Swing-Out to Usher in Week Of Commencement

Senior Class Leaves Next Thursday for Four-Day Lake Cruise

Commencement festivities will begin for Cass City High School's seventy seniors next Monday morning when the traditional Swing-Out ceremonies will be held. Led by the school band, and wearing their caps and gowns for the first time, the seniors will march from the Many Changes school to town and then return to the auditorium where a brief program in their honor will be presented. It will include talks by both student and faculty representatives and is being planned by the newly elected student president, Irving Parsch.

For the seniors, the last week of school will be a short one, since they leave Cass City early Thursday morning for Detroit where they will board the lake steamer Noronic for a four-day Great Lakes cruise. The departure from this port will be Saturday at five-thirty, with the ship scheduled to arrive at Detroit Sunday at ten in the morning. School busses will transport the seniors to and from Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holmberg, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Baker, are accompanying the class as sponsors.

Baccalaureate services for this year's graduating class will be held in the high school auditorium Sunday evening, May 30, at eight fifteen. Clergymen of the community will take part in this service, the address being given by Rev. John Bozek of St. Pancratius Catholic Church.

Commencement exercises are scheduled for Tuesday evening, June 1, and will again take the form of a Class Night program with the class preparing and presenting their own program.

Pep Up Meals With Delectable Fish

Favorite Seafoods

Have you discovered what pleasant variety fish dinners can give to your meals? If not, you have a real flavor treat coming.

New cooks will like using fish beause it is so easily and quickly prepared. There are so many varieties to use, you need run into no rut even though you serve fish often.

You can substitute fish for meat easily because, it, too, is a good source of protein in addition to providing such important minerals as calcium, phosphorus, iron, copper and iodine. Those of you who live inland would do well to fortify your iodine supply by eating fish more often, as it's difficult to get enough in any other way, except medici-

Overcooking is one of the faults most frequently found in the preparation of fish, for many people do not realize that fish is really tender. Broiling and pan-frying are good methods to use, as is baking.

You'll find that fish served in a casserole takes little time and can be really delicious. The time required for baking is short as the food really only needs to be heated.

Fresh, camed or frozen fish may be used, whichever is available to you in the recipes I've included to-

I'm sure you'll like Ford's new 4-Speed Transmission

Maybe you enjoy slow farming . . . but there's no money in it. If I can show you faster farming . . . with no more work, you'll be interested, won't you?

All right, just take one feature of the Ford Tractor, the 4-speed transmission. On the road I'll give you up to 121/2 miles per hour. In third speed (top field working speed), I'll give you 6 miles per hour. And so on down . . . each speed, even the reverse, is faster. Saves lots of hours in a year.

Won't you let me demonstrate this Ford Tractor (and its Dearborn Implements) on your farm? I have something special in parts and service, too.

Arts, Mechanics Lure Most G.I.s

Average Veteran Student Is 26; Former Army Enlisted Man.

WASHINGTON. - The average veteran in training under the G.I. bill of rights is just past 26 years old. He was an enlisted man in the army, had previously completed 3.7 years of high school, and is entitled to 39 months' training under the bill.

This was shown by a recent census of G.I. students, released by Veterans' administration. The report showed that while more veterans are studying liberal arts than any other one course, the favorite occupational aim of those taking onthe-job training is that of mechanic.

Thirty-eight per cent of the students, according to the report, are married, and half of them have dependents -- wives, children or parents. The census, taken on a 1 per cent sampling of all veterans who entered training before April, 1947, showed that 1,825,118 G.I.s are studying in schools of higher learning or other institutions, and 619,647 are in on-the-job training. Another 1,049,661 have either finished their training or dropped out.

Few Women Students.

Not quite 2 per cent of the veterans in training under the G.I. bill are women, although women comprise 2.2 per cent of the total veteran population. And, the report showed, women account for 2.4 per cent of the trainees in schools, but only 0.4 per cent of those in job training.

Most of the G.I.s in schools are in universities or colleges-907,554 of them, according to the study. But 91,000 are in professional or technological schools, 54,700 are in teachers' colleges and 72,200 are in junior colleges. Of those attending other schools, 61,100 are in technical institutes, 99,400 in business schools, 125,100 in elementary or secondary schools, and 413,300 in vocational or trade schools.

Engineering Ranks High. Following liberal arts as the more popular courses among the veterans in schools are engineering, crafts and trades, business courses and business administration, flight training, agriculture and medicine. On the bottom of the popularity list is social work-only 3,377 students are studying it under the G.I. bill, according to the census. Second from the bottom is dancing.

