

32 Fine Animals Shown at the First Beef Cattle Show

Each Exhibitor Was the Recipient of Premium Money Here Friday

The first annual beef cattle show held at Cass City Friday, Aug. 3, was well attended and the showing of 32 fine types of animals attracted much attention and admiration. "Bill" Zinnecker, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zinnecker, exhibited the grand champion steer of the show. This animal was also champion in the Angus class.

Don Loomis of Gagetown was awarded reserve champion of the show on his Hereford steer which was champion in its class.

Keith Little's Shorthorn steer was acknowledged the best "home grown" animal of the day. It was champion in the Shorthorn division.

In another column are given the names of those exhibiting winners in the light, medium and heavy weight classes together with the weights of the animals, the way they were placed and the breed. A. T. Murray was the only one who showed a beef heifer. This Angus weighed 600 pounds and received first money. Harrison Stine's two Hereford steers, weighing 560 and 390 pounds, were shown as Farmer Week calves.

Each animal exhibited was awarded a prize. The awards offered in each class consisted of three premiums of $6 each, four of $5 each and four of $4 each.

Jim Milligan, Alfred Goodall, Lynn Spencer and Don Koepfgen, all former 4-H boys who have shown champion animals at the big fairs, served very satisfactorily as judges.

Following the judging, a livestock parade of the beef cattle down Main street made an impressive sight.

Over 50 business and professional men contributed funds for the premium money and special prizes.

John Zinnecker, Earl Maharg and Alfred Goodall were the committee in charge of the prize list and Willis Campbell assisted in the management of the show.

Most of the heavy weight calves will go to the state show at East Lansing in September. Others will be exhibited at the junior livestock show in Detroit in December.

64th Annual Tuscola Co. Fair Will Open Monday, August 20

For the 64th consecutive time Caro again will hold its annual fair. Both entertainment and education will be the big feature during the entire week, starting Monday, Aug. 20, and running through Saturday, Aug. 25, with four days of harness racing over what is known as the best half mile track in Michigan, as well as horse pulling contests on Wednesday and Friday, calf scramble on Friday, livestock judging Wednesday, and livestock parade Thursday.

The main grand stand attraction for the evening shows will be a streamlined production featuring feminine loveliness and a variety of entertainment, in Gertrude Avery's Victory Vogues of 1945.

In addition to the shows and rides, there will be the various concessions that go to make up a modern midway. The savory odors of hamburgers, hot dogs, frying onions, intermingling with pop corn, candy apples and other midway delicacies, are as much a part of the fair, as elephants are a part of a circus, and of course all of these will be a part of the glittering event gets under way. As in the past, the fair will continue for six days, concluding Aug. 25.

Sunday, Aug. 5, about 40 relatives of the McCrea and O'Kelly families gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Blades in Elkland township for the 16th annual reunion of those families.

The oldest member of the O'Kelly family was Oscar O'Kelly, 90 years old, of Caro. He was presented with a corsage of sweet peas by Mrs. Frank McCrea of Almer. The youngest member of that family was little Kenneth Buse, six-months-old son of Mr. Concluded on page 6.

Educators Tell What's Wrong with Michigan Rural Living Today

What's wrong with Michigan rural living today?

Listen to this: "In the rural areas of Michigan live one and three quarter millions of people. It must be the primary concern of all to make life in these sections richer, more attractive, more satisfying, more secure. That some of these essentials are lacking is manifested by the large number of people—young people especially—who migrate to the city for comforts and privileges denied them on the farm."

This frank admission that Michigan rural life must be improved if Michigan is to possess a strong foundation for sound prosperity of its citizens comes from three Michigan educators: Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of University of Michigan; Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State college; and Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction.

Brothers Met First Time in Forty Years

Highlighting the six weeks' trip which Mr. and Mrs. Manley Fay of Grant township made to Montana was a reunion with two brothers of Mr. Fay whom he had not seen for 40 years. The brothers left Michigan long ago to explore the West and then decided to make their home in that section of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay left Bay City by bus in June for their trip to the West. Their route took them through the Straits, Duluth, Minn., Fargo, N. D., Billings, Butte, Missoula and Stark, Mont. They were accompanied by Mr. Fay's brother, Hugh Fay, of Huson, Montana, who had been visiting here. Trips through the mountains and near beautiful falls helped to

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Pressure Grows on Japs;
Rip Lag in Reconversion Program;
Move 800,000 G.I.s from Europe

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Air force chieftains in Europe, Lt. Gen. James Doolittle (left), and Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining (right), discuss new assignments in Pacific with Deputy Commander Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles (center) on Guam.

