Letters from Men in the Service

Cpl. Walt Peddie writes from Saipan, Marianas Islands, under date of Aug. 4, to his cousin, Wayne T. Peddie, at Cass City, as follows:

"A long, long ways from home without a bell on! Took a long time to get here; hope it doesn't take as long to get back. There sure is a lot of water between here and home. The ocean was calm on our way across after the first day so we didn't have many cases of seasickness. The trip was very monotonous—same rolling of the ship day after day; the same blue water; nothing else in sight but water. The food on the ship was terrible. After the second day out it began to warm up and has been hot ever since.

"This island was, some ago, a mountain top. It's just a big rock jutting out of the ocean. It's about five miles wide and eight miles long, made of coral rock and sticky clay. We are right at the foot of a cliff on Mt. Tohapan, one of the mountains. The terrain and climate are somewhat like the state of Arizona, only for the rain.

Michigan Mirror

Houghton—The big sprawling Upper Peninsula of Michigan, where once the lumberjack and the copper and iron miner vied for supremacy, must look to recreation, agriculture and processed forest products for much of its post-war salvation.

This was the collective message voiced by speakers at an Upper Peninsula Conference on Post-War Development which was held at Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton just three days prior to V-J Day. The timely program was sponsored by the Michigan Press association in the interest of public service. It was a preview of things yet to come.

This scenic peninsula, between Lake Michigan and Lake Superior, has been badly depleted of its mineral and timber resources.

The copper mines at Houghton, Hancock and Calumet, which once provided employment for tens of thousands of workers, enriched more bank accounts in Boston than those in the Copper Range. Mines are running short of good grade ore; many shafts are down at levels too low for competitive peace-time operations. The federal copper subsidy, justified by war emergency, is due to end in a few weeks. Copper mines are on the way out.

The best timber of the Upper Peninsula has been stripped by big lumber companies. Land was left to speculators and finally to the government for reforestation. Selective timber cutting is observed, if at all, by private choice.

Liquidation of the remaining timber and ore resources has been accelerated during the rush of war years. The Upper Peninsula knows this. Leaders are frankly apprehensive.

"I received your letter and was happy to get it. Have wondered for a long time how to approach you to tell you how wonderful a fellow Jim was. We were close buddies since tent camp back in the States, and overseas we were in the same tent together. Our names being so close alphabetically, we were always together. We were together aboard ship all the time. He worked in the bakery with B. B. Wallace and I worked in the spud locker. The three of us used to play pinocchio together in our spare time. Nights we slept topside or above deck and related our post-war plans. We had about six liberties together. When we stopped in a liberty port, we used to lie by the hour talking over the happy married life we had. I have been married six years and have two girls; one is five years old and the other four years. So we had a lot in common. He was the best buddy I have had in the service.

"We went ashore together on Iwo Jima, and the two of us were dug in together. We worked on the beach together as a shore party until they needed replacements in

Rural Mail Carrier Relates Bits of Local Post Office History

If you were to name the postmasters who have served the Cass City community since a post office was established here in 1868, would you place them in the following order: J. C. Laing, Warren W. Weydemeyer, Daniel P. Deming, Homer E. Gordon, Warren W. Weydemeyer, Geo. S. Farrar, P. R. Weydemeyer, Andrew W. Seed, Alonzo H. Ale, Henry S. Wickware, John C. Corkins, Joseph M. Dodge, Euphemia Hunter, Arthur Little and Alice M. Bigelow?

According to Guy W. Landon, for 32 years a rural carrier out of the local post office, who gave a talk on "Postal Service" before the Rotary club Tuesday, that's the correct order.

Mr. Landon said the postal department was established in 1775 by the Continental Congress and Benjamin Franklin was the first postmaster. He gave a history of the establishment of rural free delivery in the states and followed with sidelights on local rural carriers who served since rural mail delivery started here in 1903. Vassar, he said, had the first post office in Tuscola county, established in 1851.

Mr. Landon, as a delegate to national conventions of rural mail delivery carriers at Los Angeles

COMPLETE VICTORY! Japs Agree to All Terms Of Potsdam Declaration; MacArthur Gets High Post

By AL JEDLICKA

Forty years after its armies marched into Korea to establish a foothold on the Asiatic mainland, Japan's course of imperial conquest came to a dramatic end on the evening of August 14 with the unconditional acceptance of the Potsdam declaration subscribed to by the U. S., Britain, China and Russia. Announced to an anxious nation by President Harry S. Truman, the Jap surrender came three years, eight months and one week after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

With the Allied powers consenting to his retention on the throne to assure the surrender of Japanese armies scattered throughout Asia and the submission of the homeland to the stiff terms imposed, Emperor Hirohito ordered the nation to lay down its arms as the Tokyo radio reported thousands of downcast subjects bowed in grief before the gates of the imperial palace lamenting their defeat.

Having fled American ground forces back over the vast tracts of the Pacific to the doorstep of Japan following the crippling blow at Pearl Harbor, General MacArthur was designated to accept the Nipponese surrender along with representatives of the other Allied nations.

Coming four days after Tokyo's first offer to give up the fight provided the emperor's sovereignty were respected, and three months after V-E day, Japan's surrender was greeted with wild enthusiasm throughout the U. S. which joyously celebrated the end of the most destructive and costly war in history without waiting for President Harry S. Truman's official V-J day proclamation.

