Champion Fed by Laurel Davis of Vassar Brought 90 Cents per Pound

Fourteen fat steers fed and fitted by 4-H club members in Tuscola county were sold at public auction in front of the grandstand at the Tuscola County fair grounds on Thursday, Aug. 23. These fat steers had been caught in the first annual calf "scramble" held at the fair just a year ago last week.

The champion steer was purchased by Jack Ridley of the Ridley & Marshall commission firm at Detroit stock yards at a price of 90 cents per pound. The steer fed by Laurel Davis of Vassar 4-H Livestock club, weighed 890 pounds, bringing him a total of $801.00.

The act provides that it shall not apply to steers or cattle being moved for immediate slaughter.

Mrs. Howell Named Supervisor of Bureau Of Social Aid

Mrs. Helen Wilson Howell, for the past three years worker A1 in the Bureau of Social Aid, has been appointed provisionally as supervisor of the county bureau, replacing Mrs. John M. Gee, who resigned several weeks ago. Mrs. Howell was in the social service department at the Caro State hospital for five years prior to joining the Bureau of Social Aid staff. Her appointment takes effect Sept. 1.

Some consideration is being given by the Bureau of Social Aid and the Tuscola County Social welfare department, the director of which is Walter W. Kelley, to a possible consolidation of the two welfare agencies. A state law permits the consolidation if and when the supervisors of any county decide that such a joining of forces is desirable. The question may come to a vote of the board either at the October or January session.

About one-fourth of the whole number of Michigan counties have already put such a consolidation into effect. The consolidation of the agencies has already been made on a state level.

Power Co. Issues Warning Against Use Of Metal in Kites

An urgent warning against the purchase and use of any kite with metal in the string or with metal supports in the kite was issued by R. P. Douglas, head of the safety department of the Detroit Edison Company.

"Kites with metal in them or in the string are about to be offered for sale as surplus material from Army or Navy stocks and are a dangerous hazard about which we want to warn the public. If one of these kites touches an overhead electric wire or line, it may immediately burn it down and the fallen wires can be very dangerous. Even if the string has no metal in it, a little dampness will let the string carry current to the child on the ground and he may be instantly killed or badly burned," Mr. Douglas said.

"We are notifying the Army and any store owner concerned that this kite is unsuitable and very dangerous for public use. The kite is designed, we believe, for signal work over the ocean and will be too heavy for ordinary use in addition to being dangerous," Douglas said. He asked that the Edison Company be advised if any of them are offered for sale in this area, so that the merchants may be warned of their harmful possibilities.

Safety rules for kite fliers are: Always use cotton or linen string, never metal or tinseal as it is dangerous; fly kites in open fields; do not climb poles or throw rocks to get kites off wire; don't use kites with any metal in the kite or string; and don't try to fly them in damp weather.

Jas. A. Proctor of Flint, Miss Mae Beckman and Mrs. Foster of Bad Axe were among the callers who visited R. S. Proctor the latter part of last week.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Japs Prepared for Occupation; Industry Given Go-Ahead Sign; Revamp Agriculture Department

Released by Western Newspaper Union.
(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The war over, industry turned to the big job of reconversion. Getting a head start, this stove plant in Detroit, Mich., already is turning out gas ranges on a quantity basis.

JAPAN: Occupation Readied

The Japanese government having made every preparation to avoid disturbances, powerful American armed forces were scheduled to take over occupation duties in Nippon, with air-borne sky-troopers the first to land in the bomb-shattered islands.

Having striven mightily to control fanatical die-hards, Premier Higashi-Kuni's new regime moved strong Japanese garrisons out of the Tokyo area where U. S. landings were scheduled to take place to prevent outbreaks. Meanwhile, the population was warned not to fraternize with the occupation forces.

With plans for the U. S. landings and signing of the formal surrender to General MacArthur in the Tokyo area worked out at preliminary conferences at Manila, the Jap newspaper Asahi said the American delegation headed by Lt. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland treated Nipponese envoys fairly and displayed understanding in drawing up occupation arrangements menaced by die-hards.

Though the influential Jap news agency Domei declared that Japan's capitulation must be considered a surrender in every sense of the term, Lieutenant General Kawabe presents credentials to Lieutenant General Sutherland at Manila surrender conference.

