Another Cass City man has been promoted also. Dr. Kenneth Higgins, formerly of Detroit, has been made a major. He, too, is stationed at Fort Sheridan. Pfc. Lance Robinson writes the following interesting letter to the Chronicle from India:

I have been wanting to write a letter to you for quite some time, but we have been exceedingly busy and not a great deal of time for my correspondence. I have received clippings from my mother, Mrs. George W. Robinson, of the boys in service, and I thought perhaps you would put an article in for me. I would like my friends to know that I still am thinking of them.

As you probably would like to know, my address is "somewhere in India" and from what I have seen of the country, it is truly as amazing and mysterious as you read about in books. Although on the surface seemingly westernized, underneath it all is the style and habits of age old oriental customs.

We are comfortably situated with good food and quarters. Of course everybody would trade all that for the words, "Let's go home." We are all looking forward to the day when it all comes true.

We have two little monkeys here at camp. Are they a lot of fun! I will ring off as the lights will go out in a few minutes and that means bedtime.

Hoping to hear from you soon.

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Mary Strickland, Sgt. Avery Strickland describes Christmas as spent in Italy. He says:

"I am fine and had a very nice Christmas. Everyone did all, in every way possible, to give us a nice Christmas and they succeeded very well. We had some very nice Christmas services, both Christmas eve and Christmas day. The army provided the turkey and our kitchen did themselves proud in fixing it up for our dinner and it was a dinner I shall never forget.

"The Italians celebrate Christmas just about the same as we do. They are a very religious people as well as a very old race of people and still retain many old customs. It was a novelty to spend Christmas here.

"Cloaks are still worn a lot here. Automobiles are very scarce and carts and buggies are the chief means of transportation."

Over $500 Raised Here to Fight Poliomyelitis

President's Ball, March of Dimes and Other Contributions Swell Fund.

The President's Birthday Ball, sponsored by the Rotary Club and held in the school auditorium here Friday evening, proved to be a most enjoyable affair. The attendance was good with an estimated crowd of between 600 and 700 people present. Good music was provided by the orchestra and decorations were most attractive.

A large picture of the President was in evidence on the east wall with large American flags on the south and west walls. A low ceiling of red, white and blue with soft light completed the setting.

Several square dances were enjoyed and Cadet Marjorie Ivanick of Saginaw General Hospital pleased the crowd with several dance numbers. The court room which provided much merriment netted the affair $20.00 in fines on unsuspecting citizens. The net proceeds from the ball itself are expected to be well over $200.00.

Mrs. Grant Patterson, president of the Woman's Study Club, reported that the members of the club collected $85.81 in their house to house canvass, solicitors for the "March of Dimes" campaign.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS FEEDS THE MULTITUDES

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:35-44; 8:1-9. GOLDEN TEXT—I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.—John 6:35.

Hungry! That word describes the crying need of the greater part of the world's population. Men who have vaunted themselves because of their ability and ingenuity have brought the nations of the earth into such awful confusion that even God's abundant provision cannot reach the needy ones.

God is concerned about man's physical need just as truly as He is about spiritual needs. This story brings Christianity into action on a level that all will appreciate—the need of food for the body. It works there as it does everywhere.

The supply of every need of man is God. "My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus" (Phil. 4:19). Countless Christians have found it to be true that we may trust God—completely—and for everything.

The stories of the feeding of the two groups of people show the wrong and the right attitude toward man's need. In two approaches to the problem the disciples were wrong. Then Christ showed them the right way.

I. They Can Take Care of Their Own Need (6:35, 36).

"Send them away"—that was the plea of the disciples when the multitude of those who had followed Him became hungry. The people were there because they were interested in Christ. They had come in a hurry (v. 33) and had not brought food. The problem was on the disciples' hands, and they sought the easiest way out. Let them shift for themselves—"Send them away."

The church has followed their example in dealing with the social problems of the people down through the years. The result is that being denied fellowship, comfort, and help by a church which was too busy building up a vast organization or a beautiful order of worship, the common people have responded to the appeal of political leaders who have provided a substitute for what the church should have given them.

When Jesus put upon them the direct responsibility to feed the people, the disciples changed their "slogan" and said:

II. We Should Like to Help, but We Cannot (6:37).

Reckoning hastily on what a small boy had brought for his lunch (trust an alert boy to be ready!), the disciples soon demonstrated that it was impossible to feed this great throng. (See similar reasoning in Mark 8:4.)

