6.

Under Soviet law, any citizen who refuses work to a woman simply because she is a woman, is liable to punishment.

Keep Milk Covered
Milk is kept covered in the milk bottle in the refrigerator. Left-over milk is not put back in the bottle, but is stored separately and used soon.

Used Few Tanks
Throughout the last war, only 241 tanks were used by American troops in combat areas, and those were made chiefly in England and France.

Crops From Weed-Infested Land
Weed-infested land can produce important crops instead of lying fallow all summer. Plowing the land in late May or early June after weeds have made some growth is suggested. The next step is to cultivate the land every two weeks, until about July 1, then seed it to a smother crop such as sudan grass, millet, or sorghum. Chief value of this plan is that weed growth can be controlled without letting the land lie idle, experts say.

Loaded Rapidly
A modern coal-and-water fueling station can load a locomotive with 24 tons of coal and 15,000 gallons of water in as little as four minutes.

Chinese Tells of 131 Days Adrift On South Atlantic

Hooked Fish With a Nail, Ate Blackbirds and Sang Folk Songs.

MIAMI, FLA.—A 25-year-old Chinese mess steward, survivor of one of the severest trials of human endurance, told here how he used a bent nail for a fish hook to help him survive 131 days adrift on a liferaft.

Poon Lim, now almost recovered from his ordeal after treatment in a hospital in Brazil, recalled that he whiled away the hours while waves tossed the small raft on the South Atlantic by singing folk songs from his native Hainan island.

It was on the morning of November 23, 1942, that a submarine torpedoed the British merchantman on which Poon Lim was serving as second steward. On April 3 he was picked up off the coast of Brazil by the crewmen of a small fishing vessel. Three more days passed before the fishing boat reached land, yet Poon Lim managed to walk ashore.

Provisions on Raft.
Naked, except for the lifebelt he snatched after the torpedo exploded, Poon Lim was washed overboard as he raced to a lifeboat. He still has not learned the fate of his 54 shipmates.

For more than an hour the steward swam until he sighted an unoccupied liferaft and climbed on it. The raft's food and water stores were intact.

"The food lasted 55 days," the stoical Chinese related through an interpreter. "The water held out 65 days."

After the provisions were gone, Poon Lim extracted a nail from the raft, bent it and used it for a fish hook. He unraveled rope and fashioned a fishing line.

Parts of biscuit and the bright coil spring from a flashlight provided bait for small fish, which he then used to lure bigger fish.

Frequent rainfall provided water, which he caught in a canvas and kept in the raft's container.

Poon Lim counted the days from the time the moon was full. On the seventh day a ship passed within a half mile of him. Several times he sighted airplanes.

Ate Blackbirds.
Toward the end of his ordeal, blackbirds roosted on the raft at night and he caught them for food and bait.

Once he fell overboard, but the sea was calm and he managed to swim back to the raft.

Poon Lim felt dizzy several times and suffered slight attacks of fever, but was bothered mostly by the gnawing pains in his stomach caused by the near-starvation diet.

After about 128 days, he saw the outline of land many miles away, but could not maneuver the raft toward it.

An airplane flew low overhead, circled and came back, but flew away again. Later, the pilot told Poon Lim in the hospital that he had seen him the first time, but could not find him after circling back.

Finally Poon Lim was rescued by a fishing vessel.

Poon Lim's wife and his parents were on Hainan island when it was occupied by the Japanese. "He has not heard from them for a long time."

Gay Dogs Lavish $421.98 On Two Strange WAACs

KANSAS CITY, MO.—A couple of dogs—some people call them man's best friend—lavished their monetary assets on women.

The pooches popped up before two WAACs, Corporals Mary Bowling of Marion, Ala., and Genevieve Rodriguez of Honolulu. Each dog had a purse in his mouth. The purses contained a total of $421.98. Only the canines knew where the money came from.

Police said if the owner wasn't found the WAACs could keep the money.

The dogs? They disappeared—probably went back for more capital.

British Jail Soldiers For Careless Gossip

LONDON.—The British government, warning against careless talk, revealed that a number of soldiers had been cashiered or jailed for disclosing military information.

One case included in a published digest was that of a senior officer, broken and sent up for a year because he gossiped to a dinner friend about a second front.

Another soldier who arranged a code with his wife to let her know where he would be stationed, drew a six-month sentence.

Killer Lives on Stolen Wheat for Three Months

BOISE, IDAHO.—A man who lived on nothing but stolen wheat for nearly three months was under sentence of death for the slaying of a Ferdinand, Idaho, store owner.

The convicted man was William Behler of Grangeville, Idaho. He testified he had lived in a forest hut near Ferdinand for three months, with nothing for food but wheat stolen from a neighbor. He said he broke into the store owned by John Gilberts when he was driven to desperation by hunger.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

When a soldier or a sailor is low in spirits there is nothing that will cheer him up as much as a letter from home, so the War and Navy Departments have devised a method for getting "the word" to its fighting men with the greatest dispatch. This is the microfilm method of transmitting letters, known to all of us as V-mail.

