Why Are Street Lights On in the Daytime?

C. L. Bougher, Detroit Edison representative, made the following statement:

"You may occasionally notice street lights burning in the daytime. This occurs whenever a performance test is made of the street lighting system."

"In order to insure that street lamps are on as nearly 100 percent of the dark hours as is possible, the testing is done in the daytime. These testing periods are as infrequent and of as short duration as is practical. The community does not pay for the electricity used in the tests."

Mr. Bougher added: "During the winter months at our own expense we burn street lights an extra half hour longer than our contract requires. Since the change to wartime, this is done for the protection of children going to school."

Four Districts in Tuscola Co. Exceed Their Bond Quotas

Seven Districts Short on Sales; County Lacks $115,330 to Reach Goal

Cass City, Mayville, Unionville and Vassar are the four districts of the 11 in Tuscola county that up to July 8 had exceeded their quotas in the Fifth War Loan bond sales. The other seven districts had reported sales below the quotas assigned them. County Chairman Clarence Bougher says the campaign will continue until July 31 on Series E bonds and he hopes that the seven districts may reach their quotas by the end of this month.

Total sales to July 8 had reached $1,280,670 and the quota for the county is $1,346,000. This shows an amount of $115,330 short of the quota.

The following are the sales to July 8:

	Quota	Sales
Akron	$107,680	$ 72,691.75
Caro	269,200	234,489.50
Cass City	134,600	145,598.25

Unionville	80,760	146,634.00
Vassar	188,440	196,974.75

Reported in the Chronicle last week were bond purchases of $381,000 of outside interests which were credited to Tuscola county sales and allocated to the eleven districts. Since then, the Nestle's Milk Products, Inc., reported purchases of $10,000 to be credited to the Cass City district, and Tuscola county's purchase of $20,000 was divided among the 11 districts.

The Cass City district received credit for $38,200 on its quota. This total came from the following sources: Detroit Edison Co., $5,000; State of Michigan, $17,700; Michigan Sugar Co., $500; Michigan Associated Telephone Co., $3,000; Tuscola county, $2,000; Nestle's Milk Products, Inc., $10,000.

Jamaican Group Feted by Friendship Project Here

A group of ten Jamaicans employed west of town on the Hutchinson and C. Tuckey farms were guests at a friendship supper on the lawn at the Claude Karr farm home on Tuesday evening. Twenty-two in all were seated about the tables.

The activity was sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, as a project in social action and international fellowship. Sixteen members provided the supper. The planning and serving were in charge of Mrs. Ernest Croft, president, Mrs. Claude Karr, Mrs. Sarah McLachlan, Mrs. J. D. Brooker, and Mrs. M. R. Vender.

After supper the Rev. Melvin R. Vender gave a few words of welcome to the men, explaining the purpose and announcing the sponsors of the supper. Wilfred Baker responded for the group, expressing their thanks and appreciation in a very amicable and able manner.

This was followed by a hymn sung by the group and a Jamaican cheer. An hour of visitation and questions and answers about native customs ensued. The evening was concluded with a Scripture reading and prayer by the pastor.

The young men of the two groups came from the same part of Jamaica, St. Elizabeth. In the homeland, several are members of the Thornton Presbyterian church under the British Missionary society.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

WASHINGTON.—The Netherlands foreign minister warned that the small nations would not accept post-war domination by the Big Four, and State Secretary Hull replied in 800 vaporous words that all nations would be equal in their "sovereignty."

This world had been wandering around in words, stretching them, redefining them, for a decade up to this war. Streams of words poured from various energetic people. We had such things as "technocracy" to ponder.

A man wrote a book about how we deceive ourselves with words, only he wrote it from the standpoint of how other people could be deceived with words. It was Stuart Chase, the New Deal economist, and he dug out of obscurity a new word for his idea "semantics."

He warned his fellow radicals against calling such things as the taxation-insurance-spending scheme of the New Deal by any right name, and I think he originally devised the philosophically false and realistically unprovable phrase "social security," which, like most other things, we have in name only.

I am not trying to be a philosopher, only to tell you the difficulty confronting me in attempting to transfer to you the news behind the news. Here is the Dutch minister who says he will not take domination by greater powers. We all know he always has.

ALWAYS CONTROLLED
The financial and whole economic life of his country always depended on the greater powers, and I mean always, because history will not reveal an instance in which the Netherlands controlled its own affairs without outside directing influence.

Mr. Hull replied with words equally altitudinous, and just as far off base, saying the "sovereignty" of Holland would be kept pure.

If those same words were piled 10,000 miles higher, the average intelligent man in the street would still know the Netherlands is a small country. Great Britain is a small empire, the United States is a rich and powerful nation, that Russia is a rising influence which will probably dominate Europe. The words we read in the news, therefore, merely deceive us from the fact that we already know, that cannot be changed.

So also with Spain, the French Committee of Liberation, the Russian situation, or whatever else there is in the news of either international or domestic consequence.

A columnist makes a speech in New York to the French emigres demanding that De Gaulle be recognized as the government of France. Is De Gaulle the government of France?

HE IS A POLITICIAN
He is a politician who escaped to London, failed at numerous belligerent enterprises, fought the French political elements we freed in North Africa, made a private alliance with Russia, and then announces himself as the government of France. Anyone can see that.

He is only a French politician who has succeeded in mastering the other French politicians, all of them in exile and away from their people. To recognize him as a government would, in justice and simple common honesty, be an act of cheating the people of France who cannot yet express themselves.

With Spain? Our people have been deluded into believing the Spanish civil war was a cause of democracy against Fascism, and that Fascism won. Anyone can see it was a war of Communism against Fascism, one dictatorship against another, neither of which we want, all far from democracy.

In domestic politics, we also delude ourselves with words. "Leftist" covers everything from revolutionary communism to liberal idealism, which are opposites. Communism means dictatorship, ruthless direction of the individual, while liberalism means freedom of the individual.

The only way we are going to solve any of our difficulties is to get out of words into facts. Pressure groups can deceive us, but only temporarily. Truth is an obstinate, inevitable leveler. It will insist on being dominant in the end, no matter how many words are heaped upon it.

The G. I. Bill of Rights has been passed allowing up to 52 weeks with-in two years of unemployment compensation at $20 a week, so that veterans could lay around for that length of time, although, of course, the problem is to get people back to work.

Only if the nation is working and producing can it hope to survive, because, after all the talk about gold, inflation, wage-hours, etc., work is the only constructive economic factor which can generate a successful country.

