Pattern Alteration Is Clothing Lesson

How to buy and use a commercial dress pattern was the subject of a lesson taught to the 60 Home Economic Extension Group leaders who met on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week. Two leaders were present from each group in the county and met for all day meetings at Caro, Cass City and Watrousville.

Included in the lesson which was taught by Miss Mildred M. This lesson was a forerunner of the special interest lesson, making a cotton dress, to be given in April.

Miss Gray Secured 100% Contributions In Her District

In 26 Calls Made at Homes She Received 26
Hospital Fund Payments

Miss Gertrude Gray was one of the first canvassers in the Community Hospital Fund drive to finish her work in the present campaign. She has the remarkable record of securing a contribution from each of the places at which she called. There are 26 families or household units in the village block assigned to her and she received that many cash payments for the fund.

But few solicitors have completely covered the areas assigned to them, and as the names of contributors are now being published only at the completion of the canvass of the district, the list in this and previous issues of the Chronicle does not represent all who have paid to date.

Canvassers reporting this week secured contributions from the following persons:

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Freeman, Dan Hennessey, Edgar Cummings, Louis Franks, Henry Turner & Son, Mr. and Mrs. James Seale, Miss Irene Morrison, Mr. and Mrs.

Erosion Damages Cropland at a Critical Rapid Rate

Hundred Ten Million
Acres in U. S. May Be Permanently Damaged

By Gene Alleman

It was a sunny afternoon in July, 1942, that I found I had a farm. Well, it was almost that way.

The missus and I were sunning ourselves in the backyard, wishing we were at a Lake Michigan or Lake Huron beach. Lansing is a long way from either place, you know.

"How'd you like to have a farm?" she asked suddenly. "Father writes that he would like to make a gift settlement of 160 acres with a good house. You know he doesn't like attorneys."

And that was the way this newspaper columnist acquired the responsibility of a farm and all the problems it involved—$6,500 mortgage, fertility-depleted soil from over corn planting, a headache of a barn, a well that went dry, and—well, the list is lengthy.

In less than six years I acquired something else—a healthy respect for dirt-farmers, the people who stake hard-earned money in the gamble of crops and livestock. I learned the importance of soil conservation, of American agriculture is to sustain our domestic economy.

All of this came to mind the other day when H. H. Bennett, chief of the U. S. soil conservation service, spoke during "Farmers' Week" at Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Mrs. F. Kirn, Detroit, Presents Program at W. S. W. S. Meeting

Mrs. Fred Kirn of East Detroit, a state officer of the Woman's Society of World Service of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, gave a review of the new study book in a novel way when the local group of that organization met Friday afternoon in the Lenzner home. The book, "Committed Unto Us" was presented in the form of a spiritual banquet at which Mrs. S. P. Kirn was the hostess; Mrs. B. A. Schwieger, Mrs. Maurice Joos and Miss Johanna Hommel were guests; and Mrs. George Dillman was the waitress.

Several courses were served, exemplifying spiritual truths of the book by conversation and readings. Mrs. Ray Silvernail was the devotional leader and Mrs. Schwieger, president, conducted the business session. Twenty-six were present at Friday's meeting and light refreshments were served at its close.

Mrs. Harry Young will be the leader of the next meeting and Mrs. Harve Streeter the hostess.

"Beyond Our Own", A Premier Production To Be Given Sunday

The new and highly rated sound-movie, "Beyond Our Own", will be shown in the Presbyterian Church, Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

This is the first production by the Film Commission in which thirteen Protestant communities shared financially in sponsoring. A premier showing was made in 100 cities on November 10. The picture has been well received. It has been described by movie critics as "a well-integrated story, capably acted, and dramatically and artistically appealing." It presents a vivid and gripping drama of the life story of two brothers, one a doctor and the other a lawyer, holding opposite views of the purpose and meaning of life.

The program is being sponsored by the Westminster Youth Fellowship of which James Wallace is president. An offering will be taken to defray expenses, and as a benefit toward the Youth Conference Fund. Every one is welcome to see this colorful and unique movie, "Beyond Our Own".

Warning a child of danger is not enough to insure his safety. Encourage children to follow safety rules in their own activities. They should learn to keep their wheels off the sidewalk, return toys to a shelf or box when not using them, and hang skates up. Toys carelessly left in the paths of children or adults are dangerous stumbling blocks.

Teaching Children Safety Habits

If you wait until your child is of school age before you try to make him cautious about his own safety, you are waiting too long.

Mildred M. Omlor, home demonstration agent, advises that you start teaching your children safety habits when they are babies. It will take lots of patience but you will bring up young people with safer driving practices, more regard for the property of others, and more respect for the rights of others.

Warning a child of danger is not enough to insure his safety. Encourage children to follow safety rules in their own activities.

Railroad Ticket Sellers

New mechanical ticket sellers have simplified the issuance of tickets. The ticket seller presses several buttons on the machine, which produces a ticket imprinted with the destination and origin points, the railroad fare, government tax and other data. At the same time the machine accounts for the money and records by whom the sale was made, so that at the end of a day a push on a button records the total sales by each ticket seller and the total sales for the entire office.

Have a Pickle Sundae?

Any food that is good by itself can safely be eaten with any other food or combination of good foods, declares National Dairy council. The idea that eating a pickle with milk, or with any other dairy product, would form mysterious poisons in the body is a product of lurid imagination unhampered by facts, the council says. Lactic acid, of which pickles are rich, has great therapeutic value and actually is used to improve the digestibility of milk for infants and invalids.

SHORT STORY

An Orchid
For Mariamne

By
LILLACE MITCHELL

MARIAMNE clasped her hands tightly beneath the oiled silk shampoo apron. It was useless to get Wally's telegram out of her bag again. She already had memorized it.

Wally was passing through Chicago on his way to a new job in Hawaii. That was all Mariamne needed to know.

Every penny she had in the world went into this sudden beautification. Every cent she had in the world except Grandmother's twenty dollar bill. She couldn't break into that. Grandmother had sealed it in an old envelope and told her:

"Emergency only! Mind, now! It's never to be spent on anything unless you're right down to hardpan. Nothing less than emergency!"