PACIFIC:
Talk Back
Premier Suzuki's declaration that the Allied surrender ultimatum would in no way affect the government's fundamental policy to prosecute the war was met by a continuing hall of U. S. and British fire on the enemy homeland and shipping. While the harassed Nipponese did not burn all of their bridges behind them, and still hoped for a modification of Allied terms, U. S. and British policy called for a continuance of the heavy pressure to bend the enemy will in the face of mounting destruction to cities, transport and industry. Though the Jap leadership maintained a resolute front, there were rumblings within the country, the influential newspaper Asahi calling upon the government to give priority protection to enemy cities, concentrate on the production of more important munitions, and prepare for construction of wooden planes now that parts of the islands have been isolated from metal supplies from the Asiatic mainland and the southern regions of Japan itself. The plea for priority protection of enemy cities followed the AAF's promised assault on 6 of the 11 secondary industrial centers marked for extinction. With enemy plane and anti-aircraft opposition remaining slight, 600 Superforts fired Tsu, Amori, Ichinomiya, Ujiyamada and Ogaki on Honshu and Uwajima on Shikoku, with the B-29s flying to the northern section of the islands recessive buying, Doidge said, the army has been claiming large allotments of refrigerators each quarter from restricted production despite its comfortable stockpiles. Whereas the WPB felt 4½ million freezers were needed each year, the present production rate is only 1,000,000. In ripping the reconversion lag, the senate committee headed by Chairman Mead (Dem., N. Y.) declared that it has fallen so far behind that a sudden end to the Japanese war would find the U. S. in a serious economic situation. As corrective measures, the committee recommended: Productive capacity not needed for the war be immediately converted to civilian goods; key industrial men be released from the services to aid the switch-over; wider disposal of surplus material to help reconversion and prevent post-war market glut, and dissemination of information to workers and employers alike about the national labor situation.

REDEPLOYMENT:
Moves Fast
With 800,000 men scheduled for redeployment from Europe to the Pacific theater by the end of July, an additional 1,000,000 men will be shifted during the last half of 1945, leaving 900,000 vets to be cleared during the first four months of next year, the army revealed. Up to mid-July, over 635,000 G.I.s had embarked from Europe, it was revealed, with 532,258 arriving in the U. S. by that time, with 407,978 traveling by boat and 124,280 by plane. Others were routed directly to the Pacific. At the same time, more than 1,226,000 tons of war material have been shipped from Europe and the Near East since V-E Day, with approximately 300,000 tons sent directly to the Pacific. As a result of the speedy redeployment program, troop rail traffic jumped from 504,000 men moved in groups of 40 or more in April to an estimated 1,250,000 in July. Some vets shifted from Europe through the U. S. already have completed furloughs and been sent out from the West coast to the Pacific.

VETS:
Job Rights
The question of postwar job rights for G.I.s has come to the fore with the efforts of World War II vets to get the United Automobile Workers CIO union to modify its policy relating to the subject by counting war service as a seniority credit in applying for employment and having one in every four positions go to a fighting man who has not worked before. Under the UAW-CIO so-called "model clause," vets employed by a company prior to induction would be entitled to count up their war service as seniority, but vets not previously employed would be permitted to include war service as seniority only after they had obtained a job. With the United Veterans of World War II spearheading the attack, it has been charged that the UAW-CIO policy amounts to a virtual lock-out of the previously unemployed vets, since a company must first give consideration to workers who have gained seniority rights through the course of World War II. The UAW-CIO, on the other hand, states that the policy protects workers who might otherwise be displaced.

RAIL PROFITS:
Railroad profits in May for the third consecutive month were larger than a year ago and the total gain in this three-month period was more than sufficient to offset the drop which occurred in January and February, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. As a result, profits during the first five months totaled $264,000,000 this year as compared with $258,000,000 last year. This increase interrupted the downward trend of the past two years it was said.

CONSERVATION TEST
Waterfowl restoration efforts of Ducks Unlimited face their greatest test in 1945, officials of the organization declare. An area of about 170,000 square miles in south-central and southern Saskatchewan and Alberta is reported drought-stricken, with small water areas completely dried up. Breeding waterfowl in this area are crowded the waters stored by Ducks Unlimited and the Prairie Farms Rehabilitation administration.

FRANCE:

"Evil Genius" Reappears

With Marshal Petain, fighting for his life in the historic treason trial in Paris, defense attorneys moved to bring dusky Pierre Laval before the court as a witness for the former Vichy chief of state. The move was taken as French authorities flew Laval back to Paris following his surrender to U. S. military forces in Austria after a flight from Spain. To stand trial himself for treason, Laval has been charged with the principal responsibility for close collaboration with the Germans, being called Petain's "evil genius."

Meanwhile, with over 1,000,000 words already written into the record, Petain's trial continued apace, with Gen. Maxime Weygand, head of the Allied armies at the time of the French defeat in 1940, assuming the responsibility for cessation of hostilities. In asking for a negotiated armistice rather than total surrender as advocated by Premier Reynaud, he said, he took into account France's inability to maintain organized resistance. Declaring Petain's government consistently refused to give the Nazis bases, ports and territories in North Africa, Weygand disclosed that he and U. S. Diplomat Robert Murphy had signed an agreement for delivery of American supplies to North Africa on condition the Germans be kept from the French possessions.

RED REVIVAL:
In U. S.
Having been dissolved in May, 1944, as a gesture of unity, the Communist party was re-established in the U. S. at a special convention in New York, with William Z. Foster replacing Earl Browder as leader. Ripped for having soft-pedaled the historic class struggle of the Communists, Browder held his ground, declaring that there were joint policies which could be accepted by employers and workers alike regardless of their motives in the face of Big Business' progressive search for expanding markets. The convention also marked the Communists' break with the "Roosevelt-Labor-Democratic" coalition, the Reds charging the Truman administration with veering toward the less liberal elements in the Democratic party and even trying to conciliate the reactionary enemies of progressiveness.

