WORTH TALKING OVER

... can farming be made more profitable?

W. T. FINKBEINER

HERE'S AN

We're not promising the moon, but we'd like to see if we can help you make more money, or save work. We do know that on a good many farms we've been able to make recommendations that worked out profitably.

At least, it's an idea worth talking over. We are making farm visits all the time and hope to reach you soon. However, we invite you not to wait but drop in anytime. You'll find that we are really interested in discussing your problems and helping all we can.

We do know that the future of the farmer depends greatly on the efficiency of all farm operations. We know something about this subject. That's why we think it will pay you, as well as us, to "get better acquainted."

PINET FLOOR SECOND FLOOM

THE DURWOOD is a cottage-type, story-and-a-half home with a one-car attached garage.

This home has a bedroom on the first floor, making it convenient to leave the second floor, temporarily unfinished. When completed, the second floor plans include two bedrooms, one 10 ft. x 10 ft. 6 in. and the other, 9 ft. x 12 ft. 6 in. The plan of The Durwood provides easy access to all rooms. There is a large dining space in the compactlycabineted modern kitchen; and convenient connection to the garage.

There are closets near both entrances; a linen closet on each floor and large wardrobes in all of the bedrooms as well as a storage closet in the garage.

Construction is of frame, with an extra fireproof wall between the house and attached garage. The exterior of the house is siding. The roof is covered with ashphalt shingle.

The dimensions of the main body of the house are 32 feet wide and 26 feet deep. The net area, without the garage. is 799 square feet; and volume is 19,987 cubic feet including the basement.

For further information about THE DURWOOD write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Home Butchering Requires Care

Home butchering is profitable on the farm and many rural people are now replenishing their lockers, jars, and pantries.

But unless due caution is used, home butchering can be dangerous. George Amundson, agricultural engineer at Michigan State College, provides a few simple rules to reduce accidents.

One of the greatest causes of injuries is slippery footing. Ice should be removed from the spot where butchering is to be done and ashes sprinkled on the ground. If the job is done indoors, sand, sawdust, or crushed rock salt will improve the footing. Keep fat and meat trimmings off the floor.

Equipment, too, should be used with care. All knives should be destroyed. kept in a suitable place when not

SECURITY THROUGH COOPERATION

The fact that the soundest security comes from cooperation with others is something that we learn early in life ...

It makes us realize later on that the most important security of all-that of our families-is soundest when it is based on voluntary cooperation with people who want financial peace of mind just as we do ...

It makes us realize that family security is at its peak when it is protected by insurance ...

For mutual insurance is a great cooperative measure; it is the result of pooling resources with others like ourselves desiring family protection against financial distress in any emergency...

Insurance is family security...

Mutual insurance is security through cooperation.

How to Iron Linens

Linens should be ironed on the wrong side to prevent shine. If a high gloss is desired on damask cloths, iron first on the wrong side, then on the right. Linens should not be starched as they have a tendency to remain firm and crisp, but a very light starching is advisable for cotton or rayon damask cloths.

I already have answered this letter by a personal letter. In that letter I urged Lucie to share with her grandmother and father in giving Greg a chance. I said this not because I really believe that he will change

Sister Must Stand Up Yet, with his cleverness and popularity, Greg could wash all this miserable history out and make a man of himself, especially if he had at his side a courageous loyal little sister to help him. And that's a sister's job, Lucie-you have to take your share of it. Your only course is to stand by, comforting your father, cooperating with your grandmother, doing your best for Greg. Then if you fail, those friends of yours will think far more of you than if you hushed it all up.

Only a few weeks ago I had a somewhat similar letter from a frantic mother named Fanny Lee. Mrs. Lee has one son, 14, and girls of 16, 18 and 19. The 18-year-old went away to college a year ago. fell into the trap that waits all girls in the freedom of campus life, got mixed into too many drinking, driving, week-end affairs and came home at Christmas shamed, sullen. trapped. Her sisters were kept as much as possible from a realization of Grace's tragedy. Grace was sent away to an "aunt" and the baby was put out for adoption.

But this problem is different, i think, from the one quoted earlier in this article. Grace has been through very deep waters. She is a sophisticated and disillusioned girl, and somewhere in the world there is a baby boy who ought to be · calling her mother. To introduce her into a household of young girls and a small boy is unjust to them all.

Navy is Seeking Ships That Enemy Can't Hear

ANNAPOLIS .- The U. S. navy is attempting to develop ship engines that will be so quiet enemy listening devices will be unable to detect them.

Experts have no illusions about building a completely silent ship, but they do hope to muffle engine noise to such an extent that it will be quieter than the natural sounds that always seem to be going on lunderneath the swa's surface.