Any news from home is bound to please our soldiers and our sailors but the news they want to have most is the news from our production front and news that we are winning our fight against inflation by our savings and investment in War Bonds. U. S. Treasury Department

Ice In Life Belts
Standard equipment on most ships of the United Nations are inflated life belts—inflated with carbon dioxide gas. This is the same gas that carbonates beverages and it is known in its solid form as "dry ice."

Tree Halts Erosion
The black locust is an excellent tree for planting to prevent soil erosion on land too hilly or stony for crops.

Malaria Scourge
Noted as early as the time of Hippocrates (460-370 B. C.), malaria has remained a scourge in war and peace, although its cure was aided by the extensive development of quinine after 1830 and its prevention furthered by the discovery of its cause: the anopheles mosquito, in 1894.

School Lunches
A school lunch program for Utah school pupils will be financed by proceeds of a 4 per cent tax on distilled liquors and wines, levied by the state legislature recently.

Hidden Strength
We all have a tremendous amount of latent capacity, as indicated by our ability to live a very strenuous life under such emergency situations as shipwreck, bombing, etc.

Sugar Beet High for Acre Income

On favorable locations, sugar beet returns per acre in Michigan promise the highest acre income of any field crop except potatoes in 1943, prophesies H. C. Rather, head of the Michigan State College farm crops department.

He uses this prospect to build optimism for a perpetuation of the sugar beet industry in the state, since unfavorable spring weather reduced total acreage for 1943 to a point where only a portion of the sugar beet factories will obtain volume to operate this fall.

In the previous war years of 1916 and 1917 the harvested acreages were disappointing, too. Rather points out. In 1916, for instance, beets yielded only 5 1/2 tons an acre. But in 1918 the acreage was back to 115,000 and in 1920 and 1921 went up to 150,000 acres.

In 1929 the crop hit an extreme low of 54,000 planted acres with 52,000 harvested, but two and three years later in 1931 and 1932 the state average yield was 10 tons and the depression year of 1933 saw 167,000 acres planted and yielding one of the highest tonnage on record.

So those who fear the Michigan sugar beet industry appears about ready for pallbearers should look at the record, according to Professor Rather.

"There should be an increase in beet acreage in 1944. Some fields intended for beets or grain in 1943 but not planted, have ideal soil for sugar beets. Many of these fields can be plowed in August and September. Part of this preparation for next year will thus be out of the way before the rush of fall harvest. Seedbed preparation next spring on fall plowed land can be completed if the weather is anywhere near normal in 1944."

Happenings in Thumb Towns and Villages

The Imlay City council has passed an ordinance effective Sept. 7 which makes it unlawful to sell alcoholic beverages in that village on Sundays and Christmas Day.

Wm. A. Engel, editor of the Minden City Herald, published his last edition of that paper last week. He has entered Uncle Sam's armed service.

Over 200 automobile owners had to appear in one day recently before federal officials in the Sandusky Post Office to tell why they had not secured their five dollar used auto stamp required by the Department of Internal Revenue. In most instances, the person who had not bought his stamp was required to purchase it and pay a fine of $5 for failure to comply with the law.

The Bad Axe city council has voted to return to central war time, effective at 12:01 Monday morning, Sept. 6. The chief reason for the decision is the opening of school the following Wednesday.

School census in Sanilac County decreased 652 in the past year. The 1943 total is 8,413 as compared with 9,065 in 1942. Last year patrons of 10 rural schools voted to close their schools and transport the students to other schools. This year five more rural centers of education will be closed—Cash School in Watertown Township, Foster School in Lamotte Township, Berkshire School in Custer Township, McConnell School in Greenleaf Township and Red Starr School in Flynn Township. In most instances the schools that voted to close have made preparations to transport the pupils by bus to village schools or to some nearby rural school.

Friends Honor Crittenden Brothers

There was a happy gathering at Palmer Park, Detroit, on Sunday, August 22, when about 30 friends and relatives met in honor of Frank and Fred Crittenden of Kelso, Washington. The weather was ideal and a bounteous dinner was served. The afternoon was spent in visiting and recalling incidents of bygone days.

Besides the Crittenden boys, those who were present were David McCracken, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman and son, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Patch and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Patch and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Boughten and Mack Wentworth, all of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Patch and Foster Van Blaricom of Highland Park; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Patch, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Barber of Hazel Park; Mr. and Mrs. Zeno Crittenden of Ferndale; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van Blaricom of Pontiac.

In remembrance of Leonard Patch's birthday, which came on the following day, Aug. 23, Mrs. Zeno Crittenden brought a beautiful birthday cake which was much admired and enjoyed by all. It was learned that two others in the party, Mack Wentworth and Mrs. John Hoffman, each had a birthday falling on the same date.

Frank and Fred Crittenden lived in their boyhood days on a farm, two miles east of Deford, now owned by John Pringle. Frank has been in the West over 40 years and Fred nearly 30 years.

They have visited in Detroit, Ferndale, and the Deford community for the past three weeks and plan to return to Washington this week.

HAVE WE DONE ALL WE CAN DO?

