

This and That

A CANDIDATE for the title of the meanest person in town is the one who stole the Christmas basket from the trailer house of Ulysses Nix on the lot next to the Cass City Laundry. Mr. Nix received his gift Christmas Eve. When the aged man left his trailer unoccupied to go after a can of fuel oil, he found the basket missing on his return. Goodfellows have since provided Mr. Nix with another filled basket.

LIFE is just one headache after another. Before we get it figured out what happened at the election, we have to start figuring how we're going to pay our income tax.

HOW WOULD you like to undertake the task of entertaining a half thousand farmers some day? That's the job that F. W. Ryan & Son completed successfully last Friday at their John Deere Day Show. The group gathered at the Cass Theatre where a feature picture was screened and other movies showed combines and tractors in action. John Deere representatives told of the expectancy of farm machinery on the market the coming year and explained new machinery which has been added to the manufacturer's line. Mr. Ryan and son were hosts at a free lunch served by women of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

YOUR OLD Christmas tree will make a welcome shelter and feeding station for birds if you put it in the back yard and leave a little scratch feed under it from time to time.

"I know it is going to be accepted enthusiastically by our customers, and will continue the Chevrolet tradition of leadership in the field. We are looking forward to announcement day, because I know that prospective Chevrolet buyers will be as eager to see the new car as I was."

Nother Big Season Writes G. H. Burke From Florida

Under date of Jan. 6, Grover H. Burke writes the Chronicle from Pompano Beach, Florida:

"Received the Chronicle Tuesday of this week. We arrived Sunday evening and found things about as we had left them last spring, in spite of the fall's hurricanes and storms. Stayed Saturday night in St. Augustine and the traffic Sunday coming on to here was very heavy. Looks like another big season, and there are plenty of new hotels and apartments to take care of the tourists. We had two days of rain and rather 'soupy' weather from the Ohio River to northern Georgia but clear and bright rest of the week.

"You might tell the Bulems and Keppens that the cottage they occupied not far from us last season looks very inviting and has the 'Welcome' sign out for them. I go by it every day on way to the drug store. Have nice hours this season, the afternoon shift, only, so have mornings and evenings to myself—bankers' and barbers' hours.

"Weather perfect 70-75."

Club Gets First Hand Information On Israel Fighters

Gen. Ralph Royce Tells His Impressions of the Jews and the Arabs

With the trouble of Palestine being given prominent positions in the daily newspapers and the radio, a description of the two contending nationalities given by one who is well acquainted with Middle East inhabitants made interesting listening to Community Club members. Major General Ralph Royce, who commanded American Forces in the Middle East during World War II, was Tuesday evening's speaker at the school auditorium. He said there are as many kinds of Arabs as there are varieties of American Indians. There are many differences in dress and habits and religious sects among the Mohammedans. They are good fighters and different tribes fight each other as well as Jews and Christians. There is little education, scarcely any progress and little co-operation between the different tribes. Their chief ruler in the Palestine sector, however, appears to be exceptionally well informed on present day happenings.

The Jews, according to Gen. Royce, are well educated, the large cities they control in Israel are modern and well planned and their colonization farming projects grow plentiful crops and show marvelous results. There were four Jews to 11 Arabs before World War I and the ratio now is eight Jews to 11 Arabs.

Gen. Royce is the director of the State Department of Economic Development in Lansing and devoted the last part of his address in describing the program of service that department offers to citizens and civic groups in Michigan. With industry on the move and the southern states banding together to attract it to that section, it behooves Michigan to retain the industries she has and to secure others. The department, he said, also serves as a semi-official state chamber of commerce, linking the numerous state and federal services to aid Michigan communities in solving their local and regional problems. Methods of making and checking surveys of communities in relation to their advantages to industrial development were explained.

President William Profit announced that the February meeting would be a father and chum program.

Tuesday evening's program was Lansing—Michigan's new bi-partisan state government, led by its youthful new governor, G. Mennen Williams, is now in its first full week. The honeymoon is still on.