Wally almost kissed the heart out of her in the station. Then, "You're looking swell, Mariamne. Swell. How's the job?"

"Oh—grand," she lied. "Forty a week only—but they promise me a raise pretty soon."

They were walking now, shoulder to shoulder, along the ramp.

"And your new job, Wally," she was asking him. "Tell me about it."

"Not much to tell," he replied. "Manager of a sugar plantation. Five thousand a year and maintenance. They let me out of the old job Thursday and I clicked with this Friday."

HE HAD stopped before a florist's window. Wally always admitted he couldn't pass a florist's window. In New York every time they passed a florist shop, Wally insisted on stopping in to buy her a single orchid.

"Gardenias are just as nice—and so fragrant," Mariamne always told him.

"Sa—ay, you must take me for a piker! An orchid for Mariamne, nothing less, woman!"

Now he stopped, true to form, staring in the window. There was a display of orchids with the price marked $1.75. And a box lined with creamy gardenias marked, too. Special 25 cents each.

"Come on," he said. "We'll have to have a—flower, honey."

Inside he drew a twenty-five cent piece out of his pocket and flung it on the counter. "A gardenia for the lady," he said. "A fresh one!"

The clerk selected a very fresh one. "Twenty-six cents, please. Penny sales tax."

Wally flushed. He patted his pockets. "—er—I—Mariamne, honey—have you a penny change? I—"

Mariamne made a pretense of opening her purse. She knew there was no penny there. But this was an emergency. She took Grandmother's old envelope and broke the seal.

"Oh—grand," she lied. "Forty a week only—but they promise me a raise pretty soon."

"I'll need change, anyhow," she said to the clerk.

OUTSIDE on the boulevard again. Wally was silent, red-faced.

"C'mon, Wally, tell Mamma—all," said Mariamne quietly. "You—haven't a job."

"That's right—you're right!" he exploded. "But I did have. Got it Friday like I told you, honey, but an hour later they got a radiogram that the plantation had been flooded! No job!"

"And that quarter was your last cent. And you'd spend it—me."

Tears were in her eyes.

"Yes, just a cheap skate—that's me," he admitted. "Orchid for Mariamne, I always said. But I got down to a gardenia!"

"A liar," she said accusingly. "We're both liars. Me, I have a job, yes. Fourteen dollars—not forty—a week. Filing. And I've got nineteen dollars and ninety-nine cents, Wally. It'll buy the license."

"What license?" he asked.

"Marriage license, darling," she said gently.

"You mean you'd marry me—and me with no job?"

"Would I? You mean will I—and—thank you, sir, yes. What's the matter?"

"There's another florist shop," he said huskily. "This is a moment that calls for an orchid, darling. Gimme some money for it."

Never Discard Men's Overcoats; Remodel Them For Youngsters

By Ertta Haley

MOTHERS say that one of their most serious clothing problems is that of youngsters. Said one of them to me recently, "I had Jimmy all set for the winter in September, and now he looks as though he were squeezed into his coat, and I'm sure he's going to burst the buttons before the season is over."

Most budgets won't permit the purchase of another heavy coat for children who grow so fast, and mother has to do a lot of planning. What about Dad's overcoat that hangs in the basement closet? Or what about the gabardine job of your own that is just no longer usable for yourself? These offer excellent solutions to the youngster's coat problems.

Check over the outer material carefully before you decide to remodel. If it just hasn't enough good in it, it will be more worth your while to buy remnant material for coating than trying to salvage something with nothing worth saving in it.

After you've satisfied yourself as to the amount and durability of the coat material, check the lining. In most cases this has been worn out long before the coat was discarded, and you will most certainly have to get something new. Youngsters love plaids and checks, and you can find something relatively inexpensive in a cotton flannel that will answer your needs.

Select Straight Lines For Easy Tailoring

For ease in sewing as well as ease in adjusting to growing needs, it's best to choose a coat with straight lines. Sometimes patterns look simple, but upon close inspection they reveal a lot of careful tailoring and detail for which you do not have the necessary time. A boxy model, for example, would be easy to use.

Men's overcoats convert...

Whether the coat is single or double breasted makes little difference as to ease in sewing; the selection is one of taste. The double breasted models generally are preferred because the coat has a good overlap which is nice for active youngsters.

Never make clothing of this type too large in the hope the child will grow into it soon. The garment should fit, but room for adjustment can be left while cutting. Hems, for instance, can carry four inches, enough to let out a little later. You also may save a little fabric for cuffs when the sleeves shoot up.

Into youngsters' coats.

Thickness of the fabric does not make the material harder to sew. You simply adjust the needle, thread and stitch of the machine to the fabric. However, leave enough fabric to make good seams without having them bulky, and press each seam with a dampened cloth and Hoods should be detachable so that, if the coat is used for dress, it can be removed easily and a hat used in its place.

Don't hesitate to put in pockets as these will give practical value as well as a nice tailored appearance to the coat. These, too, may be lined with cotton flannel, plaid, plain or checked for warmth.

Buttons should be sturdy but not sewed too tightly as they will come off easily. Make buttonholes carefully so they will not fray and detract from the appearance of the coat.

Zippers may be used in place of buttons if they slide easily and are well sewed in. They're very popular for the three-quarter length boy's and girl's coats.

For a very small investment, the homemaker can change the appearance of one major room—the kitchen. That investment is in new shelf paper, which is plentiful this year. Picking out shelving paper is like selecting new wall paper for the living room, material for bedroom drapes or new furniture covers—only it costs considerably less. In making your selection, don't shy away from contrasts. Try blue for a yellow kitchen, gray or red for a blue kitchen, green for a white kitchen. Or, use dark blue shelf paper with light blue walls.

Bouffant Net Frock

A dream of a dress for the younger girl is Emma Domb's bouffant white net frock designed for dancing. The bodice and puffed skirt swirls of silver sequins to add glitter to the white.

warm iron as you sew, for this gives you nice tailoring.

Make pattern adjustments carefully before cutting and make accurate measurements with tape measure so there is no room for mistakes.

Reversible Coats Are Practical

The straight-line reversible coat is very practical to make at this time of year, because we soon will be getting into warmer, rainier weather. These are really very simply done because you may use the tweed or woolen from an old overcoat and then secure a gabardine type that is water-repellent for the other side.

