Large Number Gather at City Park to Hear "End of War" Program

The ringing of church bells and the shriek of the fire whistle announced the unconditional surrender of Japan directly after the news had reached Cass City over the radio at six o'clock, CWT, on Tuesday afternoon. Within a short time, celebrators gave vent to the rejoicing over the welcome news and passenger cars and trucks with horns blowing incessantly were travelling the down town streets. By early evening, the fire department truck was leading a procession of cars and trucks and boys on bicycles that travelled village streets. Several of the vehicles had attached signs, tin cans and other metal contraptions to rear bumpers that gave forth sounds without musical quality. Spectators marveled that the town could produce so many noise-making articles in so short a time. In all, it was an orderly celebration that continued far into the night.

At nine o'clock, a large crowd gathered at the city park where a large bonfire gave further expression of public joy and provided light for an impromptu program of music and short addresses.

Hugh Munro, president of the Cass City Community club, presided as chairman. Rev. Fr. John Bozek gave the invocation and in a short talk complimented city fathers on arranging on short notice the evening program. Guy W. Landon led the audience in group singing, "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were among the first selections.

Rev. Arnold Olsen expressed the gratitude of all that war had ceased and closed his address with a prayer of thanksgiving.

State Senator Audley Rawson praised the men in service for their sacrificial efforts in World War II and said citizens should make every effort to assist returned service men, especially those who had been wounded.

M. E. Auten, a veteran of World War I, said Tuesday was a great day in American history and the country's greatest aim in the future should be to prevent war.

Chairman Munro urged service men to come to the platform that they might be introduced to the audience. Three responded—John Zawilinski, Albert Englehart and Clarence Zappe.

Mr. Landon, during the program, led the audience in singing "America, the Beautiful," "God Bless America," "Smiles," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and "God Be with You Till We Meet Again."

Rev. Kenneth Bisbee closed the program with a benediction.

Wednesday was observed as V-J day in Cass City with stores and business places closed during the day.

"Whistles blew, bells rang, bells rang, and whistles blew, and soon the Main street was lined with wild inhabitants. Such enthusiasm in Cass City was never evidenced before and joy was unbounded. Everybody knew everybody else and all seemed united in the glorious thought. Old Glory suddenly

Letters from Men in the Service

It's quite likely that S/Sgt. Harrison H. Stine and Cpl. Archie Mark will always remember their chance meeting at the French Riviera, the famed prewar resort which is now a U. S. recreation area. Many deserving American soldiers, including the two Cass City boys, have spent furloughs on the well-known Mediterranean beaches. S/Sgt. Stine and Cpl. Mark, whose meeting is described in a letter below, were both members of the Class of 1938 of Cass City High school.

In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stine, of Cass City, S/Sgt. Stine writes as follows concerning his furlough:

"Got back from the Riviera last night about ten-thirty. Really had a nice trip down and back. It really was great to be up there looking down on the Alps mountains. They were snow capped."

"Had a pretty good time on furlough. Lay on the beach every day and took a sun bath. I really got a pretty nice tan all over."

"I sure did get a surprise one day. Walked in the P. X. and someone hollered, 'Stine!' I looked around and couldn't recognize anyone that I knew. Then a fellow asked me if my name was Stine. He said, 'Mine is Mark. Remember me?' Then it finally soaked in that it was Archie Mark. He's the first fellow I've seen and I had to go to the Riviera to do that. I doubt if I'll be seeing anyone else while I'm here. I should be home this fall if everything works out o. k. I sure hope to make it."

"I surely got some mail while I was away. In fact, it took about two hours to read it all last night. Had letters from Bruce and Gary. Bruce told me about his promotion and also about meeting Cliff Ryan and having supper with him."

"So you have a couple of steers in the fattening pen, dad. By golly, I'll try to be back in time to help show them. I'm pretty sure I'll make it."

A second letter to his parents, also written from Germany, informs them that he is in a different location and is now with the 5th

25 Years of Service in Prison Management Wins Gillies Honors

From Plymouth Mail.

From a prison guard to prison superintendent, with one of the cleanest and most successful records of any warden in these entire United States is the success story of A. Blake Gillies, superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction who last Friday celebrated his 25 years of service with the big institution of which he is the head.

When Supt. Gillies returned to his office last Friday afternoon from a Rotary club meeting in Plymouth, he was greeted by some 135 employees who have served faithfully under him for years.

Surprised, the superintendent asked what it was all about.

Then it was that Edward Gardiner, deputy superintendent, in behalf of his associates, presented Mr. Gillies with a pen and pencil set in recognition of his services.

Even the hundreds of inmates, most appreciative of the efforts of Supt. Gillies to help the unfortunate restore themselves to good citizenship, did not permit the anniversary of his long prison service to go without notice. They, too, expressed their gratitude of his efforts by presenting him with a gold necktie pin.