In accepting the Allied terms, Japan agreed to the total reduction of its once proud empire, with hope for the future based upon the organization of a free democracy within the home islands of Honshu, Kyushu, Hokkaido and Shikoku.

Under the Potsdam ultimatum, Japan must eliminate the influence of those elements which have encouraged conquest; give up Manchuria, Korea and other overseas acquisitions; disarm all armed forces; permit the revival of democracy and freedom of speech, religion and thought; and submit to Allied occupation of designated points in the homeland until post-war security has been established.

At the same time, Japan was promised an opportunity for orderly development once a peaceful government had been created, with retention of such industries as would maintain its internal economy and eventual access to raw materials and world trade.

The war ended just as the atomic bomb threatened the obliteration of Japan's sprawling industrial settlements, with Hiroshima and Nagasaki already badly mangled by the terrific blasts.

Packing an explosive force 20,000 times greater than TNT, the atomic dustrial potential in repeated heavy raids.

Recovering quickly from the black days immediately after Pearl Harbor, when the Nipponese overran much of the Pacific, the U. S. checked the enemy tide in the spring of 1942, when the American fleet stopped the Japs' southeastward drive in the battle of the Coral sea and then thwarted their eastward surge at Midway.

From then on, the U. S., building up tremendous military and material strength under a unified front at home, was on the march, with the Japanese seeking time to consolidate their newly won position as the overruling Asiatic power by bitter delaying action in their outposts.

With the navy severing vital Japanese supply lines to these outposts, and with the ground forces isolating enemy units into disorganized resistance pockets on invaded islands, the American advance in the Pacific far exceeded expectations, with the end of the European war finding U. S. sea, land and air forces perched right on Nippon's doorstep.

Though the main body of Japanese troops had not been touched by the steady U. S. advances westward, the American navy's mastery of the sea lanes as far as the Chinese coast interrupted the shipment of vital material to the home islands for industrial processing, and the B-29's terrific bombardment of manufacturing centers greatly curtailed output.

With deliveries of materials cut, and output dwindling, the effectiveness of an estimated 4,000,000 remaining enemy troops stood to be severely limited.

On top of it all, Russia's invasion of Manchuria and threat to Jap-held China promised to tap the only remaining important enemy industrial source outside the homeland.

EMPEROR:

His Background

Their authority re-established with the overthrow of the military government in 1868, the Japanese emperors, supposedly descended from the sun goddess, have exercised their mythical power for the unification of the country to facilitate its imperial development.

With the overthrow of the shogunate shortly after Admiral Perry opened the door of Japan to the outside world, the simple island people, previously owing strict allegiance to the military clan, easily transferred their blind obedience to the mikado.

The present mikado, Hirohito, is a puny, nearsighted man of 44. He is called the 124th emperor of Japan by the Japanese court authorities. When he ascended the throne in 1926, he chose the word "Showa," meaning "enlightenment and peace," to describe his reign.

Many political experts believe that personally Hirohito wanted peace, but as the puppet of the military clique had to go along with their designs. Actually he wields little real power. His actual "reign" began in 1921, then as prince regent he ruled in his father's stead. He was married in 1924 and is the father of one son and three daughters.

RECONVERSION:

Next Job

With World War II finished, and with the nation's great armament production due to be slashed, interest mounted in the government's program for switching industry back to a peacetime basis and providing continued high employment.

Shortly before the cessation of hostilities, President Truman called in War Production Board Chief Krug to go over plans for speeding up reconversion to prevent a large-scale rupture of the country's economy after V-J day.

At the meeting, it was determined that the WPB was to conduct a vigorous drive for the expansion of production of materials in short supply to meet all demands; limit manufacture of articles requiring scarce materials; establish effective control over material stockpiles to prevent speculative hoarding that would endanger the stabilization program; provide priority assistance to break bottlenecks that might impede the switch back to civilian goods, and allocate scarce materials for lower priced articles to keep costs down.

Japan's Imperial Ambitions Led to War

Before the Twentieth century Japan's imperial ambitions were restricted to Korea, the coast of China and some neighboring islands in the Japanese sea. Japanese leaders suddenly realized the power of western armament. During the next half century Japan was modernized so successfully that the Japanese victories over China in 1894, and Russia in 1905 were swift and conclusive.

During the twenties Japan expanded her commercial influence deep into Chinese territory. By 1931 a formidable boycott developed. Japanese troops were used to crush this organized protest. This violation of treaty rights aroused the world. Japan defiantly resigned from the League of Nations in 1933, when trouble in the "truce area" of China was again the occasion for battling.

QUITE A DOG!

The theatrical producer was giving an audition to a man with a new act.

Producing a puppy from his pocket, the man placed it on the piano, whereupon the puppy calmly proceeded to play part of one of the operas.

"Wonderful!" exclaimed the producer. "I'll give you a thousand dollars a week for that."

"But that's not all," said the man, producing from another pocket a parrot, which, perched on the piano, sang an aria from the opera to the puppy's accompaniment.

Almost speechless by now, the producer managed to bring out an offer for $2,000 a week for that.

"Er—er," said the man, "before you decide, I must tell you this act's not exactly on the level. You see, the parrot can't sing—the puppy's a ventriloquist!"