Most popular employment objective of veterans in on-the-job training is that of mechanics and repairmen for motor vehicles and railroads, with 56,764 students. Second is the job of farm manager or foreman, and third and fourth are me. Market report for Tuesday, chanics and repairmen in other fields, and managers and officials.

Farm Mechanization Boosts

Production to Record Level OMAHA, NEB. - Americans are harvesting 20 million more acres today than they did in 1940, although there are three million fewer people doing it, and on 200,000 fewer farms. Fast-growing mechanization of farms is largely responsible for this feat, Joseph A. Hoban, merchandise manager of B. F. Goodrich company, told members of Midwest Implement Dealers association. He cited the fact that the nation's tractor "population" had doubled, from one million to two million, just since

Praising "the way America's farmers and other food producers had come through to ease tragic conditions in many lands," Hoban cited the following estimates on the nation's 1947 exports of foodstuffs: 392 million bushels of wheat, five times the amount exported in 1939; 88 million bushels of corn, compared to 32 million in 1939, and 328 million pounds of meat products, against 193 million in 1939.

The farm market offered "the biggest sales opportunity" for industry in 1947, Hoban said, adding that "there is no question that this market is going forward at as great or even greater pace in 1948."

Hoban said that all tractors now made are rubber-tired, and that changing all a farm's rolling stock from steel to rubber tires produced an average saving of 24 working days and 675 gallons of gasoline per year, for each 150 acres worked.

A GOLDEN LINING

IN OUR town, the Nolan sisters, Samantha, aged 98, and Agatha, aged 96, had lived alone in their ancient mansion for many years. When Samantha passed away, sympathetic neighbors, for the first time in ages, ventured to intrude upon the Nolan mansion—for the purpose of consoling Agatha and assisting her in her hour of tragic loss.

Agatha accepted the assistance willingly enough, but for sympathy and consolation she seemed to have little need.

"Agatha," one neighbor was bold enough to remark, "you don't seem to be very much affected by your sister's passing."

"Well, mebby not," acknowledged the surviving Nolan. "Guess it's 'cause I've just realized—now I can have my tea made as I like it!"

Big Stack of Wood

The average farmer in Georgia uses about 15 cords of wood a year for cooking and heating. There are 225,000 farms in the state. If 200,-000 of them use wood, then Georgia farmers burn up about 3,000,000 cords of wood baking biscuits and keeping warm. This is a big stack of wood - a stack of 4-foot wood piled 4 feet high and 4,545 miles

WINKLER LP OIL BURNER

FEATURING THE LOW PRESSURE PRINCIPLE

MATCH THESE LP' FEATURES IF YOU CAN A Few of the Many that Challenge Comparison

but mastered by few, takes on new, even greater possibilities with the amazing LP Burner. Greatly improved combustion efficiencies achieved by pre-atomization and mixing of air and oil.

2. Capacities from 3 quarts per hour makes this a burner that actually can be sized to the heating plant; a burner that puts out only the amount of heat the plant can absorb. Eliminates wasteful overfiring and high stack temperatures. Saves as much as 25% or more of fuel.

3. Constant Fuel-Primary air ratio pregauged and factory set for optimum operation at any given firing rate. Positive oilmetering, plus controlled air intake assures a never changing fuel-air ratio-irrespective of viscosity of oil, season of the year, or any other variable.

1. Low Pressure Principle, accepted by all 4. Dependable Simplicity never before achieved in either high or low pressure burners. All intricate and critical adjustments were designed out of the LP Burner. Only two simple adjustments are possible—flame shape and secondary air. Fuel firing rate is positively fixed in each metering unit. Nozzle opening is many, many times larger than conventional type, thus eliminating coking and clogging. Truly a service free, fool proof burner.

> 5. Fuel Versatility never dreamed possible in an oil burner. Catalytic oils, heavier oils, lighter oils, dirty oils, all look alike to the LP Burner. Will cleanly and efficiently burn oil with widespread variances in specific gravity, viscosity and general characteristics. No filter is necessary on the LP Burner.

What should a woman do

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

DETROIT woman sends me A her very puzzling problem to solve this week. Like most of our troubles, so much depends upon her character, at which I can only guess, and so much upon the nature and disposition of her family, that it is hard to be definite. But at any rate, Anne has been assured, in a personal letter, of my sympathy and my prayers.