In the case of the reversible coat, you cut two coats exactly the same. Each coat is put together and it is not until they are each completely sewed that you will join them.

It usually is best to make the cotton coat first so that you will make the woolen coat more easily after having had the experience with the cotton, which is slightly easier to sew and incidentally easier to rip.

When you sew the coats together, turn the front edges so they face. Slip-stitch the edges together. Run a machine stitching at the top of the hemline, through both the woolen and the cotton. The edges will not be joined together below the stitching.

Now stitch the edges of the sleeves together, turning them so they face each other. The edges should meet exactly and be slip-stitched together.

The collar is joined last. When the coat is completely put together, measure for buttons and buttonholes and sew these last of all.

Hoods, Pockets Are Essential

Whether the coat is for winter or for in-between seasons, it is very practical to make a hood to go with it. It offers protection from wind and weather as well as rain, and saves looking for a hat, as children sometimes will need to do.

If you are making a reversible coat, the hood should be lined in the cotton material so that it can be reversed when the coat is turned. If you have made the coat of wool, line it with the plaid or check you have used for the lining of the coat. This will add warmth and protection as well as making an integral part of the coat.

Hoods should be detachable so that, if the coat is used for dress, it can be removed easily and a hat used in its place.

Don't hesitate to put in pockets as these will give practical value as well as a nice tailored appearance to the coat. These, too, may be lined with cotton flannel, plaid, plain or checked for warmth.

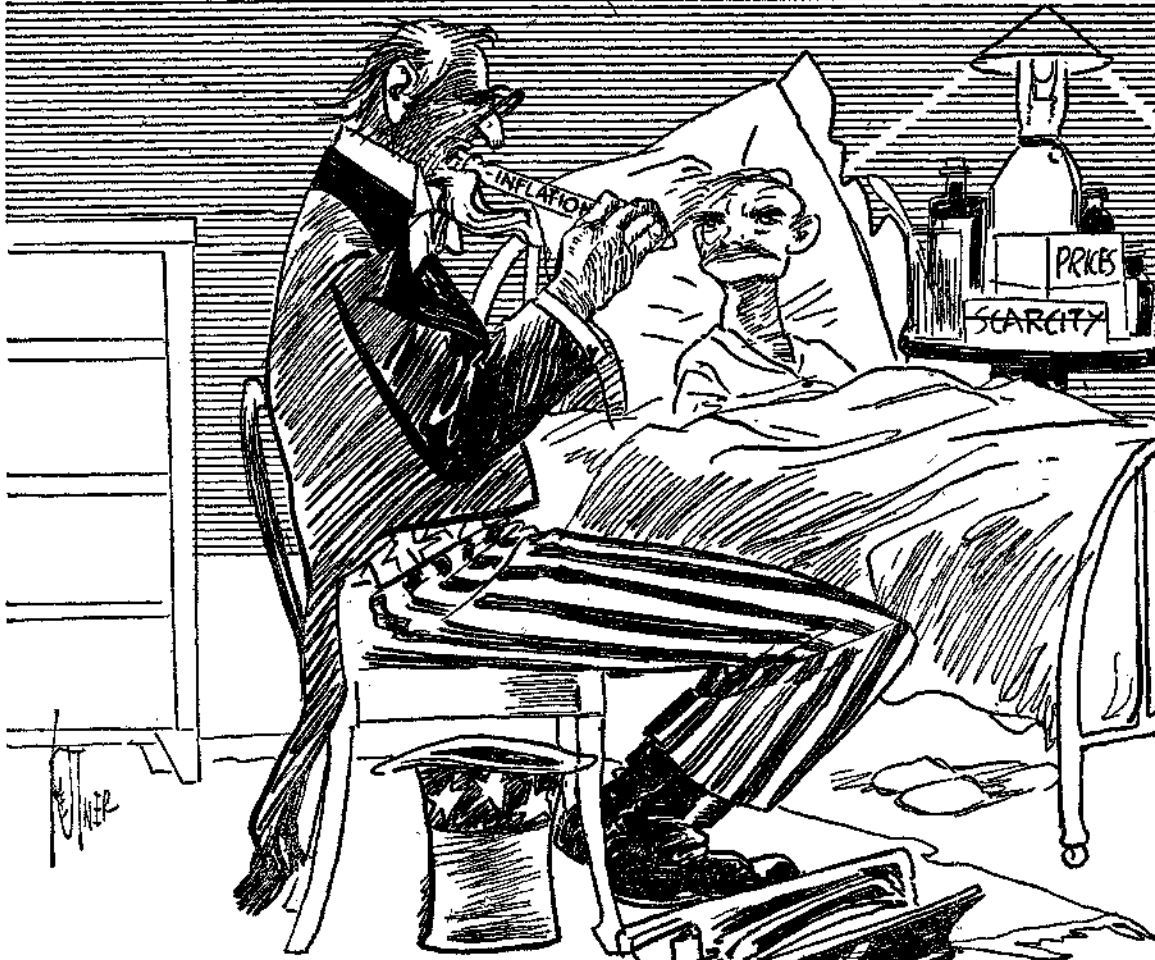

Buttons should be sturdy but not sewed too tightly as they will come off easily. Make buttonholes carefully so they will not fray and detract from the appearance of the coat.

Zippers may be used in place of buttons if they slide easily and are well sewed in. They're very popular for the three-quarter length boy's and girl's coats.

NO BARE CUPBOARDS

For a very small investment, the homemaker can change the appearance of one major room—the kitchen. That investment is in new shelf paper, which is plentiful this year. Picking out shelving paper is like selecting new wall paper for the living room, material for bedroom drapes or new furniture covers—only it costs considerably less. In making your selection, don't shy away from contrasts. Try blue for a yellow kitchen, gray or red for a blue kitchen, green for a white kitchen. Or, use dark blue shelf paper with light blue walls.