Bing Aids Polio Drive
Latest of American celebrities to undertake the leadership of a nation-wide drive against disease is Bina Crosby, newly appointed chairman of the $5,000,000 Elizabeth Kenny Institute campaign to begin in October. Crooner, comedian and producer, but above all father of four children, Crosby's decision to lead the drive to raise funds for promoting the new system of infantile paralysis treatment was prompted by a tour of hospitals, where he saw withered little victims of polio. "No little child on earth should be asked to suffer pain, humiliating deformities and complications unnecessarily," he said. Tentative plans call for both movie and radio appeals for funds by Bing, and close state-wide organization of collections. States will retain half of the proceeds for establishing local clinics and combating communal epidemics, with the remainder remitted to national headquarters for new facilities at the Elizabeth Kenny Institute at Minneapolis, Minn., and increased patient capacity.

PROBE CRASH:
$500,000 Damage
With 13 dead, 24 injured and property damage estimated at $500,000, the army undertook an investigation of the crash of an 8-ton Billy Mitchell B-25 bomber into the 78th and 79th floor levels of the Empire State building in New York, tallest structure in the world. Piloted by Lt. Col. W. F. Smith, 27, of Watertown, Mass., the B-25, with its three occupants, smashed plumb into the north side of the building in the foggy atmosphere after the officer had determined to make the run to Newark, N. J., despite advice to land in New York because of the murky weather prevailing in the area. Before crashing into the building, where office employees were busy at work at the time and either killed by the hurtling plane or burned to death by the fires touched off by gasoline, the B-25 was seen roaring through sky-scrapers Manhattan at a 38-story level. Completed in 1931 and valued at $52,000,000, the Empire State building's vaulted tower stands about a quarter of a miles above the street.

FARM LAND:
Farm real estate values continued to rise during the four months ended July 1, 1945, with an increase for the country as a whole of about 3 per cent for a total of 57 per cent above the 1935-39 average and less than one-fourth below the 1920. The volume of voluntary sales decreased 8 per cent during the year ended March, 1945, after having increased for six consecutive years, reaching a peak almost 15 per cent above that for the "boom" year 1919.

untrained. "The rural church, in many cases, is neglected by denominational groups." Not pleasant reading, we grant. But there they are—only a few of many indictments presenting the weakness of rural life in Michigan today. * * *

Education—Michigan has 6,166 rural school districts with a student enrollment of 387,908. It has 108 urban districts with an enrollment of 581,832. Rural teachers receive $900 less per year than those teaching in districts which employ superintendents. . . . Rural schools consequently are in a weak position to compete for the better teachers. . . . In 1940 the annual turnover of teachers in districts less than 1,000 population was 37.2 per cent, or an average tenure of less than three years. This compared with a state-wide average of only 7.9 per cent. "There are very few modern school buildings in the rural areas" . . . "since 1918 only 700 new rural school buildings have been constructed, although 1,300 have been modernized in recent years."

"Many districts are not levying as much tax for school purposes as they can and should. In 1942, there were 847 districts which levied less than four mills for school purposes. (A mill is one dollar per $1,000 assessed valuation) A total of 114 districts levied no tax whatever for school purposes, while 902 districts levied seven mills or more."

Remember the old World War I song, "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen Paroo?"

More quotations from the challenging study: "In the years between the wars (World Wars I and II) no more than half of Michigan's farm youth were employed in agriculture. Hundreds, uncertain of their futures if they stayed on farms, sought the opportunities for education and employment offered by urban life."

"In spite of the many excellent programs now active in Michigan (4-H club work, high school vocational agricultural or vocational homemaking courses, etc.) the overall educational program is unevenly developed. It does not reach effectively the majority of rural youth."

"It is frequently stated that farmers give more attention to their livestock and crops than to their youth. What do you think?"

One of the cultural advantages of city life is ready access to books and magazines through public libraries. Not so, however, with many people who live in the Michigan rural communities. "Two-fifths (42 per cent) of the rural people of Michigan are without public libraries. Scarcity of libraries is partly associated with sparsity of population. South of the Muskegon-Bay City line 36 per cent of the rural people are without public libraries. North of this line the percentage is .57, while in the Lower Peninsula two-thirds (64 per cent) have no public libraries."

The state board for libraries recommends a local per capita tax of $1 to $2 to be supplemented by grants from the state.

Rural health in Michigan is not what it should be. "Among rural youths rejections (military service) for physical reasons were higher than among those residents in cities. Many of the defects were associated with faulty nutrition."

"Cities have had full-time health departments for many years, but only since the county health department law was passed in 1927 have Michigan's rural areas begun to enjoy the same advantages. With modern transportation, rural and urban health problems have come to be much the same."

The study points out that a county or district health department may be established by the local county board of supervisors.

Social insurance is provided for most urban residents, but not for the average farmer. "Only a small proportion of Michigan farmers and rural people are included in the nation's social security program. Farmers, together with all other self-employed persons, are completely excluded from the social insurances."

"Social insurance is a sound business program the objective of which is to provide a safeguard against economic hazards which are unpredictable in the case of a single individual but are predictable in the case of large groups." "Many elderly farmers continue to operate farms because of inadequate provisions for current income, thus preventing younger men from obtaining a start in farming."

Recommendation: That social security benefits be extended to rural citizens.

All of this may be true, you add, but the fact still remains that the average person gets what he pays for. What is the answer to the above challenges—more taxes for farmers?

