Need Salt

Give horses plenty of salt, espe cially when they are working in warm weather. Heat stroke has been found to be closely associated with low salt content in the blood, and the most practical method of maintaining the salt level is by feeding liberal amounts of salt to horses at work. Salt in the ration replaces that lost through perspiration. If horses do not take sufficient salt during extremely hot weather, it can be added to their drinking water.

At this season we should all subject ourselves to re-examination, to see if good fellowship and kindness still survive as a practical combination to bring happiness to the human heart. Each of us holds in his hands the key to this combination. Let us use it during this Christmas season of 1944, to help transform dreams into realities.

May we add our glad Christmas greetings to the many which are finding their way to you?

CHRISTMAS AGAIN!

Who will say that smiles were brighter or spirits keener at the Christmases of our fathers than they are today?

At any rate, friends and neighbors, that's the kind of a Christmas we are wishing for you this Yuletide of 1944—just a good old-fashioned Christmas!

Cass City, Michigan, Dec. 25, 1944.

Dear Santa Claus:

The Gavel club has been writing you so frequently this year that we hesitate to even ask for an audition. However, we do want you to know that we supervised the construction of all their toys; we turned half the bank building over for the painting of the toys and, if it looks to you that we can expect comparable prices another year, we shall turn over the entire building. Maybe we can do a little banking business in Leeson's garage.

We are hoping that now that the hospital fund has over $5,000 in it, the natives will really take it seriously. We received a check unsolicited for seventy-five dollars from a boy overseas. We have gone over the top in the sale of bonds in every drive with very little solicitation and hope money will come into the hospital treasury from more and more people without having to ask for

It really seems wicked that we should be so blessed in this vicinity with all the suffering going on elsewhere. It seems to us that every man in this community should be willing to cut off his right arm if it would help get the boys back. A lot of people feel that way and welcome these War Chest and Bond drives just to be able to do a little something. If there is anything else we can do, just ask it.

This year we ask especially that you will bring as much cheer as possible to the boys of our armed forces and to the homes from which when beaming faces tell that Christmas is very, very near, we are reminded again of the supreme value of friendship. He who has no friends, though he may have amassed a fortune, cannot be happy.

We have many friends in this area friends from many years back as well as friends who have become friends during this past year. These friendships are a great source of pride and happiness to us.

To all these friends we wish a very Merry Christmas Season.

Educators Find Out What Makes American Child 'Act That Way.'

CHICAGO. - The youngster who throws spitballs in school, scrawls bad words on the walls or biffs other kids on the nose more likely than not is hungry, or tired out, or unloved. It doesn't follow, says Dr. Daniel

A. Prescott, that he's just plain ornery, or incorrigible, or dumb. Dr. Prescott of the University of Chicage's collaboration center on human development and education, is one of a group of educators devoted to finding out what makes the American child tick. It's important, he said, that teachers see a child's present actions as based on his past experiences, shaped by his present circumstances and influenced by his desires and hopes for the future.

Dr. Prescott reported recently on the work of a special division set up several years ago at the University of Chicago by the commission on teacher education to put together material gleaned over the last 15 years by scientific groups which had been studying individual aspects of child development and behavior.

Commission Findings. Representatives from 20 colleges and universities and 14 groups of school systems were sent to Chicago to do this job. What Dr. Prescott said was an advance view of the commission's findings, to be pub-

"We believe that the task that lies ahead is primarily one of training teachers to make sound judgments about children," he said.

Findings of the group include the tollowing:

1. Children are often expected or required to learn things they are not ready to learn, or that they can't see chronological age.

The reason, Dr. Prescott explained, that two-thirds of those failing to learn to read in the first grade are boys is that it takes boys longer to grow from birth to maturity than girls. Girls at the age of 6 are where boys are at 7 and more likely to be ready for reading.

2. Children often are expected, or even required, to behave in ways unreasonable to expect in view of their development, family background or physical condition. Some Teachers Blamed.

3. Many teachers often do not fully accept and respect each child as a person and often actually dislike or neglect certain youngsters. Many teachers make no attempt to see that the child is liked by others, or belongs to a group. Thus some children for years may remain lonely or rejected in a class group.

4. The behavior of a child often is not evaluated in terms of the fac- Mrs. Leonard Urquhart and daugh- Butterfat, lb. by means that humiliate him before his classmates (such as standing in

NO LAYAWAYS. No product is more "perishable" than electricity: for most ordinary purposes, it must be used the instant it is made. The instant you touch a light switch in your home we must produce the electricity you need-without previous notice . . . in whatever quantity you want . . . at any hour of the day or night. That is why we must operate continuously; that is why we must keep our power plants and our "delivery system" -lines, poles and substations-in topnotch working order, "on the job" 24 hours a day.