We sing of Johnny's Zeeros
And others who've answered the call.
There are many, many heroes.
We're proud of them, one and all.
Today let us pay tribute to one
Who expects to soon go back
To far-off foggy Attu
Where he aided in that great attack.
Three wounded midst falling comrades
He continued to do his part.
For gallantry in the service
There he won the purple heart.
Twenty-three grim days of furious fighting.
When the smoke had cleared away,
Old Glory waved o'er Attu,
Pray God so will it stay.
That tale's recovery was essential.
Being one of the stepping stones
From the Kurils through the Aleutians,
Thence onward to our homes.
Stop and think what are we doing.
Have we done all we can do?
What we've endured seems very little
When we think of bleak Attu.
Let's do our best here on the home front
And never fail to pray
For the defenders of our nation
Just such lads as Norman Gray.

DEATHS

Harry Tiller Died Aug. 25.

From Deford Correspondent.
Harry Tiller, 68, passed away Wednesday at 7:45 a. m., following a heart attack at the home of James Greenleaf in Deford.

Mr. Tiller was born Sept. 4, 1874, at Thamesville, Ontario. After coming to Caro, he married Zulah Bilzer of that town, who passed away in 1936. They lived for several years in Caro, later going to Millington where he has resided for the last 31 years. He was retired from the Michigan Central Railroad after 46 years of service.

Mr. Tiller was a past master of Millington Lodge No. 470, F. & A. M., past patron of Millington Chapter No. 416, O. E. S., and a member of Car Chapter No. 96, R. A. M.

Surviving are his son, Harold of Flushing; four sisters, Mrs. Orion Bunn and Miss Marie Tiller of Saginaw, Mrs. A. A. Cook of Gaylord, and Mrs. Alice Miller of Brockville, Ont.; and three granddaughters.

Funeral services will be held Sunday, Aug. 29, at 2:00 p. m. in the Millington Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Millington Lodge No. 470, F. & A. M. Burial will be in Caro cemetery.

Iron With Grain
Always iron with the grain of the material, when ironing bias-cut pieces; this will avoid stretching the fabric out of shape.

Prices Rise 400 Per Cent
In 1940, retail food prices increased 400 per cent in Chungking, China's capital, leading to food control measures by the Chinese government.

Pectin Output Doubled
Pectin, used by home jelly and jam makers, has doubled in output. It is also used by the confection, baking, and food dehydration industries, and in certain medicines.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle McLachlan and little son were guests of Mr. McLachlan's grandmother, Mrs. George Kirtan, in Cass City last Thursday and of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex McLachlan, in Uby the greater part of a week. Mr. McLachlan is in training at Great Lakes, Ill., and Mrs. McLachlan and baby are living in Pontiac. A group of Carlyle's Navy "buddies" clubbed together and purchased a $100 war bond for Baby McLachlan.

Louis Jerome O'Connor, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis P. O'Connor, Cass City, is getting special training for the important job of keeping the Navy's fighting flyers in the air. He has been enrolled in the Naval Training School for aviation machinist's mates, located at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Navy Pier, Chicago, Ill. Successful completion of this course makes him eligible for advancement to a third class petty officer. Then he will be assigned to active duty at sea, or to some naval air base.

—V—
Dagmar Martinek, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martinek, R. F. D. 2, Gagetown, has enlisted in the Women's Reserve of the Navy and will soon go through recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training School, Bronx, New York. Upon completion of the recruit or boot training, the new WAVES are sent to naval shore stations for active duty or else they are sent to one of the many WAVES schools located at leading universities, naval hospitals, and air bases for specialized training. Over 60 different types of duty have been made available to women reservists, including radio operators, aviation ground crew members, control tower watchers, hospital technicians, mechanics, stenographers, parachute riggers, photographers.

"I get your paper every week on Saturday and it surely is the next thing to being home," writes Navy Air Cadet "Bud" Sickler to the Chronicle from Delaware, Ohio. "At least I find out a little that's going on. I look forward to it although I don't have time to read it all on Saturday, but I usually find time before I get the next one. Last week I had extended leave and went to Detroit. My sister from Detroit, Bob Tracy from Cass City and Miss Carolyn McBride and Miss Shirley Wakefield of Elkton met me there. I didn't have time to go home but hope to in a month. I like it very much here but the academic part is really hard. Would like to hear from any of my friends and will try to answer. Surely appreciate your sending the paper promptly."

Sgt. Arthur F. Spencer wrote his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Spencer, of Cass City as follows, under date of Aug. 6:
"We are in Australia now and it is quite a pleasant land. The people are kind and friendly so it doesn't seem quite like a foreign country. Some of their customs are different from our own though. Traffic keeps to the left of the road instead of to the right. The automobiles have the steering wheels on the right hand side. The money is in pounds and shillings instead of dollars and cents as our own is.
"Food prices at the restaurants are a good deal lower than at home. One can get a good dinner for about half of what it would cost in Michigan.
"The animal life is different too. There are kangaroos here and I have seen a few of them. A few days ago I saw two baby kangaroos in the woods. They are cute little things and can run very swiftly. The rock python snake gets to be well over 15 feet in length when fully grown. There are a few of them about. The guiana is here too. They are just a huge lizard and grow to a good three feet not counting the tail. Some of the boys killed one a while back. Flies and bugs are plentiful too. The Australians call flies 'wogs'.
"Life here is rather informal. We go about with practically nothing on except our short pants. It is supposed to be the winter season here now and it is pretty warm. I am acquiring a beautiful chocolate brown tan. The flies and mosquitoes aren't very bothersome yet, but they do get thick during the summer.
"I live in a tent with five other chaps. They are splendid fellows and we have a good bit of fun. The past several days we have been remodeling the tent and making it larger. Have lots of room in it now, besides it is cooler too. We built a fireplace out in front to heat water for laundry and also make coffee or tea if we want to. There is a good swimming hole in the river which isn't far away. We go in quite often. Nice sandy bottom and all.