The Elmwood Extension group will meet Feb. 11 with Mrs. Paul James for an all-day meeting. The lesson will be on pattern alterations. The first meeting of the group when rug making was the lesson, was held Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 14, at the home of Mrs. Clara Spaven. Jan. 28, Mrs. Leslie Lounsbury was hostess to the group for an all-day meeting with potluck dinner at noon. At this meeting Mrs. Alvah Hillman, Mrs. Clara Spaven and Mrs. Wm. Anker showed rugs and explained the making of them.

Symbol of Wisdom
In some Oriental rugs carnations are used freely in the border designs. This flower is symbolic of wisdom.

First Corn Brooms
First corn brooms made in this country were produced by Levi Dickinson, Wethersfield, Conn., in 1797. Benjamin Franklin is given the credit for having developed broom corn. There is record of broom corn being produced in Italy some 380 years ago.

Watch the Dorsal
In landing a walleyed pike be careful of the sharp spear in the dorsal fin. The fish can inflict deep and painful wounds with this weapon, so hold it down while removing the hook. In this position it is harmless.

Record Tobacco Crop
North Carolina farmers produced the largest fine cured tobacco crop on record in 1946 along with the highest yield per acre in history.

Why Buy Chicks Blindfolded?

When a customer calls for his order of BOWLES CHICKS he sees what he is paying for, he likes their vigorous appearance—they look strong and healthy.

He also knows he is buying: HIGH LIVABILITY—to save costly death losses.

FAST EVEN GROWTH—to assure lowest cost of rearing to broilers, fryers and layers.

HEAVY STEADY LAYING—meaning high yearly egg production and less feed cost per dozen.

Our breeders are culled and blood-tested.

We set only 23 oz. or better eggs that are hatched under sanitary conditions.

Sell a hen and buy three BOWLES EARLY CHICKS. You will help to save grain and have early layers.

Internal Parasites Cut Yield of Wool

Year-Round Control Program Advocated

Most of the emphasis on parasite control in sheep has been tied up with faster gains, better lamb carcasses and prevention of damage to the intestinal walls of the animal. Attention of sheepmen now is being directed to the effect of internal Producers must be insect free. Parasites on the yield of wool. Michigan State college is urging flock owners in that state to treat animals with phenothiazine to keep them in good condition and to get a heavier growth of wool. Phenothiazine is administered as a drench or in pellets, or mixed with salt and kept before the flock all the time. A dependable year-round program calls for individual treatment of all animals in fall and spring, and use of the phenothiazine-salt mixture throughout the pasture season. This is the program being followed by progressive sheepmen to keep parasites in check.

Soil Needs Nitrogen

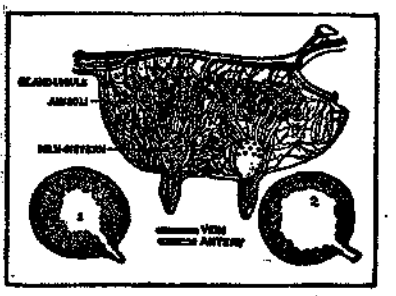

How lime, clover and crop residues increase the soil's nitrogen and organic matter supply and thus boost crop yields, is shown by the chart below. This drawing summarizes results of tests at the Dixon soil experiment field by University of Illinois agronomists. All three plots in the tests were limed and the crop rotation on each included corn, oats and wheat. One plot had no clover. The small grain straw was removed and the cornstalks were burned. This plot produced a four-year average of 57 bushels per acre. The second plot had the same treatment, except that sweet clover was seeded in the wheat and plowed under as a green manure crop for corn. The increased nitrogen and organic matter from the clover boosted the corn yield 24 bushels. On the third plot, sweet clover was grown and in addition the cornstalks, oats straw and wheat straw were returned to the soil. The extra organic matter, nitrogen and other plant foods thus saved and returned in the crop residues gave the soil "what it takes" to yield 88 bushels of corn per acre.

LIME-NO CLOVER CORNSTALKS BURNED.	CORN - 57 BU.
LIME-SWEET CLOVER CORNSTALKS BURNED.	CORN - 81 BU.
LIME-SWEET CLOVER CORNSTALKS, OATS AND WHEAT STRAW PLOWED UNDER.	CORN - 88 BU.

High Milk Producers Required for Profit

The size of the milk wells is a true measure of the size of the milk veins. This diagram of the udder structure by Clemson Agricultural college shows the udder structure in detail. If the end of the vein is forked, two or three milk wells often may be found on either side. A good mammary system is indicated by a large udder, which gets its capacity in length and width rather than excessive depth, extending well up behind and forward.

DEFORD

Funeral of Wm. Parks—
The body of William Parks was brought to the Deford Methodist Church and funeral services were conducted there at two o'clock on Wednesday, by the pastor, Walter Mollan.
The deceased passed away quite suddenly on Saturday night at his home at Almont. He was 49 years of age, son of the late William and Mary Parks, and his boyhood days were spent at the farm 1/4 mile west of Deford village where the Parks family resided for many years until the father was taken by death.
While living at Deford, Wm. Parks was united in marriage to Lola Kilgore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kilgore. He is survived by his widow and daughters, and one sister, Mrs. Ray Franklin, of near Kingston.
Burial was made in Novesta cemetery.

“How long has Hawkins been married?” asked the youngest member.
“Oh,” said the wittiest member, “I suppose about 20 awed years.”

Color Blindness Told
In 1794 John Dalton read a paper describing his color blindness before the Manchester literary and philosophical society. This was the first comprehensive study of color blindness. For many years the name of “Daltonism” was used to designate color blindness.

Big Russian Increase
Russia's rate of increase in population by births is three times that of the United States, nearly nine times that of England and Wales and more than four times Scotland's. Among 40 nations, only three surpass Russia. They are Formosa, with a percentage increase on 1,000 births of 24.8; Mexico with 20.5, and Puerto Rico with 19.8. Russia's rate is 18.6.

Oil That Lubricates
The ability of an oil to lubricate has little relation to its viscosity, but is rather determined by the chemical structure and composition. If the clearance between moving parts is close and a heavy oil is used the friction may be great enough to heat the oil and thereby make it thinner; but its lubricating properties are still just as good as before.

