

Organization of County-wide Youth Guidance Project

Willis Campbell Chosen Head of Tuscola Group at Meeting in Caro.

Recognizing the need for an active county-wide organization to consider the problem of youth guidance and acting upon the suggestion of Governor Harry F. Kelly, a group of interested county and village officials met in Caro Wednesday evening, Nov. 10, under the temporary chairmanship of Almon C. Pierce, judge of probate, to effect such an organization for Tuscola County. The group will be known as the county division of the "Governor's Youth Guidance Committee," which is organized on a state-wide level with Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction, as chairman.

Willis Campbell, superintendent of schools in Cass City, was chosen chairman of the county organization; B. H. McComb, county commissioner of schools, vice chairman; Mrs. Anna J. Ellis of Vassar, secretary; and Adolph Kamm of Reese, treasurer. Officials invited to be present at the initial meeting included the chairman of the board of supervisors, the prosecuting attorney, the sheriff, the county welfare director, supervisor of bureau of social aid, county school commissioner, civilian defense chairman, village presidents, police chiefs, and school superintendents.

The county committee will work through local committees which are being named in each community. These local committees will meet in Caro soon to formulate plans for the youth guidance program. Members of the committee for the Cass City area are Harold Oatley, chairman, Mrs. Andrew Bigelow, John Bugbee, and Mrs. Ernest Croft.

There is no increase in juvenile delinquency in Tuscola County, Judge of Probate Almon C. Pierce told members of the county committee. There is, however, an opportunity for constructive work in youth development and protection as a preventative measure against any increase in such delinquency.

Tentative plans for the committee include the issuance of a bulletin in which the representatives from various communities will tell of the projects which they are carrying on and thus may share their ideas, Chairman Willis Campbell said.

Drillers at Work on Lebioda Farm

Richard C. Hilton, a representative of the Shell Oil Co., was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon Tuesday at the Methodist Church, and in an informative talk, explained the methods used by the exploration department, of which he is a member, to determine subsurface soil structures. By means of a seismograph, diagrams are recorded which reveal oil strata to a depth of 3,000 to 6,000 feet. Mr. Hilton is a member of a crew of about 10 men who have been making these tests in Tuscola County for several months.

Drillers have set up machinery on the John Lebioda farm in Section 8, Novesta Township, and drilling was started there within the past week. This drilling, according to Mr. Lebioda, is made to determine soil structures and the drilling may go to a depth of 400 feet. Mr. Lebioda executed an oil lease on his farm several months ago.

Who killed Cock Robin? No, it wasn't the farmer. No, it wasn't organized labor. No, it was not industry. And of course, Congress and the Washington bureaucrats can't be blamed.

If further inflation comes with an inevitable price squeeze which will hurt middle classes the most, historians will appraise the factors which were responsible. Consider then the current headlines of Michigan newspapers which mirror a new economic setting for another spin of the inflation wheel. Here are the clashing viewpoints:

Farmer. Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau, told bureau delegates at Michigan State College that the cost of food in proportion to the consumer's buying power was the least in 30 years; that the cost of living had increased only 5 per cent since September, 1942, while wages of labor had gone up 15 per cent. "Why not roll back wages instead of food prices?" Albert S. Goss, master, National Grange, in an address before the state grange convention in Grand Rapids warned that the nation was rushing blindly toward disastrous inflation unless Congress curtailed consumer buying power through taxation. Goss urged a combined tax and post-war savings plan whereby surplus earnings could be siphoned from the market. In brief, the farm position: No federal subsidy to stabilize food prices; let the consumer pay higher food prices out of higher earnings; halt labor's preferred status for wage increases; impose more taxes on the middle and lower income brackets.

Cass City Loses to Harbor Beach in League Upset

Two innocent looking points in the first period in the football game at Harbor Beach Friday afternoon proved the winning margin for the Beachers in a 9 to 7 battle with Cass City on a wet field.

Cass City took the field with a clean record of five victories and a tie game in league competition and were favored to win the Upper Thumb championship but lost to an alert and hard charging opponent.

On the opening kickoff Harbor Beach took the ball on its own 15 and on a reverse Bill Rapson zigzagged his way to the Cass City 32. On line bucks by Rapson, Art Tageson and Ken Robinson, the Beachers drove to the Cass City seven where the invaders held and took over.