The governor's message to the legislature, delivered one week ago today, reflected Governor Williams' campaign pledges for the most part. He balanced urban interests of public housing, labor legislation and more liberal social security benefits with rural concern over better highways and uniform grading and packaging of farm products. His modest reference to need for team-work between the executive office and the legislature was characterized by the old-fashioned saying, "two heads are better than one."

While much of the governor's program will call for additional spending, there was recognition of this problem in the promise to submit a separate statement, later on, covering this "serious fiscal problem." In view of the voters' stand on continued diversion of state sales tax revenue, it appears a good bet that new taxes will be recommended as an alternative to otherwise inevitable deficit financing. At least, Governor Williams' thinking is not in the direction of economy through curtailment of public services.

"I should like to invite this legislature to develop a 'Michigan seal of quality' or some similar trade-mark which could be applied to high quality farm products," said Governor Williams. Such a trade-mark would be defined carefully, "enforced rigidly by the Michigan Department of Agriculture" and it would be "advertised widely and enthusiastically."

By gaining consumer acceptance of known quality farm products from Michigan, state-financed advertising would enable Michigan growers, in the opinion of the governor, to compete favorably with food products from other states. And the Michigan food stake is not small, either. Governor Williams estimated the 1948 yield at 740 million dollars.

As to highway needs, Governor Williams reiterated a need for a "well-rounded, long-range road rehabilitation and safety program." He backed up recommendations of the Michigan Good Roads Federation which completed an 18-month engineering analysis last winter, entitled "Highway Needs in Michigan."

How would better roads be financed? The governor hedged on this question, stating that the legislature should "consider carefully the amount of additional highway funds necessary and the most equitable method of providing them." He said he would not approve any increases in taxes for highway purposes unless the taxes were part of a "complete" highway program which covered needed "reforms" and unless the taxes also were considered "along with the overall budget of the state."

Reflecting his primary interest in the welfare of urban industrial workers, the governor came out flatly for public-financed housing on a cooperative basis whereby local government, presumably municipalities, would work together with state and federal governments in providing adequate low-cost housing.

A separate message is to be submitted to the legislature later on, covering methods whereby such housing authority would be established and money made available to finance the housing units. That public housing, or government-financed homes, is state socialism is perhaps the biggest stumbling block to Governor Williams' proposal. However, President Truman has already advocated this on a national scale, and has added, for good measure, far more socialization than Governor Williams has sponsored to date.

The public-financed homes would accommodate approximately 80,000 persons, whereas the governor estimated Detroit's housing needs to be 120,000 family units with Washtenaw County (rural) good for an additional 5,000 units.

"We are currently faced with the paradox of decreasing construction while population and demand for housing continue to grow," said Governor Williams. "Basically, this is caused by the fact that housing costs are far beyond the reach of those with the greatest needs, namely, the wage earner of moderate income with a wife and several small children."

Will the Republican majority in the state legislature go along with Governor Williams on this key measure, calling for more government participation in our economic life? On this issue, perhaps more than any other, Republican leaders will divide sharply. Governor Thomas E. Dewey, for example, is sponsoring a big public housing program in New York State, while also advocating disability insurance for industrial workers. The conservative wing of the party condemns such tactics as "aping the New Deal" and believes the party should champion the cause of conservatism by holding the line for free enterprise.

As we have often pointed out, the record always speaks for itself. And the Michigan record of bi-partisan government is now in the making.

Advent of "Sleeping Car"

In the early 1850's, George Pullman began to remodel day coaches into sleeping cars at the Bloomington, Ill., shops of the Chicago and Alton. On the night of September 1, 1859, the initial trip of the first converted car was made between Bloomington and Chicago—and the first Pullman porter persuaded uneasy passengers to remove their boots, at least, before lying down.

War of Insects
U. S. navy is transporting an invasion force of Scolia wasps from Zanzibar, East Africa, to the Palau islands in the Pacific, where they will give battle to their natural enemies, the rhinoceros beetle. The beetles have been causing great damage to coconut palms. The wasps immobilize their enemy by stinging the beetle grub and paralyzing it.

