

Congressman J. P. Wolcott Gave Two Addresses Here

He Pointed Out Trend of the United States Towards Socialism.

Congressman Jesse P. Wolcott spoke to two audiences in Cass City Tuesday—at noon to members of the Rotary Club at the Baptist Church and in the evening to bank officers and directors of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac Counties, in the Presbyterian Church.

At both gatherings, he pointed out the trend of the United States towards socialism and placed the responsibility of the attempt to socialize America to those "in the saddle" at Washington.

At the Rotary meeting, he predicted that the session of Congress starting in two weeks would be a hectic one. He characterized the American Army and Navy as the best in the world with the greatest literacy and initiative and the best equipment. Industry has done a terrific job, he said, and agriculture, in spite of lack of implements and shortage of manpower, has accomplished more than its part. The crops this year will exceed those of any season in the nation's history, according to a report by the secretary of agriculture.

The collective judgment at Washington, the congressman said, is that the war effort is from four to six weeks ahead of the timetable. There is reasonable assurance that Italy will be out of the war by fall, and that two invasion fronts with pincer movement are probable, and that this, with the Russian front, will split Germany's defense into three units. We will probably knock out Germany by the autumn of 1944 and Japan may be able to hold out 6 to 12 months longer, with the war completely over by the fall of 1945.

At the bankers' meeting which followed a chicken dinner, Congressman Wolcott stressed what he termed the dangers of a socialized state and its peril to private enterprise in industry, medicine, and agriculture.

The proposed creation of an international bank for monetary

Mrs. B. H. McComb Dropped Dead in Her Home Saturday

Mrs. Betsy E. McComb, wife of Benjamin H. McComb, Tuscola County school commissioner, dropped dead at 9:30 p. m. Saturday while preparing the room formerly occupied by her son, Ensign Donald L. McComb, of Lincoln, Neb., whom she had expected would come home soon for a visit. ## Back the Attack With War Bonds Is Urged by Banker

Each Day Brings Greater Demand on the Home Front for Support.

The Series E War Bond, one of the bulwarks in the nation's fight against her enemies, represents the most extraordinary security ever offered to a people in the world's history.

"It pays both material and spiritual interest," says Frederick Pinney, local banker and a representative of the Cass City district on the county war bond sales committee. "It serves as a protecting device for men in battle. It provides an economic umbrella for the home front. It will be a factor for good in the life of this community as a whole and in your life as an individual for many many years to come."

"The Third War Loan provides another opportunity for every citizen in this community to appraise his or her personal contribution toward the winning of the war. No one can do too much. All of us can do too little."

"In the Second War Loan millions of Americans bought E bonds," says Mr. Pinney. "The records show that 22,700,000 $25 bonds and 4,600,000 $50 bonds were purchased by individuals. Although we are still a long way from the day when we can truthfully say 'The war is over,'"

Proclamation of Village President

Our government is asking Americans for $15,000,000,000 more in the 3rd War Loan to back the attack. Citizens of the Cass City Dist. will do their part in this tremendous task. All of us, no matter what walk of life we come from, are fully aware of the urgency of putting our full weight back of the invasion.

There is an intimate note back of the 3rd War Loan appeal: Back the Attack with War Bonds. From this community come many young Americans who are doing the attacking. We would not be worthy of them and their sacrifices if we did not lend every dollar possible to our government to keep the munitions of war flowing to our fighting men.

September 9, the date set for the start of the 3rd War Loan campaign, should be observed as another stepping stone toward V-day and the day when our boys come marching home.

I know I am echoing the feeling of everyone in the Cass City District when I ask that the flag be displayed over all municipal buildings on September 9. I urge a similar display over all private buildings and by all homes. When we look at the Stars and Stripes on September 9, I know that all of us will be stimulated to do our duty in backing up our sons and neighbors' sons who are fighting to keep Old Glory flying. I know this community-wide display of the Star-Spangled Banner will stir us anew to do our very best as individuals and as a community in the 3rd War Loan campaign to help subscribe and oversubscribe this home front objective.

W. L. MANN, Village President.

Sept. 12 was set by President Wilson as the date for registration for the army draft of all men in the United States between the ages of 18 and 45 inclusive, who have not already registered, or who are not now in military service. This is an extension of the 21-31 draft ages.

Sixteen more young men left Tuscola County this week to enter the service of Uncle Sam. This brings the total number of Tuscola County men in service to over 750. Seven hundred twenty-four have been inducted by the draft and of this number 82 were returned from the camps, leaving 642 in active service by draft. ### Pastured Lambs Need Attention

Sheep owners who plan to sell their lambs off pasture should be sure that normal weight gains are being made, warns E. L. Benton, animal husbandry extension specialist at Michigan State College.

