

Man Loses Life In Hotel Fire Here On Wednesday

Rear of Second Floor of the New Gordon Hotel Was Badly Damaged

Fire discovered at 4:45 Wednesday morning caused the death of Glenn Hartwick, 40, by suffocation and partially destroyed the second floor of the rear of the New Gordon Hotel here. The front of the second floor suffered considerable damage by smoke and water. Supplies in the stock room of the Hotel Coffee Shop operated by Gerald McComb on the first floor were damaged by smoke and water.

After the fire department had been fighting the fire about 1 1/2 hours, Howard Ellis, a member of the department, discovered that one of the hotel rooms was locked. He forced the door open and was shocked to discover Glenn Hartwick's body, partially dressed, lying crosswise upon the bed. The use of a pulmotor and oxygen and other means of artificial respiration failed to revive the man who apparently had been overcome by the smoke.

A check of hotel guests was made during the fire, and through misinformation given by someone, it was said that Hartwick was not in the hotel at the time of the fire. In an autopsy performed by Dr. H. T. Donahue, county coroner, on Wednesday, it was determined that death was caused by suffocation.

Shirley Curtis, fire investigator of the State Police Post at Bay City, Sheriff Julius Goslin and Deputy Sheriff John Zinnecker were called to examine the fire damages. Mr. Goslin said Thursday morning that the origin of the fire which started in the linen room of the hotel had not been determined. He said the investigation would be continued.

Flames were pouring from windows at the rear of the second floor when the fire department arrived. Both Mr. Curtis of the State Police and Sheriff Julius Goslin said the fire laddies did an excellent job in subduing the stubborn blaze.

Fire losses of the hotel owned by Kenneth Cumper and the coffee shop were covered by insurance.

Glenn H. Hartwick was born in Caro, April 9, 1907, and attended the Cass City High School from which he was graduated. He entered the U. S. Army in June, 1942, and was discharged from the Medical Corps as a Tec. 3 on Sept. 10, 1945.