Logic is such a devastating thing when it operates apart from faith in God. They were absolutely right in their reasoning and in their calculations, but they had forgotten the one factor that really counted, Jesus was there, and Jesus is God, and God is omnipotent.

As we face the need of the world now and after the war, we wonder how the peoples of other lands can be fed without depriving our own land of what it needs. "It is a great problem, and we ought to pray for those who must work with it."

But let us not forget that all that we have comes from God, and that He is able to do "exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think" (Eph. 3:20). The Christ who multiplied the loaves and fishes is our Living Lord today, and ready and able to do it again.

III. Jesus Said, "I Have Compassion on the Multitude" (6:34-44; 8:1-9).

He started right. Instead of shutting His heart against the tender desire to help, He let His love for the people control. Then instead of magnifying the difficulties, He multiplied the provisions. And lo, there was enough for all, and to spare.

"He commanded . . . and they did all eat" (vv. 39, 42). When God speaks, all the limitations of the finite disappear, and the needs of men are fully met—with "twelve baskets full of fragments" left over!

Note the orderly manner in which our Lord met this situation. Five thousand men, with women and children to swell the throng, were seated on the grass. Jesus took the loaves and fishes and blessed them. You who forget to return thanks at the table, notice that quiet and meaningful act. Then He broke the loaves and divided the fishes. No doubt they were multiplied as the disciples passed them out to the people.

God is able to do that very thing even in our day. Perhaps not in just the same manner, but surely those who serve Him have marveled as they have seen that "little is much when God is in it." Let those who labor in difficult places with limited resources take heart—add trust to God.

Note the care with which the fragments were collected for future use. It took this war to teach America how shamefully wasteful it has been.

Designers Make Clever Use Of Tassels, Bows and Buttons

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WATCH tassels! Tassels are the big news in the trimming realm. Any sort of a tassel, just so it's a tassel, say designers. The tassel or tassels that trim your hat, your belt, your handbag, your dress or your blouse may be short or long, tiny or immense. They may be of silken strands or cords, of dangling beads, of wool yarn or "what have you" that gives a tassel look.

The belt that is tasseled is turning out to be one of the "hit" fashions of the season. Designers have now discovered that there's rhythm between the new pencil-slim silhouette (announced as "what's what" in smart "lines") and long graceful tassels used in a trimming way. The exquisitely ladylike patrician-styled dress, shown to the right in the illustration, makes a fringe-tasseled belt its place de resistance. Note how beautifully this dress is tailored and stitched into lines of grace. The plain bodice and high neckline are a perfect background for jewels. The felt cartwheel hat is color matched to the duck green wool that fashions the dress.

The attractive tassel-trimmed dress to the left is done in a fine rayon weave in that very new smoke gray shade that's going over big this season for hats, coats, dresses and furs. The smartly tasseled belt is the only adornment. The hat is of velvet with butterfly feelers adding a pert note. The gold floral ornament is a floral of unusual beauty.

Milliners are showing a definite liking for tassels. Long ones are apt to dangle from many a crown and when they do they fall to the shoulder most nonchalantly and with utmost flattery. Then there are the tiny little pillboxes and the berets that are curtained with tiny tassels, either silken or of jet all the way.

Skirt Interest

This is a season when keen interest centers around skirt design. The skirt pictured is so smartly fashioned it becomes the major style theme of the costume. Note how cleverly pockets are achieved in a sort of overskirt hip panel. The material for this skirt is black and white crested wool, worked out by hand-painting lines with straight.

round. This type of hat is really among the show pieces in millinery displays.

Tassels also dangle from frog fastenings, and as lapel ornaments in connection with applique braid novelties, and with jewelry pieces they are playing an attractive role. You'll see tassels adorning gloves and adding interest to handbags. Tassels are indeed having their big moment in connection with smart winter fashions.

If it isn't buttons then it's bows that add the touch that tells to current fashions. In the instance of the suit centered in the group, ultra chic is achieved via both button and bow strategy. Buttons will be buttons, but when they are large and important looking and when they are placed on the slant, as they are on the suit pictured, they give one a new outlook on smart fashion as they dramatize the side fastening of the skirt and the diagonal line of the jacket.

