The dinner was in honor of the first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reagh, the fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Reagh and the birthday of Mrs.

Lloyd Reagh. At the suggestion of the president, Miss Alice Anthes, members of the Christian Endeavor Missionary Society of the Evangelical Church used the recreation hour at their meeting Monday evening to write letters to those of the society who are in the armed services, attending college or working in other towns and to a few former members. The letter-writing period followed a devotional service and business meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Battel, northeast of town. At the close of the evening, Mrs. Battel served refreshments to her guests.

Old War Heroes Serve Nation in Present Conflict

'Rick,' Donovan and York Take Leading Roles in Second World War.

While new American heroes are in the making in the steaming Jun gles of the Solomons, in the frozen wastes of the Arctic, on the burning sands of Tunisia and in the air over enslaved Europe, many of the heroes of World War I are busily engaged at the battle centers as well as the home front today.

Although 25 years older, these vet erans have once again answered the call of the country, some to don uniforms for active service, others to perform vital wartime civilian tasks.

Hero of one of the most stirring episodes of the present war in the Pacific was Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker who, flying on a secret mission for the army, was lost with his crew, and picked up on a life raft near Samoa after being tossed in the open sea for three weeks. One member of the crew died from the ordeal before the brave crew was rescued

Rickenbacker commanded the 94th Aerial Pursuit squadron in 1913, and fought his way through 26 air victories to become America's top ace in that war. For his exploits with the first AEF, Rickenbacker was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service

Patterson Directs Strategy. Robert P. Patterson, winner of the DSC for heroism in the last war, today plays a leading role in directing strategy as undersecretary of Another civilian who occupies a key position in this war is William J. Donovan, who directs American psychological warfare throughout the world. As commander of the famous "Fighting 69th" regiment in World War I, Donovan was known as "Wild Bill" for leading his troops into battles and his contempt for danger. Besides winning the Con-gressional Medal of Honor, Donovan also won the DSC and DSM for his many acts of bravery.

One of the busiest men on the civilian home front today is Harry M. Gambrel, 1942 national winner of the annual $1,000 given by Lewis S. Rosentiel, New York industrialist, as a part of the program of the Americanism Commission of the American Legion. Cited as the Legionnaire who performed the most outstanding community service last year, Gambrel was decorated in the last war with the Croix de Guerre and the Order of the Purple Heart for 'devotion to duty and heroic conduct under fire" at Verdun.

York Infantry Consultant. Best-known Yankee hero of the earlier war is Sergt. Alvin York, who one day led a series of attacks on machine-gun nests, and finally reof awards including the coveted Congressional Medal of Honor, is serving the U.S. army as consultant on infantry problems in training ground

Also acting in a similar consulting capacity with the army is Sam Woodfill, whom General Pershing called "America's greatest doughboy." Winner of the highest decorations of six nations, Woodfill's most spectacular act of valor was in single-handedly knocking out a series of German machine-gun nests that were holding up an Allied ad-

Just like their more famous comrades, millions of other Americans who donned the khaki in World War I are again in the service of the nation-some at the world's battle stations, others at the war council tables, and most of them doing essential civilian tasks on the home

More Debt-Free Homes

Seen in U.S. After War PHILADELPHIA.—There will be more debt-free homes in the United States at the end of the war than ever before in the nation's history, in the opinion of Newell J. Nessen, president of the Quaker City Federal Savings and Loan associa-

"Individuals today are not reacting in the same manner as they did in the last war," Nessen declared. "In 1917-18 heavy spending was the rule. Luxuries and nonessentials of all descriptions were purchased in large amounts.

"It was not unusual for a man to pay $10 or $15 for a silk shirt, but this time just the reverse is true. Instead of spending, people are say ing. They are saving in war bonds, in savings accounts, even hoarding —and they are paying off their mortgages." Nessen recalled that President Roosevelt urged that, as a curb against inflation, individuals make larger payments on mortgage principal and pay off the mortgage in shorter time. "It is doubtful whether the President or any home-financing institution anticipated the response which followed," the savings expert con-

"According to reports from various home financing groups, an unusually large number of mortgages have been paid in full this year. This number has been increasing steadily. In many other cases, substantial reductions have been made in the his back and legs. mortgage principal."

