Before contact was restored, Wehl's company was badly mauled and only eight men of his company returned.

The right side of his chest was crushed and his lungs punctured with ribs, Dr. H. T. Donahue, county coroner, said. The body had been dragged a distance of 15 feet. It is not known whether Mr. O'Connor was kicked by one of the horses or whether a wheel of the wagon which was loaded with manure passed over his body.

The team which had been borrowed to do work in the garden circled the field in their runaway and crashed into the O'Connor residence before they freed themselves from the wagon.

Rev. John J. Bozek will officiate at requiem high mass at St. Pancratius Church this (Friday) morning at nine-thirty o'clock. Rosary was recited Thursday evening and prayer services will be conducted Friday morning at the Little Funeral Home. Interment will be made in Elkland cemetery.

Three Met Death at a Railroad Crossing Near Richville Sunday

Wm. L. Miller, 22, of Reese and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, of Levelland, Texas, were killed at a grade crossing near Richville Sunday. The three came from Texas for a family reunion and were within a mile of their destination when the accident happened.

A New York Central passenger train struck their automobile as the young man's wife and their 18-month-old daughter, Susan, with relatives awaited the arrival of the trio.

Sheriff Wm. A. Monroe of Saginaw County said he was informed that the train signalled several times before reaching the crossing at a speed of 50 miles an hour.

Miller was employed by a Saginaw electrical firm and had been visiting his parents in Texas after company training in St. Louis.

Dale Henry Mossner, 17, of R. F. D. 2, Reese, died at three o'clock Sunday afternoon in Saginaw General Hospital of injuries received early that morning in an automobile accident on M-15, a half mile west of Richville.

According to Deputy Sheriff Max Harpham, who was called to the scene of the accident shortly after 6 a. m. Sunday, he found that the Model A Ford car Mossner was driving had left the pavement, crashed through a guard rail and jumped a roadside ditch. Mossner was thrown through the top of the car and lay on the other side of the ditch.

He was unconscious and injured internally Deputy Harpham said. The left rear wheel of the vehicle was found 125 yards west of the scene of the accident. The officer said he believed the wheel was broken off as the car went over the Michigan Central railroad tracks which cross M-15 at that point.

By Gene Alleman

Who's out on the end of a limb—Kim Sigler or the state legislature?

That was the interesting question at the state capital this week, following clock adjournment of the special session of the state legislature at midnight Wednesday, April 28.

Governor Sigler's pet reforms, such as his proposed streamlining of state government by a new state department of administration, four-year terms for state and county elective officials, and power to permit the governor to appoint the attorney general and secretary of state, were rejected by a Republican-dominated legislature.

And this during a presidential and state campaign year!

Rejected also were other planks in the Sigler program: Removal from the November ballot of proposed repeal of the sales tax diversion amendment; removal also of a call for a state constitutional convention; and a one-mill state property tax.

Legislators were of a majority opinion that the folks back home were not enthusiastic about these reform ideas. They also inclined to a belief that too many things were going to the voters in November for decision and that the Sigler reforms would add only to general confusion.

Rebuffed by the legislature, Governor Sigler declared, "My fight to try to improve Michigan's government is only beginning."

Previously he had warned legislative committees that he might call solons back for a second special session, should they decline to submit his program to the voters. He also considered making an appeal direct to the "jury"—the people—by circulating petitions to place the reform amendments on the November ballot.

There is every probability that he will employ the second and latter method rather than the first. Sigler now has a new campaign issue, wrapped up and tied, all ready to be tested. He is a dynamic public speaker; he enjoys audience contacts; he likes a good scrap. Never lacking in high courage and still convinced that he is right in his convictions how better government may be achieved, Governor Sigler is not likely to back down because of the legislators' rebuff. He is more apt to take his fight direct to the people.

The legislature did approve the governor's recommendation that an amendment to remove salary limitations of state officials and legislators be placed before the voters in November. Last week Attorney General Eugene F. Black ruled that the governor's expense allowance of $10,000 a year was unconstitutional. Legislators countered promptly, voting a "grant" of $12,500 to the governor for a total compensation of $20,000 instead of $17,500.

Ironically enough it was Black, selected personally by the governor for attorney general, who has displayed consistent independence to date by saying exactly what he thinks. Black has often done so bluntly and non-diplomatically in direct opposition to the man who picked him for the office.

Mr. Black has no concern for his political future. He expects to retire from office at the end of his present term. Particularly irritating to Mr. Black is the fact that 12 employees of his department receive more compensation from the State of Michigan than he does. This doesn't make sense to the young Port Huron attorney.

As Mr. Black was hand-picked by Governor Sigler at the 1946 Republican state convention for the post of attorney general, the legislators were cool to the governor's recommendation that the constitution should be amended whereby this office would become appointive rather than elective.

It all adds up to one thing, as we have often observed. People do not think alike. Presented with identical information, they react differently. Honest differences of opinion are to be expected as a natural course of events in a democracy.