On the first play Dale Kettlewell took the pass from center back of his own goal line and before he could get rid of the pigskin he was trapped by Don Bedford and Jim Williams and the Beachers had a two-point safety.

Cass City came back strong in the remaining minutes of the first period and held possession of the ball near midfield when the period ended.

Early in the second quarter Cass City drove to the Beacher 14 on line bucks by Dale Kettlewell and McConnell getting the ball in position to throw a 14 yard pass

Paint for Bombs

Paint for bombs is subject to very strict requirements. Bombs and shells often have to be exposed to the elements in ammunition dumps for long periods. Paint on bombs must be made to stand immersion for 18 hours in cold water without fading, softening, checking or changing in color. A lustreless olive drab is used as a camouflage measure to make ammunition on the ground blend with the terrain. An important factor is that the paint not only must not chip or scale, but must not tend to acquire a sheen or gloss which might attract the attention of the enemy.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for November 21

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19:11, 13; Luke 19:11-10, 45, 46.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not steal.—Exodus 20:15.

Honesty seems to be so obviously right that one might expect it always and everywhere—if bitter experience had not indicated the opposite to be true.

As a matter of fact, dishonesty has become so common that a person who is strictly honest is a bit of a novelty. Some even think he is peculiar.

Under such circumstances the Christian needs to be vigilant lest he also accommodate his own ideas of honesty and begin to justify little evasions rather than being absolutely upright.

The teaching of Scripture on this matter is very plain.

I. Honesty and Fair Dealing (Exod. 20:15; Lev. 19:11, 13).

The very commandment against stealing implies that men have a right to that which they have made, earned, or saved. If no one had property rights there could be no stealing. Some of our modern isms deny such rights, but their reasoning is clearly not biblical or Christian.

"Thou shalt not steal" forbids every kind of theft, and the passages from Leviticus indicate that this includes more than robbery or ordinary stealing.

It relates to every kind of false dealing with another, such as oppression or the withholding of just wages. That, too, is stealing in God's sight.

Perhaps we ought to be more specific and apply the truth to our own day. Stealing includes such things as loading on one's job, "borrowing" money from the cash drawer, taking goods from the stock with which one is working, stealing another man's sermon and preaching it as one's own, "lifting" material out of another man's book without credit, contracting debts which one can never pay, using false weights and measures, adulterating food or other material, "watering" milk for sale, selling worthless stock, dodging taxes or lying to the tax assessor, or using a slug instead of a nickel in the telephone to escape proper payment.

One might add gambling (which is taking another man's property by skill or by chance), making an unduly large profit on the labor of another, making money out of the sorrows and failures of others, etc. To be honest means to be fair—and that has broad implications.

II. Honesty and Restoration (Luke 19:1-10).

The reality and thoroughness of Zacchaeus' conversion was indicated by his willingness to restore all the money he had unjustly (but legally, note that!) taken from his fellow citizens—and that in fourfold measure.

Insofar as it is possible to do so, the honest person will make right any known injustice. To be right with God must mean that we are to be right with men. The testimony of many Christians could be presented to show that they have only entered upon real peace and usefulness as they have made consistent effort to right every wrong, to pay every debt.

Often such actions open opportunities for Christian testimony and point others to the redemption in Christ, which makes a man live right as well as talk right.

III. Honesty and Religion (Luke 19:45, 46).

One might think it unnecessary to urge honesty upon religious folk. They ought to be honest. But here we see in sharp contrast to the quick honesty and restitution of Zacchaeus, the stubborn disobedience and dishonesty of the priests in the temple. Jesus had already cleansed the temple of the traffic in money-changing and the sale of animals for sacrifice practiced there (see John 2:13-17). On that occasion He rebuked them because they made His Father's house "a house of merchandise."

Had they known the change of heart of a converted Zacchaeus they would have heeded His admonition. But they did not believe in Christ and went on with their ungodly desecration of the temple area until it became "a den of thieves" (v. 46).

What happened so long ago needs application to our present day. So apt is the quotation from the "Lesson Commentary" which we have used before that we repeat it now.