Prof. and Mrs. James Baird of the Detroit Schools were Monday callers of Miss Pearl Spinks. The Bairds were favorably impressed with the Bluff and would like to locate here.

Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Wickware and the Foster family are expected this week for an extended vacation at their cottage here. The doctor has been connected with the Medical department of the Gleaner Life Insurance Co. for many years. However, the Wickwares seem to enjoy their yearly vacations at the Bluff, and the doctor's daily game of rummy with Al Knapp is really an exhibition of great skill and accuracy.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Wurm have just moved into their remodeled cottage, the work aside from the painting having practically been finished.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Zander of Saginaw were Sunday visitors at the Burke cottage. Mr. Zander is an electrical engineer with the Austin Co., building contractors of Cleveland.

Combat Tricks

Military dogs are taught to refuse food offered by strangers; they are taught to seek out and attack enemy positions; and a multitude of other combat tricks. Dogs have been used in many places besides the Solomon area in the present war. Dog sentries patrolled the beaches all night on Midway; in Alaskan zones Siberian huskies have been used. ## 'MISSION' FINISH

Question: Please tell me how a black "mission" finish can be removed from an oak dining room table?

Answer: First, the varnish or other finish must be taken off. This can be done with varnish remover, which will soften the finish. Scrape and wipe off thoroughly, and follow with benzene to take off every trace of the remover. Provide plenty of ventilation, as these liquids are inflammable and very strong smelling. Be careful of fire. Instead of the commercial remover you can soften the finish with a hot solution of three pounds of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of water. Rinse off afterward with clear water. The dark "mission" stain can then be bleached out with a prepared wood bleach, to be had at a well-stocked paint store. (This may also take out the natural wood color of the table.) Follow the printed instructions carefully. When dry, smooth the wood with very fine sandpaper and wipe off the dust. Consult the paint dealer about the finish that you will decide on—oil stain, varnish stain, or whatever you prefer.

SUMP PUMP

Question: We would like to know how to keep our sump pump clean. The refuse from the laundry tubs is all that drains into it. After each laundering, I flush it several times and put some bleach into it. Even so, scum forms on the sides.

Answer: Try scrubbing off the scum with a strong solution of ammonia and hot water, then rinse with clear water. A handful of borax in each tubful of laundry water may help to prevent the formation of scum, particularly if the water in your locality is hard.

Warped Table Leaf

Question: How can I straighten out a one-hundred-year-old mahogany table leaf that has become warped? It is three-fourths inch thick, 14 inches wide and 3 feet 6 inches long. It has been planed and finished with linseed oil and shellac.

Answer: For such a very choice piece it would be best to entrust it to an experienced cabinet maker, or someone else who has had experience. A home method would be to lay the leaf in a space where it can remain for several days. Rest it on blocks of wood with the concave side up. Place weights of about 50 pounds on the high ends of the warped corners; you can use large books for this. After several days the piece should straighten, and should be allowed to bend slightly the other way.

Coating Wallpapers

Question: I wonder if shellacking Chinese wallpaper, which has a cloth base, would make it washable. Is it a mistake to shellack ordinary wallpaper?

Answer: Pure white shellac can be used satisfactorily, but I would prefer coating wallpaper with what is known as a water-clear, white dammar varnish. Wallpapers of any type will last longer when coated with varnish or shellac.

Burning Ashes

Question: Is there a saving of coal when I wet the ashes and burn them again and form clinkers, or should I not use the ashes again?

Answer: Ashes should not be placed on a fire. They will not only dampen the fire, but the formation of clinkers will certainly do the furnace no good. If you wish to be thrifty, the ashes might be sifted and the unburned coal picked out and reused.

Repointing Brickwork

Question: I have been told that lime should be added to cement and sand for repointing brickwork. If this is so, what is the proportion?

Answer: Yes, the addition of lime makes a smooth and workable mortar mixture. The usual proportions are one part portland cement, one part hydrated lime and five parts clean, coarse building sand.

Rough Drawing Board

Question: I would like to have your advice on smoothing the roughened surface of a drawing board. It was roughened by a pocket knife to give a better bond between the wood and rendering paper.

Answer: If the wood has been deeply gouged, the surface of the board will have to be planed, then sanded with a medium coarse sandpaper, and for a final smoothing use a "0" or "00" sandpaper. If there are no deep gouges in the board, sandpapering should be sufficient.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

Information: One of this department's close friends is a gentleman of the old school which, of course, means that he is meticulous in regard to his linen. Only in recent years has he deigned to wear shirts with collars and cuffs attached and he still insists that the only proper thing is for both the collar and cuffs to be starched stiffly. A little while ago, his shirts came back from a laundry, which he had patronized through the years, with the collars and cuffs limp, in fact flaccid. When that happened a second time and then a third, he was so irked that he changed laundries. His luck didn't change, however. So, tormented by collars that could not stand up for themselves and cuffs lacking in staminalia, he made an investigation. His finding was that in the past, laundries used six different kinds of starch. But now, under the OPA regulations, they are restricted to one. Thus, reason for lack of stiffness, but no remedy.

No Foolin': That wit blooms in the war theater as well as on the home front is the contention of "Senator" Ed Ford, who tells a story related to him by a member of the U. S. maritime service, now home on leave after taking part in the Italian campaign. The service man and a fellow fighter were stationed on gun watch on one of the ships in a convoy waiting in Salerno harbor before the signal for invasion. Both men heard a plane approaching but, because of distance, couldn't tell whether it was enemy or friendly. "That's one of the 'B' planes," asserted the fellow fighter.

"Never heard of a 'B' plane," declared his companion; "What's that?"

"Well, it's going to 'B' too damn bad if it isn't one of ours," came the retort.

One Way: Joel Ashley, who played the young lead opposite Margaret Lindsay in "Another Love Story," was well started in the films before he joined the marines a couple of years ago. (He's out now with an honorable discharge and a pension after a bad accident.) His first chance came when he was working with Warner Bros. as a studio electrician. One day he slid down a rope, from the top of the stage, practically into the lap of Michael Curtiz, the director. Instead of bawling him out, Curtiz promptly signed Ashley for a part in the picture he was making. It seems that he had been searching for actors who could slide down the rigging of a ship and Ashley, all unconsciously, had given an exhibition of what he could do in that line. In short, he slid right into the movies.