The bow treatment at the neck is as interesting as the buttons that fasten this stylish two-piece. The looped satin bows are arranged so as to give a broad-shouldered look that will accent the slim hips by way of contrast. It didn't seem possible that more bows would be seen this season than ever, but here they are, myriads of them, in the style picture. You'll see bows at beltless waistlines, bow-tie blouses, bows under the chin, some tailored, others fluttering like huge butterfly wings.

Particularly in evidence are immense bows of taffeta or wide black lace placed at the base of the lowest square necklines. It's a good plan to keep a stock of bows on hand. You will find several bows of wide black velvet ribbon a real asset when you want to put a finishing touch to a simple basic dress.

Mittens Assuming New Style Appeal

Besides being protective against winter chill, mittens are making a bid for high fashion honors. You can be very "choosy" about the mittens you wear, for they are shown in an endless variety of decorative effects. One reason is that so many are wearing smart knitted or crocheted hats and mittens to match in the new style edict. One of the cleverest types is the white yarn-knitted mitten that has a flag knitted into it. Girls who have the knack of adding clever little touches of their own are buying plain white knitted mittens, embroidering a tiny flag thereon. Another clever idea is to outline the initials U.S.A. across the glove in red, white and blue. The mitten knitted of string is a fashion theme of interest. It's a neat and utilitarian type, and very easy to launder. Then there is the mitten gaily embroidered in colorful florals. The new fluff-fleece white mittens are the schoolgirl's delight.

Ostrich Feather Stoles

Duels of hat and long stole of cocoa colored ostrich feathers, the stole about 18 inches wide and 2 1/2 yards long, are being shown. The rows of uncurled ostrich feathers are attached to a cocoa colored band of crepe. The tiny hat is composed entirely of the same colored ostrich feathers. Such a twosome is particularly ideal with dull black dresses or with a costume of burgundy red, navy blue, or deep brown.

'FREEDOM FROM REGULATION' IS WHAT PAXTON, ILL., WANTS

Dislike of Government Rulings and Redtape Evidenced by Citizens of Midwest Community.

By BARROW LYONS

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of articles written for this paper by Barrow Lyons, staff correspondent of Western Newspaper Union. He has just completed an extended trip through the nation and in these reports gives his first-hand impressions of what rural America is thinking as we enter the third year of war and the first weeks of a presidential election year. Any opinions expressed are the writer's and not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

PAXTON, ILL.—Dislike of Washington and all its works could hardly be found in more concentrated form than in Paxton, Illinois, a town of 3,200 persons in the heart of the corn belt. Only a few citizens will admit there is anything the New Deal has done that has helped this county seat.

But Ford county holds one of the most prosperous rural communities in Midwestern United States. Before the war, in January, 1939, the deposits in Paxton's two banks totaled $1,631,000; but today they sum up to $4,532,000, an increase of 178 per cent in four years. Paxton is one of the most conservative places in conservative Illinois, which Wendell Willkie has called "the blackest spot on my map." Paxton spurns Willkie as "nothing but a New Dealer."

Clothing merchants in Paxton are making more money than at any time since the boom days of the '20s. A farmer recently calculating his income tax figured he had made a clear profit before taxes of more than $20,000 in this crop year on a gross income of $27,000—and he hadn't sold his 1943 corn crop yet. Most of his income was realized on last year's corn he had held.

So easy is it for shops to sell what merchandise they can get that advertising is at a minimum. Nevertheless, Paxton boasts both a daily and weekly newspaper. The Paxton Daily Record, a four-page paper, sells enough advertising space to break about even; but the Paxton Record, a weekly, makes money in spite of the fact that national automotive advertising has virtually disappeared, and the oil companies buy only about one-tenth of the space they used to take.

Publisher Looks Ahead To Postwar Years

Herbert N. Stevens, joint owner with his brother, Harold H. Stevens, of the Paxton newspapers and printing shop, says they are running their plant now with 13 employees instead of the customary 20. But Mr. Stevens is certain that after the war good times for the printer will return, because there will be sales advertising as never seen before. No depression is in sight for the immediate postwar years. Mr. Stevens is sure—so he has just ordered a new press to be delivered when peace arrives. He also feels confident that the New Deal regime will be a thing of the past then. He explained:

"Ford County has had about as much of Washington as it can stand. I wouldn't say Paxton was just Republican. There are some Republicans around here who have voted for Roosevelt, you know. Party designations are losing significance. We are just as anti-Willkie as we are anti-Roosevelt. We think he's nothing but a New Dealer.