The important thing is that the people should have access to complete information. This often comes through a popular debate of issues in which both sides are presented, and the people thus have an opportunity to choose.

Egg Hunt

A certain city dweller was inordinately proud of his small suburban farm, from which he commuted daily. One day he was proudly conducting a visitor over his rural acres.

"You have a nice little place here," the visitor remarked. "Yes, I have," was the reply. "A nice garden." "Yep."

"And some fine chickens." "Especially fine chickens." "You like chickens very much?" asked the visitor.

"Indeed, I do!" was the enthusiastic reply. "I tell you it is fine to take a basket every morning and go out after eggs."

At this point the little daughter of the amateur farmer brought the proceedings to a close by brightly chiming in: "Yes, sir, and sometimes we find one!"

MARRIED FOR MONEY

"Dear," said Mrs. Blake, "I think I'll appear in the charity show. What do you think people would say if I wore tights?"

Without looking up from his paper, Mr. Blake dourly replied: "They'd probably say I married you for your money."

"Press Release"

The United States government marks its press releases with the advance date of publication, and the more important ones carry an additional notation in red ink: "Confidential, Hold for Release."

From the department of agriculture one day arrived one of these red-inked dispatches, and the editors naturally took care to observe the release date.

At the proper time the item was published. It was a recipe for a new cake.

Congress Extends Gratuitous Insurance

Public Law 429, 80th Congress, (H. R. 4141) was signed by the President on March 3, 1948. The law amends sub section 602 (d) (5) of the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended, to extend for two years the time within which eligible persons may apply for gratuitous insurance benefits.

Congress amended the National Service Life Insurance Act of October 8, 1940 several times to provide a gratuitous government insurance coverage to certain persons in the armed forces who did not have already in force at least $5000 in government insurance because they (1) were on extended duty at outlying bases and therefore unable to comply with all the requirements of the original act, (2) had failed or neglected to apply for insurance in the expectation of peacetime service only; or (3) due to the sudden outbreak of the war had not sufficient time to apply for such insurance before engaging in combat.

The amount of gratuitous N. S. L. I. thus granted was only enough to make the total coverage (including any war risk insurance, United States government life insurance, and/or N. S. L. I. already in force) equal to $5000. This is known as gratuitous insurance since it was granted without formal application from the serviceman and all premiums are waived while it is in effect. This insurance applied particularly to servicemen who died in active service in line of duty on or after October 8, 1940, and before April 20, 1942, without having in force $5000 of insurance. Public Law 749, signed October 17, 1942, protected flying cadet or aviation students, Army or Navy, between October 8, 1940 and June 3, 1941, and died as the result of an aviation accident incurred in line of duty while in such active service, to the amount of $10,000.

Gratuitous insurance provides payments to dependents in the order named:

1. To the widow (or widower) of the insured, if living, and while unremarried.
2. If no widow (or widower) entitled, to the child or children of the insured if living, in equal shares.
3. If no widow (or widower) or child entitled, to the dependent mother or father of the insured, if living, in equal shares. The parent or parents must be shown to have been dependent as of date of death of the insured.

Surprise for Mom!

Miss Smith, young Joey's piano teacher, was having considerable trouble trying to get him to practice his exercises. Finally turning to him in despair, she said, "Joey, don't you want to be a great pianist?" "Ah, no," Joey spoke up. "These music lessons are just a waste of money. I'm going to be a prize-fighter when I grow up. But I'm keeping it from Mom as a surprise."

Marital Bliss

Wife: "I looked over the rest of the men at the party and I was so glad that I was married to you." Husband: "Thanks, Sweetheart!" Wife: "It's such a comfort to know that you have a husband that no other woman will try to steal."

No Harm Done
A man with a gun on his shoulder was walking down the street with his dog. An automobile approached. The dog ran directly in front of the car and was killed. The motorist stopped and expressed his grief to the owner of the dog. He took a $20 bill from his pocket and said: "Here, take that. Will that pay for losing your dog?" "Oh, yes," replied the man. "Everything is all right. I was taking him out to shoot him anyway."

Her Contribution

The six-year-old came home from school to tell the events of her school-day world. Among other things, she breathlessly related that she had a long conversation with her teacher. "Just what did you say?" asked her mother. The little lady proudly announced: "I said 'uh-huh' twice."

New Chemical Curbs Many Fruit Pests Tests Show Fungicide Effective in Orchard

Characterized as effective against a wide range of fruit pests and diseases, a new dinitro fungicide and insecticide for orchard use now is available commercially under the trade name of DN-289. It is a stable, clear solution containing eight ounces actual dinitro-secbutyl-phenol in each quart and is readily miscible with water.

DN-289 has proved effective as an insecticide for use in the dormant period against a variety of insects such as rosy apple aphid, currant aphid, black cherry aphid, mealy plum aphid and viburnum aphid, eye-spotted bud moth, cherry case-bearer, pear psylla and oyster shell scale on apple and lilac. Promising results also have been shown in control of San Jose scale, scurfy scale and the eggs of the European red mite.