Turnabout: Speaking of the movies, petite Connie Haines comes into mind. Six years ago while Miss Haines was singing on the stage of the Roxy theater—at that time she was using her real name which is Marie Ja'Mais—her manager brought back a talent scout. An audition was given and at the conclusion, the scout opined: "She's just fair, and I'm afraid she will never get anywhere." And that was that. Now Miss Haines is the singing star of the Abbott and Costello program. During a recent broadcast, that same talent scout was in the audience. At the conclusion, he wasted no time in rushing to Miss Haines. "You're a wonderful picture bet!" he exclaimed. "Somebody should have signed you a long time ago."

Music Lovers: Bidu Sayao, Brazilian soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Co., whose recent singing of the Melisande role in "Pelleas and Melisande," brought high praise from the critics, gave her maid two tickets to the opera the other evening. The next morning, Miss Sayao asked her how she had enjoyed it. "It was fine, Madame," answered the maid, "except for two women in the back of me who discussed recipes all the time."

"Why didn't you tell them to keep quiet?" asked the singer.

"I did," replied the maid mournfully, "but they told me anyone who is really listening to the opera should not be able to hear them talking. So what was I to do?"

Around the Town: All-out Arlene Francis selling war bonds and stamps to customers in the Lyceum lobby before retreating back stage to make up for her role of Russian sniper in "The Doughgirls." "Early to Bed" Jane Deering lingering on-stage after every performance to salvage all the bobby pins the other girls leave behind. Al Smith standing up for applause at the Piere's Cotillion room as Stanley Melba and his orchestra play "East Side, West Side."

The value of trained dogs as beach-patrol aides has led to the use of them by both navy and coast guard, and the army also is training dog units in various phases of combat performance. Where human eyesight fails and sounds are too light to be heard by the soldier, sailor or marine, the dogs of war come into their own and prove their worth, particularly in security and defense.

Service News

Mr. and Mrs. John Bliss of Gagetown have received word that their son, Gerald Bliss, AMM 3-c, is located in the southwest Pacific area.

Francis A. Clara, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clara, of Gagetown, entered the Navy June 27 and is receiving his basic training at the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill.

Word has been received by Mrs. Eugene Comment of Gagetown that her husband, Technical Sergeant Eugene Comment, has arrived somewhere in England. He has served with the Ordnance ever since he entered the Army 37 months ago.

Specialist 2-c Carl Reagh of the Coast Guard and Mrs. Reagh of Elizabeth City, North Carolina, came July 3 to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reagh and Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Brown. They planned their leave to be here with relatives on their second wedding anniversary which was July 10. They left Tuesday to return to his location.

Pvt. Veron Gingrich has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gingrich, and friends here from a U. S. Army hospital in England. He had received a bullet wound in the right cheek and at the time of writing about June 24 he was to undergo an operation for removal of the bullet. He was wounded in France and had been returned to England. Pvt. Gingrich left Cass City last September and received his training in Mississippi, going from there to an embarkation camp in New Jersey. He was home on furlough the first of the year and has been overseas about two and a half months.

The following paragraphs are taken from a letter from Gaylord Wright to Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kerbyson, dated June 8:

"I received your most welcome letters and was sure glad to hear from you. I am very sorry I have not written to you long before this, but the reason is that I have been pretty busy lately doing everything—I can't tell you what—but I guess you know what I mean. I just got another swell letter from Jean and my folks and it sure helps to keep up my morale to get mail. How is Gerald? Fine, I hope. He is probably at the same place, isn't he?"

"I bet the weather is real nice down there now, isn't it, with flowers all in bloom, leaves on the trees and so on. It's been pretty warm here lately and not much rain."

"I have about 15 letters to answer this week, but the more I write the more I get."

Pvt. Arthur P. Dewey wrote to Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kerbyson under date of June 16 from somewhere in England. He says in part:

"Received your very interesting D-Day letter yesterday and sure was happy to hear from you folks again. I'll bet things were very exciting over there when the big news of the invasion was released. I'll bet everybody was excited."

"I am feeling very good and getting plenty to eat and lots of sleep so can't expect much more."

"I haven't run into any boys over here as yet but hope I do some of these days. The boys sure are doing all right over in France. They just can't be stopped now. Those Germans must be getting pretty jittery now. What counts most of all now is V or Victory day and what a relief that will be. Sure have my fingers crossed. I heard over the radio that they bombed Tokyo. I hope they blow it off the map."

"I haven't heard from Wayne in quite some time. Maybe he is over here by now. I'll bet old Cass City is pretty dead now. I can just picture it."

Pvt. Henry T. Austin, serving in the infantry, a part of the Third division, who has put in 20 months overseas, came June 19 to spend 20 days with his mother, Mrs. Jas. Garety, and other relatives here and in Detroit. Since arriving home on furlough, he suffered an attack of malaria and spent a week in the Fort Wayne hospital near Detroit. He began his army career in April, 1942, and was given his basic training at Camp Roberts, California, later moving to Camp Ord in the same state, and Oct. 24, 1942, left for the east coast for overseas service. He took part in the African campaign, landing at Phadella, taking part in the fighting at Casablanca and in Tunisia. He was thrilled to see President Roosevelt at Casablanca. Early in July of 1943, while aboard ship in the Mediterranean, the enemy attacked the ship by air and for an hour and 20 minutes they were subjected to shelling. He landed at Sicily, the battle at that place taking 39 days. From there he fought on the Anzio beachhead, which place he considers the worst of all, and later at Casino. Austin suffered a back injury in a fall in Italy and at completion of his furlough here will go to Durham, North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra A. Kelly received word Tuesday evening from the Navy department that their son, Lt. Ernest A. Kelly, U. S. M. C. R., was wounded in action on June 18, 1944. He left San Diego on Dec. 22, 1943, and was stationed somewhere in the south Pacific.

S 2-C Orville Zapfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Zapfe, of Owendale, former residents here, and his brother-in-law, S 2-c David Bower, of Saginaw, who trained at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station near Chicago together, left Chicago in different groups when they returned following their boot-leave and were both sent to Norfolk, Va. It was a pleasant surprise to the boys to find that they were at the same station.

Attention Farmers!

There is a good reason why we are restricted on the amount of farm equipment we can buy.

The reason is that large implement companies have men in important places in Washington.

There is also a good reason why we have to sell farm produce below cost.

These Conditions Can Be Corrected

If you are interested, come to the next United Dairy Farmer, District 50, meeting, UMWA.

And it isn't likely that our local dealers are to blame for this condition.