Anne's husband practically deserted her, some 15 years ago, when her son was 11, and her girls 8 and 7. He walked out, leaving a note to say that he was tired of the whole thing, and would send her money from time to time. That first time he was gone seven months.

Anne took boarders, cooking meals for 12 in a hot kitchen with three children under her feet. She sewed for her friends' children and afterward for a wider circle, making good money after a while. But that came only after years of struggle. When Ollie came back it was to borrow money for a Texas venture. He disappeared after a few weeks and did not come home again for a year.

This erratic coming and going, borrowing and disappearing, went on until about seven years ago, when Ollie disappeared completely. Anne got her boy through college, a daughter through nursing school and saw all three married. Then she sold the rambling old house, put a substantial nest-egg in the bank and was casting about as so many sunerfluous women must, for some sort of modest anchorage, when Ollie turned up again.

Ollie Is Repentant

This was six months ago. Ollie is now 52, Anne 49. Ollie is gray, quiet, repentant and anxious to start all over. His children, with the inconsistent and unjust enthusiasm of the young, always have rather idealized their father. He always has been affectionate with them when at home, taken them out to amusements and on one occasion gave all three bicycles, which generosity apparently has counted more with them than all their mother's years of sacrifice and devotion.

A piece of property recently left Ollie by an uncle consists of a small, two-family cottage, in one half of which he has comfortably established himself. And, maddeningly enough to Anne, he has begun to renew old associations, so that she always is meeting friends who are delighted that Ollie is back and hope to see them sometime.

"I am not resentful or revengeful." writes Anne, "but I positively will not entertain any thought of renewing our old relationship. Ollie may be as sorry as he likes, but that doesn't wipe out the terrible past, when I lay awake night after night worrying over ways and means to complete the children's education and maintain their support. I have told my daughters and my son this, but they continue to plead and hint at their satisfaction if their father and I were reunited.

"Ollie seems to have changed. But it makes me absolutely sick to think of recommencing the whole business over again, having him ask for help in the old way, having him step out when he has involved me in the old difficulties.

"My youngest daughter has just married a musician, well placed here at a religious institution now, ing your feet financially, succeeding in your work. As lives go, that was a good life. Now, if I were you, I'd try it with Ollie. 1 don't have to tell you to stand firm on the money point. Don't advance him one cent. Let the children do that. If they will, it may open their eyes a little.

This change means companionship, someone to think about, plan with, another voice and step in the house. Maintain your own room and your own privacy, of course. If the experiment fails, then go away for a year, travel, do a little deserting on your own account. Then come back and take up your life where it is now. It's not a perfect solution, but what is? Good luck and my prayers are with you.

Women's Labor Force Drops

WASHINGTON.—So many women between 20 and 34 have married and have had so many babies since the war that there would be a shortage of available female workers if large numbers of men were drafted for military service.

U. S. employment service, which made this prediction, said there were 20 million women in the labor force in July, 1945. Now there are only 16 million women in the labor force.

Crude Oil Products

The oil industry has helped develop approximately 5,400 different products from crude oil. Petroleum is used as the base for thousands of essential products, ranging from lipstick to DDT and from candies to candles. A partial list of such products used in the home includes cellophane, rust preventives, sewing machine oil, cleaning fluids, laundyes, roofing materials, timber pre-Pinnebog and will make their home servatives, furnace oil, gas for the kitchen range, and the now familiar plastic items in use as fittings. wall tiles, luggage frames, jewelry and gadgets of all sorts.

> Illiteracy in Cities Illiteracy in Pennsylvania has shifted from the country to the city, Pennsylvania State college found in a detailed population study. On the basis on census data, 4.3 per cent of the urban population is classifled as illiterate, compared to 3.5 per cent for the rural. Illiteracy is higher in Pennsylvania than in the nation as a whole, although the rural population of the state has a smaller percentage that cannot read or write than the rural population of the nation.

He Got the Girl

A YOUNG Frenchman, poor but ambitious, was anxious to marry the daughter of a certain gentleman of wealth. He consulted a lawyer friend as to how this might be accomplished.

"I have been invited to dine at hat gentleman's house next Wednesday," the lawyer said. "Just leave the matter in my hands. But, first, let me ask you a question: Would you suffer anyone to cut off your nose if he would give you a hundred thousand francs?"

Brown was a very light sleeper. One night he was obliged to stop at small hotel and, after much trouble, finally succeeded in getting to sleep. Two hours later came a ud knocking on his door.