If we are to interpret rightly the rural study, the solution consists of two things. First, a better income for farmers. Messrs. Ruthven, Hannah and Elliott refer to the economic truth that rural residents have been the victims of national "shortchanging." Comprising a fifth or fifth nation's population, farmers have received only about one-tenth of the national income. Second, better education in order to assure better farming.

To conclude with additional views as expressed in the Ruthven-Hannah-Elliott statement: "Michigan is an important agricultural state. Its agriculture is highly diversified. The growth of cities has not diminished this importance. . . . The well-being and security of all are possible only when a reasonable balance is maintained between farming and non-farming communities. This applies equally to incomes and to standards of living."

Dispose of Quietly
Born of an infamous black market of the 1820's in Britain is the verb "burke," meaning to suppress or to dispose of quietly. Surgery was then making its first beginnings as a science. Men known as body-snatchers, or, more subtly, Resurrectionists, supplied corpses at a price to medical schools, with no questions asked. In Edinburgh, one William Burke delivered bodies to anatomists so frequently and in such perfect condition that questions were asked, and Burke was tried and hanged for murder.

Avoid Outworms
To avoid outworm damage to garden transplant, wrap the stem of each plant in several thicknesses of newspaper, so that the paper extends one inch below the ground surface and up to the lower leaves of the plant.

Grease Spots
Grease spots may sometimes be removed from wallpaper with a piece of blotting paper held against the spots and pressed with a warm iron.

Navy Acts to Keep Unfit Men AshoreOverseas Drafts to Be Given Physical Examination.

WASHINGTON.—Many physically unfit men are being sent overseas for naval duty and the navy department says this must stop.

The navy's bureau of medicine and surgery and the bureau of naval personnel have sent a joint memorandum to all ships and stations telling them what to do about the situation.

"Numerous reports of receipt of men in the overseas areas who are not physically qualified to perform all their duties have been received by the bureau of naval personnel," said the memorandum, which went on:

"In view of the transportation involved, the unwarranted burden on medical facilities in advanced areas and the present congestion of men awaiting medical or dental treatment in those areas, it is extremely urgent that steps be taken to prevent transferring such men overseas."

The memorandum reminded that the primary responsibility for the correction of physical defects was that of the commanders of the naval training centers at which recruits received their initial training.

But the final responsibility, it adds, belongs to whoever has control of personnel at the port of em-barcation.

"A careful physical examination of overseas drafts will be made at embarkation ports and the physically unfit eliminated," the bureau ordered.

The memorandum made it clear that it expected officers in charge of intermediate activities through which personnel pass—between the two commands having primary and final responsibility—to take steps to correct defects that may have been overlooked at an earlier command.

"Men who have minor correctible defects other than of a communicable or contagious nature, and for which treatment has been instituted, may be considered fit for transfer if the ship or station to which they are being transferred has proper facilities for their further care should it be necessary," the memorandum said.

American Naval Might
Has Grown to 9 Fleets

WASHINGTON.—American naval might, grown threefold in striking power since war began, has pushed the nation's battle lines in ever-widening circles away from her home shores.

At least nine fleets now range the Atlantic, Pacific and Mediterranean waters, carrying the war to the enemy—a far cry from the days of the late '20s and early '30s when the three fleets, Atlantic, Pacific and Asiatic, then existing on organizational tables scarcely mustered
the strength of a single modern fleet.

Strength and disposition of individual fleets remain a closely guarded military secret. An innovation of modern naval warfare which also contributes to the fluidity of sea-power is the "task force," organized out of available forces to carry out a particular mission. Such a task force could range in size from a task unit of the smallest possible self-sufficient force to a consolidation of two or more entire fleets.

New Tempest Plane Flies
At 435 Miles Per Hour

LONDON.—The Hawker Tempest
Mark V, first of the Tempest fighter plane series to be put into production, has a maximum speed of 435 miles an hour and a ceiling of 36,000 feet, it was announced by the air ministry.

Its tactical radius is 500 miles, although this can be extended through use of auxiliary fuel tanks. Armament consists of four 20-mm. cannon in the wings. The plane has a 2,400 horsepower engine and a four-bladed propeller, a bulletproof windscreen, and armor forward and aft
of the pilot.

It scored its first victory in the air last June.

Chinese Learning to Talk English Language

SAN FRANCISCO.—Although phonetics are a source of anguish and teachers are scarce, Chungking is alive with students of the English language.

Each of the city's two leading schools, conducted by American-educated Chinese, has graduated more than 1,000, and handles from 100 to 300 students daily.

As the student body was small enough to be taught in Chungking attics three years ago, the remarkable rise in attendance has been attributed to the presence of U. S.
servicemen.

ton. Postage is about 35 cents; the U. S. ad valorem duty, 38 cents;
the U. S. import duty, $1.50, and the

The total cost is $6.23 a carton or about 3 cents a cigarette. Few sales

GAGETOWN NEWS

Death of Mrs. C. Rabideau—

Mrs. Cyril Rabideau, who came from her home in Redondo Beach, California, in April to visit her daughters in Michigan, passed away Aug. 1 at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. Bert Wood of a heart attack. She expected to remain here during the summer and return home in the fall.

Right Rev. Monsignor John McCullough conducted funeral services Friday, Aug. 3, at 9:00 a. m., in St. Agatha church and the remains were buried in St. Agatha cemetery.