Lubricate Stoker

One of the most important things for a stoker owner to remember is that a stoker needs to be lubricated, just like an automobile, if it is to function at top efficiency. Because stokers are located in basements, submitted in many cases to the action of rust, moisture, to say nothing of floods in certain instances, stokers must be inspected, cleaned and lubricated at least once a year. This work should generally be performed by a dealer's service man who is properly trained and equipped.

Vitamin Losses

Recent studies show that vitamin A is not the only loss from mineral oil, but that the body is cheated also of vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin," and of calcium and phosphorus. Rats taking mineral oil needed three times as much cod liver oil to supply vitamin D as rats given no mineral oil. Puppies fed mineral oil could not use the calcium and phosphorus in their food to build normal bones.

Beeswax

Six to eight pounds of honey are consumed by the waxmakers to produce a pound of beeswax.

Vitamin-Enriched Pork Shown Feasible

Proper Feeding Will Add Vitamins to Pork

By W. J. DRYDEN

Research work at the Washington state experiment station has shown that it is not only possible but entirely practical to increase the thiamin content of pork with selected feeds.

Sub-deficiencies of thiamin or vitamin B1 constitute the most widely-spread human nutritional ailment in the United States. Pork is recognized as one of the richest sources of thiamin among the natural and universally consumed foods.

The experiment showed that cull peas properly used in hog feeding will result in pork richer in thiamin. There is no reason to doubt but what special markets may be developed advertising thiamin-rich pork. Iodine eggs, enriched bread, enriched milk and other food products have had special markets developed along this line. At the start, the demand may be limited to hospitals and others who are willing to pay a premium for an enriched pork product.

Feed hogs enriched food.

On a fresh basis, the ham and loin were found to contain the highest amounts of thiamin, followed by shoulder, heart, liver and kidney. The liver had the highest riboflavin, followed by heart, ham, shoulder and loin.

Jeeps for Farming Will Be Available

Postwar jeep at work.

In tests conducted at state colleges on private farms and at the factory, the postwar jeep has been proven superior to the military jeep in most operations.

The new jeep will do about anything that a light truck and a tractor will do. It can be used for delivery purposes, or for plowing or other farm work, such as discing, drilling, logging, harrowing and the various transportation jobs found on the average farm.

Preventing Odors and Garlic Taste in Milk

To prevent the milk showing a garlic or onion taste or odor, it is necessary to follow these rules carefully:

1. Clip the tops with a mowing machine before grass is pasture high.
2. Graze the pasture lightly with young and dry stock.
3. If cows are turned on the pasture immediately after milking and removed four hours before next milking, the trouble will be largely eliminated.
4. After bringing the cows from the pasture, give them a light feeding of dry roughage.
5. Keep the cows outside the milking barn until just before milking time.
6. Cool the milk promptly after milking.

Good Sheep Pastures

Make good pastures the basis of the ration for all classes of sheep, is the advice of sheep experts. Healthy sheep grazing legume or legume and grass pastures and provided with salt and water need no other feed. The pasture season may be extended by using wheat or rye pasture.

If legume roughages are not used, feed liberal amounts of protein concentrates and some extra calcium. Soybean oil meal, limestone will prove welcome additions to fattening lambs on corn silage diet.

A HAND MAIDEN

As wielding, prohibitionist Carrie Nation had a particularly busy day once, and was arrested as a result, for destroying property and disturbing the peace. At the police station, she was subjected to a series of routine questions:

"Name, please?" asked the desk sergeant.

"Carrie Nation."

"Occupation?"

"I," she said in dramatic tones, "am a servant of the Lord!"

Filled out by the unemotional desk sergeant, the police records indicated Mrs. Nation's occupation simply as:

"Servant."

POOR PAPA

Jones—The last of my daughters was married today.

Smith—Who was the lucky man?

Jones—I was!

No Fooling

Teacher—If you had a nickel and a man gave you a dime, how much would you have?

Smart Girl—What's the man's name?

Teacher—That has nothing to do with it.

Smart Girl—Oh, yes it does. My mother told me never to take money from strangers.

Help Her Along

Harry—How come you spent all day over at your wealthy aunt's house polishing the floors?

Jerry—Well, she's getting old. And she's sick and she can't walk very well and...

Harry—And you're thinking of yourself.

Some Fun

Jane—He belongs to the fife and drum corps.

Joan—Yes, I felt his heart beating like a drum when he held me in his arms.

Jane—You'd better just keep a lookout for his life.

Broken Block

Jim—What do you mean that guy is a cripple? He doesn't look it to me.

Slim—He is, and in two places.

Jim—Where?

Slim—Mentally and financially.

In the Pot

Nit—Why is it some people can always win at cards but never on horses?

Wit—They won't let them shuffle the horses.

No Sense

Mac—Why do you think it so odd that Jones should shoot the fellow who kissed his wife?

Jack—Well, he hadn't kissed her in five years.

Rationed

Mrs. Brown—Why are you always so timid about going into the butcher's?

Mrs. Blue—Well, there's always so much at steak.

HEAD OF THE CLASS

Mother—My son has such original ideas, don't you think?

Teacher—Yes. Especially in spelling.

It Might Help

Joe—The best way to hold a job is to cultivate a pleasing personality.

Bill—Don't you think it helps to do a little work now and then, too?

Marital Trouble

Jane—What's your favorite hobby?

Joan (much-married) — I can't make up my mind whether it was my second or third husband.