As a fungicide, DN-289 has been used successfully for control of sooty blotch on pears.

Amount of the compound required to attain good control ranges from one quart to two quarts in 100 gallons of water. Aphids are controlled with one quart while two quarts are needed to kill bud moths, case-bearer and the pear psylla. Heavier concentrations may be needed to control oyster shell scale.

Research workers are conducting extensive tests to find other insects and diseases that may be controlled with the chemical, which was developed by Dow Chemical company.

Packaging of Poultry Is New Development

Farmers of tomorrow must be poultry merchandisers as well as producers if they are to compete successfully with the new "broiler factories." Progressive poultry raisers must keep attuned to the times if they are to meet the challenge of new developments in the industry.

Within a short time the consumer will have a wide range of selection for poultry and meat products. This will necessitate better merchandising on the part of the individual poultryman.

One of the principal means of meeting this challenge is for the poultry raiser to start selling chickens under brand names in an effort to promote his product for the time when consumer's again will be "choosy."

To accomplish this, good packaging is essential. Modern transparent packaging of ready-to-eat poultry will increase sales and profits.

Good packaging, as demonstrated by this cellophane-wrapped chicken, is good advertising.

Tests conducted with the same grade of poultry, half being sealed in flexible packages, the others without covering, proved that demand for the packaged birds was one to three times as large as for the unwrapped ones.

For packaging, cellophane, transparent regenerated cellulose film or a rubber hydrochloride film are available. They are moisture-proof, air-proof, strong, flexible and resistant to liquid and grease.

Pullets Termed Better Layers Than Old Hens

Further evidence of the importance of keeping only pullets for layers and selling all old hens is contained in tests conducted at western Kentucky substitution.

Average results over 11 years show that annual production of Barred Rock pullets was four dozen eggs per bird greater than that of hens. In the case of White Leghorns, pullets laid three dozen eggs per bird more than old hens.

Hewens, in Bad Axe. A birthday cake with lighted candles featured the meal and a floor lamp was presented to the guest of honor by his children. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Corkins the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Ike Albrant, son and two daughters of Cass City; Mr. and Mrs. Ben D. Jones and two daughters of Decker; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Waters and two daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Greig, son and daughter, and Jack Corkins, all of Detroit. Two sons were unable to attend.

ARCHERS INVITED

The Almont Archery Club has extended an invitation to the Cass City archers to meet with them on May 9 at 9:30 a. m. All local archers interested are to meet at Maier's Studio that morning at eight o'clock or phone 245 before that time so that arrangements may be made for cars.

HE WAS PREFERRED

WHEN a certain southern clothing manufacturer failed, he called his creditors together and induced them to accept notes for 10 per cent of their claims, payable in four months. The manufacturer's own brother, who happened to be numbered among the creditors, demurred, whereupon the bankrupt called him aside and said, "Now, brother, don't complain and I'll make you a preferred creditor." The brother piped down. But a few days later he returned and said, "I need my money. Can't you pay me now?"

"No, I'm broke," came the calm rejoinder, "and furthermore, I'm going to tell you something: I'm never going to be able to pay any of those notes."

"Not even mine?" the brother inquired.

"No, not even yours," was the plain reply.

"But," insisted the other, "I thought I was a preferred creditor."

"Oh, you are, you are," his brother assured him. "You know now you're not going to get your money, but all those other fellows won't know for four months!"

ANOTHER RECRUIT

Visitor—Well, and what are you going to be when you grow up, little boy?

Little boy—Well, after I've been President for a while to please mother, and a lawyer a while to please dad, I'm going to be the best pilot the army ever had.

The first child labor law of the world was passed by the English Parliament in 1802. It reduced the hours of labor to 12 per day.

Slight Misunderstanding
"Now," the lecturer asked, "is there a man in the audience who would let his wife be slandered and say nothing? If so, stand up."
A meek little man rose to his feet. The lecturer glared at him. "Do you mean to say you would let your wife be slandered and say nothing?" she cried.

"I'm sorry," the little man apologized. "I thought you said 'slaughtered'."

Outfoxing a Fox
A businessman came home one night looking very weary.
"You look tired, dear," said his wife sympathetically. "Have you had a very busy day at the office?"
"Well, not exactly; but you see, the office boy came in with the old story of going to his grandmother's funeral, so I decided to teach him a lesson and accompany him."

"Of course, you found it was a football match?"
"No such luck," he said with a rueful grin. "It was his grandmother's funeral!"

A RARE STEAK

Farmer: "You can't go wrong on this mare, sir. She's sound, gentle, a good worker and a fine saddle horse."

City Slicker: "What I want to know, is she tender?"

Sufferin' Cats

To the woman lecturer the rapt attention of the little man in the third row aisle seat was flattering, but a little disconcerting. She had learned from long experience that a listener sometimes weighs the words of a lecturer with extra care. Nevertheless the speaker continued her brave protest against the unfortunate fate of womankind.