There is reassurance in viewing a familiar scene. It stirs brave memories, awakens old loyalties, revives old desires. The sky above you and the ground under your feet are again part of you. They always have been—always will be yours.

Such things make up the thrill a man feels as he speaks of his own hometown.

Mackinac Island—Five overseas battle casualties and three training camp casualties, convalescent patients from the Percy Jones government hospital at Battle Creek, sat on the floor of a partially filled railroad baggage car.

The Pennsylvania train, jammed with vacation-bound civilians, was leaving Grand Rapids en route to Mackinaw City and intervening west-coast resort cities.

No accommodations were available in the coaches.

It was the 1944 Fourth of July week end, our third national holiday since Pearl Harbor.

And this happened in Michigan.

At the Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island, where the eight men were the personal guests of Stewart Woodfill, owner and president, we were shocked and angered when one of these valiant, Lt. Ray Marty, former artist from Detroit and New York City, casually mentioned the fact.

"Don't misunderstand me," he hastened to explain. "We're not complaining. After what some of these men have gone through, the floor of a baggage car isn't so bad. It's just a bit messy on your uniform, that's all."

"The cheerful spirit of these wounded men is wonderful—yes, marvelous. They're anxious, every man, to rejoin their old outfits."

"Major Robert Acheson, for instance, was with the 504th paratroopers, a commando regiment in Italy. The men jumped from the sky and became surrounded by Germans. Ammunition ran low."

"Acheson led a detail of ten men to fight their way through. The going was tough. Acheson, an all-round expert in handling weapons, was wounded in the shoulders. Ahead was a German tank, the last obstacle."

"As Acheson ran forward, a

Vegetable Preparation and Processing (See Directions Below)

Home-grown vegetables are beginning to push their way out of the soil in your own Victory gardens. Perhaps, at first, you will be so delighted that you will want them all for the table, but soon will come the realization that you can "put up" most of your points for next winter if you can them now.

Because pressure cookers are unrationed this year, most homemakers will use them for processing vegetables. That is all to the good, for the use of the pressure cooker cuts down processing time, and insures more success in canning if properly used.

Non-Acid Vegetables. Before getting into the fundamentals of canning, we must understand the difference between acid and non-acid vegetables. Tomatoes are in the acid group, but the others, green beans; corn, peas, etc., are all non-acid, and require processing under pressure so that they will keep.

Fresh Vegetables. Selection of the vegetable for canning is one of the important steps. You will be much more careful of what vegetables you put up, if you remember these two points:

1. You get out of your can only what you put into it, i.e., if you can an old, withered ear of corn, then that's what you'll have when you open the jar.

2. Canning, at best, does not improve your food; it only preserves it.

Save Used Fat!

Another old maxim that comes in handy during canning time is the one which goes, "two hours from garden to can." That means that you pick the vegetables from your garden and start canning immediately.

If you buy vegetables, get to the market early, and select those that come in fresh in the morning. Take them home and get them started on their way to the jar as fast as possible.

Incidentally, if you are using your own Victory garden as a supply base for canning vegetables, be sure to pick them in the morning while the morning dew is still on them. Picking them later in the day, after the sun has dried out some of their natural moisture, will not give nearly as good results.

Preparation Required.

1. It's a good idea to wash jars first in hot soapy suds and check them for nicks and cracks. All canning equipment may be prepared a day ahead to have everything in readiness when canning actually begins.

2. Prepare vegetable as directed in chart above. In many cases pre-cooking is recommended to shrink the vegetable and set the color.

Lynn Says:

Are you perplexed as to how many jars you should have for canning? How much will the vegetable make when "put up?" Here are some guides:

Asparagus—12 pounds yields 6 pints "stalk," or 2 pints "cut."
Beans—1 bushel makes 40 pint jars, cut in thin slices.
Corn—100 ears of Golden Bantam yields about 14 pints.
Greens—1 bushel spinach yields 13 pint jars.
Dandelion greens—1 bushel yields 15 pint jars.
String beans—1 bushel yields 17 to 20 quarts.
Tomatoes—1 bushel yields 16 to 20 quarts.

3. As soon as vegetable is prepared, get into the jar as soon as possible, otherwise flat sour may develop.

Packing Vegetable.

4. Most vegetables are packed to within one-half inch of the top of the jar. Exceptions to this rule are corn, peas and lima beans.

5. Liquid in which vegetable was precooked may be added to the jar except in the case of strong liquids such as spinach and greens.

Before Processing.

6. Wipe top of jar before placing on lid. Use manufacturers' direction in this case, as all lids differ and your manufacturer knows what kind of tightening is necessary.

Save Used Fat!

Processing.

7. Process vegetable, using timetable given above. In using the pressure cooker, allow steam to escape for 7 to 10 minutes before closing petcock. Allow pressure gauge to come up to desired temperature before starting to count processing time.

When processing time is over, remove cooker from range, then let pressure gauge come back to zero before opening.

Storage Tips.

8. Remove jars from cooker and lay on several thicknesses of cloth or paper. Do not tighten lid unless so directed by the manufacturer of the jar. Some jars should not be inverted. Here again, consult your individual directions.

Use of Vegetables.

Before tasting or using any home-canned vegetables, boil them in an open vessel for 10 minutes. This will kill any of the toxins which may have formed in the jars.

Chocolate Chip Pie.

1 baked pie shell
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/4 cups milk
3 egg yolks
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg whites
3 tablespoons sugar

Soak gelatin in cold water. Scald milk. Add slowly to beaten egg yolks. Add 1/2 cup sugar, salt and nutmeg. Cook in double boiler over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture coats a spoon. Add soaked gelatin and vanilla. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat in remaining 3 tablespoons sugar. Fold in gelatin mixture. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill until firm. Sprinkle with chipped semi-sweet chocolate.

Lemon Meat Loaf.

(Serves 5 to 6)

1 1/2 pounds lean pork, ground
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup cracker crumbs
2 strips bacon
Juice and rind of 1 lemon
1 cup canned tomatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup milk

Combine the meat, eggs, cracker crumbs, seasonings and lemon juice and rind. Place in loaf pan and cover with tomatoes and strips of bacon. Bake covered in a slow (250-degree) oven for 2 hours. Remove cover and add milk and continue baking uncovered for 1/2 hour more.

Allied Forces Throw Full Weight
Against Nazi Lines in Normandy;
OPA Begins Black Market Drive

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

France—With big guns rumbling in distance, U. S. troops chase sheep from bivouac area in Normandy.