Loss of Vitamins
The fresher foods are when we use them the higher the vitamin content will be. Raw fruits and vegetables, particularly those which are not very acid, gradually lose their vitamin C. Loss of vitamins can be retarded by storage in a refrigerator. This is especially true of the fresh, raw fruits and vegetables on which we must depend for vitamin C.

Hunter's Fireplace
Hunters' and trappers' fireplaces can be constructed in the farm woodlot from green or partially decayed logs. Although flat rocks are plentiful, they should not be used, inasmuch as they explode.

Bruises on Livestock Reduce Meat Values

High Number of Injuries Result of Carelessness

One of the less spectacular but nevertheless important factors contributing to the reduction of meat and livestock values is the waste of meat and lower grading of pork cuts because of bruising.

In view of this it is important to the welfare of the livestock industry and consumer alike that more care and patience be used in handling hogs.

Bruise tests conducted recently by the Live Stock Sanitary Committee at Sioux City, Iowa, on 5,708 hogs

Tests made on 5,708 hogs indicate that the hams receive more bruises than any other part of the animal.

indicate that there are more bruises on hams than on all other major parts of market hogs.

When the animals are driven they tend to turn away from the driver, which often results in their getting hit or kicked on the hams.

The bruise tests on the hogs turned up a total of 902 bruised hams, 207 bruised bellies, 146 bruised shoulders and 144 bruised backs.

Hams are much more often bruised on the lower part of the cushion and shank, or collar, according to the tests which showed 511 and 653 bruises respectively. This indicates that hogs probably are bruised when being driven or sorted.

Most of the injuries are surface bruises, and many are caused by the driver kicking the hog or punching the animal with a cane, sorting pole, club, end gate rod or some other handy instrument.

Some of the ham bruises are caused by protruding nails, broken boards, bolt heads or ends of gate hinges in yards, alleys and loading chutes.

Others occur when trucks are not flush with loading or unloading chutes and platforms and the legs of the hogs slip into the space between the truck and the chutes, scraping the sides of the shanks up to the cushion of the ham.

Dollars for Barley

For writing an essay on "How Can We Make the Barley Crop Bring More Dollars Per Acre?" Bobby V. Bruegger, of Plymouth, Wis., has been named winner in a contest conducted among high school students of vocational agriculture by the Midwest Barley Improvement association.

Bobby, who is 15 years old, and in his sophomore year in the Plymouth high school, won the award, which consists of $50 in cash, in competition with hundreds of high school students in the five Midwest states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Iowa.

As the winner of the Midwest regional prize, young Bruegger also was a winner of the first Wisconsin state prize of $25 and the Sheboygan county prize of $5 in the contest.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bruegger, Bobby helps with the work of the family's 40-acre farm, where the principal crops are grains and alfalfa. He has been active in 4-H club work for a number of years and is a member of the Future Farmers of America.

Poultry TB Eliminated In One Year With Care

Tuberculosis in chickens can be eradicated in one year, according to Prof. Frank E. Muschel of the University of Nebraska poultry department.

He advises raising chickens in clean quarters and on clean ground, changing the location of the range every year. Eliminate or sell old birds from the flock by June 1 of each year unless the birds are very young.

High Costs Imperil Free Press; Newspaper Publishers Concerned

LANSING — Michigan newspaper publishers and editors gathering here Friday and Saturday, Jan. 21-22, for the 81st Anniversary Convention of the Michigan Press Association, Inc., will discuss 1949 management adjustments to rising cost of production, now at an all-time peak in newspaper history.

"Costs of newspaper operation have already reached the danger point," declared Leslie B. Merritt, editor of the Livingston County Press at Howell, state president. "If costs continue to mount, while revenues decline, the free press of our nation will be imperiled."

"A survey recently made of small city newspapers disclosed that operating costs have soared 91 per cent between 1944 and 1948, while newspaper revenues have increased 74 per cent. If newspapers are to survive the test of 1949 in the face of higher costs, it is imperative that advertising and circulation revenues shall be increased."