Mrs. Rabideau was born in Detroit Sept. 21, 1864, and moved to Tuscola county from Detroit in 1876 at the age of 12 years.

She was a member of the Ladies'
Altar Society of St. James parish of Redondo Beach, California.

Her husband and a daughter, Minnie Rabideau, preceded her in death. She leaves four daughters, Mrs. Bert Wood and Mrs. Claude
McHenry, both of Gagetown, Mrs.
Wayne Blanchard of Lansing, and Mrs. P. J. Moore of Redondo Beach, California; two sons, Raymond and George, both of Gagetown; 25 grandchildren and 11
great grandchildren.

Randolph Dulong is a patient at Pleasant Home hospital in Cass
City.

Miss Elayne LaFave of Detroit came last week to spend the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Henry LaFave.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Hurd and family recently visited one day with Mrs. Hurd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rondo, of Sterling, Mich.

Recent guests at the Mr. and man, of Pontiac.

Oak Bluff Breezes

Those who may have been in bathing this week could see from the north causeway in front of the former James cottage a cluster of several wild flowers commonly known as the Black Eyed Susans.

How many realize that the Black Eyed Susans are really not black at all. They are purplish brown as can readily be seen if one takes the trouble to look closely at the Susans which are now quite profuse along the bay shore, roadsides and also along fences and uncultivated places. Rudbeckia hirta is the botanical name, and it is a biennial flower that came out of the golden west along with commercial clover seed. Once in the east, it took to the soil and climate with vigor and tenacity. Now its dark eyed yellow flowers are common southward from Maine, wherever it finds a foothold. The yellow petals have a peculiarly rich golden color and are full of sunlight. Its petals vary in number from 12 to 16 and they curl and twist, sometimes fray out at the tips for no apparent reason.

The flower's sepals, the green
"petals" which surround the bud outnumber the petals often two to one and there are countless florets encircling the disk, Susan's eye.
They open their tiny blooms in succession and ring the disk with still another halo of golden yellow, the ripened pollen. Bees and butterflies love the Susans and so do most youngsters and tourists.
Weeds they certainly are, when they invade your garden but at the roadside they are bright and jaunty and full of the summer sun
and they don't discourage easily.
Cut them or pull them and they'll be back again next season as surely as the summer sunshine to which they belong.

Oil Eggs

Oiling is an excellent method of preserving eggs and classes it in effectiveness along with water glass.
Eggs should be oiled the day after gathering. The eggs are dipped in the oil and must be completely covered, then drained for a few minutes on a rack. They can then be placed in cartons or cases and stored in a cool place. Oil used should be a light grade and free of odor, and should not be heated.
Mineral oil may be used.

Wheat

With a visible RECORD BREAKING Wheat crop this harvest, we will take wheat in through both our Bean and Grain Elevators. Our Bean Elevator is equipped with a Truck Hoist and Pit so that we can unload it in bulk truck loads without delay.

Please "don't jump the gun." Wait! Wait until your wheat is ripe and dry as it is evident that there will be a car shortage at harvest time which will make it impossible for us to rush it to driers. Wet wheat will not keep long in large storage bins so please beware.

Yours for a successful Wheat Harvest, and Mrs. Clarence Buse of Saginaw. Little Kenneth was the eighth generation of O'Kellys that Mr. O'Kelly had seen and talked to. Mrs. Catherine Orr, 88 years old, sister of Oscar O'Kelly, was too ill to attend.

The oldest member of the family of the late Daniel McCrea was Mrs. Jennie McCrea Brown, 80, of Wickware. She has one sister, Mrs. Frank Fisher, of Caro. The youngest member of that family present was little Helen Kay Hulbert, daughter of Pvt. and Mrs. Harold Hulbert of Cass City.

The family of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McCrea of Caro were represented by a daughter, Jessie, Mrs. Murray McCollum and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank McCrea, her son, Manley McCrea, and his wife, her daughter, Mrs. Fuller and her three children of Caro and her son, Robert, of Saginaw.

and they are a rugged looking bunch. I never saw so many horses and wagons in one line before. Those who weren't riding walked in front of the convoy of horses and wagons.

"Did I tell you about getting the Bronze Star Medal? Well, I did get it, and here is a picture just to show that I did."

"The paper says that the Second Armored may go home in December."

"I sure wish they would start feeding us better here so that I wouldn't be hungry all the time. The food is getting scarce now. We haven't had any salt in our food for the last few days so you can imagine how it tastes. I could go for some good fresh eggs right now."

"Did you know that our division was awarded the Belgium citation? Now we will wear the Fourragere if they ever get them made. It is worn around the left shoulder under the arm."

"We are now living in houses, which isn't bad as far as living quarters are concerned. It is now one o'clock at night. I wouldn't be up if it weren't for being on guard. As it is, I will be here until 2:30. Isn't that nice?"

"I haven't seen much of the city of Berlin. A lot of buildings are destroyed, but they are quite old ruins done in the early part of the war and have been cleaned up some. The house we live in is braced on two sides to keep it from falling out. It was crushed from a bomb exploding across the next block."

"Wish I had some good beef-steak right now. Ho Hum!"

"With love, Ted."

Over-Age Warships
Prove Their WorthHelped Bridge Gap When Things Looked Bad.