EUROPE:

Normandy Drive

U. S. and British troops threw their full weight at both ends of the German lines in Normandy in their effort to develop a full-scale drive into the French interior.

On the Russian front to the east, powerful Red forces continued their steady advance on the northern front, threatening the Germans' positions in the Baltic states, East Prussia and old Poland.

In Normandy, U. S. troops attacked at the base of the Cherbourg peninsula on the west end of the front, while British forces exerted pressure on the Nazis' defense pivot of Caen on the eastern sector. With both sides increasing the scale of their attacks, more and more troops were being pressed into the battles.

One Nazi stronghold after the other fell into Russian hands as the Reds moved westward over the ancient invasion route to Germany, with the bulk of the enemy managing to detach themselves and avoid complete encirclement and annihilation.

Italy

Falling back under the heavy pressure of the U. S. Fifth and the British Eighth armies, the Nazis continued their retreat to their new defense line in northern Italy, guarding the rich industrial and agricultural plains about the Po valley.

As order was restored in the Rome area, it was announced that $30,000,000 of U. S. investments in the region had been assessed and inventoried, and some already had resumed operations with profit. Among U. S. enterprises are American Express, Otis Elevator, International Business Machines, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, Warner Brothers, Singer Sewing Machine, National Radiator and Helena Rubenstein's.

As the Nazis fell back in the north, they not only took advantage of the rugged terrain for defense, but also converted every small village into a fortress, requiring detailed firing power to reduce.

ROBOTS:

Attacks Irksome

Although German reports that their self-propelled robot bombs have left south England and London in a sea of flames have been discounted, Prime Minister Winston Churchill was scheduled to mount the platform in parliament to discuss the critical situation caused by the new weapon.

Presumably launched from ramps from the French coast, and power driven by fuel and compressed air and automatically piloted by three gyro-compasses, the robots have fallen blindly on residential and other districts, causing material damage and casualties.

Surprised at first by the flying robots, the British quickly coordinated their anti-aircraft and fighter plane defenses to combat the missiles, which zoom at 300 or more miles per hour at low altitudes and suddenly plummet off on a 30-degree angle to plummet to earth, exploding with the force of a 1,000-pound bomb.

Declaring that Hitler's regime would have lost a good share of its standing with its own people had the Germans failed to retaliate for Allied raids, an authoritative Nazi publication said that the robot attacks had bolstered the morale of the home front.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

HAY SHORTAGE: With 10 per cent less hay available for each farm animal this year, farmers are faced with an acute shortage of other feeds, says the Middle West Soil Improvement committee. To meet this situation, pasture improvement including the application of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash is essential to boost production on existing acreage, it states.

SEA SERPENT: A "sea serpent" 35 feet long, "with humps on its yellow, shell-like back" was reported seen in Payette's lake, near McCall, Idaho. The strange creature has been observed periodically for the last 10 years, it is said. One previous scoffer, Walter Bowling, was among the group on shore who saw the "thing." He is now convinced that it exists.

SHOES:

Supply Tight

Because of the army's increased use of leather in the new combat boot and announcement of the need of 200,000,000 pairs of shoes for lend-lease, there is little prospect of an easing in shoe rationing.

Recent government releases of rubber and plastic scrap for soles and an increase in production facilities for their manufacture, however, reflects the improved condition in output of non-rationed shoes, which totaled over 25,000,000 pairs in the first four months of 1944, away above the 5,000,000 made during the same period last year.

The expanding leather supply due to increased cattle slaughter offers some possibility for more non-rationed shoes toward the end of the year, but demand is expected to far outstrip stocks. Leather imports continue below normal.

MINERS:

Buck Lewis

Once one of John L. Lewis' staunchest boosters while president of the Illinois district of the United Mine Workers, Ray Edmundson now is rallying support for his fight against alleged union domination by appointed officials.

Although Edmundson claimed that 21 out of 31 UMW districts representing 75 per cent of the union membership do not elect their principal officers, and that his supporters represented the consensus of thinking of the miners, his movement attracted only 80 delegates from 14 districts to a meeting in Cincinnati.

Purpose of the meeting was to develop a program for district self-rule for presentation to the UMW's convention in the same city September 12, when Edmundson himself will be a candidate for UMW chieftain against Lewis.

Women in the News

First superintendent of the U. S. Navy Nurse Corps and first and only woman to receive a navy cross while still alive, the late Mrs. Lenah S. Higbee also became the first woman in the naval service to have a fighting ship named after her. Mrs. Higbee's name will be given to a destroyer now under construction in Bath, Me.

Mother of 11 other children, Mrs. Phillip Frontzak of Chicago, Ill., gave birth to a 14 lb., 9 1/2 oz. baby girl. In addition to being over average weight, the baby also measured 24 inches in length, compared with the usual 20.5 inch, 10 inches tall, Mrs. Frontzak weighs 300 lbs.

MONEY:

World Plans

Meeting in Bretton Woods, N. H., under the presidency of U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, delegates from 44 nations discussed plans for the stabilization and lending of money in the post-war world through international banks.

Stabilization of money would be achieved through the creation of an 8-billion dollar fund from which nations could draw to uphold the value of their own currency when there was no demand for it, or to pay off interest charges, etc.

A fund of 10 billion dollars would be used for long-term loans, with the money primarily used to guarantee money let out by private bankers of the various nations.

U. S. participation in each of the organizations would approximate 2 billion dollars.

Although plans call for U. S. contributions totaling well over two billion dollars for each project, congress will have final say on whether this country will participate.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER:

Russ Get Patents

In accordance with its policy of giving the government free rights to its patents and processes for military purposes during the war, Du Pont's has made available its procedure for manufacturing neoprene synthetic rubber to Russia.

In the first large-scale agreement of its kind, the Russians will receive full technical details necessary for building and operating plants to produce neoprene, the first successful general purpose synthetic rubber ever developed. While Russia is at war with Germany, the Soviets will not be compelled to compensate Du Pont's, and payment in the postwar period will be dependent upon the volume of Russian production.

Adapted to many civilian as well as military uses because of its resilience and resistance to flame and abrasion and deterioration by sunlight, heat and oils, neoprene was developed by Du Pont chemists working on original discoveries of Father Julius Nieuwland of Notre Dame university.

PUBLIC LANDS

Public lands that would yield oil if developed should be opened to exploitation by the states and thus relieve the shortage of gasoline, according to Warwick Downing, chairman of the public lands committee of the Interstate Oil Compact commission.