Lambs in too many flocks fail to gain for various reasons such as lack of good feed, worms, ticks or lice. Such conditions can be overcome without much difficulty, states Mr. Benton. Lambs not now ready for market should be weaned, wormed, and turned on a clean pasture carrying a variety of grasses. One-half pound of oats or a mixture of farm grains each day will hasten the market date. The worm treatment had best be phenothiazine unless it is being provided in the salt about 1 to 10 or 14 this summer. The copper-nicotine drench should be used to aid in tapeworm control.

Dipping for ticks and lice should be done if not already completed. It can be poured over the animals if necessary after crowding them into a small space. Care should be taken that none of them drink any of the mixture.

Winter feed saved means labor saved on winter chores and harvest labor. Good fall pastures pay big on such a basis, according to Benton.

Wasps Since 1937 Save Peach Crop

An estimated 50,000 fragile wasplike insects released each year since 1937 are credited with halting the ravages of the Oriental fruit moth in Michigan peach orchards, according to Ray Huston, head of the Michigan State College entomology department.

Great alarm was spread in 1928 when peach growers first found the fruit moth in the state. The moth is unstoppable with sprays, as far as is known even today, yet peach production in the average year has doubled since the pest was first discovered.

The agricultural experiment station of the college began study of the pest in 1928 in an attempt to aid growers. A long series of different species of insects that attack the Oriental fruit moth larvae were shipped into the state in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

By 1937 it was evident the best of the parasite wasps was one known as Macrocentrus, which bears no common name. The wasp is about an inch long, thread-like and fragile in size and shape. Before the Oriental fruit moth came into the United States with the Japanese cherry trees planted in the Mall at Washington, D. C., the Macrocentrus preyed principally on the strawberry leaf roller.

According to Prof. Huston, since the parasite wasp has gone to work in Michigan on the Oriental pest, it rarely attacks its previous enemy most, the strawberry leaf roller.

Eastern laboratories under federal supervision increase the parasite wasps. The parasites are shipped by air express in small, ventilated moist cages, holding 200 parasites fed from a vial of sweetened water. Fruit growers release the wasps within 48 hours after the wasps are shipped.

Cut Hay Early
Tests reveal that growers can produce more proteins, at no additional expense, by cutting hay crops at an early stage of maturity, when they will yield more protein than the same crops cut at a later stage.

Keep Stairs Clean
Cellar stairs should be well made and have at least one firm handrail. They should be well lighted and clear of mops, buckets, boxes and brooms. Don't carry loads down stairs that are too heavy or too big, and don't permit members of your family to do so.

Don't Mix Furnishings
Don't mix woods and periods that are unrelated to each other; for instance, 18th Century dining chairs are completely out of harmony with a white-painted maple chest with gay peasant decoration.

You use all these WAR MATERIALS

Electricity is not rationed. But each time you turn on an electric light in your home, each time you plug in an electric appliance, you are using vital war materials. Electricity requires coal for its manufacture. Thousands of tons are burned every day in large Detroit Edison power plants—coal that is brought in by boat and by rail. Besides coal, large quantities of other materials are also needed—oil, for example. All of these represent precious manhours of labor.

There is no shortage of generating machinery in this area. But a saving of electricity means a saving of coal . . . and saving coal means releasing more transportation facilities for the job of carrying guns and oil and other war materials to our armed forces. Careful, reasonable use of electricity is a patriotic duty now—in store, office and home. Help conserve electricity by reducing your use. The Detroit Edison Company.

The people here in the South are very good to us northern boys. "I receive the paper every week and enjoy reading it very much."

LABOR DAY (September 6, 1943)

● In paying a heartfelt tribute to labor, America is all-inclusive. The farmer, the engineer, the clerk and the thousands of other war workers are playing vitally important roles in the winning of the war.

Without foods, wars could never be won. Despite the many handicaps resulting from war, the American farmer has redoubled his efforts to increase production.

Age is no handicap to many a war-time job. And thousands of mothers and grandmothers—in the factory, in the office and on the farm—are doing their part to insure complete victory.

The skill and ingenuity of American working men is a decisive factor in hastening an inevitable victory. The loud roar of our industry is now reaching its crescendo.

The housewife has an important job—and she is getting it done. Through volunteer work with civilian defense, Red Cross or community projects, she is contributing directly to the war effort.

Many youngsters with little or no previous training are stepping into jobs on farms and in factories. They are doing a man's work and are shouldering responsibilities beyond their years.