"Write me a letter whenever you can. Am always glad to get news from home."

Miss Arlene Ritter and Ed Kudzia Wed

Miss Arlene Ritter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ritter of Bad Axe, and Mr. Ed Kudzia of Detroit were married Saturday, Aug. 21. The wedding took place at 11:00 a. m.

As far back as biblical days, the tax collector was an unpopular person.

Today you don't see the tax collector but you know who writes the tax laws and the folks who do (congress) lead a most unhappy life, especially in an election year such as we are approaching.

The complicated problem they face can be simply stated—think it over and figure out what you would do if you had to write a tax law. The problem is this: how to collect the most dollars and lose the least votes.

Soak the rich? Well, they have the money and it hurts them the least, but unfortunately there are not enough of them to soak. It is too bad because they are so few in number that their votes don't matter so much. (Only 46,949 people or approximately one eight-hundredth of those with incomes earn over $10,000 a year.)

Tax the rest? That will bring in the biggest total but they are the ones with the votes.

The President says we need 106 billion dollars to run the war this year. The treasury says that out of every dollar collected, 90 cents goes to pay the war bills.

So there have been a number of schemes concocted which are aimed at getting the nervous dollars, the ones most likely to create inflation. Presumably they are the dollars that belong to the people who are now getting a lot more money than they did before the war. It would be just to take the "excess profits" to pay for the war especially because the people who are getting a lot more than they are used to are the ones who spend most freely.

So compulsory savings has been suggested. That is, making Uncle Sam collect a part of everybody's income, which would be returned after the war. Then there is a scheme to tax spending. In other words, tax the dollars which are spent on extras, dollars that get back into circulation and push up the inflation spiral. Not the dollars that go into homes or life insurance or paying old debts, but the dollars that romp off for more clothes than you need to wear, more food and drink than you need to absorb, more gadgets than you ought to get along with in wartime.

Then there is another tax—the personal excess income tax.

That is a tax on the amount of money that you are receiving now that you weren't receiving before the war.

Lacking Popularity

None of these methods is popular. There is a sentimental objection to compulsory savings. It smacks, according to its opponents, too much of totalitarianism, of an interference with the individual's personal habits. The President is opposed to it—and his wife agrees with him—the treasury is opposed to it.

The spending tax is said to be too complicated and likewise appears to be unpopular with the treasury.

Then there is this personal excess income tax of which you will soon be hearing more. The chief objection to that tax seems to be that it is too hard to work out; that it is too hard to make it just and fair. Even the Nazis who tried it gave it up after about a year's trial.

When the personal excess income tax comes up, you will hear many arguments against it. Like many of these other "unorthodox" methods, it requires the establishment of what is called a "base period" to establish a comparison. That is, some period of time during which the amount earned by the individual is taken as a base. Then what he is making now is compared with that "base" and the difference taxed. But that is a pretty hard thing to work out because so many adjustments would have to be made for special cases that the government would never be able to examine each case and pass on it fairly.

Take the young doctor. The year before the war, he may have been graduated from medical school. Probably he had little or no income then. Then he begins to practice and in wartime, doctors are in demand. He may have made a fair income this year. Would it be fair to tax the "excess" if it were the difference between this year's earnings and the "base period" when he was earning nothing at all?

Too Many Inequities

Then there are many men who are getting more money now because they work longer hours or have received just and deserved promotions—all these things immediately come into the picture when you begin to straighten out the inequities, when you really try to tax a just percentage of a man's income.

And so the predictions which are being made in Washington now are that the next tax bill will be a pretty "orthodox" affair, it will simply have about the same kind of exemptions, a little higher percentage tax, and will be rushed through at the last minute after as many members of congress have objected to the clauses which they think will be unpopular with their constituents. The government needs the money and needs it quickly. The people don't want to be taxed any more than can be helped and the congressmen will lean over backwards trying to please the people.

Meanwhile, the treasury tells us that most of the money which is being earned due to the great increase in production caused by the war is going to people whose incomes are less than $5,000 a year—seven-eighths of it. So at least seven-eighths of the taxes ought to come from that group.

Washington, D. C.

ISOLATIONIST CUPID

The nuptial rumor that the Chicago Tribune's Col. Robert R. McCormick was going to wed Mrs. Helen Essary, widow of the Baltimore Sun correspondent, was told to the President recently by one of his aides.

Both Colonel McCormick and Mrs. Essary are ardent isolationists and vigorous critics of the administration. In fact the colonel is considered the leading isolationist of the Midwest, if not the nation, while the Widow Essary, writing in the Washington Times-Herald, is probably the leading lady isolationist in the nation's capital.