Senator Hatch, chairman of the senate public lands committee, advocated the rewriting of the act to clarify many points and to encourage exploratory operations for oil and gas on the public domain.

Guests Lift White
House Silverware

Souvenir-Hunting Visitors
A Real Nuisance.

WASHINGTON. — Mrs. Henrietta Nesbitt, White House housekeeper, with all the ordinary rationing and servant problems of any Main street housewife, has her tasks complicated by stickymitten guests who delight in taking souvenirs from the Executive Mansion.

"They've cut all the fringe off the new curtains in the East room," Mrs. Nesbitt, a neat, round, gray-haired little woman, wailed as she sat in her office off the White House kitchen. "They've even taken the tassels off the tie-backs."

"This petty plundering goes on all the time, she said, sometimes more, sometimes less. Wartime curtailment of entertaining has reduced it only a little.

"Three pairs of sugar tongs disappeared at a tea party," Mrs. Nesbitt said, shaking her head. "Spoons are a favorite item of collectors, and towels and napkins are next."

Mrs. Nesbitt, who has been housekeeper at the Executive Mansion since the Roosevelts moved in, said this unhappy tendency on the part of Americans was not due to unbridled predatory instincts, but "just the good old American habit of collecting souvenirs, which apparently can't be helped."

"There just doesn't seem to be anything to be done about it," she said, with a little shrug, as she turned to other problems of running the nation's No. 1 home.

4.3 Pct. of U. S. Workers
Quit Jobs Each Month

WASHINGTON. — Out of every 1,000 workers employed in industry, 43 quit each month.

Five leave to enter the armed services, six are discharged, 51 are hired and nine are laid off during the same period.

The Office of War Information cited these figures in a study of the turnover situation to point up one of the reasons why industry suffered a net loss in working force in December. This was the first time since the United States entered the war that employment had declined.

Loses Patience After
30 Years, He Files Suit

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Shale Malout lost his patience and filed suit for divorce.

Thirty years ago, he said, he bade his wife goodbye and left his home in Serbia to live in the United States. She promised to follow as soon as possible. Malout worked hard and sent her enough money to make the journey. He kept sending her money, but she kept deferring the trip. After 30 years, Malout announced he is through. He charged his wife with desertion.

Nazi Prisoners to Man
New Laundry at Fort

FORT DEVENS, MASS. — Lieut. Col. Erle R. Holmes, post quartermaster, has announced that German prisoners of war will supply labor for a half-million-dollar post laundry and dry cleaning plant.

The laundry has been under construction since last September and is expected to open for operations before April 1.

The plant is designed to handle the cleaning requirements of this fort, Lovell General hospital and Cushing General hospital in nearby Framingham.

Boss Keeps a String
On 'Gift' to Employees

CHICAGO, ILL.—Jack T. Stern, $60,000 a year furniture executive who will get $600 a year pay in the navy, turned his store over to his employees for the duration, but cautioned them about getting his job back, saying: "If you don't hold my job open and I have to sell apples, I'm going to put my stand right on the corner of this building."

Decline in Birth Rate
Under Study in Britain

LONDON.—A royal commission set out in quest of a solution to Great Britain's declining birth rate, described officially as "one of the most somber anxieties of the times."

In its search for the answers the commission expected to interview a representative number of women who have been married since 1918, when the decline in the birth rate began.

More children were born in 1942 than in any year since 1913, statistics show, but a commission member said this was just a "wartime development and is no indication that the real problem has been solved."

'P. W.' Is Just a Blot
On Porky's Escutcheon

PASADENA, CALIF. — Porky Wade went back to high school recently with his "P. W." monogram missing from the back of his work jacket — anything to preserve the peace. Porky wore his monogrammed jacket the other day while delivering eggs and an alert war worker mistook the initials for the usual "prisoner of war" brand and called the police who collared him promptly.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

"His orderly, unscathed by the murderous fire, wiped out the tank's crew of six Germans with hand grenades. Only Acheson and three others were alive when they managed to reach the American lines.

"For this valor in action, Acheson was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Silver Star. He's quite a guy."

There is no doubt that historic Mackinac, sold by the Indians to the English for $25,000 in the Revolutionary war, knows now it is in a war.

More than 300 years ago, Jean Nicolet, wearing a robe of Chinese damask, first saw this rocky isle in the straits between Lake Huron and Lake Michigan while he was seeking the elusive northwest passage to China.

Capt. Patrick Sinclair, a sturdy Scot, moved the fort from below the straits to the island in 1781 at the very time George Rogers Clark was making American history at Kaskaskia and Vincennes and menacing Detroit.

The bull-dogged English, stubborn as they are today, held tight to Mackinac following the Revolutionary war and until 1796. During the War of 1812 they seized it from the American garrison without firing a shot.

Federal troops manned the fort during the Mexican war and the Civil war.

The fort was a state park during the war with Spain and World War I. Today, 89 of the island's population of 517 persons are in the armed services.

Major Acheson and his companions may not have been aware that Mackinac Island, the historical shrine and for a good three-quarters of a century a nationally famous summer resort, reflected a thoughtful and sober mood on July Fourth, 1944.

Members of the Michigan Tourist council and the Michigan Agricultural Marketing council were concluding a three-day conference in post-war planning. Governor Kelly, Mrs. Kelly and the "Kelly Kids," as an island youngster called them, were there for a quiet rest at the only residence the state of Michigan provides for its governor—a modest summer cottage adjoining the old fort that rests the hill by the harbor.

The John Jacob Astor house headquarters of the American Fur company a century ago, has been stored and is open to the public. The Biddle log house, old residence of the Biddle family, was purchased recently by Frank McKee. Grand Rapids and will be repared by him as a personal contribution to the state.

The old Earley house, famed for medical studies of Dr. William Earley, has been purchased by Parke-Davis Co. of Detroit and donated to the state as a memorial. Adrian N. Langius, architect, was to arrive this week to prepare plans.

At the Grand hotel, with its oldest porch overlooking the straits, the Casino night club dark the first time in years.

As the battle casualties from Percy Jones hospital stepped from trim, white ferry boat, the Mackac Islander, they sighted upon modern concrete dock.

This wharf, one of the finest of the Great Lakes, is the product of the new park and harbor commission, a utility of the city of Mackinac Island.

Near the Grand hotel is a public bathing beach, three-quarters of a mile long, costing $17,000.

These improvements, as well as the Astor house restoration, were financed by a tax paid by steamship companies on their passengers. Thus the tourists are making possible, just as they have done at Bermuda for years, a gradual rejuvenation of this quaint, secluded, carefree island resort, so rich in historical lore under three flags.