"When the boys come back from the war you're going to find the greatest bunch of rugged individualists you ever saw. We talk to every boy who comes back on furlough. They can't understand why the government tolerates this strike and slow-down business."

Mr. Stevens can't understand why the government should want 35 million dollars to advertise to get people back on the farm, while the United States Employment Service is advertising in his newspapers for men on the farm to work in war industries. Nor can he see why the soy bean processing factory in Gibson City, 15 miles away, can't get all the soy beans it can handle, because the Commodity Credit Corporation directs locally grown beans to cotton ginning mills in Tennessee, despite the fact that the soy bean cake left after pressing out the oil is shipped back to Paxton for cattle feed. These are the things that have turned Paxton people against the New Deal. Mr. Stevens expresses vocally what many others feel.

Incidentally, it should be noted that there is not a labor union office in Ford county and the farmers are strongly anti-labor. In the last election the Republicans scored about five votes to every two Democratic votes, the latter coming mostly from railway workers, a few craftsmen and some tenant farmers.

Carl Shelby, Paxton's grain dealer, gave the clearest summary to Paxton's viewpoint. He is a business man, but his trade concerns the farmer's welfare most closely.

'Too Much Regulation' From Washington

"The thing that bothers us most is that there is too much regulation. The farm program has a tendency to tell the farmer exactly what he can do—and that applies pretty much to the business man too. These regulations were put on when times were hard and prices low, and conditions were benefited by regulation. There seems to be no tendency to drop them when times show improvement. The men in Washington made their program so that a man was penalized if he didn't go along with it. He was almost forced to follow to be in good standing with his neighbors.

"In the grain business we were forced to take whatever the Commodity Credit corporation allowed us to handle, do what they ordered us to do and wait until they got good and ready to pay us for that service. When a fellow is used to doing what he likes, and then someone comes along and tells him what he has to do—well, that gets under the skin.

"What we liked about the old free competition system was that foresight and intelligence were worth something. You might lose money in hard times, but you were allowed to make it in good times, and if you didn't waste it you generally came out all right in the long run. Now they don't let us make money when times are good, and they can't give us any assurance that times will always be good. If they could do that we wouldn't mind giving up some freedom.

"When you once start trying to control economic conditions you have to slap on more and more controls to cover the situations you couldn't foresee, and the thing grows and grows. That's the direction the New Deal seems to be headed in now, and most of us around here think it's time to call a halt and go in the other direction for a while."

As Paxton, Illinois, Views It . . .

Let T. M. Brady, manager, explain Paxton's REA cooperative:

"We have paid all interest and principal when due, and have made advance payments on principal. Our kilowatt-hour consumption is growing steadily with increased use of electricity on the farm. War has given an additional impetus to the introduction of electrical labor-saving devices. Farmers are now installing batteries of chick brooders and pig brooders, and poultry lighting is increasing. Farmers around here say this is the greatest service they have received through the government, although they organized this co-operative themselves, provide the control of management and pay for all the service they get. There is not a subsidy of any kind in it.

me to do, rather than do nothing. The answer was, 'You are being paid, aren't you?'

"I found two hundred men and women in the plant in about the same situation. I could not stand it any longer, so I am leaving."

(2) My small business has been curtailed by war conditions. I found I had time on my hands. I felt I should be doing something in the war effort, and besides I could use the money very conveniently because of reduced income. "So I sought employment in a war industry near my home. I am a pretty good mechanic and hoped to get a chance to operate a machine, so I went to work as a helper.

"On an eight-hour shift, I could manage to keep doing something for an hour and a half. Then there was absolutely nothing for a few hours; then about twenty minutes of honest work that I had to try to make last the rest of the turn. "Everybody in the shop was killing time the same way. I stood it as long as I could and quit."

In a few months our American troops, forming a majority of Allied Nation forces, will launch the crucial assault upon Hitler's fortified Europe.

Of course, we expect these invasions will succeed. Competent military authorities warn us, however, the price will be high in lives. Many thousands will be wounded. Who will pay this price? Will it be your son or perhaps his buddy? Think it over.

The war manpower commission has bluntly told Muskegon that additional labor is not needed there; that the production job could be accomplished by workers who are already on payrolls; that landing boat parts are urgently needed—today!