Large Number in Attendance at Dist. Sup-O-Ree of Scouts

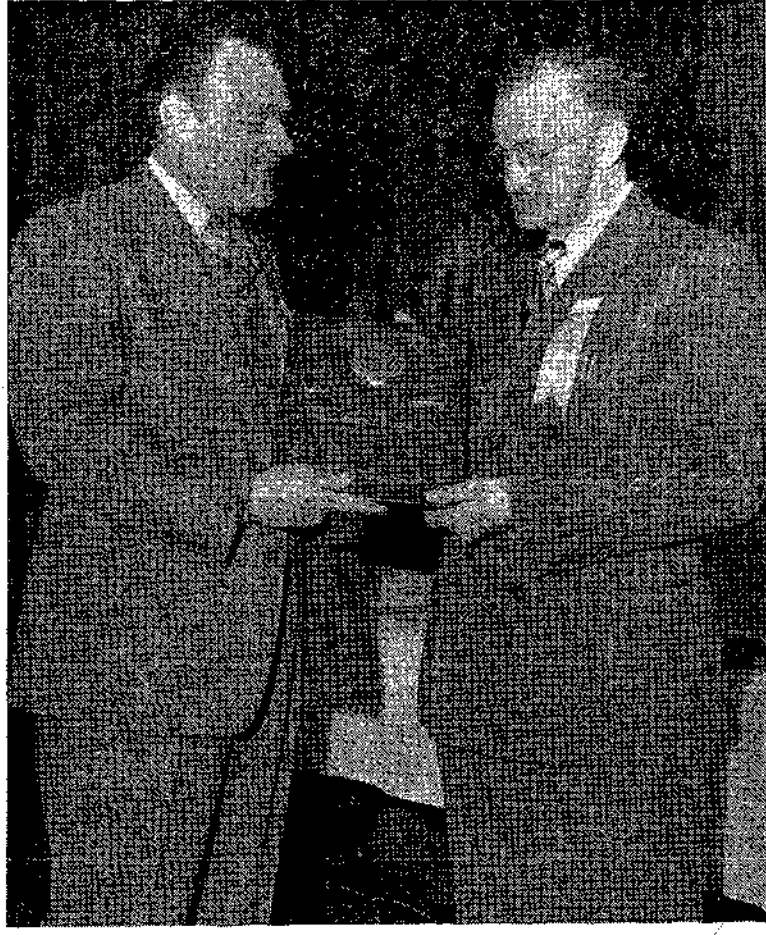

The largest crowd in the history of Scouting in Tuscola County was in attendance at the annual Tuscola District Sup-O-Ree held Thursday, February 12, at the Caro High School. The crowd which ran over 600 filled the gymnasium and overflowed into the halls where extra tables had been set up in the corridors flanking the gym. The invocation was given by Reverend I. M. Farnsworth.

After the meal the program was opened with a flag ceremony by Troop 194 of Cass City. Community singing was led by Dick Kenefic of Caro. A. Paul Kreager, district chairman, who was master of ceremonies, then recognized all of the unit leaders, assistants, and den mothers who were present. Club Pack 3161 of Caro presented a skit and sang some Cub songs.

Two outstanding awards were made to Cass City scouts. Ray W. Fleenor, committee chairman for the local scout troop and the senior scout outfit, received the Scout's Training Award, a gold medal given in recognition of five or more years of successful leadership and the completion of a long series of training courses. It was the first such award to be earned in Cass City, and the first to be given in the county for many years. Mr. Fleenor has served in scouting for more than 10 years first as a scout and recently as Assistant Scoutmaster, committee member, and for the last three years chairman. This award was presented by Harold Oatley, chairman of the training committee.

Horace V. Pinney, neighborhood commissioner for Cass City and Kingston, was one of two scouts to receive the certificate of appreciation for excellent leadership of the local units. Maurice Phelps of Fostoria received the same recognition. The certificates were presented by William C. Morgan of Saginaw, executive.

Tile Drainage Is Discussed by Co. Planning Committee

Tile drainage for Sanilac County was thoroughly discussed by the drain committee of the county planning committee who met in the courthouse, Tuesday. The following points were brought out.

1. A good outlet is the first consideration.
2. Have an accurate survey made before laying tile.
3. A good depth for tile is about two and a half feet in most areas.
4. Tile branches should be about three or four rods apart, depending on soil conditions.
5. Very heavy sticky clay or very light sandy soils need special consideration in tiling.
6. Check soil acidity before tiling, especially with concrete tile.
7. Buy your tile from a good reliable and experienced manufacturer.

Realizing that education and demonstrations are necessary, the committee is planning to set up a number of tile demonstration farms in the county under the direction of Mr. Cutler, drainage expert of Michigan State College. A tour of successfully tiled drained farms is also planned for this spring.

Jackson and they made their home on the same farm until the death of his wife in 1934. Since that time he has lived with his daughter. He was confined to his bed the last six and one-half years.

Judges Had Hard Task to Determine Tuesday's Winners

Promises of Fine Program at Community Club Meet Were Fulfilled

Promises of an unusually fine program were fulfilled by the participants at the Community Club's February gathering Tuesday evening. Like all home talent productions, the program developed unusual interest and some remarkably fine musical numbers were presented.

Rev. Elmer Braden and Frank Campbell, both of Caro, were judges and had a difficult task in awarding the prizes. Miss Elaine Shagena received first prize of $15 and Bob Quinn the second prize of $10. Both gave vocal solos. Third prize of $5 went to Herbert Watkins, pastor of the Novesta Church of Christ, who played a baritone solo. Honorable mention was given Richard Joos, who gave a vocal solo, and the Cass City quartet of Fritz Neitzel, A. C. Atwell, Don Borg and Robt. Stockwell.

Other numbers on the program which received much applause were a vocal selection by the Evangelical male quartet of Geo. Dillman, Maurice Joos, B. A. Elliott and Dorus Benkelman; vocal duet, Dick and Marjorie Dillman; cowboy song, Leo Laycock; minstrel number, Lowell Slickler; piano solo, Roger Parrish; banjo solo, Horace Bulew; and a selection by the high school orchestra.

Mrs. Maurice Joos, Mrs. Donald Borg, Geo. Dillman and Mrs. Ethel McCoy served as piano accompanists. The two male quartets were not in the competition for prizes.