Very Odd!

Nit—Have you noticed one odd thing about blunt people?

Wit—No, what?

Nit—They are always the first to come to a point.

But It's Fun

Him—Do you know Boo?

Her—Boo who?

Him—Well, if you're going to cry about it, I won't tell you.

Best of Friends

Dad — I'm glad you've made friends with the new boy next door. Didn't I see you playing marbles with him this afternoon?

Son—We weren't playing marbles. We had a fight and he was helping me pick up my teeth.

Sound Advice

Cook—Don't you like three minute eggs? Weren't those cooked long enough?

Customer — Long enough but not soon enough.

Cuts Stem

Most people know that flowers which arrive from the florist should have their stems cut before being placed in a vase. Recutting the stem will remove a seal and enable it to get more water. Succulent stems do quite well with an ordinary straight cut. Roses, peonies and other woody stems are better if slit up the stem for an inch or two, enabling a larger part of the softer inside wood to be exposed to the water. Hard wooded stems such as lilac and most blossoms should be hammered for three or four inches up the stem. Do fill up your vases every morning—it is quite surprising the amount of water which flowers will drink in a day.

Sources of Riboflavin

Milk is the best all-around source of riboflavin. Cheese, whey and eggs are other important sources. Liver, kidney, heart and lean muscle meats all contain riboflavin, but dark meat is richer in riboflavin than white meat. The richest plant sources are the green leafy vegetables, but many fruits also supply some riboflavin. Fresh and dried legumes, that is, beans, peas and some of the soybeans, wheat germ and whole cereals, and enriched cereals, all add to the riboflavin supply.

LETTERS FROM MEN IN THE ARMED SERVICE

It rains day and night. I just had to move to keep from getting wet. It rains two or three times each day. Then when the sun comes out it dries up and gets hot. Day before yesterday, I left a wrench lying out in the sun for an hour and had to cool it off with water before I could use it.

"I'm fighting with a pipe wrench. We are building the General a home and the officers a club house up on the side of the mountain. They reconverted me back to a pipe fitter. Not much glamor in that, but there's no glamor in any of it. There are a few Japs still up in the hills but only a few that have escaped being captured. They don't bother only to steal clothes and food whenever they can. Just about every day some of them surrender. Then we train troops by setting ambushes for them.

"There are a few natives here also, mostly Japs. They do a little farming and raise garden stuff. There are acres of sugar cane here uncut. The mill was destroyed when we took the island. "We have a big B-29 base here as you have most likely heard and read about. A couple of nights ago they sure gave those yellow people some headaches. I'll bet they are 'so sorry' they started all of this trouble. Guess they are fighting now to save face. Guess they have a few of them left. Their cities are all gone. I would like to see some of China while I'm this near, but can't tell where we will end up.

"I suppose you have a lot of those Government chickens all tied up, ready for the opening of bird season. Guess I will have to take another rain check. This will be the third. Maybe next year! We have a few parrots here. Saw one yesterday—green and red; very pretty. Bet if they could be caught they would talk Japanese."

Wiped Out Piracy
During the 19th century, combined British and American sea power swept piracy from the high seas and guaranteed innocent passage to all on lawful missions.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Ramblings and Reminiscences: An ancient dame leading an ancient pug along Park avenue. . . . May be it's due to years of association but they look much alike in face, up holsters and walk. . . . Park avenue divided into two parts at 46th street by the New York Central building. . . . With traffic darting through the two openings. . . . and with two pedestrian lanes which are lined with shops of various kinds. . . . In the window of a jewelry store, a chronometer by which I always check my watch on the way back to the office from the Dutch Treat club on Tuesdays. . . . Can't place any reliance in those street clocks. . . . At Park and 47th, a navy captain, though built along beamy lines, agilely dodging a taxi and muttering angrily, "He should have blown a passing signal." . . . A well-dressed young Chinese with an American flag pin in his button hole, the stars of which glisten like real diamonds.

Waiting for the light change at Broadway and 46th street, a plumber's helper with an extremely heavy box of tools on his shoulder. . . . "I should have taken up piccolo playing for a steady job," he means to a companion. . . . Three jaunty British fliers accompanied by three more than passingly pretty American girls—hands across the sea or lend-lease. . . . A display of melons in the window of a restaurant. . . . But my favorite fruit has not yet reached that degree of sweetness that makes me wish Times Square were a cantaloupe and I had to eat my way out. . . . Youths wearing those open collar sports shirts and thus exposing prominent Adam's apples to the sunshine and wind. . . . Couples keeping dates on the steps of the Astor. . . . One taxi driver talking to another. "They give Goering a chicken dinner—brother, are you eatin' chicken?"

Servicemen wearing Pacific campaign ribbons inspecting the Rosenthal flag-raising picture replica in Times Square. . . . and in front of the nearby Statue of Liberty replica, one woman telling another, "My soldier son sent home a real souvenir—a new German vacuum cleaner complete even with spare parts." . . . Her companion, after a couple of "tsks," remarking, "My son sent me only perfume," . . . then adding hastily, as if she didn't want to seem ungrateful, "But it's awful good—and high priced." . . . Those fat pigeons on 43rd street that are too lazy to get out of the way of pedestrians and take wing only when menaced by hand or foot.