It was 25 years ago last Friday when Supt. Gillies donned the uniform of a guard and went to work at the old Detroit House of Correction in Detroit. Strict attention to business, a display of work, quickly won him promotion after promotion. It was on Aug. 6, 1920, when the board made him superintendent.

In this executive capacity, he has won for himself as well as his institution countrywide recognition for its high type management.

Message Is Received From Washington Tuesday Afternoon

Word was flashed from the White House Tuesday at 6 p. m. that Japan had accepted all of the provisions contained in the Potsdam declaration of unconditional surrender. The Japanese had sought Friday to win guarantees that the emperor would remain a sovereign ruler. In reply, the United States and her Allies stated that unconditional surrender terms must stand and, while the emperor would retain his throne, he must "carry out all orders of the Allied command which would be established in Japan."

The message received Tuesday at Washington stated that the Japanese Imperial government had ordered all fighting to cease and that they would abide by all terms in the Potsdam declaration and carry out all orders that the Supreme Allied Command might deem necessary.

"I deem this reply a full acceptance of the Potsdam declaration which specifies the unconditional surrender of Japan," President Truman said. Washington also announced that General Douglas MacArthur was the Supreme Allied Commander designated to receive the formal surrender of Japan. The formal signing of the surrender will take place in Manila. Official V-J day will be announced by President Truman upon the formal signing of surrender terms.

Ever since the news Friday morning that Japan would surrender, the nation has had a case of nerves. City after city staged wild celebrations as flashes came that Japan had quit. But when at last the word was official that Japan had thrown in the sponge, bedlam broke loose. In every town and city, folks staged impromptu celebrations that in many cases lasted all night.

And now the ultimate of boondoggling dreams to consume taxpayers' dollars and to keep army engineers on federal payrolls: An inland barge canal connecting Lake Michigan and Lake Erie, a distance of 280 miles!

Fantastic as the idea may appear, the project has been authorized by Congress through its river and harbor bill of March 2, 1945, approved by President Roosevelt.

It would link the harbors of Toledo and Chicago by digging a waterway across western Ohio and northern Indiana. Army engineers say the shortcut would save about 450 miles of transportation by way of the Detroit river, Lake St. Clair, Lake Huron and Lake Michigan.

Because the canal would not traverse Michigan counties, interest among Michigan people has been lagging. However, the Indiana state legislative board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen have denounced the scheme in no uncertain words on the grounds that there was "no economic justification for the project."

To which, we agree. Here's why.

The Great Lakes provide the greatest single factor in Michigan life.

Our climate, famous with summer vacation-seekers, is controlled by the lakes.

Our automobile industry owes its origin to the manufacture of marine engines, a by-product of transportation on the lakes.

The greatest marine thoroughfare in the world is the Detroit river. The world's largest waterway gate is the Soo canal at Sault Ste. Marie.

Michigan has water communication with seven other states, and it affords 31 government improved natural harbors in addition to many ports that have been improved at local expense.

Michigan-mined iron and copper ore are transported in Michigan boats to Michigan industrial plants, there to be converted into thousands of modern appliances.

Pulp from Scandinavia is transported by boats direct to Michigan ports by shipment by railroad to Kalamazoo paper mills. Foreign vessels travel via the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes right to our front door!

Products of Michigan (peacetime, of course) included automobiles, automobile parts, tires and rubber products, basic steel, pig iron, coke, furniture, drugs and pharmaceuticals, lumber, chemicals, paper, beet sugar, clothing, plastics, radios, refrigerators, machinery, cast and forged iron and steel, petroleum products, stoves and ranges, flour, cereals, leather goods, dairy products, furs, canned goods, fishing tackle, cement and to the limestone products, adding machines, typewriters, and office equipment.

One-sixth of the nation's war output came from Michigan! Sure, we're good. But so are the Great Lakes.

The Lake Erie-Lake Michigan waterway is not a new dream.

Part of the first link of a canal system which was to connect Lake St. Clair with Lake Michigan is still in existence today. Between Utica and Rochester is a stretch of the old Clinton-Kalamazoo canal. It is still used for water power by the Utica Milling company.

Here's its history. Just more than 100 years ago the Erie canal was completed, and thousands of settlers began arriving here from New York state. Railroads were somewhat of an experiment. Michigan boosters conceived the idea of utilizing the Clinton and Kalamazoo rivers, bridging these waterways with a canal to afford a cross-state route for horse-drawn barges.

Michigan's boy governor, Stevens T. Mason, headed the project. Work started in 1839. The canal got as far as the present Bloomer State park at Rochester. Money ran out; later the canal was completely abandoned.

The early development of Michigan was due largely to availability of water transportation.

Humorously as it may appear today, a Michigan territorial act of 1836 required the installation of locks in dams on the following rivers: Shiawassee, St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Thornapple, Huron, Lookingglass and Grand. It was recognition of the navigability of these streams. Governor Mason in his message of Jan. 2, 1837, said the need for uniting the waters east and west of the Lower Peninsula "has long been conceded."