Not only was unusual musical talent brought to the fore, but the talent of Frank Reid as an excellent master of ceremonies was revealed.

Prize money was contributed by the program committee, A. C. Atwell, W. L. Mann and Frank Reid.

The evening's program was preceded by a bountiful dinner served by girls of the high school. President M. B. Auten announced that the March program would be movie pictures of the Rosebowl game with local doctors as sponsors of that athletic entertainment.

VETERANS NEWS

From the OFFICE OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS LANSING

National Service Life Insurance, often described as the greatest benefit granted the majority of veterans by a grateful government, places the emphasis on "life" when it comes to protecting the veteran.

Many veterans believe their NSLI provides only for their families in the event of their deaths. Actually it is worth a great deal to the veteran during his lifetime.

There are five benefits in addition to death claims: (1) Loans on permanent insurance; (2) Cash value; (3) Proceeds of endowment policies; (4) Disability premium waiver; (5) Disability income payments.

A veteran may secure a loan up to 94 percent of the reserve on any permanent NSLI policy, which includes ordinary life, 20 and 30 payment life, 20-year endowment policies and endowments at age 60 and 65, at any time after the policy has been in effect for one year.

Any permanent form of NSLI premium which has been paid in full for one year may be surrendered for its cash value. This cash value differs with each type of policy, and will be reduced by loan indebtedness.

A new disability feature may be added to all types of NSLI for an additional premium. This coverage provides for payment of $5 a month for each $1,000 of insurance in force for veterans who are totally disabled for more than six consecutive months commencing prior to the veteran's 60th birthday.

BAYNEWOOD MONTY REX

Monty's ancestry is traced back to the famous E. M. Bayne Farms, Romeo, which for years was one of the leading Holstein herds in the Detroit area.

Monty made his record in the herd of Frank Gaglio, Richmond. Not only did the daughters of Monty produce well in the Gaglio herd, but they sold even better in terms of their high appeal to patrons of the Washington sale held for years at Washington, under the direction of Morris Place, Van Hoosen-Jones Farm at Rochester.

In the Gaglio herd the inbred daughters of Monty were even superior in type and appearance and in productive capacity to the daughters of this very fine sire.

Monty was officially classified for type and rated "Very Good". He is an extremely deep bodied animal, weighed in his prime nearly 2500 pounds and had the quality of being well balanced throughout with no part of his body being out of proportion. With a level rump and with strong top line, deep chest, and excellently marked, Monty always attracted visitors in terms of his fine appearance.

The daughters of Monty have proved themselves to be good producers yielding 12,519 milk and 481 fat under USDA proof. Monty has been heavily used by the Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative in its stud at Michigan State College, East Lansing, for nearly two and one-half years.

Father and Son Partnerships Walk Off with Top Honors

Farmers' Week, held recently at Michigan State College, pointed up the fact that father-and-son farm partnerships are important to Michigan's agriculture and generally means a successful farming venture.

Father-and-son partnerships walked off with top honors in most livestock competition. Penton Perkins and his son, Stanley, of Swartz Creek, got the grand championship for their Shorthorn steer, Broad Blade. This is the sixth generation of the Perkins family breeding Shorthorns.

Top awards, the grand championship, for both single animal and pen of three in the swine show went to A. L. Barnhart, Reading, and his son-in-law, Clarence Rubel, who farm in partnership. Barnhart's son, Martin, got reserve champion honors for his pen of Chester Whites.

In the sheep competition, Ralph Densmore, Gratiot county, and his two sons, Max, 12, and Harry, 17, took top honors. From 26 grade and purebred Oxford ewes, they raised 51 lambs which averaged 76 pounds in weight at four and one-half months. This was their second year as winners of the champion flockmaster cup.

Father-and-son partnerships have long been encouraged by the Michigan State College farm management department, which pioneered in the development of the father and son partnership plans.

E. B. Hill, head of the department, points out that this type of partnership is often the ideal way for a young man to start farming. It provides capital, working equipment, livestock, and other items needed to make a good start. Many Michigan veterans have returned to the farm and entered the farm business in this way.

Details of father and son partnership plans can be obtained from county agricultural agents or by writing to the Farm Management Department, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan.