CRESTLYN JOHANNA ORMSBY PRINCE

Prince came to the Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative from the Ruth Rogers & Sons herd of Big Rapids and Robert Lautner's herd, Kent City.
The first daughters of this bull have made as two year olds 485 pounds fat and have tested 4 percent. More daughters are now finishing their record.
The dam of this bull is the lifetime record producing Holstein cow from Doan Straub's herd, Galien, Mich. known as Crestlyn Maplecrest Johanna or to many Michigan dairymen as Marie. Her record up to January 1, 1946 was 245,576 pounds milk and 9147 pounds fat at 17 years under both two and three times a day milking. Her average lifetime test was about 3.75. This cow classified officially as “Very Good” and her son Prince also scored “Very Good”. Marie has 3 daughters with 13 records which averaged 13,895 pounds milk, 520 pounds fat.
The sire of this bull is a USDA proved sire with 17 daughters yielding 14748 milk and 504 pounds fat. These are “Princes” Sisters. They made a gain of 1219 pounds milk and 17 pounds fat over the dams.

Really Gets Around

"WHAT kind of fellow are you?" she demanded.
"Last night you proposed to me, 10 minutes later you proposed to another girl down the block and 15 minutes later it was a girl on the other side of the street. How could you do such a thing?"

"Easy," he answered cheerfully, "I've got a bicycle."

Strange Place for It

A certain well-loved society woman was recently able to return to her normal activities after a rather lengthy sojourn in a hospital. Her first outing included a brief shopping tour.

"I declare it's good to see you back, Mrs. H. . . .," said one friendly saleslady. "We heard you were in the hospital. Would you mind telling us what your trouble was?"

"Not at all," replied the cheerful convalescent. "I had a foot taken out of my intestine."

"Gracious goodness!" gasped the astounded saleslady. "How in the world did it get there?"

FROM THEIR VIEWPOINT

Two ghosts heard a noise in the house just after midnight. One of them grabbed frantically at the other and whispered: "Listen! Do you believe in people?"

Missing the Point

He had received a handsome gun for his birthday and wanted to try it out immediately. His neighbor kindly let him have his bird dog for the hunting trip.

On his return the neighbor asked him what luck he had had and was surprised to hear that the dog was no good for hunting.

"Why," said the amateur hunter, "every time we would come across some birds that darned dog would stiffen himself, tail straight out and head up, so I hit him over the head with the butt of my gun. I wasn't going to put up with such foolishness."

Very Healthy Place

The old gentleman had just arrived at the hotel and was pestering the reception clerk with all sorts of questions.

"Are you sure this is a healthy spot?" he asked anxiously.

"Healthy," echoed the clerk, smiling. "I should say it is! Why, a few weeks ago an old fellow came here in a wheelchair, and after staying a month, he ran away without paying his bill!"

In the Matter of the Petition of Muri K. Aten, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

No. 4052.

On reading and filing the petition of the Auditor General of the State of Michigan praying for a decree in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said petition will be brought on for hearing and decree at the February term of this Court, to be held at Caro in the County of Tuscola, State of Michigan, on the 9th day of February, A. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said decree the lands described in said petition for which a decree of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such decree, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the County of Tuscola State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the decree shall be separately exposed for sale for the taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting in conveyance of the smallest interest therein, or if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of the same, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. 1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under the authority and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 125 of the Public Acts of 1935, as amended.

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains a description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

STATE OF MICHIGAN
In the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola in Chancery

In the Matter of the Petition of Muri K. Aten, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under the authority and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 125 of the Public Acts of 1935, as amended.

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains a description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, at a collection fee of four percent and (c) $1.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned;

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your petitioner prays:
a. That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of land therein described and extended in said schedule of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein described, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount decreed against them, shall severally be sold as the law provides;

SHORT STORY
Happy Landings
By
MATT CHRISTOPHER

IT WAS a bright afternoon, with the sun flashing on half a dozen sails that belled in the soft wind on the shimmering lake. Drilling along on the good road in his dilapidated car, Stanley Ervay had sad visions of another luckless day.

Those two fish poles and the cigar box of artificial flies in the back seat were looking for new owners—special owners who were worthy and deserving. He could find no one who seemed to need those two poles. Poles he and Maggie had no need for any more.

Suddenly he saw the young man. The young man's bowed head and slow gait suggested distress. Also, about a hundred feet ahead, he saw a trim, young lady. She was walking quickly. It was quite obvious to Stanley that something was wrong. Had he really discovered a pair of prospects? He came to a grinding halt beside the young man. "Hello. Want a ride? I got something for you!"

"Okay, what's the gag?"

STANLEY laughed. These young people nowadays! "No gag. It's an offer, providing—just like I said. But first, tell me. You're in trouble, ain't you?"

"Could be. But that's my affair."

"Nope." The reply was abrupt.

"That's the cure, son. Fishing. I'll beat sick hearts just like medicine would a wound. I know it sounds crazy. But there ain't a better remedy for a situation like you'd gotten yourself into. It's better than listenin' to jazz music, or takin' a walk, or plane ride just to get away from everybody. Most people don't know it, but when they do those silly things they're just breaking their hearts into a lot more little pieces."

The young man reached for the door handle. "This is where I get off, mister. Guess I've taken the wrong bus."

Stanley grabbed his arm. "Wait a second, son. I ain't too old not to know what I'm talkin' about, and I ain't crazy, either. The secret is sitting in the boat—the two of you, out there on the lake."

The young man frowned. "In a boat? The two of us?"

"You can sit across from each other an' brood your heads off, but you can't run away from each other like you're doing now. Sit tight, son," he said, turning to the wheel. "That's her, ain't it, walkin' up ahead there? Mighty in a hurry to get home like?"

The car chugged along. Presently, Stanley halted it alongside the girl. Plenty pretty, she was, too.

"Hello?" said Stanley. "Hop in back, will you?"

Her eyes flicked to the young man. She started to walk on.

"It'll rain," Stanley called. "You'll get soaked to the skin. See that rain-cloud up ahead?"

STANLEY turned off toward the lake and stopped the car. Several rowboats were drawn up on shore.

"Wait here a minute, folks," Stanley said. He went to a small building nearby, keyed open a door, and returned with a pair of well-polished oars. He placed them in the oarlocks of one of the boats, then went to the car and got the two fish poles and the cigar box of flies.