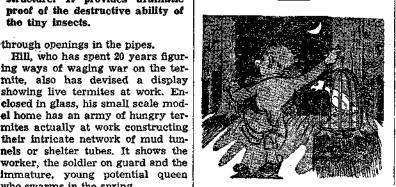

"What's the matter?" he asked. "Package downstairs for you, ir," came a boy's voice.

Well, let it stay there. It can wait until morning, I suppose?"

The boy shuffled down the corrider and after a long time Brown fell asleep again. Then came another knocking on the door.

"Well, what's up now?" Brown

In the early days of railroading, trains ran only in daylight hours, and headlights were unknown. As railroads developed, however, night operations became increasingly necessary, and inventive minds went to work to devise ways of illuminating the track ahead. The first crude step was taken under direction of Horatio Allen of the South Carolina railroad. He attached a small flat car to the front of the locomotive, covered the car with a heavy layer of sand on which he kept a bonfire of pine knots. This was in the early

Automatic Mixers Available on Farm Electricity Cuts Down On Farm Labor Costs

By Bob Wilson

number of other farm chores, now is being placed on practically an automatic basis and coordinated with related activities. In this case, mixing is coordinated with cribbing and grinding operations.

Generally, mixers are located either adjacent to the grinder or in the barn mow almost directly above the mill. The two-ton mixer, shown in the accompanying illustration, is in the mow of a Midwestern farm. When processing operations begin, shelled corn, which has been blown into a bin to the right of the mixer, drops through a chute to the grinder on the floor below. The blower pipe is shown at the right of the mixer.

After grinding has been completed, the ground grain is blown into the mixer and necessary supplements added. The thoroughly mixed grain then flows out of the mixer and down a fute to be loaded into a feed cart on the first floor.

The only manual work required is dumping the sacked supplement into the mixer. A conventional type blower cribs the whole grain automatically, while the blower attachment on the electrically powered grinder returns the ground grain to the mixer.

Setups of this type are becoming commonplace on scores of electrified farms. They can be constructed at relatively small cost and, in most cases, by unskilled farm labor.

Checks Soil Losses

Good soil management pays dividends in making heavy crops per acre, building organic matter in the soil and at the same time checking erosion. The results shown above summarize tests at the University of Illinois Elizabethtown experiment Manure, lime and phosphate made the difference between the two plots. The soil was already rich

The heavy crops of alfalfa-clover and small grains protected the soil from beating rains. The soil of the treated plot with its 16 tons of organic matter per acre could soak up more water faster than the soil of the untreated plot with only five tons. Less water was left to run off and carry soil with it.

For erosion control on longer slopes a crop rotation that includes more years in soil protecting crops such as legume grass mixtures is advised. Full fields on a 12 per cent slope such as was in this field would need a rotation of corn, winter grain and two or three years of legumegrass mixtures for best results. Contour farming, strip cropping and terracing would help, too, to slow down the water so that more would have a chance to soak into the ground.

Three Major Problems Face Pork Producers

The pork producer faces three problems as he makes plans for 1948, say Michigan State college specialists. A short corn crop, a relatively narrow corn-hog ratio and a stressed feed conservation program are the problems to be met. The danger is that too few sows will be bred for spring pigs and there may not be enough hogs to consume the corn crop produced

, SHORT STOR

There's a Light Somewhere

M. CHRISTOPHER

HAL Miers took his time walking from the house to the stable. There was a light wind ruffling his hair. The air smelled clean, coming up from the river. He could feel the warm sun, feel it burn because during these long months of absence he had grown unaccustomed

He reached the end of the path and felt for the corner fence post. Proudly he grasped it. It was like a door opening to a light. I've come this far, the rest should be easy, he thought.

He sought for the edge of the stable; the wide door pushed open. He figured that the hinges hadn't been oiled since he had oiled them himself months ago.

That was just before he had taken off on that crucial flight and crashed into a mountain. It had taken two lives; and almost bis, too. It took bis sight but left his memories. He heard the horse. Michael! The horse remembered him. "Michael!" he' whispered tensely. The horse whinnied. Hal felt the nose touch his outstretched hand.

"You ol' pal! How you been, huh? How you been?' Hal sniffed ap-🕥 - Minute preciatively. He liked the smell of Ð Fiction a horse. He should, for he had practically grown up with it.