It added that the Potsdam ultimatum evinced leniency to the extent of permitting Nipponese soldiers to return peacefully to the homeland; allowing non-war industries to operate and participate in world trade, and limiting occupation to certain areas.

Elation over the formal signing of the surrender in the Tokyo area was dampened by the threat of civil war in China, where the northern Communist faction headed by Mao Tse-tung worked as a separate governmental unit in defiance of the central regime of Chiang Kai-shek. Backing Chiang, but seeking an amicable settlement of differences between the two elements, U. S. Ambassador Patrick Hurley worked strenuously to bring the dissidents together.

RECONVERSION: Bars Down

With government removal of most controls except those designed to assure equitable distribution of scarce materials to speed up all-out production, manufacturers were given the green light on reconversion.

At the same time, the department of agriculture abolished limitations on the amount of fluid milk, light cream, buttermilk and chocolate milk that distributors could sell to civilians, and the office of defense transportation lifted restrictions on the operation of inter-city buses and permitted travel on railroad passenger trains returning after troop movements.

In taking down the bars to civilian output, the War Production board declared the sky was the limit in the manufacture of refrigerators, radios, stoves, electric fans, washing machines and other laundry equipment.

Restrictions also were lifted on production of distilled spirits, trucks, oil furnaces, construction machinery, metal furniture, motor-cycles, photographic film, storage batteries, caskets, flashlights, silk and cotton duck, matches, paper cups and food containers, waxed paper and sanitary napkins.

In addition to removing controls on civilian consumer output, the WPB also acted to speed up manufacture of such industrial and commercial items as machine tools, shipping containers, pulpwood, dental burrs and other dental equipment, jute and allied products and many chemicals.

In line with the government policy of maintaining close supervision over scarce materials to help speed up output, WPB revealed that control would be retained over distribution of textiles for manufacture of women's dresses until supply balanced demand. Manufacturers producing apparel certified as essential by WPB will be given priority on material.

Taxes Total 44 Billion

With income taxes accounting for more than half the total, the U. S. collected almost 44 billion dollars in taxes in 1944, approximately 3 1/2 billion more than in the preceding year.

At almost 24 billion dollars, income taxes topped the list, with liquor levies next at 2 1/2 billion; miscellaneous, 1 billion; 430 million; tobacco, 930 million; manufacturers' excises on goods, 782 million; jewelry, furs, toilet preparations and luggage, 424 million; amusements, 367 million; and auto stamps, 128 million.

Representing an increase of over 40 million dollars over 1943, employment taxes totalled over 1 billion, 779 million.

AGRICULTURE:

Reorganize Department

Created in 1933 to help lift farmers out of the depression slough, and revamped in 1936 to give them a greater voice in its formulation of programs, the Agricultural Adjustment agency—the famed triple AAA—passed out of existence in a reorganization of the department of agriculture by Secretary Clinton Anderson.

Henceforth, AAA duties will be undertaken by a new super-agency charged with integrating the varied department of agriculture operations. Thousands of local and state AAA agents will be retained for the production and marketing programs, while crop adjustment legislation remains on the statute books for future use.

Organized primarily along commodity lines, the new super-agency, known as the production and marketing administration, will be headed by J. B. Hutson, with directors for the livestock, dairy, poultry, fats and oils, fruits and vegetables, sugar, grains and tobacco industries.

In addition to AAA, the new production and marketing administration will take over the offices of basic commodities, supply, marketing services, requirements and allocations, price, transportation, materials and facilities, labor, home food supply of investigatory services and the surplus commodities and federal crop insurance corporations.

Polio Fund Collections Top Record

Topping last year's unprecedented donations by more than 50 per cent, the U. S. contributed $16,589,874 to the 1945 March of Dimes of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, as against $10,973,491 for 1944, it was revealed.

Of the total amount of funds raised, 50 per cent is allocated to national headquarters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

MEAT:

Remove Set Asides

Reflecting decreased military demands and prospects of a heavy run of cattle in the coming months, the government removed set-aside orders of beef, veal and ham under which packers were required to reserve certain output for the services.