Speaking of "the goings on in our own churches" the writer says, "Is a church honest when it assumes obligations that it cannot meet, and is then forced to use all sorts of questionable means to raise money for the benefit of the church? Is a church honest when it turns a building consecrated to the worship of God into a restaurant or a theater? Is a church honest that turns its pulpit into a lecture platform for the discussion of current events or the review of popular books or plays?"

Spontaneous Ignition
Spontaneous ignition is a phenomenon that occurs in such common articles as oily dust cloths, mops or waste and paint-stained rags or clothing. Chemical reaction causes the material to heat up until actual fire bursts forth.

Known as Steel Toughener
The importance of vanadium as a steel toughener has been known for almost 50 years, but only since the rich Peruvian deposits were discovered in about 1905 has it been possible to use it to any great extent.

Urge Finer Chopping
Finer chopping and proper distribution of the heavy material in the silo has been recommended instead of adding water, or harvesting when the crop is too green or too high in moisture content. Advantages of this method show that there is less weight to handle, less silo pressure, practically no leakage, and a food from which the livestock can get more food value since they don't have to take in so much water along with it.

OLD BARN

Question: A very old barn and tenant house were constructed of one-inch white oak and poplar boards, unfinished. Buildings have never been painted or finished. How can we finish and preserve the walls, preferably in a rich brown?

Answer: A good quality shingle stain will probably be best suited for the rough lumber. Many paint manufacturers make a creosote shingle stain in a wide range of colors; or you can make your own by mixing four parts raw linseed oil, two parts coal tar creosote oil and one part japan drier. For a darker brown add color-in-oil, thinned with linseed oil to the consistency of paint. Use the color in the proportion of two parts in the above formula. Apply with a brush.

Overcoating

Question: My white clapboard house is in a section made smoky by a nearby mill. We had planned to paint the house, but now have been advised to cover it with a rough cement-like product blown on the wood. This can be washed whenever necessary. We know nothing about it and would like your opinion.

Answer: I should not advise anything with a rough surface, for it will catch dirt and make washing difficult. Find out whether the material is in use by owners in your neighborhood and get their opinions of it.

Leaky Cellar

Question: In heavy rains, water seeps into my cellar where the foundation wall and the upper frame and brick veneer meet. How can this be cured?

Answer: In a brick veneer house, water soaking through the brickwork runs down inside and may collect at the bottom of the space between the veneer and the sheathing. It is then likely to run off through the cellar. The remedy is to drill small holes through the brickwork at the bottom of the space, so that water can drain off to the outside.

Swollen Shingles

Question: Shingles on the back of my new house are swollen out of place. I am told that this is due to dampness, but that in dry weather the shingles will return to place. Can you advise me on this?

Answer: In dry weather you will undoubtedly find that the shingles will shrink and that no harm will be done. I should recommend giving them a coat of top quality shingle stain at that time.

Bluestone Binder

Question: Our driveway consists of several inches of cinders, with two or three inches of bluestone. What can be used as a binder for the bluestone?

Answer: An asphalt emulsion is made for the purpose. Your road commissioner can furnish you with the names of firms who carry this product.

Antarctic Chart Issued by Navy

Contains Much Data Never Before Seen on Map.

WASHINGTON.—A new chart of Antarctica and the southern polar regions, covering six million square miles, and in preparation several years, has been issued by the hydrographic office of the navy department.

Combining all published information and many data of the area never before seen on a map, some of it collected by the United States Antarctic Service under Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, the map's creation was supervised by Com. R. A. J. English, who commanded the polar survey ship the Bear on Byrd's first trip to the region.

Antarctica is almost entirely within the Antarctic Circle. It has an area of nearly six million square miles, almost equal to the combined areas of the United States and Europe. Its coastline of 14,000 miles is almost completely known, but by far the greatest part of Antarctica has never been seen by a human. Unknown coastal sections include the southwestern limits of the Weddell sea and a portion of the coast of the Roosevelt sea.

The chart also gives oceanic depths to 5,500 fathoms. Almost all the shore of Antarctica touches the sea in high ice cliffs which rise steeply at short distances inland. The polar plateau is about 10,000 feet high. Mountain ranges have peaks which tower to 13,000 feet and several volcanoes have been observed.