Among the wounded Yanks at Mackinac were Lt. Paul D. Harrison of Lansing, member of the First Armored Division, who lost a leg in Italy; Lt. William Jeffries of the Third Division, who sustained a back wound from a bursting shell at Cassino; Lt. Harry F. Schafer, Columbia army air base, who got a broken arm when a B-26 skidded on the ice during a landing; and Lt. Charles Bolton of Niles, 36th Infantry Division, victim of a sniper's bullet while on night patrol in Italy.

In addition to Lt. Marty, who is a talented portrait artist, were Lt. Russell L. Holcomb of the Military Police corps and Lt. Rex B. Yocum of the 117th Field Artillery, 31st Division, both of whom were nursing tanning injuries—a broken arm and a twisted back.

From Sicily and Cassino and now Normandy in France, to the quiet picturesque island at the straits is a long, long distance. Percy Jones patients are bridging that gap in small groups of eight men this summer. They are giving to this health-giving northland a new purpose and vibrant significance. Hundreds of other soldiers at Percy Jones would welcome such a blessing. Here are the men who, above all others, should be accorded the privilege of enjoying the bracing, stimulating air of northern Michigan and its scenery of inspiring grandeur. Mackinac, at war, is thinking of these men with chastened humility. And so are we.

Don't keep a "snow-man"
in your refrigerator—

IT COSTS YOU MONEY!

Warm weather means an added burden on your refrigerator. The hotter the weather, the harder it works to keep things cool. If you notice a "snow-man" forming inside—heavy frost on the cooling coils—it's time to get busy and defrost the refrigerator. That layer of frost is costing you money: It means that the refrigerator must work overtime to absorb heat through a blanket of frost around the cooling coils. And for economical operation, the motor should run as little as possible.

It's only human to keep "putting-off" the chore of defrosting—especially in summer, when ice cubes are in big demand and you hesitate to have your refrigerator out of commission even for a few hours. But see that it is done regularly. Do not use an ice pick or a sharp instrument to remove ice; this sometimes punctures the refrigerating coils. After defrosting, wash the whole interior (coils, shelves, trays, etc.) with lukewarm water and mild soap. Unless the motor of your refrigerator is hermetically sealed, have it oiled and inspected periodically. Remember that your refrigerator must last for the duration. Treat it accordingly! ### WHAT A CHANCE!

The traveler stopped his car with a swirl of dust at the gas pump of the combination general store and gas station deep in the hills. The proprietor, bewhiskered and wearing a long apron, ambled out. "Well," remarked the traveler, while the other fumbled with the gas pump, "and what do you think of the war?"

The proprietor scratched his chin, looked up frowning. "What war?"

The traveler was amazed. "You mean you don't know we're at war with the Axis?"

"Nope, heard nothin' about it."

"Then quick, buddy!"—the traveler's voice trembled with suppressed ecstasy—"fill up the tank and roll me out five new tires!"

$64 Question

Smart—Why, of course. What is it?

Accused—How can I be a forger? Why, I can't even sign my own name!

Judge—You are not charged with signing your own name!

The following column was written by Walter Winchell in 1943, shortly after the release of the book, "Know Your Hay Fever," by Drs. A. P. Sperling and A. B. Bersford. The material was selected from the book.

HAY fever is now a national problem. It ranks first in prevalence among the non-fatal diseases in the U. S. today. . . . Two hundred million man hours are lost yearly to defense industry through it. There are over 250,000 hay fever cases in N. Y. City, and 5,000,000 throughout the nation, with over 10,000 new cases added yearly. . . . The most critical days are still ahead this September for hayfeverites, judging by the way the official pollen counts are running.

The underlying causes of hay fever are unknown other than that certain types of dust—light, wind-blown pollen (the male fertilizing element for the flowers of trees, weeds and grasses) affect those people who have inherited a tendency to be allergic to them due to something in their blood chemistry which is sensitive to the pollen. This sensitivity manifests itself by inflammation of the membranes of the eyes, nose, mouth, sinuses, intestines and discomfort in many bodily organs.

The sneeze is the badge of the hayfeverite. . . . Outstanding pollen puffs sneeze fifteen to fifty times non-stop.

It requires a stretch of the imagination to appreciate how a hayfeverite suffers. . . . Only the doctor, your mother, wife or sweetheart thinks you're not an incorrigible crank. . . . Others consider you a hypochondriac, high-strung, nervous, sickly, dynamic, thwarted and generally maladjusted.

It is scientifically established that once a person inherits an allergy to pollen he will be allergic to many other things—foods he eats, things he smells or inhales, house dust, spores, fabrics and other types of pollen grains. Even his wife's (or girl's) face powder.

Decorative, perfumed flowers are little trouble to hayfeverites because they are insect pollinated.

Research shows that hayfeverites never lose their hay fever. . . . Ten per cent of those who take inoculative treatments build up enough tolerance to it to lose their sensitivity to it in three to twenty years, the other ninety per cent who take treatments continue to have it yearly. . . . The worst after-effect of hay fever is that thirty per cent of the untreated cases develop asthma.

People travel to high altitudes in the mistaken belief that they can escape pollen, but many hay fever plants grow at high altitudes. . . . With the aid of boats and airplanes, pollen clouds have been noted 200 miles out to sea and 9,000 feet in the air.

There is no escape from hay fever at the seashore, winds blowing from inland carry pollen grains. But winds blowing from the ocean will be less troublesome—unless islands are nearby.

All people wearing dark glasses are not celebrities incognito. Hayfeverites find them effective for overcoming photophobia or sensitivity to light that bothers them.

Lose Sharpness

Automobile drivers in middle age cannot see as well in twilight or under night lighting as can younger drivers. With advancing age the pupils of the eyes grow smaller; at 50 the area of the pupils is only about half of that in the early 20s. Because less light is admitted, sight of old eyes in dim illumination is not as sharp as that of young eyes.

Nutrition Key

Phosphorus is the key to proper nutrition of farm animals because of its value in conversion of carbohydrates into fat and energy. This element is derived from the feeds animals consume, and the feeds get their supply from the soil. If soils are deficient in available phosphorus the deficiency continues on down the line.

Spurred Puppeteers

Back in the 16th century puppet shows were known to Londoners as "motions" and were so referred to by Shakespeare, and Ben Jonson. Puppet shows had their greatest development in England under Cromwell, when the Puritans closed the theaters. Many actors then became puppeteers.