As in the case of the removal of rationing of canned fruits and vegetables because of heavy reductions in military orders, smaller service requirements may also result in an early end to meat control.

Though the government still will be seeking large quantities of meat for the services and relief programs abroad, the new ruling suspending set-asides means that its procurement agencies will have to bid for products along with civilians.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:

British Policy

Though the British Laborite and Conservative may differ on internal problems, they stand as one on foreign affairs for the preservation of the country's vital overseas interests, and this could not have been demonstrated more strongly than in the foreign minister's declaration of the new government's policy before commons.

In enunciating the policy, big and burly Ernest Bevin revealed that the Laborites would head the path worked out by Churchill's coalition government and embracing a strong union of Democratic nations in western Europe; preservation of vital economic and military interests in the Near East, and retention of the Asiatic empire.

Though Britain's No. 1 labor boss, Bevin handled Russia roughly, declaring that the present Red-backed Bulgarian, Hungarian and Romanian governments represented a switch from one brand of totalitarianism to another, and could not be recognized by London.

Try Quisling

Charged with military and civil treason, 16 specific murders and various other crimes, Vidkun Quisling, long tried in Oslo, Norway, for collaboration with the Germans, openly defiant despite the array of evidence presented by the prosecution.

No sooner had the trial opened than Prosecutor Schjoedt threw a bombshell into the proceedings by declaring that Quisling had received $80,000 in gold for his part in planning the German invasion of the country. The whole operation was conducted in conformity with information Quisling had supplied in frequent visits to Germany. Schjoedt said, basing his charges on documents reportedly discovered in the Reich.

Hard pressed, Quisling asserted that his collaboration spared not only Norway but the entire Scandinavian peninsula from becoming a battleground.

Free Elections

Hopes for U. S., British, French and Russian assurance of free elections in Red-dominated European states were dimmed by Moscow's refusal to participate in the observation of the forthcoming Greek balloting on the grounds that it did not approve of interference in the voting of foreign governments.

Russia defined its position even as the U. S. and Britain raked the Red-backed Bulgarian government's election plans calling for the balloting on only one slate of candidates picked by the coalition regime. Opposition was based on the allegation that the coalition government is not widely representative of the Bulgarian people, but is dominated by communists, who put up a single slate sympathetic to the party.

In refusing to jointly participate in guaranteeing free elections, Russia could hearken back to the Potsdam declaration which failed to set up machinery to assure unfettered voting in Poland.

LEND-LEASE:

Comes to End

Passed to aid countries whose defense was considered vital to the U. S., the $40,000,000,000 lend-lease program was brought to an end as observers speculated on the effects of the termination upon war-shattered European economies.

Because of the desire to avoid social unrest and political disturbances, credit may be quickly extended to foreign purchasers through the recently expanded Export-Import bank of the U. S., set up to finance American buying and selling abroad.

Though lend-lease was officially ended, requisitions presently contracted for on behalf of France, Belgium and the Netherlands under special repayment plans will be completed.

FEEDER STOCK:

Although estimates of actual numbers of cattle on feed on August 1 have not been made, available information indicates that the number this year, while 16 per cent larger than last, was smaller than the August 1 number in any other year since 1937.

Compared with last year, the numbers on feed on August 1 this year were up in all but Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, with the largest increases in the western corn belt states.

Treated Lumber Boon To Farm Buildings

Chemically Treated
Durable Wood Available

The nation's treated lumber industry, geared to wide scale production by war demands, is now ready to supply the postwar construction needs of American agriculture, estimated by federal agencies as high as 2 1/2 million homes and 7 million other buildings, including barns.

Census figures of 1940 show that as a class, farm buildings are the oldest of any group in the country.

about three years older than the average age of buildings in other categories.

Lumber, always the farm front's most popular and useful building material, will prove even more vital in postwar construction, through the successful application of chemicals to make it more durable and useful. Experiments at the U. S. Forest Products laboratory, and elsewhere, have perfected treated wood that is fireproof, longer lasting, and termite and decay resistant. For instance, pressure treatment with Wolman salts makes wood impervious to termites and decay, and treatment with Minalith makes wood resistant to fire, even open flames.

Wolmanized lumber is being used for such installations in the termite-infested islands of the South Pacific, as it was in Africa. It was also used for the construction of hangars used by the U. S. navy for its sub-patrol blimps on all three seacoasts.