In the failure of labor and management to do their duty under our present voluntary system that we sentimentally call "private initiative", the "American system" and "free labor", labor and management are recklessly sowing the seeds of fascism.

Men in the military services—and there are millions of them, remember—will not forget this treason at the hour of national crisis. Surely, today's greed is going to be costly tomorrow. Here is a field awaiting the demagogue, an invitation to iron dictatorship itself.

The moral in the Michigan newspaper's courageous appraisal is clear. American labor and management must not put private profit ahead of the lives of our American sons and fathers. If they fail to do their duty today, they will inevitably lose their freedom tomorrow!

500 OR MORE FARMERS OR FOOD PROCESSORS TO SIGN UP FOR A

Locker Plant

TO BE ESTABLISHED AT CASS CITY, MICH.

Under a late ruling by the War Food Administration, it will be possible to get the priorities to buy equipment necessary to operate a locker plant under the following conditions:

At least 60% of the locker capacity must be signed for and a deposit for the first year's rental of a locker deposited in a bank. In this case the bank will be THE CASS CITY STATE BANK, Cass City, Michigan.

The bank shall make up a list of those who have paid their rentals. The list shall contain the names and addresses of the persons who have paid their rentals and the amount of money paid by each.

The bank shall attach to the list a statement certifying that they are holding in escrow the actual cash as stated on the list, for each of the families listed, and the total amount of cash so held, and that such cash is to be refunded to each individual as listed in case the project is not approved as of a given date.

The applicant or the bank shall submit such a list and a certification to the County AAA Committee at the time application and forms are filed with the latter for review and certification.

All locker rentals shall become effective within sixty days after plant is ready to operate and continue for one year from that date.

As it will take at least 90 days to get the priorities through before any move can be made to go ahead with plant, those who desire a locker must act at once in order to have plant in operation by time it will be needed.

The amount deposited for each locker shall be $12.50. If renter selects a locker of lower rate the difference will be refunded, and, if of higher rate, he will pay the difference.

This project will be known as the

Rebuilt Navy More Effective

Plans to Give Emphasis to Aircraft Carrier as Battle Nucleus.

WASHINGTON.—The United States navy has now perfected one of the greatest tactical reorganizations in its history in order to bring massive air striking power against Japanese sea forces and air defended island positions in the Pacific.

It is completion of this reorganization, as well as the launching of 17 battle type aircraft carriers and hundreds of other ships in the last two years, which enabled Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet chief, to say this week with full confidence of victory that "our time has come to attack."

A ranking naval leader said that "just about all our ships in the Pacific, except the submarines, have been grouped around aircraft carriers, and the organization makes such a formidable force that when I saw it, and the fighting spirit of the men in it, I almost felt sorry for the Japs."

Began Before Pearl Harbor.

The initial problem of this massed force is twofold:

To clear the Japanese out of key island positions, and, if possible, to create an opportunity to engage and destroy the enemy fleet. How soon the latter stroke can be delivered depends, of course, on when the Japanese are willing to come out and fight.

Reorganization of the Pacific fleet around carriers began tentatively before the enemy attack on Pearl Harbor. At that time the United States had seven carriers and several individual carrier task forces. The battleship remained the backbone of the fleet, and the tactical concept was that in any engagement it would deliver the knockout punch.

Paralysis of the battle line resulting from the Pearl Harbor bombing automatically forced the carriers into the fighting role of paramount importance.

Subsequently, Rear Admiral John H. Towers, then chief of the bureau of aeronautics, was assigned to Admiral Nimitz' staff with the rank of vice admiral and later his successor, Rear Admiral John S. McCain, was elevated to the new post of deputy chief of naval operations for air, with the rank of vice admiral.

All down the line battle-tested naval airmen have been promoted. Successful task force leaders have been given important new assignments. The concept of naval action has been reworked to fit the strategic requirements of Pacific fighting and the role of shipborne airplanes.

Carrier Is Capital Ship.

Now, at least for the time being, the aircraft carrier has usurped the role of capital ship, both because of the job to be done against enemy island air bases and the fact that whereas the battleship can destroy a target 20 miles away, the carrier's planes can reach out 300 miles.

The basic principle, however, remains the same: that is, to use striking power in masses against major objectives rather than fritter it away in dribbles.

This is what posed the technical problems in the reorganization. The task force of 10 big carriers, for example, with its attendant battleships, cruisers, and destroyers, covers many square miles of ocean. It can put into the air at one time 800 or more planes.