Some persons wanted to connect the Huron river with the Red Cedar and thence into the Grand to Lake Michigan. Others promoted a waterway utilizing the Raisin and the St. Joseph or Kalamazoo rivers. Every town in the southern tier of Michigan counties had its own favorite route which, of course, would go right through town.

Personally, we wouldn't oppose the Lake Erie-Lake Michigan new barge canal so much, except for one thing: The blooming thing is going to miss Michigan altogether.

Now Michigan almost went to fight with Ohio over the so-called "Toledo strip" of land. We got the best of the deal, for Congress threw in the Upper Peninsula for good measure to keep us from getting mad, and also a lot of us like to go to the Upper Peninsula, especially when the weather is hot in July and August.

But if the army engineers would change the canal route to include Lansing, for example, Michigan legislators might be induced to come out for it.

Anyway, we can't stand by and let Ohio and Indiana get this ditch into which the Great White Father would pour millions of dollars, even if nobody ever would use the darn thing. Why? We've got too much pride. Yes, sirree!

Deserving of wide distribution and thoughtful study is the new handbook, "Rural Michigan," just issued by the state department of Public Instruction at Lansing, through the cooperation of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek. Highlights of this study were presented in this column recently.

"The information it presents is the most recent available," says Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction. Elliott points out that the study is a result of the Conference on Education for Rural Living held at Grand Rapids last January, attended by representatives from 69 counties, 126 communities and 26 organizations. He adds:

"The conference arrived at the following conclusion: If there is to be an improvement in all areas of rural living, action must begin where people live."

Hence the importance of information contained in this challenging booklet which is intended to stimulate thinking and, accordingly, to induce action. That is the true American way.

Keep Fruits Cool

Keep ripe fruits cool and spread out, and handle carefully. Wash berries, cherries and grapes just before using. Keep all vegetables cold; wash and drain salad greens and pile them loosely in vegetable pan. Leave cauliflower, cabbage and broccoli uncut and slightly moist. Leave peas in pod until ready to cook. Store bread in ventilated box, crackers and cookies in air-tight containers—don't put them away together.

Eradicate Containers

Burn empty bags which contained insecticide materials; arsenical containers must be burned in open air, with care to avoid exposure of persons or animals to fumes. Bury unused discarded materials at least a foot below the surface and away from water supply or drainage.

Sugar from Flowers

Honey is the nectar of flowers gathered, part of the moisture evaporated and modified by the bees; the resulting liquid is largely sugar and so honey is known as sugar from flowers.

Mix Liver
If you have trouble getting your children to eat liver try preparing it this way: Buy a pound and freeze it and when ready to use it grind a small amount at a time and add it to different foods—scrambled eggs, soup, meat patties, gravy. Freezing makes the liver easier to grind and the children never know they're eating it.

About once a week some of the boys from the company go for a boat ride. A week ago I went with nine from the platoon to see Hitler's home. It was a 260-mile round trip. It rained all day but we could see snow all over the mountain sides. In fact, we could not get clear up to the cabin on top of the mountain on account of snow on the road. It was about six inches deep and still falling.

"I may be home in time for deer hunting; at least I hope so. It will soon be 15 months since I came over here. I must close now and write a friend at Fort Benning, Ga. How I wish I was back there with the old outfit."

DEFORD

Wedding Anniversary—

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Malcolm were very pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening when a group of friends and relatives walked unannounced into their home. The Malcolms were married Aug. 10, 1909, and lest they should forget the occasion of the anniversary, a gentle reminder was given. The occasion was also the anniversary of Mr. Malcolm's birthday.

The time was pleasantly spent together visiting, and lunch was served. On behalf of the gathering, Howard Retherford presented Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm with $17.00 with which to purchase some article in remembrance of their 36th anniversary.

The Farmers' club

dated for Aug. 17 at the Eldon Bruce home will be postponed to meet one week later. The date was changed to accommodate a guest speaker who found that he could not be present on the first date given.

Larry McCaslin, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward McCaslin of Rochester, about eight years old, suffered a compound fracture of a leg below the knee. The accident occurred when three little boys were riding on a tractor-drawn wagon. Larry fell under the wagon wheel when the tractor suddenly stopped, throwing two boys off.

While Warren Kelley was adjusting a part on his combine, a coil spring struck him across the nose pretty forcibly, lacerating the face. One eye was swollen shut from the blow.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hosner and daughter, Eleanor, of Detroit visited Wednesday at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hicks and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perry. Dean Hosner, who has been spending the summer at the Lloyd Hicks home, returned to Detroit with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Malcolm of Detroit are at a cottage near Lewiston to spend two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Malcolm spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Malcolm. The Misses Shirley and Kathleen Kelley and Sharon and Catherine Malcolm are staying with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Malcolm.