Bobbysoxers hanging around the stage door of a movie palace—they are lying in wait for a well-known band leader whose name slips my mind. . . . A good-looking lad in uniform making his way up Broadway on crutches, his companion an attractive brown-eyed girl and their conversation dealing with the possibility of finding an apartment after he is discharged and they are married. . . . Small boys scuttling here and there looking for bond buyers. . . . One lad in an uptown public school sold $10,000 worth in one day, his customers, his father and two uncles. . . . A bevy of good-looking army nurses wearing their uniforms for the first time—in information picked up by eavesdropping as they talk with a nurse not yet in uniform but who soon will be if they have their way.

The ancient Metropolitan Opera house which looks more like a loft-building than the home of the world's highest priced noise. . . . Wonder if there will be a new opera house after the war. . . . Boy Scouts aiding an extremely important salvage campaign—they are gathering waste paper. . . . Kids playing marbles in a Ninth avenue vacant lot just as we used to do on the school grounds when I was a youngster. . . . Windowbox gardens in tenement homes. . . . Thought: Since all but one of the elevated lines have gone, there are no more glimpses into the second and third floor dwellings of the poor. . . . A whole flock of feminine needle workers heading for the nearest Red Cross blood bank. . . . Union Square where soapboxes used to spout almost continuously. . . . None in sight now though numerous little groups are busily discussing world events.

Eskimos Are Pleased
With 'Invasion' Meat

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA.—Fear of a Jap invasion of the Aleutians early in the war has helped solve the Eskimos' meat shortage. A kind of sausage made then out of salt pork and coarse black meat from whales, stuffed into cloth sacks, proved so tasty they now eat it as part of their regular diet.

the companies. We got in the same company and the same platoon; but not the same squad. Two days later we went on the front lines. We were split up the first two days, but everybody near him had respect for him because he had such good sense and practical knowledge. Then we were together until he was hit.
"He surely got his share of Japs—about fifteen that am sure of. He didn't have an ounce of fear—just good sense and aggressiveness as a Marine. He would throw a grenade into a cave and then go right in afterwards to clean out the Japs. I can't say enough good of him as a Marine. We put him in for the Silver Star for bravery and gallantry in action. He had the respect of all the fellows in the company.
"He was hit by a machine gun bullet in the left shoulder. It entered just below the shoulder bone, hit the bone, and came out two inches above the heart. He said after he was hit, 'I am the lucky fellow by leaving the front. I will be back at the beach, and you have all the fight to carry on.' He was so cheerful about it, and we figured that he would be all right. He was at the sick bay for six hours, but they couldn't stop the slow bleeding which was just above his heart. I wouldn't believe that he was dead until I had seen his grave myself. I was looking for buddies when I saw it.
"I was wounded myself by a Jap concussion grenade and was evacuated on a hospital ship.
"The kiddies can be proud of their daddy and his deeds for his country. He died that we could have a better life and that our children might have peace and security and a better world in which to live. I hope this letter will help explain Jim's ability and I hope that this finds you and your kiddies in the best of health and spirits. The best of luck and God bless you all. Thank you for the opportunity to tell you all this."

Conducts Electricity
Don't handle any electrical appliance, pull a switch cord, touch a switch, or plug into any outlet with wet hands. Wet flesh is a better conductor of electricity than copper wire.

Add Raisins to Pie
Add a handful of raisins to the cherry pie. It is delicious, takes less sugar, and the juice is less likely to boil out during the baking.

Seal Roll
If your baby tries to unwind the roll of toilet paper when he is placed on the toilet seat, then just keep a roll of gummed paper tape in your bathroom drawer and glue the end of the roll of paper when you put your baby on the toilet.

Stretch Life
Rugs last longer if they are turned about occasionally, especially room size rugs that get heavy wear near doors, or in front of lounges or easy chairs.

New Development in Poultry Buildings

Asbestos and Mineral Wool Used Effectively

Something new and modern in poultry house construction can be found on the Tenderex farms at Middletown, Ky.

The farm was planned with the co-operation of the Stoker Poultry company. The decision to build durable buildings having long life with low maintenance, led to exhaustive and careful study and experimentation. The results found are of interest to farmers generally. Using Gothic-type house, prefabricated arch construction, with the framing for the roof and wall combined in one unit, not only was a saving made in original costs, but considerable saving was effected in future heating costs.

The 33 houses on the Tenderex farms are all 24 by 30 feet, with the continuous arches anchored to a concrete foundation. Sheathing is of tongue and groove covered with thick butt asphalt shingles. These type shingles are easily moulded to the contour of any roof. Their gray tone offers harmonious contrast with the red hollow tile used in the end walls.

Mineral wool was selected to insulate the interior wall, which is lined with asbestos board.

To eliminate dampness, the floor consists of cinder fill and four inches of hollow tile, topped with 2½ inches of concrete.

An important factor in selecting asphalt shingles, concrete, hollow tile, mineral wool and asbestos board was the fire-resistant construction these materials provide.

Postwar Machinery Pickup Baler

This is an automatic self-feeding, self-tying baler with bale separation making it a one man operation job. Neatly formed and firm bales of sliced hay weighing 40 to 65 pounds can be turned out at the rate of three to five bales per minute.

It is designed primarily for wind-row pickup baling. The construction saves leaves and assures that all the hay is carried into the bale chamber. It is a McCormick-Deering postwar improvement.

