BOWLING

What a race! Knoblet's team again command the league lead after the temporary slump they encountered a week ago, but Monday night they had little trouble in grabbing three straight from the Townsendites, which puts them out in front by one game.

The Parsch and M. Auten teams are tied for second place by winning two games each and are stub bornly hanging on near the top, hoping to make it uncomfortable for the leader in the games yet to follow.

Schwegler's and Landon's pin busters lagged behind during the week's bowling and apparently were lucky to win one game out of three, and now find themselves tied for third spot, just two games away from the league leading Knoblet Five.

Schwegler's team was handi capped somewhat in their three game series with the Retherford Five, as Captain Eddie was forced to the sidelines by a slight injury to his bowling hand and this was the first night during the winter schedule that he hasn't been in there pitching. His absence from the line-up was felt as he has been doing some very consistent keg-Yet while he rested this ling. week, he slipped into the runnerup position in the individual averages as "Mac" McCullough dropped a point during the week to allow Eddie a 19 pin edge in the standings. Retherford's team accumulated the best pin totals for the week, when Joe Jankech, lead-off man posted 553; Karr, the fourth stringer, 504; and Captain Phil contributed 544. This team is doing consistent bowling of late and should improve their position in the consistent bowling of late and should improve their position in the standings before the last 12 games of the schedule are completed. Ludlow's team had their best night of bowling in two months and pitted against the Landon pinsters, who were in the five way tie for first place, sent the Landon group into a tie for third place by winning two out of three games from them. This was accomplished without the services of Jim Mulady, their fourth string man, but the balance of the team put on the pressure to win two games by a ment. very scant margin.

In thousands of homes, electricity performs the vital job of keeping foods fresh and guarding perishables from spoilage. And COAL is required to make electricity -as well as manpower, transportation, and other critical resources.

The Government asks everyone to save electricity to save coal. You can conserve in the operation of your refrigerator by defrosting regularly. Don't keep a "snowman" in the refrigerator: heavy frost on the cooling coils makes the motor run overtime. Open the refrigerator door as little as possible. Don't overcrowd the shelves, and don't put hot foods in the refrigerator to cool. Save electricity whenever and wherever you can -- in home and store and factory.

Home Buyers by OPA WASHINGTON. - The Office of Price Administration lowered the down payment requirement for house purchases from the 331/4 to 20 per cent.

Liberalization of the down payment is in line with settled OPA rent control policy to relax provisions of the rent regulation affecting sales where the situation permits. The action was taken in recognition of some abatement in the acute pressure for housing in centers of war production for the country as a whole.

Three Germans Executed For 'Defeatist Views'

NEW YORK .- The German news agency DNB said that three more Germans had been executed for "defeatism."

The broadcast, heard by U. S. government monitors, reported that one of those executed, a 45-year-old waiter, was accused of trying to "undermine the morale of the home front by making extraordinary disruptive statements in inns and expressing defeatist views to customers." The other two men were 60 years old.

Son of Guadalcanal Hero Commands Patrol Chaser

WASHINGTON.-Lieut. Daniel J. Callaghan Jr., son of Rear Adm. Daniel J. Callaghan, killed when a shell tore the bridge from the USS San Francisco in the Battle of Guadalcanal, has taken command of a patrol chaser, the navy has anounced.

Callaghan was an end on the University of California Rose Bowl champions who defeated Alabama 18 to 0 in 1937.

Party Affiliation Matters Little With Opposition to Regulation: Labor Still Backs Government.

By BARROW LYONS

(EDITOR'S NOTE-This is one of a series of articles written for this paper by Barrow Lyons, staff correspondent of Western Newspaper Union. He has just completed an extended trip through the nation and in these reports gives his first-hand impressions of what rural America is thinking as we enter the third year of war and the first weeks of a presidential election year. Any opinions expressed are the writer's and not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

BENTON, ARK .- Ava, Missouri, is traditionally Republican. Benton, Arkansas, is traditionally Democratic.

Yet in both towns they are saying virtually the same hard things about the New Deal. Administration of the OPA and AAA comes in for the most severe criticism. What appears to be unnecessary red tape, regimentation, multiplication of federal jobs and arbitrary exercise of authority have irritated the folk of these two small towns, especially the business men, to high inflammability.

were so dried up.

Perhaps the Republican farmers around Ava are less inclined to be violently inimical to the New Deal than the Democratic farmers around Benton.

Opposition to the New Deal springs far less from party affiliation than it does from resentment against multiple restrictions and regulations. Opposition also rises from a deep-seated idea that the Democratic leaders in Washington are more interested in building power for themselves than in rendering practical service to the people-at least to the hardest working and most intelligent elements of the people.

These attitudes may be right or wrong-but they are the way more and more people in rural districts feel about it. In fact, in Arkansas feeling has risen so high among those who have voted the Democratic ticket all their lives that the situation has aspects of an incipient rebellion, Farmers have openly written defiant letters to federal authorities challenging them to come and enforce the law. Lawrence B. Burrow, a Little Rock attorney to whom Benton merchants go for legal advice, summed up the situation thus: "Many small business men are getting their affairs in shape so they can quit after the war. They are the backbone of this part of the country, but Washington hasn't learned it yet. Between high taxes and all kinds of restrictions, Washington has built up a psychology of resentment that in every way is comparable to the attitude of the American colonies toward King George III. You can go back and read the speeches of Patrick Henry, and you'll discover that he felt exactly as most of the merchants and farmers of Arkansas feel today."

Arkansas farmers and business men have gotten to the point where they pay very little attention to many federal regulations. Bootlegging of grain and other farm commodities above ceiling prices is said to be the usual practice, rather than the Labor Regulations Trouble Merchant H. J. Gingles, general retail and wholesale merchant at Benton, feels particularly resentful over the Wage and Hour law and unemployment compensation. One employee who was discharged for drunkenness received unemployment compensation. Two women who remained away from work for several months to have babies drew unemployment compensation, quite illegally; but the fact that they could do so with impunity disturbs him. But all of Benton is not against the New Deal. The town is close to Deep strip mining for bauxite near the bauxite mining region dominated by the operation of the Aluminum Company of America.