Make Blouse-Slip

Make a blouse-slip by using a half worn slip. Cut off the worn top of a slip and discard it. Sew the skirt part to a blouse and you have a blouse-slip in which the shirttail stays put. It may be necessary to fit the blouse to the skirt by stitching in small pleats around the hips and extending the blouse opening with a placket in the skirt. Skirts and shirts are popular these days, and the skirt-b blouse twosome is comfortable, practical and saves on laundry.

Food Economy

Prepare only as much food as is needed, and use economical methods. When the skins are tender, serve summer squash, cucumbers, carrots, tomatoes with skins on. Save vegetable water to use in stews, gravies or vegetable cocktail.

Shipping Needs

Each serviceman in the Pacific requires 16 tons of shipping for the first 30 days and about 6 tons each month thereafter, says the navy. Atmospheric and other conditions in that area require more careful wrapping to protect from humidity, rot, vermin and other pests.

Restore Surface

Shallow dents and bruises in wood may be removed by moistening a blotter with hot water, placing it on the spot, and gently applying heat with a hot iron, but you may need to remove white water spots from varnished surfaces after this treatment.

Farm Accident Costs
Continue to MountMost Losses Can Be Prevented Entirely

Accidents to farmers, in a typical year, lost double the amount of time needed to produce the average annual wheat crop of the United States. The economic loss from accidents of all kinds occurring to farm people is nearly a billion dollars per year. In a typical year: 17,200 farm people were killed. 4,500 were killed at agricultural work. 1,500,000 rural residents were injured.

Of the 17,200 accidental deaths among farm people, nearly half were the result of accidents similar to those in urban homes, due to falls, burns, poisons, firearms and drowning.

The greatest number of fatal accidents to farm workers occurred while oiling, unclogging or adjusting moving farm machinery. Some farmers were killed when tractors tipped over, but, next to machinery, the commonest accidents were caused by livestock—by the startled horse or the bull that everyone thought was tame.

Don't adjust moving belts.

Motor vehicle accidents not associated with farm work took the lives of 3,700 rural people. The week commencing July 22 has been designated by President Truman as National Farm Safety week.

Hunt Started for Meatier Market Fowl

Major poultry associations, key poultrymen and U.S.D.A. specialists have undertaken an assignment from the A & P Food stores to draw up specifications for an ideal meat-type bird and to supervise distribution of $3,000 in awards which the company has posted.

The committee, headed by D. D. Slade, secretary, International Baby Chick association, believes the program will crystallize thinking among poultry breeders and hatcherymen on a chicken with an abundance of "carvings." A broad-based chicken would mean more economical growth, more meat per pound of feed consumed, and more profits to poultrymen. A prize of $5,000 will be given to the poultryman breeding the best bird at the end of three years. Annual progress awards will total $3,000.

Water for Chickens

In order that fresh water may be provided for the chickens and be kept clean, the cover shown in this illustration is recommended. It may be used with water basin or some form of automatic water fount.

Alfalfa Adds Nitrogen

When alfalfa is fed on the farm where it is grown and the manure is returned to the land, there would be a large gain in nitrogen and the phosphorus and potassium loss would be greatly reduced.

At the University of Illinois, it was observed that when a ton of hay is sold, 37 pounds of nitrogen obtained from the air goes with no gain to the grower, but rather as a gain to the buyer of the hay. By feeding the alfalfa and using manure, this loss is reduced.

Hormone sprays, or pre-harvest fruit - drop inhibitors, containing naphthalene acetic acid as the active ingredient, were used both in spray and dust form by many apple and pear growers throughout the country in 1944.

Add Water to Tires

There are no ill effects from filling tires completely with a water solution of calcium chloride. Completely filled tires have an advantage in that pressure is automatically increased as the tires are overloaded, thus avoiding the usual necessity for adding more air and using higher pressures in proportion to heavier tire loads.

Resistance to bruising and punctures is not affected by the percentage of liquid fill.

Energy Foods
The housewife should not feel apologetic if she serves dried pea or bean dishes several times a week because these legumes rate nearest lean meat, eggs, milk and cheese as body builders, declare home demonstration agents. And the edible soybean, which can be purchased either in the form of flour, canned, or as a dried bean, rates highest nutritionally in the family of legumes. Dried peas and beans are inexpensive energy foods and contain important minerals.

Seek Livability In Future House

Architects Aim to Bring the Outdoors Closer to the Indoors for Health.

CHICAGO. — Architects are not worrying overmuch about what your postwar house will look like. Their aim is a house that "will work" and will have "livability."

An overwhelming majority of 915 designs submitted in a nationwide architectural competition, according to the Chicago Tribune, emphasized these points:

Simply a good house for better living, practical rather than stylish, useful and comfortable rather than impressive.

From that standpoint of health, the trend in design is toward "bringing the outdoors closer indoors and taking the indoors more outdoors."

The architects had in mind a "home for cheerful living," within the economic reach of the average young American family, particularly the returning serviceman.