"I'll never ride you again, Mike, ol' boy," he said softly. "I'd probably break my neck. That's what the doc said. That would be foolish. wouldn't it? I'd be a dead duck and not able to touch, smell or hear you." The horse whinnied again and Hal choked. He hadn't realized how much that had meant!

AT THE hospital, with the gauze on his eyes, he had thought of the wonderful days when he used to ride Michael across the meadow and leap the fence. Hal's father had purchased Michael as a colt for racing. Right from the first Michael had won. But a horse gets older. He must quit. Hai had made Michael quit, but he hadn't quit keeping him and loving him, And riding him, too-until now.

He fumbled out of the stable and with groping steps started walking back to the house.

"Hal, wait a minute." It was his father. "I was wondering when it would hit you like this, son. I know how I'd feel."

"That's all right, Dad," Hal said. "Guess I'm just a kid at heart." His father chuckled. "It'll pass.

Everything does.' Hal fell asleep late and in the morning sat disconsolately in the living room. "It's nice outside, son," his fa-

"You're coming with me, of boy!" Hal said. He groped for the saddle. Could swung himself upon the horse. 'Steady, boy!" he whispered,

The horse started off. Hal felt the graceful move of his body and coordinated his own movements with it. Gradually, Hal made him go faster, each time clinging tighter to the reins in his hands. The wind whipped against his face, and a couple of times he felt himself sway off to one side as Michael plunged to make a turn, his hooves thumping against the hard ground. But he always righted himself and stayed on. Hal laughed against the wind, laughed loudly, in the sheer joy of riding once again, at the same time prodding Michael to a faster and faster

Presently, a voice shouted through the whistling darkness at him. "Son! For Heaven's sakes, what're you doing? Stop . . . !"

Vending Machine Business Zooms

Guest Just at Mealtime? Novel Slot Device Will Feed Him.

NEW YORK .- Within four years the coin machine industry will soar to an annual volume of two billion dollars, in the opinion of Robert Z. Greene, president of National Automatic Merchandising association.

With the aid of vending machines, he said, employed women will be able to do their laundry during the lunch hour and housewives can pick up emergency groceries without leaving their apartment building.

Other details included in Greene's By 1952 there will be 2,300,000 coin-operated merchandising machines throughout the United States. Daily sales of 10 cents a machine for penny and service devices, $1 for candy, $2.50 for carbonated beverages and $4 for cigarettes will account for a combined volume of $1,500,000,000.

Additional sales from devices such as vendors of stamps, coffee, milk, ice cream, sandwiches, insurance, and groceries "will bring the total sales from automatic merchandising to well over two billion dollars before 1952.'

Groceries in Apartments.

Greene foresaw automatic merchandising in the grocery field as ultimately reaching an annual volume of 100 million dollars through installation of machines in apartment buildings.

'Most of these sales," he said, would be plus sales that otherwise would not be made. Now if a housewife finds herself out of beans or rice when preparing dinner, she isn't apt to make a special trip to the grocery, but will do without it.

"Most items sold through vending machines are impulse sales that otherwise would be lost forever," and the proper location of the machine can give that impulse a profitable outlet.

Automatic merchandising some day will "bring to retail distribution the same advantages the machine age has brought to manufacturing and agriculture," Greene continued. Forms Store Front.

He said a machine now on the drawing board will be able to form part of the store front at night, thus achieving late-hour operation and customer convenience without high

"In England (prior to the war) there were over 200,000 cigarette machines that were rolled out in front of stores after the closing hour of tobacco shops. "And today in Holland, Denmark, and Switzerland, where the food shortage is not as extreme, a variety of merchandise is sold in this manner," he said.

Turning back to the U.S., Greene concluded, "The war taught employers the value of vending machines in keeping employees on the job and increasing their efficiency,

First Cowcatcher The cowcatcher on trains, a strictly American feature, was the invention of Isaac, a young mechanical engineer of the Camden and Amboy railroad, in the early 1830s. So many cows trespassed upon the railroad that Dripps decided to install on the front end of the locomotive a small truck supporting two iron spears. The Dripps device was effective, but it was fatal to the cows. To avoid damage suits, he substituted a crosswise bar much like the present-day bumper on an automobile, and from this evolved the present V-shaped cowcatcher,

Research has made vast strides not only in the art of finding oil, but also in the extraction of oil already found. A few decades ago it was not unusual to recover only about 20 per cent of the oil in a new field. Today as high as 80 per cent is recovered and supposedly worked-out fields are again in production.
