New CARE Package To Help Meet Great Need in Europe

New York, September 2—A new package to help meet one of the greatest single needs of undernourished European families—a 10-pound package of lard—was announced today by Paul Comly French, CARE executive director.

At the same time, Mr. French made known that CARE was withdrawing its cotton package. He explained that this step was in line with CARE's policy of responding to changing conditions overseas. He said that the cotton supply in Europe is steadily improving and that production there makes it unnecessary for CARE to continue offering its cotton package.

The new lard parcel is being offered at $5.50 and orders may now be sent to CARE, 60 Broad Street, New York 4, New York, with delivery guaranteed in Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy, Netherlands, Poland, and the American, British and French Zones of Germany.

For the city of Berlin, the price of the package has been set at $6.50, since CARE is unable to maintain its customary stockpile there as a result of the blockade, and the packages must be flown in from Frankfurt.

The product contained in the new parcel is called "Swift'ning" and aside from the fact that it will place a long missing necessity on European tables, it has qualities that make it especially suitable for long distance shipment and storage. "Swift'ning" requires no refrigeration and will not turn rancid.

CARE's addition of the lard package is the result of surveys disclosing that the lack of fats remains one of Europe's most serious problems. These findings were confirmed by Mr. French, on a recent trip to Europe, where he conferred with CARE Chiefs of Mission in various countries.

As is the case with all other CARE packages, the lard will be admitted to Europe without duties or taxes of any kind, and the recipients will lose no part of their regular rations. It may be sent to relatives or friends or designated groups.

Other packages offered by CARE, at $10 each, are standard food; special food for Italy, Greece, Britain and Japan; kosher food; baby and infant food; woolen, blanket, layette, household linen and knitting wool packages.

Correct Cooling Needed to Assure Quality of Eggs

The quality of eggs depends greatly on how quickly they are cooled after they are laid, reports J. M. Moore, extension poultryman at Michigan State College.

He points out that consumer interest in eggs centers on quality. USDA poultry specialists estimate that five eggs out of each 100 produced become unfit for food as a result of quality deterioration or other causes. This five percent loss has taken an annual toll of more than 233,000,000 dozen eggs in the past five years.

Farmers are urged to collect eggs from nests at least three times each day—10 a. m., noon, and 5 p. m. Less frequent collection not only delays proper cooling of the eggs but also results in a partly cooled egg being left in a nest to be re-warmed by other hens using the same nest. In very hot weather, eggs should be gathered every two hours in the morning and twice in the afternoon.

Eggs should be collected in wire baskets which permit the free circulation of air around every egg. This is impossible when pails, boxes, or woven baskets are used. They should be placed on a wire tray and put in the cellar immediately after collecting. Because eggs absorb odors quickly they should not be kept in places where there are strong odors such as those of onions, lemons, kerosene, or mustiness.

Eggs should be fully cooled before they are placed in egg cases since there is not sufficient air circulation in cases to allow eggs to cool properly, Moore concludes.

Wonder Vending Device

A new vending machine, one which brews coffee and keeps it hot, and, at the same time, refrigerates the cream to be used and then dispenses both, plus sugar and a spoon, is described in "Die Castings". The new machine which presented many more mechanical complexities for its builder than the ordinary vending device, at last makes possible the traditional American cup of coffee in the factory, office, hotel lobby and transportation terminal at the drop of a coin.

By Gene Alleman
Garden—Bill Bonifas got his start here at Garden.
The Upper Peninsula lumberman, eight times a millionaire, arrived in the Garden peninsula penniless from Luxemburg. He was a six-footer, broad-shouldered, and in his early twenties. America was the promised land of opportunity, and the Upper Peninsula was one of its frontiers.

As a lumberjack he started to work cutting timber for Louis Van Winkle, a Dutchman who built a sawmill at Van's Harbor back in 1881. Lacking a team of horses, he carried logs out of the woods on his back. It was William Stellwagen, proprietor of a hardware store at Garden, who staked him to his first capital—$50 worth of needed tools and equipment. Stellwagen's son, Walter, runs a modern grocery at Garden.

Bonifas built his fortune in the Garden peninsula. Perhaps his greatest find was Kate Nolan, a beautiful Irish girl whom he met here at a lumberjack boarding-house. Kate, a waitress, became his wife. Bill never forgot Garden. And neither did Kate.

The Garden peninsula is one of the least known of Michigan's famed peninsulas.

In some respects, as you behold the ghost town of Fayette, a few miles south of Garden, here is a peninsula that Michigan forgot. Few tourists know about it. Travelers who venture on a good blacktop and gravel road to Garden, Fayette and Fairport usually view the abandoned village of Fayette in wonderment. Here are ten abandoned houses and a 47-window hotel, all located on a scenic promontory with a view of Lake Michigan and Snail Shell harbor nearby. Inhabitants total 11. Among these is Donald Chehren, navy veteran who runs the postoffice and builds boats during his spare time.

No sign tells the story of Fayette where good hardwood was burned to smelt iron ore, more than 75 years ago. You view the ruins of the deserted town and ask yourself: "What happened to bring all this about?"

The story of Bill Bonifas gives an answer.
Charles Olmstead, now 82, was a foreman for Bonifas at his first camp nine miles north of Garden on the plains near Little Harbor. He related to us the history of the region. Charley helps out in a store and gas station of his son-in-law, Roy Winter, at Garden.

The Garden peninsula, in those days, was covered by hardwood trees—maple, beech and birch.

Because of the harbor and limestone at Fayette and the abundance of hardwood nearby, the Jackson Iron Company of Negaunee purchased 16,000 acres of trees for $15,000. That was in 1866. They bought land at Plumb's harbor, later called Snail Shell because of its shape, from Iram G. Squire; built limestone kilns through the peninsula to convert hardwood into charcoal; extended a narrow-gauge railroad to Fairport at the tip; and then constructed huge furnaces at Fayette to smelt the iron-ore, shipped from Escanaba, into pig iron for loading into sailing vessels bound for Cleveland.

It took eight days to char the hardwood in the kilns. Twenty-five bushels of charcoal were consumed in the furnaces to produce one ton of pig iron. The virgin hardwoods of the Garden peninsula were literally burned up!

Fayette was a company-owned town—houses, hotel, stores, church, dance-hall and furnaces. The place was abandoned in 1889.

Bonifas' logging camp became the William Bonifas Company with three brothers—John, Jim and Isaac—as partners. When Bill left the peninsula in 1917, he threw a big party at the Garden town hall—champagne and all. Worth then about $500,000, Bill formed the William Bonifas Lumber Company at Escanaba.

Sawmills were operated at Marenisco and Lake Linden. Pulpwood operations were maintained all over the Upper Peninsula. By fortunate investments, Bonifas acquired large blocks of Kimberly-Clark and General Motors stocks. He was a rich man.

When Bill died several years ago he left a million dollars to build a new St. Joseph's Church at Escanaba including a rectory, auditorium and gymnasium. Kate donated $150,000 for a new public school and convent in the village of Garden. When she died early this summer she left about $2,500,000 to Escanaba—new Catholic Central high school, public high school, city hall, court house, public office building and city recreational facilities.

Thus, the wealth from the woods at Garden and the Upper Peninsula has come back, in part, to the land in which Bill and Kate Bonifas got their start. Remember this when you visit the Garden peninsula, just west of Manistiquie.