They Still Grow Up

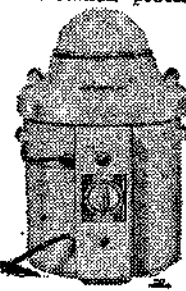

Almost 500 years before Columbus, Vikings were voyaging to America to harvest the forests, yet woodlands still cover more than 630 million acres. With the spread of modern forest management methods that increase regrowth, forests can continue to supply the country's needs forever. The American tree farm movement—the growing of trees as a farm crop—has been extended to nearly 14 million acres of privately owned woodlands. With improved forest management and adequate protection from fires, tree farming is expected to provide America with perpetual forests.

'Gingerbread' Outmoded
Wide cornice overhangs are out of date, and houses without them cost less. The same is true of most "gingerbread" which formerly was used as architectural decoration. Simple lines are best.

Caro Firm to Offer Home Milk and Cream Pasteurizer

The continued spread of milk-borne diseases, caused by using raw milk for drinking and cooking purposes, is a growing black spot on the U.S. public health record.

Although the pasteurization process was developed many years ago, and is recognized by physicians and bacteriologists as the only absolutely reliable method of removing harmful, disease-carrying bacteria from milk, the benefits of this protection have not been available to a large percentage of our population.

SAFGUARD PASTEURIZER

Use of Raw Milk Increases Disease
Stringent health measures have made protection by pasteurization available in the big cities. But until recently, pasteurization equipment has been too expensive to be practical for use in homes. As a result, there has been a constantly increasing number of victims of undulant fever, septic sore throat, tuberculosis, and typhoid fever among families who use raw milk for drinking and cooking purposes.

Now, the introduction of a home pasteurizing unit which combines the scientific accuracy of the big commercial units with a price that will fit family budgets makes it possible for everyone to enjoy the same protection as people who live in large communities.

Safgard Unit Gives Protection

After extensive research and tests, the Guard-It Manufacturing Company of Chicago has developed a 2-gallon "family size" electric milk and cream pasteurizer. Known as the SAFGUARD Home Milk and Cream Pasteurizer, it pasteurizes for about 1 1/2 gallons.

The unit operates on an ordinary 110-volt, 60 cycle line, and provides automatic timing and temperature control and uniform heating, agitation, and cooling features that are comparable to commercial units. Everywhere, it has received an enthusiastic response from health authorities and colleges after being submitted to exhaustive laboratory tests.

Bieth Implement Co. has just secured the local franchise for the SAFGUARD Home Milk and Cream Pasteurizer through the General Electric Co. and he now has units on display in his store.

DOBBIN on Decline

The horse population of the world suffered a decline of more than 20 per cent during the war years. Between 1938 and 1945 the number of horses in the world fell from almost 95 million to about 75 million. Not all these losses were war casualties, many more were victims of mechanization.

By Gene Alleman

Don't kick the farmer or the food retailer in the pants in all the current discussions regarding high food prices! They aren't responsible for high food prices. Who is? Listen to Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc. We heard him recently at a newspaper advertising convention in Chicago.

Here is an excerpt worthy of careful consideration today, even though there appears to be some current trend toward lower prices: "When will food prices come down? When all the elements of cost come down. If we wish to send vast quantities of food to the rest of the world... and I assume we do... then we must accept the inevitable consequence: scarcity and high prices at home. "If we wish labor to have high wages and shorter hours, to enjoy a higher standard of living, then we must remember that this increases the cost and we must pay for it. "If we want the government to engage in the multitudinous activities which it now supports, then we must accept that this costs money and means high taxes here, and high taxes mean higher prices. If we want lower prices, the farmer, the manufacturer, the working man, the distributor, the transport industry and the government must put their heads together and see what each is doing, which may be eliminated, what each is charging which may be reduced. "It is really very simple to figure out why food prices are still comparatively high. The quick answer is that the demand is greater than the supply. There are more dollars than there is food. Our own people are bidding for the supply while the whole world is bidding against them. That always makes high prices. "Another answer is this: Food starts on the farm but before it reaches the homemaker, it passes through many hands and processes. First the manufacturer must buy from the farmers. According to government figures, he had to pay $2.65 in 1947 for farm products that cost him $1 in 1939. He had to pay $1.80 for the same amount of labor which cost him $1 in 1939. At each step the cost of doing business... for labor, materials, equipment... is up from 75 to 100 per cent. Are high food prices the result of high profits? Food manufacturers' profit on the sales dollar was 4.6 cents in 1939, 3.9 cents in 1946 and 3.5 cents in 1947. Retailer profits are smaller, too, amounting to about