The girl stared wide-eyed. "But I've never fished before! Anyway, what is this all about? And, what about the rain?"

Her husband clutched her hurriedly by the arm. "Oh, don't argue with him, Mse, and get in that boat before he changes his mind. Didn't you ever hear that it's best to satisfy a crazy man if you want to keep him happy?"

The young man pushed the boat out and the girl jumped in.

"Happy landings!" cried Stanley, waving.

Smiling, he watched them go out, then turned, a little sadly, back to his car. Maggie wouldn't care, now, that he'd given the poles away. They had fished with them many times while she'd been alive. Anyway, they might do good in the hands of that nice, young couple.

He and Maggie, he recalled, must have been their ages when somebody had given them the fish poles.

Woman's World
Choose Clothes to Emphasize Best Points of Your Age, Type

By Etta Haley

A WISE, and well dressed friend of mine gave away her secret when she said to me one day, "If every woman would dress according to her type as well as age, she would be beautiful." You know, each type has her good points which should be played up, and each age, whether it be 18 or 38, has its own inimitable charm. If, rather than try to change these inevitable things, we just took the best of each of them, we would really be better off.

How often have you seen lovely mature women completely ignoring their attractiveness by trying on their teen-aged daughters' clothing, and even trying to wear them, because they were so proud of the fact that they were the same size?

By the same token, haven't you seen a very feminine woman trying her best to look like a sophisticated sister, putting on a dramatic dress with severe earrings when she could have achieved much more of an effect with a softly feminine look with a fluffy neckline and graceful clinging lines on her dress?

Or, have you seen a large woman of 30 putting on a bright plaid dress when that material rightfully and properly belonged to her daughter of three or five?

Study your type, see what others of your type wear and look well in, and then adapt them to your own clothes. It isn't the amount of money you spend, or the quantities of clothing you have; it's the effect you create with so little as one outfit, that counts.

How to Choose Becoming Colors

Many women avidly study the new colors for each season and then promptly sally forth to get a wardrobe in the fashion-new colors. How much wiser to select only those colors that go best with your skin and hair tones, than just what is new!

Dress according to type...

Right now we are going through a period when bright, almost harsh colors are quite the thing. Unless you customarily make up your face heavily and are a rather vivid type, these very bright colors will "wash you out." Look around you and you'll find that some of the softer colors will make you more appealing and actually give you more color than you thought you had.

There are certain basic rules which will apply, but you may have some other quality about you, or a combination of hair, eye and skin coloring that will permit you to wear some other shades. Study different colors against yourself and see what does the most for you.

Be Smart!

Black velvet, as well as fine soft felt, is headed for tremendous popularity. Velvet is particularly dramatic when manipulated in the new huge brims by John Fredrics. In the dinner hat, glycerined ostrich punctuates the brim.

Button Front Dress

Fair women should shun harsh colors such as yellow—strong shades of yellow and orange appear to much more advantage on brunettes. Most attractive will be the blue and darker shades of purple. If it's a case of violet, blue violet will be better than red violet, unless one is a dark blonde. In this case it may not be the hair, but dark eyes, darker than average skin, or deep colored eyes, lashes and brows.

Hair and Skin Tones

Serve as a Guide
Red-haired people are most attractive in colors that are brightly contrasting. They never should talk themselves into wearing something with a coppery cast. Let them try lovely greens as well as medium blue, soft gray and rich brown.

A gray-haired woman is very fortunate in that she usually has a wider range from which to choose than most other types. For her there are warm greens, blue, red, violet and the dark blue grays. Scarlet highlights point up the beauty of her hair, and about the only thing for her to avoid is an all gray ensemble.

For the brunette as well as the white-haired person, the range of colors is large. Here, the color of the hair is not as much of a determining factor as the skin tone.

If your skin is a clear olive, bright colors were meant for you, but steer away from purple or harsh blue as they make the complexion look sallow.

If your skin is white with pink undertone, any color in the softer shades will do nicely. Harsh colors will tend to make you look florid, particularly if these colors have a pink cast.

Eyes are always best if they are emphasized. Select colors that match them closely and wear them as often as possible. Brown, black and gray eyes need bright colors to emphasize them, while hazel and brown eyes are best with yellow green. Blue-eyed people do best in shades of blue and green most nearly matching the eye coloring.

Dress Style Often Determines Fabric

If you have studied your dress patterns, selecting those which will play down bad points and emphasize the good, you often will find a guide for choosing the best material.

If you are weak on choosing the correct fabrics, study ready-made dresses and their materials before you attempt to choose a pattern. Also follow the guides given with your pattern.

Smooth-surfaced fabrics show up every detail of cutting and construction in a garment. They demand a garment with subtle and sophisticated styling.

Printed fabrics are very useful if you select a print that is becoming to you. It should be large if you are thin and tall, but small and preferably self-toned if you are short and tend to heaviness. Many styles are adaptable to prints of some kind.

SHORT STORY
Ten Minutes Late
By
AAGE V. HOVMAND

THE evening was dark when at 11 o'clock Head Signalman Petersen arrived at the signal box for duty.

"Evening, Hansen! Any news?" Petersen took off his cap and coat. "They say Sivertsen's out."

So this was it! Sivertsen had been his mate but Petersen had had to report him. Sivertsen had been given a year in jail. He had threatened to get revenge.

"Nothing else to report, Hansen?" "Eight cars from the brick works."

There was no room in the freight siding. They're on line No. 2 waiting to be picked up by the early morning freight. That means no through trains on line No. 2."

Hansen had gone. Petersen was alone. Keep calm, he told himself. He lit his pipe and began to read the paper. The night express was due to pass at 11:27; at about 11:20 it would be signalled through from the junction.

He raised his head to glance at the clock and stared sideways into the muzzle of a revolver. He felt his scalp shrink.

Behind him came Sivertsen's ugly voice. "Put your hands behind you." Petersen could feel his hands being tied to the back of the chair.

Suddenly the phone rang. Sivertsen lifted the receiver. "Right... all clear!" he said. The word was that the night express was passing the junction.

"I see you still have the bad habit of parking cars on line No. 2," grinned Sivertsen. He switched the main line over to line No. 2 and lowered the signals.