"For centuries," she railed, "women have been misjudged and mistreated. They have been enslaved, humiliated, exploited, ridiculed. They have suffered in a million different ways."

Suddenly the little man in the third row aisle seat challenged: "But there is one way, madam, in which women never have and never will suffer."

"And how is that, sir?" the speaker angrily demanded.

The little man surveyed the audience carefully and making certain that he had their undivided attention, he replied: "They have never suffered in silence."

GOOD-NATURED COW

"I've got a cow I want to sell you, Charlie."
"Yes? Would she fit into my Guernsey herd?"
"No; I dunno as she would."
"Does she give lots of milk?"
"No; I can't say as she gives lots of milk, but I can tell you this: She's a kind, gentle, good natured old cow, and if she's got any milk she'll give it to you."

Big Toe's Wiggle Termed Evidence Of Man's Origin

Significant Motion Is First Sign of Primitive Escape Reaction.

SAN FRANCISCO.—A peculiar movement of modern man's big toe is considered medical evidence of his descent from a tree-climbing creature, in the opinion of an internationally known neurologist.

This significant little motion is the first outward sign of a primitive escape reaction involving the muscles of the feet and legs.

The reaction leads back to a primitive part of the brain which man still carries around but seldom uses. In the course of human development, this "old brain" was superseded by the part which evolved to govern motion by the thinking process.

Since then, the old brain has been a sort of prisoner of the higher brain. But once in a while it breaks loose.

'New' and 'Old' Brain.

This happens when the higher brain becomes injured or diseased. Then the old brain takes over the job of bossing whatever muscles the higher brain is unable to control because of illness.

An upturning of the big toe when the bottom of the foot is stroked long has been known among neurologists as evidence of disease or injury in the part of the higher brain which controls the muscles.

It was discovered 50 years ago by Dr. Joseph Francois Felix Babinski, Paris physician.

Dr. Robert Wartenberg, of University of California medical school, who worked under Babinski 20 years ago and who also is an authority of reflexes, has traced the big-toe movement to the workings of the old brain.

He reported his findings recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Complicated Reaction.

Putting together his own researches and the findings of many other neurologists, Dr. Wartenberg determined that the toe movement was a small part of a complicated muscular reaction involving these telltale movements:

Pressure against the sole of the foot is a signal to the old brain to start the climbing motion.

The sole of the foot turns inward to present the largest possible clinging surface to the object to be climbed. The smaller toes spread apart to increase this clinging ability.

The leg involuntarily bends at the knee, lifting the foot for an upward step. The opposite leg straightens out, preparatory to duplicating the motions of the stimulated leg.

These movements, Dr. Wartenberg adds, plainly are the natural ones for climbing as it is done by the primates; for example, a monkey ascending a coconut tree.

Maddened by Hunger, Dogs

Terrorize Farm Community

ABINGTON, MASS.—A pack of 50 wild dogs which has been terrorizing the countryside for several weeks, killing and devouring livestock, was being stalked in their lairs by farmers determined to rid the community of the menace.

While the posse pushed through the heavy thicket section, town officials issued a warning to parents, cautioning them against allowing their children to wander in woodland or farm sections for fear the hunger-maddened dogs might attack them. Deprived of their normal source of food by the deep snows and bitter cold that sent small wildlife into their burrows, the vicious dogs turned to domestic livestock for their prey.

Four large hogs, valued at $200, were torn to pieces in the piggery of Anthony Gawronski. Later, Gawronski shot and killed one of the wild canines as the pack attempted to break into his henhouse.

Two more dogs met the same fate at the farm of Pasquale Cacialso, where only a few days previously they tore to pieces a dozen turkeys.

Missing Eye Provides Clue

In Arresting Purse Stealer

PHILADELPHIA.—Mrs. Dora Baker, 49, was arrested on a charge of purse stealing. Frank Grube, a railroad detective, had no trouble recognizing her. The owner of the purse, Mrs. Bessie Ehnann, a nurse, of Alden, had provided the necessary clue.

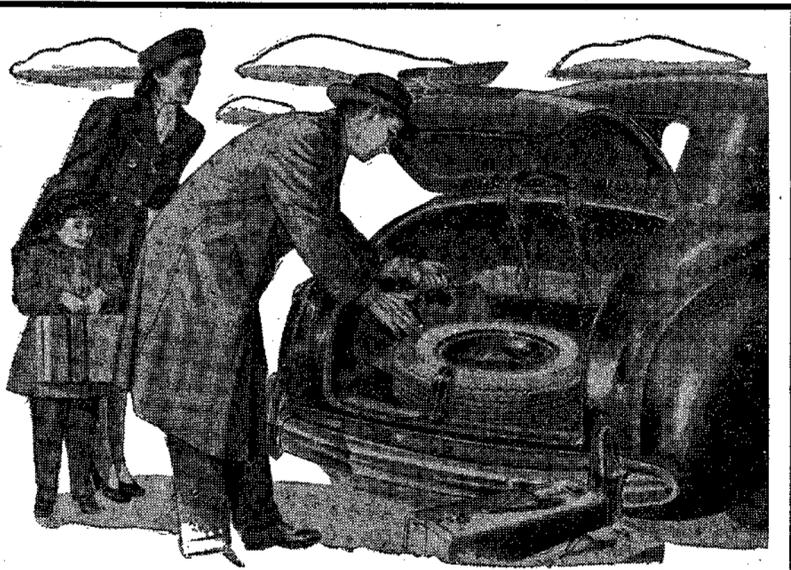

Mrs. Baker has only one eye. Her right eye, blind since birth, was removed three weeks previously.