There are few good harbors or safe anchorages and exploratory vessels have been forced to moor to ice floes, with steam up at all times so that they can be moved quickly if weather or ice conditions should change.

Details for the map were supplied by the United States and ships of the British, French, Australian, New Zealand, German and Norwegian countries.

Cake Finally Catches Up With Yankee Sergeant

SAN DIEGO.—Well preserved in French wine, a fruit cake mailed in Natchez, Miss., finally reached its destination here following a circuitous journey of several thousand miles.

The recipient, Marine Sgt. William H. Covington, disclosed the itinerary of the eight-pound delicacy after it had been mailed to him by his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Chisholm, last October.

Addressed to a unit from which Covington had subsequently been detached, the cake was rerouted to the South Pacific base where the marine's former outfit had gone.

It fell by coincidence into the hands of Pvt. Robert L. Anway, who knew that Covington was still in San Diego. He sent it back to the mainland.

On receipt of it here, Covington sought out Anway's wife and gave her a portion of the cake. Mrs. Anway immediately sent it on its travels again — to her husband across the Pacific.

Blitzed Bottle Babies Suffer Pram Shortage

LONDON.—Baby perambulators rank as first priority war relief in the Lancashire town of Bottle. So acute is the shortage that $2,400 donated by the British War Relief society of America after the town was blitzed was completely used up purchasing 100 prams, which now are being sold to mothers.

"We had to restrict them to mothers of three or more children because of the great demand," Mrs. E. H. Smith, chairman of the Bottle maternity child welfare committee, said. The committee is trying to purchase more prams, but manufacturers say they are unavailable, she added.

Dr. F. T. Wood, Bottle medical officer, suggests that the present system, whereby doctors and midwives issue certificates to enable mothers and expectant mothers to obtain extra milk and eggs, should be extended to perambulators.

Indians Get Sulfa and Medicine Man Is Through

FORT HALL, IDAHO.—Progress made by the federal government in furnishing medical care for its Indian wards in the last 15 years "has been amazing," says Superintendent C. L. Graves of the Fort Hall reservation.

He said that sulfa drugs have been "a godsend for our Indians." "Sulfa has been the means of practically eliminating the scourge of trachoma," Graves said. "It is marked how the Indians have drifted away from their ancient rituals for healing the sick."

from McConnell to Ross for a touchdown. McConnell converted the extra point and Cass City held a 7-2 edge at halftime.

Both teams put up a strong defense in the third period and no scores were made.

In the fourth period the Beachers drove to the Cass City 12 and on a fourth down attempted to pass to a touchdown. The Cass City defense batted the pigskin into the air and it fell into the waiting hands of Ray Noble on the 10-yard line. Two plays later Rapson went over on a line buck for a touchdown and Robinson converted the final points.

LABOR DAY

The first Labor day celebration in the United States was a parade by the Knights of Labor on September 5, 1882. Two years later the first Monday in September was chosen for annual observance. Pennsylvania declared it a holiday in 1889.

Bomber Cameras

Bomber cameras are synchronized with bomb release mechanisms so that the bombs can be photographed at every stage of their flight, and by means of a flash bomb the target is illuminated at the precise moment when they strike.

Motor Traffic Drops

Motor vehicles counted on roads in the East in June, 1948, were 49 per cent of the 1941 average, and in the West and Middle West, they were 57 per cent.

New Horizons

In the little town of Enterprise, Ala., a monument was built to the boll weevil in gratitude for the lesson of crop diversion it had forced upon the South.

Michigan Mirror

has exceeded the ceiling established in the Little Steel stabilization formula of September, 1942; the federal bureau of labor statistics' index of living costs is a "phony" and the National War Labor Board should increase wages accordingly. Corporations are reaping huge war profits, while capitalists conspire to discredit labor in order to foment anti-labor legislation. "Just because a wage earner stayed at his job for years prior to the war without getting much in the way of pay raises is hardly a sound reason why he should not share in the fruits of profits of his employer today"—Flint labor weekly.

In brief, labor's position: We want a share of war profits in form of higher wages; living costs have increased faster than labor earnings.

Industry. Weekly earnings of Michigan labor have increased 61 per cent since January, 1941; hourly earnings have risen 87 per cent; weekly earnings have mounted twice as fast as have weekly expenses. (General Motors Corp.)