The task of controlling these planes—fighters, dive bombers, and torpedo bombers—is enormously complex, and many months of work and experiment were required to perfect the methods now in use.

These methods were tried out fully in the big raid on Marcus Island in September. They were later used in the assault on Wake Island and in the attacks on Nauru and Tarawa. Currently they are credited with producing the successful results obtained by carrier planes during the last two weeks in the Rabaul-Bougainville area, where heavy damage has been inflicted on the Japs with small cost to American forces.

Names of Men in Army Seems to Be Confusing

TOPEKA, KAN.—The telephone rang at one of the headquarters of the Topeka army air base and a voice told the clerk who answered: "This is the sergeant major calling Major Sergeant."

"How's that?" asked the clerk.

The caller repeated several times. Still the clerk didn't get it. Finally the caller broke it down: "I'm Master Sergeant Southiller, the sergeant major," he said. "I want to talk to your major, Major Sergeant. His name is Sergeant."

"The clerk got it then but long after he made the connection he was muttering to himself: "Sergeant Major, Major, Major Sergeant. Errr."

Bag Makes Sea Water Palatable in a Hurry

WASHINGTON.—Development of a device which will make sea water palatable in 20 minutes was reported by the navy. The equipment, now perfected, weighs less than four pounds, and consists of a plastic bag with attached drinking tube and 14 "desalting briquets." Its use consists solely of dropping a briquet into the bag filled with sea water and a gentle kneading of the bag, it is said.

The first meeting of the Methodist Church study course was held Monday evening, Jan. 31, at the home of Mrs. Chester Graham. Papers on the first chapter of the book, "The Church after the War," by Bishop McConnell were read by the three leaders—Mrs. Grant Patterson, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Don Miller, with discussions following. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Dudley Mosure Monday evening, Feb. 14. Any woman is welcome to join this interesting study group.

Sgt. and Mrs. Paul Anthes were honored at a reception in the dining room of the Evangelical Church last Thursday evening. About 80 friends, neighbors and relatives attended. Group singing and readings by Mrs. Ed Buehrly and Betty Hower and two solos by Dickie Joes comprised the program. Rev. S. P. Kinn gave a few remarks and Miss Ruth Schenck served as pianist. A special feature of the evening was a truth and consequences program, most of the contestants taking the consequences. Ice cream, cake and cookies were served. The couple received many nice gifts. Out-of-town guests were Miss Betty Race and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anthes of Pontiac and Mr. and Mrs. Theron Bush of Unionville.

Mrs. Chas. Dingman and little son, Roy, of Saginaw spent a week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Steward, recently.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Sutton Methodist Church held an all-day meeting Wednesday at the Metcalf store at Ellington. Michigan Mirror
INTERPRETING THE NEWS

They say there is a manpower shortage in Michigan. Sure, didn't you read about it in the papers?

Then read this story about Muskegon. The waste of manpower in Muskegon war industries has become so disgraceful the town's daily newspaper, the Muskegon Chronicle, pronounces it to be "rotten" and worthy of the word "sabotage."

Freedom of the press still exists in the United States. And newspaper editors are still expressing their convictions candidly for what they are worth. In the case of the Chronicle the newspaper's verdict cannot be interpreted as "anti-labor" for several reasons.

First, the newspaper employs union printers who have enjoyed contractual relations with the Chronicle and previous daily papers for 57 consecutive years. Second, the newspaper concludes that Muskegon's waste of manpower, scandalous in its proportions, is a joint responsibility of labor and management and that "both sides... invited what is happening."

Proof of this joint responsibility is presented by the newspaper in the following cases, both of which are vouched for as authentic. We quote:

(1) "I am leaving Muskegon although it is my home and I want to stay here. I have recently been honorably discharged from the navy after two years' service. I wanted to do my part on the home front."

"I applied for work at the office of an industry where it seemed my previous experience would be of value. I was employed and assigned to a desk. I sat there for nine days without a thing to do. I protested I would sweep floors, if they did not have anything else for me."

Pleasure Traveling
Every month more than 29 million persons are riding regularly scheduled intercity buses and trains merely to make social visits or for amusement. These 29 million persons represent approximately 25 per cent of the total monthly passenger load on intercity buses and trains, the ODT says.