Flying Fortress Gunner Real Hero

Beats Off Foe, Douses Fire, Saves All On Board.

LONDON.-Credited by a Flying Fortress pilot with a heroism that, "by the will of God alone, did not cost him his life," Sergt. Maynard H. Smith of Cairo, Ill., was reported to be a likely candidate for the highest decoration that the government can award.

Sergeant Smith, a 32-year-old ballturret gunner, not only manned two gun stations to repel a pursuing Focke-Wulf 190 over Europe, but helped one of three crewmates to bail out, gave first aid to a wounded tail-gunner and virtually beat out with his hands a fire that ravaged the midsection and the tail of the battered plane.

The Fortress had participated in a raid on St. Nazaire and was heading home when a German plane got in a burst that caused an explosion in the middle of the plane. It wrecked the electrical controls and fired the radio room. The radio man and one waist gunner bailed out, but the other waist gunner got stuck halfway out the hatch.

Sergeant Smith pulled him back and helped him to a rear escape hatch. Then, with a sweater around his face to keep off the spreading flames, Sergeant Smith gave morphia to the badly wounded tail gun-

After that he fought off the German, using first one gun, then another, finally the fire got so bad that his own ammunition began exploding within the ship and Sergeant Smith had to throw the blazing wreckage out through the holes in the sides.

When all the extinguishers and water were gone, he used his hands to beat out the flames. Meanwhile. the pilot, Lieut. Lewis P. Johnson. a Kentuckian, brought the crippled ship in for a landing. Sergeant Smith had the fire just about under control as the wheels touched the ground.

Lieutenant Johnson said that Sergeant Smith's "complete self-sacrifice and utmost efficiency were responsible for the safe return of the aircraft and the lives of everyone

You'll Never Know' Tune Work of Colorado Convict

CANON CITY, COLO. -- Warden Roy Best of Colorado penitentiary said that contrary to the title's implications, the public should know the story behind the catchy tune, "You'll Never Know."

He said the popular piece was written behind the prison walls by No. 22339-Charles W. Forbes, 22year-old inmate who has about six months to go on a three-year term for automobile theft.

"He wrote both the words and the music." Warden Best disclosed. "and the advance payment and royalties are making him the richest inmate we have."

Taxicab Driver Catches Baby Tossed Out Window

BOSTON. — A baby girl — tossed from a fourth-story window of a flame-swept tenement-was caught by a taxicab driver on the street below during a fire that ended the lives of three of her family.

As the fire trapped the family on the top floor of the four-story brick building in Boston's North End, Mrs. Connie Sabbo, 35, dropped her 20-month-old daughter Ann into the arms of James Carrabis, 27, who had run from his-cab when he saw the structure in flames.

But Ann's elder brother, 14, and her grandfather, Şalvatore Infantino, 63, were burned to death, and her grandmother, who leaped from a fourth-story window, was killed. Ann's mother and two uncles also jumped and were severely injured.

Pinioned by Rock, Lives Six Days in Coyote Den

CODY, WYO.-Barney Roussan, a government trapper, was in a critical condition after being pinioned by fallen rock for six days and nights in a coyote den near Meeteetse.

Dr. R. C. Trueblood, who termed Roussan's ordeal "the most gruesome I've ever heard of," said the trapper had eaten from one to three coyote pups, raw, before the rescue, and had slashed his arm and a rib "trying to find an artery" after giving up hope of rescue.

Roussan, about 40, crawled into the den seeking coyote pups. He was trapped by a rock falling on you didn't know you used last month!

Thousands of tons of coal are burned in our large steam generating plants every day. Here nearly all the electricity for this area is produced.

And when you turn on an electric switch in your home, you are actually burning coal ... coal that has been transported by boat and by rail, coal that represents vital production and manpower. Coal and transportation are war materials. Electricity, too, is a war material. It should not be wasted.