We must build an adequate post-war reserve to defray tremendous cost of reconversion to peace-time production. Net profits, after taxes and dividends, have increased 15 per cent since Pearl Harbor. Automobile companies earned 17 per cent more net profit in 1942 than in 1941. "Labor must recognize that national prosperity will depend upon a prosperous free economy. Management must protect the interests of its stockholders, of whom so many are laboring men, widows and philanthropic enterprises"—Eric Johnson, president, U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

OPA. Pentitis M. Brown as OPA administrator: "Without a subsidy plan, the price structure cannot be held, and wages will be forced upward. . . . Without subsidies butter would sell at 60 cents instead of 50 cents. Add to that the increase in the price of meat, milk and other commodities that would follow the rejection of subsidies, and you encourage, even justify, higher wages. . . . The net income of the farmer is 90 per cent higher than it was before Pearl Harbor. The average weekly wage of the American laborer is 33 per cent higher than it was before Pearl Harbor. Corporation profits, after taxes, are 15 per cent higher than those earned in 1941, while prices are but 12 per cent greater than they were on Dec. 7, 1941, when the Senate took up the subject of price control, resulting in the act of Jan. 20, 1942."

NWLB. William H. Davis, chairman of the National War Labor Board, in a letter to Vice President Henry A. Wallace Nov. 6 declared labor had made the heaviest sacrifice in the anti-inflation fight. This statement was interpreted by Washington observers as an indication that the labor board will recommend a general wage revision. President Roosevelt has named a five-man committee of the labor board to examine living costs. Washington business letters forecast an increase in prices will follow any increase in wages.

Confusion. The net result of these clashing viewpoints, which we have sought to summarize for purpose of brevity, is just what you might expect: Confusion! If wages of labor must be increased because living costs have out-distanced them, which is the position of labor, then isn't it logical for earnings of labor to be increased still more when prices rise to a higher level? The farmer believes that the consumer should pay higher prices; the laborer wants his earnings increased because of present prices.

Politics. Confusion breeds dissatisfaction, and dissatisfaction on the home front may become a political liability for the national administration, if November ballot trends continue. Here is the reasoning of Republican leaders: The voter is dissatisfied with domestic conditions. Labor will split its political support, AFL leaning to the Republicans and CIO backing the Democrats. The senate resolution pledging American participation in an international peace court or league received Republican support. Hence there is no issue on foreign relations. The European war may be over by November, 1944.

Democrats. Here is the current line of Democratic leaders: President Roosevelt will seek a fourth term. To stem the current tide against regimentation, he is courting conservative support of industry and business. Meanwhile, Vice President Wallace is courting organized labor and farmer, warning them not to enter into "unholy alliances" with capital "to loot the consumer's pocket" and proposing new social reforms through continued spending of public funds. The Roosevelt magic will swing the tide, prevent swapping horses in mid-stream, et al.

Crucial Year. With an invasion of northern Europe and an election campaign both likely to coincide in 1944, the nation faces a most crucial year. James A. Farley, Democratic state chairman in New York, has characterized 1944 as being "the most important election year we've had since this great Republic came into being." It looks as if Jim were right.

Occurs During Winter

Fowl-pox often occurs during the winter months and is commonly referred to as canker or sore mouth. Birds suffering from this disease go down in egg production and lose weight. Serious cases may end fatally.

From the Hawaiian Islands Gaylord Wright wrote the letter printed below to his brother, Carl E. Wright, and his family. Before his move to Hawaii, Gaylord was stationed in Alaska. This letter is dated Monday, Nov. 8.

"Am dropping you a few lines to let you know that I am well and still kicking and I hope you feel the same. I received your welcome letters and I was surely glad to hear from you.

"Gee, I really got some swell presents from home. The Forts sent me a big box of cookies, the Kerbysons sent me a swell box, and the Schwaderers sent me a nice carton of cigarettes. I didn't think I had so many friends.