1.5 cents on the dollar. If both the manufacturer's and retailer's profits were wiped out on a can of beans, the consumer saving would be six tenths of a cent. "What's the answer then?" you ask. "If the American people really want to help themselves and their country," added Mr. Willis, "then they must discard the philosophy of easy work and easy money, and substitute the hard work and hard money philosophy which enabled our forefathers to build this country to its present strength. "All of the American people... industry, press and public... are in this thing together. All segments of our economy are responsible in one way or another for present high prices, and all must work together to bring about the adjustment necessary."

The trouble with this advice is that it's too old-fashioned, it's too sensible. It's easier to blame the farmer, the food retailer, than yourself.

How A & P Gives You
Lower Food Prices

During the past week you have noticed lower prices on many important food items in your A & P Stores.

These prices are a direct reflection of the reductions in the market cost of the food to us. Many of our customers are amazed to find these price reductions going into effect so quickly at the retail level. They wonder how we do it. There is no mystery about it.

We are able to reflect these market reductions promptly because of three basic policies:

1. We endeavor to buy our food from primary sources of supply, such as farmers, meat packers and grocery manufacturers, and move it directly to our stores and warehouses. This keeps down the cost of distribution to us and the price to you at all times.
2. When the cost of food to us goes down we do not wait until we have exhausted supplies on hand, but endeavor to reflect reductions in our retail prices promptly.
3. We are food merchants, not food speculators. We do not build up great reserves of food at any time. We are in the market from day to day, buying food to meet our customers' day-to-day needs.

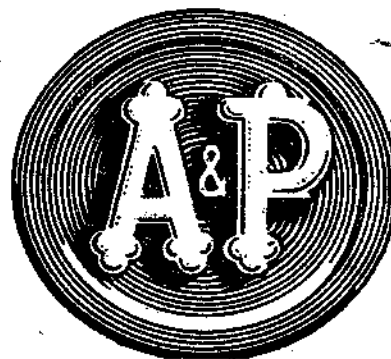

The lower prices you are finding in A & P stores, coming as they do at a time when all of us are concerned with the high cost of living, have prompted many of our customers to ask us what the food price outlook is. Are there going to be further price reductions in these and other foods?

Frankly, it is impossible for anyone to predict future retail food prices without knowing whether the break in the commodity market is temporary or the beginning of a general trend. Grocers do not control the price they must pay for food. They can lower retail prices only to the extent to which they buy wisely, keep their own costs and profits down and pass along savings resulting from lower wholesale prices to their customer.

We base our retail price on the cost to us, plus our low cost of doing business, which includes our small profit of about 1 1/2 cents on each dollar of sales.

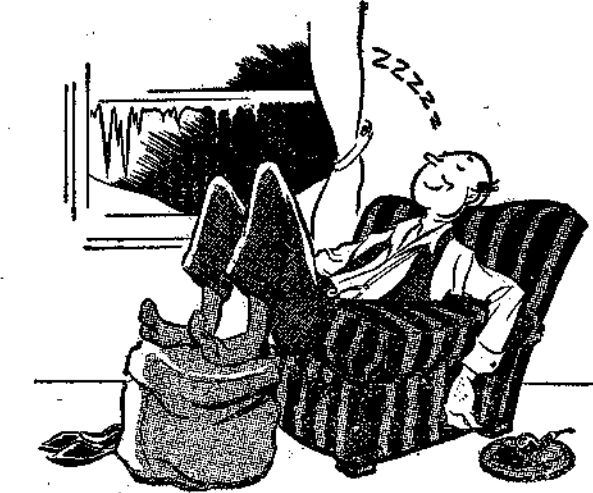

Therefore, we can say A & P prices will follow the market trend and that any further reduction in the cost of food to us, or in our costs of doing business, will promptly result in lower prices in our stores.