Roscoe Drummond, Washington bureau chief of the Christian Science Monitor, will address publishers at the anniversary dinner on "The State of the Nation," an objective appraisal of the Truman 1949 program. Toastmaster will be Harold A. Fitzgerald, publisher, Pontiac Daily Press.

Governor G. Mennen Williams and other elective state officials will discuss state affairs at one luncheon, while Col. S. L. A. Marshall of the Detroit News and top Michigan military leaders present a panel program at another luncheon on "National Security in Michigan."

The wind-up dinner party on Saturday will feature an "All-Michigan" menu of choice foods with entertainment by Cal Tinney, New York City newspaper columnist and radio-television comedian.

Daily newspaper round-table sessions will present Esther Van Wagoner Tufty, Washington newspaper correspondent; Harry Banister, WWJ-TV general manager, on "Television in Michigan," and Jack I. Green and Douglas Graham, Lansing bureau chiefs for the Associated Press and United Press, on "The Lansing Merry-go-round."

Weekly newspaper round-tables will offer Orrin Taylor of Arch-

Biggest Intangible Facing Car Industry Is Unfilled Orders

DETROIT.—One of the automobile industry's biggest intangibles is its unfilled order list.

If the claims of only a few of the sales chiefs of the various companies are reasonably correct, the backlog of orders now calls for more than 7,000,000 cars.

But there is something unreal about that total. Some industry officials say it has more "water" in it than appears on the surface. Still others assert it is loaded with duplications. Nearly every car maker agrees it would vanish overnight should anything cut into current public buying power.

The car makers themselves are not putting too much reliance on the backlog. Without exception they are developing their merchandising divisions as though the competitive era were close at hand.

Probably the backlog is loaded with duplications: many of the new cars that reach the used car lots come through duplicated orders. And probably if deliveries are delayed long enough, most of the duplicated orders will become real.

But whatever may be the true picture of the order backlog, most industry chroniclers agree the present market could not instantly absorb 7,000,000 more new automobiles were it possible for the industry to offer immediate delivery of that number.

Moreover, the nation's highway system couldn't absorb them. Best estimates are that this year's end will find 41,000,000 vehicles on the nation's highways.

So, the question is being asked in some quarters, "is the buyers' market closer than the order list would indicate?"

There are many and varied opinions on this point, but few hard and fast convictions. Meanwhile, all the car makers will be ready for the competitive market when it comes.

Hard Way to Get Million Bared by Industrialist

CHICAGO.—Want to know how to make a million dollars? Here's a simple, but definitely not easy, formula given by Lamot Du Pont, multimillionaire industrialist and one of the world's richest men:

"Work hard, save your money, and invest it."

Sounds easy, doesn't it? But the head of the billion-dollar Du Pont empire says he doesn't think young fellows will like it. He made that statement after being told that young men might value his advice.

"No, I don't think they'd like it," he said, "for I'd tell them to save their money and stop squandering it."

Lady Bear's Shopping Tour Halted Near Maine Camp

MAPLETON, ME.—A plump and pretty lady bear, who probably "just didn't have a thing to wear," has two northern Maine game wardens scratching their heads and wondering.

The wardens, Vincent Shaw and Lawrence Caron, raced into the woods near here to check a report that a sporting camp had been robbed. Arriving at the place they found it had been looted and several rooms badly upset.

Striding down the only trail that led through the dense woods, the officers caught up with the thief. It was a lady bear carrying a traveling bag and an assortment of other things in its front legs which served very well as arms.

Startled by the men, the bear struck off in high gear down the trail, dropping everything along the way. The wardens recovered the traveling bag which contained a suit of women's blue pajamas, a sweatshirt, a pair of pink panties, a box of facial tissues, two tooth brushes, a tube of toothpaste, a comb and a bright lipstick.

Other articles which the bear had been carrying included half a bag of flour, two pounds of tea, a pound of baking powder and four rolls of paper towels.