Women in Uniform
Nine out of ten unmarried British women between the ages of 19 and 45 are in the uniformed forces, munitions factories or essential war work.

Protect Casings
Shell casings are painted both inside and outside and bombs and other projectiles are painted to protect them from corrosion or other chemical deterioration.

Proclamation

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES

Proclamation

RECOGNIZING THE FACT that in carrying the war into enemy territory, we shall need greater amounts of money than any nation has ever asked from its citizens in all history, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do officially proclaim that on Thursday, the ninth of September, 1943, the Third War Loan shall be launched.

As Commander-in-Chief, I hereby invoke every citizen to give all possible aid and support to this Third War Loan drive, not only so that our financial goal may be reached, but to encourage and inspire those of our husbands and fathers and sons who are under fire on a dozen fronts all over the world. It is my earnest hope that every American will realize that in buying War Bonds in this Third War Loan he has an opportunity to express voluntarily and under the guidance of his conscience, the extent to which he will "back the attack."

The American people supported well the first and second War Loan drives and in fact did even more than was asked of them. Our need for money now is greater than ever, and will continue to grow until the very day that Victory is won; so we must ask far more sacrifice, far more cooperation than ever before.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington, this twenty-sixth day of July, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-three, and of the Independence of the [SEAL] United States of America the one hundred and sixty-eighth.

By the President:

CORDELL HULL
Secretary of State.

to the Huron Mountains where Ford has been spending his 1943 vacation.

Thanks to Henry Ford, a few remaining families of Pequaming and Alberta are smiling. Homes are being re-opened. Children will go to school again. And smoke will pour from the mill stacks.

The historic town of L'Anse, whose site was a campground 200 years ago for French explorers and missionaries, has two satellite villages—Pequaming and Alberta.

Alberta is better known to travelers, for it was created by Ford in 1936 amid a heavy hardwood forest 10 miles east of L'Anse as an industrial experiment. Those of you who motored in pre-war days over U. S. 41 between Marquette and L'Anse will remember your surprise and pleasure when you turned a curve in the scenic road and beheld a picturesque, modern community—white-painted sawmill, neat and trim cottages, a schoolhouse and firehouse, and all this with boulevard lights and fine drinking water and even sewage disposal.

We say "pre-war" days because one dark winter morning, after Pearl Harbor, an order arrived from Dearborn to cease operations. Overnight the town became deserted. Windows of the cottages were boarded up.

When we visited Pequaming the other day, men were cutting hay along the streets and on the lawns of unoccupied homes and the closed school. Pequaming is an Indian word for wooded peninsula, and such it actually is, a mushroom-like jutting of land, swept by breezes from Keweenaw Bay.

Henry Ford had been there the week before. Unaccompanied by company executives except for his personal chauffeur, the head of the industrial empire talked with the caretaker and a few of the remaining townspeople. Only 12 out of 74 dwellings were occupied.

He was told that the Pequaming school, which had been a source of considerable pride and satisfaction to him because of its unique rustic furniture, was only a shell of walls and floors. The rustic furniture had been sold to company executives from Iron Mountain and elsewhere.

Ford declined to enter the building, saying that he preferred to remember it as it was with the sound of children's voices.

Oscar Olson, his prize fiddler who plays for old-time square dances, was in L'Anse when the industrialist arrived unheralded from his Huron Mountain summer lodge where he spends August each year.

We met Olson at the steps of the village postoffice. He was smoking a pipe, stolidly. He spoke affectionately of the founder of Pequaming, Charles Hebard.

"Yes, I worked for Yarley Hebard," he said, referring to the English lumberman who laid out the community with wide streets and oak trees, like an English suburban town. "The gov'nor was mighty good to us. We allus had a job."

Olson related how the "gov'nor," who ruled the town benevolently like a feudal lord, provided rent-free homes and free water and light and would even "stake" a hard-pressed family with food from his general store until the mill resumed operations or logging work started again. Hebard erected the Union Church building, along Gothic lines, and he attended worship services with the mill hands, an informal friendliness which everyone liked and remembered.

Hebard's son carried on the work for a while, but in 1922 the Ford Motor Company located at L'Anse and the next year it acquired Pequaming along with approximately 500,000 acres of timber land in Baraga County. Big business had arrived.

For many years the Pequaming folk looked to "Governor" Hebard for security of employment. Then a big corporation, backed by multi-millions, became their employer. The workmen thought they had steady jobs for the remainder of their useful days. In old age a retired worker could always fish and trap and grow a few vegetables while enterprising, God-fearing sons and daughters kept the home fires burning.