So the President received word of this isolationist romance with considerable interest.

"I wonder," he mused, "what their progeny will be like."

Note—Later, Mrs. Essary heard about the President's remark and telephoned one of the White House aides to find out precisely what had been said. She did not comment as to whether the rumor of matrimony were true or untrue, but she showed great feminine curiosity regarding the President's comment.

DAY VS. NIGHT BOMBING

When Churchill and Roosevelt were in Casablanca, the British prime minister had a friendly argument with U. S. air generals regarding the feasibility of daylight bombing. Churchill was against it, arguing that the British system of night bombing was much safer, did more damage to the enemy.

However, latest figures just received by the war department show that Gen. Ira Eaker was right in sticking to day bombing. These figures show that U. S. bombers have knocked out Nazi fighter planes at a rate ten times greater than the British.

Here are the figures: In July U. S. airmen destroyed 500 Axis planes, lost 108 bombers of their own. In other words we knocked out five times as many planes as we lost.

In the same months, the British knocked out 129 enemy planes, but lost 258 of their own. In other words, the British lost two planes for every one they knocked out.

The British were operating at night when they could not see the enemy so well, but also when the enemy could not see them. American planes, operating in the daylight, could better concentrate on enemy fighter planes, but also were better targets for the enemy.

INFLATION REMEDY

The President has a non-inflationary solution to organized labor's demands for wage increases to meet higher living costs: namely, non-negotiable bonds, payable after the war.

Roosevelt revealed this secret during a confidential talk with R. J. Thomas, president of the United Auto Workers union, on price roll-backs, strikes and the War Labor Board's Little Steel formula. Here is the summary of his views:

Prices. Roosevelt stated that he would make a vigorous attempt to roll back prices. He told Thomas that he would prefer that congress provide the money, but that, failing this, he would use either RFC or Commodity Credit corporation funds to restore the following food prices to their September, 1942, normal: Meat, canned goods, potatoes, milk and milk products.

It would be too difficult, the President said, to attempt a rollback of clothing and personal services. He pointed out that rents already have been rolled back to March, 1941.

Little Steel Formula. Roosevelt frankly stated that he was not enthusiastic about any arbitrary ceiling on wages—15 per cent above those prevailing in January, 1941. However, he considered the Little Steel formula the best brake on wage inflation so far proposed.

Instead, the President suggested that war workers would be much better off, and that the present wage stalemate between labor unions and the WLB could be broken, if workmen agreed to accept non-negotiable bonds, payable after the war, in lieu of wage increases.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Manhattan Banker Jimmy Warburg was not only the mysterious "John Duffee," spanked by the President for calling Victor Emmanuel the "moronic little king," but he also was the fictitious "Wallace Herick." Warburg has so dominated OWI's foreign broadcasts that some people call it the "Office of Warburg Information."

INSIDE EUROPE

Swiss Minister Charles Brugmann, brother-in-law of Henry Wallace, is probably the only man in the United States who has recently passed through Germany.

He not only visited Germany, but also France and Spain. In France he found the people downcast and downhearted. German soldiers on the streets of Paris went out of their way to be polite to the French people, even got off the sidewalks if necessary in deference to a Frenchman.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Afternoon Tea

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

The spirit of your home is what you make it, war or no war. It is for you to give courage to your own people, and take courage from them.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

DON'T overlook the civilized old custom of afternoon tea, while you are trying to adapt yourself to the needs of this new wartime, busier world. Tea in the late afternoon is a tried and true soother of human nerves; for long generations it has served its purpose in the homes of gentle peoples. In fact, I once heard a scientist say that we were the only nation in the world that served only three meals in the twenty-four hours, and that we were none the better for the difference.

The spirit of your home is what you make it, war or no war. It is for you to give courage to your own people, and take courage from them. The crisis of a war CAN be a means of disuniting and disorganizing a family, or it can increase interest and affection in the home circle and bring its members closer together.

Nowadays Mother, Dad, sons and daughters are keeping odd hours, busy with their pursuits. Nowadays shopping is a nuisance, tiring and discouraging, and planning meals is too much for any one person to handle. Unless everyone understands the changed conditions, and will cooperate, there is household chaos. No meat in the markets, no maid in the kitchen, nobody's business to answer the telephone and put away the laundry—life has grown just a little too difficult and everyone is cross.

Afternoon Tea Solves Problem.

"I helped solve this problem with afternoon tea," writes Erna White of St. Louis.

"My family," her letter goes on, "consists of six members, all of different ages and occupations. My daughter Jean, 27, works in a munitions plant from midnight to eight. Her daughter Sonia, six, goes to school. Doretta, my son's young wife, is with us, expecting a baby. Both son and son-in-law get home occasionally from their respective services for leave. Also there is my younger son, 15, in high school, my husband and myself. My husband works from nine to five in a department store; little Frank, who is six feet two, has a magazine route, and takes main charge of one of the finest little victory gardens you ever saw."

"Some months ago I realized that we were gradually growing uncomfortable at home, and I sat down and faced the situation squarely. The trouble was that we weren't ORGANIZED."