"Well, folks, I am somewhere in the Hawaiian Islands and what a pretty place it is. I've been to Honolulu on pass and also down to Waikiki Beach swimming. Ship Painting Hard Job
When ships are being reconditioned, almost anything from a bucket of paint to a monkey wrench is likely to be accidentally dropped from a height with force enough to crack a skull, and it is easily possible for a painter swinging in a bosun's chair, reaching far out to right or left with a long-handled brush, to fall. Such signs as "Warning!", "Danger!", "Play Safe!", "Eternity Is a Long Time!" are plentifully displayed to promote safety. As a practical measure, the men wear crash helmets to protect their heads against dropping objects which hit like bombs.

Real Wages Gain
Real wages of manufacturing wage earners—that is, the wages which have been adjusted to allow for changes in living costs—increased 44.1 per cent from August, 1939, to June, 1943. . . . This situation is to be contrasted with that during World War I, when, although money wages rose, they did not quite keep pace with rising prices, so that real wages declined 1 per cent from 1914 to 1918.

Treat Pink Eye
In the early stages of pink eye in cattle, confinement and simple medication, such as washing out the eyes with a weak salt solution or dusting boric acid in the eyes, will suffice. The exact cause of the disease is not known, but bacterins are sometimes used to prevent and treat affected animals. These remedies should be used under the direction of a veterinarian.

Undercover Men Fix Planes Beneath Their Enemies' Nose

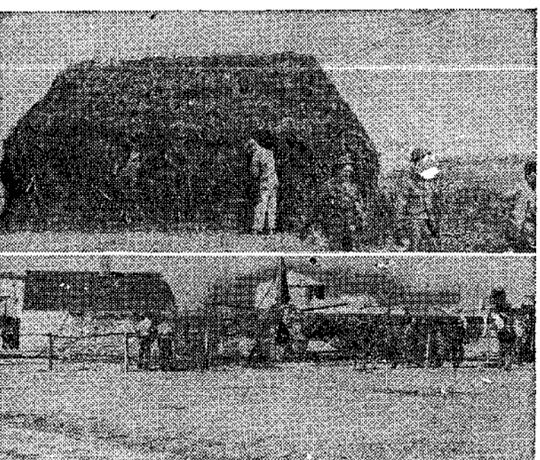

Even under constant enemy bombardment, United States soldiers must rescue, salvage, repair, and restore wrecked airplanes. At the Greenville, South Carolina, Service Group Training Center, members of the U. S. Army Air Forces are taught how to do this dangerous work under ingenious camouflage. In picture at top a medical unit rescues an injured pilot from a crash simulated for training purposes.

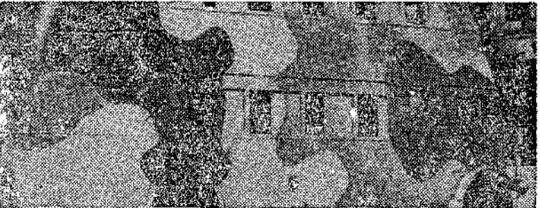

Cows add a realistic touch to the camouflage installations in the country scene at left. In the background is a parachute drying tent which appears as a silo from the air. Right: A doughboy in a sniper suit, camouflaged to blend into sylvan surroundings. In forest country this warrior would be totally invisible at a distance.

Does this crazy quilt pattern hurt your eyes? It does the same to an enemy bombardier. This pattern screen covers a damaged bomber so that repairs can be made without disclosing it to the enemy. Almost every device known to camoufleurs has been employed at the training center.

In top photo a repair shop building is disguised to appear as a haystack. Note wires at right leading into roof. Bottom: The plane is covered by a screen. The farmhouse and silo in background actually are engineering installations. Tanks, jeeps and seagoing vessels also are camouflaged to confuse the enemy. Even war plants have been camouflaged.

This bus is camouflaged. All glass has been removed from the windows.

Plowing Aerates Soil, Stimulates Reactions

Lower Yields Caused By Excessive Cropping

While American farmers have undoubtedly plowed their soil too much in the past, the problem of declining crop yields is not due to excessive plowing, but to the removal of fertility without returning plant food to the soil, according to Dr. William A. Albrecht, chairman of the soils department of the University of Missouri.

"During the importation of the plowing idea and the application of the plowing practice in the United States, our ancestors did not recognize their transition to soils that are mainly silt loams, which demand less plowing than European clay loams. They failed to appreciate the connection plowing might have with their movement from regions where rainfall comes regularly in small showers to those where a large share of the rains are torrential. This shift from maritime to continental climate was not appreciated until much plowing under torrential downpours caused erosion of almost catastrophic magnitude over our most productive areas.