There is no shortage of electricity in this area. Detroit Edison power plants have ample reserve generating capacity for the peak requirements of all war industry using our service. Insofar as one can be sure of anything in time of war, it will not be necessary to curtail our residential. commercial and industrial customers.

But careful reasonable use of electricity is patriotic—an important contribution to the war effort. The Detroit Edison Com-

Canadian, U. S. Colleges Offer Plan for Prosperity

Two Schools Offer Prescription for Post-War Depression in Pamphlet Entitled 'The Midcontinent and the Peace.'

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

Washington, D. C.

Out of the part of the world farthest from the fighting, literally and figuratively, has come an interesting international prescription for the cure of the world's post-war headache—the spell of depression that we have to be ready for.

The formula is summarized in a 43-page pamphlet that I wish everyone could read. The title is "The Midcontinent and the Peace." The cover is an earthy brown embellished with alternating rows of golden grain sheaves, fat porkers and trucks.

It is a report made jointly by the Universities of Minnesota and Manitoba. It has nothing to do with departments of state, it has no official status beyond the fact that the American and Canadian governors asked their respective state universities to do the job. It is a splendid down-to-brass-tacks example of the recognition of the common interests of two important areas lying on opposite sides of an international boundary line.

The gist of the report is this: I. Western Europe must arrange greatly to increase its imports of wheat, lard and pork after the war.

II. Canada and the United States must reorganize their automobileproducing industries so that a maximum employment in Canadian factories can be maintained; cost of autos be reduced to Canadian buyers and American car output in-

III. Agriculture in the prairie provinces of Canada and the central northwest United States must continue along the lines of agricultural specialization developed out of necessity during the war.

The Connection

Now, at first glance, the connection between these steps may not be evident, but the report makes the whole effort clear and also shows how the program can be carried out. There is nothing new or revolutionary in the methods discussed, nor in the reasoning concerning their results, but a striking assemblage of data gathered and arranged in such a manner that it offers what appears to be a logical program of action.

In the first place, the report shows how domestic economic policies (the ones I briefly summarized in the three points above) are, in fact, international policies. It demonstrates with figures and explanation "sound and strong internal economies in Canada and the United States" must have "resoundingly important effects on the external world.'

Examples offered to prove this include the figures which show how the rise and fall of demand in Canada and the United States affected other parts of the world up to and after the depression hit us in 1929.

In less than three decades, imports in the United States of ten different commodities increased from 300 to 1,700 million dollars worth. Take silk: the yearly average importation of silk bought by the United States from 1901-05 amounted to 45 million dollars. In 1929, it had jumped to 432 million dollars. But when the depression struck, it fell to 114 million dollars

The total imports of the ten commodities dropped from 1,718 mil-Ifon to 534 million dollars-and you can imagine what happened in the producing countries when these markets disappeared.

One interesting point brought out is that in this period of expanding by David Lawrence, which reported trade (both import and export) in which Canada and the United States shared, the MUTUAL interests of the two countries greatly IN-CREASED and their competitive interests declined.

Industry Predominant

The report shows how agriculture has ceased to be our greatest source of wealth, how industry has become pre-eminent and to maintain our agriculture, a healthy condition of industry must be maintained. The old statement is quoted: "Tell me the amount of factory payrolls and I will tell you the price of meat and butter."

The plans for our own agriculture

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, are fairly simple-maintenance of the same type of specialization now going on. The plan for Europe is more complicated but since the question of whether the people of western Europe eat at all for the next few years, depends largely on what Russia, the United States and the other grain producing countries do, these countries may be able to get western European countries to > do what we want. According to the Midcontinent planners, an arrangement should be made whereby western Europe for a period-perhaps 15 years-would absorb our surplus wheat, pork, lard and other farm products. Production of these products would be stopped in western Europe and resources saved would be put to efficient use. The producing countries would assist in reorganizing European agriculture to this changeover. The producing countries would also agree to reduce certain tariffs so that the Europeans can pay for the agricultural products they absorb with goods they can make. (Of course, there is the tough spot.)