"Well, I began with Jean, who gets home oily, tired, hungry, just as we others are sitting down to breakfast. I persuaded her, instead of dropping wearily into a chair and hurrying her meal, to go upstairs, take a hot bath, get into nightgown and wrapper and come down again. Her room was always ready and darkened, with the bed turned down, and she slept, after breakfast, until one or two o'clock."

Busy Day in White Home.

"Young Frank is instructed to air his room and hang up his things; Doretta, my son's wife, and I get Sonia and Frank off to school with their lunches, and put the bedrooms into perfect order. Then we descend to the kitchen and dining room and start on breakfast dishes and meal planning. We find that to have the upstairs rooms in order is more restful than leaving them until the kitchen work is done. Often I can lie flat for an hour before going to the hospital at 12. I get home at six;

ORGANIZATION ON THE HOME FRONT

Conflicting hours which bring members of the family home at different times, house-keeping tasks not finished because mother is at war work, and the general restlessness caused by a war—these and other factors can easily cause discord within a family unless they are overcome by intelligent organization. The unity of all family members in an effort to keep up morale is necessary in these days. This week a mother relates how she got her family running smoothly despite wartime problems and how afternoon tea has played a big part in her planning.

as do both Franks; Sonia and the girls have set the table nicely and perhaps started supper. But we have tea first and dine at eight.

"Tea in this case doesn't always mean real tea; it means 'light refreshment.' Orange or tomato juice, fruit, a cup of jellied or hot soup according to the season, a plate of sandwiches or cookies with milk, crackers and cocoa on a bitter cold afternoon—these are set out on the sitting room table, and we all sit down and rest for half an hour, nibbling, drinking and chatting. Then everyone scatters to freshen up, and an hour later we all dine together."

"Other rules are the placing of things for the cleaner on the hall table on a certain morning, or else they simply don't go. Nobody has to hunt up Doretta's sweater or Frank's white trousers. Young Frank must do his homework between seven and eight, little Sonia sweeps the steps and sidewalks every morning of her life. And every night, at ten, we listen to radio or recorded music, and catch up on mending. This last was hard to establish. Everyone was sleepy, stupid, lazily busy with books or card games. But I insisted, and now everyone looks forward to this peaceful closing hour, when buttons and tapes are replaced, rips in sheets and hanging hems are put in order, and the precious stockings are darned. There is something domestic and reassuring about women sewing and talking together under the evening lamps, and the men like it as much as we do. The kitchen is quiet and dark, the dining table set for breakfast, the fresh vegetables stored in a cool laundry tub, letters from the absent sons are cheerful, and the approaching arrival of a new little member of the family keeps our thoughts on the happier future."

Confusion Under Earlier Plans.

"A year ago nerves were beginning to crack. Housework was everyone's job and nobody's job. Dust and dishes were everywhere; clean clothes weren't put away; dirty clothes didn't get to the laundry. Doretta and Jean and I floundered helplessly in the accumulating disorder."

"Sonia loitered about 'to see Mummy' until she was late for school, and big Frank and I came home so tired and ravenous that dinner made us feel wakeful and uncomfortable half the night. Our afternoon tea solves this problem. It is a break between the weariness of the day and the dinner and evening hours, and we consider it a great innovation. Anyway," the letter concludes, "things are running very smoothly in our house now, and as I consulted you a year ago about my troubles it seems only fair to let you know that they have disappeared."

How to STOP FUSE TROUBLE

before it happens!

It's no fun sitting in the dark simply because a blown fuse has plunged your house into a black-out. Most fuse trouble can be stopped before it happens by observing a few simple precautions.

- (1) Frayed lamp cords and extension cords are often responsible for short circuits. Such frayed cords are dangerous. Have them repaired BEFORE they cause trouble. (Don't loop cords over a nail. Don't kink cords or tie them in knots. Don't run cord through a door jamb or under rugs.)
- (2) Never put an electric appliance in water. Never poke at the element of your electric toaster (or any other appliance) with a fork or sharp tool, whether turned on or off.
- (3) Don't connect too many appliances and extra lamps on one circuit. (4) Be careful not to overload your washer, or feed too many pieces of clothing through the wringer at one time. The same is true of your ironer.
- (5) Disconnect appliances by pulling on the plug—never jerk out the cord. Do not let cords come in contact with water, grease or acids.
- (6) If a faulty lamp or appliance burns out a fuse, disconnect it at once—and don't use again until it has been repaired. The Detroit Edison Company.

Electricity is not rationed. But its production requires coal and railroad transportation. Don't waste it!

Quality Tests
Good seed may add 2 per cent to victory garden costs, but it will often produce up to 100 per cent increase in total yield.

Chemicals for War
The same chemicals that go into the production of films also go into the manufacture of munitions.

Clean With Cloth
A wooden bowl should not be put down into water. To clean, wipe with a damp cloth and dry thoroughly.

COSTLY CHATTER

With hardly a pause for breath, the annoyed lady was telling her husband exactly what she thought of him. Then suddenly she realized he had never uttered a word. "Well, haven't you anything to say?" she snapped angrily.

Hubby, who was a postal official, looked up with an interested smile. "I was thinking, my dear, that if you'd sent all that by telegram it would have cost you nearly five dollars."