Danger! Sheep Scab May Be on Way Back

Will sheep scab stage another comeback—once more causing millions of dollars in losses, as it did a few years ago?

Dr. Floyd Cross of the American Veterinary Medical association and government authorities report such a possibility. "The condition is present to an alarming extent in the Midwest," Dr. Cross reports.

If sheep show loss of wool, formation of scabs on the skin, or a tendency to rub against fences and pens, the condition should be called to the attention of a veterinarian. Through greatly diminished wool production, loss in body weight, general unthriftiness and death, scabies play their toll.

The scab is caused by a small mite, barely visible to the unaided eye, but can be brought under effective control.

The only effective treatment is the external application of some medicinal agent that will kill the scab mites. This can be best accomplished by dipping, followed by isolation. The dips recommended by the USDA are made from lime-sulfur or nicotine.

Fumigation Practices

Carbon disulphide is the most common fumigant used on the farm. It is a liquid that quickly evaporates into a heavier-than-air gas. Operators should avoid inhaling the vapors or spilling the liquid on clothing. Extreme caution must be taken against fire.

Do not fumigate when the temperature is below 60 degrees. It is best to start late in the afternoon, when the air is calm. It will take 24 hours.

Mexican Navy
The Mexican navy was born during the struggle for independence from Spain which began in 1810, when sea-going patriots employed tiny sailboats to run arms and supplies to their fighting comrades on land. But it first emerged as a fighting force when Gen. Jose Maria Morelos took Fort San Diego, in the Pacific seaport of Acapulco, and carried off as prizes the Spanish schooner Guadalupe and 11 armed row-boats. Shortly after, the little navy had its baptism of fire in the waters off Coatzacoalcos. In a brief, but sharp, encounter, the Mexican ship La Patriota vanquished the Spanish man-o-war La Numantina and sailed it triumphantly into port.

Bathroom Towels

Small cuts appearing in bathroom towels may be traced to the man who wipes his razor on any towel that is handy.

Handle With Care

In the use of fumigants, such as calcium or sodium cyanide, keep the fumigants in tight containers, labeled plainly, and stored in a dry, safe place. Use only if familiar with their poisonous nature and with methods of application. Carbon disulphide, the common grain fumigant, is highly inflammable; great care must be used in storing and using it. For applying fumigants to buildings, the No. 1 rule is to employ only experienced operators and supply the labor with approved gas masks and with special clothes to protect the skin at all times, during work.

Capes Are Back

Capes are making a comeback, rivaling the short topcoat in popularity. Two versions along wearable classic lines are the black and white checked cape with black arrows and a tailored cape of navy wool.

See Farther

As everyone who has climbed a hill or mountain knows, the higher up you go, the farther you can see. Standing on level land, or in a boat on water the limit of vision, the horizon, is about three miles away, says the Better Vision Institute. If you go up in an airplane, at 1,000 feet you can see (or your eyes are up to sniff) about 39 miles. At 2,000 feet the seeing distance is 55 miles, and at 5,000 feet, 87 miles. Range of vision is computed by multiplying the square root of the altitude by 1¼ miles.

Infertile Eggs

Much loss can be prevented by removing all roosters from the laying flock and producing infertile eggs. The germ of the fertile egg begins to develop at a temperature of 70 degrees and many eggs begin to develop in the nests, in the home or while in shipment.

Home room teachers will enroll new students and pass out program slips to old students during the morning. There will also be a brief assembly before noon. All classes will meet for shortened periods during the afternoon.

Busses will run on Wednesday on regular time and on the scheduled routes of last year. Regardless of whether or not the bus passes your door, get the children to a bus that morning. Some of the routes will be changed later in the first week to accommodate new students, if possible. There are still restrictions on tires and we will not be able to add to our mileage.

hensive. They are mindful of the hard times which persisted during the Great Depression that followed the first World War.

What is the answer to this regional dilemma? Here are some signs pointing to possible solutions.

*****

"Michigan is not getting full economic benefit from the forest," declared Dr. Grover Dillman, president, Michigan College of Mining and Technology. Dr. Dillman is chairman of a special committee on forest products research created by the Michigan Planning Commission.

"First, much of the wood that is cut goes outside the state to be processed or manufactured into products," he pointed out.

"Second, only a portion of the wood that is used in the state is made into products affording the greatest economy. The remainder is wood waste which, if made useable, could considerably increase industrialization in the Upper Peninsula."

Seventy-five per cent of the Upper Peninsula timber is shipped out of the state as rough lumber to be surfaced, cut up, and manufactured into consumer products.

The Upper Peninsula needs more furniture factories, more wood products industries, more flooring plants which could tap its pool of manpower. This industrialization, now lagging, would provide payrolls. Too much of the labor wage paid for processed articles now goes to persons outside of the Upper Peninsula.

Instead of the lumber industry requiring the buyer to dry, plane, and cut wood for use, these operations could be handled in small mills here.

Scientific management of wood would utilize the present waste of defective logs, tops and limbs of cut trees as well as sawdust, slabs, edgings, trimming and shavings. The result would be more income for the Upper Peninsula.

"In my opinion, the surface of agricultural potentials in the Upper Peninsula has only been scratched."

Such is the positive belief of Chas. Figy, commissioner, state department of agriculture, who is a dirt farmer from Lenawee county. Figy pointed to a 40 per cent increase of dairy production in the past five years, and he added: "This is only a start as the records show the Upper Peninsula is well adapted to the production of tame hay. There is no other type of livestock that will consume and produce as profitably on hay as dairy cows."