Gabled roofs are out. That reduces roof maintenance costs. Laundry and heating units are on the ground floor. There'll be no lugging up and down cellar steps.

There are no sentimental trappings, no lavish display in front. In fact the house, figuratively, turns its back on the street. There are no side windows facing the neighbors. But there is privacy.

Cut Stylized Ornaments.

The first prize house of the contest was planned for California by a young couple, Jean Bodman Fletcher and Norman Fletcher, of Birmingham, Mich. Fletcher, who is 27, was graduated from Yale five years ago. His home town is Williamstown, Conn. His wife, from Wayne, Pa., is a graduate of Harvard.

"We subscribe fully to the tendency in modern architecture of eliminating stylized ornaments in favor of practicality," say the Fletchers.

"The public too long has been accustomed to judging a house by what it looks like — 'Cape Cod,' 'ranch house,' or 'English.' Modern schools are teaching the proper way to plan and to judge a house is by the way it works, what it does for the occupant and the family."

For a glimpse of the postwar home, the Fletcher design which brought them a prize of $2,500, offers a good perspective.

The house and "carport" (garage) are placed forward on the lot, leaving as much of the land as possible for gardening and outdoor living. The "H" design permits three separate outdoor spaces — a garden for adult use and entertaining, a children's play and laundry yard, and a rear space for garden, barbecue fireplace, or putting green.

Room for Work and Play.

The cross bar of the "H" is a compact, air conditioned utilities unit, composed of a kitchen, heater room, bath, and a separate lavatory. Conceivably, the architects say, it could be factory produced, cutting installation cost to a minimum.

The wing on the street side is a combined living and dining room and a multipurpose room for work and play. The rear wing, with three bedrooms and a study-guest room, is the "quiet area," away from everyday family life.

This one-floor scheme has two southern exposures. Full length-width windows are structurally arranged to admit maximum sun in winter, minimum in summer.

The architects point out that, with expert assistance, the returning soldier or any other young American could construct most of the house, after buying the utilities unit. The plans are drawn for the house to grow as the budget or family, or both, expand. It was designed for a couple with two children.

Assuming the family would acquire a quarter-acre plot, the architects confined the house to 1,400 square feet of floor space. The general price range, exclusive of land, was estimated at $6,500 to $8,000.

Convoy System's End to Speed Up Yanks' Return

LONDON. — The end of the Atlantic convoy system was expected to speed the homeward journeys of thousands of American troops still in the European theater.

An Anglo-American announcement that Atlantic ships no longer must travel in convoy meant that troopships no longer would be restricted to the speed of the slowest vessel in a convoy. Nor would they be forced to take roundabout, zig-zagging routes to avoid U-boats.

The joint announcement gave merchant vessels permission to sail with all their lights on for the first time since September, 1939.

Russian Generals Are To Get Free Houses

MOSCOW. — The Soviet Union is rewarding its generals with construction of spacious new apartments for their use.

A. N. Prokofiev, chief of the department of military industrial construction, said in announcing the plan that dwellings for the men who beat the German army of the eastern front would be built in Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev, Kharkov, Rostov and Voronezh.

DOWN MEMORY LANE

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE.

Thirty-five Years Ago.
Aug. 19, 1910.

Schwaderer Bros. & Striffler, local livestock buyers, purchased five head of cattle from John Tanner of Holbrook that weighed 6,525 pounds and brought Mr. Tammek $391.50, at the rate of six cents a pound.

Members of St. Pancratius church are jubilant over the removal of the indebtedness on the church property, the last payment having been made last week. To the efforts of Rev. Fr. Dwan, the pastor, and the ladies of the congregation is due the honor of cancelling the greater part of the indebtedness, officials of the church state. The building is valued at $5,000.

I. W. Hall and T. H. Boyd drove to Caseville in Mr. Hall's auto one day last week, worked 10 hours on the cottage H. S. Wickware is building at the Bluff and returned the same evening. The distance covered in the trip was 62 miles. "We started a little before five in the morning and were home again a little after nine in the evening," said Mr. Boyd. "If one had suggested such a trip 20 years ago, he would have been thought crazy."

A. L. Ferguson has resigned his position at Wood's drug store and he and his family have moved to Romeo.

The Deford Grain Co. are erecting a store room 24x60 ft. at the south end of their elevator property. It will be used to house flour, feed, lime and cement.

Twenty-five Years Ago.
Aug. 20, 1920.

Tuesday, C. R. Townsend became the proprietor of the shoe and clothing business of McGregory-Townsend Co., Inc., purchasing the interest of P. S. McGregory in the firm's business. Mr. Townsend also purchased the brick block, which has housed the firm's stock, from Mr. McGregory.

Thomas Auten is moving his stock of groceries into the east side of the Lamont block which he purchased recently.

Mike Dennis of Wyandotte has purchased from I. B. Auten the 120-acre farm 3 1/2 miles east of Cass City for $8,500.