LONDON. — Nine of the 50 over-age destroyers traded by the United States to England in 1940 have been lost in action, but the remaining 41 still are in active service after establishing themselves as outstanding fighting ships through nearly five years of war.

Although already pensioned off when Germany declared war, the ships proved their seaworthiness in battle and helped bridge the gap when things looked blackest for Britain.

They have been in commando raids, guarded convoys against dive bombers on the perilous Murmansk run, escorted troops across the channel on D-Day and assisted in the hunting down and the sinking of nearly a dozen submarines in the storm-swept North Atlantic.

Nine of them have been loaned to Russia, seven were last reported in use by the Royal Canadian navy and the rest are prowling around somewhere in the Atlantic or in British home waters or on convoy in coastal patrol jobs.

The first of the group to be sunk was the U. S. S. Welles, renamed H.M.S. Cameron, which caught a Nazi torpedo on January 1, 1940, on one of its first missions.

The last victim was the U. S. S. Swasey, renamed H.M.S. Rockingham, which went down in the Atlantic on September 27, 1944.

One of the 50, the U. S. S. Buchanan, renamed the H.M.S. Cambelton, was sacrificed deliberately as a block ship in the daring British commando raid on St. Nazaire in 1942.

With her bow specially stiffened and filled with five tons of delayed action high explosive, the Cambelton ploughed her way through the double torpedo baffles protecting the entrance to the harbor locks and rammed the center of the main gates. As soon as the bows were firmly wedged in, special troops landed as arranged and set about the work of demolition.

A few minutes later the whole destroyer blew up, taking a big part of the St. Nazaire harbor works with it.

Damage to Franklin Is Placed at $45,000,000

WASHINGTON. — Fire and explosion caused "about $45,000,000 worth of damage" to the U. S. S. Franklin, but the unseinkable carrier is still "300,000,000 worth of good ship," which will be reconitioned within a year for $20,000,000 less than a replacement would cost, Lt. Comdr. Robert C. Downes, its damage-control officer, declared here recently.

Speaking at a Greater New York Fund report luncheon, at which employer and employee contributions of $3,023,875 — 67 per cent of $4,500,000 sought — were announced by campaign workers, Commander Downes remarked almost apologetically:

"As damage-control officer, I think taxpayers will be saved about $20,000,000 by rebuilding the Franklin from her third deck up, rather than building an entirely new ship."

6 Millions Face Food
Crisis in South Germany

SOUTHERN GERMANY. — Six million persons in the southern German provinces of Bavaria, Wurttemberg, and North Baden face a serious food shortage unless improved transport and imports make it possible for them to hold out until the new harvest of grains in two months, a military government report said recently.

Difficulty in maintaining the daily 2,000 calorie food level for displaced persons or the average 1,500 calorie level for Germans was foreseen in a survey of current food stocks by the United States 6th army group. Potato rations for the current year already have been distributed throughout the three provinces and the supply is short. Prospects for all the crops are poor.

Russians Start Planting
Of Vegetable Gardens

MOSCOW.—Great masses of Russian citizens moved out from the cities to start spring planting in the Russian version of Victory gardens. More than 1,750,000 citizens, carrying garden tools, lunch baskets and packages of seed which had been sent from America, left Moscow for fields outside the city where they had been allotted plots of ground.

Similar reports came from Leningrad, Kiev, Kharkov, Minak, Sevastopol, Odessa, Gorky, Novgorod, Pskov, Kuibyshev, Kazan and cities of the Urals and western, central and eastern Siberia.

2,657 Accused Of War Crimes

United Nations Prepared to Prosecute and Punish Guilty to Limit.

LONDON. — Lord Wright told the United Nations war crimes commission that 2,657 individuals had been charged with war crimes by various Allied nations and the commission itself, as reported by the Associated Press.

"The time has now come when the mere collection of material must change over into action," said the Australian chairman of the conference, representing the United States and 15 other nations. "Action here means the trial of criminals and their conviction, sentence and punishment where appropriate."

Of those charged with war crimes, 2,524 are Germans, 110 Italians, 17 Bulgarians, 2 Hungarians, 2 Albanians and 2 Romanians. None of the names were given.

Germans in key positions listed by the war crimes commission on a general charge of "systematic terrorism" total 561. Lord Wright disclosed also that the war crimes commission on its own initiative "in respect of specific crimes" had put the names of three Germans on the list.

French Accuse 1,126.

France preferred more charges than any other nation, accusing 1,126 Germans and 10 Italians. Poland named 544 Germans and several groups of an unknown number of persons. Britain filed charges against 127 Germans, 27 Italians and two Romanians.

A total of 454 additional suspects and witnesses have also been listed by the governments of Australia, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Norway and Yugoslavia. The Australians in addition preferred charges against 93 Japanese, among others.

From the various lists, Lord Wright said, the investigating committee has passed approximately 800 names of Germans for publication in the next list of war criminals, along with 185 more as suspects.

"Justice to be effective must be expeditious," he said. "Any avoidable delay is certainly mischievous and may be fatal to the attainment of the object which is sought, that is, the punishment of the criminals for the double purpose of retribution to satisfy the peoples' demands for justice and of warning and example to deter such crimes in the future."

Called General Scheme.

Lord Wright said that one special feature of Nazi or Fascist crimes was that they were not merely perpetrated on an unprecedented scale over the whole range of military operations and enemy occupation, but that "they exhibit every trace of a general scheme."