CHRISTMAS FEAST. In place of the traditional turkey during the holidays, our Home Service Department unveils a roast duck that's different:

Roast Duck with Orange Stuffing

3 cups dry bread crumbs 1 cup diced apple cup seedless raisins 4 tbsps. sugar

2/3 cup orange juice 1/4 cup melted butter or Salt and pepper

Mix ingredients in order given and season to taste with salt and pepper. Add more or less liquid as may be needed, depending on dryness of crumbs.

Duck with orange stuffing may be garnished with watercress or parsley and with sections of orange dipped in thick sugar syrup. Serve duck with an orange sauce made by adding one-half cup strained orange juice to two cups

LONGER NIGHTS-LONGER LIGHTS. Wondering why you use more electricity these days? Probably it's the season: In December, January and February dusk falls early and nights are long and the days are often dark and gloomy. All this adds up to longer use of lighting. But there's a bright side to the picture: In June, July and August the sun works overtime, and your electric bills are usually much lower. Compare them and seel

BLACK DIAMOND. Coal is precious today because it is a critical war material, needed to run steel mills and railroads and factories as well as to heat our homes. Coal is also burned in Edison power plants to make electricity. If you use less electricity, less coal will be burned. The problem is as simple as that. That is why the Government asks you to do everything you can to save electricity. Help save urgently needed fuel.

> Grinding Grain Grinding grain for dairy cows is a recommended practice. Greater milk production, especially with high producing cows, was obtained in all of the experiments at the Texas agricultural station when ground grains were fed. Most of this greater production appeared to be due to the greater amount of ground grain consumed. Even though more grain was eaten, the cows getting ground feed produced enough additional milk to justify the practice.

here, 200 convicts are paying off a debt to society by risking possible death in a grim, patriotic fight to unearth a preventive against tropical diseases. Most are lifers and all are long-time prisoners.

If they win, and their 1,000 fellow inmates are praying that they do, their only reward will be the knowledge that they helped the war effort by wiping out plagues which menace the health of fighting men on nearly all fronts.

Seventy of the 200 volunteers already have suffered intensely in the experiments undertaken by the army service forces and the Rockefeller institute for medical research. The results of the research in the three-city-block prison are a closely guarded secret. But prison officials make no bones of their pride in the men. Only a few years ago bloody revolts and escapades rocked the prison's 10 buildings. But the setting was different when the army presented Sunday evening in the called for volunteers from among the lifers and other long-termers, and these men volunteered.

A poor layer will be shallowchested and round-bodied and have thick, meaty, rigid laybones with a rounded narrow back and hard abdomen. The slacker will also have a narrow spread between the pelvis bones, one or one-and-a-half finger

The wise poultryman, even though he does not trapnest, will know of the past performance of families and will breed only from those that have proven themselves for health, vigor and egg laying. When he purchases baby chicks or pullets, he will purchase only those tested and of a proven high-producing egg strain, as well as from a strain free from disease.

Most culled pullets and hens will bring a good price on the market, or can be utilized for home consumption or canned. Where locker plants are available, it will be profitable to store them until they are needed. Locker plant rental will cost less than feeding a non-producer.

Improve Dairy Ration

With Proper Minerals Natural feeds should apply enough of most minerals needed by dairy cows. However, mineral elements might be deficient in some farm rations, in which case dairy cattle may require supplements of calcium and phosphorus in addition to the regular farm-grown hay and grains.

Timothy is sadly lacking in calcium, alfalfa and clover containing three to four times as much of this mineral. It must also be remembered that some excellent legume hays may be deficient in phosphorus if grown on soils that lack it and on which phosphorus fertilizers are not

When little or no grains are fed, dairy cows may benefit from phosphorus supplements. Usually the grains will furnish all the phosphorus needed by live stock.

A dollar will buy thousands of matches, and a single match can destroy millions of dollars worth of farm property. Burning off weeds is condemned as a pasture practice-it injures desirable grass plants, mulch, and leaves ground exposed to erosion. DDT, the new powerful insecticide, promises to be one of the greatest gifts to farmers of the century. Supply will be limited as long as the armed forces need is so

Following butchering operations there is usually a surplus of fat as well as fat that has become old and rancid which can be used to make soap. Heat the fat until it is well melted, adding one pound of lye in three pints of water to every seven pounds of fat. Mix and stir slowly until the mixture resembles honey. pour into granite or wooden containers and cool. The fat should not be heated more than 150 degrees Fahrenheit.

Climate Factor Climate in which the seed is grown has a lot to do with the hardiness of alfalfa, according to U. S. department of agriculture experiments. Grown for two generations in a mild climate, a hardy alfalfa will "go soft" and its seed will produce many plants that cannot stand coldweather. Grown for just one generation in a mild climate, its hardiness has been found unaffected.