PARAGRAPHS ABOUT FOLKS IN THE SERVICE

Stanley P. Kirm, Jr., better known as Junior to his Cass City friends, is one of two men from Michigan in his company at Great Lakes, Ill., where he is in training with the U. S. Navy. Most of the boys in his group are from West Virginia and Ohio. "We are very busy, up at five and to bed at nine-thirty," he writes the Chronicle staff. "We have three classes in calisthenics and two or three hours of drill. Yesterday we had double typhoid shots and had some very sore arms. We have very good meals and one is always glad when chow time comes around."

In asking the Chronicle to change his address, T-5 Casimir Bartnik says: "It sure is great to get the home town paper as it kind of cheers a fellow up some... I landed in the hospital as I did have the misfortune of getting hurt. By the time the paper gets this I'll be on the operating table." T-5 Bartnik is a patient in Barnes General Hospital in Vancouver, Wash.

Scouts Mark 34th Anniversary

More than 1,000,000 Boy Scouts, Cubs and their adult volunteer leaders will observe Boy Scout Week, Feb. 8 to 14, marking the 34th anniversary of the founding of Scouting in the United States. Since 1910, more than 11,400,000 American boys and men have agreed that—"It's Great to be a Scout!"

BOY SCOUT REPORT.

By Bill Benkelman.

Troop committeeman, Ernest L. Schwaderer, had the pleasure of presenting his son, Gil Schwaderer, his tenderfoot badge. His patrol leader, Jim Mark, conducted him through the ceremony. Gil is now in the Eagle patrol.

There was a hike Sunday, Jan. 23, in which the boys learned how to read compass bearings. The boys who participated in the hike were Edward Golding, Jack Ryland, Donald Partridge, Koert Lessman, James Wallace, Albert MacPhail and James Mark.

The meeting on Jan. 27 was held in the library because of the decorating of the school gym for the President's Ball.

At this meeting, bandages required for second class first aid were demonstrated by Mr. Oatley. Sunday, Jan. 30, several boys spent the afternoon at school in Mr. Oatley's room, practicing and passing first aid. The following boys passed their first-aid test: Koert Lessman, Robt. Howell, Gil Schwaderer, John Kim, James Baker, Frederick McClorey and Donald Lee. Others completed part of the requirements.

Grate Peels

When using a recipe that calls for lemon or orange juice but not the peel, drop the peel into a snug jar and keep it in the refrigerator. Grate for extra flavor in puddings, frostings, cakes, cookies, or sugar toppings on coffee cakes.

Beats Average

The 1942 dried pea crop beat the ten-year average by 350 per cent and the 1943 production will be about one-third larger.

Lady Beetles

Lady beetles feed on other insects such as plant lice and should be allowed to escape.

Mixed With Flours

Used in baked products—cakes, breads, biscuits, pastries and souffles—small amounts of soya flour should be mixed with wheat or corn flour, whichever is being used. Mixtures of soya and wheat flours can also be used in cream soups or sauces.

Concentrated in Seaweed

Iodine, although present in very minute traces in the ocean, is concentrated in certain seaweeds and has been extracted commercially from the ash. Seaweed is used in Ireland as a fertilizer because of its high concentration of potassium, a necessary fertilizer ingredient.

Slot Machines Now Go to War

Profits Go to Special Fund Instead of Pockets of Night-Club Owners.

A FIGHTER-TRAINER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA.—Have you heard the story of the three one-armed bandits? Well, they're in the army now—three mechanical Robin Hoods who still rob everybody who comes their way, but the dough goes back to the guys in uniform.

The "bandits" are three slot machines which back in 1942 were emptying the pockets of a group of soldiers in Waycross, Ga., who were being conditioned before going overseas as part of the 12th Air Force service command.

There were so many slot machines in the fun spots of Waycross that the good citizens decided they had become a threat to the morals of their soldier guests. So a group petitioned the sheriff to step in, and the machines were confiscated and taken out of circulation.

Visitor Gets Bandits.

But shortly afterward the sheriff received a visitor—an army officer. His request was brief, but apparently eloquent, for a few days later one dime and two nickel slot machines were doing a landslide business in the post exchange at the nearby army base.

Instead of lining the pockets of night-club owners, however, the profits went into a special fund for the soldiers. Within a short time the machines had purchased a washing machine, an electric iron and many other conveniences not considered basic army equipment.