Postwar Machinery Beet Harvester

A one-man beet harvester that tops, lifts, cleans and winnows in one operation is the John Deere new Integral beet harvester. Eight rows of beets are winnowed together, with the tops placed in two windrows of four rows each.

The tractor moves along in low gear, the harvester tops the beets in the ground, automatically lifting them.

Saving Nicotine Can Be Made by Practice

Insufficient nicotine will be available unless extreme care is taken in its conservation. The average farmer wastes about half of the nicotine he purchases.

The following are the reminders on how the saving may be brought about.

- Don't dust with nicotine when weather is cold.
- Don't dust when wind is blowing.
- Don't run the fan too fast.
- Don't drive too fast.
- Don't delay application.
- Spot-dust with a hand-duster.
- Treat the seed bed.
- Dip plants before transplanting.
- Keep plants growing vigorously.

Tipping Oil Barrel

This idea permits easy extraction of the last drop of oil in the barrel without heavy lifting. The rig is made of two stout poles and an old wagon tire cut in half.

Renovate Strawberries

The renovation of strawberry fields should begin immediately after harvest. The heavy mulch should be removed with a hay rake and the sparse mulch cut into the soil.

Before cultivating, apply a complete fertilizer at the rate of 500 to 800 pounds per acre. If the soil is acid, apply lime. Rows should be cultivated to 12 or 15 inches. If an open furrow is left, the roots will dry out rapidly.

Oak Bluff Breezes

In the last issue of Times, General H. H. Arnold of the Air Force, in an interview, said that he would soon retire and "I intend to go out and sit under an oak tree and I'll shoot down the first fellow who flies over in an airplane." There are probably many others who feel likewise now that hostilities have ceased and it is a rest no one will begrudge the General although we may expect tree partisans to start an argument as to why he chose an oak tree. If it's an oak tree he prefers, we might offer him the shade of his choice here at Oak Bluff, providing he limits his desire to shade and not like Omar Khayyam, who preferred "underneath the bough, a loaf of bread a jug of wine, and thou." We have the finest oak trees to be found anywhere and inasmuch as the oak is the king of the forest, it might be well to suggest Oak Bluff to the General as the ideal spot for his rest and relaxation. However, there are still airplanes passing over, to and from Selfridge Field and Camp Skeel near Oscoda and we would not want to see any destroyed by the General on our premises for they are such messy things around a private resort when shot down, so on second thought we will content ourselves with the idea only, be satisfied with our stately and beautiful oaks and keep them un-to ourselves for the present.

Mrs. C. R. Todd and her guest, Miss Dorothea McClelland of Detroit came Saturday for a week's stay at the Todd cottage. Mr. Todd will arrive next week for over Labor day.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ballard are back at their cottage for a two weeks' vacation. Mr. Ballard has been detained in getting here due to extra work with the Michigan State Telephone Co. since V-E and V-J days.

Mrs. A. A. Hitchcock and Mrs. John McGillivray of Cass City were at the Knapp cottage over the week end. Miss Marie Manchester of Kalamazoo and Cpl. Clark Knapp of Galesburg, Ill., were also here. We were all pleased to see Clark back again and hope he will soon be released from service. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Knapp and Mr. McGillivray drove up and joined the party.

Mrs. Mary Holcomb and Mrs. Chester Pulford of Cass City were guests Friday afternoon and evening at the Burke cottage. Mrs. Holcomb has just returned from her position as hostess on the S. S. South American which operates between Detroit, Buffalo and Lake Superior ports.

Miss Thompson and Miss Uzzelle entertained Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Burke and Mrs. J. D. Brooker at Sunday evening supper.

G. H. Burke is in Mariette for five days taking charge of the Robinson Drug store while the Robinsons are on a vacation in northern Michigan.

Dr. and Mrs. McIntyre are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Johnston of Detroit for a few days. Ivan Vader has resumed his position with the Hurley Machine Co. of Detroit after a few months' leave of absence. Work on the Vander cottage is nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dillman and children of Detroit, who have been here for a two weeks' stay, concluded their vacation on Saturday.