"Therefore, the Upper Peninsula would do well to increase greatly its dairy cow population and utilize this good feed which we all agree will do much to maintain the proper soil fertility rather than to ship hay out of the country and deplete the soil fertility of our farms."

Figy said Houghton county ranked third in the state in potato yield and was the home of Michigan's 1944 potato king, Emil De-bakker, Belgian immigrant, who grew 714 bushels of potatoes per acre on a ten-acre plot.

Before war veterans purchase land, they should consult county agricultural agents, Figy warned. Much of the Upper Peninsula is not suited for agriculture.

"If we are to expand agriculture in this section, we should give every consideration to the crops that can best be produced here, taking into consideration seasonal effects, types of soil, water levels and proximity to markets."

Oats was another crop which is adapted well to many counties in the Upper Peninsula.

*****

Relatively new and young is the tourist-recreation business in the Upper Peninsula. George E. Bishop of Marquette, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, is its spokesman.

Before the North can reap a good harvest in tourist dollars, Bishop says, it must fill the following needs:

Expansion of facilities for housing, feeding and entertaining tourist guests. (Note: This column is being written at Ontonagon on V-J night. Place: A tourist cabin along the beach of Lake Superior. NO DRAWING CARD

Former Vice President Charles C. Dawes was reputedly a poor speaker in his youth. As one of the lawyers in an important case, he was opposed by a seasoned attorney whose eloquence always attracted a large crowd. It was a hot July day, and the courtroom was literally steaming up to his oratorical peak. Except for the judge, the listeners were transfixed.

Red-faced and perspiring, the magistrate mopped his brow, loosened his collar and at last removed his coat and turned to the speaker: "Mr. Attorney," he interrupted, "I wonder if you would let Dawes speak for a while. I want to thin out this crowd."

Fry Chicken Until Golden and Crisp

(See Recipes Below)

Summer's Best Fare

Is there a better looking sight than crisply fried, golden brown chicken nestling close to lacy, green cucumbers and moist red slices of tomato? Yes, that's the $64 question and the answer's right in the picture.

Chicken is fine food and it wears its Sunday best when fried to succulent brownness. It's light enough to make a summer meal well balanced and good enough to be satisfying to all branches of the family.

There are many schools of thought on the question of how chicken should be fried. Some prefer it battered, others like just the dusting of bread crumbs or flour on it. Take your choice from these tasty recipes:

Maryland Fried Chicken.

(Serves 4)

- 1 2-pound chicken.
- 1/2 cup flour
- Salt and pepper
- 1 beaten egg
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 1/2 cups fine, dry bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup drippings

Clean chicken and cut into frying pieces. Roll in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Dip into beaten egg mixed with water, then into crumbs. Brown on both sides in hot fat; cover and cook slowly or bake in moderately slow (300 to 350-degree) oven about 1 hour. Make gravy from drippings. Pour over chicken and serve from a bowl.

*Country Fried Chicken.

(Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 3-pound chickens
- 1 cup flour
- 1 1/2 tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 tablespoons paprika

Fat
Clean chickens and cut into serving pieces. Mix flour and seasonings. Dip chicken lightly into flour mixture. Lightly brown on both sides in fat. Add a little water; cover closely and cook over low heat for 1 hour. Uncover to brown and crisp.

Tricky Tips: When glassware has chipped slightly on the drinking edge, smooth it out with an emery board or sandpaper to make it smooth.

To make delicious flavored tea, add a little grated orange rind to it before serving. It imparts a delicate fragrance and saves sugar.

Lemons which have been heated slightly will yield twice as much juice as chilled ones. Cover lemons with hot water for a few minutes before extracting juice.

To four chops or chicken pieces before frying, place in a brown paper bag with bread crumbs or flour and shake. This will coat the meat evenly and not leave excess in pan after frying.

If the family objects to biting into a bit of garlic in spaghetti or other sauce, spear the clove of garlic with a toothpick and remove it before serving.

Add leftover sausage, bacon or meat balls to potatoes when frying for extra delicious flavor.

Here are some suggestions for the use of leftovers: Broccoli may be made into a delightful cream soup, or if there is too much for soup, arrange it on the bottom of a shallow casserole, cover with thin slices of leftover chicken or meat or flaked fish, top with cheese sauce and brown in the oven.

Light and pretty enough for even the hottest days of the season are these two splendid egg main dishes:

Eggs A La King.

(Serves 6)

- 6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- 2 tablespoons catsup
- 1/2 cup cooked or canned peas
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1 cup sliced, canned mushrooms
- 2 cups medium white sauce
- 6 slices tomato
- 6 slices buttered toast

Carefully combine all ingredients except tomato slices and toast. Heat thoroughly in double boiler. Broil tomato slices 5 minutes. Place on toast and pour over creamed mixture.

Ham and Egg Souffle.

(Serves 6)

- 1/2 cup diced ham
- 3 slices egg
- 3 slightly beaten eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika

Brush bread with bacon drippings; cut slices into small pieces to fit deep casserole. Arrange in layers, sprinkling each with ham. Combine eggs, milk and seasonings. Pour over bread. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven until puffy and mixture does not adhere to inserted knife, about 45 minutes.