"Yes, we have plowed too much, as our hindsight forcefully tells us. But surely our foresight is better than to allow refusal to plow in the future.

"Plowing does aerate the soil, as any soil microbiologist will testify. As a consequence of the change of atmosphere in the soil, and because of the stirring by the mold-board plow, there is new 'life.' The soil is a factory in which much energy is expended. It is transforming many substances, oxidizing or burning tons of carbon dioxide, sulfur to sulfur dioxide, ammonia to nitrate and other similar combustions. Were this performance not proceeding in the soil, life on the globe would soon become extinct. Facts such as these are disregarded as part of the soil's contribution to crop production by him who would not plow. But continued and excessive cropping without paying back the soil's plant food debt, reduces the output of the nutrients left over in soluble form by microbial activity."

Rotation grazing increases the nutritional value of pasture plants, as thicker turf results from using only a small part of pasture area at a time. High-producing cows have shown increased yield when grazed in this way.

Ground Wheat Preserves Grass Silage Well

Wheat is just as satisfactory a preservative for grass silage as corn, says C. B. Bender of Rutgers U.

Describing how to use wheat in silage making, he says, "The grain should be ground fine and applied at the rate of 200 to 250 pounds per ton of green alfalfa as it goes through the throat of the chopper. With mixtures of grasses and legumes, use 150 to 200 pounds per ton depending upon moisture content. The higher the moisture content the more ground grain is needed. With timothy or green cereal grains, add 100 to 150 pounds of the ground grains per ton.

"It is not difficult to apply the grain," Bender says. "Build a hopper over the throat of the chopper large enough to hold 100 pounds of ground grain. Have a sliding panel at the base of the hopper which will regulate the flow of grain. It is advisable to brace one side of the hopper to the side of the ensilage cutter so that the vibration will help the flow of grain.

"Grain is more than just a preservative. It reduces seepage, increases the total nutrient content of the silage and increases the protein content. It is also a convenient way of feeding part of the grain ration to cows."

The department of agriculture has estimated that two billion man-hours of labor will be needed to harvest farm crops during the next few months.

Onions, after being harvested, should be well dried before going into storage for the winter. This process is necessary to prevent Botrytis neck rot.

Thanksgiving

November 25, 1943

When troops at Camp Lee, Va., wanted a supply of turkeys for Thanksgiving they decided to get the biggest and best birds possible. So they visited the nearby Whippernock turkey farm and engaged in a martial version of the old-fashioned turkey hunt.

It's a far cry from the Massachusetts Pilgrim of early days to this modern man of war, but the idea is the same. Each got his bird.

After the successful hunt, this private first class plucks one of the turkeys as a third officer of the WACs delivers a few pointers.

Another private with marked culinary abilities seasons a pan of the Thanksgiving dinner's piece de resistance.

This hungry sergeant obliges with a "v" for Victory made of turkey drumsticks. He advised the photographer to make it "snappy." His appetite wouldn't allow him to hold the pose very long.

Here's another symbolical pose provided by a sergeant who made it plain that American soldiers are doing much more than just wishing for victory.

Moved Into Amazon
More than 20,000 people have been moved into the Amazon valley in preparation for further expansion in rubber production in the drive to raise output from the Amazon forests to 50,000 tons or more in 1944. This would more than double Amazon rubber production before Pearl Harbor.

Bread Molds Ferment
Bread molds have been found superior to malt in alcoholic fermentation.

General Invented Gum

Chewing gum first came to the United States in about 1885, when Mexico's great general, Carlos Juan Santa Ana, who fought so gallantly at Buena Vista and other battle-grounds of the Mexican war, came to the United States to seek refuge and retirement on Long Island. With the assistance of his secretary the great Mexican general made the gummy latex of zapota into sweetened sticks of gum.

Mahogany Use

The first known European use of mahogany was for the chanting desk, choir stalls, doors and for cases, shelves and desks in the great library of the Escorial, begun by Philip II of Spain in 1563 and completed in 1584. Its earliest known use in England was in Nottingham Castle, built in 1680.