Survey Shows Restaurant Patrons Dislike Waiting

LINCOLN, NEBR.—Lincoln waitresses made a woman-on-the-street survey and discovered that people just don't like to wait for service.

The girls, all enrolled in John B. O'Mera's five-day "school of waiting," interviewed restaurant patrons for half an hour on a downtown street corner.

Slow service was the most frequent complaint, followed by objections to lipstick stains on cups and glasses and coffee spilled in saucers.

An elderly man said he thought food was the main trouble with restaurants. "There's not enough seasoning."

Other patrons had more to say about worn or cracked coffee cups, untidy waitresses, no-half-orders, waiting too long for the check and greasy food.

A woman complained that waitresses ignore the distaff side and serve men first, while a traveling salesman refused to list his complaints.

To Promote Sleep

Homes should be chosen, whenever possible, for the quietness of their location. If they must be built on a busy street, bedrooms should be placed as far away from the street as possible. Only by constant attention to the causes of noise and their elimination will Americans be able to escape the enervating effects of this ailment of modern civilization.

"GOOD SAM"

JEST JESTIN'

Political Motto

A BOMBASTIC politician came out to deliver a campaign address in a certain city. He was strictly of the old school of "sound and fury" orators, signifying nothing.

Classical literary allusions were this particular gentleman's weakness, and poetry and polished prose quotations gushed from his large and mobile mouth like creek water in a spring freshet.

"Onward and upward is my way!" he cried. "Hence my motto is 'Excelsior.' 'Excelsior!'"

"It should be!" cried a youthful voice from the back of the hall. "You're stuffed with it!"

Puzzled Brother

Little Willie had just been in to see the latest addition to the family. Now he sat quietly in the living room, an expression of puzzlement on his freckled young face.

His step-father came into the room, and inquired a bit anxiously: "Well, son, what do you think of him?"

"Did you say he was my half-brother?" Willie replied.

"Yes," said his step-father.

The boy considered briefly, and then blurted out: "Well, tell me, pop, where the heck is the other half?"

CHILD PSYCHOLOGY

If a child annoys you, quiet him by brushing his hair. If that doesn't work, use the other side of the brush on the other end of the child.

Suicide Remark

A fellow actress was consumed with jealousy at the success of Gypsy Rose Lee in the literary world. So after congratulating her on the success of her play, "The Naked Genius," she commented: "I enjoyed it a lot; who wrote it for you?"

"I'm so glad you liked it," purred Gypsy sweetly. "Who read it to you?"

Invisible Ladder

First Gob—I hear Sam is in the hospital. What happened to him?

Second Gob—Oh, he came down a ladder about 10 minutes after it had been removed somewhere else.

Free Delivery Service

Boy (in street)—How can I get to the hospital?

Traffic Cop—Just keep standing where you are.

A cannibal took his child to a witch doctor: "Doctor, what's the matter with my kid... he don't feel so good. He just won't eat anybody."

Talkative Wife

She—Did you know Jim hasn't spoken to his wife in more than a year?

He—Maybe he doesn't want to interrupt her.

TIME FLIES

The soprano, seeking an engagement, was finding the booking agent a trifle dubious.

"How many years in grand opera did you say?" he queried.

"Forty."

"My, my, you must have known Madam Butterfly as a mere caterpillar."

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

Terminal Island

Six-mile long Terminal Island, center of the region's big fishing and canning industry, lies two-thirds in Los Angeles and one-third in Long Beach. It is a largely man-made unit in the great artificial Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor with its shipbuilding plants, Navy Pacific fleet base, and piers used by 200 steamship lines.

Bicycle Basket Cover

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Poor Rich Woman

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"IS THERE any way in which a plain and uninteresting woman can make herself the right wife for a popular and successful man?" Anne Wright asks patetically in a letter that comes to me from Detroit.

"Joe and I were terribly happy in the little place out West," she goes on. "There were friends in our town, gardens, movies, nice neighbors. Everyone had small children, a small car, school worries and meadow worries. My mother lived next door and a dearly loved brother and sister with small families not far away. It was all so terribly happy!"