Appearing before Magistrate Benjamin Schwartz, Mrs. Baker testified that her handicap had led her to steal.

"I can't get work with only one eye," she said. "I had to steal to live." The $40 taken from Mrs. Ehnann's purse, she told the court, went to pay overdue room rent.

Mrs. Ehnann asked that the charges be dropped. Magistrate Schwartz turned Mrs. Baker over to municipal court.

"Perhaps they can provide an artificial eye," he said, sympathetically, "and straighten out your troubles."

There's a very fine moral in there

Look inside the luggage compartment of almost any car and you'll find a spare wheel and tire.

A car only rides on four wheels—but that fifth wheel is standard equipment on all cars.

Sooner or later the car owner gets full use out of that spare. And he may want it pretty suddenly in an emergency.

It's exactly like that security fund you can accumulate by buying U. S.

Security Bonds. It's not much trouble to carry—but sooner or later you're going to get full use out of it, and it may look like a fairy godmother in an emergency.

And it's got one thing all over a spare tire. It increases in value steadily—1/3 every ten years.

And you'll be doing your part to preserve a stabilized economy—because wise savings mean fewer dollars in the market place bidding up the prices of scarce goods.

Look who gets squeezed!

Union leaders representing less than one-tenth of railroad employees reject recommendations of President's Emergency board—refuse to negotiate except on their own terms—threaten to paralyze nation by strike!

THE LEADERS of three railroad unions, representing less than one-tenth of all railroad employees, have called a railroad strike that would paralyze the nation.

These leaders refuse to accept a 15 1/2 cents an hour wage increase retroactive to November 1, 1947. This increase was recommended by an impartial Emergency Board appointed by President Truman.

This increase of 15 1/2 cents already has been accepted by the 19 other railroad unions. But the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's Union of North America won't accept what more than 90% of all railroad employees have accepted. They have called a strike to get more!

Unions refuse rules discussion
Certain rules changes demanded by these union leaders—which would increase wages still further—were recommended by the Board. But the union leaders want more—they demand that the railroads put into effect ALL the changes they asked for, including those the Board felt should be denied.

On top of this, they insist that certain rules changes proposed by the railroads be withdrawn—in spite of the fact that the Board recommended them! These union leaders have refused to negotiate except upon these arbitrary terms.

Greater wage increase not justified
Engineers and firemen are among the highest paid of all employees in America, as figures in the box show. This strike threat doesn't justify giving a greater increase than other railroad workers received.

Emergency Boards are a means provided by the Railway Labor Act in the public interest to avoid strikes. The President's Board, after hearing evidence for 33 days, made recommendations based on all the facts in the case. The railroads have accepted these recommendations.

Who's to blame?
Although they deplored so large an extra cost burden, the railroads accepted the report of the Board because they felt it was in the public interest to uphold the spirit and intent of the Railway Labor Act.

In contrast, this small group of railroad union leaders are attempting to flout the intent and spirit of the Railway Labor Act, and dictate their own terms. They have dictated a paralyzing railroad strike. You will be the victim!

How long will the American public stand for the undemocratic, arbitrary, and abusive use of the right to strike and the disregard of the obligation to provide transportation? How long can the American people permit a few dictatorial union leaders to defy the processes provided for peaceful settlement of disputes?

Force seldom produces settlements that are either fair or lasting. Moreover, a point is often reached when personal interests must be held subordinate to the greater public welfare. That is why the railroads have accepted the Emergency Board recommendations. That is also why the leaders of these three unions should reconsider their decision to call a paralyzing strike.

What's in a Name?

HANS WAGNER, one-time great Pittsburgh infielder, tells of two rookies who once came up to the Pirates at the end of a season.

The manager wanted to try them out at the plate, so he decided to give them a turn at bat one day when his team had a good lead.

The first rookie approached the plate.

"What's your name and who are you batting for?" the umpire asked.

"My name's Riggs and I'm batting for myself," was the fast reply.

The umpire's face crimsoned, but he allowed the remark to pass.

When the second rookie—a small, shy boy—came up, the umpire was in no mood for another wisecrack.

"And what's your name and for whom are you batting?" he asked.

The newcomer hesitated, coughed, and then blurted, "Boo!"