You can count on A & P to give you lower prices whenever and wherever it is possible. You can trust A & P to give you the most quality food for your money.

Woman's World
Give Meals Proper Background With Placemats Made at Home

By Erta Haley

PERHAPS you've noticed that you have just as nice china and silver as your friend across the street, but there's something so much more effective about her table when it's set, than yours. Or, perhaps you've seen your things used in table settings made up by someone else, and they always seem to look prettier.

The secret of a good looking dining table is not just in the dishes and cutlery you use. Just as important for setting it off properly is the kind of background you give it.

Linens—and by this we refer to cotton and rayon as well as linen—can add to or detract from your dishes. Sometimes a note of gaiety and a splash of color are essential, while at other times a quiet subdued effect is needed.

Well, you say, I don't have a great many linens so that I can pick or choose just exactly what I'd like. This is where your ingenuity comes in. If you can't buy new materials, see what you can do with old. Actually some sugar sacks, dyed to just the right tone and applied with the help of a pattern, may give you a set or two for your table, which is all you need.

Color is being used much more extensively on the table than ever before. White is still good, but you'll admit that for a gay family supper you can create the mood more appropriately if you set the table with delicate greens or a warm orange set of placemats.

Worn Tablecloths Make Neat Placemats
Very often tablecloths of linen, rayon or cotton become scorched and worn, and as such they no longer can be used for table settings.

Remnant bundles yield... things. They do, however, have much good material in them and might be made into placemats.

Before you make the placemats themselves, you may want to touch up the color to a certain extent. Select this according to the china with which you plan to use it. If you have bright-colored pottery dishes, for example, you'll want to choose one of the so-called festa colors—red pepper, chili green, patio fuchsia or siesta violet.

Dye the whole piece of material before cutting down to mats and napkins so that you can be sure the color is even and smooth and every-

Interesting placemats. thing will match. After this is done, press the material carefully and cut.

Placemats are usually cut 11 by 17 inches. Luncheon napkins are cut 17 inches square, dinner napkins 19 inches, while tea or bridge napkins are 11 1/4 inches square.

You may fringe the edges for a quick and easy finish. Or, if you have the time and inclination, hand hemming is a fine and traditional edging.

Be Smart!

It's easily the hit of the year, this lovely draped neckline! Equally beautiful in lustrous satin, the dull glow of crepe or in crisp taffets. It's especially popular with the younger set although wonderfully flattering to all.

Felt Picture Hat

This apple green felt picture hat, designed by Cyrille Mills, has an open crown. The long matching taffeta ribbon which encircles the crown may be draped across one shoulder or it may stream down the back. A scarlet rose is poised on the shoulder and on one side of the hat.

Another interesting finish is to hemstitch the edging, then cut it to give a picot effect.

Other nice finishes are coarse lace or tating, binding the edge with bias tape in self or contrasting color, or even edging with decorative braid or rick-rack.

Use Damask Cloth For Formal Setting

An old damask that has lost its original crisp, high luster look, still may have considerable use. First, dye it pastel pink, a rich deep green, creamy yellow or golden peach. Any of these colors heightens the original pattern of the damask and gives the material new beauty.

After this has been carefully hand-hemmed—and this is really the only type of edging that really looks proper on damask—you may wish to monogram it. This adds even more elegance to the material.

Monograms usually are white if they are on white linens; in fact, some authorities never make an exception. However, if you have dyed the material as I have suggested, the monogram may be a slightly deeper or lighter shade of the material. It may even be in contrast to it.

Braided Mats Add Interest to Meals

For informal entertaining, braided mats make an unusually nice table setting. Ransack the remnant bag for scraps, or use feed or sugar sacks dyed to desired colors. Monotone colored mats are best with multi-colored china, while if your dishes are solid colors you may want to work out two or three-colored effects.

Dye the scraps the proper shade and cut into strips. Fold raw edges to the center, then fold again and you are ready to braid. The mats are made slightly larger than the standard 11 by 17 inches.