PETERSEN shouted in terror. Sivertsen said: "What'll happen when the fast express hits those cars? And what'll happen to the man responsible? Perhaps you'll try to convince the prosecution that you're not guilty? That I was there with a knife and cut you loose and ran off with the rope the moment it happens?"

Sivertsen lighted a cigarette. "I'm going down to see if the cars are properly braked. Then it'll work better."

Petersen was deathly pale. He was speechless. "What are you glaring at?" sneered Sivertsen. "Want a smoke to steady your nerves a bit, is that it?" He thrust a cigarette into Petersen's mouth, lit it and was gone.

Petersen puffed automatically at the cigarette. Shout for help? Useless, there was no one near.

Four feet away from him was the signal lever. Move it and the express would be saved. But he could not move his hands. He knew that 200 yards away two green lights were signalling all clear. And 500 yards further on was another signal indicating there was no danger.

11:34! Sivertsen had received the junction's news of the express at 11:30. It would be here at 11:37.

Petersen could feel his hands being tied to the chair.

Petersen tried to bend forward. The rope tightened round his wrists. Now with his cigarette he could nearly reach the rope across his knees. The cigarette was half finished. He puffed vigorously and the glow increased. He pressed it against the rope with desperate energy, drawing deeply. He heard the faint crackling sounds as the threads of the rope broke. But he heard another sound too, farther away, the whistle of the express.

With all his might he stretched his knees and the rope broke. He could stand upright and in feverish haste he freed his hands. A glance out of the window showed him the lights of the approaching train. Dragging the chair with him he threw himself on the signal lever and changed it to red. But the engine was already passing under it and the engine driver noticed nothing.

Like lightning he grabbed another lever and changed the points to connect up the main line.

Five seconds later the express passed safely by. A streak of light from its windows marked its course through the night.

Petersen looked at the clock. 11:37! Ten minutes late! Then he collapsed on the chair.

Mud-Fly Fishing Rules
Mud-fly fishing is a new tactic recommended for use in dead water holes where trout simply refuse to rise to the angler's lures. Take a coachman fly and clip the wings. Then pack mud into a ball about it. Drop the mud-packed fly on the smooth water. As it settles to the bottom, with the water disintegrating the mud into little spiralling swirls, the trout should smash it for curiosity alone.

Increase Sorghum Profits
Sorghum research by the Oklahoma station has yielded information as to the most satisfactory varieties for grain, forage and sirup in various parts of Oklahoma, and more productive forage and grain varieties have been developed. The annual value of this research is estimated at three million dollars for production of grain, six million dollars for forage and one million dollars for sirup.

Deer and Their Antlers
Most female deer have no real antlers. Reindeer and caribou are the only members of the deer family in which female have antlers.

Farm Market
There is a total farm market for manufactured products of 25 billion dollars according to an estimate of Cornell university. The increase in the market over previous estimates results from a rise of 40 per cent in farm production over prewar levels and more money being received for agricultural products.

erosion," he warned. "This is an area estimated at something like 110 to 115 million acres of highly vulnerable cropland, much of which will be permanently damaged and some of it ruined for further cultivation every year it is cropped without protection.

"We are allowing about 500,000 acres to be so damaged by erosion every year that it cannot be used longer for cultivated crops. The estimated annual cost of erosion in the United States is considerably more than a million dollars."

Michigan has 39 soil conservation districts, comprising approximately 12 million acres, or 65 per cent of the state's farmland and more than one-half of all the farms. For much of this we can thank Michigan State College.

But does it pay a farmer to practice modern soil conservation methods?

The answer is emphatically yes. Dividends are in the form of better crop yields, better income.

Federal studies show the average additional income to be $4.90 per acre for the country as a whole, and $6.37 more on 257 typical conservation-treated farms in Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio and Iowa. Nothing fangle-dangled about that!

We never expect to be smart enough to run a farm. But we do believe we are smart enough to put a good idea to work. Soil conservation is a practical investment. It is paying dividends for every farmer and farm owner who gives it a chance. It will bring more dollars to the local merchants. It will help to build better communities and a more prosperous Michigan.

Sgt. Hultquist pointed out that the present U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting program features several very attractive offers both to veterans of any branch of the armed forces and to young men who have not served before.

FOR VETERANS:

Enlistment in any overseas theatre where vacancies exist including Europe (Europe is now open to veterans but has a very limited quota). Enlistment for a three (3) year tour of duty with any one of eight (8) combat divisions stationed at various stations in the United States.

Re-enlistment under War Dept. Pamphlet 12-16 in your old M. O. S. number which in most cases gives the veteran the same grade or rating that he held upon separation (Includes men with service in the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard). Veterans who are high school graduates may select the Technical Training School of their choice prior to enlisting.

NON-VETERANS:

May select vacancies in overseas theatres in Alaska, Pacific Theatre, and the Far East. May enlist for the 82nd Airborne Division Stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C. If high school graduates may select the Technical Training School of their choice (Army or Air Force) prior to enlisting.

Interested young men should contact Sgt. Hultquist for further information or stop in at the Army and Air Force Recruiting Sub-Station, Post Office Bldg., Caro, Mich.

Pretty Wedding at Manley Fay Home

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Fay was prettily decorated in pink and white and bouquets of snapdragons and carnations for the wedding Sunday afternoon of their son, Stanley, to Miss Beverly Huntwork of Pontiac. Preceding the double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Wm. Wager of Elkton, Mr. Wager, accompanied by Mrs. Archie Stirtion at the piano, sang, "I Love You Truly".

Attendants were Miss Mona Huntwork, sister of the bride, and Manley Fay, Jr., brother of the groom.

The bride wore a powder blue suit and her bridesmaid chose a gray suit. Both had corsages of roses.

Following the ceremony, a three-course dinner was served the bridal party and guests.

The newlyweds will make their home in Pontiac where the groom has been employed.