Seed Treatment
Hot-water treatment is used for seeds of cabbage-family, tomatoes, eggplant and celery. For seeds of the cucumber family and peppers, corrosive sublimate is used. Still another method is to use "certified" seed. Such seed is grown under controlled conditions and usually the fields are inspected to insure that a minimum of disease is present. Another step to prevent disease is to treat the seed with a fungicidal dust to prevent seed-rot and damping-off. Seeds of most vegetables usually suffer from seed-rot and damping-off unless so treated. Some seedsmen treat the seed with a fungicidal dust before packaging.

Spies! William Siebold Posing as Nazi Rounds Up German Spy Ring

He was given $1,000 to build a secret radio station.

FACING facts, it is safe to say that there is probably no large plant making war materials without at least one spy or saboteur in it. If you are in such a plant, and believe you have spotted one, don't betray this by word or action. But, report it, at once, to the proper authorities. You may be doing your country a great service.

While the chances are you will not be in the position to do what William Siebold did for the United States, his story, so recently in the news, is a shining example for all Americans to follow.

William Siebold was born in Germany. Leaving it in 1921, he worked in South America and the United States. He is a naturalized citizen and a great patriot. It was he who, virtually single handed, rounded up the Nazi spy ring in New York, and sent all 33 members to prison. The details of his exploit read like the plot for a motion picture thriller. For almost a year and a half, his life was in continual danger. It all began when, in 1939, Siebold returned to Germany to visit his mother.

Soon after his arrival, the Nazis, working on the principle of "once a German, always a German," attempted to enlist his services as a spy in the United States. But loyal American Siebold had no sympathy for the Nazis or their cause, so declined their offer.

Then his passport disappeared and he was officially notified that it would remain lost until he joined a group of spies and agreed to send the Nazis information from and about the United States. Siebold had little choice except to agree. After a month's training in a spy school in Hamburg, his missing passport reappeared. He was given instructions, three micro-film messages for German agents in New York, $1,000 to build a secret short-wave radio station, and sent back to America.

Upon arrival, his first step was to contact the FBI. But the spy school in Hamburg had taught him well. Realizing he might well be watched, he made the contact through a friend. The FBI saw, as did Siebold, the opportunities posing as an enemy would give him. Following their instructions, Siebold opened a "draftsman's" office on West Forty-second street, New York. Meanwhile, the G-men, using the Nazis' $1,000, built the secret radio transmitter in a remote section of Long Island. From this a series of messages were sent to Hamburg—signed "Siebold." Many were deliberately garbled. However, enough contained authentic information about harmless matters to bolster Berlin's confidence in Siebold.

As both he and the FBI had hoped, Siebold's office became a clearing house for Nazi spies in New York. What the spies did not know was that the office was an ingenious spy trap. Hidden cameras took both still and motion picture photographs of the spies in conference with Siebold.

As a result of this evidence, every one of the 33 spies who reported are now serving prison terms. And all mainly because of the patriotic daring of one man, William Siebold, who knew enough to work quietly with the FBI.

If you believe you have found a spy, don't warn him by either action or word. Notify the proper authorities.

NO WASTED WORDS

A distinguished surgeon, famed for his laconic speech as well as for his professional skill, met one day his equal in a woman of few words, who came to him with a hand badly swollen and inflamed.

"Burn!" asked the doctor.

"Bruise," the woman replied.

"Poultice."

The next day the patient returned and the following dialogue ensued.

"Better?"

"Worse!"

"More poultice."

Two days later the woman called again, and this was the conversation:

"Better?"

"Well! Fee?"

"Nothing!" exclaimed the doctor.

"Most sensible woman I ever met!"

Plasma Yields Blood Clotter

New Material That Controls Hemorrhage Hailed as Great Discovery.

WASHINGTON.—A new hemorrhage-controlling material made from the blood of war-time volunteer donors and called "fibrin foam" is hailed by an army neuro-surgeon as "one of the great discoveries of this war."

The chief of the neuro-surgical service of the army's Walter Reed hospital said the material—a spongy substance which quickly controls bleeding from small blood vessels and large veins of the nervous system—is shortening the time formerly required for brain and nerve operations on military and civilian casualties. He declared another new material obtained from human blood is still under experimental appraisal by the army. It is called "fibrin film" and is a thin, tough sheet-like material which in operations already performed on civilians, has proved to be an effective substitute for the dura, the envelope that protects the brain.

Developed at Harvard.

Both "fibrin foam" and "fibrin film" are made of fibrinogen and thrombin, the constituents of blood which promote clotting. Both were developed by the department of physical chemistry at Harvard university. The foam and the film were produced as by-products of the breaking-down of plasma.

As a result of clinical trials at Harvard, it was announced to military neuro-surgeons attending a conference at the hospital that the foam is being made available to all army neurological centers in the continental United States, and eventually may be supplied to surgical stations in the combat areas.

Dr. Franc D. Ingraham, one of the group of Harvard investigators who developed the foam and film, said the advantages of the substances were these:

The foam, applicable in sizes ranging from that of a pinhead for checking blood ooze from small vessels, to that of a golf ball for implanting in the bed of a removed tumor, can be left inside when the wound is closed.

Absorbed in System.

The foam is rapidly absorbed by the system and there is virtually no tissue reaction.

The film, he reported, can be sewed directly to emblems of a damaged coating of the brain, and provides a covering until nature regenerates a protective membrane of her own over the gap. He said that so far as he knew, there is no other dural substitute now available which produces as little reaction as fibrin film, and no other which adapts itself so readily to any contour of the brain.

In an interview, Ingraham emphasized that the fibrin foam could not check bleeding from large arteries, but he declared it had possibilities of wide application in branches of surgery other than neuro-surgery to which it is now limited.

LAST HALF YEAR LICENSE

PLATES GO ON SALE JULY 15

The last half automobile license plates go on sale July 15. Until

Aug. 10, all first half plates must be surrendered to branch office when purchasing the last half license, says Edward Coler, manager of the Tuscola county branch office.

Capital Government

The District of Columbia is governed by three commissioners, appointed by the President of the United States with the advice and consent of the senate. In a general way, these commissioners are vested with jurisdiction covering the ordinary features of municipal government. All other municipal officers are appointed under Civil Service.

The chief of police may be selected outside Civil Service, but as a practice he is selected from the uniformed force. The citizens of the District, as such, do not have a voice in determining who these officials shall be.