The shingle-sided cottages resounded with laughter of children, and the modern school had its square dance music led by Oscar Olson, a "supervisor of music," thank you, who now composed his own fiddling numbers. The children delighted Henry Ford on many an occasion by their skill of intricate dance steps.

All this was changed when efficiency experts at Dearborn, influenced perhaps by a few heartless and ruthless executives, decided last year to close down Pequaming and Alberta. The workers could hardly believe the news, but they knew new things might be expected because of the war.

Veteran employees, who enjoyed high seniority rights, were transferred to L'Anse. Confusion was inevitable, but strangely enough, the Pequaming and Alberta families blamed "company politics" for their troubles and they clung to a strange and abiding faith in their former boss, Mr. Ford. Fiddling Oscar Olson, typical of these, said proudly that Ford had "asked" about him on his recent August visit. And the mill superintendent at Pequaming beamed with happiness as he told us how Ford had extended his hand for a friendly greeting. "I never thought I would shake hands with Henry Ford," he said.

The town newspaper editor, M. G. Menge of the L'Anse Sentinel, is merely "Bill" when Henry Ford of Dearborn comes to town. Henry is just that way to people whom he likes.

To the Swedes and Norwegians and Finns of Pequaming and Alberta, the fivver king is still their friend. After he visited Alberta, a town which was entirely his own creation, Ford instructed his new Upper Peninsula superintendent, Leo Gannon from Big Bay, to reopen the mill at once. Telegrams were sent that same day to families, some of them living in Detroit, urging them to return north. Pequaming is next for re-opening.

And when the families do return, as they will, of course, it will be solely because Henry Ford is a person of old-fashioned sentiment. He is a man of his word, and the Pequaming and Alberta workers know it.

DEFORD NEWS

Death of Mrs. Withey—

Mrs. Wallace Withey died at the home of her son, Wm. Patch, with whom she was residing, on Monday, Aug. 30, of a cerebral hemorrhage after one week's illness.

Emma Elizabeth Moshier was born near Sanbra, Ont., Jan. 3, 1866, and came with her parents to Michigan when two years of age. They settled near Novesta Corners where she lived the greater part of her life.

In 1885 she was united in marriage with Wm. Patch, who preceded her in death in 1921. To this union were born seven children, two of whom survive her—Mrs. J. L. Taylor of Royal Oak and William Patch of Decker. Besides these she leaves to mourn their loss two stepchildren, Leonard Patch of Highland Park and Mrs. Sam Gowan of Onaway, seven grandchildren and five great grandchildren, two brothers and five sisters.

In 1927 she was united in marriage with Wallace Withey of Cass City where they resided until Mr. Withey's death about eight months ago.

In her early youth she united with the Free Methodist Church of which she was a faithful member at the time of her death.

The remains were at the Munro Funeral Home until Tuesday afternoon when they were taken to the Patch home in Novesta and later to the Novesta Baptist Church for the services.

Rev. E. E. Gauss, the pastor of the Free Methodist Church of Wilmet, assisted by Rev. Leonard Bruder of the Novesta Baptist Church, conducted the funeral rites on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock in the Baptist Church at Novesta. ## BACK THE ATTACK WITH WAR BONDS IS URGED BY BANKER fully say, 'The war financing job is done,' we still have a right to feel proud of our past achievements. But in the Third War Loan we must think, not of $25 or $50 bonds, but in terms of at least an extra $100 bond in September.

"Just as our fighting men utilize every victory as a stepping stone to final triumph, we on the home front must use the various loan campaigns to march to a full mobilization of our financial resources for a final triumph for our military might and against the home front enemy—inflation.

"This war is ever changing. Every day brings new problems and greater demands upon the home front for support. It is practical reasoning for us at home to do our very best at this time when it is apparent to anyone that we have the Axis on the run.

"On 50 different fronts men from Tuscola County fight to end this terrible war as quickly as possible. Every day the war is prolonged the casualty lists grow longer. Every day of fighting means more American lives are lost. To shorten the war even by minutes will save lives, some of them possibly from this community. War Bonds are our vehicle for transporting our fighting strength as civilians to our men in uniform.

"The home front and the fighting fronts are indivisible. War Bonds are a practical link. They back the attack. They also provide a moral and mental lift for every fighting man. They tell the soldier, the sailor, the airman, the coast guardsmen and marine that you are ever beside them.

"Bankers were among the very first Americans to urge upon their fellow countrymen to invest in War Bonds. The Third War Loan gives them the privilege of offering this bit of advice:

"Back the attack with War Bonds."