"This was too much. Flinging his mask to the ground, shaking an angry finger before the rookie's face, the umpire yelled, "Out of the game."

But the youth was completely innocent. His name was Boo—Everett Boo.

Army Pilots Find Three, Not One, Magnetic Poles

Research in Frigid Regions Explains Mystery of Apparent 'Shift.'

WASHINGTON.—After more than 12 months of intensive research in the frigid Alaskan polar regions, the army air forces have solved the mystery raised by the 9,422-mile nonstop flight of the Pegasus Dreamboat from Honolulu to Cairo, Egypt, last year.

The Dreamboat's flight proved feasibility of regular air communications over the top of the world, but it also caused a stir in scientific circles by reporting an apparent "shift" in the magnetic North Pole.

The navigator of the B-29 reported the magnetic pole more than 200 miles off its previously charted position.

Some scientists explained at the time that this was caused by the fact that the magnetic pole was a large oval shaped area.

The air force has revealed that as the result of more than 1,000 variation readings, it has discovered that there are three, and not just one, magnetic North Poles.

Major Pole Located. Major pole in the elliptical magnetic field was determined to be on Prince of Wales island, with two minor poles on Bathurst island and Boothia peninsula.

It was the minor magnetic pole on the lower tip of the ellipse on Boothia peninsula which had always been given previously as the location of "the pole."

Exploratory work done by the 46th reconnaissance squadron showed that the center of the magnetic field was 1,750 miles northeast of Ladd field, Fairbanks, Alaska.

The squadron flew more than 100 flights over the geographic North Pole and its immediate vicinity and, for the first time, obtained a celestial "fix" over the geographic pole.

This was on a night flight in October, 1946. An air force navigator, by plotting his exact location according to the stars, determined he was directly over the geographic North Pole.

Test Combat Conditions. In all, the squadron, sent to Alaska in June, 1946, as the pioneer combat-type unit to attempt operations under polar conditions, flew more than 5,000 hours and one million miles to test material and personnel.

When the 46th arrived in Alaska, navigators found their maps marked with large white areas indicating unexplored fields. They were told that conventional means of navigation could not be used in the polar regions.

In their first missions, navigation was difficult. They found many of the landmarks indicated on the map were out of position and that small islands, closely grouped, in some instances were shown as large bodies of land.

In the past year, pilots have worked out a system of reference-heading navigation enabling the planes to fly anywhere and to know their location to within one mile.

To keep the track flown by the aircraft using this grid system, radar operators have learned to estimate wind, drift and ground speed to a fine margin even through an over-cast.

Ground speed can be computed to within five knots.

Thimble of Gold Settled Battle Over Pirate Loot

NEW ORLEANS.—Founding golden doubloons into thimbles might appear to the 20th century mind to be an odd way to make sewing attractive.

But, as Justice of the Peace Mercedes Adams will tell you, the thimble-making method solved at least two loot arguments for the notorious Gulf coast pirate, Jean LaFitte.

Judge Adams owns one of two known thimbles salvaged from the LaFitte gang. According to her information, the golden gadget, which doesn't fit any of her fingers, resulted from a division of piratical spoils.

"Each buccaneer had to have his exact share," she explained. "One time, when everything had been divided equally, two golden Spanish doubloons remained. LaFitte settled the matter by hammering the coins into a thimble for the wife of one of his men."

'True Love' Wins Once Again; Clears Up Mistaken Identity

EVANSTON, ILL.—"True love" can accomplish miracles, and it saved Ley McFarland, a waiter, from a case of mistaken identity.

Two enterprising Evanston detectives, Robert Labbe and Elmer Dorband, heard on the radio that a man with "true love" tattooed on his fingers was wanted in Kentucky.

They stopped for lunch and, when McFarland came up to serve them, they noticed "true love" tattooed on his fingers. The detectives questioned McFarland and arrested him when he told them he came from Woodbine, Ky.

Later, fingerprint records cleared the waiter, and the detectives learned, to their chagrin, they had listened to a radio mystery thriller.

The Rebel Leaves at One

By MARION WALLS

"IT ISN'T that I don't love you. Stan! I want to do something else before I settle down to marriage—I want to learn how to design, I—oh, what's the use! You won't understand it."

Reaching up, Stan broke off a twig from the chinaberry tree. "No, I guess I can't," he admitted. "I guess I belong to the old-fashioned school which thinks marriage means everything to a girl."

The girl touched his arm. "I do love you, Stan; and I want to marry you. But not now, I want to amount to something first, be somebody."

Unexpectedly, she laid a swift kiss upon his cheek. "Run along back to your farm, dear," she advised. "The Rebel leaves at one in the morning and I must finish packing. But I'll be looking for you to-night."

Anita raced up the steps to her room on the second floor of Mrs. Petrilla's boarding house. It was several hours later that Mrs. Petrilla called: "Miss Davilenoi! Telephone! And hurry, please."

Fuming, Anita disconnected the iron. She had no time for idle conversations this day. "Hello—Stan!" Her breath quickened.