"They all clearly emanate from a master criminal and his entourage and are carried out according to plan by elaborate, organized agencies and instrumentalities," he said, "that is, by individuals under common direction and by common concert."

He said the function of the commission was to acquire evidence and to trace crimes from actual perpetrators to "the central mind or authority, such as Hitler or Goering, right through the intermediate agencies... and to analyze the element of common purpose or conspiracy."

Yank Finds His Mother

In Town at Czech Line

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN GERMANY. — An American sergeant's reunion with his mother brought tears to the eyes of everybody in the little Czech border town of Barnau.

Maj. Dan Riddle of Marksville, La., had to go to Barnau with a captain and his driver. "May I go along?" asked Sgt. Harry Alden of Pelham, N. Y. "My family used to have a summer home there." As they rode toward Barnau the sergeant told of his birth in Nuernburg of German-Jewish parents and how he came to the United States in 1938, became a citizen, and joined the army.

"There it is! There is my house," the sergeant shouted as they neared the town. He leaped from the jeep and pounded on the front door. His grandmother came to the door. She told him his mother was in town, helping the American troops, so Alden and his friends drove on.

Major Riddle saw two women—one tall and stately—walking down the street, and on impulse he stopped the jeep.

The tall woman was Harry's mother and when she saw him she cried out "Hans! My boy!" and came running with open arms. That was when the crying started.

Japanese Female Sniper

Is Captured by Marines

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The capture of what was claimed to be the only Japanese female sniper of the war to date was disclosed by Lt. Comdr. Robert C. Downes, damage control officer of the aircraft carrier Franklin.

He told a fund rally that the prisoner, whom he described as 29 and attractive, was taken by marines about a year ago in the Marshalls.

Atwood of Caro is chairman for the committee for the administration of this fund.

While moving around the past week, we met three of our prominent men clothed in canes and crutches, writes the Deford correspondent. We dare not give names as some take it seriously, but it prompts this thought—a bug with three cripples has a right to be incorporated.

Dan Preston was the only person that wrote on the civil service examination which was held here recently to fill a contemplated vacancy in the office of postmaster at Cumber.

Pores Invisible

The word "pore" is rather loosely used for two structures of the skin. The true pore, anatomically speaking, is not visible. It is the opening of the sweat duct within the skin, and passes from the subcutaneous sweat glands to the skin surface. The pore that is so often spoken of, for instance, when enlarged pores are discussed, is not really a pore at all. This little visible opening is in reality a "follicle" — the follicle of baby hair, the "bloom" on the complexion.

Trellises Need Protection
Trellises in gardens and on lawns largely are made of rather thin wood, which is easily susceptible to warping and decay. Lattice work of this kind should be kept thoroughly painted to seal out moisture. White and green paint are especially favored for this kind of work which automatically beautifies trellises and lattices while giving them necessary protection.

Sharp Knife
A sharp knife does a better job and is actually safer than a dull one. A dull knife is hard to guide, often slips and causes cuts.

Europe is one of the most productive agricultural regions in the world. Although a relatively small continent it has about one-quarter of the world's population and produces almost one-half of the world's highly prized livestock products.

Auto Exports

1929 reports of cars and trucks amounted to 14 per cent of total production. Exports of automotive products averaged $406,000,000 a year from 1926 to 1930, but fell to $76,000,000 in 1933. They rose again to $254,000,000 in 1940.

To Convert Fuel Oil From Farm Crop Waste

While there has been talk and experimentation for several years about obtaining several by-products from corn stalks and other farm waste, the United States department of agriculture now comes out with a full-fledged program for extracting liquid motor fuel from corn cobs, peanut shells, flax shives, oat hulls, cottonseed hulls and burs and sugarcane bagasse and other farm waste.

The department says that experimental laboratory investigations by their chemists indicate that from 90 to 95 gallons of liquid motor fuel can be obtained from a ton of corn cobs or cottonseed hulls and that about half of this is in the form of ethyl alcohol.

Experimentations have advanced to the semi-works stage at the D. of A. northern regional research laboratory at Peoria, Ill., and results are so promising that the work is to be enlarged so that it now may be evaluated on a semi-commercial scale.

Beautifully Styled New Prints Bespeak That 'Lovely Lady' Look

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ALWAYS fascinating, the print story is more so than ever this summer. The current showings of prints seem to have eclipsed all that has gone before.

There's a new elegance being expressed in print frocks that you can tell at a glance are intended for smart dress-up occasions rather than for casual daytime wear. In styling these "lovely lady" prints, designers have given them an important look of sophisticated simplicity. The new slender silhouette deftly achieves a dress-up look through animated little pleups, daring over narrow skirts. The bustle-bow back, flattering neckline treatments, and other subtle style gestures also impart outstanding distinction.

Often a print is that dramatic and stunning within itself that it is made up as simply as possible so as to give all the glory to the fabric. The gown centered in the illustration is just such. The dramatic butterfly print "makes" this dress and the fact of its utterly simple styling shows supreme artistry on the part of the designer. The wide, cap sleeves serve to accentuate the small waist, made smaller by a drawstring at the back. The print is hand-screened and the butterfly motifs are simply gorgeous in their coloring. The material is a spun rayon and cotton woven to look like crash. A cutout wired butterfly of the fabric is poised at one side of the high neckline.