Correct

Teacher—If I gave you two rabbits and then another two, how many would you have?
Tommy—Eleven.

Teacher—Tommy, two and two don't equal eleven!
Tommy—But, teacher, I have seven rabbits at home.

Twins Apart

Boy—Half fare please.
Conductor—Just yesterday you told me you were ten. It'll have to be full price.

Boy—That must have been my twin brother!

WILLING TO OBLIGE

Warden—Your work has been very unsatisfactory.
Convict—Well, if it doesn't satisfy you, I'm quite willing to leave.

Manner of Speaking

First Prof—There's no limit to space.
Second—No limit at all?
First—Well, practically none.
Second—That's better. That's the way I like to hear you talk—conservatively.

Internal Remedy

Joe—My grandfather was bald-headed for a great many years. But every hair tonic he tried just gave him a stomach-ache.
Jake—Maybe he used the tonic wrong.

Different Location

Bill—If you want to remember something, tie a string around your finger.
Will—If you want to forget something, tie a rope around your neck!

Practically???

Harry—I wouldn't want to be an undertaker.
Mary—Why not?
Harry—There's practically no repeat business.

Real Improvement

Jones—You complained about having spots before your eyes. Did the glasses you bought help much?
Smith—Help? Sure, now I can see the spots much better.

Round Trip Ticket

Bill—I don't mind your reading a travel book to save your vacation money. But why read it backwards?
Will—I'm on my return trip.

Repent at Leisure

Mary—Weren't they married in an awful hurry?
Harry—Yeh, each was afraid the other would back out at the last moment.

You Too, Brother

Gluck—Tell them all you know, brother. It won't take very long.
Chuck—I'll tell them all we both know. It won't take any longer.

WE ALL KNOW, WILLIE

Mother—What do you mean by thumbing your nose at those little boys?
Willie—Don't worry, Mother, they know what I mean!

The Best Part!

Hobo, Pete—Now let's make up our minds how we're going to split this chicken among us three. Let's toss a coin.
Sam—Okay! Head!
Ike—Tails!
Hobo, Pete—Allright. I'll take what's left.

Just for Pm

Max—Give me a sentence with the word "vermin."
Herman—Easy. Before I go fishin', I go vermin.

Every Michigan town has a Charley Bell.

But only Crystal Falls, once a prosperous iron mining center, has Charley Bell, one-armed ex-lumberjack, town photographer, fluent raconteur and aristocrat of the outdoors.

We mention Charley because the blueberries are abundant on the plains from Ironwood to Sault Ste. Marie; because millions of quarts of the luscious berries are awaiting in vain for pickers this summer; and because my thrifty helpmate, mindful of war needs for food, decided suddenly to can blueberries on an outdoor oven at Runkle Park by a small lake at Crystal Falls where we stayed a few days.

"Charley Bell is your man," said Tom Conlin, editor of the Diamond Drill. And so we engaged him for the job.

"How many quarts of blueberries do you want?" asked Charley.

We surmised, "About 20 quarts," thinking of his one arm.

"Hardly worth my while," replied Charley with dignity. He is a good six feet tall, with an Englishman's chin and nose. "I can pick easily 35 quarts. My good wife and I have 250 quarts of berries in our basement now."

I gulped, first in amazement, then in doubt, and finally nodded acceptance to his bid.

"I was just planning to do some fishing," added Charley, as he glanced at the ground beneath the tomato vines in his small victory garden. "Worms are hard to get with a flashlight. Kindly survey these tomato vines. They'll grow at least 12 feet high before summer is over. Already five feet off the ground, and growing a foot a week."

Charley stood with pride before his garden triumph. Even prospective 12-foot tomato vines merit a visitor's admiration.

We inquired about the delicate matter of using a ladder to pick the tomatoes, but Charley was courageous to the degree of solemnity and never simulated a smile. So we changed the subject to fish bait.

"Ah, yes, the piscatorial art," quoth Charley. "I have been catching a mess of the finny denizens almost daily. Rely exclusively on the lure of a brown and red bucktail, although the daveled fish has its good merits and the June bug is preferred by others, if you know what I mean."

We fathomed clumsily that Charley had been fishing, and so let it go.

The more we thought about Charley Bell, the more we concluded that the risk was too great. And so the next afternoon we organized our own assault on the blueberry plains near Lake Mary, led to the spot by Jimmy, the printer's devil, over a winding hump-back trail that finally brought us to a beaver-dam pool fed by springs from nearby hills.

The three of us picked 10 quarts in a few hours, and sampled a few quarts, trying to decide which was the more delectable, blueberries or huckleberries. I'm still not sure.

Over on an adjoining hill, a good half mile away, we detected the form of a berry-picker. He was picking berries with one arm. Sure enough, it was Charley.

Finally about four o'clock, we started for home.

That evening we went to Charley's home. "Ran into hard luck," started Charley. "I was getting along fine until my hound dog got thirsty and I took him to a spring for water. Then we encountered a cloud of mosquitoes. I waved my hat to chase 'em away, and a fish hook caught on my left ear. Had to leave early—twas at least three o'clock. The doctor broke two pickers before he extracted the hook."