> As for changeovers in agriculture. it is pointed out that they are not new. Minnesota was once the greatest wheat producing state in the country. That is no longer true. "Mixed farming" has greatly increased. Diversified farming rose in Denmark and improved the standard of her people-these changes come about automatically because the new type introduced pays better. Similar changes, it is implied, could be brought about by ukase, too.

Unfortunately, space does not permit a detailed review of this report but quite as important as its actual content are the forces which initiated it-in the first place, it brings to our consciousness the mutual interests of this country and our northern neighbor which are plain to any American familiar with Canada and her people but which many in both countries ignore. Again, it shows how groups in two separate countries can get together and work out steps mutually beneficial and likewise advantageous to the whole world. The most important thing of all, however, is the emphasis on the fact that domestic problems are frequently international problems.

Diary of a Broadcaster

Let me tell you of another crazy rumor story that I heard today. It people up and down this land are listening and believing it.

A reliable, otherwise hardheaded man told me that an acquaintance of his wife had a friend or relative who had a letter from her boy, a prisoner in Japan. The boy said that he was being well treated and then made a reference to his stamp collection.

He had none, so the remark got the people to thinking—they repeated it "then the FBI or somebody" took the letter, steamed off the stamp, and under it was written-

Well, before the man finished telling it, I said: "I know what was under it-They've cut my tongue out." How did I guess? Well, I heard that story a dozen times in the last World war. But to make sure, I made a few inquiries, simply to check the procedure. In the first place, prisoners of war don't use stamps. They can't write direct to their next of kin. The messages all are relayed through the International Red Cross anyhow.

Before we got into the last war, I was sitting on top of a Fifth avenue bus in New York, reading an article how the department of justice had run down a story to the effect that sweaters knitted for the Red Cross were sold to soldiers. The bus stopped-a Liberty Bond orator was making a speech-I listened. Hewas telling the same story that the department of justice had run down and found it had absolutely NO basis whatever. Remember this before you repeat these charming fantasies. Enlistment in the WACS, as fine a corps of American women as were ever gathered together, has been slowed down by a cheap and dirty story made out of whole cloth and passed from one drooling lascivious mouth

LEAKING CISTERN

Question: My new cistern is built of waterproof cement, reinforced, and is built into the basement. It without sand. It seems to leak and ed. It is satisfactory except for this. How can I make it tight?

Answer: It is very likely that the apparent leakage is actually condensation or sweating. The water in it is cold and chills the walls of the cistern to such an extent that there is condensation against it from the warm air of the cellar. Leave the cistern empty until the new concrete work is thoroughly dry and has come to the natural temperature of the air. Then enclose the whole thing with wood walls, which will keep the cellar air from contact with the concrete, and act as insulation. As an added precaution, give the outer surface of the cistern walls a coat of tar or asphalt to protect the wood against the effects of possible seepage.

Oil Stove Oven Question: I have a blue-steel oven that I use on my kerosene stove, and it is starting to rust. Can you tell me what to put on so it will not rust further?

Answer: Remove all rust by rubbing with fine steel wool and kerosene; then clean the surface by wiping with turpentine, and finish with a black stovepipe enamel. After the oven has been painted and the enamel has dried, heat up the oven to a temperature of about 300 degrees F. for 10 to 15 minutes; this will set the enamel and the smell of fresh paint will be driven off.

Smudgy spots of dirt collect over nailheads in wallboard during the winter, particularly on the ceiling. Researchers have found that the slight difference in temperature between the metal nailhead and the surrounding wallboard account for these deposits. The engineer is measuring these small differences with a complicated instrument.

Kitchen Cupboards

Question: My kitchen cupboards are painted with ivory enamel. It is impossible to keep them clean because of the children. I should like to have a light oak color. How should I do this?

Answer: Before going to the trouble of refinishing the cabinets, why not try waxing them? Wax would protect the surface from grease and dirt. If, however, you wish the color of oak, clean the cupboards and dull the gloss of the present finish by rubbing with fine sandpaper. Wipe off the dust with turpentine. Apply a coat of buff-colored flat paint, and when it is dry finish with a good quality light oak varnish stain.