Table settings are informal with braided mats, and centerpiece should be very simple. You might like two or three fruits attractively arranged, or you might try gourds.

Mats May Contrast With Chinaware

If you have some lovely dusty pink and white china, see how much more attractive your table will be with mats of a deep rich green. Or, what about picking up the lime green shade in a set of dishes and pairing these mats with cocoa brown napkins.

Choose other colors from the china, and either carry them out and contrast with the napkins; or, use mats to contrast the colors in the china and have napkins matched to the china. There are many interesting combinations available.

STITCH IN TIME

Many housewives are prone to neglect their housework during busy seasons, but that means double or triple duty when the work really is done. Home management specialists advise housewives to devote a little time each day to things that eventually must be done, never letting the entire house go until it's drudgery to clean it. For example, specialists advise washing a pair or two of curtains at a time throughout the year instead of having a general curtain-washing time at infrequent intervals.

New Drug Used To Block Nerves

Synthetic Chemical Called Dibenamine May Obviate Need for Surgery.

NEW YORK.—A new synthetic chemical called dibenamine, which acts as a nerve-blocking agent and, if successful, would eliminate the necessity for surgery of the sympathetic nervous system, was described at the annual meeting of the American Society of Anesthesiologists.

An authority on drugs and narcotics, Dr. Louis S. Goodman of Salt Lake City, professor of pharmacology at University of Utah, gave an optimistic report of dibenamine's effectiveness. He emphasized that it had not been made available yet to any but chemists or research scientists and still was in the experimental stage.

Dr. Goodman reported, however, that it was being studied for its possible effects on hypertension (high blood pressure) in a number of hospitals and laboratories of the country. It also could be a valuable therapeutic agent in connection with peripheral-vascular diseases, he said.

Blocks Nerve Action.
The drug's action was said to have blocked nerves, by preventing the muscle cell from responding to nerve impulses, just as effectively as if the nerve had been removed surgically. Dibenamine, according to Dr. Goodman, produced continuous effectiveness from a matter of hours to two or three days, depending upon the dosage.

It is introduced intravenously only at five milligrams to a kilogram (about two pounds, two ounces) of body weight. Dr. Goodman reported that it helped control blood pressure and the heart rate. He voiced caution against proclaiming any curative qualities for dibenamine but said it was being studied as a potential therapeutic agent.

In the category of peripheral-vascular diseases that might be affected, he mentioned Raynaud's disease and Buerger's disease. In both a better blood supply is needed to prevent eventual setting-in of gangrene. Similarly, in frostbite, an injection of dibenamine in the area of healthy blood vessels surrounding the affected parts may be successful, he said.

The drug was made first in 1945 by Dr. William Gump, chief chemist of Givaudan-Delawanna company in New Jersey, according to Dr. Goodman. Experimental work on it has been undertaken both by Dr. Goodman and his associate, Dr. Mark Nickerson. The former said it could eliminate the need for sympathectomy, surgery of a sympathetic nerve.

Substitute for Morphine.
Dr. Gordon K. Moe of University of Michigan told the symposium of good results obtained with tetraethyl ammonium in blocking the nerve action of the ganglia, a part of the nervous system.

Dr. Charles C. Scott of Lilly laboratories, Indianapolis, Ind., and Dr. Harris Isbell of United States public health service hospital, Lexington, Ky., described methadon, the potent new synthetic substitute for morphine. It can cause addiction, hence has been put under federal narcotic laws governing sale and dispensing of morphine and other opiates. However, using only half the dosage prescribed with morphine, methadon was said to be much more effective for relief of pain.

Methadon was synthesized first in Germany during the war by chemists of the I. G. Farbenindustrie. It is known also as amidon and dolophine. It has been termed successful in relieving pain in cancer patients and in suppressing withdrawal symptoms in morphine addicts.

Large Russian Wolves Kept On Run by Teams of Hunters

MOSCOW.—Large Russian wolves which during the war multiplied in the Moscow area to the extent that they became a danger to livestock, are now on the run.

Hunting teams have been out on the trail after the gray thieves, who in one day alone and in one county of the Moscow region, killed 20 sheep.

The Moscow Hunting club has sent out 54 hunters as constant observers and set up 19 wolf-hunting teams with 97 huntsmen.