We knew what the ending was going to be, and looked at the cartoon filled with blueberries. Charley read our mind.

"I regret exceedingly my inability to get 35 quarts, but you'll find 20 quarts or more there. If you don't find that many berries in the box, come and get your money back," he pronounced officially, like a judge from the bench.

When we made reference to the handicap of one arm, Charley reminiscenced. "That was a bitter cold night, 54 years ago, when I was lumber jacking out at camp twelve near Iron River. The temperature went down so fast my ears were frostbitten by the time I reached the shack. Before going to bed later that evening I happened to remember about a jug I had left at the doorstep outside. I opened the door and stuck my right arm out to get the jug. It's hard to believe how cold it was that night. But my right arm was frozen to the elbow before I could bring it inside. The arm got black, swelled up like a sick pup, and so I took an axe and whacked it off. Yes, sir, never missed that arm much even while picking blueberries. It was a shame that fish hook had to snag in my ear."

Back in camp, we old the missus of Charley Bell. We also related the yarns of the 12-foot tomato vine, the red and brown bucktail bait, and the wintry night casualty of a half century ago.

The Upper Peninsula is a big region, and bigness is one of its natural virtues. Maybe the climate is responsible. Or perhaps the native hospitality of providing entertainment for innocent travelers is to blame.

Still skeptical, we surveyed Charley's box of blueberries. My wife started to count the quarts—curious to see whether Charley had been absent-minded also in the matter of his sale.

When a resident of the lower peninsula, even one from such a virtuous place as Lansing, comes to the north country with its almost unlimited forests and lakes and streams, he is impressed at the greatness of Michigan—its rich natural resources of iron, copper, oil, salt, forests and fish; its teaming industrial centers, unparalleled in the world for mass production skill, now making Norton bomb-sights and monster tanks and airplane engines and jeeps and many other weapons of war.

He recalls our rich fruit belt, and our bustling lake ports where steamships dock with cargoes of ore, coal and merchandise, and all the other characteristics of this peninsula state amid a great chain of inland seas.

And then you think of Charley Bell with his proclivity of exaggeration, and wonder if Charley is to blame amid this wonderland of God's riches.

Yes, let me say this for the record. When my wife had finished measuring the blueberries which Charley had picked, we found not 20 quarts as he had promised, but 21 quarts—a full, honest measure.

Sure, every Michigan town has a Charley Bell.

He is just a part of American home-town pride. He is a living reincarnation of Paul Bunyan whose yarns of the North still remind us of the greatness of Michigan.

Boy Plays With Lion

The seven-year-old son of Superintendent M. Flood of the Dublin zoo has made a pal of a year-old lion, which was born during a blitz in the Empire theater, in Leeds, England. So attached has the animal become to the boy that he is the only person it will allow near it. Daily the boy romps with it on the lawn of the Dublin Zoological gardens, the pair rolling about playfully on the grass. The fun over, the lion meekly follows the boy back to its cage.

WILLIAM LYON PHELPS DIED ON SATURDAY

lectures and writing.

"The passing of Dr. Phelps brings you to my mind especially, for I realize what a sorrow his going will be to you and Mr. Knapp. Dr. Phelps was so associated with your lives, and his marvelous prestige throughout the world, gave such a radiant glow to his friendship, that you will forever miss him in the physical.

"Although, a friendship which has its roots way back when, and which is so indicative of abiding faith and concern, leaves something which is indelible, regardless of the physical. I feel that this is especially so of Dr. Phelps. His sense of values discovered and held the worth-while, and he made himself an integral part of the lives he touched.

"Perhaps it was this last quality which made him so outstanding at Yale. He will live through thousands of young men who are now out doing the work of the world, whatever it may be, richer and better because of the lectures they listened to, given and enriched by the personality of Dr. Phelps. Many professors are learned in literature, many are deep thinkers, many are liked, but that marvelous personality had for each individual the personal touch which was distinguishing, and which added an ingredient of value to the list of university materials, out of which merge (and always will) the man, ready to contact the giants along the pathway, ready to be our leaders.

"Dr. Phelps' sense of democracy was, to me, very outstanding. I think he knew no social barriers, or, if he did, he ignored them. He judged men by their individual qualities, and acted accordingly.

"It is too bad he has gone... he was not so old, but he had lived in the lifting of horizons from one to another; he had, doubtless, run the gamut of human experience; human emotions were to him parts of a puzzle, which, put together, made some men great, some men small. . . . Would that we could catch a vision of his great mind, always flowing upward toward higher ideals . . . capable of being interested in the trifles, as well as the events of life. He could appreciate the rare qualities of mind of the student, yet he found the innate fineness of the man without intellectual opportunity, something rare and beautiful.

"Dr. Phelps is another 'Beacon Light Beyond the Invisible.' That he has passed on to his Destiny, as God has willed it, we cannot doubt. That this 'Destiny' was his next step, we cannot doubt, either. We bow to the inevitable, and murmur not at the working out of the Will of the Master."

Use Pyrethrum

Farmers normally use about seven million pounds of pyrethrum as an insecticide.

already, it is not enough to secure victory; it will require more and more.

"Keep in mind that we are at war, and war costs fabulous amounts of money and it is up to us to supply that money."