Government Bulletins Question: What government publications are available on the starting of lawns, shrubs, etc.? Answer: Write to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Price List No. 72, "Publications of Interest to Suburbanites and Home Owners." This covers all of the subjects about which you inquire and many more. Eaby Carriage Hood Question: The hood of a baby car riage, which I bought at a very reasonable price, is cracked a little in the folds. Can you recommend a paint that I can use? Answer: Wash the hood with mild soap and water. Remove the soap by wiping with cloth dampened in clear water, and then wipe dry. When thoroughly dry, apply a thincoat of a good quality enamel; use it just as it comes in the can.

If you crave a bear-skin rug for your living room floor, take a tip from this peripatetic columnist.

Oil up the family musket and start hitch-hiking, or mushing by dog-team, for the most northerly part of Michigan's vast Upper Peninsula—the slender, scenic Keweenaw peninsula with its wilderness of mountains and forests-all closer to the Arctic circle than Quebec, Canada. Yes—thar's bar, up thar!

When you finally reach Keweenaw the nosey and playful bears may greet you on the lonely streets of Copper Harbor. Make sure that the sports calendar is right, as proclaimed by the state conservation commission, and that the 1943 deer season has been officially opened. Then instead of watching is coated with waterproof cement capricious bears push over garbage cans in a quest for food, or feed does not dry out enough to be paint- from the hospitable hands of Joseph Matthews, elderly proprietor of the Beauty View general store which is Copper Harbor's sole retail establishment, just fire your gun and bag your bear. That is, of course, if you're not too excited or too ashamed to shoot. It's going to be "as easy as pie" to get your bear this fall. For unless the county board of supervisors relents under a steady fire of criticism from the county road commission and the commercial resort owners, the season will be lifted soon in Keweenaw.

"Don't leave any food outside at night." Donald Dow warned us the first night we pitched a tent at the Fort Wilkins state park right next to Fanny Hooe Lake. Radionics Spur Hens

Hens are induced to lay more eggs by radionics and the eggs are then hatched and graded by the same means. Dairy barns are equipped with germicidal lamps—destructive of air-borne bacteria — and electrically charged screens which destroy flies and other insects buzzing about the milking quarters. Milk bottles are sterilized by radionic devices, eliminating methods which sometimes left souring bacteria in the bottles.

State Owned Rail

In the summer before the outbreak of the war, Italy had in all about 14,500 miles of rail. Nearly three-quarters of this mileage was state-owned.

But this is no time to say, "Sorry, I've done all I can."

Not when our troops are smashing ahead. Not when the cry from every front is for more tanks ... more guns ... more planes to strike the knockout blow.

Today, everyone who possibly can, must invest in at least one extra $100 War Bond. More if you possibly can. That's in addition to your regular War Bond subscriptions.

A big job? Yes! But INVASION is a big job, too! And that's what the 3rd War Loan is for— INVASION!

And it's for your loved ones, too . . . for the sons and brothers, sweethearts and husbands who are doing the fighting.

Can you look into your heart and say to them, "I've done all I can"?

Frightened, she turned off the electric lights. The children were asleep, upstairs, on a ledge. The bear then went to the other side of the cabin and scratched a window screen. Finally he went to the backdoor and pawed it.

Mother instinct told Mrs. Van Pelt the bear was after her two children. Next day, relating the incident to neighbors, she mentioned that she had put the garbage pail inside the kitchen.

Animal tales of this kind can be found readily in the Keweenaw country and, in fact, in many other parts of Michigan's northland. They prove nothing except that Lumber Now Fire-Resistant Lumber can be treated to make it highly fire-resistant. It can be "preserved" by a chemical that makes it resistant and distasteful to termites. Green woods, impregnated with still another chemical and dried, become relatively plastic when heated. They may be bent or twisted into various forms. They retain their new shapes, resuming their normal rigidity and hardness, when cool.

Blockaded South

The United States fleet of 40 ships in the war between the States was so busy blockading the South that merchantmen from northern ports were unprotected. Confederate cruisers took nearly 300 prizes which, with their cargoes, were valued at millions of dollars.