A flair for dark prints is seen in the wide call for black backgrounds with bright florals or other richly colorful patterning. These modish prints include both huge dramatic widely spaced florals and the more conservative small patterned types, the latter making special appeal in that they are so new-this-year looking.

Ideal for dressy afternoon wear and exquisitely refined in its lady-like styling is the youthful frock shown to the right. It is made of one of the now-so-voguish black background prints, highlighted with multi-colored motifs. It is expertly styled to accentuate a slender silhouette. A pert little peplum adds intrigue to this most flattering little dress-up frock.

Even if one's wardrobe is not extensive, it is a wise plan to keep at least one dressy outfit on hand so as to avoid that frantic last-minute "what to wear" problem, when one is unprepared for an unexpected dress-up date. For summertime charm a cool dark print styled for flattery as pictured to the left will prove an ideal and treasured possession. A dress of this type will be welcome as an addition to any wardrobe because of its chic and charm.

One of the grand things about this dress is that you know it will give good service for the handsome black-with-color sheer print fabric has passed a laboratory test for good wear qualities. Because of the guarantee label in the dress you may be sure that its colorings will retain their original shades and that there will be no seam slippings after repeated cleaning and wearing. Taffeta bows at each side of the dramatic low-cut square neckline add a convincing note of chic. The charming large black hat which milady holds in her hand shows that this beautifully gowned modern knows her fashions, for the wider the brim, the smarter the hat this summer.

Sun and Play Dress

In this charming two-piece play-suit neck and midriff are bared to sun and air. The fabric is a soap-and-water waffle pique, the gaily colorful print design carried out in a gorgeous butterfly motif. There's joy and satisfaction in a print like this for you can depend upon it being fast color. The butterfly with its gorgeous coloring and designfulness is a featured theme that is bringing new beauty into the realm of prints this season.

Summer Wash Frocks Intriguingly Styled

Seldom a season, if ever, when wash frocks have been so intriguingly styled as now. In making up cottons that are lovelier than ever this summer designers are playing up imagination to the 'nth degree. They have succeeded so admirably that a seersucker dress or a gingham goes places as gracefully as a silken print or modish crepe. There's all sorts of fetching trimming accents appearing on this season's wash apparel, such as self-fabric bows, embroidered pockets, and most of all just "oodles" of eyelet embroidery in yokes or contrast sleeves or frills that finish off edges in a most flattering way. The theory that two lovely cottons are better than one is seen in perfectly charming gingham or pastel chambray two-piece dress. The skirt of gingham has a jacket of beloved eyelet. The jacket is finished off with a bias binding of the gingham. For final glamour little bows of self-ingham travel all the way the front of the jacket!

Popular Little Sailors Have Flattering Ways

No wonder the new little sailor hats are so popular. Their aim seems to be to flatter you and that's exactly what they do. The charm about the newer types is that they are so expertly designed they can be worn straight, back or forward tilt, no matter your age or your hairdo. A favorite straw sailor brought out this season has a telescoped crown, a tiny roll brim which takes on a beguiling veil that ties in the back. It comes in all colors but it is particularly attractive in all white.

make the Fays' visit in Montana especially pleasant. They remember particularly the Lolo Hot Springs where water gushes out of enormous colored rocks at a boiling temperature. While they travelled by car over narrow mountain trails where two cars could not pass, they looked down for many feet on beautiful falls and trees. The Michigan visitors were interested in seeing Indians from the Montana reservations, genuine cowboys, and snow-covered mountains.

Mr. Fay had the novel experience of helping his brother irrigate his land. Another interesting day was spent in hunting gophers "by the dozens."

Mr. and Mrs. Fay returned on Tuesday of last week, making the homeward journey by the same route as that taken in June. They are so enthusiastic about their trip that they plan to repeat it soon.

PRESBYTERIAN W. M. S. MET WITH MRS. ALEX MILLIGAN THURSDAY

Mrs. Alex Milligan was hostess to the Presbyterian Missionary society at her home last Thursday afternoon.

Following the business meeting in charge of the president, Mrs. Ernest Croft, the program, "Latin American Missions," was presented by Mrs. R. A. McNamee, Mrs. Roy Stafford and Miss Lura DeWitt. One fact of importance which was brought to the attention of the group was that the church now has more missionaries in Latin American than ever before.

Mrs. Melvin Vender spoke on the subject of "Catholicism in South America" and devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Sarah MacLachlan.

The meeting was well attended and the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lyle Koepfgen and Mrs. Ralph Partridge, served ice cream and cakes at the close of the meeting.

The September meeting will be with Mrs. C. L. Robinson when a guest speaker is expected.

BUTTERFAT PRODUCTION TWICE NATION'S AVERAGE

The eight-cow herd of registered Holstein-Friesians owned by Elmer Chapman of Decker has recently completed a year of production testing with the average butterfat production per cow being nearly two times as much as that of the nation's average dairy cow, says The Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

An average of 353 pounds of milk has been officially recorded. Milking was done twice daily.

The highest producer in the herd was Elmotha Daffodil Michigan Mutual, a four-year-old, which produced 504 pounds of butterfat and 12,738 pounds of milk.

Testing was supervised by Michigan State College of Agriculture, in cooperation with The Holstein-Friesian Association of America.