Fire destroyed an ice house Tuesday, near the stock yards, belonging to and used as a warehouse by the Nestle's Food Co.

Mineral Oil

Regarding increased use of mineral oil since the war in salad dressings and also in such foods as salted nuts, potato chips and doughnuts, nutrition research at State Agricultural Experiment stations has shown that mineral oil robs the body of at least two of the fat-soluble vitamins necessary to health, and also of two important minerals, calcium and phosphorus.

Poisonous to Plants

Oils have long been known to be poisonous to plants, but only in the last few years has their value as selective weed killers been recognized. In California, Arizona and other far western states, oil sprays for weeding carrots have been used commercially for two seasons.

Egg Handling

Eggs should never be washed, should be gathered often, kept in a cool place and marketed promptly to maintain quality.

Keeping Meats

Meats, both raw and cooked, should be kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator so that there will be no spoilage.

As this column is being written the radio reports are all about the war's end—reports confirmed and then denied—statements about the effects of atomic bombing on Japan. Any local subject we might choose to discuss at this time would act as an anti-climax and pass unnoticed. "Time" magazine states "This past week we entered the atomic age." Wm. B. Stout, the automotive genius, says: "New cars in a short time will be propelled with atomic power using a motor the size of a brick." The atom, the smallest division of the molecule or solid matter, surely has arrived. We are like Ifly, "All we know about the atomic bomb is that we had nothing to do with its manufacture." The New Time states that 10,000 persons from that city alone were recruited including scientists and expert craftsmen to assist in the manufacture in the three plants, one of which is located at Oak Ridge, or Clinton, Tenn. For your information, we give you a short story about that section of the country.

Clinton, on the Clinch river, a town of 3,000 people, prewar, is 20 miles northwest of Knoxville, four miles west of Norris Dam, the center of T. V. A. activity. It is in a coal producing section and not overly prosperous. The early inhabitants were mostly of Scotch-Irish stock, having settled in this locality at the beginning of the 18th century. Their descendants have made good citizens and good workmen on the T. V. A. projects and especially on the mysterious plant at nearby Oak Ridge. However, until these developments, they have lived, perhaps through no fault of theirs, in a back eddy of American life on one mule farm, or worked adjoining coal mines. Now they find themselves not in the 18th or 19th century, but in the 20th and even close to the 21st century, the age of atomic power. Maybe there is still a "dog trot" cabin in the hills above Oak Ridge or Clinton where a "hill billy" sits with his squirrel rifle by his side, a hound dog at his feet, a hillside plot of planted corn, tobacco and potatoes in front of him and gazes down into the most stupendous concentration of material, energy and power the world has ever known. He justly might wonder if he is wide awake, alive or dreaming. We all do.

In a battle with three German spies, he was shot in the knee, but courageously he won the victory. He spent 18 months in various countries driving ammunition trucks and in combat in Germany, France, Italy, Sicily and England. He was wounded twice while overseas and had many thrilling experiences. He was awarded the purple heart. While 17 miles above the Rhine he contracted malaria and pneumonia. Tuesday, he left for Colorado where he will spend a few weeks in a camp hospital. From there he expects to receive his medical discharge.

Flavorful Food Fats
Butter, margarine, olive oil, oleo oil and lard are the "flavorful" food fats, it is reported, while the "invisible" fats, or those which serve to add flavor to actual products in which they are found, are the fats eaten as part of roasts, chops, and steaks, and the cream in whole milk. Salad oils, shortenings, and bland lard comprise a group of fats which are, at least during normal holding periods, odorless and flavorless.

Morale Vitamin
Thiamine is one of a large family of vitamins grouped under the alphabetical letter B. It is also called B-1, but thiamine, its chemical name is the popular term. Thiamine has been nicknamed the morale vitamin, because it helps steady the nerves, helps you to keep cheerful, with a stiff upper lip. People who get too little thiamine in food often have poor appetites, slow heart rate and feel tired.

Double-Barrel Action:

Russia's Declaration of War And Atomic Bomb Combine To Stagger Collapsing Japs

Coming on top of the American introduction of the earth-shaking atomic-bomb, Russia's declaration of war on Japan raised high hopes for an early finish to the Pacific conflict, raging in bloody island-to-island fighting since recovery of U. S. strength following Pearl Harbor.

Having previously disclosed the dropping of the mighty new explosive on Japan, President Harry S. Truman also was the first to reveal Russia's entrance into the Pacific war to the U. S., putting him in the position of having made two historic announcements within a few days.

In declaring war on Japan, Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov stated that the Reds had decided on hostilities as a means for restoring peace quickly in the Far East after the Nipponese had turned down the U. S., British and Chinese demand for unconditional surrender at Potsdam, thus ending Moscow's role as an intermediary in the conflict.

With the Russians possessing large forces along the Siberian border, and excellent locations for air bases for short-range bombardment of the Japanese homeland, the Reds' decision to cross swords with the Nipponese was expected to prove of invaluable assistance in shortening the war. Of the 4,000,000 men constituting the Japanese army, 1,250,000 have been reported massed in Manchuria opposite Russian territory, with another 900,000 stationed throughout China.