Quite a lot of excitement was caused by a fire back of the Merion cottage last Thursday. Somehow a pile of leaves became ignited and in a short time had spread to the sheeting on the cottage. Quick work by the bucket brigade soon had the blaze under control. Damage was slight. Outside fires here are unpredictable due to sudden winds and caution must be taken at all times.

Nobody Home

First Cop—Ask the poor fellow his name so we can notify his family.
Second Cop—He says it isn't necessary. His family already know his name.

Life in a Whirl

Plain Joe—I guess you do things pretty fast in the army?
G.I. Joe—I'll say. Why at night we no sooner turn in and turn over than we turn out.

Not Quite Dead

Visitor—Your town is certainly beautifully laid out.
Local Citizen—Yeah, but they haven't buried it yet.

Ain't It True?

Tom—What's wrong with giving a diamond ring to a peach?
Dick—Nothing except they're usually the cling-stone variety.

Next, Please

Him—Do you think you could care for a boy like me?
Her—Well, if he wasn't too much like you.

No Service

Customer—I say, what's your average tip?
Waitress—More than you'd think. Customer—It must be!

TIP TO BUYERS

A new customer walked into a butcher shop and asked the butcher how many chickens he had. She was told that there were six chickens in the freezer. "I keep buyers who are always complaining," she explained, "so will you pick me out the three toughest chickens you have?"

The delighted butcher quickly put all six chickens on the counter and selected the three toughest. Firmly the customer placed her hand on the three tender chickens. "I'll take these," she said coolly.

Zoot Suit

Sarge—Why weren't you out for inspection?

Private—Because my pants don't fit.

Sarge—What's wrong with them?

Private—I sent them to the tailor three times to be cut off and they're still too short.

All Wet

Smith—That new weather man we've got in town is the grumpiest old fellow.

Jones—How do you know?

Smith—Why he can't even get the weather to agree with him.

IN THE NAVY

Jane—Bill tells me there's one thing he likes about the navy.

Joan—What's that?

Jane—He never has to worry about his laundry. He says whatever he drops over the side will always be washed ashore.

SISTER OF MCCASLIN BROS.
DIED AT WEST BRANCH

Funeral services for Mrs. Cora Struble, 73, were held at the Stearns funeral chapel at West Branch on Tuesday, Aug. 21, at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Wm. Good of the Selkirk Friends church officiated and burial was in the Selkirk cemetery.

Mrs. Struble died at her home in Churchill township, Ogemaw county, Sunday, following a cerebral hemorrhage suffered three days previously. She was born in Argentine township, Genesee county, Mich., June 28, 1872, and married Edward Struble in Flint in 1892. Fifty-two years ago they went to Ogemaw county and established a home in the wilderness along the Rifle river in Churchill township. A beautiful farm was the result of their labors and both Mr. and Mrs. Struble were well known in Michigan and bordering states for their tourist business and their accommodations for those who came to fish for trout and hunt deer in their area.

Mr. Struble died 10 years ago and Mrs. Struble and her daughter have carried on the business.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Dor. Winslow; two grandchildren, William and Janine Winslow; and four brothers, Henry McCaslin of Flint, Fred McCaslin of Rochester, and Frank and Chas. McCaslin of Cass City.

Cottons, in Velveteen and Plush To Rule Campus Fashion Picture

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THIS year's college girl is doing a lot of "clothes thinking" just about now. This fall the fancy of a school-faring maiden turns to clothes that are neat and flattering with the look of a thoroughbred about them. No freakish fads for the autumn 1945 campus crowd!

The college girl, the school girl, the career girl and the teen-age group who know their fashions have become definitely cotton-conscious these days. The new "rave" is the elegant looking velveteen in black and adorable colors, also the very handsome corduroys that are being made up into coats and suits. There's a new wide-wale cotton plush, too, that is setting a new high in sophisticated cottons.

No doubt the girl going away to school will start her first semester with a few cotton casuals, for it's smart to wear cotton washables. She will be glad she took a chic gingham frock and perhaps a flatteringly fresh chambray, the sort that looks just right during early warm autumn days under a color-velvet cardigan. There will be dark cotton dirmds in her trunk too, some banded in gay Latin colors; also a very special one with inset border of white eyelet to be worn with her dainty batiste drop-shoulder blouse.