"Then Joe's invention—long a family joke—actually sold and he was offered a magnificent position here in the East. We have two girls, 12 and 15, and at first they were excited as I was, by the change. But the three of us are homesick now. We've got our fur coats and the big cars with a man to drive us. When we first walked into this hotel suite, we just couldn't believe our eyes: Two sitting rooms, three bathrooms, four big bedrooms and even our own dining room. It was like a dream!"

They Entertain Lavishly. "We give dinners which cost plenty, but they don't satisfy Joe and they are ordeals to me. He can talk, he interests other men. I'm a perfect dud. The girls know it and it makes them uneasy and shy. But I never pretended to have anything but a high school education and my folks were plainer even than Joe's."

"We don't belong here and we don't belong rich. We're just making ourselves ridiculous by putting on all these airs. Yet how can I ask Joe to go back to the little cottage in Jay street or make the girls give up all they have in the way of opportunities and new clothes?"

"But Joe knows I'm miserable," the letter ends, "and it makes him sorry for me and yet mad, too. Something seems to have gone out of our marriage, with all this gold coming in, and I don't know what to do. I can't make myself smart, charming and entertaining and I can't make Joe a failure. There's the situation. What can we do?"

Anne, my dear, Joe doesn't have to do anything and the girls are all right. They will accustom themselves to their new glories faster and faster. But you've got to make some changes.

All charming women are not well-dressed chatterboxes. Some of the most beloved women in the world have been the silent type. Sympathetic interest, intelligent listening—these are priceless assets in any social gathering.

Use Pleasant Phrases. Of course you have to have some pleasant easy phrases ready when you greet your guests, lead them to your room to lay wraps aside, introduce them to each other. Practice this sort of talk as simply as you would have used it at home. It only has to be a hospitable murmur, accompanied by a friendly smile.

For the rest—look lovely and look yourself. Have someone make you the clothes in which you feel comfortable—not too much bosom and arms exposed, full comfortable skirts that are also picturesque. Have your hair always brushed and smooth and your dinner unpretentious.

No woman need be dowdy, dull or plain. With a clear skin, groomed hair, becoming clothes, the homeliest among us is attractive. If there were space here, I could tell you about Hollywood beauties and stars who started life handicapped with weak eyes, bad skins, stutters, homely faces and hopeless figures.

Your problem is that of many women. If you lose your Joe, you may be sure it will be your own fault.

Girl, 14, Flies Airplane But Can't Drive Automobile

XENIA, OHIO.—The automobile is still a mystery to 14-year-old Barbara Jean Gibson. But give her an airplane and she is at home.

Barbara Jean has climaxed two years of flying instruction with three solo flights. The occasion was one month after her 14th birthday.

Although she has flown solo, Barbara Jean can't qualify for a license until she is 17. And she hasn't learned to drive a car.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

Twenty-five Years Ago
January 18, 1924

About five o'clock Saturday afternoon, electrical current furnished by the Great Lakes Power Co. displaced the local made "juice." When Mr. Schumaker, construction engineer, "turned on" the new power, the whistle at the power house was blown to notify townspeople of the important event and immediately homes and business places were flooded with a light which, due in part to imagination without a doubt, seemed more brilliant, more steady and generally better.

D. W. Benkelman, secretary of the Cass City Fair, left Tuesday afternoon to attend a meeting of the Michigan Fair Association at Lansing.

Tuesday evening witnessed the second monthly meeting of the Cass City Community Club, the serving of its second banquet, the adoption of a constitution and the election of members of the executive board. Those elected are G. H. Burke, F. A. Bigelow, G. W. Landon, A. A. Ricker, Robt. Warner, John Ross, John Marshall and J. M. Dodge.

County Treasurer Hoover has issued approximately 4,000 auto licenses since beginning the sale on Dec. 21. Mrs. Hoover has been sent 5,550 license plates by the state. There is estimated to be 6,000 cars in Tuscola County.

