Should Have Told Him An expert had condescended to teach a new member to play golf. Pointing to the flag on the green, he explained: "You must drive the ball as near to that flag as you can." The novice drove and the ball stopped within a foot of the hole. The expert was amazed, but the other merely inquired: "What do I

"You knock it into the hole," re plied the expert. "Into the hole!" exclaimed the novice. "Why didn't you tell me that in the first place?"

Excavators Discover Heard of Gold Coins

Buried Wealth Found at Site Of New School Building.

MONTEREY, CALIF.-Hundreds of men, women and children were "prospecting" with shovels, rakes, trowels, knives, forks and even old mining tools in a gold rush that swept Monterey.

The "bonanza" is located in a 100by-160-foot school excavation site, only two blocks from the main street of this historic California city.

It's not nuggets the "prospectors" are after, but $20 gold coins. Already more than 125 of the coins have been dug up by the treasureseekers. Their nominal value is more than $2,500, but they are worth considerably more because the coins are collectors' items.

One of the $20 pieces, dated 1895, has a catalog value of $60. Most of the coins thus far discovered were 'minted between 1890 and 1900 and nearly all are in excellent condition.

The coins were buried in the lot nearly half a century ago by Will H. Martin, wealthy Monterey property owner who died in 1913.

.The modern-day gold rush began after the first coin of the cache was found by Damon Burgess, employee of a construction company excavating the site for a new music school building. The word got around town swiftly and the rush was on.

One of the first to reach the scene was a man with a bulldozer which immediately clawed 15 of the coins out of the earth.

Martin's nephew, Carmel Martin, former Monterey mayor, bought out a hardware store in order to provide digging tools for the amateur prospectors and presided over the treasure hunt.

Repentant Thief Returns Loot Taken While 'Tipsy'

CARMEL, CALIF.-Mrs. B. L. Coates was dismayed when someone burglarized her home of a camera, light meter, a jeweled elk's tooth, a fountain pen and a few items of jewelry. She was amazed a week later when all of the loot was returned in a parcel post package mailed from Los Angeles. Also enclosed was an unsigned note which said:

"I am returning your things that I picked up one night while intoxicated. This is everything I found on my person when my mind began to function properly. Please forgive me for this awful thing I have done. I swear I'll never drink again."