Having first come to grips over 40 years ago in the Orient, Far Eastern relations between the two powers have always remained touchy, with border clashes between Russian and Japanese troops in 1939 threatening to explode in major conflict. At that time, Marshal Gregory Zhukov, who was later to lead the Russian smash into Berlin, commanded Red soldiers in Siberia.

All through the German-Russian war, a Japanese attack on Russia's rear in Siberia was feared, with the Nipponese reportedly prepared to take the jump in 1942 before the Nazi setback at Stalingrad inspired caution. On the face, Japanese-Russian relations were guided by the neutrality pact of 1941 which the Reds signed with the Germans threatening their European front; but with the Nazis licked, Moscow then found itself free to take a stiffer stand in the Far East.

With Russia's entrance into the war, the Allied world speculated on the price Premier Stalin would exact for Red participation in the drive to overthrow the Nipponese and end the conflict quickly. A shrewd bargainer, interested in material advantages rather than idealistic attainments, the mustached chieftain of the Kremlin reportedly had an eye not only on Inner Mongolia, but on Manchuria and Korea as well.

Historians were quick to point out that Russia has always had a rough time in the Far East.

Pushed out of her once-important place in Asia after the Russo-Japanese conflict of 1904-05 because of the loss of the Manchurian railway empire—and the southern half of the island of Sakhalin with its rich timber and oil resources, Russia has been smarting ever since.

Even the Russian revolution which saw the end of the czars did not change this feeling. In fact, under the Soviet, Russia's interest in the Far East suffered even more. Chinese pressure forced her to lose control of the Chinese Eastern Railway. The Japs pressed for additional concessions in oriental waters.

They got them. Valuable fishing privileges were granted to them by Russia. Tokyo enjoyed these for years.

Meanwhile, by 1931, Japan was spreading its power with full strength, and reached out to grab Manchuria. Russian strength in that area was reduced still more.

Japan continued to rule Manchuria and parts of China with ever-increasing violence until the outbreak of the war with China. Grabs of power and land finally led to war with Britain and the United States, the great powers of the west.

ATOMIC BOMB:

Earth Shaking

Best kept secret of the war, the sensational atomic bomb electrified the Allied world with its possibilities for bringing the Japanese soon to their knees, and revolutionizing postwar life, while staggering the enemy with its terrible destructive potentialities.

Armed with the new weapon, which promises to outmode all existing forms of armament on land and sea and air, the U. S. was in a position to deliver another unconditional surrender ultimatum to the Japanese, this time threatening to wreak even greater ruin than that being wrought by the swarms of Flying Forts now bombarding the empire.

In a war already noted for the remotely-controlled buzz bomb and rocket developed by the Germans, the atomic bomb remains the outstanding scientific product, embodying, as it does, the magic substance, uranium, known as U-235 — the 235 representing its weight in atoms, the smallest particles of matter. First isolated in 1899, uranium is a metallic element found along with radium in pitchblende and carnotite ore, and possessing great powers of energy through its explosive atomic contents.

With Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves in overall charge of production of the atomic bomb, and with Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer of the University of California responsible for the technical development of it, special pains were taken to preserve the secrecy of the explosive, packing a force greater than 20,000 tons of TNT.

At Richland, Wash., the huge plant, sprawling over 400,000 acres, was divided into three parts, one for the production of the material; another for its refinement, and the third for storing raw materials.

Some idea of the terrific explosive effect of the new atomic bomb on the harassed Japanese cities can be gleaned from the results of the test of the charge in the desert lands of New Mexico.

With U-235 giving off heat, light and power, the explosion lit the countryside for miles around with a brightness even greater than day, with the flash seen 520 miles away at Needles, Calif., and a blind girl near Albuquerque, N. M., noting the presence of a flash shortly before the detonation.

The explosion itself set off a heavy pressure wave, which knocked down two men at a control center 10,000 yards away, and completely vaporized the steel tower upon which the atomic bomb rested. A huge multi-colored cloud surged upward to over 40,000 feet, commanding the sky.

In dropping a single 400-pound charge on the rail and industrial center of Hiroshima, one B-29 wiped out 60 per cent of the once thriving Honshu municipality, army air force reconnaissance reported. Fires swept extensively over the stricken area and only a few concrete structures remained standing in the heart of the city, with the interior of these even scorched.

In the welter of excitement over the atomic bomb, the tremendous possibilities of harnessing U-235 to peacetime uses commanded popular attention. Any hopes that the material might be immediately available, however, were spiked by war department reports that much additional research was needed for designing machinery for producing peacetime energy.

Realization of the terrific destructive potentialities of the atomic bomb sobered jubilation over President Truman's announcement of its usage to bring the enemy to his knees.