Thirty-five Years Ago
January 16, 1914

Petitions for divorce were much more numerous last year than in 1912 in Tuscola County while the number of marriages showed a decrease. In 1912, 323 marriage licenses were issued by the county clerk and divorce petitions were requested for 45 couples, or one divorce petition to seven marriages. Out of the 45 petitions, 23 divorces were granted that year, an average of one separation to every 14 couples united. In 1913, 244 marriage licenses were granted and 61 petitions for divorce were entered. Out of the 61 petitions, 33 decrees were given, an average of one divorce to every seven or eight marriage in 1913.

Pere Marquette freight shippers on the line of the S. T. & H. division are up in arms because the freight service has been cut in two.

A number of the farmers living north and east of Cass City met at the home of Solomon Striffler Friday evening and organized a farmers' club. A. D. Gillies was elected president; Solomon Striffler, vice president; Joseph Benkelman, secretary; and Mrs. Samuel Striffler, treasurer. The club will meet every two weeks and social and educational meetings are planned.

Everett Mudge of Shabbona is employed at J. D. Crosby & Son's shoe and clothing store.

Age of U. S. Presidents
Average age of United States presidents is just a little over 51.

Right from the Horse's Mouth...

Comes the Moisture That Can Ruin Your Barn

IT'S A FACT that—in cold weather—excess moisture in your dairy barn reduces milk production and milk income by affecting animal comfort. Dampness will even mean pneumonia in valuable dairy herds; promotes common poultry diseases through wet litter.

But the Simple Installation of
ELECTRIC VENTILATION
Gives You Clean, Dry, Odorless Air
Wherever Animals Are Housed

Other earmarks of excess moisture in farm buildings are: rotting at building sills and around window sashes—an excess of unpleasant odors—soggy, slippery bedding, and discomfort for the people working in such buildings. Anyway you look at it, excess moisture spells t-r-o-u-b-l-e!

Properly planned, correctly installed ventilation can check decay. Electric ventilation, automatically controlled by thermostats, will eliminate drafts, offensive odors, ammonia in the air, and condensate from animals' breath.

See your Edison Farm Service Advisor for up-to-date, impartial and accurate advice on electric ventilating systems. He knows how to determine the size and type of ventilation you need. Plan now to be ready for winter.

Mahogany in England

Earliest use of mahogany in England was in the construction of Nottingham castle in 1680. But at this early date there was no distinction between cedar (Spanish cedar) and mahogany, so the reference is to cedar. This particular "cedar," however, was very heavy and hard, so the conclusion is that it must have been West Indian mahogany.

WANTED: One Home

If a flock of Leghorn hens were to go househunting, they would look for just about the same comforts as their human prototypes.

Sufficient space, good ventilation, uniform temperatures, a sturdy foundation and floors are a few of the recommendations for housing the birds, according to suggestions in a revised extension bulletin on "Poultry Housing" issued by the University of Minnesota.

Like all construction, building a poultry house is an expensive proposition. As it is difficult to correct mistakes after the building is up, flock owners are advised to consider their problem and needs carefully before starting construction.

Practice Makes Perfect

WHEN the westbound train stopped for a few minutes in a Nevada town, a traveler from the east got off to exercise by walking on the station platform. He had stopped to talk to an elderly citizen of the town when, presenting a rather striking picture, a shapely young brunette galloped by on a palomino horse.

"Some class to your local gals," said the admiring traveler.

"She ain't a native," was the reply. "She's an easterner heiress that's out here for a second time gettin' a divorce."

"But she rides a horse so well..."

"She learned to ride on her first trip out here," the westerner explained. "Now she's learnin' to rope. Yes, sir, if she don't lose her finger or her fortune like she keeps imagin' she's losin' her heart, looks like she'll be one of the best danced rodeo performers in the country."