A raft of sturdy campus cottons should be taken along. In the news are pedal-pushers of pin-wale corduroy that's tough and washable. The girls say they are less cumbersome than slacks because of their mid-calf length. Choosing mix-and-match jackets, skirts, pajamas and pedal-pushers is great fun. The short boxy flare-back jacket with Chinese collar is a winner, as is also the new lumberjacket that ties with drawstring waist.

When it comes to "date" duds here's where luxury cottons are making a great splurge. A brilliant future is predicted for suits and coats made of rich-looking wide-wale cotton plush. An intriguing style story is told for the 1945 college girl or the younger seminary daughter by Emily Wilkens in the brown wide-wale cotton plush suit as shown centered in the illustration. High neck, broad shoulders, and the tiny waist give a high-style slant on present-day trends. The shoulderline, extending in a winglike effect, adds width and accents the small waist line by way of contrast. The tiny visor cap matches. This suit will certainly "go places" this fall.

Because the much-beloved velveteen can be had only in dubs and dabs this year (which is why one should buy early) designers are ingeniously working it into dresses using bright wools for contrast. In the junior "date" dress, shown to the left, cotton plays duet with wool in most charming fashion. The shoulder yoke and wide hem are of black velveteen. The rest of the bodice and skirt are violet wool. Red wool binds sleeves and waistline, also outlines the velveteen all around. Here's a type dress that will make "a picture" at college teas and informal dances.

Pale gold and bottle green prove a flattering color combination in wool and cotton for the dress shown to the right below. Green corduroy forms a corselet waist front and full skirt, while gold wool is used for sleeves and bodice top. Rectangular shaped silver nailheads trim the shoulder yoke and sleeve cuffs. Note the clever touch of wool ties. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

'Curved Contours' New Fashion Dictate

A new element has entered into the field of costume design. It's "curves." This styling technique is seen in the soft rounded shoulders that give a very different silhouette from last year. The command of fashion to "curve your contours" is also reflected in the way side fastenings and drapes take on a curved sweep rather than a straight or angular movement. Yokes are rounded too, instead of being square-cornered. Hips have an out-curve, while waists have an in-curve. Compare your last year's suit with your this year's suit, or place your last season's felt hat alongside the fall hat you've just bought, with its rounded, bulky, yet flattering new brim, and you will see how designers are obeying fashion's edict to "curve your contours."

Jewelled Belts Set Off Sophisticated Gowns

Much ado is being made about belts and corselets effects this season. This season belts have been glamorized into real show pieces. In some instances the jewel work and metal embroidery arrives at almost barbaric splendor. The new fad is to wear an eye-drawing belt with a black gown of sophisticated simplicity and not another ornament except, perhaps, a bracelet. The new corselet midriff treatments on dressy gowns are also beautifully worked out in rich jewelry embroidery.

Striped Jersey Suit

Jersey is becoming increasingly important either in wool or rayon weave. Gaily colorful striped jersey delights the teen-ager and it is also smart for career-girl cardigan blouses. Just the thing for the school girl is a jacket and skirt dress of striped jersey in red and white or multicolor stripe.

Slim Silhouette

It's dresses of the lovely lady type that bespeak patrician style in every detail that best-dressed women want. To achieve a slim and svelte silhouette for this good-looking purple wool fall costume, the designer, Joe Copeland, extends the high-necked bodice for the dress into a deep point into the skirt and puckers the skirt on each side in a subtle form-fitting way. Here you see also a charming interpretation of a very new and very important trimming trend, which has to do with necklace and bracelet embroidered right on the material itself in a realistic jewelry effect. East Indian embroidery in pearls and gold makes the "necklace" on the cap-sleeved dress and the single "bracelet" for the bolero.

Table Service
At table, serve small pats of butter, leave crusts on bread, pour out only as much milk as the family will drink. Get your family's cooperation in trying out foods other than their favorites when they are in the market.

Repels Sharks
Sharks will not eat dead shark meat. So now, for use in shark-infested waters, scientists have devised a repellent of decomposed shark meat, about the size of a small bar of soap, which is pinned to the life jacket.