Comment ranged from the statement of Senator Capper (Rep., Kans.) that "I hope we can control it" to the declaration of Representative Lea (Dem., Calif.) "This emphasizes the necessity of the nations providing some method of settling disputes without recourse to war. Otherwise, it might mean the end of civilization."

MANPOWER:

Charge Army Hoarding

In the face of severe congressional criticism over maintenance of 7,000,000 men in uniform for a one-front war following Germany's defeat, the army revealed that it would not revise its point system for discharge as previously planned for July.

With about 1½ million troops scheduled for release by next June, the war department stated that consultations with General MacArthur and his commanders resulted in the decision that the present discharge rate is the maximum that can be afforded to permit efficient operations in the Pacific and prevent unnecessary losses of men through inexperienced combat leadership.

Despite the army's stand, Senator Johnson (Dem., Colo.) repeated his demand that the nation's military forces be further pared, asserting that shipping facilities will permit utilization of only 3,000,000 men in the Pacific before January, 1947, and the hoarding of manpower will cause unnecessary unemployment in the postwar period.

In the midst of the argument, the army revealed that replaceable Pacific vets with 85 or more points are being discharged as rapidly as shipping permits. Specialists with 85 or more points who cannot be immediately replaced, however, are being retained.

PACIFIC:

Realign Commands

In line with the joint chiefs of staff assignments of April 5 putting him in charge of all army forces and resources in the Pacific theater, Gen. Douglas MacArthur revealed extension of his command to the Ryukyu islands, stepping-stones to his announced goal of Tokyo.

At the same time, it was disclosed, Adm. Chester Nimitz, who had been given the leadership of all naval forces and resources in the Pacific theater by the chiefs of staff April 5, retained his control over the fleet in the Ryukyu area. Gen. Carl Spaatz' army strategic air forces also will remain independent of the MacArthur command.

With the announcement of the realignments, it was revealed that a mighty invasion force was being forged under General MacArthur, with the Ryukyu and Philippine islands serving as a semi-circular base.

POULTRY:

U. S. Procurement

Moving to ease the burden of supply on eight eastern, southern and midwestern states, and obtain sufficient stocks for military canning, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson announced that the government would extend poultry purchases to 12 other principal producing states.

At the same time, it was revealed, the government has been purchasing all turkeys marketed in 23 producing states for storage for popular, morale building Thanksgiving and Christmas day service dinners. Despite the heavy U. S. procurement, the bumper 1945 turkey crop of from 575,000,000 to 600,000,000 pounds will assure each civilian of 3.55 pounds.

Under the government's new poultry purchase programs, the U. S. and civilians will share equally in output of processing plants with over 20,000 pound capacity weekly in North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Oklahoma and Texas. The government is now taking 70 per cent of broiler production in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Missouri.

REPARATIONS:

Russ Share

As a result of the Potsdam agreements, Russia will receive the lion's share of surplus movable German industry as reparations payments, studies revealed.

Russia's advantage partly stems from the fact that about 45 per cent of German industry was located in the eastern part of the country now under Red occupation, and the U. S. and Britain with great productive plants of their own have little use for enemy facilities.

Under the Potsdam agreements, the Allied powers are to take surplus movable German industry as reparations for Nazi war damage after the economy of the defeated nation has been readjusted to permit only manufacture essential to an agricultural state. In addition to having a free hand in the eastern zone, where 45 per cent of German industry was situated, the Russians also will obtain 10 per cent of the equipment in the U. S. and British zones, plus another 15 per cent paid for with food and coal.

WAR SHIPPING:

In the five years and eight months of the European war, 75,000 merchant ships were escorted across the Atlantic by the British, Dominion and European navies, the British admiralty revealed.

Despite the large number of ships escorted — involving some 2,200 convoys, the largest made up of 167 ships — only 574 ships were lost in all, or the equivalent of 1 in every 131 which sailed, the admiralty further disclosed.

White Russians
The White Russians are sturdy, blond Slavs whose ancestors found this marsh-surrounded grain and grazing land 18 centuries ago. They have been called Belorussians, or White Russians so long that the origin of the name is not clear. It may have come from their blondness in comparison with neighboring tribes of Mongol and Turkish blood; to their success in using their marshlands as a protecting barrier against Mongol invasions (the Russian word for "white" can also mean "free"); or even to their characteristic white dress of homespun flax.

Restores Elasticity

Now that girdles, corselettes, and panty girdles are being made with elastic from the new synthetic rubber, there is good reason to tub them after every one or two days of wear. Even though synthetic rubber is very efficient, it is not quite so elastic as natural rubber and does not snap back to shape so quickly after being stretched. A soap and water treatment causes the elastic to "tighten up" and is a quick, easy way to bring a foundation back to a snug fit which gives the wearer more support, control and comfort.

Measure Ingredients

Measure ingredients accurately—you'll waste less and have better cooked foods besides. Cook potatoes with skins on and other vegetables in as little water as possible.