Summer desserts accent fruit and make a tasty, mouth-watering combination. Here are two suggestions which you will want to make use of some time this summer:

Summer Apple Tarts.

(Serves 5)

- 2 cups sliced apples
- 1/2 cup honey or dark corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1/2 tablespoon butter
- 5 baked tart shells

Mix together sugar, spices and orange rind. Add to apples and toss together. Fill pastry shells with apple mixture. Dot with butter. Bake in a hot oven 15 to 18 minutes. If desired, these may be topped with beaten egg white or bits of American cheese.

Parisian Peaches.

(Serves 6)

- 2 1/2 cups cooked sliced or halved peaches
- 2 cups milk
- 2 eggs
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Chill peaches well after cooking. Beat egg yolks, add sugar and then blend in scalded milk slowly. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture coats the spoon. Add salt. Chill thoroughly, then fold in vanilla and beaten egg whites. Arrange drained peaches in a serving dish and pour custard sauce over them. Sprinkle with toasted almonds or slivered Brazil nuts, if desired.

Nazis, Japs Use Forgeries For Propaganda; Russia Leads United Nations.

WASHINGTON. — Postage stamps are weapons of war for both the Allies and the enemy.

Whether or not the letter writer realizes it, most of the stamps he sticks on letters represent war propaganda of some description.

Most of the propaganda, both allied and enemy, has been legitimate pictorial presentation of the nation's war effort, but the Germans, Fascist Italians, and Japanese have often gone a step farther.

Germany has turned out forgeries of British stamps for circulation among Swedish collectors, according to reports from Stockholm. Apparently seeking to spread the idea that Britain sold out to Russia, the Nazis substituted Stalin's picture for that of Queen Elizabeth and added the words "SSSR—Britannia" and "Teheran 28.11.1943," on a 1937 British stamp originally issued to commemorate the coronation of Britain's present rulers.

Another Nazi forgery altered a 1935 British stamp by substituting Stalin's portrait for that of King George V and added a hammer and sickle, star of David, and the inscription "This Is a Jewish War," says the Chicago Tribune.

Other Forgeries.

Another reported set of Nazi "inspirations" were current British stamps which had been overprinted with the words "liquidation of the empire" and one of the following names: Singapore, Bahamas, Trinidad, Santa Lucia, Jamaica. Apparently the Nazis were referring to British colonies lost to the enemy or those where naval air bases have been established by this country.

The forgeries, even though they were cleverly mixed in with genuine British stamps, failed to fool Swedish collectors.

Fascist Italy's contribution to stamp propaganda includes a stamp picturing the Basilica of San Lorenzo Fuori le Mura in Rome with a Latin inscription reading "the fury of the enemy destroys"—an obvious attempt to blame allied air men for bombing the ancient church.

Japan didn't go to the trouble of printing many new postage stamps to propagandize its conquest of the Philippines. Instead the Japanese simply confiscated Philippine stamps, blacked out the words "United States of America" and printed new money values on several issues. On one stamp the English inscription "Congratulations Fall of Bataan and Corregidor 1942," was added. On another the Japanese added the slogan "First Anniversary of Great Asiatic War" and the date "12-8-42."

Japs Show Manila.

One new Japanese stamp, issued for homeland circulation, pictured a map of Manila bay, with Manila, Bataan peninsula, and Corregidor labeled. A Japanese soldier stands at one side and a Japanese flag, warship, and plane are on the other side.

On the first anniversary of the start of the war, the Japanese turned out a stamp for use in the homeland which pictured the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, showing Hickam field under attack and a warship burning in the harbor.

Even the United States has utilized postage stamps to publicize its war effort. One, two and three cent stamps were issued in 1940 to call attention to the prewar national defense program and soon after our entry into the war came the three cent "Win the War" stamp, the two cent "United Nations" issue, and the one cent "Four Freedoms" stamp, which still are in circulation.

Thirteen five cent stamps, each picturing the flag of an occupied or now liberated European or Asiatic nation, were issued in 1943-44 to pay tribute to enemy overrun countries.

Long one of the most prolific of stamp producing countries, Soviet Russia has led all of the United Nations in using postage stamps to publicize its part in the war and its ties with the United States and Great Britain.

Stubborn Pillbox Falls

To Yanks Before Fear

WITH THE UNITED STATES 3RD ARMY. — Doughboys of the United States 90th division wanted to take a pillbox.

They placed 300 pounds of explosives against its front. Nothing happened after the explosion. They placed 600 pounds against the back door. Still nothing happened. Finally, they piled 6,000 pounds atop the pillbox and set it off. All Germans came out with their hands in the air.

Their comment: "You didn't hurt us but you sure scared us."

$1,400,000,000,000

Set as Cost of War

JOHANNESBURG. — Lt. Col. John J. Dobson, president of the Associated Scientific and Technical Societies of South Africa, predicted the expenditure on arms for the war against Germany and Japan would total more than $1,400,000,000,000.

He said this was apart from cost of rebuilding ruined areas.

Program Chairman Leonard Damm offered a prize to the Rotarian who could name the greatest number of the 14 postmasters who had served Cass City. Dr. P. A. Schenck and H. F. Lenzler both named eight. Dr. Schenck is in line for the prize because his list had all the eight names in consecutive order in which the officers held the positions.

The Rotary district governor will speak at the club luncheon here next Tuesday.