"Anita, can you help me out for a little while? Katja's boy, Ben, cut himself with an axe and Joe had to take him to the hospital. Mom's still in bed, and that leaves me in a jam—Katja's baby is here to tend to. Jim Haggarty said he could bring you out."

Anita's response was immediate. "Sure, I'll come. Tell Jim I'll be ready in 15 minutes."

Anita was relieved when Jim's truck turned into the Dusak's drive. Stan was sitting on the porch holding the baby.

With a relieved smile, he laid the child in Anita's arms. "He's teething, the little rascal won't let you put him down."

"Run along," she encouraged. "I'll put the baby to sleep."

Going into the house, Anita put the child to bed and went in to see about Stan's mother. She was sleeping, sunshine spraying across the quilt. Drawing the shades, Anita went out noiselessly.

Anita wandered back into the big room. On the wall hung an oil painting; bold splashes of color about a mill and a rushing brook. Puzzled, Anita was still staring when she heard quick steps upon the porch.

"IT WAS Katja, worn but with triumph in her eyes. "Ben's going to be all right!" she cried, taking Anita's hand. "I stopped by and told Stan. How's Mom—and the baby?"

"Your mother is still sleeping," replied Anita softly. Her eyes went again to the painting. "Katja, there's something familiar about that scene. Where did you get that picture?"

The older woman's eyes went briefly to the wall. "Oh, that's the old mill down near Stoneville. I painted it one summer. Let's have a bit of tea—I need a pick-up."

In amazement, Anita said: "You painted this? Why, Katja, it's beautiful." Following the other woman into the kitchen, she probed: "Katja, it's a shame you didn't try to develop your talent. You might have created something beautiful for all the world to see!"

Katja was thoughtful. "I'll admit that in the beginning, I did wonder . . . but after Joe and I were married . . . no, Anita, I'm never sorry any more."

Stan came tramping up the steps. "Say, I'm no tea drinker," he called, "but you can pour me a cup now."

Leaning against the cupboard, he said to Anita: "I can run you back to town now that Katja has come."

"There's no hurry," she said, not looking at him.

"But your packing—and the Rebel leaves at one," he reminded her.

She smiled. "Maybe some rebels just want to leave, Stan, and don't ever really go."

She was in his arms now. Katja had left them but it was to Katja she was really speaking when she whispered, her mouth against his, "I'll never be sorry any more."

Bobcat Fights No More; Picks Bus for Opponent

NASHVILLE, TENN.—A snarling bobcat attacked a bus on a Tennessee mountain highway. The bobcat lost.

Driver Herschel Craun was easing his big bus over Racecon mountain, outside Chattanooga, when the cat leaped from a big oak tree and hurled itself against the bus windshield.

Craun stopped, picked up the carcass of the 42-inch long, 14½-pound animal and brought it on to Nashville.

Veteran Still Lives Battle Experiences

Psychiatrist Reports Theft Was Made Under Delusion.

BALTIMORE.—An unnerved war veteran was freed on a burglary charge when a court psychiatrist reported he broke into a shop and stole a radio under the delusion he was getting ammunition for his buddies.

Dr. Jacob H. Conn testified Wilbur Shattuck's "anxiety hysteria" was confirmed twice through examination after he had been hypnotized and again under the influence of a "truth serum."

The 32-year-old veteran of the Bougainville campaign is under treatment at a veterans' hospital here.

Dr. Conn reported that under hypnosis Shattuck writhed around, slapping at flies and mosquitoes, muttered "vines . . . vines," and talked about comrades blown to pieces in the next fox hole.

One of the examining psychiatrists mentioned a truck . . . "They need ammo. I took a truck . . . got ammo," Dr. Conn quoted Shattuck.

The psychiatrist said the hypnosis examination produced one sequence in which Shattuck described how he slit a Jap's throat in a struggle at a sentry post.

There was another in which a comrade was stalked to an ant hill, another in which he described how Japs had cut a finger from an American captive's hand each day and finally his ears and tongue.

The specialist conceded that patients under hypnotic examination may sometimes exaggerate. He said further tests using truth serum and other evidence convinced him the diagnosis is correct in this case.

"He attacked his wife and crawled under the bed, thinking the Japs had him," Dr. Conn reported.

"Everything indicates it was a valid, authentic hypnotic experience which is not being irritated. It is a very complex psychological problem of an emotional unstable veteran who has not been able to digest his war experiences."

Simulated Spring Speeds Up Romance Among Queen Bees

ORANGE, CALIF.—Bees are going to do their romancing early this year in some California hives, thanks to the ingenuity of Leroy Bell, Orange apiarist, who has become a specialist in simulating spring weather.

Seeking to offer his queen bees on the market before nature takes its hand in normally increasing the population, Bell had engineers of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company devise a weather system that stirs the dormant urge in indifferent drones.