Then the men were sent overseas to North Africa. Along with them went the three slot machines, packed in innocent-looking crates. For weeks they provided entertainment for the troops and profits for the organizational fund, but when the Germans made their break through at Kasserine pass the service command unit was called upon to move hurriedly and the coin grabbers were left behind with another outfit.

Turn Up in Officers' Club.

Now they have turned up in the officers' club of a unit training fighter pilots.

Mess officer of the unit is Lieut. James Cooper of Birmingham, Ala., who once was a high school football star and who surrounds pilots in his outfit with one of the most ornate clubs in the North African theater.

The three hard-working little slot machines have paid for it all—the cherry wood bar, the handsome brown leather chairs, deep-piled bush-hush rugs and even the card table. They also have eliminated the need of mess fees for the officers and help buy many little "extras" for the enlisted men.

"A scarcity of nickels and dimes hampered operations for a while," Lieut. Cooper explained, "but that was remedied. One of the fellows turned up one day with some metal discs he had made. From then on the slot machine business boomed, and our profits have been tremendous."

The "take" from the three machines was approximately $150 a day and the monthly net is close to $5,000. All of it goes for those little extras that make the difference between satisfied and "very satisfied" soldiers.

Marines' Pet Terrier Pup Dies a Traffic Victim

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.—Little black "Zombie" met death recently, thousands of miles from his native North Carolina.

They'll never find a dog to replace him in the hearts of marines at this outpost.

"Zombie" was a tiny terrier pup when he joined the leathernecks a year ago in Kingston, N. C. Two marines on liberty swapped a rooster for him.

He was smuggled aboard a troop transport in a knapsack but soon received run of the ship. The marines considered Zombie "just one of the boys."

He died a traffic victim, snapping at the wheel of a big gun.

'Tough War, Ain't It,' Soldier's Reply to Dun

PEORIA, ILL.—An army sergeant from Peoria brought up a local law firm with a jerk when he answered its letter attempting to collect a bill he owed to a local store.

"As attorneys," he wrote, "I am most certain you are acquainted with some not-too-ancient legislation suspending pre-war debts of servicemen for the duration and six. I think this does not exclude the (blank) store. But, if I'm wrong, sue me."

"Very truly yours," he signed the missive, then added a postscript—"Tough war, ain't it, pal?"

British Send Clothes to Russia to Cut Shortage

LONDON.—Large consignments of British clothing are being sent to Russia to relieve the serious shortage there, and shipments totaling over ten million dollars in value have been promised for the coming pre-winter months. Heavy woolen cloth, sheepskins, furs, sweaters, suits and dresses manufactured here in Britain are among the items shipped to the ally on the eastern front.

Take Your Fertilizer Home with you Now!

It's a wise farmer who takes his spring fertilizer now. Shortage of labor in the fertilizer plants, combined with uncertainty of product restriction; potash and phosphates are in greater demand than available supplies can take care of. No one can tell what delays or other shortages we may have next spring.

Don't wait and hope to get all you need next spring. Take your fertilizer home and store it, and avoid delays or disappointment when you are ready for planting.

CONCRETE DAIRY IMPROVEMENTS
can help America increase food production

The Department of Agriculture has urged greatly increased milk production to meet the needs of the United Nations for dry milk, butter, cheese. Concrete improvements—such as a new milk house, cooling tank, dairy barn floor, granary, manure pit or storage cellar—will help many farmers do a bigger production job. Concrete improvements are fire-safe, sanitary, cost little to build, last for generations. Concrete farm jobs require a minimum of critical farm materials. If you need help, get in touch with your concrete contractor or building material dealer.

BOWLING

By G. W. Landon, Sec. of League.
No changes were made in the standings of the leading teams during the week but the Knoblet five managed to hold on to the top place by winning two out of their three games from Ludlow's. One game was won by the narrow margin of one pin. They should meet tougher opposition in their next three games when they take on the Pinney keglers.
The secretary of the league has been absorbing considerable ribbing from a certain few of his associate pinsters, because of a poorly bowled game in his last series against the "Cluck" Auten team, but like a champion, he rapidly recovered to roll 236 in his next game, which is the highest single game score in this schedule.
Parsch, Milligan and Retherford dropped out of the first ten high individual bowlers' list and were replaced by M. Auten, Starmann and C. Auten. Howard Woolley exhibited the best bowling of the week as he rang up a three-game total of 582 pins with a high game of 225. Games of 200 or over are