The Evening Moscow reports that the huntsmen brought in 37 wolves to date. One team got four in one day.

Purge of Japanese Teachers Includes Avowed Communist

TOKYO.—Nearly half the Japanese teachers screened by a commission of the Japanese education ministry have been purged, including one Communist.

The commission announced that out of 225 teachers screened, 105 had been rejected as unfit. One purged was Mrs. Yayoi Yoshida, director of Tokyo Women's college. Another was Shinichi Matsumoto, director of Central Labor school.

Rejection of Matsumoto was one of the first known instances in which a Communist was purged. Previously, purge lists have consisted chiefly of prewar ultra-nationalists and war criminals.

Kohlrabi is a curious vegetable. It is an above-the-ground turnip with leaves that sprout out like the scales of a fish. Cooking experts suggest preparing it exactly like a turnip—trim the leaves, pare and slice lengthwise. Cook in lightly-salted water for 20 minutes, drain and serve with melted butter or cream.

Just a God's Mess
The word mess comes from the Latin "missum," meaning sent or placed in position. Thus, the word came to mean a dish sent to the table, and eventually to describe the dining parties into which a ship's company or a regiment is divided.

Why Farmers Get High Potato Yields

Why some farmers get unusually high potato yields is told by D. L. Clananhan, Michigan State College farm crops specialist for the upper peninsula. He says that 25 years of potato growing contests sponsored by MSC's extension service has provided these important facts about potato growing:

During the first 12 years, an average of 25 growers qualified annually for the "300 bushel award". During the last 13 years, an average of 127 growers qualified for the high honor.

In 1924 a Manistee county grower, E. Parmlee, became the first producer of a crop averaging more than 500 bushels to the acre. Such yields are now common. Yields of 600 and 700 bushels are among the top, and last year, Frank Falkies, Delta county, produced nearly 800 bushels to the acre.

Contest entrants consistently produce three to four times greater average yields than the average Michigan potato farmer.

Nearly 85 percent of the contestants have used certified seed.

Preparation of the soil is an essential factor in success.

High yields usually come from crops planted on soil which had alfalfa, clover or grass sod turned under. Commercial fertilizer increased yields greatly.

Proper and adequate spraying throughout the season seems essential for high yields.

Although the number of Michigan farmers raising potatoes has shown a marked decrease, those specializing in the business have increased acreage and yields an acre in recent years.

SUGAR BEETS WILL BE A HIGH PROFIT CROP THIS YEAR!

Yes, again, sugar beets can be counted on to produce a high income for Michigan farmers in 1948. The price, stabilized by provisions of the Sugar Act of 1948, should be approximately as follows:

NET PRICE PER CWT. OF SUGAR	PRICE PER TON OF BEETS*
	Average Sugar Content
	15%	16%	17%
$7.00	$13.76	$14.58	$15.47
7.25	14.16	15.02	15.94
7.50	14.56	15.46	16.41
7.75	14.96	15.90	16.88

At $7.50 per cwt. net for sugar, beets yielding 8.5 tons and testing 16 per cent sugar would gross $131.41 per acre. After deducting cash costs for seed, fertilizer, hand labor and hauling, the 1948 beet crop should show a net cash return of $9.01 per ton—or $76.58 PER ACRE TO THE GROWER!

How many other crops actually will show so large a net cash return? Sugar beets are sturdy and tough—well able to withstand bad weather which spells failure for less hardy crops.

But this year, Michigan farmers must look beyond 1948.

Individual farm acreage allotments are almost certain to be imposed next year. That means 1948 probably will be the last year a Michigan farmer can grow as many acres as he desires. If this is so, planting a good acreage THIS YEAR will give him a higher allotment next year and in the years to come.

In crop rotation, sugar beets improve the productivity of the land. Their deep root action contributes a fertilization and drainage highly favorable to general farm crops.

The outlook for field labor is improved. There is every indication that enough workers will be on hand to do the job, and do it well.

This year, the farmer who looks at the profit to be made from sugar beets, the protection of his right to grow them and the benefits to his land will not consider whether to plant—but how many acres to plant.

Place your order for fertilizer now!