Quack Grass
Quack grass is one of the most destructive of all weeds. The roots are tough and wiry and the plant takes possession of the area that they occupy. The points of the roots are very sharp, sufficiently so to penetrate potatoes or other roots that may come in their way. Like Canada thistle, quack grass is found in patches, spreading from lateral root growth as well as being carried to other parts of the field by cultural machinery. It is a member of the grass family and rather difficult to identify by its vegetative growth.

Season Dishes
Some trimmings, such as good-flavored beef fat or ham fat, can season dishes in the same ways as you use salt pork. For instance, try it with baked or boiled beans. Other trimmings need to be rendered or "fried out" before you use them. Some need to be clarified, in addition.

Archery Record
The longest distance an arrow has been shot by a woman archer in "regular flight" shooting is 1,190 feet and 9 inches. The record was made in 1941.

"At one time I never would have believed that I could enjoy working in a kitchen—but that was before 1941, when I had an all-electric kitchen installed. Pardon me if I bubble over about it, but it's so fine in every way. . . . Electric cookery gives uniform results that keep my performance high and food wastage low—and the automatic features let me attend to other work while the range attends to the cooking. I have a lot of help, too, from my mixer, juicer, percolator, toaster and other helpers. And after meals are over, the dishes don't stare me in the face. It's no bother at all to scrape them into the sink (yes, I have a garbage disposal in the drain that grinds up scraps and washes them away) . . . then I stack the empty plates, and let the dishwasher take care of them. I figure the dishwasher saves me a total of a day's work every month. My hands don't get in the water at all, and there's a world of difference in my appearance. Truly, I am having a wonderful time in my kitchen. I hear that all-electric kitchens will be available again to other lucky women before too long. I know they'll love 'em."

HOW THE ELECTRIC DISHWASHER WORKS

After scraping, place plates in wire rack that holds them to catch scouring spray. Place special soap powder in corner, close door, turn control knob to "WASH". Wash for five minutes. After draining, two one-minute rinses with clear hot water. Washed thoroughly, dishes dry in own heat, are left sparkling clean and sanitary.

American Labor Celebrates Well Earned Gains

Since 1882 Labor Day has been observed on the first Monday in September. It was not until 1894 that congress observed the day, and Oregon, the first state to make it a legal holiday, acted in 1887.

Once again American workers celebrate their annual Labor Day at a time of national stress. Satisfaction over the gains they have won—and they have been substantial—has been tempered by a sense of responsibility for their still-unfinished war job.

Wild Barley

Skunk-tail grass, or wild barley, is a native perennial occurring from Lake Superior westward, particularly in alkaline soil where better grasses cannot thrive. It is found occasionally in eastern Canada. This grass is a serious enemy to western stockmen, being a source of injury to horses, cattle and sheep through the barbed seeds and awns penetrating the soft tissue of the animals' mouths and causing irritation and inflamed ulcers.

Protect Eyes

When you mix or apply insecticides, take extreme care to keep ingredients out of the mouth and eyes.

Divide Room

If you live in a one room apartment, and pine and sigh for the convenience of a bedroom, hang a huge blind to segregate living and sleeping quarters. It creates a niche for the bed and makes an acceptable background for living room furniture.

Rural Schools

Twelve million American school children, or 50 per cent of the total school population, attend rural schools, but only 38 per cent of the available funds for support of schools goes to rural areas.

Mrs. Grace Kelley remains about the same. Some fairly good days and others very poorly have to be spent.

John Sowienski, who has been employed in Detroit for the past year, is at home. No employment there for the present where he was at work.

The Deford school will begin work on Tuesday, following Labor day.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hicks of Pontiac spent the past week at their residence here.

Mrs. Lena Curtis, sons, Morris and Mahlon, and the grandchildren of Mrs. Curtis, Caroline and Bobby Curtis of Pontiac, who spent the summer here, visited Sunday at Frankemuth with Mrs. Curtis' sister, Mrs. Carl Knutson. Fresh Parsley

Fresh parsley will keep its color and its pungence for a week, at least, if after washing it well you pop the wet leaves and stalks into a tall glass jar. Screw on the cap, place in the refrigerator; lo, when you need crisp parsley for seasoning or garnishes—it's yours at the turn of a wrist!