Teakwood

Importance of teak as the source of timber of worldwide use can hardly be overestimated. Teak—a hard, durable wood—was first introduced into the Canal Zone in April, 1926, when a package of seed collected in Ceylon was received from Dr. David Fairchild and P. H. Dorsett. It was handled through the U. S. department of agriculture bureau of plant industry in Washington. The trees have made good growth, and early indications are that the timber will be well up to standard. Teak is used extensively for naval ship decking and is highly prized for cabinet wood.

Jet Aircraft Paint Test

A steel ball, dotted with paint and spinning in a centrifuge at 1,800 miles an hour, tells navy engineers how well the paint will stick on new jet aircraft. The ball reaches a speed of 2.4 million revolutions a minute in the test. When power is cut off, it travels around for a week before coming to a dead stop.

Research Projects

Of 350 research projects under way in the home economics departments of land grant institutions, 145 are on foods and 100 on some phase of nutrition.

Straighten Yarn

To straighten yarn raveled from a knitted or crocheted garment, wind it around a board, dampen it well with water and let it dry on the board. It will become straight as a new skein.

Beginning of U. S. Pottery

First potteries were established in the American colonies early in the 17th century. Modeled on the ageless potter's wheel, this 75 million dollar industry now employs nearly 50,000 people.

preceded by an appetizing ham dinner served by Methodist Church women.

Following Gen. Royce's address, the floor of the gymnasium was cleared for the basketball game of the Cass City Cardinals and the Komedy Kings, a group of Negro players. Community Club diners were admitted on presentation of membership tickets. The game was a part of Tuesday evening's entertainment for the club. Others who came after the club dinner helped make up a record attendance for Cardinal games.

The Komedy Kings' and the Cardinals' scores were close throughout the game with the visitors leading. At the end of the half, the points stood at 34-29, at the third quarter 51-50, and at the end of the contest 67-61. The game proved very interesting and quite exciting.

and James Colbert and Edwin Karr as deacons. The elders and deacons operate on the rotary system.

Cameron Wallace was elected as church treasurer, succeeding Mrs. Ernest Croft. She and her husband, alternating as treasurers, have served in that office for twenty-one years.

Arthur Holmberg was elected as director of the Every Member Canvass. Dr. Ivan MacRae, Harry Little, Mrs. James Ballard, Arnold Fischer and Sally Colbert were elected as representative to the Cass City Council of Churches.

The pastor voiced his hope that "Church Loyalty Sunday" would meet with the expectations of the officers and Every Member Canvass Committee and that it becomes one of the great Sunday services of the year. "In many churches," Mr. Vender stated, "such Sunday is only second to Easter in attendance, and a day of response and inspiration." The pastor's sermon will be on "The Joash Chest."

ARTHUR WHITTENBURG RESIGNS AS COUNTY FARM SUPERINTENDENT

The committee favored the separation of the office of superintendent of the county farm and membership of the Social Welfare Commission. The report further stated that "dual functions of members of the commission failed to promote effective execution of all duties and it is proposed that the next supervisors' session will make the recommended changes." The report concluded with a "commendation to Arthur Whittenburg for many years of sound and effective administration of his office."

Neither the Social Welfare Committee nor the Welfare Commission have divulged any information concerning their on the spot investigation of the infirmity and county farm.

Whittenburg, who has been county farm superintendent since May of 1940, made the following statement Wednesday: "The incident at the County Farm involving my son was regrettable. However, I believe that subsequent developments have not been warranted and have exaggerated the seriousness of the original offense. My intentions for some time have been to resign but I did not wish to do so under pressure."

"I wish to add that I have no excuses to make for my administration of the county farm. In the fiscal year ending December 31, the farm showed a profit of $6,246.00. However, I can accept only part of the credit for efficient operation of the farm, for I had at all times the full cooperation of the Social Welfare Commission and the Board of Supervisors. I have worked to the best interest of the taxpayers and will continue to do so. I will help my successor in every way possible to become acquainted with the operation of the County Farm."

County Treasurer Arthur M. Willits reported a debit balance in the general fund as of December 31, of $113,541.31. One year ago, January 1, 1948, the deficit was $81,743.70.
