King Egbert of the West Saxons in 852 A. D. The bishop, noted for his humility, requested that he be buried in the churchyard underneath the eaves of the cathedral so that the rain might fall on his grave. Later the monks decided to move his remains to a more worthy tomb inside the cathedral. This occurred on the saint's feast day, July 15, and a legend arose that it rained hard that day and continued to rain for 40 days, resulting in the superstition that rain or sun on St. Swithin's day presaged similar weather for the following 40 days.

Unsung Heroes Valuable in

MOLINE, ILL,-Homing pigeons, the unsung heroes, are playing a prominent part with their message carrying in the war.

Leslie C. Swanson of Moline, Ill. author of two books and a number of magazine articles on the subject of homing or racing pigeons, has compiled a list of accomplishments of the Allies' feathered warriors which include such things as bringing help to fliers downed at sea or in isolated sectors, flying informa tion from occupied Europe to England and serving as a communica tion link with advance forces.

Pigeons are also used by dirigibles and planes to provide data on the location of submarines when radio messages would have served to warn the prey.

War developments are likewise affecting the pigeons, vast changes

In one minute a Detroit Edison trouble dispatcher had contacted the emergency crew of truck 23 -at that time in the vicipity of the crippled plant-by short wave radio over our Station WOIL.

One day, at 5:01 p. m., a tool and die company producing equipment for B-29's sent an urgent call to the Edison Company reporting that its electric power was off and vital war production halted.

Truck 23 - responding to the call of its short wave receiver-was speeding on its way toward the trouble even before the dispatcher finished giving complete details.

In six more minutes the skilled overhead lines crew of truck 23 was at work repairing the break in the system, so that war production could resume.

Just 39 minutes after Detroit Edison received the emergency call, power was restored and vital war work was moving again.

We are not always able to equal this record for speed. But by means of two-way FM (Frequency Modulation) radio, 49 Edison cars and trucks are always in touch with our central trouble switchboard, permitting emergency crews to be dispatched speedily to the scenes of major emergencies. We are constantly seeking new ways to improve our operation and give better service to our customers.

SIX GREAT DAYS!

Help in War Work ing Over Big Tasks.

PITTSBURGH .-- Pittsburgh's "infant industries" carry on in face of wartime handicaps.

Operating as the Junior Achievement plan, scores of miniature corporations, organized, staffed and managed by boys and girls 14 to 21, have taken over jobs born of wartime necessities,

One tiny firm is producing chemical glassware for war work; another is supplying Boy Scouts with shoulder packboards, a demand which far exceeds supply.

By no means are these industries to be considered hobbies or playroom pastimes, for these youngsters have displayed acumen far beyond their years. The Junior Achievement companies are capitalized by stock subscriptions selling at 25 or 50 cents a share and paying dividends.

Nor is the J. A. a stranger to the usual business worries for they, too, sweat over bookkeeping, fret over tax statements and wrinkle brows in research.

Large companies take a big brother attitude towards the J. A. but lend only technical advice.

A glance at the variety of services offered by Junior Achievements shows the importance of their work. The Scientific Research company, for instance, develops and markets a pink cleaning fluid which is highly successful.

Alert to the shortages of radios, refrigerators, washing machines, irons and other household appliances, the Junior Electric Appliance Fixture company offers excellent repair services. This thriving concern is maintained by 14- and 15-yearolds. And is sponsored by the Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. company. An inexpensive incubator for pre-ucts of the Tarentum Specialty The firm specializes in bird houses and mail boxes.

"The jojoba produces a wax resembling whale oil, used in pharmaceutical preparations," says Shead. 'The devil's claw is a good food plant. Its small young pod is edible and could be prepared the same

Why Dosen't Somebody Tell Us These Things?'

LONDON, ENGLAND. - How the Empire Folk, an unarmed and unsuspecting tiny British harbor tug, went gallantly off to the wars on D-day amid a fleet of invasion giants was disclosed recently.

On the eve of the assault an LCT. loaded with ammunition, balked with engine trouble just outside the harbor and the tug was sent out to help. The skipper, unaware of the invasion plans, pulled his harbor ragamuffin alongside the helpless LCT and said: "We are going to take you back to port."

"You are going to take us to France," was the reply-so the tug

WACs Practice Shooting As 'Firearms Duty' Looms

LONDON. - WACs going into France soon may carry firearms if the jobs to which they are assigned call for it, it was disclosed recently, and officers and enlisted girls who will be in advance contingents have been practicing marksmanship on a target range with 30-caliber carbines. This doesn't mean they are going into combat, but there are many noncombatant jobs in the forward zone on which a soldier on