Guests were the bride's father, her brother and sister-in-law and two children from Pontiac; Mr. and Mrs. Newton Barker and children, Earl and Perry Lynn, of Bad Axe; Mr. and Mrs. Herb Dulmage, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Lapeer and children, Lynwood and Charlene, Mrs. Charlotte Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stirtion and sons, James and Pat.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MRS. BAKER

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Connell and son, Jack, entertained Sunday Mrs. Connell's family at dinner at their home on corner of Third and West Sts. in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Connell's mother, Mrs. Robt. Baker, of Bad Axe.

The occasion was a surprise to Mrs. Baker. As she walked into the dining room she found her family—Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Baker, Jr., and family and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Baker, all of Bad Axe, and her daughter, Mrs. H. J. Linn and son, Howard, Jr., of Tampa, Florida, sitting at the table waiting for her and Mr. Baker's arrival.

The table was decorated in birthday decorations, including a beautiful, two-layer maraschino cherry birthday cake, topped with white icing and "Happy Birthday, Mom" and 60 red and white candles of which Mrs. Baker blew out 57 of the 60 at one puff. The cake was made by Mrs. Connell.

Mrs. Baker was the recipient of many lovely gifts and birthday cards.

Former Cass City Resident Died in Caro on Tuesday

Daniel F. Schiele, 74, former resident of Cass City, died Tuesday at his home at 266 West Lincoln Street in Caro after being in failing health for eight years.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist Church, of which he was a member, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The body will lie in state at the church from 1:00 p. m. until time for the services. The Rev. S. S. Closson will officiate, assisted by the Rev. B. F. Littleton, of Wisner, and burial will be in Ellington cemetery.

Mr. Schiele was born Dec. 6, 1873, at Sebringville, Ont., and at the age of 13 moved to Elkton with his parents. He was married at Elkton Aug. 6, 1895, to the former Miss Anna E. Linge. Their golden wedding celebration in 1945 called for a large gathering of friends at their home.

After living in Cass City for several years the family moved to Ellington Township, Tuscola County, and after retiring they moved to Caro. Mr. Schiele was engaged in farming and for a number of years was a salesman for a monument concern.

Surviving, besides the widow, are four children, Mrs. Melvin Herford and Mrs. Thomas Mackey, of Flint, Mrs. Elton Richardson, of Caro, and Edward Schiele, of Norwalk, Calif., four grandchildren; four great grandchildren; and two brothers, William G. Schiele, of Elkton, and Charles Schiele, of Dundee, Mich.

Trees Grow in America
There are 882 species, 223 varieties and 87 hybrids, a total of 1,177 different forms of trees in the United States. A few are naturalized foreign species. Only 34 softwoods and 70 hardwoods are commercially important.

Father's Oddities
In Ecuador, the expectant mother is put out of her house, while the father is coddled, honored and doted until he recovers from the shock of becoming a pappy. In the Sudan in Africa, after at least five children, the wife may return to her parents leaving the children as the property of the father. In the Philippines and in Japan, during the birth of a child, the father must take to his bed and simulate labor.

The want ads are newsy too.

Former Cass City Couple Celebrated Golden Wedding

Hotel Montague at Caro was the scene of a happy event Monday evening, Jan. 26, when Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wells celebrated their golden wedding anniversary and renewed their marriage vows in the presence of more than one hundred relatives and friends.

A program was rendered in the spacious hotel dining room which was softly lighted with tapers in candelabra. Miss Esther Walker of Midland sang "Because". Congratulations were given by John Katz, son of Mrs. Ida Hobson. Joyce Kauffman gave a reading, "I Had But Fifty Cents." A song "When Grandpa Put the Paper on the Wall" was sung by Keith Kauffman. "Casey at the Bat" was given by Jack Hobson, and poems of "The Golden Years" were read by Rev. Alvin Kauffman of Saginaw and presented to the couple.

Music of yesteryear was played on an ancient phonograph by Howard Wells and Neoma Windham. "Silver Threads Among the Gold", followed by Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Maurice Leahman of Saginaw to which the bridal party marched and took their places before an improvised altar beautifully decorated with pine and cedar boughs, yellow chrysanthemums, tulips, and daffodils.

The ceremony was read by Rev. Mr. Kelly of Ellington. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bradley, the latter a sister of Mrs. Wells. Other attendants and adding much fun and quaintness to the party were Mrs. Neoma Windham, granddaughter, and Howard Wells, son of the couple, attired in costumes of a half century ago and resembling the bride and groom at that time. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver of Richfield sang "The Years Have Passed".

After congratulations had been offered and received, refreshments were served from a table decorated with tapers and yellow daffodils and centered with the beautiful four tier wedding cake. The couple received many beautiful gifts.

Guests were present from Flint, Holly, Reese, Pontiac, Cass City, Saginaw, Saginaw, Midland, Vassar, Mayville, Ypsilanti, Detroit, Richfield, Davison and Caro.

Willard Wells was born March 14, 1872, at Port Byron, N. Y., and came as a small lad to Cass City with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wells. Bianchi Turner was born at Ellington September 22, 1877, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Turner. On Jan. 26, 1898, the couple were married and lived on a farm near Saginaw two years, moving to Cass City to operate a restaurant. With the exception of farming six years near Vassar and five years near Mayville, Mr. and Mrs. Wells have been mostly interested in the art of cooking and baking and have operated restaurants or bakeries in Cass City, Caseville, Saginaw, Flint, and also the Home Hotel at Caro for several years, and cooking at Caro State Hospital for five years. Three years ago, because of poor health, they retired and purchased and remodeled the home formerly occupied by Mrs. Wells' parents at Ellington.

The couple have five children living. They are Mrs. J. L. (Marie) Kauffman of Caro, Mrs. Earl (Jennie) Fish of Flint, Mrs. R. K. (Martelle) MacGregor, Millard and Howard, all of Saginaw. Three children, Eryma, Lyonol and Neva, have passed away. They also have thirteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Minerals of Pakistan
Although Pakistan has some oil and considerable coal, the major share by far of these industrial raw materials is found on the Hindu side of India. There are extensive supplies of coal, iron and manganese, essential to heavy industry, in the Jamshedpur region, as well as scattered about in central and other areas of the far-flung Hindu territory. India's famous sheet mica, vital in radio and aircraft engines, comes largely from the Hindu sections of Bihar and Madras. During the war strategic minerals were discovered in the north-central states of the new Dominion of India.