The "spring-maker" automatically controls temperature in hives at a balmy 80 to 85 degrees and provides relative humidity of 60 to 65 per cent. To carry the deception further, Bell has artificial illumination that brings dawn earlier and delays "sunset."

He lets California sunshine take care of the daylight hours, when the queens actually mate out of doors, but the simulated springtime of the hives speeds the grating of larvae from which new queens emerge.

'Perfect Landlord' Reveals Formula to Please Tenants

CLEVELAND.—Mayer I. Blum of Philadelphia, heralded as "the world's perfect landlord," outlined his success formula to fellow Apartment House Managers of America, in convention here.

Show her your tenants with personal attention, Blum said, and use automatic devices to operate your building wherever possible.

Blum, who sends flowers to his families on wedding anniversaries, said his policy had paid off in harmonious relationships for 20 years.

Delegates were impressed when Blum told them that 511 out of 520 of his tenants signed leases immediately when the government permitted a 15 per cent rent increase.

made on the site of the new Indianfields Twp. Park, located just north of the Caro State Hospital in Section 17, Indianfields. This planting is in charge of the Caro Exchange Club whose members will take part in the tree planting activities beginning at 1:30 p. m., next Thursday afternoon. These 10,000 pine trees are furnished free to the Caro Exchange Club by the Tuscola Soil Conservation District.

The district's mechanical tree planters will also be used at this demonstration. Dean Gordon and other members of the Exchange Tree Planting Committee will be in charge.

Local farmers and other land owners interested in reforestation are urged to attend one or both of these tree planting days.

There are at least 75,000 acres of sandy infertile soils in Tuscola County which are suited only to the growth of forest trees. It will take 75 million trees to plant such acreage. At present day prices it would cost approximately $750,000.00 to plant this acreage which should yield about $54,250,000 in lumber in 75 years. "This certainly is good land use," says Norris W. Wilber, county agricultural agent.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS PLANT 10,000 EVERGREEN TREES

County 4-H Service Club, 500 trees.

The plantings were made on individual members' farms. At the Tuscola and the LaFevre Schools windbreaks were planted.

All land on which the trees were planted is land not suited for crop or pasture farming. Hence, a wise use of the land is being accomplished.

Local 4-H club leaders who gave assistance in the tree planting work are: Dor Valentine, Fostoria; Francis Ode, Mayville; Tony Gohs, Mayville; Mrs. Maxine Brown, Vassar; Mrs. Margaret Starkey, Caro; Mrs. Ealy Ackerman, Unionville; Don Schafer, Unionville; Mrs. Sadie VanPetten, Reese; Mrs. Evelyn Poor, Tuscola.

The soil conservation district tree planter was used in two different clubs where the plantings were large.

Scotch Pine, Jack Pine, Norway Pine, White Pine and Black Spruce were the species planted. A few hundred bramble plants of wild rose and honeysuckle were set for game cover.

The first Building and Loan Association in the United States was organized in Philadelphia in 1885.

The carnation, a fragrant flower belonging to the pink family, is native of southwest Europe. It has been cultivated for more than 2,000 years.

us. So we are all thanking you for the goodness you brought us. Good health to you from all of us.

ELLI LINDHOLM, Jampsa, Tervaniemi, Finland.

Finland, March 29, 1948.

Many hearty greetings does this letter bring to you, my understanding friends, and many thousand thanks for the gift package which I received night before last, which was the eve of Easter. The sender can't anticipate the good it has brought us. With our large family it helps our family life since with our ration cards it is hard to adjust ourselves. Even in normal times we can't have everything we need. So we with the large families receive a little help from welfare. Otherwise we here are doing well.

Families that have 10 receive gift packages. We have four boys and four girls and the girls are the oldest. My husband was in the army during the whole war.

Tendering you our very best wishes.

Sincerely, SAARA SELIN.

Haaga, Mar. 23, 1948.

Helpful Sender:

Thanks from my heart for the food package that I just received. Everything in it was very good. I can't find words to thank you and I have never before received a CARE package.

I am a poor widow 62 years old. My work is to take care of and be guardian to four grandchildren. They all are war orphans since their mothers have died since the war ended. Oldest of the children is the boy, Peter, 17 years; who goes to work, Pirkka is the girl, 15 years old, and Lila, 13 years old, who goes to school. These are my son's children. He was killed in the war in 1940 and his wife died in 1946 of tuberculosis after being in a hospital for five years.

And still I have my daughter's child, Tuula, who is seven years old. Her father died of tuberculosis in 1941 while he was in the army. Tuula's mother died in 1946 of liver trouble, and now Tuula has a touch of tuberculosis.

This package has surely helped out a lot since I am not able to go out to work.

Again I thank you and also from the children.

Sincerely, IDA SALAVA

Broken Silence

Mother was entertaining her bridge club when the pattering of tiny feet was heard on the stairs. She raised her hand for silence. "Hush! The children are about to deliver their good night message. It always gives me such a humble feeling to hear them. Listen!"

There was a moment of silence—then shyly: "Mama, Willie found a bedbug!"
